DIVISION BY PETITION OF THE RANGE PEOPLE IS LATEST PROPOSAL

Rest of Voters Debarred From Voice on County Division.

Governor to Appoint County Board and Designate County Seat.

Resolution for Early Adjournment Killed By House Committee.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis county division bill—or bills, for there are two—have reached here, are being considered this afternoon at a meeting of the range senators and representatives at the state capitol. The bills were brought down by M. H. McMahon of Virginia, representing the county division committee of which Mayor Victor L. Power of Hibbing is the leading spirit. Neither provides for a vote of the people of St. Louis county, but one proposes a division by legislative enactment, and the other an automatic division by the petition of range people. It is probable that the latter bill will be urged upon the delegation, and that the proposal for legislative division will be dropped.

The Petition Bill.

The petition bill is framed so that it applies only to St. Louis county, and it provides for division on proclamation by the governor whenever a petition asking for it is presented, signed by 25 per cent of the voters of the old county and including the signatures of 65 per cent of the voters of the proposed new county. The whole number required could, under this bill, be obtained in the limits of the proposed new county, and those living in the rest of St. Louis county would have nothing to say about it. When the secretary of state finds the petition in proper form, he is to notify the governor, who must issue a proclamation declaring the new county established.

Governor to Fix County Seat.

The governor is to appoint a county board and to designate the temporary county seat. The county board is to appoint temporary county officers except clerk of court and court commissioner, who are to be appointed by the district judges. A permanent county seat and county officers would be selected by the voters of the new county at the next general election. The

GOVERNOR WOULD NOT SIGN LEASE

State Highway Commission May Find Itself Without Home.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thanks to another discovery by Governor Hammond, the state highway commission, which is paying $2,000 a year for downtown offices, may find itself without a home. When the commission sent its lease up to the governor to sign, Governor Hammond, contrary to custom, asked the attorney general if he had authority to sign it. The attorney general said he had not, and he has refused to sign it, and the commission must get a new home or have the legislature give the necessary authority.

SAYS PLAN IS ABSURD

Mitchell Does Not Like Rockefeller Proposal for Settling Strike.

Former President of Mine Workers Before Federal Commission.

New York, Feb. 1.—John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, and now a member of the state workmen's compensation commission, today told the Federal industrial relations commission that the Rockefeller plan of settling labor troubles in Colorado was "simply absurd."

"No good can come out of such a plan," said he. "The unorganized men can be depended upon to select to represent them only men the bosses want. They may not be directly influenced to do this, but there will be an indirect influence which they cannot resist.

"We have gone through such a thing before. The slogan 'We might as well

REDUCTION IS PLANNED

State Forestry Board Proposes Economy for Next Two Years.

First Budget That Calls for Any Cut in Appropriations.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—In laying its budget for 1916 and 1917 before the house committee on forestry, of which Representative Fred Bessette of Orr is chairman, the state forestry board points out that the appropriations requested for the biennial period are about $136,000 less than those available for 1914 and 1915.

This is the first budget yet laid before any legislative committee that proposes a reduction in appropriations. The board says: "It is felt that this economy can be made without loss in effectiveness of work; but to effect this economy it is necessary to apportion the funds with strict regard to the relative needs of the different projects.

For the general work of the forest service, $150,000 a year is requested, divided as follows: Office supplies, equipment and salaries, $14,400; field force and equipment, $97,440; field supervision and investigations, $12,075; improvements, $3,850; education, $5,150; contingent, $14,825

The board asks $12,500 annually for the care of Itasca state park and $2,500 for the maintenance of Burntside state forest.

Purposes of Department.

In its budget the board explains the purposes and the work of the forestry department. Its work includes these things:

Fire protection by state rangers and patrolmen.

Enforcement of slash disposal by loggers.

Supervision of co-operative fire pro-

GERMANY'S LOSS IN WIRELESS STATIONS

Breaks in Chain of Communication With Colonies Is Deplored.

London, Feb. 1.—The Wireless World has received from Berlin a copy of a communique recently published by the German colonial office, describing the serious loss suffered by Germany through the destruction of her chain of wireless stations. The communique says:

"Soon after the outbreak of war all communication with their colonies by sea was broken, and all German transmarine cables were cut by the English, so that even telegraphic communication with the whole of our colonies was rendered impossible. The only remaining means of communication was wireless telegraphy, but the first warlike measures of the English were directed to depriving us of this means also. On Aug. 12 fell the wireless station Yap, and soon afterwards the station Naru. Tasigata (Samoa) fell on Aug. 29, and Bitapaka, in New Pomerania, on Sept. 12. During the night of Aug. 24 the great station of Kamina, in Togo, had to be destroyed by us in order to prevent its capture.

"So vanished all possibility of further direct communication with the African protectorates, which hitherto had been able to communicate via Kamina. As a matter of fact, there has been from the beginning a disturbance of the system which prevented us from receiving any reports from the governor of East Africa after the outbreak of war. And so the material which we have here collected, and which, in the main, reached Berlin by circuitous routes and very late, and is mostly derived from private letters or from enemy newspapers, must necessarily remain fragmentary, and some of it must also be regarded as untrustworthy."

SUBMARINE BLOCKADE OF PORTS BY GERMANS AROUSES THE BRITISH

Interest in Military Affairs Overshadowed By New Move of Teutons.

Sailings From Port of Belfast Have Been Temporarily Suspended.

Under-Water Boat Remains From Base Longer Than Supposed.

London, Feb. 1.—A message received here this afternoon from Southport says that a German submarine, supposedly the U-21, was seen off there early this morning.

Southport is a seaside resort of England in the Irish sea, eighteen miles north of Liverpool.

Liverpool, Feb. 1, via London.—The insurance rates on coasters have been raised from 5 to 20 shillings per cent, as a result of the German submarine raid.

London, Feb. 1.—Again British interest in the military activities on the continent has been overshadowed by the fact that Germany has brought the combat to Great Britain's front door.

What is regarded here as the new German policy of a submarine blockade of British ports is temporarily effectual at least in the case of Belfast, where sailings have been suspended. The Liverpool authorities, however, announce that no interruption in the trade of that port is contemplated.

SPIES FOUND AMONG THE ENGLISH NURSES

Records of All Applicants for Positions Closely Scrutinized.

London, Feb. 1.—The Nursing Mirror, one of the organs of trained nurses in England, calls attention to the danger of spies masquerading as nurses, and adds that Lord Kitchener, himself aware of this menace, caused an investigation to be made at one of the Southampton hospitals some weeks ago. There he found, according to the journal, that four women had been indiscreet in the matter of discussing matters relative to the army. While they were not spies, they showed so little common sense that they were dismissed.

On the other side of the channel the state of affairs has been more serious. Two nurses were found to be out-and-out spies. Both were Americans with German sympathies, according to the Nursing Mirror, and both, it says, were "effectually dealt with." Just what this implies was not made clear.

At any rate, the agitation has resulted in a close scrutinizing of the record and antecedents of all prospective nurses, together with the enforcement of all manner of strict regulations at at every hospital.

RUSS ARMY IS STRONGER

Officer Reviews Situation Six Months After Opening of War.

Says Men Are Hardened and Better Fit Physically and Morally.

Petrograd, Feb. 1.—A Russian general who is an aide de camp to Emperor Nicholas and is necessarily nameless, gave an Associated Press correspondent today the Russian viewpoint of the military situation. The aide de camp had just returned from inspecting the Russian forces at all the fronts except in the Caucasus. He said:

"Today, exactly a half year since the beginning of the war, our second line of troops is greater and our entire armies are much stronger. The men are more hardened and physically and morally more ready.

"The enemy's territory has been occupied in East Prussia and Galicia to a greater extent than our most optimistic expectations, while the Germans are occupying practically the same lines as at the outset of the war. The distance between the Bzura river and the Senator Smith of Michigan Resumes Speech Against Ship Bill.

Prospects of Cloture Rule Being Discussed By Democrats.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Preparations for continuing the siege on the ship purchase bill were apparent when the senate met today. Both sides arranged for relays of speakers throughout the day and night, and tomorrow.

"We propose to keep the senate in continuous session," declared Majority Leader Kern.

Senator Stone, from the Democratic side, announced that he "proposed to give the Republicans some enlightenment" tomorrow if he could find an opportunity "to wedge in on the Republican speeches."

Prospects of a cloture rule, if the relentless opposition of Republicans should continue, were being discussed in Democratic circles.

When Senator Smith of Michigan resumed his speech, Senator Walsh challenged his statement that there were 500,000 unemployed men in New York City.

"In the last election," said Senator Walsh, "the total vote in the city for governor was 481,000 odd, so the senator means to say that there are more unemployed men in the city of New York than there are voters."

Senator Smith insisted his figures included aliens, unnaturalized citizens and tramps from other states as well as citizens of the city. He declared there were 150,000 unemployed in Chicago.

Judge Holds Federal Government Has Jurisdiction Over Elections.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Holding that the Federal government has jurisdiction over election machinery, Judge A. B. Anderson, in the United States district court today overruled the demurrer filed by Donn M. Roberts, mayor of Terre Haute, and twenty-six others, to the indictment charging them with conspiring to corrupt the election of Nov. 3, 1914, in Terre Haute.

March 8 was the date fixed for the trial, after the twenty-seven had been arraigned and all pleaded not guilty. The defense asked for March 8 at the request of Representative Stanley of Henderson, Ky., chief counsel, who did not want to begin the trial until after the adjournment of congress on March 4.

AUSTRIANS WANT PEACE

Baron Burian Pleads With Germans for Dual Monarchy.

Doleful Picture of Present Conditions Drawn By Delegate.

London, Feb. 1.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts that Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, at his recent meeting with the German emperor, drew a doleful picture of the plight of the dual monarchy and urged that the time had arrived for the Germanic powers to consider most seriously the possibilities for a tolerable peace.

The Daily Mail attaches great importance to the dispatch, which is dated Thursday and was delayed in transmission. The dispatch says:

"From a most trustworthy and well-informed source in Berlin I received the following statement regarding the negotiations between the German statesmen and Baron Burian, who recently visited the German chancellor in Berlin and Emperor William at the army headquarters in France. Baron Burian represented to the Germans that the situation in Austria was precarious and that if the Russian advance toward Budapest is not stopped, the effect may very probably be the downfall of Austria and the complete collapse of Hungary, which must later entail, as a logical sequence, also the downfall of Germany.

Must Repulse Russians.

"Therefore, Baron Burian urged that the Russians must, at all costs, be repulsed and that Germany must send

SEVERE TORNADO SWEEPS THE SOUTH

Fierce Wind Storm Does Damage in Various Localities.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 1.—Eastern Texas and parts of Arkansas and Oklahoma suffered from a severe windstorm, which, in many localities assumed the nature of a tornado. Numerous minor injuries, but no deaths were reported. Traffic and communication lines have been hampered.

The storm apparently centered about Tyler and Marshall, Texas. Malvern, Ark., reported damage estimated at about $10,000. Jefferson, Gainesville and Childress, Texas, also suffered from severe winds, rain or snow. At Tulsa, Okla., the temperature dropped 40 deg. during the day and Enid reported snow an inch deep.

Children Hurt.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 1.—Twenty boys and girls from 4 to 16 years old were injured yesterday here when a building at St. Alphonsus orphan asylum collapsed in a heavy wind storm. Two boys are in a dangerous condition. The other children are suffering from fractured limbs and minor injuries.

Fifty children were in the building alone when it was hit by the storm. Thirty children escaped unhurt.

Tornado in Texas.

Tyler, Texas, Feb. 1.—A tornado passed through Tyler early yesterday doing damage estimated at from $12,000 to $15,000. No one was injured, but numbers of buildings were demolished.

Reports from Marshall and Jonesville in Harrison county indicated the damage there also was extensive. Train and wire service have been greatly hampered. A heavy rain accompanied the wind.

FIGHTING IS OF UNUSUAL VIOLENCE

Russian Reports Say Germans Were Dislodged By Bayonet Charge.

Teutons in Later Attack Succeed in Gaining Russ Trenches.

Germans Said to Have Made Progress in Central Poland.

Heavy fighting has been resumed along the Warsaw front in Poland, after a long period of comparative inactivity. An official communication from Petrograd describes battles along the Vistula near Borjimow where, it is said, the Germans were dislodged with bayonets from trenches they had captured, two companies of their soldiers being almost annihilated. The Germans later undertook an attack upon the Russian advance trenches and succeeded in gaining one position.

The violent German attacks in Poland, along the Warsaw front, are interpreted by Russian military authorities as an indication that the German commander, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, has determined to inaugurate a general offensive and strike once more at Warsaw. The Berlin official report of today asserts that the Germans have made progress in Northern and Central Poland.

In France and Belgium, as is shown by the French and German reports, there was no important fighting yesterday.

The Overseas News agency of Berlin announced that reports had been received from Paris to the effect that a French torpedo boat had been sunk off the Belgian coast.

The Russian occupation of Tabriz, Northern Persia, unofficially reported last week, is announced today by the Russian war office, which says that the Turkish army in that vicinity was put to flight.

A dispatch from Athens states that Greece is engaged actively in military preparations and that she will assist Serbia in case of invasion by Austro-German forces.

INCIDENT MAY END HAPPILY

Offer of Commission to Buy Wilhelmina's Cargo Pleases British.

If Not Sold to It England Will Purchase Food.

London, Feb. 1.—The offer of the American commission for relief in Belgium to purchase the cargo of the steamer Wilhelmina has attracted wide attention in England. It is regarded generally as a possible happy ending to the Wilhelmina incident, which threatens to arouse the resentment of the British public.

The report that the steamship Dacia probably would not sail has eased the tension so far as concerns that phase of the controversy over contraband, and discussion in England at present centers on the ship-purchase bill, now before congress at Washington, and the Wilhelmina affair.

If the American commission is not able to purchase the Wilhelmina's cargo, it unquestionably will be bought by the British government. It is understood the British authorities will not permit shipments of food to Germany because of the recent action of the German government in taking over food supplies. The Wilhelmina, however, sailed before the decree was published. Consequently the British government is expected to purchase her cargo, and not throw it into a prize court.

Dispatches from the United States to the effect that the British government would offer objections to the use of German ships transferred to the American flag, even for their employment in the South American trade, are contrary to the understanding here of the British position. While the government feels that German interests would avoid in a measure the consequences of war, if their ships interned in the United States were sold, nevertheless, if the transfer of money were withheld until the end of the war, and the ships were put into the South American trade, it is probable that no objection would be made.

It is quite likely the British government would interfere with the sale at this time of English bottoms on a large scale, but the amount of money provided in the ship purchase bill is so comparatively small, that the government would probably not attempt to prevent the sale of British ships even up to the full amount of the appropriation provided in the measure.

MORE MOTOR EQUIPMENT

Commissioner Hicken Would Add to Fire Department Units.

Council Will Also Provide for Several Street Improvements.

Commissioner Hicken, head of the public safety department, will ask the council this afternoon at its regular weekly meeting for an appropriation of $8,500 for the purchase of two more motor units for the fire department during the coming year. This amount is about $10,000 less than that spent during 1914 for new equipment.

In addition to this expenditure, the commissioners will pass resolutions and ordinances ordering a total appropriation of about $150,000 for street improvements and for the purchase of road oil during 1914. The paving of Woodland avenue, Minnesota avenue and East Ninth street will all be ordered this afternoon, it was announced this morning by City Clerk Palmer, who has prepared resolutions to that effect.

Commissioner Hicken plans to place a new motor truck at the headquarters to cover the territory now taken in by Stations Nos. 2 and 3. A horse-drawn truck at each is to be taken out, Mr. Hicken said, and the new machine will be used to take the place of both old engines. The one at No. 2 station will be sold, while the one at No. 3 will be repaired and put away for emergencies.

The motor truck will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, while the additional $3,500 will be spent in purchasing a new automobile for the chief. Commissioner Hicken explained this morning that the new car will be used either by Chief Randall or Assistant Chiefs Granzow and Wilson. There are three cars now in use, but whenever one is being repaired, the department is greatly handicapped and the head of the safety department proposes to overcome this situation with the new car.

There are at present thirteen motor units in the department, the large $10,000 aerial truck having been added last year. The introduction of the two new machines will retire six more horses from the service, bringing the total now in use down to twenty-five. The department originally had forty-five horses in service.

During the coming year Commissioner Hicken also plans to remodel the headquarters building and Station No. 1.

CHARACTER WITNESSES

Testimony as to Record of Alleged Copper Thief Submitted.

Character witnesses took the stand this morning in Judge Fesler's division of district court to testify on behalf of the defense at the trial of the case of the state against George K. Robertson, charged with the theft of about $3,000 worth of copper from a Northern Pacific box car a year ago last November.

Robertson also testified in his own behalf. He denied all knowledge of having had a deal with Zigmund Zalk, foreman of the Duluth Iron & Metal company yard, who was indicted as an accomplice but who turned state's evidence at Robertson's trial. Robertson was a switchman for the Northern Pacific road up to the time of his arrest.

Among those who testified to the previous good character of the defendant and to his good reputation for veracity and honesty were Dr. H. C. Spengler, A. J. Lines, Herbert W. Elliott, Herman Olson, E. A. Sabel, A. Lofgren and Carl Schau.

To discredit the story told by Zalk implicating Robertson and Joseph Regall, also indicted as an accomplice, John H. Norton, defendant's attorney, called several witnesses to the stand to testify that Zalk's reputation as to veracity was not good. They were J. J. Omerberg, Dr. Annand, Sam Carnes, Malcolm Brown, Charles Levant and F. A. Booren.

Most of the witnesses who testified as to the bad reputation of the state's star witness were employes of the Duluth Iron & Metal company, where Zalk was employed as foreman. One admitted that Zalk had had trouble with his men and that there was not the best of feeling between them. Another witness put on to testify as to Zalk's reputation admitted upon cross-examination that he had, himself, been arrested for stealing and was convicted.

The case will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

CAMP FOREMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Cornelius Buckley, Well-Known Here, Victim of Heart Trouble.

Leaving his brother, Cornelius, apparently in the best of health Saturday noon, J. Buckley of Duluth returned that night from an errand to the town near the camp in which they were staying to find the former dead.

For about two weeks John had made his home with his brother, who was a lumber camp foreman, in a camp about twelve miles north of Drummond, Minn. Cornelius, who was 61 years of age, had been in good health recently, but some time ago suffered from neuralgia of the heart, it is said.

According to the story told by neighbors, Cornelius wasn't feeling well Saturday evening, and visited friends in a camp nearby. While away he was stricken and died before help could be obtained. He was well known in Duluth, having lived for several years with Sam Smith, 320 East Superior street. With William Powers, another friend, Smith brought the body to Duluth this morning, and it is being held at Grady & Horgan's undertaking rooms.

An autopsy will be held this afternoon by Coroner C. F. McComb. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. The deceased is survived by three brothers and a sister. In addition to the brother now living in Duluth, there is Thomas of Stillwater, Minn., and Joseph of Seattle, Wash. The sister is Mrs. Margaret Gowan of St. Paul.

JURY DRAWN IN AUTO SMASH SUIT

Otto Wennerlund Asks Damages of Street Railway Company.

A jury was drawn in Judge Dancer's division of district court this morning to try a damage suit brought by Otto F. Wennerlund against the Duluth Street Railway company in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover $975 from the company for alleged damages to an automobile struck by a street car on Sept. 21 last.

Wennerlund testified this morning that while driving his car across the tracks for eastbound cars on the West Third street line between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west about 10 o'clock in the evening, the engine of his machine suddenly stopped. He tried the self-starter but it wouldn't work. He then got out to crank it. Just about this time a street car came along, he says, and bumped his car off the track.

The company denied responsibility for the action. Andrew Nelson is appearing for the plaintiff and the traction company is represented in court by Thomas S. Wood.

State Senator Jones Would Learn Their Desires on Educational Bill.

Richard Jones, senator from the Fifty-eighth legislative district, wants expressions from his constituency as to their wishes on the matter of his vote on the proposed educational commission bill.

"The plan of the state educational commission," said Senator Jones, "is to take away from the localities their control over schools and provide for a county unit under a county board of education of three members, who would appoint county superintendents who are elected by the people under the present law and manage schools of a county as one district with the exception of independent districts in cities and villages."

Senator Jones declared that he has written officers of school districts in his district as to their opinion in the matter, but that he would like to hear from others who might be interested in seeing such a law passed or opposed to it, as the case might be.

SMOKE CONDITIONS BETTER.

City Inspector Makes Favorable Report for January.

Three locomotives, two buildings and a derrick violated the smoke ordinance during the month of January, according to the report of J. W. Schneider, submitted this morning to Mayor Prince, head of the welfare department.

Smoke Inspector Schneider reports that he made checks on 179 chimneys and smoke stacks and that but six permitted heavy dense smoke for periods exceeding ten minutes, the maximum allowed by the city ordinance. Conditions are improving, he states.

In addition, the inspector granted four permits for the erection of poles and answered but one complaint made during the entire month.

NO CHANGES UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Commission Will Leave Voting Precincts As They Are.

Although requests have been received at the city hall asking for changes in polling districts in many sections of the city, no action will be taken before the regular municipal election on April 7, City Clerk Palmer said this morning.

"There will be no changes made to become effective at the spring election," Mr. Palmer explained, "because the commission will not have sufficient time in which to incorporate the proposal into the city's laws. The requests are being filed away, however, and will be taken up this coming spring."

According to the city charter, changes in polling districts can be made only by an ordinance, proposing a redivision. As each ordinance requires three readings, before it can pass, an additional thirty days before it can become effective and finally a period of sixty days, during which time a notice must be posted announcing its passage, the matter would continue until long after the election on April 7. For this reason no action will be taken at this time, it was explained.

Requests for changes have been received from residents in the Kenwood park and Superior View districts, Colman's addition near Woodland, from the Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth voting districts and from Morgan park, New Duluth.

TERMINAL ELEVATOR WILL BE DISCUSSED.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual convention of the North Dakota Society of Equity will open here tomorrow with about 300 delegates, representing 150 local unions in the state, present.

The question of establishing a state-owned terminal elevator will be the most important subject considered.

Speakers include George Loftus of Minneapolis, Judge M. D. Munn of St. Paul, Magnus Johnson of Kimball, Minn., A. D. Stewart of Redwood Falls, Minn., and President M. P. Johnson of Tolley, N. D., of the North Dakota society.

FRENCH TORPEDO BOAT SAID TO HAVE SUNK.

Berlin, Feb. 1, by wireless to Sayville.—Reports to the Overseas News agency from Paris say that the French torpedo boat 219 has been sunk off Nieuport, Belgium.

It is reported also through the same sources that German aeroplanes have succeeded in throwing some bombs in the French town of Bailleul, nine miles east of Mazebrouck and near the Belgian frontier.

DULUTH DRUGGIST PLEASES CUSTOMERS

W. A. Abbett, druggist, 205 West Superior street, reports customers greatly pleased with the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka. This simple remedy drains the old foul matter from the bowels so THOROUGH that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. It is so powerful that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-i-ka never gripes and the INSTANT action is surprising.

CONVERSATION IS NOT CHEAP

City Spent Nearly $400,000 for Telephones Last Year.

Duluth Company's Report Shows Net Profit of $20,979.

Talk is said to be cheap, but users of telephones in Duluth talked nearly $400,000 worth during 1914, according to the reports of the Duluth and Zenith Telephone companies, both of which have been filed with City Auditor B. J. Campbell.

The report of the Zenith company filed last Thursday showed a total of $152,340.69 in gross receipts for the year, while the Duluth company's receipts for 1914 amounted to $226,504.68, making a total of $378,845.37. The former company had a deficit of $6,333.19 after paying dividends on its preferred stock, while the Duluth company officials report a net profit of $20,979.50.

The Duluth company's report, filed this morning by Charles E. Hall, tax commissioner for the corporation, states that the total cost of the plant up to Jan. 1, 1914, was $1,082,803.19, while during last year a total of $45,-139.17 was spent on improvements and for real estate, bringing the total value to $1,128,574.53 at the opening of business on Jan. 1 this year. The outstanding capital stock of the company is $100,000.

The gross exchange revenue received from users of the telephone was $203,-459.12, while Duluthians spent a total of $23,056.06 for long distance calls, bringing the total revenue to $226,-484.18, the amount spent by Duluthians for the privilege of talking over the old telephone.

The total expenses for the year amounted to $205,504.68, leaving a net profit of $20,979.50 for the year, according to the report.

But one company has yet to file its annual report, as required by the charter of franchise holding corporations. This is the Duluth-Edison company, all others having complied with this regulation, which states that reports must be in on or before Feb. 1 of each year.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE

Duluth One of Few Cities in Country to Report Gain.

Duluth was one of the few cities in the country to show increased bank clearings during January. The aggregate for the month was reported at $16,686,553.71, as compared with $14,-686,562.73 last year, showing a gain of $2,019,990.98.

The betterment was attributed by local bankers to the activity in the grain movement for the season and the high prices prevailing. Some improvement was also shown in general trade, both locally and through the district.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT IS A FAILURE

S. W. McIntosh Tries in Vain to End Life By Shooting.

Unfamilarity with a revolver probably saved Sherman W. McIntosh, 1728½ West First street, from being a suicide shortly after noon today, when he pulled out a revolver while talking to some barbers in a shop at 507 West Superior street and tried to shoot himself through the head. He was not injured, the first shot just scratching the skin. Before he could fire again, he was seized by bystanders and the gun was taken from him.

This is the second time within a few weeks that McIntosh has tried to take his own life. Some time ago, while being taken to headquarters in the police emergency by Chief C. H. Troyer, he drew a razor and tried to cut his throat. Domestic troubles were given as the reason for his first attempt by McIntosh.

He is a barber, being employed at 1916 West Superior street.

Louis C. Katz, member of the Detroit, Mich., fire commission, died at his home in that city Jan. 30.

Sister Mary Ignautz, head of the pharmacy department at Mercy hospital, died at Chicago, Jan. 31. She was 73 years old and had been a member of the order of Mercy fifty-five years. She was the first registered pharmacist in Illinois.

William M. Brown, representative in congress for the Twenty-fourth district of Pennsylvania and former lieutenant governor of that state, died in New York, Jan. 31, of pneumonia.

Rear Admiral Victor A. Montagu died in London, Jan. 31. Rear Admiral Montagu was 73 years old. He served with the fleet in the war with Russia in 1855, in the China war of 1857 and with the naval brigade in the Indian mutiny of 1858. He was retired in 1886.

SLAUGHTER OF WOLVES RESUMED; BOUNTY ON

Since the county bounty on wolves has been restored, the wolf slaughter has increased in St. Louis county. During the last month seventy-eight carcasses were brought to the county auditor's office and bounties claimed. County Auditor Halden paid out $930 in bounties.

The county bounty of $7.50 was restored at the last meeting of the county board and became effective for wolves killed after Jan. 6. Thirty-two wolves killed before Jan. 6 were brought in, but only the state bounty of $7.50 was paid. On forty-six wolves, the combined state and county bounty, amounting to $15, was paid.

POLICE REHEARSE THE LATEST STEPS

Tripping Feet and Whistled Airs Herald Big Annual Ball.

Dancing professors of both sexes, should they happen to fall into the clutches of the law, will be welcomed with open arms at police headquarters during the next ten days.

Ghosts of the terpsichorean muse have been frequenting unaccustomed haunts since it was announced that the policemen would hold their twenty-sixth annual ball at the Armory Thursday, Feb. 11, and the stern corridors leading to the jail and to municipal court have been shocked on various occasions to see guardians of the public peace tripping along, whistling "Ballin' the Jack" or "Back to Michigan."

Detectives have been accused of locking the door to the "plain clothes" room, so that they could practice the new steps without being disturbed, but this is denied by Lieut. N. U. G. Terry, who says that branch of the service knows all about the new dances, and doesn't need any practice.

Sergeant Hunter of the West end station has caused considerable envy among the bluecoats by the announcement that he can "maxixe," "half-and-half" and almost "Lulu Fado."

Among the features of the ball will be a grand march, led by either Chief of Police C. H. Troyer or Capt. A. G. Fiskett. This question has not been decided, as both men say they can qualify for the honor without any trouble.

Proceeds of the dance, which is given under the auspices of the Duluth Police Relief association, will go to the widows' and orphans' fund. Music will be furnished by the Third Regiment band.

BIG LAKE OF MOLTEN FIRE

Gospel Speaker Tells His Hearers They Will Drop in It.

"God's Going to Show Old Duluth," Says Rev. F. E. Plumb.

Drawn to the Union mission, 17½ Lake avenue south, last night by the prospect of a bowl of soup and a warm place where they could stay for an hour or so, nearly 100 members of Duluth's lower class, men who are seen in police court almost daily, heard themselves addressed as "bums, thieves, a disgrace to the city ana worse" throughout the services.

"God's goin' to show old Duluth," shouted Rev. F. E. Plumb in the course of his sermon. "You hypocrites may think you are smooth, but God is smoother, and when I stand at the Pearly Gates I will see you there, but you will drop off into the depths of a fiery hell and be eternally damned.

"These here new doctrines will tell you what hell is, but I can tell you—hell is a lake of fire—it's a great big lake of molten fire. Anybody with horse sense knows it.

Will Split Earth Open.

"Some day God is agoin' to split this old earth open right in the middle and this old lake here will fall in an' never be noticed.

"An' when the buildings begin to topple and fall and you hypocrites begin to get scared, it will be too late. The whole inside of this earth is a ball of fire, as we know. Every day or so she grumbles and fire spouts up and destroys people. Some day you will find it out.

"Yes, it's you bums that I'm talking to. You fellers that are rotten to the core—you that are black as hell—and you all are.

"Why," he continued, his voice rising as he became more vehement, "there isn't a man in this room that I would trust. I wouldn't trust any of you as far as I could throw a yellow cur by the tail.

"You'd rob your grandmother. You know I'm telling the truth, because you've done it. You're a disgrace to the earth and to your fellow man.

"You've never done anything worth while, and it's no wonder that you're ashamed to come forward here and try to be saved—you with your long records of crime and your black hearts. Your hearts are as black as your faces—as black as the depths of hell.

Wanted Some Guns.

"I wish I had a couple of guns here. I would like to put them into your faces and see if you would turn white.

"'For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.' That is my text—Mathew ix and 21—the sixth chapter and the twenty-first verse.

"You've set up your false gods—they're whisky, 'snoos' and tobacco. They're your treasures, and that's where your hearts are.

"You men deny yourselves proper clothing all winter. You sit up in your bunks in the lumber camps, knitting and patching after the day's work, to save every penny, so that you will have that much more to turn over to the saloonkeeper when you get down here.

"I saw a saloonkeeper yesterday, on Superior street, with a $350 overcoat and a $15 hat. What have you fellers got?

"A saloonkeeper or a bartender is the worst thing on earth—the scum of the earth—the scum of the offscourings of hell. I never saw an honest one in my life, and praise God, so can trust me to raise my voice whenever I can say something against a bartender or a saloonkeeper.

"Whisky, 'snoos' and tobacco—those are your treasures and your gods. You belong to the devil. You're fastened with chains that you helped forge yourself, and you're gettin' what's comin' to you.

"And now I'm goin' to give some of you a chance to go right. After this hymn, you're goin' to get a chance to come here to this altar and confess your sins and be saved."

Methods used by Rev. Plumb in his work of saving souls have been successful in many cases, according to a score of testimonials made by converts before the evening's sermon.

One old man said: "I have done everything that a man can do. I went as low as the beasts, lying, stealing, drinking and gambling.

"I served time more than once, just as many of you have, and just as many of you will again. Police were in here last night asking about some of you. I was a bum, just as you are, but there is a way to stop being a disgrace to this city—to be able to look any man square in the eye—and I've found it."

Four women, all there were in the room during the services, also told of the manner in which their steps had been turned "from the broad highway."

Sues on Sheep Shortage.

Sheldon, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he alleges that a shipment of 13,000 sheep brought here from Glendive, Mont., to graze on the stubble fields last fall was sixty short, O. O. Ulhorn is suing a Montana rancher for $240. The sheep were fed on the fields here after the harvest, and Ulhorn, the agent for the better farming movement, was the man who made the purchases.

"GIVE WORK, NOT CHARITY"

Dr. Gebauer Scores Luxury of Rich and Unwise Philanthropy.

Makes Plea for Labor in Times of Business Depression.

That the need of charity may be eliminated to a large extent by social justice was the keynote of the sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church. In his discourse he scored the rich employers who cut off their excess help in times of business depression and still maintained their own luxurious standards of living. He said in part:

"Our forefathers looked upon misery and need as an affliction sent by a kind but angry Providence; we believe that God is wrongly accused and that pauperism is a social disease due to social causes. We believe that, like a loathsome disease, it may be limited, if not entirely eliminated. When we look at the beggar at the golden gate of the temple in Jerusalem or hear of the miserable white trash in the days of Nero, we know that there were beggars in Rome and Jerusalem, because social injustice abounded there. So, if we hear of distress in Chicago or New York or find it on our own streets, we may as well confess that, in a great part, it is due to social injustice.

Unjust Social Conditions.

"We feel that there must be something radically wrong when, year after year every winter, pauperism shows its ugly and haggard and bloated face in our midst. Do we not realize the mockery of manhood suffrage, when that very manhood is suffering in the cold and would sell its vote for a mess of potage? I well know all the excuses society will make for these conditions. They each and all miss the point. These thousands of men out of work are neither giants nor geniuses, they may be somewhat below average manhood; but most of them are by no means the kind that in a just condition would come to public charity. It is quite plain to me that the cause of our pauperism is found in our unjust social conditions. Mind, that most of these men in our streets without shelter came to us from countries in which they were not paupers, for our very immigration laws protect us against the undesirable immigrant. Our social conditions are largely at fault. Wealth in our land, more than elsewhere, is in the hands of the few and has absolute control over work as well as worker; it can loose and it can bind. And this power is not sufficiently counterbalanced by social responsibility of public control. Capital works for its own ends, regardless of individual and social welfare. It looks upon mankind as so much material created for its benefit. It will use it and throw it aside without considering consequences. I am not a Socialist and absolutely impatient of the ranting social agitator, but I believe in social legislation, which will give the individual a fighting chance. I believe in such legislation as will awaken in the very corporation a soul of human responsibility and establish a moral nexus between the main office in New York and the pit in Eveleth. I should like to see legislation enacted which will make capital see the plain truth, that where it fails in its moral duty, the community is bound to suffer. A shutdown in mill or factory or mine is not merely a matter concerning employer and employe, but one which concerns every member of the community. The discharged worker becomes immediately a public burden. Without indulging in moral sentimentalism and talk about the brotherhood of man, it is quite plain that the man, the firm, or company I work for has a moral obligation not to cast me aside, because my labor happens not to be quite as profitable as it might be. Hard times as well as good times ought to be borne in common as much as possible.

Merely Cash Relation.

Unfortunately the idea of a mere cash-nexus between employer and employe has also found its way into the smaller industrial and commercial establishments. It is becoming a matter of serious consideration in our city. It accounts no little for something akin to distress among a most respectable class of men and women, and is reacting upon business itself.

"It is decidedly in the interest of the community that the moral obligation the employer has to the helper be emphasized, and it would be a good thing if the public were to know the men, who make of their fellow workers mere tools of trade. When times are getting hard and trade is slackening, when profits are decreasing, who should bear the brunt? Certainly not the poor girl behind the counter or in the office who works for a mere pittance, nor the clerk who just gets enough to keep soul and body together. When business is low, after the season's harvest is over, it is but proper to pay the wages out of the profits of the past. If retrenching is necessary, let the employer begin with himself and his family. Cut down the useless luxuries of the household, forego the trip to California or the automobile, and there will be a good deal of money toward paying the weekly wage roll. When times are getting still harder, reduce the higher salaries and only when bankruptcy stares you in the face, cut the wages of the cheap helper and last of all dismiss him and turn him over to possible distress.

"In such times as these the real philanthropist is the man who expends his money in wages rather than in charity. Little shall we consider the manhood of him who forgets his duty towards his helpers while doing 'stunts' of philanthropy. 'The question of charity is that of labor, the question of 'non-employment,' as so well stated on a little folder issued by the Commercial club, is 'employment'."

PROPHESIES ARE BEING FULFILLED

Pastor White Declares World-Wide Calamities Were Foretold.

Pastor Stemple White spoke last night to a large audience at the Seventh Day Adventist church, Sixth street and Tenth avenue east, on the subject "Is the European War Retarding the Progress of the Everlasting Gospel?" He said in part:

"The church of Jesus Christ has the eternal assurance that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it, for the Divine author of Christianity, with all the omnipotent power of Jehovah, has promised to be with it to the end of the world. As long as the church remains true to her Master as the pillar and stay of the truth in the world, 'no weapon that is formed against it shall prosper,' and all things will work together for good to them that fear God.

Will Accomplish His Purpose.

"The word of God is certain to accomplish the thing whereunto it is sent, as does the snow and rain from heaven. The very setting of the gospel commission itself is the assurance of sure victory to him who will truly preach the word of God. The very wording of the Gospel ultimatum, which is to finish the original commission of Jesus in this last generation, as recorded in Revelation xiv, 6-14, clearly foretells that neither war nor persecution can muffle the loud cry of the heralds of the cross, as they go forth unto every kindred, nation, tongue and people of a perishing world, with the three last calls to the marriage supper of the lamb. In the language of Isaiah God's arm is bare in the sight of the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of the Lord.

Fulfillment of Prophesies.

"While the present war is most seriously crippling the world's commerce, and every hamlet in all the earth is more or less affected by its baleful influences, yet this terrible world tragedy is causing people to inquire throughout the earth, 'What do these things mean?' The word of God gives a most definite answer to all these questions of war and carnage in the midst of a 'world peace cry,' earthquakes, calamities by sea and land and many matters of prophetic fulfillment. Some 1,600 Adventist missionaries in all the seventy countries of the world report an ever-increasing number of conversions, and remarkable incidents of individual victories for God are taking place daily on the blood-stained, snow-mantled fields of the Old World. Despite the financial embarrassment that seems to be world-wide, we can truly report that this year the tithes and offerings contributed by Seventh Day Adventists to the finishing of the Gospel work in the earth has greatly increased. While the world is being warned of its impending doom, and while the good tidings of the Master are sweeping on to earth's remotest limits, let us bear in mind that, even as in Noah's day, only those who enter the ark and are sanctified by the truth will be prepared to meet God in peace.

Great Christian Victory.

"The many will scoff at the solemn message from heaven, they in turn become prophetic boomerangs, for it is written 'there shall come in the last days scoffers, saying, where is the promise of His coming?'

"Terrible as war is, God's work in the earth cannot be hampered nor hindered, and the Gospel of Jesus Christ will most gloriously gather out the honest in heart and finish in all the earth, amidst trouble and perplexity, long foretold by holy prophets, as this sin-cursed earth has never yet witnessed. Most glorious, indeed, will be the victory of them who will prove true to God."

U. S. HELP FOR UNEMPLOYED

Rev. C. N. Thorp Advocates Federal Intervention to Alleviate Conditions.

Should Do for Poor What Reserve Banks Do for Rich.

In two sermons yesterday, Rev. Charles N. Thorp, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational church, urged that the United States should give employment to the unemployed and at the same time improve the nation, by road-building, the Federal government paying a third, and the states and counties in which the roads are built, each paying a third.

He gave the sermon at his own church in the morning, and in the evening, preaching at the First Methodist church as a substitute for Dr. Hoffman, he used the same subject. The sermon made a deep impression on his hearers, evidently, for it is much talked about. Mr. Thorp took for his text the words, "A great gulf was fixed" from the parable of Dives and Lazarus, Luke xvi, 26. In part he said:

"The parable of Dives and Lazarus is a hard saying; we are far more familiar with the parable of the prodigal son in the chapter preceding. Some have thought its principal teaching the fact of rewards and punishments hereafter. If so, Dives would have been depicted as a flagrant sinner and Lazarus as a saint, which is not stated. Others believe that it teaches the sin of wealth and the virtue of poverty. Jesus never taught such error; for the Master has loyal friends among rich and poor alike. Others emphasize the teaching that man must die. There are valuable suggestions in the story regarding the life to come. Of these the most striking is expressed in those two words, 'Son, remember.' When you are using your memory 150 years hence, will it be a torment or a delight? A foolish question? Not at all. What kind of films, photographically speaking, are you daily storing away by memory? This is one of the thought-provoking details of this great parable of eternity.

"Dives' sin was a sin of omission. Had Dives been a human-hearted man he would have been so tormented when first he saw Lazarus that he would have given him all needed relief. Thereby Dives would have become the Good Samaritan, and the story would have been spoiled. The first time Dives saw the beggar, some such philanthropic dream may have flashed across him; but next time he felt a throb less of pity; finally he settled into the feeling that he was doing very well by the beggar, giving him the leavings from his table, perhaps far better food than Lazarus had been in the habit of having when in health. It was gradual, chronic inhumanity and sheer heartlessness that doomed Dives eventually to torment.

Applicable to Modern Times.

"But this parable has its timely application to a great and tragic problem of our day. Let Dives represent the well-to-do comfortable class and let Lazarus stand for the thousands of helpless unemployed men and women, at our door. The situation is critical and more or less chronic. We are doing very little to relieve it. Now Dives used to suffer in time of panic, war or financial depression. Even the shrewdest business man sometimes found himself caught without funds, through no fault of his own. Recently Dives has gone to the United States government with his troubles and the new Federal reserve banking system provides for banker, manufacturer, merchant, investor ample credit in time of panic.

"Lazarus is now bearing the brunt of the hard times. He is everywhere in our cities. Duluth was widely heralded as one of the foremost cities to attempt to furnish employment on municipal works for the unemployed. Our fame went abroad and unemployed men have naturally come to Duluth; we cannot blame them. It is apparent that no city can handle this problem alone. You and I have tried to make work for some of these men. I have had them shift coal in my cellar, or carry in and pile a load of wood, or clear the walks. How thankful they are for a job. Most of them hate to take charity; they want to work for a living. All over the land thousands of men are in the same deplorable condition. And Dives, if he has any heart, is literally tormented whenever he sees one of these pathetic figures on the street.

"The peril of Lazarus, this unemployed brother of ours, is awful. His health may break under the strain. He may so easily join his brothers of the criminal class, snugly housed at the jail, or busy at the work farm. Strange that we give these prisoners such kindly treatment, but bid the honest workman, if out of a job, shift for himself.

Suggests Government Aid.

"A recent writer has wisely suggested that it is high time that Dives, tormented at Lazarus' sad state, should invoke the aid of the Federal government for his relief. He conceives the working out of a Federal employment reserve system, which will do for labor what the reserve banking system does for funds. Our land stands in sore need of good roads. Our rural highways in many sections are no better than the roads in parts of Russia. Towns, counties and states have tried road-building; the common result has been a large expenditure of funds and little return. The Panama canal has taught us that when the United States army handles a great engineering project it is well and economically done. This writer suggests that the United States government offer to each state and county a carefully made set of plans for a system of national highways. The Federal government could offer to pay one-third the cost of whatever roads the state and county might wish to build, under Federal oversight, state and county paying each one-third of the cost. Work might begin in those sections where there are considerable numbers of unemployed. Many clerical workers would be required, also women workers as cooks, launderesses, etc., in connection with the road-builders. The work might be planned so that whenever regular industrial positions opened for men, they could be encouraged to take such positions, but in case of the industrial conditions becoming severe again, places could be made for any who lacked employment, in connection with the great highway enterprise.

"Such a plan would open much new territory for settlers. It would add greatly to land values. It would relieve the condition of Lazarus. It would save to this nation hundreds of men, now in danger of being utterly lost. Other great public works might also be undertaken in due time; drainage, flood protection, building power dams for cheap power, and other departments of national advancement. Lazarus can never of himself secure this needed legislation. Dives, having provided for himself, ought now to be tormented in spirit until he has secured relief from the government for his helpless brother.

"Why not seek to carry through congress some such plan as this for an employment reserve, and thus help to bridge the menacing gulf that is yawning, wider and wider every day, between Dives and Lazarus. We must bridge this gulf by brotherhood, expressed in terms of business, handled, I firmly believe, by the government of the United States."

Real Beauty Is Based on Good Works; Says Dr. Hovis.

"Making Faces" Is the Theme of an Interesting Sermon.

"Making Faces" was the topic of the sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church. The sermon in part follows:

"When 'Bobby' Burns, sitting in church behind a proud-acting and finely-dressed lady, saw a louse crawling, all unbeknown to her, upon her bonnet, took out his pencil and wrote the lines:

"O wad some power the giftie gie us, To see oursels as ithers see us," he, perhaps, did not present the best example of attentive listening to a sermon, but his words declared the subtle truth that if we ourselves could see ourselves as others view our form and face, we could never try to seem to be something different than we are.

"The lady was probably not responsible for the presence of the louse upon her bonnet, but one is not able to disown the fact that he is the sculptor of his own countenance. Our very features insensibly take their form and assume their shape and shade from the frequent and habitual expression of certain affections of the soul. Nothing can be more certain than that one's thought—life is reflected in his features.

All Are Making Faces.

"I am not a physiognomist, and I am making no attempt to discuss the scientific relation between one's countenance and his character; but I do assert the fact which needs no other confirmation than that of experience and observation, that you and I, whether we know it or not, are constantly engaged in the business of making faces. Sometimes we make funny faces and the world laughs at us; sometimes, false faces and it says we lie; sometimes we do not know what faces, and make them better than we know.

"Every human countenance contains both a history and a prophecy. The face is the title page of the volume of the past and the fore-word of all the future chapters.

"Faces reveal secrets which the tongue would seek to hide. Addison says, 'When I see a man with a sour, shriveled face, I cannot forbear pity-

FIVE SHIPS TORPEDOED

German Submarine Gets Trio in Its Raid of Irish Sea.

Two More Wrecked By Another Boat in English Channel.

London, Feb. 1.—The toll taken by the German submarine U-21 in its raid Saturday afternoon in the Irish sea in the vicinity of Liverpool still stands at three ships—the steamers Ben Cruachen, Linda Blanche and the Kilcoan, the latter a small vessel. The crew of the Kilcoan was landed yesterday on the Isle of Man by a coastwise steamer.

In addition, a German submarine also has torpedoed two British steamers in the English channel near Havre—the Tokomaru and the Icaria.

The Irish sea raider easily made her escape and shipping interests, confident that she has returned to her base, ordered a resumption of normal traffic.

This under-water Emden is the same vessel which last September torpedoed in the North sea the British cruiser Pathfinder, with a loss of 246 lives, and later destroyed two British steamers off Havre. She found numerous vessels in the waters to which she has centered her activities. In addition to the vessels she is known to have sunk, at least five other steamers were chased. These include the Graphic with 100 passengers and a crew of forty and the smaller boats Atrous, Ava and Kathleen and Endymion. All the vessels escaped in zig-zag flight.

The Graphic's captain had his passengers don life belts and sent all the members of the crew to the stoke hole so that the steamer could keep a full head of steam in flight. The captain also took the precaution to warn by wireless vessels from coming into the zone of the submarine's activity.

The Allan line steamer Scandinavian, from St. John, N. B., Jan. 22 for Liverpool, with 500 passengers on board, learned of the raid of the U-21 and put into Queenstown.

After remaining there for a short time, she proceeded for Liverpool.

Two More Torpedoed.

Paris, Feb. 1.—The French ministry of marine announces that two British ships had been torpedoed in the English channel off Havre by a German submarine. They are the steamers Tokomaru and Icaria. The Tokomura was bound from New Zealand to England. Her crew was rescued by the trawler Semper. Her cargo consisted in part of clothing and $7,500, New Zealand's gift to Belgian refugees. No details are available concerning the torpedoing of the Icaria.

The following statement was given out by the ministry of marine:

"The Tokomaru was sunk by a torpedo from a German submarine. The English vessel Icaria also was torpedoed in the same locality.

"In the Irish sea the English steamers Linda Blanche and Ben Cruachen were torpedoed also.

"Hitherto the Germans before attacking a merchant vessel always allowed the crew sufficient time to embark in the ship's boats. The custom has now been abandoned, as was shown by the bombardment of the Amiral Ganteaume, which was filled with Belgian women and children refugees. The German marine has decided to violate systematically and deliberately international law."

The Tokomaru was a vessel of 3,912 tons. She sailed from Newcastle, New South Wales, on Oct. 29. Shipping records make no mention of the Icaria.

The French steamer Amiral Ganteaume, to which reference is made in the statement of the ministry of marine, was sunk Oct. 26 while on her way from Calais to Havre with a throng of Belgian refugees, of whom forty lost their lives. The British admiralty later announced that the ship was sunk by a German submarine.

IS HEAVIEST IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Trees and Telephone and Telegraph Wires Broken in Norway.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Christiania, Jan. 10.—The snowfall in Norway this year is the heaviest in fifteen years, and has caused considerable damage in breaking down trees and telephone and telegraph wires and poles. The temperature has been only a few degrees below freezing, and the snow has afforded fine sport. The king, queen and crown prince have gone to their cottage in the hills near Christiania to enjoy skiing, at which they are all experts. A number of English officers are in the health resorts in the mountains, recuperating from wounds. Skiing has brought a number of tourists to Norway, although not many compared with past years.

German Deplores War.

Ryder, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—While he is proud of the record made by his two brothers in the German army, both getting medals, one the iron cross, E. C. Sekliewek of this place deplores the war in Europe which has caused such a loss of life and suffering and financial reverses for his relatives.

Keep the Children Bright and Happy

Happy youngsters must be healthy. The digestive organs of children get out of order as readily as do those of their elders, and the result is equally distressing. When the bowels are clogged with an accumulation of refuse from the stomach the child naturally becomes cross and fretful from the discomfort, and is often punished for temper when medical attention is really what is needed.

The next time your child is cross and unhappy, without apparent reason, try giving it a mild laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild, pleasant tasting combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and is especially recommended for children because of its freedom from all opiate or narcotic drugs and its gentle action. It is sold in drug stores everywhere. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

WISCONSIN "U" GRADUATES HOLD THEIR ANNUAL DINNER

College spirit and enthusiasm were revived by thirty or more Wisconsin university men who gathered at the St. Louis hotel Saturday evening to attend the annual meeting and dinner of the Wisconsin Club of Duluth. Officers for the coming year were elected and plans for club affairs in 1915 were discussed.

Oliver S. Andresen was elected president of the club, succeeding Henry E. Balsley. The other officers chosen were: J. R. Stack, vice president; A. W. Torbet, secretary, and H. K. Pratt, treasurer.

A proposal to change the form of organization so as to admit Wisconsin women graduates to membership in the club was considered, but it was decided to keep the organization strictly "stag" in form. However, an affair will be given during the coming year for the co-eds.

Superior was well represented at the meeting, about ten members from across the bay being present. County Judge Perkins of Superior was the oldest Wisconsin alumnus present. The club will hold monthly meetings during the year.

OLIVER S. ANDRESEN.

WILL GROUNDHOG SEE SHADOW?

If He Does, Winter Will Continue Six Weeks Longer, According to Ancient Superstition--- Candlemas Day Rites.

Will it be sunshiny tomorrow or will it remain gray and clear as it is today?

Naturalists, pseudo naturalists, lovers of warm weather, in fact, everybody but the coal man is wishing that it will be a gray day, because when his honor the groundhog appears, they want him to remain.

Every year on Feb. 2, Candlemas day, this four-legged weather prophet is said to come out of his winter quarters and look around. If he sees his shadow he scurries back in and prepares for six weeks more of sleep. If, however, the shadow is nowhere in evidence, the wily animal foregoes any preparation for more winter.

To Catholics, Candlemas day is of particular significance, as it is on this day that the church annually commemorates the purification of the Virgin Mary. Also, on the same day, are blessed the candles for use in church services during the coming year.

The festival is also observed by the Anglican and Lutheran churches, and particularly in the Armenian churches, where the sacred new fire is kindled on Candlemas eve, not at Easter.

In some parts of Germany and the Hebrides it was once the custom to observe certain rites on Candlemas day, to insure good crops of oats and flax for the coming year. Candlemas is chiefly known in Scotland, in secular matters, as the first of the quarter days for payment of rents.

TAX DOUBLES IN SEVEN YEARS

State Tax Commission Reviews Causes for Growing Rate.

To Reduce, Knife Must Be Wielded in Every Department.

If the growing tax rate in Minnesota is to be halted the pruning knife must be wielded all down the line. No very substantial relief can come from a reduction in state expenditures alone. The lopping off must be general and it must be just as vigorous in local and county expenditures as in the case of the state.

This is the conclusion of the state tax commission in an exhaustive treatment of state and local finances and expenditures, and which is included in its annual report to the legislature under the head of "The Cost of Government in Minnesota." Copies of the treatise have been distributed among the members of the two houses.

In seven years the commission finds that the total amount of taxes levied for all purposes in Minnesota increased 97 per cent.

In fourteen years it says the state levy has jumped from $1,604,737.87 to $5,309,945.45, or 31⁹ per cent.

The total tax rate in mills in 1906 was 25.6; in 1913 it was 33.4. The state tax rate in the same period soared from 2.78 to 5.03 mills.

The average local tax rate in 1906 was 22.82 mills, while in 1913 it was 28.37 mills.

All Units Responsible.

Showing that the counties and their minor units were not far behind the state in increased exactions, in the shape of taxes for governmental purposes, the collections in 1913 for county purposes alone were nearly $8,000,000, as compared with a trifle more than $4,000,000 for 1907. City and village taxes increased from $7,000,000 to $13,000,000 in the same period; township taxes from $2,000,000 to nearly $5,000,000, and school district taxes from $7,000,000 to more than $12,000,000.

The state levy for revenue and other specific purposes in the seven-year period increased from about $3,000,000 to nearly $8,000,000.

In its treatment of the cost of government in Minnesota and the increase in the same, the commission says much of the increased cost is justified, as Minnesota is a fast growing state and necessarily many new problems had to be met. This, however, it adds, must not be taken as meaning that reforms looking to a reduction are not in order.

Increase For Decade.

The growth of the public expenditures, federal, state and local, the commission finds has been greater during the past ten years than in any similar period in the country's history. The increase in population has not kept up with the percentage of increase in expenditure, and it credits this in a measure to the growing tendency to foist upon the state activities and functions that formerly lay with the individual and the smaller political units.

Every expansion of governmental functions, the commission points out, means increased public expenditures and in turn increased taxes.

The population in 1896 was a little more than 1,500,000 and in 1914, 2,205,259. That the public expenditures and the cost of state government should so vastly overtop the growth in population may seem a puzzle to some, still the commission says there is an explanation for it and the increase can not all be charged up to reckless disregard for the people's rights on the part of the administrative officers. Much of it, they say, is in answer to popular demand which cannot be disregarded.

Minnesota's expenditures for education, for instance, the commission says, is one thing that adds considerably to the grand total. Few states exceed Minnesota's liberality in this respect. In 1914 Minnesota expended for education alone nearly $24,000,000, or $10.82 per capita. In 1902 the expenditure for this purpose was about $8,000,000, or $4.40 per capita. These figures include all disbursements by the state and its sub-divisions.

Cost of Education.

In 1896 the cost of education to the state exclusive of the amounts spent by local units of government was $1,756,866.78, and in 1914, $7,728,364.81, an increase of nearly 340 per cent. In 1896 this same expenditure was $1.15 per capita, and in 1914, $3.50 per head.

Of eight states named by the commission which includes such populous commonwealths as Indiana and Illinois, Minnesota's per capita of enrollment is the largest, $43.98. The per capita in Illinois is only $37.54.

Roads and bridges is another addition to the state's expenditures that have aided materially in swelling the grand total. In 1900 the levy for road and bridge purposes was only 6.17 per cent of the total. Of the entire amount raised for road and bridge construction and improvement St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey counties contributed more than 50 per cent.

The expense of aiding societies and associations of a public character, the commission explains, is another growing item that has come with recent years.

WAR'S FASCINATION FOR SCHOOLGIRLS

Hundreds Have Tried to Enlist in the Russian Army.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Petrograd, Jan. 10.—The war has an unbelievable fascination for the Russian schoolgirl, hundreds of whom have run away in boys' clothing and tried to enlist as volunteers. Not a few of them have got into the lines, too, as the medical examination is only a negligible formality in many places.

Among the wounded in the battle of Nieman was a broad-shouldered girl from one of the country districts, whose disguise was not discovered until she reached the field hospital.

In all the larger cities and towns the authorities are trying to provide employment of a war-time nature for women and girls. In Moscow there is a war hospital attached to each schoolhouse, and the schoolgirls are assigned work in connection with this. Each girl is made responsible for the clothing of one wounded patient, and the children collect the money necessary for the support of the hospitals.

CANADIAN TROOPS IN LA BASSEE TRENCHES.

London, Feb. 1.—A Reuter dispatch from Northeastern France says:

"Princess Patricia's Light Infantry, the first of the Canadian contingent to reach the front, took part in the defense of the British trenches near La Bassee, which were attacked by the Germans on Jan. 25, and lost four men killed and several wounded.

"The next day Lieut. Price of the Canadians was killed while leading his company into a trench, and another officer named Pearson is reported killed.

"The Canadians took a number of German prisoners and inflicted severe losses on a landsturm regiment, which attacked their trenches."

CANADIANS RAISE HORSE EMBARGO.

Spooner, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The quarantine established by the Canadian government against the bringing of horses across the line was removed by the dominion authorities last week. The new ruling is that horses may be brought in for local purposes, but the importation of hay and feed is still absolutely prohibited until April 9. The regulation was imposed for quarantine purposes at the time the foot and mouth disease was prevalent in the states.

IMPORTANT SPEECH BY THE PRESIDENT

Executive Will Speak Before Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Washington, Feb. 1.—President Wilson will deliver before the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States here Wednesday night what his advisers say will be one of the most important speeches of his administration.

He is expected to discuss the shipping bill now pending in congress, the forthcoming meeting of financial experts of South and Central America in the United States to consider trade relations in the western hemisphere, and other steps proposed to assist American foreign commerce.

Secretaries McAdoo and Redfield are to discuss the shipping bill from the standpoint of the administration. Senator Burton of Ohio will give the viewpoint of the Republican opposition in congress. Secretary Bryan will speak on "American Investments abroad."

Other notable speakers have accepted invitations to address the convention.

When the convention assembles Wednesday, there will be representatives from every state except New Mexico, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines. More than 600 commercial organizations and firms compose the membership of the chamber.

Straits are Closed.

St. Ignace, Mich., Feb. 1.—The straits are now closed. The car ferry, Chief Wawatam, has a channel, but the mail boat Lotus, running to Mackinac Island, is laid up. Mail and traffic to Mackinac island is being handled by teams.

WHEN THE WIND BLOWS

Third Avenue West Crossing Presents a Scene of Much Life and Activity---Clerks Find It Hard to Concentrate.

George Washington crossed the Delaware after many perils, so history informs us. The Germans crossed the Ypres after difficulties that were prodigious and sacrifices that were appalling, but scores of Duluthians today are having a terrible ordeal in crossing the wind swept canyon at Third avenue west and Superior street.

If there is ever any wind blowing in the world—it blows at this point, or at least some of it. When the wind is blowing all over the city, as it is today, crossing Third avenue west is a feat fraught with many difficulties; an adventure calculated to try the heart of the stoutest pedestrian.

In the window of the Omaha ticket office is an excellent vantage spot to watch the sport. Talk of the thrills of hockey and football—say! Let it be stated that the clerks in the office of the Omaha have great difficulty keeping their minds concentrated on their work on days when the wind blows.

One little woman started to cross, going east, early today. Just as she passed the protecting lee of the Lonsdale building, the angry wind caught her. It carried her back, like a lithesome straw carried on the gathering gust. The woman grabbed the iron pole, hooked it, you might say, as she was going by. She held on with her right until Officer George Wood rescued her. The guardian of the peace acted as a human ferry and made the trip across in three tacks.

The Fat and the Thin.

Fat and hefty persons bend before the gale, as it strikes them fair as they emerge from the shelter of the buildings that flank this wind-swept canyon. Hefty persons—ladies and gentlemen and others—bend and sway once or twice and then either draw back or battle vallantly across the street, rocking this way and that, often being veered clear across to the other side of the street in making the port. Thin ladies and gentlemen can offer less resistance to the first violent attack of the gale that howls and races through the street. But unlike the hefty persons, the thin ones do not bend and sway, but fly before the wrath of the wind, like chaff blown along the floor from the maw of the fanning mill.

Some pedestrians try to cross this perilous path on the run; others hesitate and make one or two tentative tries. Some stop in the middle of the street and attempt to beat it back, when the gale roars and beats with redoubled fury.

Hats are blown off, coats and skirts are swirled in this maelstrom. Some rare feats of acrobatics are performed. Several falls were recorded today. Officer Wood has walked miles, to and fro. Feminine hats and hair have been grievously disarranged. Tempers have been ruffled.

A man with a ferry at Third avenue west and Superior street would make money.

The ticket office might also make money by selling grandstand seats.

MACCABEES IN CONVENTION

Quadrennial State Gathering Will Be Held in Duluth.

Order's Highest Officers Will Be Present—Many Delegates Coming.

The Knights of the Maccabees of Minnesota will meet in Duluth on March 3 and 4 for their quadrennial convention. This is the first meeting of the year scheduled for Duluth, practically opening the convention season for this city.

The meetings will start on the morning of March 3, when about 100 delegates, and eight degree teams will meet with the local body. D. P. Markey of Detroit, Mich., supreme national commander, former speaker of the house of representatives of Michigan, and Dr. Edward H. Haas of St. Paul, great commander of Minnesota, will be in attendance, it is announced by George J. Mallory of this city, past great commander of this state.

A program for the convention is now being prepared by local officers of the body. It will include several business sessions beginning at 10 o'clock on the morning of March 3, a theater party and a banquet and ball on the evening of March 4.

On Jan. 1 the Knights of the Maccabees, a Michigan organization containing 65,000 members, and the Knights of the Maccabees of the World, having a membership of 225,000 throughout this country and Canada, were amalgamated under the name of the Knights of the Maccabees. There are five bodies in Duluth, with a total membership of 1,700.

ARRESTED IN ITALY.

Fugitive Will Be Tried There for Offense in Minneapolis.

For a crime alleged to have been committed in America, Pietro Leone faces trial in Italy. Leone is held by the Italian authorities on request of the Minneapolis police. He is charged with complicity in the robbery of Antonio Paneso, an Italian foreman of a railway construction gang, who was held up by four fellow countrymen and robbed of $2,289.60 in a boarding car in northeast Minneapolis.

For this crime three men were arrested. Two were acquitted and the third found guilty, and is now serving time in Stillwater. Leone is alleged to be the fourth member of the party. Leone made his flight to Italy, it is said, expecting that he would be safe there. The Minneapolis police, however, took up the case with the Italian consul in New York, and notification of Leone's arrest in Italy has reached the Italian consul at Duluth.

If Leone is found guilty he will be sentenced and punished in his native land, saving the trouble of extradition, for a subject of that country may be tried and punished for a crime committed at any place, either within or outside that country.

STATE TO GET FEES.

North Dakota's Attorney General Rules on Naturalization Matter.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fees received by clerks of courts in connection with naturalization work, must be turned into the state, except that part taken by the federal government, according to Atty.-Gen. H. J. Linde, who was asked for a ruling on the question.

In many counties of the state the clerks are retaining the balance of the fee not required by the United States. This practice, the attorney general rules, is not within the provisions of the law covering the work. It is understood several clerks will be asked to account for such fees as have been retained.

LOCAL OFFICE IS EFFICIENT

Customs Officers Here Are Highly Praised By Inspectors.

Work in Duluth Is Thoroughly Gone Over By Experts.

That the United States customs office in Duluth is being conducted in an efficient and businesslike manner and the best possible service is being rendered to the public is the report made by James F. McConnochie of New York, chairman of the Federal board, who with William Stone, Jr., another member of the board, has just completed an inspection of the office and its methods. Harris Bennett, collector of the Duluth port, and his coworkers were highly commended for their efficiency and compared favorably with the officials of any port of similar size in the United States. Before leaving for Minneapolis, Chairman McConnochie made the following statement to The Herald:

Efficiency Board Named.

"About a year ago the secretary of the treasury by a treasury regulation designated nine men from the customs service throughout the United States as an efficiency board for the treasury department in connecting with its handling of the customs business. James F. McConnochie of New York was made chairman of the board and William Stone, Jr., deputy collector for the Cleveland port was made a member of the board.

Invited by Collector.

"We came here in response to a request of the collector here, Harris Bennett, that a committee of the efficiency board visit this port for the purpose of reorganizing the service. Our business is to see that the laws and regulations are being observed and that the customs business is being administered along efficient and economic lines, and in conformity with the best practices of doing business, aiming as far as possible to have a uniform method of doing business throughout the United States.

"We find that Mr. Bennett, the collector, is giving a close and efficient supervision to the work of his office; that he is conducting the customs business along common sense lines with safety to the revenues and convenience to the importing public, seeing that importing merchandise is quickly delivered with the least amount of red tape possible, consistent with the protection of the revenue.

Praises Service.

"We find the service here will compare favorably with that of any port of similar size in the country and the personnel equal to that of any port in the country."

PROMOTIONS BY GREAT NORTHERN

Changes Resulting From Death of W. D. Scott Announced.

As the result of the death of W. D. Scott, at Portland and the appointment of C. O. Jenks of Superior as his successor as general manager of North bank line, the operating department of the Great Northern, as announced by General Supt. J. H. O'Neill, has ordered the following changes, effective today:

C. E. Leverich, assistant general superintendent, transferred from Spokane to Great Falls, as assistant general superintendent.

G. F. Stewart, division superintendent, at Spokane, promoted to post of assistant general superintendent to succeed Mr. Leverich.

T. B. Degnan, terminal superintendent at Seattle, promoted to division superintendent, at Crookston.

Joseph Webber, local freight agent at Seattle, promoted to terminal superintendent, Seattle.

F. C. Kelsey, division superintendent at Great Falls, promoted to division superintendent, at Spokane.

POLICE CHIEF SAVES FARMER FROM FREEZING.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 1.—Chief of Police Rentenbach saved Matt Salo, an Onala farmer, from freezing to death. The soil tiller came to town to buy supplies and imbibed freely of liquor. At sundown he boarded his sleigh, granted to the team and let the horses take their own time and course. Meanwhile the thermometer dropped from 10 to 20 deg. below zero and Salo was on a fair road to freezing to death when the chief picked him up.

BEMIDJI STORE IS DAMAGED $20,000

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire at an early hour Sunday morning destroyed the Segal emporium, at a loss to the building and contents of approximately $20,000, partially insured. Early reports to the effect that Gill Bros.' clothing and the Palace meat market, adjoining buildings, had been destroyed, were entirely erroneous.

The firemen, by a hard, all-night battle, succeeded in keeping the flames confined to the Segal store. The fire is believed to have started in the basement. The Segal store is in the heart of the retail section on Third street and had the flames reached the adjoining stores it would have been impossible for the department to stop them.

HELP ADULTS IN ENGLISH

Rural School Teachers Conducting Night Schools for Deficient Grown-Ups.

County Board of Education Gives Use of School Buildings.

Several teachers in the rural schools are conducting classes at night for the benefit of adults who wish to learn to read and write the English language, according to N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools.

The county board of education has given all teachers of the county district authority to use their buildings for the purpose of conducting these schools, provided that the teacher in each case be held responsible for any damage to the building and contents and provided that the persons attending these schools furnish their own books and supplies. In speaking of the night school work in the rural schools, Supt. Young says:

"There is no doubt but that a great deal can be done for the general public with classes of this kind, and it is pleasing to know that so many teachers are willing to undertake the work."

Miss Leona Bonnier, No. 2 school, District No. 34, has been conducting a night school for the past three months with a class of four people of foreign nationality who have never atended school before in this country.

DAN CUPID WAS LOAFING ON JOB

Dan Cupid, mythical matchmaker, loafed on his job during the month of January, according to marriage license records kept by J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court.

The little love sprite ushered sixty-three couples down the aisle to the matrimonial altar during the last month, falling short of his record for two years.

In January, 1914, 89 marriage licenses were issued, in January, 1913, 70 and in January, 1912, 57. The record for the last months also shows a falling off as compared with December, 1914, when eighty-three wedding permits were taken out.

TRIAL OF 1,100 VOTERS BEGINS IN KENTUCKY.

Pikeville, Ky., Feb. 1.—The trial of 1,100 voters who are charged with bribery alleged to have been committed at the last November election, was begun at a special term of the circuit court here today. More than 2,000 indictments were returned in the various counties of Eastern Kentucky against persons who are alleged to have purchased and cast fraudulent votes and today's trial was a continuation of cases already disposed of.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Trial of William Lorimer, president; Charles B. Munday, vice president, and three other officials, charged with conspiring to defraud the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, now defunct, today was continued until April 17.

EXPENSES TO BE CUT DOWN

Slash Proposed in Budget for North Dakota Departments.

Longer Office Hours and Less Employes to Be Demanded.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state is entitled to just the same hours of service from its employes as are private individuals, according to the opinion of members of the Lathrop investigating committee of the legislature. The committee, after interviewing the entire set of state officials, will demand the establishment of longer office hours, thus increasing the efficiency of each employe and decreasing the numbers of employes.

The committee report, which is now being formulated, calls for a reduction of approximately $200,000 in the budget for state departments, decreasing the total from about $900,000 to less than $700,000.

Over $200,600 will be slashed from the budget of the agricultural college. Salaries of faculty members, wages of employes, etc., were found to be higher in the agricultural college than in any other institution in the state.

University Budget Cut.

About $100,000 will be slashed from the university budget, President McVey fixing $156,000 as the minimum appropriation that can be made without impairing the efficiency of the institution. The decrease contemplates the cutting out of two building appropriations that had been sought.

At the Valley City normal school, about $88,000 will be cut out of the budget as estimated by the college authorities. This leaves the institution nearly $100,000. The proposed industrial arts building will not be granted.

From the Wahpeton school of science budget, about $3,000 was taken, while about the same reduction was made at the Ellendale normal school.

Today President Hillyer of the Mayville normal school, and authorities of the state school of forestry at Bottineau will appear.

Terminal Elevator.

The grain grading and warehouse committee of the house, to which was referred the board of control's report with reference to the proposal to establish a state-owned terminal elevator, will hold a meeting tomorrow or Wednesday. One meeting already held ended without result, the committee being unable to agree on the measure. The committee, however, will report that steps are, at this time, inadvisable, because of the lack of funds with which to finance the proposed terminal scheme.

The state tax commission investigation, in the hands of a joint committee of the legislature, was resumed today. This inquiry has largely to do with the results attained by the commission. It is likely that a recommendation will be made to the legislature that the three-man commission be abolished, and a single commissioner named instead. This is the stand that Governor Hanna has taken on the question.

Plans for the inquiry into the state board of control have all been completed by Secretary A. G. Divet of the committee. The hearings will be held at the capitol beginning Thursday. It is expected that the board of control will, by that time, be in position to go thoroughly into every charge that has been made against it.

German frontier, though greater in miles than between Sochaczew and Warsaw, is strategically much less important for the reason that there are no fortified positions between the Bzura and Germany, while the last three months during which the Germans have occupied in vain attempts to advance, have been profitably used by us to fortify the line from Nowo Georgiewsk to Warsaw and Ivangorod, which line is now practically impregnable.

Now Part of Empire.

"The new territory occupied by us in East Galicia is now part and parcel of the empire. Lemberg and vicinity are well fortified and the population is well satisfied with the new state of things. In the Carpathians the Austrians have been weakened by recent defeats and the German help there will be insufficient to infuse new blood into their army.

"At the outset of the war, fears were expressed in view of the difficulties of importation, as to where we were to get necessary mechanical implements. Necessity has shown the strength and resourcefulness of the Russian nation. Many small wares, formerly manufactured for us in Germany and Austria, have been perfectly replaced by the Moscow manufacturers. Village and workshop aid producing saddlery and munitions and in making these things, the peasant is showing remarkable adaptability.

Machine Articles Produced.

"Even machine articles are successfully produced. When our troops were in East Prussia, the first time, they seized eight barbed wire machines. These were brought to Russia and copied so that such machines are now produced here. This is one example and such occurrences are numerous.

"The relations of the soldiers and the commanders are excellent. Many occasions have been witnessed where the commander desired to precede the men. The latter, however, requested the leaders to remain, saying 'you are one hard to replace; we can be spared.'

"A felicitous circumstance is the absolute unity of the nation and the army. Officers and men are extremely alive to what is transpiring in the country and are gratified to see the concord between the government and the people and the interest which the entire people are taking in the campaign. Sanitary conditions can be judged by the insignificant number of illnesses and the vigor of the men in the ranks."

large reinforcements to Hungary to prevent a catastrophe. In any case, he said, it was doubtful if it would be possible for them to resist the Russians and Serbians and perhaps also the Roumanians. Therefore, it was necessary seriously to examine into the question of peace.

"A definite defeat would mean a debacle for Austria-Hungary and the partition of the empire. His advice to Germany was to consider most seriously the possibilities of a tolerable peace. He advised Germany not to reject fundamentally the thought of peace on the grounds of a probable disarmament of Europe. If Germany were disposed to treat on such terms, he believed the other conditions would be tolerable. Perhaps it would be necessary to leave the French part of Alsace to France and to give up some Polish provinces to a new Poland, but if Russia would relinquish a province and Austria a part of Galicia, to Poland, no real sacrifice for Germany would be entailed.

"Austria would then leave the rest of Galicia to Russia and Bukowina to Roumania, and if necessary a part of Bosnia and Herzegovina to Serbia and Montenegro."

Ruinous to Germany.

"The leading German statesmen admitted Baron Burian's intentions were excellent and, to some extent, justified by circumstances, but they declared that such a peace would be more ruinous to Germany than total defeat. Disarmament of Europe, they contended, would only mean that Great Britain would be able to tyrannize the whole world and Germany would have lost all chances for safeguarding her commercial, industrial and economic interests.

"The other terms advanced by Baron Burian, namely the status quo ante bellum, that is to say, the restoring of Belgium and Northern France and also the recovery by Germany of her colonies, were, with the exception of the relinquishment to France of French Alsace and of the Polish provinces to Poland, no absolute hindrance to peace.

"For the reasons set forth, the German statesmen declare the negotiations for peace are hopeless and that therefore it would be madness to take any steps revealing a disposition for peace on the part of Germany and Austria-Hungary, as this would only weaken their case.

"Baron Burian thereupon admitted that there was no other way known to reject all ideas of peace and to take all chances and all risks in continuing the war, in the hope that something undreamed of might occur to save them. Perhaps a disagreement among the allies or a victory might prove their salvation.

"The Germans agreed it was necessary to dispatch reinforcements to Hungary and promised to transfer troops up to the number of 1,000,000 by spring. One and one-half million soldiers would be sent to France as a last attempt to crush the allies and force peace.

"These are reported to have been the main points of negotiations between German statesmen and Baron Burian, but, of course, a number of special questions also were discussed and settled."

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

starve idle as starve working' will naturally be raised again just as it was during 1900 in the anthracite fields."

Mr. Mitchell's reference was to the plan of collective bargaining suggested to the Rockefeller interests by W. L. MacKenzie King, former commissioner of labor of Canada, who was recently employed by the Rockefeller foundation to conduct an investigation into industrial relations.

Mr. Mitchell thought the referendum and recall was of advantage to labor.

Compensation for Workmen.

Speaking of compensation for workmen, Mr. Mitchell said it was effective in more ways than one.

"When," he said, "it costs more to kill a man than it does to save him the employers will save their workers."

Mr. Mitchell said that where men are unorganized the death rate is higher and the wage rate lower.

The witness said he did not know just how much the "partial control" of financial interests over the industries had affected the workers. It appeared, however, he said, "that the financial institutions were able to control the situation." He cited as an example the settlement of the anthracite coal strike of 1902 when J. P. Morgan & Co. suggested a satisfactory solution after one offered by the railroads had been turned down.

Referring to wages in the Pennsylvania anthracite region, he said they were about 40 per cent higher now than before the settlement of the strike. There had also, he said, been a decided improvement in the social and living conditions as a result of settlements by the miners.

are the largest commercial vessels that have as yet fallen victims to German submarines; the three ships sunk in the Irish sea were all small coasters.

The belief expressed yesterday that the raider could not remain for more than a few hours in waters so far removed from his base has been exploded by the news that the mail steamer Leinster encountered a German submarine off Dublin on Sunday, twenty-four hours after the sinking of the three coasters. Probably the raider renewed his supplies of food and fuel from the coaster Linda Blanche before sending her to the bottom.

Reports of Russian operations over a vast area continue to come from the continent.

Vienna reports the resumption of hostilities in Eastern Serbia.

In France and Flanders the situation shows no striking change. The allied armies will be largely reinforced with new troops in the next fortnight.

The resignation of Georg Ledebour, member of the Reichstag, and Social Democratic leader, from the executive committee of the Socialist faction in the Reichstag, has given rise to rumors of a split in the Socialist party.

Germans Pleased.

Berlin, Feb. 1, by wireless to Sayville.—The exploits of the German submarine U-21 in the Irish sea have awakened a lively satisfaction in Germany and they are generally looked upon as inaugurating a serious campaign of submarine warfare on British commerce.

The demonstration that German submarines can operate on the west coast of England is treated in Berlin as an achievement of the utmost importance, it being the opinion of German naval men that it is likely to make the British policy of starving out Germany recoil on itself Britain.

News regarding the land operations both in the East and West is scarcer today than usual. There is a tendency on the part of German military experts to watch closely developments in the Carpathian mountains, where further successes for the Austro-German forces are expected.

FILIBUSTER CONTINUES

Jones of Washington, plans to enter the Republican oratorical turret with ammunition enough to break all records for continuous speaking. He said he was prepared to talk as long as his colleagues would permit. Some of his associates said he might hold the floor for twenty-four hours.

"We propose to keep the bill continuously before the senate," was the dictum by Mr. Kern.

"And we are ready for any plan of campaign the Democrats may inaugurate," asserted Senator Gallinger, the minority leader.

Many Republican senators who have not yet spoken on the bill have long speeches prepared. In addition to these Senators Burton, Lodge, Weeks, Gallinger and others who have led the fight for the minority thus far, are planning to talk again. Notwithstanding the formidable array of the opposition, however, Democratic leaders are confident their parliamentary advantage at this stage of the struggle can soon be pressed home and that a way will be found to break the deadlock.

No Protest Made.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Secretary Bryan today formally denied that any government had protested against the bill pending in congress for the purchase of ships by the United States. Mr. Bryan issued this statement:

"No nation has protested against the passage of the shipping bill and it is not likely that any nation will or would since the bill does not necessarily raise any diplomatic questions.

"It is not proper for the state department at this time to discuss the manner in which the authority conferred by the bill will or should be exercised. We assume that the authority conferred upon the president and those who will be associated with him in the manner will be exercised properly and with a due regard to the nation's welfare."

In administration sources close to President Wilson it was reiterated today that it is not the intention of the administration to buy vessels under the shipping bill which will cause friction with belligerents in Europe.

GERMANS BEGIN A GENERAL OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT WITH WARSAW AS OBJECTIVE

England's maritime commerce by the use of submarines is corroborated by German newspapers, which speak of the sinking of British merchantmen during the last few days as a new course of action which it is hoped will produce striking results. Five vessels have been torpedoed, three in the Irish sea and two in the English channel. The German papers lay stress upon the long range of the submarines whose ability to operate as far as 1,000 miles from their base distinctly increases the menace to shipping.

French Statement.

Paris, Feb. 1, 2:07 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out an official report on the progress of the war, which reads as follows:

"The day of Jan. 31 was marked, as had been Jan. 20, by artillery fighting, which was particularly spirited in all the northern region.

"To the southeast of Ypres the Germans endeavored to attack our trenches to the north of the canal, but this movement was immediately checked by the combined fire of our artillery and infantry.

"Along the entire Aisne front, from the junction of this river with the Oise, as far as Berry-au-Bac our batteries were successful at certain points in demolishing trenches in course of construction, as well as shelters for machine guns, and in silencing several mine throwers as well as certain artillery detachments of the enemy.

"In Champagne to the northeast of Mesnil-les-Hurlus we perfected our organization in a little forest which we took possession of the day before yesterday.

"Jan. 31 was relatively calm in the Argonne, where the Germans seem to have suffered heavily in the recent fighting.

"There is nothing of interest to report from the fronts in the Woevre district, in Lorraine and in the Vosges."

German Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 1, by wireless to Sayville.—The official statement issued today by the German general army headquarters says:

"In the western war theater and on the East Prussian frontier nothing new has occurred.

"To the southwest of Mlawa, north of the Vistula river (Northern Poland) the Russians were driven out of some places which they had occupied the day before.

"On the German front (Central Poland) south of the Vistula, the Germans gained.

"To the south of the Pilica river (Southern Poland) the German attacks were renewed."

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Feb. 1.—A communication issued late last night by the general staff of the Russian army follows:

"In the forests to the north of Gumbinnen and Pillkallen our troops, continuing the conflict, have made progress at some points.

"On the left bank of the Vistula on Jan. 30, a desperate combat was under way. In the region of Borjimow the Germans, who had captured one of our trenches on the preceding day, were attacked by us after nightfall.

"In a bayonet charge we dislodged the enemy, almost annihilating two entire companies of Germans, captured three officers and more than sixty soldiers and took a rapid fire gun.

"Fresh attempts to drive us from our advanced trenches were repulsed in nearly every instance.

"Our artillery on the left bank of the Vistula continued to shell the positions of the enemy, demolishing a German outpost and some German field works, three machine guns and some cannon.

"In the Carpathians: The fighting continues along the front between Mount Dukla and Mount Wyszkow. Generally speaking, our positions along this front are secure. As to the left wing, the front between Nignia, Polianka and Lotovisk, we are progressing satisfactorily, and every day we take some prisoners.

"In Bukowina there has been only unimportant advance-guard encounters."

The Russians officially announce the occupation of Tabriz, Persia, in a communication from the staff of the army in the Caucasus.

Thrust at Warsaw.

Petrograd, via London, Feb. 1.—Russian military authorities believe that Field Marshal von Hindenburg, planning another thrust at Warsaw, is already developing a general attack along the Warsaw front.

Significance is attached to the great violence with which the Germans are resuming their attacks in the Wyszogrod district, at the junction of the Bzura and Vistula rivers, and further south, near Bolimow.

In East Prussia the Russians are gradually extending their lines to the northward.

From the point of view of Russian staff officers, however, chief importance still attaches to the operations in the Carpathians, where the battle front is broken on account of the nature of the country.

The occupation of Tabriz was preceded by a battle at Sophian, seven miles northwest of the city, which was defended by Kurds. They were attacked by mounted Cossacks, who charged repeatedly with their lances, engaging the Kurds hand to hand.

Occupation of Tabriz has no importance except as hurting Turko-German prestige in Persia.

It is claimed here that Russian territory has now been freed of Turks.

validity of the new county is not to be affected by the failure of any county officer to do what the measure requires, but such officers are declared guilty of malfeasance. The present law is applied to the distribution of debts and property and the transcribing of records, etc.

The other bill, which probably will be dropped, divides St. Louis county east and west on the line between Towns 54 and 55, fixing the county seat temporarily at Hibbing. The new county would be called Iron, and the governor would appoint the temporary county board.

No Early Adjournment.

All hope of an early adjournment vanished when the house in committee of the whole today recommended for indefinite postponement the Carmichael-Malmberg-Swenson joint resolution fixing April 7 as the date of adjournment instead of April 22.

Senator George M. Peterson of Duluth, in a bill introduced in the senate today, proposes that trading stamp concerns must take out county licenses, paying $500, and that separate licenses must be secured for every community traded in.

Representative Paul W. Guilford of Minneapolis this morning introduced in the house a revision of his resolution calling on the appropriations committee to hold the budget down to the 1911 level, which is about $1,500,000 less than the 1913 appropriations. It states it to be the sense of the house that this should be done, and that the appropriations committee should do its best to hold down to that figure. The resolution was laid over at the author's request.

Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin this morning introduced the official county option bill in the house. There has been complaint over the delay to present this measure.

Advanced to the Calendar.

The house in committee of the whole advanced the following bills to the calendar: By Representative McGrath and Moeller, exempting licensed embalmers from jury duty; by Representative Warner, cutting out advance payments of interest on state land contracts and making the interest rate a flat 4 per cent instead of 5 per cent where the land is paid for within ten years; Representative Swanson, prohibiting the sale of cold storage eggs as fresh eggs.

Senator George H. Gardner of Brainerd introduced a bill requiring all voters to take the party affiliation oath at primary elections, instead of only those whose right to the ballot they ask for is challenged.

Other bills introduced:

Senator Palmer, appropriating $1,933,177 for the state university.

Senator Campbell, requiring the distribution of jurors between election districts in proportion to vote.

Senator Andrews, prohibiting sale of Copenhagen snuff and tobaccos containing opium.

Representative Swanson, increasing the university board of regents to twenty-three — governor, superintendent of education, president of the university and two from each congressional district.

Representative Knudson, fixing the board of regents at thirteen, including one from each congressional district and three officials.

Representative Wilson, prohibiting spitting in public places under penalty and making it the duty of health officers to enforce it.

Representative Erickson, providing that the state auditor, state treasurer and superintendent of banks shall constitute a state bank charter board to pass on all proposed new banks and not to permit more banks than each community can support.

Representatives Harrison and Malmberg, reducing the required percentage of butter fat in milk from 3¼ per cent to 3 per cent.

Would Buy Buffalo Herd.

Senator O'Neill and Representative Hinds, providing for the purchase of the Scotty Phillips herd of seventy-five buffaloes at Fort Pierre for the Itasca state part at not over $300 a head.

Representative Pratt, punishing the circulation of reports affecting bank credit.

Representative Pratt, making a felony to issue more than $25 in checks when the maker has no funds in the bank.

Representatives Bessette and Hinds, appropriating $150,000 a year for the forest service, $12,500 for Itasca state park, and $2,500 a year for Burntside state forest.

Representative Pratt, allowing villages to prevent or license and regulate public dancing.

tection by railroad companies, mining and lumber companies, organized towns voting a fire fund, and the Federal forest protective work on the headwaters of navigable streams.

Educational work and investigations to bring about increased prairie planting and better care of wood lots.

Increased market facilities for timber products on wooded farms.

The budget proposes an increase in the allotment to the forest service, actively engaged in fire protection. The present fund provides so little that the average field unity is about twenty-five townships, and the increase will so reduce this that each man will have only ten townships to care for, or about 200,000 acres.

"If the forests are to receive adequate protection from danger of fire along the thousands of miles of railroad lines within the forest region," says the board, "increased state supervision of their protective work and locomotive equipment must be given. The railroads were required last year to put on 182 men with speeders, working under the direction of the district forest rangers, to prevent the spreading of fires from the railroads' right-of-way.

Shelter Belts.

"Increased attention must also be given to the planting of wood lots and shelter belts in the prairie region, likewise to the retention and protection of wood lots in the timber region now being developed for farms. Many localities, heavily timbered until recently, are now without adequate shelter and protection for stock or crops, and without a supply of timber for fuel and ordinary farm uses. This condition has developed because the value of wood lots and groves properly located on such farm was not realized until too late.

"With the present force it is not possible to enforce the disposal of slash as completely as public safety requires. If the fire danger resulting from the slashing and debris of logging operations is to be reduced to a normal fire hazard, it is essential that the forest service retain a number of the best patrolmen in each district through the logging season to enforce the proper disposal of slash. As it is now, each ranger with one assistant must look after the disposal of slash at 200 to 500 camps scattered over an area of 80 to 100 townships.

Protecting Settlers.

"The rangers are not only protecting the enormously valuable state timber holdings; they are doing far more important work in protecting the lives and property of the thousands of settlers who are making homes in the timbered districts. They are also preventing the wholesale destruction of the forests, in which the citizens of the state have a much greater interest than even the owner. Every thousand feet of timber burned may mean a loss of $4 to $8 to the owner; but it means a loss of from $12 to $15 in wages that otherwise would have been paid to workmen. The timber owners in disposing of slash bear an expense for fire prevention greater than the state bears in maintaining patrol."

The field force, for which $97,440 is proposed, is to consist of the following: One ranger-at-large at $1,400, sixteen district rangers at an average salary of $110 a month, twenty permanent patrolmen at $80 a month and 100 patrolmen employed six months each at $70 a month.

"This," says the board in its statement, "is the field force on which the state must depend to prevent the recurrence of such catastrophies as the Hinckley and Baudette fires. The damage caused by one such fire would amount to more than enough to pay this field force for a hundred years."

TO STOP WASTE OF BREAD BY CHILDREN

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Jan. 10.—The wasting of white bread by German school children is the subject of a letter in the newspapers of the Rhine province from a teacher, who points out that it is the duty of parents to bring this extravagance to an end and thus help the fatherland during its crisis.

The writer says the children often leave their homes after a scanty breakfast and take a large package of bread and butter with them to school. He declares the scholars often are unable to consume the whole of the food, and thereupon throw it away in the streets. He suggests the official prohibition of the practice of bringing food to school, and also of the sale of all bread except "war bread" made of rye and potatoes to children for their immediate consumption. In this way he believes a great wastage will be prevented, and at the same time the authorities will be helped to meet the marked shortage of wheat flour. He concludes that the children will also become more healthy if they are forced to consume a better breakfast before leaving for school, and that if they are kept from eating during school hours, they will be ready to eat at their midday meal more of the vegetables they usually refuse and which are so abundant in Germany.

MILL CITY MAN IS MURDER VICTIM.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—Unable to survive an emergency operation, Charles Berger of the Decorah hotel, who was shot down at Tenth street and Hawthorn avenue by a man he claimed was a highwayman but who the police believe may have deliberately sought his life, died at the city hospital almost twelve hours after the mysterious attack. Berger was unconscious most of the time after the shooting and could add nothing to the earlier accounts he gave of the shooting.

Berger was found lying on the sidewalk by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hutzell early Sunday, after they had heard a shot fired. He was carried to their home and later taken to the city hospital. Two men were seen running from the scene of the shooting.

Berger's wife, from whom he had been separated and who has been living at 110 Tenth street north, visited him at the hospital, but could give no explanation of the shooting.

LYCEUM PHARMACY WILL SELL COUGH MEDICINE AT HALF PRICE

A GOOD CHANCE TO ECONOMIZE

The public will be given a chance to economize on their cough medicine today and tomorrow, as Lyceum Pharmacy will sell a 50c bottle of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant for 25c to the first 100 who apply at their store, but only one bottle to each family. The proprietor is losing money on every bottle sold at this price, but has decided to make this reduction, so as to give those who have not yet used this excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, at partially his expense, as he knows that no other medicine will be used by anyone who has once tried it. Those who have not already used this remedy are thus afforded an opportunity of trying it for half price and can obtain a bottle for 25c today or tomorrow, by presenting the coupon below at Lyceum Pharmacy. Even though not in need of such a medicine at present, it will pay to obtain a bottle now at half price, as no doubt someone in the family will require it before the winter is over, but will not have another chance of buying for less than full price, 50c This new, simple, pleasant remedy is also guaranteed to relieve the worst Cough or Cold, and is excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough and Hoarseness.

One bottle makes a full pint (16 ounces) by simply mixing it at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. It makes a whole family supply, and as much as would ordinarily cost from $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of the ordinary, old-fashioned, ready-made kinds of Cough Syrup of doubtful merit. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants and is so pleasant that children like to take it and it can be given them with perfect safety, as it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic, as do most cough mixtures. Besides, absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy as Lyceum Pharmacy will refund your 25c if it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the very best remedy ever used for any of the above complaints. Persons calling after these 100 bottles are sold or living out of the city, where it cannot be obtained of a local druggist will not be disappointed but will be sent a bottle, postpaid, upon receipt of the coupon and 25c, providing they write to the proprietor today. Address F. J. Schiffmann, 205 West Sixth street, St. Paul, Minn.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 1.

GRAND OPERA PRIMA DONNA HEARD AT PRIVATE MUSICALE

ESTHER OSBORNE.

Miss Esther Osborne, who returned to Minneapolis today after a short visit with Mrs. Sidney McPhail of 1525 Jefferson street, and Mrs. W. W. J. Croze of 114 Seventh avenue east, came last summer from Europe for a visit to relatives and was prevented by the war from filling engagements in Hamburg, Berlin and at the Royal opera in Stockholm this season.

Miss Osborne has thirty-five roles and created "The Butterfly" that had the greatest run of any opera that has been given in Stockholm. She has sung many times at diplomatic affairs and at the palace in that city.

Miss Osborne received her musical education in New York and Berlin. She has spent ten years abroad, studying and appearing in operas. Her American appearances have included solo engagements with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. She is now engaged in concert work and recital and teaches in Minneapolis. It is her intention to spend one day each week in Duluth. She will fill a number of concert engagements in Illinois this month.

Mrs. Croze entertained at an informal musicale last evening in honor of Miss Osborne who gave a group of French songs by George Hue, two numbers by the Swedish composer, Jearsealt, an aria from "Tosca" and several German songs. Her accompaniments were played by Miss Theresa Lynn. The guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames—
Spencer Rumsey, Ernest Lachmund, W. H. Magle, C. A. Marshall, Sidney McPhail, John Uno Sebenius, James Madden, A. E. McManus, O. W. Johnstone.

Leo Schmied, Gordon Steele, M. Morrow of Chicago, E. Mordacai of New York, R. S. Patrick.

DULUTH WOMAN OUTLINES A MODEL MOTHERS' CLUB PROGRAM

According to a Minneapolis Sunday paper, Miss Katherine King of Duluth, chairman of the mothers' committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, has just sent out a model program for Mothers' clubs throughout the state. Miss King is principal of the Bryant school at the West end, and has made an enviable record there in the Mothers' club work and also in other phases of social center work. The model program, which she has submitted, has been used in the Bryant school. The Mothers' club, which holds its meetings there, is affiliated with the state federation, and is much interested in the work being done for such organizations as theirs.

Because of lack of funds in the club treasury some of the children in the school aided by making a copy of the program for each of the members, thereby saving on the expense of printing. Meetings have been held every two weeks. Once a month they are held in the evening in order to give the fathers a chance to attend.

Among the subjects that have been discussed at their meetings have been the state forestry work, temperance, travelers aid, charities and correction, work for the blind, child labor, boys' work, birds, public health and gardens. The business of the club is transacted at the day meetings.

The officers of the club are: President, Mrs. S. A. Hearn; vice presidents, Mrs. John Moir, Mrs. A. G. Wright and Mrs. E. Almquist; recording secretary, Mrs. A. D. Martin, corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. J. Mooney; treasurer, Mrs. M. J. Ness.

The committees for the year are: Program, Mrs. R. D. Matteson, Mrs. E. V. Campbell, Mrs. J. A. Schumacher and Miss King; education, Mrs. R. R. Forward, Mrs. I. W. Smith, Miss King; music, Mrs. Avoy and Mrs. F. J. Mooney; membership, Mrs. J. Ness, Mrs. M. A. Barnes and Mrs. A. Sherman.

MARY JANE'S PA.

Baldwin Players Score Hit in Charming Comedy Drama.

"It's a dandy play," seemed the verdict of Sunday's crowds at the Lyceum after witnessing the Baldwin Players' offering of "Mary Jane's Pa," a three-act comedy by Edith Ellis Baker. It is a play of intense interest—of pathos, comedy and unbroken theme. Staged in the Baldwinian manner, the scenes are splendidly executed, especially the last act, an evening scene showing four neighborhood houses alight, one of which is the home of Portia Perkins, the wife of the runaway printer-cook, Hiram Perkins.

Hiram Perkins leaves his wife twelve years before the opening curtain. His poetic soul cannot abide the introduction of children into the home, with the subsequent "domestication" of his wife. He follows the dictates, also, of wanderlust, and no country under the sun is missed in his twelve years away from his family. Meanwhile, Portia Perkins, wife and mother of two girls, moves to the other edge of her native state, Indiana, and there, in a small town, starts a newspaper, called the Clarion. Politics intrudes into the little publication, and Portia soon finds herself devoted, with her newspaper, to the defeat at the primaries of one Joel Skinner, the rich man of the town, and a crooked politician. She takes the side of Rome Preston, a lawyer, who is in love with Portia and has been for eight years.

Then the husband, Hiram Perkins, comes back. Neighborhood talk grows from suspicious suggestion to downright accusation against Portia, who has, to keep her husband home, hired him as a menial. Meanwhile she has discovered that Hiram really loves his two daughters, and she declares that "what God hath joined together, no man can wholly put asunder." Hiram then convinces her that he loves her, and she unmistakably loves him.

There is another love affair in the play—that of a young barnstorming actor, who woos Portia's eldest daughter.

Homer Barton has a part this week requiring the memorizing of a lot of high-flown quotation, philosophical utterance and unctuous observation. Yet he does it without a hitch. If there is any criticism of Mr. Barton's work this week, it is that he does not make his growing love for his wife and children apparent enough.

Louis Leon Hall, as Rome Preston, the lawyer, and a candidate for state representative, makes a fine type of man—honest in his principles, and especially honest in his regard for the so-called widow, Portia.

Walter Baldwin takes the part of the young actor who comes with his love for Portia's eldest daughter, Lucille. Baldwin makes an acceptable and likable lover this week, and Lucille, taken by Miss Margaret Lotus, gives that capable lady an opportunity that she fulfills gratifyingly.

De Stefani is the bitter old party, wealthy, but a crook in politics, and therefore opposed by Portia Perkins' "Clarion."

Again little Muriel Cole is seen in Duluth, this time as Mary Jane. This child is well known here, and well liked. She is every little inch an actress of the child sort, and her work is excellent.

Helen Keers seems destined always to be cast in the part of a fussy, meddlesome, gossiping, wrong-righting female. And justly so—there are few who can do this line of acting better.

Fay Baker, with a hysterical regard for the opposite sex, takes the part of Ivy Wilcox, a young person who is scandalized and tells it—with the ever-present proviso that "you won't tell."

Al Smith, as Eugene Merryfield, the compositor at the Clarion, and Marshall Hains, the "devil" at the shop, do well. William Donovan takes the part of Star Skinner, the "catch" of the village, with good effect, and William Mortimer wears a heavy fur coat that has been intrusted to him by a traveling man, and which he fears to take off because of possible lung fever. He is the bus driver, also the Clarion's society editor. Chester McLeod plays the village yap.

There is a lot of the pastoral in the play, although it does not smack of the threadbare themes of "Way Down East," etc. There is the scene showing the interior of Portia's home, and while it has the cozy comforts of old-fashioned homes, with the canary bird hanging in the window, there is nothing of the "rube" setting to it. Then the printing office, with its "turtle" and two presses, its "forms" and type-boxes, are correct. Some of it came from The Herald.

The last setting is the best, and includes a scene wherein Murial Cole, or Mary Jane, leaves her father sitting on the porch steps and enters the house. Through a lighted window she can be seen kissing her mother, (Miss Shoemaker), good night.

Miss Shoemaker, as Portia Perkins, adds this week to her previous fine record here. She adds also her sympathetic mannerisms that give her the proper "mother" spirit toward her daughters, and her control of her children and her home are admirably portrayed.

"The Village Orchestra," played by the Lyceum orchestra this week, made a decided hit with the audience. The piece is designed to show just how "bum" a country band can be after one year's practice on the "old favorites."

A handsome bouquet of pink roses went over the footlights during the second act. Just who they were for was scarcely made apparent, but it was learned that they were for Marshall Haines, a high school boy who has a small part and does it well. The flowers came from his friends in the Lambs' club.

Next week will see the Baldwins in a most pretentious production of "The Lion and the Mouse." This is carded as a benefit for the Loyal Order of Moose.

TWO HEADLINERS ON BILL.

Pauline and Lamberti Score Big Success at Orpheum.

Two acts share headline honors on the new bill at the Orpheum, which opened to large audiences yesterday. These are Pauline, presenting hypnotic suggestions, and Lamberti, in a high-class musical act, impersonating the great composers. The whole bill was well received and compares favorably with the best seen at that playhouse for some time.

Pauline is a man despite his stage name, and his appearance is decidedly masculine and attractive. He declares he is not a hypnotist; he simply controls the muscles of his subject, leaving him in full possession of his mental powers. In describing his act, Pauline declared that his work was scientific, that it was used in many hospitals, and his "modest" recommendation for himself was that he would be spoken of 100 years from now as the discoverer of a scientific truth hitherto unknown. Part of his act he described as "nonsensical nonsense;" the remainder scientific.

Taking eighteen young men from the audience, Pauline made an address, short and to the point. His first act was to get every one of his subjects under his control, and then he continued by "making monkeys" of them all. His most remarkable feat was causing the blood to leave the arm and hand of one of his subjects so that the member became as white as chalk. With a single command the subject's arm relaxed and the blood returned to the arm and hand.

During the humorous part of his act, he put all his subjects under his control, telling them that there were a number of "spinning mice" on the floor. The efforts of the eighteen young men to keep the mice from crawling up their trousers' legs caused roars of laughter. While they were performing these antics, he commanded them all to become rigid instantly, and they were left standing in the most ridiculous positions imagineable. Many other humorous stunts were done with remarkably good success.

Lamberti proved himself a musician and impersonator of marked talent. His remarkable versatility in playing on various instruments and his faithful portrayal of the composers' manful mannerisms and appearance brought him unstinted applause. On the violin he impersonated Strauss; on the piano, Paderewski and Liszt; on the cello, Hollman, and he closed his act with a dramatic impersonation of Svengali in the closing scene from "Trilby," which was considered by many to be the best of his program. In this number he was assisted by a young woman who sang "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt" very effectively.

Mindell Kingston and George Ebner, in "A Vaudeville Flirtation," are light entertainers of no mean ability. Chatter, songs, dances and some clever impersonations by Ebner make up an intertaining program. Miss Kingston appears in several handsome gowns, which add considerably to her attractiveness.

Evelyn Dooley did a variety of clever turns that were heartily enjoyed. Mr. Dooley's clever bit of entertainment was his rope swinging a la Fred Stone. His little partner, however, proved just as clever in her character singing and dancing.

Charles Prelle's miniature circus is an animal act of an original kind. The best part of the ... "The Robbing of the Overland Coach." In this, dogs were disguised as horses, and dummies took the place of Indians. The scene was quite realistic and decidedly humorous.

The Jaunts and Journeys films showed some beautiful scenes in Spain with several good humorous features. The films appeared somewhat dark however, and blurring of the scenes at times detracted from their attractiveness.

At the Grand.

Headlining the new bill opening at the popular Grand this afternoon will be the Venetian Four, vendors of harmonious music. This novelty is a string quartet, presenting a new offering, "A Night in Venice." All are exceptional musicians and render a repertoire of selections as clever as it is varied. A full complement of scenery and electrical effects is carried to lend atmosphere to the production.

Holdon and Harron offer a comedy skit, "The Messenger and the Lady" which as a laugh producer is said to stand supreme.

Park, Rome and Francis are a trio of young men who can sing well and every one is a comedian. All possess excellent voices and produce real harmony.

Siebini and Grovini offer an European novelty in artistic athletics and dancing.

Among the photo plays will be the three-reel feature, "The Sage Brush Gal." This is the second of the Vitagraph Broadway features, produced with an all-star cast. One of the Olive stories, "Olive and the Madhouse" with Mabel Trunnelle, and a comedy, "The Laundress," complete the bill.

At the Rex.

Never in the history of the photographic drama, it is claimed, has such a cast been assembled as that which appears at the Rex today and tomorrow. There are twelve principal parts and each one taken by an actor of distinction and ability and known to theater-goers in every civilized country on the globe. The cast includes Walter Hitchcock, Claire Whitney, Catherine Countiss and half a dozen other equally as well known. The star, Charles Richman, is well equipped by appearance and temperament to play the part of the self-indulgent young idler. The story of the idler deals with the mad infatuation of a young Englishman of wealth and position—for the wife of his friend. Through his knowledge of certain circumstances against her husband, he attempts to persuade her to elope with him. At this point the husband intervenes, and a denoucement ensues, startling in its dramatic intensity.

Time Changes Customs of Youth.

The old people nowadays have a way of shaking their heads and saying that the present generation of boys are not what they were fifty years ago. It is not to be expected that the young men of today would be patterned after those of a generation ago, for the circumstances that surround them are vastly different.

The statement that boys are not as they used to be, emanating from men who have lived the better part of their lives, is meant as a reflection on the youth of today. Eliminating a certain class, to whom old principles, old fashions and old ways of doing everything will always appeal as the best way, we still have a large class who feel that the young man of today is not worth his salt as compared to the boy of their boyhood.

One old man complained to me that the young man of today had an entirely erroneous idea of making what he termed an honest living, of giving an honest dollar's worth of work for a dollar, and that he was all bent on getting rich too quickly, no matter how the object was achieved. This man asked, "Where will you find one of your modern young men who will contribute toward the support of a family or who does not think it all right to spend practically all of his wages for what he calls pocket money?"

I know myself that young men, and indeed all young people, foolishly spend money that might better be saved against the time that money is not earned so easily, and perhaps not at all. I do not believe, however, that the young men are responsible for the "get-rich-quick" idea of doing business, or many of the false principles that are said to infest the business world of today. 'Tis of older growth than a brief twenty or thirty years, and had its beginning back in the days when our fathers and grandfathers were young.

The young men in business life today take things as they find them and follow in the paths that have been prepared for them. And if they would become very successful and rich, they must work out some scheme to beat the others at what is probably a very dishonest transaction from the standpoints of fifty years ago. And what those of fifty years ago were to those going back a hundred years or so, you must raise the dead to determine. If the young man has changed so also have his example and the times.

THE WATER REPORT.

It is gratifying to learn that the predictions of the water and light department officials that the new rates would not result in any loss of revenue have been verified by the first year of operation under those rates. Much doubt was expressed on that point when the change was made, and the 1914 report of the water and light department as submitted to Commissioner Merritt by Manager Reed shows that there was really an increase of 7.4 per cent in the gross earnings of the department as compared with those of 1913. This also has brought a net surplus of $98,796.46, "after allowing for all expenses, including interest on bonds."

Of the six per cent decrease in the total pumpage, it is explained that while it is due in part to the fact that increasing the water rates to large consumers drove some of them from the list of city plant patrons, and that the wet season caused a decrease in the amount used for sprinkling lawns, the greatest factor is believed to have been the efforts of the department to stop leaks.

In spite of assertions some months ago that such work was not necessary, it now appears that seventeen hundred feet of the present force main has been duplicated during the year, and that another section has been "by-passed." Work of this character is necessarily expensive, and the city is to be congratulated on the assurance of Manager Reed that no more of it will be necessary for some years.

Less comprehensible is the difference in the statements that while the present reservoir capacity is "sufficient to supply the city continuously for four days, a period of time largely in excess of what would be necessary to make any possible repairs that can be imagined," it is advisable that the city build a new and large reservoir which can be drawn upon, among other reasons, "in case of possible interruption of the supply."

If we can keep this $98,796.46 net surplus intact, add an equal amount every year and keep it all out at four per cent interest, says the report, the water and light department will be able to pay off all it now owes in twenty-three years. This is nothing more than the establishment and maintenance of a sinking fund, and the necessity of such a fund has been urged upon the department more or less forcibly ever since it was established.

In this connection it is interesting to note the condition of the water department of Topeka, Kan., which a few years ago took over the water plant as a municipal property. According to the Topeka Capital, that city has never issued a dollar's worth of bonds for additions, extensions, repairs or upkeep of the plant, but has paid for all these out of the revenues from service, although the rates were reduced when the city took it over. Besides this, there is now a sinking fund of $270,000 which is drawing 4½ per cent interest for the city, and which by the time the bonds are payable, will be sufficient to retire them all. And the department is planning now on a further reduction in rates.

And don't forget to watch for the ground hog tomorrow.

GARBAGE COLLECTION AND SEWAGE.

Once more the question of garbage collection and disposal is before the city in the form of official reports, and once more the city seems to be little if any farther advanced toward adequate activities along that line than it was a twelve-month before.

We have a system, to be sure, but it is admittedly inadequate and never was represented to be anything else. And we have an incinerator, which is declared in the official report to be incapable of doing the necessary work. And as has been the case before, we have no great prospects of any great improvements at present.

Whether the officials and the people realize it or not, this question of the collection and disposal of garbage is something that is going to come home to Duluth with tremendous force one of these days, and with it is coming the sewage proposition. Every few months some report comes from Washington of preparations on the part of the Federal government to compel cities on the Great Lakes to find some other means of sewage disposal than emptying it into the lakes. Thus far Duluth has done nothing to prepare for the issuance of such an order. Suppose Washington gave notice tomorrow that this old practice must be done away with inside of six months—what would Duluth do?

Garbage and sewage both present problems closely identified with the public health. At great expense and trouble, Duluth has protected her people's health so far as that can be done in the furnishing of a water supply. But we cannot rest there. We must take up these other questions, and the sooner they are solved, the better it will be.

If this half year of the war is to be branded unsuccessful, how many men will they have to kill off in the next half year to make that a success?

IF UNCLE SAM OWNED THE SHIPS.

Another thing to be considered in connection with the ship purchase bill is the attitude of England and other warring nations on this question of interference with commerce between neutral countries. England thus far has insisted on the right to stop and search vessels which her commanders suspected of carrying contraband. This difficulty could be done away with in the case of government-owned steamers.

In the first place, it is one thing to delay or divert ships belonging to citizens of another country, but quite another thing to delay or divert ships belonging to the government of that country.

In the second place, there would be no such excuse possible as has been given for stopping privately owned vessels. It has been charged that contraband has been concealed in the cargoes of merchant vessels. This is to the shame of American shippers, but there is no sure means of preventing it at present. But if the government owned the ships and had supervision of loading them, it would then be possible for the government to guarantee the character of the cargo, and thus avoid the unpleasantness that cannot be avoided as long as American shippers supply dishonest statements of the cargoes of privately owned ships.

Some of the Republicans in congress have been maintaining that for the government to adopt this ship purchase proposition would be to "invite war." The truth is that it would be more likely to smooth over difficulties that already have appeared.

"Character is shown in the face," says a pastor. And in the case of the small boy it is often some other kid's character that is depicted there.

THE DACIA AND OTHERS.

Of course the whole question of the freedom from seizure of the steamer Dacia, which sailed yesterday from Galveston for Rotterdam with a cargo of cotton destined for Germany, and other vessels is generally regarded as resting on the precedents of international law. For this reason it is the more interesting to find that in his book "The Command of the Sea," written in 1894, Spenser Wilkinson of Oxford university wrote forcibly to support his proposition that England must have sufficient warships to protect her merchant ships. In proof of this necessity, he said:

> The first consequence (of war) must be a wholesale tying up of British ships, and extensive sale of them to neutrals, and the transfer of much of the carrying trade to neutral vessels.

Prof. Wilkinson is regarded in England as an authority on naval subjects and maritime law, and in his book he lays down exactly the proposition that led to the purchase of the Dacia, and that would apply to the purchase of German ships under the proposed ship purchase bill. Is the rule otherwise when applied to English ships than when applied to the craft of other nations in the same circumstances?

It is claimed that, by enrolling under American registry, many German vessels would escape capture that is almost certain if they remain under the German flag. Inasmuch as these ships, if they remain under the German flag, will also remain in neutral ports during the rest of the war, and so never be liable to capture, it is difficult to see how English war vessels would be deprived of legitimate prey by the transfer of these ships to American registry.

As a matter of fact, the result of taking a case like that of the Dacia before a prize court would not necessarily be the loss of the vessel to American shipping. There is plenty of authority for a determination favorable to American owners, and it would be an invaluable gain for all neutrals to have the question once formally settled in that way.

To be added to the world's collection of unsolvable puzzles is the question as to what the Republicans think they will gain by the senate fight on the ship bill.

The Steel Corporation's Past and Future

Editorial in New York Times.

The lowest earnings in any quarter of the existence of the Steel corporation, and the passing of its common dividend have moral and political significance surpassing the considerable financial importance which generally takes first place in the consideration of the incident. The idea that bigness of nominal capital gives bigness of power is shown to be no truer in the case of industrials than it is of railways, as had already been demonstrated in a list of collapses too long to be catalogued. The billion dollar corporation and the huge railway combinations acquired no power to oppress anybody or extort anything. At no time have the Steel trust's prices for its goods reached the height attained before its organization. Never were wages so high as it has paid. Never has the tone of the trade been better than under the rule of the enlightened management.

In like manner the overcapitalization of railways has given no power to underpay labor or to raise rates charged to shippers. Railways and industrials alike have failed to earn their dividends, which are seen to depend upon service rendered alone. It is interpreted as a sign of their failure. It is rather a failure of the campaign against them, based upon wrong ideas of their evil powers and of the merits of dissolving them. It is now clear that the promise of benefits to follow the correction of evils attributed to them cannot be redeemed. Wages will not be raised. Prices will not be reduced, either by industrials or by railways, unless wages are reduced. If the regulation of industrials by voluntary combination fails as completely as the ever-downward regulation of railway rates by commission has just failed, under the irresistible control of public opinion, the result will be both lower wages and scarcity prices for steel products when prosperity returns. The political prophets and the prosperity producers have failed rather than the Steel trust's philosophy.

It is true that the demonstration is not complete. It stopped just short of the capstone in the case of the railways. It may still be stopped short of completion in the case of the industrials. As in the case of the railways, the decision lies with the people. They have been taught, and they allowed themselves to believe that those who did not know would and could produce by law better conditions than the captains of industry had produced. We are at the beginning of the era which was to surpass in its blessings the decade which had been a carnival of financial wickedness. There are depression and distress, but it would be a mistake to exaggerate them. The work of the organizers has not been undone altogether. The country has only stumbled. It is not prostrate. It is preposterous to suggest that enterprise is dead, and cannot be revived. The only question is whether it can be revived better by going ahead or by reaction.

In short, the era of the wise and prudent is at hand, after the delirium of the dreamers of wealth and givers of blessings with other people's taxes. These ought to be self-evident truths. The painful demonstration ought to have been unnecessary. But the folly of the financiers who held that we were in a new era when the old truths did not count had to be succeeded by the folly of those who fancied that there was no reason for the want which they would remedy by votes and laws. These errors complemented each other. At the time of its greatest embarrassment it is no more than truth to say of the Steel corporation that it has been a greater success than was dreamed at its organization. That is true in both a moral and a financial sense. And yet its future has greater capacities of moral and financial accomplishment than any yet realized.

Jitney Busses

Fresno, Cal., Herald: The so-called jitney bus, which in ever-increasing numbers is plying the streets of Fresno, Oakland, San Francisco and Los Angeles in competition with traction companies, is not at all a local condition peculiar to California. The development of the motor car as a means of rapid transit has brought it into competition with the street railway in almost every city of the country.

The operation of motor cars as public conveyances has been brought about by two things. First of all the advent of low priced cars, making possible moderate first cost and low upkeep so that they may be operated at a profit where the fare is 5 cents a ride. And second, the growing complexity of cities, making it highly difficult for street railway lines to serve the public either in point of territory penetrated by their lines or of rapidity and convenience in handling passengers.

It is not possible except by a constant increasing reinvestment of funds for a traction company to keep pace in building extensions with the growth and new demands for service made upon it by the average go-ahead American city. The obtaining of new franchise rights for new streets, the heavy expenses for the building of new pieces of road, additional cost of new equipment, including cars, steel rails, poles, wire, power and labor, make it ever increasingly difficult for traction lines to keep the pace.

A Harriman or a Morgan probably would solve the problem by going into the jitney bus business himself. They would thus eliminate competition and conserve every nickel collected for their own use. It is conceivable that in time in some communities they might even make the operation of street cars of secondary importance to the furnishing of motor car service. And thus not only collect more nickels than formerly, but reduce expenses as well.

The advent of the motor car as a passenger carrying vehicle is the logical outgrowth of development and progress in America. It is here to stay and must be reckoned with.

Motorcycle on Perpendicular Wall.

Popular Mechanics Magazine: Going at a speed of from 75 to 85 miles an hour, a motorcyclist succeeded in driving his machine around the perpendicular wall at the top of a motordrome. This is a regular amusement park feat for motor cars, but is seldom attempted with a motorcycle, since the machine must be driven at terrific speed and must stand out almost horizontally from the wall. It is a good example of the power of centrifugal force, as well as of the skill and nerve of the driver.

Mail Order Revelation.

Bates News in the Waldron, Ark., Advance Reporter: A Certain fellow who does not live at Bates came to the postoffice here not long ago to purchase a postoffice money order. Mr. Greathouse said to him: "For how much?" To which the fellow replied: "A gallon."

Tricks In the Trade of Being a Mother

Sidonie Matzner Gruenberg, in the New York Tribune.

A mother who lost too much of her sleep by being awakened very early in the morning—by her over-energetic little boy found relief in a dollar watch. Sidney merely had to be taught the game of watching the hands go round in the morning until the long finger pointed up to the handle, and the short one to that particular spot—and he had to keep perfectly quiet until it was 7 o'clock. This worked like a charm and the gain was not only in the mother's health, but also in the child's happiness as a consequence.

We all like to hear of these successful experiments, but they are not to be tried without forethought. The danger is that we shall try to copy the tricks of others, instead of studying the child and the special situation for the purpose of applying our own ingenuity in overcoming a difficulty. If a particular trick works, it does so not because it applies a universal principle; in most cases it works because it fits the particular conditions.

The little girl whose fear of the dark was dispelled by a little pocket flashlight with which she could chase away the darkness at will could, no doubt, have been cured in some other way. And likely enough the flashlight will be of help to many a mother in similar circumstances. But this trick is neither uniformly effective with all children, nor is it in any way a standard method for overcoming fear of darkness.

A mother had great difficulty with her two boys, who quarreled in the morning when they should have been dressing themselves. The fighting resulted in no serious damage, but the delay in getting the day started was a serious inconvenience. There were scoldings and punishments and threats of worse. There were offers of rewards and entreaties, but all to no purpose.

The boys would quarrel and there seemed to be no way to stop them. It took a stranger to make the simple suggestion that the children be separated immediately upon awakening. Each by himself was quite capable of completing his morning task with neatness and dispatch; it was always the presence of the other that started the trouble. After two or three weeks they had learned to dress themselves without being distracted, and they could then be together again without trouble.

Another mother was worried about a boy who was so absent-minded reviewing the day's experiences that his undressing after supper was almost a torture. He was too old to be undressed by someone else, but he was evidently too young to do it himself in a reasonable length of time. The problem here was solved by making a game of the undressing operations, a watch being used to time the removal of each garment in seconds. The boy took so much interest in making a record for himself and in keeping it up that he soon learned to undress himself completely in less than three and a half minutes. When he had the habit no further help was needed.

The Devil's Bait

Kansas City Star: John Bunyan, the thinker-preacher, was leaving his church one Sunday when a friend thanked him for his sweet discourse. Bunyan replied:

"Ah, you need not remind me of that; for the devil told me of it before I was out of the pulpit."

Whenever the success of his sermons tempted him to pride and vanity he remembered what St. Paul had said to the talkative Corinthians:

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

Tolstoi said that war was the result of the vanity of nations. But almost 300 years before Tolstoi lived John Bunyan said the same thing in another way. In "Pilgrim's Progress" he takes Christian, the Pilgrim, along a way beset of many temptations and dangers. One of those was Vanity Fair in the town of Vanity, and among the things exhibited there were the vanities of the nations: "The Britain row, the French row, the Italian row, the Spanish row, the German row"—a row, or booth for each nation. And in not one of them could the truth be had.

Count Leo Tolstoi, writing of the defense of Sebastopol, in which he took a part, asserted that vanity was at the bottom of that terrible war.

"Vanity, vanity, nothing but vanity! Even in the presence of death, and among men ready to die for an exalted idea. Is not vanity the characteristic trait, the destructive ill of our age? Why has this weakness not been recognized hitherto, just as smallpox or cholera been recognized?"

In the present dreadful war we see many evidences of the truth of the statements of Bunyan and Tolstoi that vanity is one of the factors that urge nations and men to dare war and death.

The emblems that nations take are the expressions of vanity, the Russian bear, "master of the forests;" the German eagles, "monarchs of the air;" the British lion, "king of beasts," and jealousy and envy, which are parts of vanity, set them flying at each other with tooth and claw and beak.

The French Zouaves, vain of their scarlet caps and trousers, for a long time, at least, refused to discard them even when it was shown that the red upon the landscape helped the German gunners to get their range and pick them off.

Sir James Willocks, leading the East Indian troops to the firing line, halts them a moment to appeal to their vanity:

"The eyes of your countrymen are on you," he says to them. "From the Himalayan mountains, the banks of the Ganges and Indus and the plains of Hindustan, they are eagerly waiting for news of how their brethren conduct themselves when they meet the foe."

In other words: "Wade in and slaughter them so you can boast of it afterward."

What are the trappings of war but evidences of vanity? The band plays "Britannia Rules the Waves," and all the British empire swells with vanity. It plays: "Deutschland Ueber Alles," ("Germany Above All") and the whole Fatherland puffs its cheeks in pride.

Bunyan preached that the devil's best bait was vanity.

It is so in the case of nations. It is so in the case of individuals.

St. Paul knew it and preached often of the virtues of "charity," meaning "love" and consideration of the rights of others, and everything that vanity is not. He said:

"Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up."

Less vanity and a little more charity among the nations of Europe and the war would never have been.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—If a man knew just a few hours in advance what the United States supreme court is going to decide in an important case, he might invest a small capital in stock margins and clean up a fortune.

All that prevents a man from doing this is the fact that he does not know the decision in advance.

One of the noteworthy things about the supreme court is that through all the years it has been in operation not more than three or four decisions have got out through a leak.

That few leaks have occurred indicates a number of things. One is that the young men who have served as secretaries to the nine justices have been persons of a high degree of fidelity. Another is that the justices are not only learned in the law, but are human enough to know human nature else they could not have picked so many temptation-proof secretaries. To be secretary to a supreme court justice one should have an ethical code that is 100 per cent efficient. Some times it is difficult to select the man that has just that equipment.

Another possible leak would be at the printing establishment where the supreme court decisions are placed in type preparatory to making them public. This work is not done at the government printing office but at a private plant, and at the same plant ever since printed decisions became the rule. So carefully and cautiously is the work handled that never once has suspicion been directed against this printshop.

The last supreme court decision supposed to have got out ahead of schedule was that in the famous Northern Securities case. At that time a justice's secretary was under suspicion.

About the only other leaks that have occurred in the history of the supreme court were back in the Cleveland administration. One was the decision on the constitutionality of the income tax law. Then there was the case of the city of Chicago against the Illinois Central railroad to determine the ownership of certain valuable lake front property. The story of that decision is interesting.

Employed in a Washington stock broker's office in that day was a young man now a prominent financier in the national capital. His job was to write the stock quotations on the blackboard. A friend of his was secretary to one of the supreme court justices. One night the two were going out together to some place, and the secretary was late keeping his appointment. He explained that he was kept late doing some work on some supreme court decisions soon to be handed down. This led to conversation about cases to be decided, and the secretary remarked that the city of Chicago would win the suit.

The next day, when the young broker's apprentice was writing down the quotations, he came to the figures on Illinois Central stock.

Turning to a customer standing beside him, he remarked:

"I don't suppose that stock will be quite so valuable after the supreme court decision is handed down."

The customer began to question him as to what he knew, and did not try to conceal that he was keenly interested, for he owned a lot of Illinois Central stock. After satisfying himself that he had picked up a tip he could rely on, the customer began to sell his Illinois Central holdings.

The morning after that a New York paper had the full text of what purported to be the supreme court opinion in the Illinois Central case, and instead of being against the railroad it was in the road's favor. As it came out in due course, the text of the decision was bona fide, but unfortunately for the paper it was only a dissenting opinion.

Naturally the man who had sold most of his Illinois Central stock was greatly excited and went to the broker's young man to ask if he had been made the victim of a joke. The broker's young man insisted that the paper must be mistaken and promised to ask his secretary friend about the case again to make sure.

Meanwhile the price of the stock had gone up, for there were many buyers. When the man had received the tip from the broker's employe and disposed of the rest of his stock he did so at a figure that netted him thousands of dollars' profit.

One day recently the broker's young man, now a financier, was telling the story, and when he had finished a friend asked him:

"What did you get out of it? Did the man ever settle a fortune on you for your tip?"

"No," replied the financier, "he didn't do that, but he handed me the first 25-cent cigar I ever smoked."

And there was another angle to the story. The correspondent for one of the Chicago papers saw the report in the New York paper that the Illinois Central case would be decided in favor of the railroad. He learned that Associate Justice Field would probably read the decision. So he went up to Justice Field's house on some pretext and remarked to him:

"I see one of the New York papers has the full text of the decision in which the Illinois Central wins that lake front case."

Field was an impulsive man and his nervous system, because of ill health, was easily wrought up. So before he realized what he was saying he exclaimed:

"Does the paper say that? Well, they're going to be beautifully fooled!"

So the correspondent felt justified in announcing in his paper that the railroad would lose its case. And thus the people of Chicago knew what the decision would be some days before it was handed down by the supreme court.

Chinese Locks.

Wide World Magazine: The earliest locks known to man were of Chinese make. Although it is impossible to tell the exact date of those still extant, they are wonderfully well made, and as strong as any manufactured in Europe up to the middle of the Eighteenth century. The Chinese locksmith of today uses exactly the same kind of tools that his forefathers had, for they are very simple and primitive. He carries all his impedimenta in two cabinets, sitting on one and working at the other. When he has finished all the work available in one neighborhood he fastens the two cabinets to a bamboo rod and slings it over his shoulder. He tramps through the towns burdened in this way, and stops when he is called, much as a scissors grinder or umbrella mender does in our country.

The Epitaph Misinterpreted.

Boston Transcript: A neighbor's little daughter, after looking for some time at Shakespeare's epitaph, which hung over the professor's fireplace, ran home.

"Oh, mamma!" she said, "the B——s have the strangest sign in their living room. It says, 'For God's sake don't disturb the dust.'"

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Craig a Leader.

Aurora News: C. P. Craig of Duluth has been elected head of the state fair society and Duluth is to be congratulated. He is one of the leading advocates of agriculture in the state.

Dangerous!

Bemidji Sentinel: Senator Jones of Duluth has introduced a bill providing baths for lumberjacks in every camp. Aw, whatta trying to do Jones, scaro 'em away?

No Better Place.

Virginia Virginian: Duluth would like to entertain the members of the Northern Minnesota Editorial association this summer. Duluth can offer all kinds of entertainments and we don't know of any place where the scribes would have a better time.

Gives Deserved Praise.

Red Wing Republican: The Duluth Evening Herald, the live Democratic paper at the Head of the Lakes, sizes up Governor Hammond's appointments and praises the new executive for the good judgment he has shown up to date in naming men for important positions. While Mr. Hammond's appointments, with some exceptions, have been very political in their nature, he has not lost sight of qualifications in the men named nor the good of the public service. He has used a level head and is likely so to continue. Mr. Hammond's success the next two years will determine his future and he will endeavor to give the state a good, practical business administration.

Herald on the Right Track.

Holt Advertiser: The Duluth Herald is on the right track in its campaign for reducing legislative expense, but merely shortening the session will not cure the evils of over-legislation. The only and proper way to remedy the matter is to have the legislature meet to adopt or reject laws that have already been discussed and demanded by the public, or a considerable portion of it. Our experience with short extra sessions should give the cue in this matter. The special session of 1912 was the most valuable this state ever had. Also when the legislative body meets to pass the budget, no other matter should be considered.

The Educational System.

St. Cloud Journal Press: The legislative correspondent of the Duluth Herald points out that the strongest objection to the adoption of the plan of the efficiency and economy commission to reorganize the state departments, comes from the friends of the educational institutions—and with some show of reason. Minnesota in educational work stands near the head, with its great university, its efficient normal schools, and its public schools. The regents of the university and the normal school board, composed of some of the ablest and most patriotic men of the state, serve without pay, and are in close touch with public sentiment. To change the system would be an experiment, at best.

Victory for Capable Man.

Rush City Post: Unanimous election of Charles P. Craig of Duluth as president of the State Agricultural society after a spirited session, in which much bitterness was engendered, was a signal victory to a capable man who has given energetic service to the building up of the state fair, besides an honor to Duluth and a portion of the state which is entitled to the recognition.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer.

There is another kind of silence to be cultivated, besides that of the tongue as regards others. I mean silence as regards one's self,—restraining the imagination, not permitting it to dwell overmuch on what we have heard or said, not indulging in the phantasmagoria of picture-thoughts, whether of the past or future. Be sure that you have made no small progress in the spiritual life, when you can control your imagination, so as to fix it on the duty and occupation actually existing, to the exclusion of the crowd of thoughts which are perpetually sweeping across the mind. No doubt, you cannot prevent these thoughts from arising, but you can prevent yourself from dwelling on them; you can put them aside, you can check the self-complacency, or irritation, or earthly longings which feed them, and by the practice of such control of your thoughts you will attain that spirit of inward silence which draws the soul into a close intercourse with God.—Jean N. Grou.

The thoughts that in our hearts keep place,
Lord, make a holy, heavenly throng,
And steep in innocence and grace
The issue of each guarded tongue.
T. H. Gill.

O, silence deep and strange!
The earth doth yet in quiet slumber lie,
No stir of life, safe on yon woodland range,
The tall trees bow as if their Lord passed by.

Like to one new-create,
I have no memory of grief and care
Of all the things which vexed my soul of late
I am ashamed in this calm morning air.

This world, with all its band
Of clamorous joys and griefs, shall be to me
A bridge whereon, my pilgrim-staff in hand,
I cross the stream of Time, O Lord to Thee.

Every Man at His Post

The Outlook: Courage is the universal possession of the German, the Englishman, the Frenchman, the Belgian, the Austrian, the Russian and the Japanese. The stories of individual coolness and daring are so many that they have almost ceased to attract special attention. The other day, when the British dreadnaught Formidable went down in a storm, crushed like an egg shell by torpedoes or mines, its captain—Loxley—was on the bridge as it sank; and his last words were: "Steady men; it's all right; keep cool; do not get in a panic; be British." Every officer was at his post; many of them had lighted cigarettes. This stirring exhibition of the fact that the man does not die when his body falls in the trenches or sinks in the ocean can be matched in every navy and army. All Europe is fighting for invisible things. There never was such universal and commanding evidence that the soul of humanity is supreme and invincible.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Governor Nelson resigned yesterday because of his election to the United States senate, and Lieutenant Governor David M. Clough was sworn in by Chief Justice Start as governor of Minnesota. President Frank A. Day, senator from Martin county, became lieutenant governor. Tams Bixby remains as private secretary to the governor and William H. Angell as executive clerk.

H. B. Adams has been appointed dairy and food commissioner of Wisconsin. It was supposed Halford Erickson of West Superior, now in the state treasurer's office, was slated for the place.

The North German Lloyds steamship Elbe has been sunk in the North sea by a collision with the steamship Crathie and 374 of the passengers and crew have perished.

Mrs. Alexander Stewart of West Duluth is suffering from a broken arm, the result of a fall while skating.

At a meeting in the parlors of the Congregational church last night the Duluth Civic association, the object of which is the discussion of municipal government with especial reference to local matters, was organized with the following officers: J. D. Ensign, president; Mrs. Susan Bangs, secretary; W. S. Woodbridge, treasurer; L. J. Hopkins, S. D. Allen, Z. D. Scott, E. R. Cobb and Mrs. Ida Thompson, directors.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 26 deg. below zero; maximum yesterday, 4 deg. above zero; minimum yesterday, 15 deg. below zero.

The last appointments made by Governor Nelson, previous to resigning the governorship, were those of William Getty of Duluth as surveyor general of logs and lumber in the Fifth lumber district, to succeed George F. Ash, and Lewis A. Larson of Duluth as inspector of steam boilers in the Fifth district, to succeed W. D. Tomlin.

Miss Jester left yesterday for Atlanta, Ga., to visit several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Webber have gone South for the benefit of Mrs. Webber's health.

John Maginnis is back from Red Wing, where he went to attend the funeral of his wife's mother, Mrs. C. C. Graham, who settled in Minnesota early in the '50s.

W. W. Broughton, general freight agent of the St. Paul & Duluth road, was in the city yesterday.

There was an exciting scene in the house of representatives at Washington this afternoon when Representative W. C. P. Breckinridge of Kentucky struck a blow at Representative Heard of Missouri, after each had called the other "liar." Both were arrested by the speaker's order and forced to apologize to the house.

A $50,000 Job Goes Begging.

Leo Feist in the New York Sun: There is a $50,000 a year job going begging in my music publishing house. The job is there, and any man, woman or child may have it who can make good. It is not necessary to be able to compose music, write lyrics or even to read music. All I want is someone capable of selecting from the mass of song manuscripts submitted to us or turned out by us twelve that will prove sure fire hits.

This seems rather too easy, to pick out only one popular song a month and be paid $50,000 a year for doing it, but I assure you I will gladly pay that amount if I can find a person who can select twelve songs a year from our unpublished manuscript and say "These will all become popular songs."

Furthermore, I do not believe anyone can do it. Yet I wish it could be done. By paying $50,000 a year for such work I would be saving about $200,000. At least, that much money is spent by us every year in trying to popularize songs.

There is something uncanny about popular songs. There is ten times the element of chance in a song as in a play, and no dramatic producer lives who can pick a success. I have spent thousands trying to make some songs popular, only to have them fall flat. Other songs I have cast aside as worthless after getting out a few professional copies, only to have them become instant and big hits.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ANSWERS HIS CRITICS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The great number of dissenting opinions to my article on the sky pilot shows that I have not "gotten in wrong," "missed having the main issue of life at heart" nor "missed the point of Mr. Higgins' life and work altogether," etc.; but rather did I hit in the issue raised, the nerve center of present-day religious hypocrisy.

The personal estimation read into the article pro and con, in regard to all parties in reference, can not be gathered in any way by an intelligent reading of what was set forth, charging a philosophy of hate towards individual or class; for I have long ago learned the results of present economic arrangements cause enough of the hatred of brother for brother and class for class, society being set in a mold of economic inequality, where it is a phenomenon to find one who does to others as he would be done by. I deplore anyone should have taken my trend in that light.

The issue, as one stated, was that Mr. Higgins' life work had failed to better the lumberjack, socially, intellectually or spiritually, and was proven to be due to the fact that the lumberjack's material conditions were allowed to remain such that continually degraded rather than elevated him.

Upon this issue, the materialist basis, I am "narrow minded" enough to stand pat irrespective of any villification to the contrary, and furthermore, and to prevent charge of personalities, which by the way is no proof of a boasted broad-mindedness nor professed Christian charity—I charge the whole contingent of capitalism's retainers, that in spite of all their "good works" the laboring class of the day remains in a more abject state of enforced poverty and degradation than ever before.

Of the present day welfare workers, either religious or otherwise, very few are found that do not support a robber system that greatest all our social ills. Indeed as the Rockefeller interests—a much advertized religious concern—in Colorado now prove, we have not Christian religion but capitalist religion, which is worse than none whatever.

As to that my contention is wrong of the lumberjack laboring under degrading conditions, I ask, if not true, why so much of this proposed remedial legislation reported in the press? If it is to be a "social crank," allow me to quote from Victor Hugo's estimate of society: "What sort of society is this that has, to the extent that ours has, inequality and injustice for a basis? Such a society is fit only to be kicked out through the windows—its banquet tables, its orgies, its debaucheries, its scoundrelism, together with all those who are seated leaning on both elbows and enjoying it on the back of others whom they keep down on all fours. The hell of the poor is the paradise the rich love to solace themselves in."

ORIGIN OF SLANG.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just where all slang expressions originate from is hard to find out, but recently I was reading Virgil's "The Aeneid," where Aeneas forsakes Dido. She becomes very unhappy indeed, wails, tears her hair and finally takes her life. Wonder if "cutting up a Dido" wasn't taken from this classic? Virgil, we know, is considered one of the greatest Roman poets, having been born in the year 70 B. C. Can any one trace a slang phrase farther back than that?

PRAISE FOR SUNDAY FROM CAMPBELL COYLE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by your paper that the churches of Duluth are endeavoring to secure Billy Sunday for a series of meetings, and I sincerely hope they may succeed. Beyond question he is the greatest herald of the gospel in the world today. There are many who outrank him in eloquence and scholarship, but as a preacher of righteousness, in the new Testament sense, in my opinion he outranks them all. No man has ever stirred the multitudes as he has. He is terrible in his denunciation of sin, but sin is a terrible thing and too strong words cannot be said against it. On the other hand, he can speak, and speak with great tenderness, and melts the people to tears again and again. Pittsburg had him a year ago, and he shook the city from center to circumference, and did a world of good. His tabernacle was just a block from my church. I consider him a veritable John the Baptist. He will do your city great good, if you can secure him, and I hope you can.

CANADA AND WAR PRISONERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by this morning's paper that Canada is going to clear 2,000 or more acres of land with "war prisoners." Where does Canada get war prisoners? When has Canada had a war and with whom? Please answer. Yours truly,

L. D. CRAWFORD.

Duluth, Jan. 29.

Canada's "war prisoners" consist of Germans and Austrians, mainly reservists, who were in that country when the war broke out and who have been placed under arrest. Canada, being part of the British empire, is at war with Germany and Austria.—The Editor.

WHEN THE SCHOOL CHILDREN STRUCK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Whenever a strike is declared by some labor organization against some contractor or corporation, big space is always being given such occurrences in both daily and weekly papers.

A strike has occurred in this neighborhood of some importance, but of which the local papers will say nothing just because it did not concern a certain party or corporation.

School District No. 2, or the board thereof, has seen to it that children living outside of this city can have the privilege of attending the city schools where they can obtain a better education than the rural schools can offer. They have several covered rigs to transport these children in to and from school in this city. The party taking it upon himself to haul these rigs is supposed to use these covered rings in winter as well as in summer. Last week one of these drivers going out four miles in the country, took it upon himself to use an open rig. All went well until one day in this cold weather one of the children froze some fingers on one hand. Next morning all children riding in this rig went on strike. They refused to ride unless they could ride in the covered rig. Can you blame them? What kind of a heart has this school board and driver got that expect children from 8 to 15 years old to ride in an open rig four miles, when the thermometer registers from 15 to 30 deg. below zero. A SYMPATHIZER.

CONDITIONS IN OKLAHOMA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

You reply to mine stating your disbelief in the articles contained in the Appeal to Reason regarding the cotton situation in Oklahoma. I know it is hard to believe that such conditions exist in this "land of liberty and freedom and home of the brave," etc., who is doing so much to help the Belgians and overlooking such disgraceful conditions right at home. It sure is hard to believe, but it is a case of "truth is stranger than fiction" and if it was not so, this paper would be put out of business for printing lies, and if you don't believe it, it is because you don't want to and not because there is no evidence or proof of the existing conditions as described in the Appeal to Reason. I am sending another copy herewith, which exposes some of the methods of these bankers who are handling some of the "reserve fund" to "relieve" the cotton situation. Mr. Turner tells how they have helped the matter. If you don't believe his article, and if you want to believe it and wish to do something to help the poor farmers you might send a representative of your paper down there to investigate, same as the Appeal has, and get some facts for yourself. And then if you think as much of the people in your own country as you do of the Belgians, you will get up a relief fund for them, as you did for the Belgians, and you might expose some of the crooked work of these bankers and landlords, and help agitate for a system that will not allow such crookedness and graft and robbery to be carried on under the name of "business" and "commerce."

You know and understand such things better than I do, but what I can't understand is why you ignore such conditions and try to cover them up by not saying anything about them. It seems to me like a "silent lie" when you know such conditions exist in this country and you say nothing about them, but try to make your readers think everything is lovely, and there is no hunger, want nor any disagreeable conditions of any kind. Why do you do it?

I believe a good way to remedy these evil conditions would be to expose them to the daylight of public opinion, and give the people living under these conditions a chance to say if they wanted to keep on living that way. Do you think anyone would vote for it? If they did, let them have it, but if they did not, then let them have something better, where they could live and enjoy life and not merely exist and slave for some "kind master."

I don't think you will publish this and I don't think you will publish any such articles as are in the Appeal to Reason as it would be too "radical" (getting at the root of things) for your neutrality (?).

A. L. ADAMS.

Nestoria, Mich., Jan. 30.

"HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU."

A subscriber who does not sign his name kindly sends in an explanation of the origin of the expression "Here's Looking at You," asked for in the Open Court:

The familiar toast, "Here's looking at you," has doubtless been offered millions of times without the drinkers understanding its peculiar fitness. At the present day the toast is meaningless.

To understand the sentiment one must go back to the time when the toast originated, in the hard-drinking days of the sixteenth century or even earlier.

In those days the sturdy drinkers took their refreshment from substantial mugs, which held a pint or more. The very popular mug of the period consisted of a pewter cylinder fitted with a clear glass bottom.

When the mug was filled with some dark and presumably powerful drink the contents were, of course, opaque. When the drinker proposed this toast: "Here's looking at you," he proposed to drain his mug so that he could see his companion through the glass bottom.

The toast, "Here's looking at you," thus meant a long, continuous drink.

CHICAGO AND DULUTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It strikes me as very poor grace for The Herald to print such an article knocking the weather in any other section as: "In Chicago's clammy climate this means real suffering." Does the writer know of any humidity measurements taken in exceedingly cold weather in Chicago and Duluth that justify such a knock? The writer has a theory that all cold weather is just as damp and clammy after the third day of real cold weather. That is, that any dampness that might have been in the air is condensed before the third day. Chicago rarely gets three days of zero weather, while Duluth usually has weeks when the thermometer is below zero every night. This may be the reason Chicago people always notice a cold spell more.

I also notice that The Herald generally alludes to Chicago as the "Windy City." I have lived in Duluth two years and fail to see the joke. Duluth certainly has all that is coming to it in both varieties of said commodity. It looks like a case of the pot and the kettle to me. Let's praise Duluth and drop the knocks for others. Yours,

CHICAGOAN.

A BUSHEL OF ONIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of Jan. 28, I noticed in the Open Court, under heading of "Onions and Stamps," replying to question from Subscriber of Marble, Minn., as to the weight of a bushel of onions you give the weight as fifty-seven pounds. My copy of extracts from department of weights and measures gives the weight as fifty-two pounds.

I thought you would notice your error and correct it in your next issue, but I did not see any, and I therefore concluded you thought you had given the right information. Very truly yours, W. L. PEIRCE,

Duluth, Jan. 30.

820 West Fourth street.

The World Almanac for this year gives fifty-seven pounds as the minimum weight of a bushel of onions, "according to the laws of the United States." Mr. Peirce is correct in his statement that the state laws prescribe a minimum weight of fifty-two pounds.—The Editor.

MONTANA FROM ANOTHER VIEWPOINT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A writer from Montana certainly paints his state in glowing colors; opinions, however, are bound to differ.

Last year I was in the salubrious district of the "Judith Basin," and in the restaurant business.

I was besieged every night by a number of out-of-work hoboes. During the day I was tired of listening to the hard time tales of farmers who owed bills they could not pay.

Day in and day out I was receiving kicks from the traveling public that they could not get water fit to drink in any locality. The water over the whole district was rank alkali and undrinkable unless made ice cold and the alkali somewhat neutralized by aid of lemon juice.

In August about two feet of snow fell and as much as six feet was reported at Great Falls. This was the start of winter.

I came to Duluth to enjoy a pleasant fall, as far as weather was concerned; to get some real water fit to drink and to be in a place where there was more show of business being done, and where it was possible to take in a show or two once in a while by way of amusement. I got what I came for and wouldn't go back to that "land of milk and honey" if they were to offer me the whole of its wealth as a recompense. I prefer to stay right here where, if I am only awarded a small portion of the state's wealth for my services, I at least have pure water to drink, a shorter winter to chill my bones, and a prettier locality than any flat prairie country can give. Yours truly,

WONCE BIT.

REGULATING MOTION PICTURES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

For the past two weeks your paper has been spotted with photographs of Minnesota representatives who had introduced some bill or other in the state legislature. The one that interested me most was on the front page of The Herald of Jan. 19. It was a photo of Duluth's representative, William J. North, with this heading: "Introduces Bill to Regulate the Movies." Now, I do not know whether Mr. North is the author of this bill; I think The Herald stated it was drafted by the Woman's Welfare league, whatever that is, I confess I do not know. But one thing I do know—the bill is a bunch of "piffle," such as was tried a couple of years ago. Now just consider for a moment. The bill says, among a thousand other things, that "no picture theater shall be built within 500 feet of a school building." Why, man alive, don't you know that there are more than a thousand schools and churches in the United States today equipped for giving motion picture entertainments, (not movies, if you please). Take, for instance, the Bremer school, the largest graded school in Minneapolis, with William O. H. Miller as principal, has just been equipped with the latest projection machine, and will give exhibitions from three to five times a week. Mr. Miller does not intend to confine his entertainments to educational pictures alone, although pictures of "good type" will be insisted upon. Take the Tuttle school, in the same city; it is also equipped for giving photoplay entertainments, and mark my word, the time is coming when every school auditorium in the state of Minnesota will be prepared to give the pupils high class exhibitions.

Mr. North's bill also wants a "board of control," and its duties would be to travel over the state and make life miserable for the exhibitors in the small towns who are trying to make a good, honest living by providing the only means of amusement in these small towns. Getting paid for it, too, mind you—$100 per month and expenses, plus whatever additional they could get out of the exhibitor. Down in Pine Island, Minn., a small place of possibly 300 people, in the southern part of the state and sixteen miles from a town of any size, Rev. C. E. Mead of the Methodist Episcopal church has installed a projection machine in the church and gives his people exhibitions every Tuesday and Saturday evenings. There are hundreds of little places in just this same condition which could not exist if that board of control was put to work.

When it comes to wholesome, clean amusement, at moderate prices to suit people of all classes, the photoplay has all other forms of amusement beat to a "Roosevelt frazzle." How can I prove it? I don't have to prove it. I cheerfully admit it. And they are getting better all the time.

Down in St. Paul there is another man by the name of Arnold who has introduced, or is going to introduce, a bill to prohibit picture theaters and dance halls from opening on Sunday. Now wouldn't that jar your grandmother's preserves; classing the photoplay with the dance hall, I mean public dance halls? Didn't the supreme court of the state of Minnesota render a decision in 1909 to the effect that picture theaters could open on Sunday as long as they were orderly and did not disturb the peace? Guess they can repeat it if necessary. Mr. Arnold's bill is drafted by the League for the Suppression of Vice. I admit that the business has its faults, same as any other business, but the motion picture industry has advanced and grown more rapidly than any other business, with the possible exception of the automobile. I have been in the motion picture business several years, and during that time have used thousands of reels of pictures, most of which were passed by the National Board of Censorship, and I have my first picture to see that could be called immoral, or suggestive, as some like to call them.

The photoplay has hurt the liquor business more than everything else combined. Take the film version of Jack London's famous story, "John Barleycorn." Why did the distillers of "booze" in the state of Illinois offer $25,000 for the suppression of this film? "There's a reason."

I could write twenty pages on this subject, but what's the use? I suppose when the authors of Mr. North's bill read this they will start foaming at the mouth, have papsy-lal combined with hydrophobia, go straight up in the air and come down on me ker-plunk. All right, come on in, the water's fine; and I will shoot both barrels next time, as I have an inexhaustible supply of ammunition. In closing, I want to say that I enjoy your Open Court and clip out many of the articles for future reference. I would be glad to have you publish this if you can find space to put it in somewhere between the "lumberjack" arguments. This is my second offense, the last time I wrote to the Open Court was from Rochester, Minn., on the apple argument. Very truly yours,

CROCKETT BROWN.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"Give Them the Flowers Now" and "Decision to Gipsy's Warning," from Mrs. Tillie Anderson of Boy River, Minn.

"The Vampire" and "A Woman's Answer," from an Open Court reader. There have been so many requests for these two poems that they will be published, although it is not the policy to publish poems from standard authors.

"Silver Threads Among the Gold," from Mrs. Gregory Mlodzek of Duluth.

"Clementine," from A Reader.

"The Stranger's Story," from S. E. Pickett of Bayfield, Wis.

Requests have been received for the following poems:

"Oh for Days of Yore" and a song of a little fisher girl with one line reading, "Down in the country a poor girl was wandering," from S. E. Pickett of Bayfield, Wis.

A Woman's Answer to The Vampire.

A fool there was, and she lowered her pride,
(Even as you and I),
To a bunch of conceit in a masculine hide.
We saw the faults that could not be denied,
But the fool saw only his manly side,
(Even as you and I).

Oh, the love she laid on her own heart's grave
With the care of her head and hand,
Belongs to the man that did not know
(And now she knows that he never could know)
And did not understand.

A fool there was, and her best she gave,
(Even as you and I),
Of noble thoughts, of gay and grave,
(And all were accepted as due to the knave);
But the fool would never her folly save,
(Even as you and I).

Oh, the stabs she hid, which the Lord forbid,
Had ever been really planned,
She took from the man who didn't know why;
(And now she knows he never knew why)
And did not understand.

The fool was loved while the game was new,
(Even as you and I);
And when it was played, she took her cue,
(Plodding along as most of us do),
Trying to keep his faults from view,
(Even as you and I).

And it isn't the ache of the heart, or its break,
That stings like a white-hot brand—
It's the learning to know that she raised a god
And bent her head to kiss the rod,
For the one who could not understand.
—Felicia Blake.

Decision in Gypsy's Warning.

Down beside yon flowing river,
There bereft, where willows weep,
There must lie that fair one ever;
Stranger, why those vigils keep?
Why go there alone and early,
All those morning flowers to strew?
Did you love, in truth, so dearly?
Do you grieve as others do?

Stranger, I've been thinking sadly
How you promised, wooed and won;
How her innocent love gladly
Heard fair words, built hopes thereon:
Now she's in the cold ground sleeping
By the river's moaning wave,
And the willows now are weeping
O'er that maiden's early grave.

Warnings from that grave do tell me,
And a living voice I hear,
Of a wooer who would seek me
Pleading, by a love sincere,
That without me life is sorrow;
Take this hand and heart of mine,
Promise bliss for every morrow,
Then forsake me—let me pine.

Stranger, I will heed the warning,
Coming from the river's side;
Flowers you strew there in the morning
I'll renew at eventide;
There we'll walk, but not together,
For the Gipsy tells me true,
Mourns her child in tears that smother
Every kindly thought of you.

"Give Them the Flowers Now."

Closed eyes can't see the white roses,
Cold hands can't hold them, you know;
Breath that is stilled cannot gather
The odors that sweet from them blow.
Death, with a peace beyond dreaming,
It's children of earth doth endow;
Life is the time we can help them,
So give them the flowers now.

Just a kind word or a greeting,
Just a warm grasp or a smile—
These are the flowers that will lighten
The burdens of many a mile.
After the journey is over,
What is the use of them? How
Can they carry, who must be carried?
So give them the flowers now.

Blooms from the happy heart's garden,
Plucked in the spirit of love;
Blooms that are earthly reflections
Of flowers that blossom above.
Words cannot tell what a measure
Of blessings such gifts will allow,
To dwell in the lives of the many,
Oh, give them the flowers now.

The Vampire.

A fool he was and he made his prayer,
(Even as you and I)
To a rag and a bone and a hank of hair
(We called her the woman that did not care,)
But the fool he called her his lady fair,
(Even as you and I!)
Oh, the years we waste and the tears we waste,
And the work of our head and hand,
Belong to the woman who did not know,
(And now we know that she never could know)
And never could understand.

A fool there was, and his goods he spent,
(Even as you and I!)
Honor and faith and a good intent,
(And it wasn't the least what the lady meant,)
But a fool must follow his natural bent,
(Even as you and I!)
Oh, the toll we lost and the spoil we lost
And the excellent thing we planned,
Belong to the woman who didn't know why,
(And now we know that she never knew why
And did not understand.
The fool was stripped to his foolish hide,
(Even as you and I!)
Which she might have seen when she threw him aside—
(But it isn't on record the lady tried,)
So some of him lived, but the most of him died,
(Even as you and I!)

And it isn't the shame, and it isn't the blame,
That stings like a white-hot brand,
It's coming to know that she never knew why,
(Seeing at last she could never know why,)
And never could understand.
—Rudyard Kipling.

Silver Threads Among the Gold.

Darling I am growing old,
Silver threads among the gold,
Shine upon my brow today;
Life is fading fast away.
But my darling you will be, will be—
Always young and fair to me—
Yes! my darling you will be
Always young and fair to me.

Chorus:

Darling I am growing old,
Silver threads among the gold,
Shine upon my head today;
Life is fading fast away.
When your hair is silver white and your cheeks no longer bright,
With the roses of the May; I will kiss your lips and say,
"Oh! my darling mine alone, alone—
You have never older grown,
Yes! my darling mine alone
You have never older grown."

Love may never more grow old,
Locks may lose their brown and gold,
Cheeks may fade and hollow grow,
But the heart that love will know
Never, never winter's frost and chills,
Summer warmth is in them still,
Love is always young and fair,
What to us is silver hair?
Faded cheeks or steps grown slow,
To the heart that beats below?
Since I kissed you mine alone,
You have never older grown
Since I kissed you mine alone,
You have never older grown.

The Stranger's Story.

One bright autumn evening, 'round an old inn door,
A merry group had gathered, recalling days of yore.
When in the dusky twilight there appeared a man,
Whose steps were slow and feeble, whose face was sad and calm.
"Will you join our group, friend? Has thy life been well?
"Have you not a story that you to us can tell?"
"Yes, I have a story, one that is sad and true,
And if you will listen, I'll tell it all to you."

Chorus.

"Why do our loved ones leave us? Why are tears in vain?
Why is the sunlight darkened and veiled by the mists of pain?
Many a heart is asking, even the brow be clear,
'Neath the gladness sorrow, behind the smile a tear.

"In a pleasant valley, 'neath the mountain's shade,
Many years have vanished, since I wooed a maid.
Her cheeks were like the roses, hair like shining gold.
Her answer came with blushes when I my love had told.
'I will love you always with a heart that's true;'
This replied my darling as close to me she drew.
But before the roses from her cheeks had flown
She 'neath the sod was sleeping, and I was left alone.

Chorus.

"Little ones were playing 'round our cabin door,
But now their childish' voices are hushed forever more.
All the joy and gladness in our happy home,
But, alas, they are gone now and I am left to roam,
She grew sad and lonely, for her darlings three
Who had gone before her, leaving none but me.
Now you have my story, sad although it be,
But yet I know they're watching and waiting there for me!"

"Clementine."

In a cavern, in a canyon,
Excavating for a mine,
Dwelt a miner, forty-niner,
And his daughter, Clementine.

Chorus.

Oh, my darling, Oh, my darling,
Oh, my darling, Clementine,
You are lost and gone forever;
Dreadful sorrow, Clementine.

Light she was, and like a fairy,
And her shoes were number nine;
Her ring boxes, without topses,
Sandals were for Clementine.

Drove the ducklings to the water
Every morning just at nine;
Hit her foot against a splinter,
Fell into the foaming brine.

Ruby lips above the water,
Blowing bubbles soft and fine;
Alas for me, I was no swimmer,
So I lost my Clementine.

In a churchyard near the canyon,
Where the myrtle doth entwine,
There grow roses and other posies,
Fertilized by Clementine.

KILLS FAMILY AND COMMITS SUICIDE

New Yorker Does Deed With Rifle Equipped With Silencer.

New York, Feb. 1.—Armed with a magazine rifle equipped with an automatic silencer, Herman Auerbach, a wealthy real estate operator, who had become despondent because of financial reverses, yesterday shot and killed his wife and two daughters as they slept, and then, returning to his own bed, killed himself. His son, Lester, a high school student, was the only member of the family left alive. So completely did the silencing device muffle the reports of the weapon, that the tragedy was not discovered for several hours. The son found under his door a note from his father, requesting him to telephone relatives. The quadruple killing took place in an exclusive apartment house on Central Park, west.

Coroner Feinberg, who conducted an investigation, stated that Auerbach evidently had planned the tragedy for several days and had executed it with calm deliberation. The dead man's son informed the coroner his father had brought the rifle home nine days ago. The coroner believed the dead man's despondency was due to recent depreciation in value of mortgages and securities which he held.

Until a few years ago Auerbach had been a member of a candy firm in this city, from which he retired to devote his attention to real estate. A few months ago, it is said, his property was valued at nearly $1,000,000. When he retired last night he was apparently in good spirits.

NEW ROCKFORD, N. D., WORKING FOR CAPITAL

New Rockford, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the people of North Dakota have never had an opportunity to vote on the question of the location of the state capital, that it was located at Bismarck because it was there in territorial days and through a trade, are some of the contentions raised by the residents of this place in their fight for the transfer of the capital from Bismarck to New Rockford.

New Rockford believes that as it is about central north and south, and still west of the center of population of the state, it should be given consideration in its ambition to land the capital. It will be most accessible and, centrally located and residents of the state can reach here in shorter hours and at less expense than they can go to Bismarck.

The residents of this place hope to influence the legislature to act on Senator Putnam's bill to submit the matter to a vote of the people.

A FINE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

EASY TO MAKE AND COSTS LITTLE.

If you suffer from Catarrh, head noises, sore throat, asthma, or Catarrhal deafness, here is a fine recipe that often gives relief after other treatments have failed.

Its effect in the worst cases is usually most striking and positive. The correct method of treating Catarrh we believe is to employ a remedy that will quickly drive the catarrhal poisons from the system and at the same time by tonic action increase the vitality, which is always lowered by this insidious disease. To do this, we believe the following formula to be really the best prescription, as it acts quickly, costs little and can be easily prepared at home.

From your Druggist obtain one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth, take this home and add to it one-quarter of a pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the most miserable headache, dullness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal discharges, head noises and other loathsome symptoms that always accompany this disgusting disease.

Loss of smell, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrh and which may be overcome by the use of this simple treatment.

Every person who has Catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When Constipated or Bilious Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

"CLEVERLY DONE," SAID EMPEROR

Amusing Anecdote Told Concerning the Kaiser and a General.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Jan. 10.—"Roland von Berlin" brings the following anecdote concerning the emperor and a general designated as "B."

During his recent trip to the eastern theater of war, the emperor paid a visit to the general in question, and showed the keenest interest in, and most intimate knowledge of, what the army corps commanded by "B" had done. The corps in question was one of the very best, said the emperor to the general in the presence of the staff officers, and he hoped that it would continue its fine work.

The conversation had taken place in the building in which the headquarters of the general were located. After shaking hands with the officers, the emperor left, accompanied by Gen. "B" and some of his aides.

When the party reached the door it was found that several thousand Russian prisoners were being marched past. For a moment the emperor watched the procession, then, with a broad smile on his face, turned to Gen. "B" with the words:

"I will say, general, that this is cleverly done."

The smiles of the emperor grew wider yet when the embarrassed Gen. "B" tried to explain that it all was an accident.

KAISER TO CONSULT WITH HIS PHYSICIAN.

London, Feb. 1.—The German emperor's return to Berlin from the front was due to the state of his health, according to a report from the German capital received by the Exchange Telegraph agency by way of Amsterdam. The emperor, the dispatch adds, will consult his medical adviser concerning his throat, which has given him much trouble. Those who have heard the emperor speak lately say his voice is scarcely audible.

Because of this fact the funeral of Mike Cushner, aged 19, who died at St. Mary's hospital Thursday from pneumonia, is being postponed from day to day.

Dora Cushner, a sister of the deceased, wired the undertakers Saturday and asked them to defer the funeral pending the arrival of another brother, Nick. His address was given as Camp D, Cinfrewery, Minn. All efforts to find this town, or reach the brother, have been unavailing.

SEWER NEARS COMPLETION.

Contractors Did Work for Less Than Engineer's Estimate.

With the construction of an outlet at the end of the new sewer in Duluth Heights, the work on this improvement will be completed, Commissioner Murchison said this morning.

Rogers & MacLean, local contractors, who have been in charge of the construction work, have made rapid progress and in addition succeeded in completing the sewer far under the estimate made by the city engineer's office. As a result the property owners will not have to pay any additional cost, beyond the 80-per-cent assessment levied early this winter.

TO SAVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It if Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an optician or to the five and ten-cent store, and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use: 5 grains Optona (1 tablet). 2 ounces water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Optona system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription promptly. Try it and know for once what real eye comfort is.

COMBINE TO CURB BRITISH

Dernburg Suggests Germany and United States Should Do So.

Would Put End to "Arrogant Policy" of Controlling Seas.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A suggestion that the combined fleets of Germany and the United States could curb Great Britain in "her arrogant policy" of controlling the seas was made here today by Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former colonial secretary of the German empire, in an address at a luncheon of the Civic association. Through a far-flung line of naval stations, Great Britain, he said, made the world's shipping dependent upon her will, and through fortified points in Canada and island possessions controlled the entrance to the harbors of the United States.

"I invite you to take a map of the world and follow my explanation," said Dr. Dernburg.

"Any nation engaged in mercantile shipping must take these things into account, but for the United States there is a very special reason. The Panama canal is the main asset of the America oversea trade.

Coaling Stations Control.

"Now while it is quite true that on the north there is the long Canadian frontier, that is in no way a danger to the United States, there are also in the North a number of coaling stations. They can and do control the entrance to American harbors. There you have St. John and Halifax within easy reach of New England. British cruisers are now constantly patrolling the mouths of your harbors of New York and Delaware.

"And then commences this marvelous chain of British fortified coaling stations that block up absolutely the Gulf of Mexico and the Panama canal. It commences with Bermuda, just about opposite Charleston; the Bahamas, commanding the straits between Key West and Havana; Jamaica, the entrance to the Caribbean sea. And then you have Barbados, Trinidad, etc., that ships from the United States must pass on their way to South America. And it is not much better on the west side, where from the port of Vancouver the whole American west coast is skirted.

Able to Protect It.

"Now Germany would not build up a big mercantile business in the foreign trade without being able to protect it. At present there is a strong German fleet. So strong that together with the American fleet it could give weight to any representations against an overbearing or arrogant policy on the part of Great Britain, such as the United States have repeatedly noticed. But when the German mercantile trade is out of business, and if, at British demand, the German navy is dismantled, then the United States cannot have a mercantile marine without a navy that can single handed cope with the British, and that is the most difficult, as the British navalism, which is more dangerous than the so-called German militarism, demands that two British ships shall always exist for one of any nation whatsoever. And while it may be said that the world is doing now its oversea trade on British tolerance, there is the certainty that it can in future only do it by British permission if the British program of destroying Germany and its fleet in a long struggle is realized."

There will be dancing and luncheon will be served.

Recruiting Officer Sets Record.
A new record for enlistments for the Duluth naval recruiting station was made during January, according to Peter Coyle, local officer in charge. Seven men were accepted for the service and an unusually large number applied for admission. The popularity of the navy has grown constantly under the broad policy of Secretary Daniels, Mr. Coyle declares.

Handmaids Ask New Trial.
The Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ, who are in charge of a hospital in Superior, Wis., through their attorneys, Arnold & Arnold, filed a petition for a new trial today in their action against the Duluth Log company. They brought suit some time ago asking $2,076 from the defendants for hospital tickets, alleged to have been purchased for employes of the log company. A jury in the Federal district court decided in favor of the log company in January.

Appeals From Assessments.
City Attorney Clapp and Frank Crasswheller will represent the city in district court tomorrow morning when the appeals from the assessments made in connection with the condemnation of property adjoining the proposed Congdon boulevard will be heard before a jury. The awards were made by the appraisers early last summer, but several appeals were taken by the property owners and the city.

Back From Conference.
A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of county agricultural agents, has returned from Carlton where on last Saturday he attended an agricultural conference at which there were several speakers. Mr. Hostetter gave an illustrated lecture. The meeting was well attended and proved very helpful to all concerned, he said.

Firemen Answer Two Calls.
Firemen responded to two alarms this morning. One a chimney fire at Ninth avenue east and the Boulevard, caused a nominal damage, and the other was a false alarm sent in from the Zenith Furnace company's plant.

Will Give Results of Tests.
The civil service commission will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to go over the papers in the recent examination for applicants to the position of patrolman in the police department. Ruben Johnson, secretary of the commission, has corrected the papers, and he will make his report to the commission, before the successful applicants are announced.

BLIZZARD SWEEPS THROUGH WISCONSIN

Rain Turns Into Snow and Many Wires and Poles Snap.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 1.—A blizzard of unusual proportions is sweeping throughout Wisconsin, paralyzing traffic of all kinds. There was scarcely an outlet either by telephone or telegraph up to 11 a. m. and steam and electric railroad schedules have been upset.

The Wisconsin Telephone company reports several hundred poles down and the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies say their service has been hampered in all directions.

A drizzling rain throughout the night turned to snow early today. The rain formed into ice, weighing down wires till they snapped in many places.

PASSENGER RATE INCREASE PROPOSED.

Washington, Feb. 1.—New tariffs proposing, it is estimated, increases to about one-half per cent a mile in passenger rates from Chicago to the eastern boundary of Colorado have been filed with the interstate commerce commission by most of the railroads in Western territory. The increases would affect rates in the territory between the southern boundary of Colorado, extending east to the Mississippi river and to the Canadian border.

Denies Burglary Charge.

When Henry Malone, colored, aged 28, appeared in municipal court this morning to answer to a charge of burglary in the third degree, he pleaded not guilty and trial was set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Bail was set at $1,000.

Malone is alleged to have entered the home of Miss Hattie Douglass, 911 East Third street, who is also colored, and to have stolen a gold necklace and locket. Neighbors saw Malone around the premises when Miss Douglass was away and spoke of it when they learned of the disappearance of the articles. Malone was arrested later by Detective H. W. Toewe.

"BAD MAN" MAKES GOOD; NOW ON TRIAL.

Gust Heikkila was brought to trial before Judge Ensign and a district court jury this morning on a charge of second degree assault. He is accused of having shot and wounded one Charles Teeri on Nov. 21, 1914.

Evidence adduced this morning was to the effect that Teeri and others were attending a dance in the town of Culver, and that Heikkila, a stranger to Teeri, was outside of the dance hall boasting about being a "bad" man with a gun.

Teeri testified that Heikkila was drunk, and that when he told him not to try to attempt any exhibition with his revolver, the latter pulled the gun out and shot Teeri through the ankle.

WILL SUE FOR ASSESSMENT.

City After Street Railway Company for East Fourth Street Paving.

City Attorney Clapp is preparing to bring suit against the Duluth Street Railway company for one-third of the assessment covering the cost of the East Fourth street pavement, held up during the last two years because of the franchise case finally decided by the supreme court last Friday in favor of the company.

On Jan. 26, 1914, the city commission passed a resolution accepting two-thirds of the assessment from the property owners and taking over the responsibility of collecting the other third from the company. In this way the city avoided a long legal tangle proposed by the property owners, who wanted to bring action against the company for an assessment covering the pavement laid between the tracks and the additional pavement for the widening of the street between Seventh and Fourteenth avenues.

Supreme Court Puts New Interpretation on White Slave Law.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Federal white slave law was interpreted today by the supreme court authorizing the indictment of a woman, transported in violation of the law, as a co-conspirator with the person who caused her to be transported.

Turks Shell Russians.
Berlin, Feb. 1, by wireless to Sayville.—Official dispatches received in Berlin today from Constantinople announce that the Turkish fleet on Jan. 26 successfully shelled a Russian military place on the west coast of the Black sea.

BOX OF SOAP TABLETS.
Los Angeles Times: Soap tablets for the use of travelers are put up in boxes inclosing fifty tablets, each just sufficient for the purpose of one face washing. The tablets, though fine in composition, easily dissolve in water. Included in the box is a pair of nickel tweezers with which to pick up the tablets. A box of these would be an appreciated little gift to a traveler.

LAYS CORNERSTONE OF MEMORIAL BUILDING

MRS. JULIAN L. NUGENT.

Mrs. Julian L. Nugent of St. Louis last week laid the cornerstone of the $1,000,000 Clarence E. Smith memorial building in Brooklyn, N. Y. It was erected by Mrs. William Van R. Smith for the use of the Y. M. C. A. in memory of her son, Clarence E. Smith, who was Mrs. Nugent's father. Mrs. Nugent has been visiting New York, the guest of her mother, who is now Mrs. J. M. Batterton. Mrs. Batterton gave an entertainment in her honor this week at the Waldorf.

LACE TRADE EXCELLENT

Police Find Other Victims Who Got "Rare Bargains."

"Did you or any of your friends buy any lace, at a real bargain, Saturday?"

This was the question asked by police this morning and answered with "yes" by many society matrons, to say nothing of one well known business man.

Following the arrest and subsequent release of Mrs. Mary Smith, aged 66, and her daughter, Maria Smith, aged 30, Saturday, when sentence was suspended, many complaints have been received at headquarters.

Mrs. and Miss Smith appeared at the Wolvin building Friday afternoon and approached one young woman, employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company, with an interesting story.

They had been in this country, on a claim, for five years. They had formerly lived in Ireland, and were experts at lace making. During the five years on their claim they had made a great deal of fine lace, in spare moments, and were thus able to sell it at a great bargain.

The young woman promptly bit, she told police this morning. She paid $7.50 for a lace collar and referred the pair to a list of friends, who in turn, tickled at the bargain, did likewise.

Before Mrs. and Miss Smith left the Wolvin building however, one steel corporation official was lucky enough to get a large lace collar for his wife, price $12.50.

Since The Herald story Saturday afternoon, telling of the lace merchants and their arrest, police have received complaints which indicate that the pair reaped a harvest.

In the meantime Mrs. Mary and Miss Maria are on their way.

PEACHA'S RECORD WINS HIM HONOR

Duluth Auto Agent Is Center of Attraction at Chicago Show.

Joseph T. Peacha, Jr., manager of the Interstate Auto company, who returned Saturday from the Chicago automobile show, was one of the centers of attraction in the large Coliseum, where the display of autos was made during last week.

Because of his record sales in 1914, large placards bearing Mr. Peacha's name were placed all around the Franklin car exhibit in the Coliseum. In addition, a pair of snowshoes and a placard bearing the statement that "Peacha uses these in making sales in Duluth," were hung conspicuously in one of the anterooms, where all the Franklin agents met last Wednesday to prepare for the 1915 campaign.

Following the meeting Mr. Peacha was presented with the snowshoes, which he brought back to Duluth last Saturday. They are now on display in the local showrooms. Mr. Peacha also delivered an address in the local banquet of the Franklin agents on "How I Did It."

"The automobile show," said Mr. Peacha this morning, "was a great success, and all the dealers who attended were very much pleased. This year looks promising and record-breaking sales are being predicted by all the factories."

CITY ASKED TO JOIN THE "BUY-IT-NOW" CAMPAIGN

Mayor Prince received a communication this morning asking the city officials to join the national "Buy-it now" campaign, which was started recently by the agricultural papers of the West, and which has since been taken up by many business houses of the country.

President Wilson has indorsed the movement with the following message, the communication states:

"If you are going to buy it, buy it now. That is a perfectly safe maxim to act upon. It is just as safe to buy it now, as it ever will be, and if you start to buying, there will be no end to it—and you will be a seller as well as a buyer."

C. C. Rosewater of Omaha, Neb., is chairman of the "Buy-it-now" committee and he proposes that the city officials of Duluth buy all its material and equipment at present, so that business can be boomed throughout the nation and factories kept going all the year round.

"Duluth has been following out this plan all winter long," said Mayor Prince this morning, "and we are only delighted to see the other cities join in a national movement of this kind. The commission has contracted for a great deal of its equipment already, so that Duluth has really been doing its share all along."

ARRANGING FOR SPRING STYLE SHOW.

The spring style show committee of the Retail Merchants' association held its third meeting today during the noon hour at the Commercial club, and made further arrangements for the spring style show which is being planned for March 25, 26 and 27.

It was determined that after the trimming of the windows of the various stores will have begun for this affair they will be kept curtained until 5 o'clock of the first day of the show, when, at a signal consisting of the explosion of bombs, the curtains will fall and the displays be revealed. The stores will close their doors at that time, and reopen at 7, but on that and the following nights will be open for exhibition purposes only, no sales being made.

H. F. Williamson, J. J. Moe and Edward Silberstein, comprising the committing on window and interior decoration, will meet soon with the window decorators and proprietors of stores employing none of these, with the idea of having co-operative action in decorating.

The matter of prizes for the best displays and the best essays—the latter to be received from any Duluthian over 16 years of age—has been left in the hands of William Billstein, W. N. Hart and Alfred Hanchett.

HOTEL CLERKS' PLAY.

Tickets on Sale Here for Greeters' Week Entertainment in Minneapolis.

Tickets have been placed on sale at the hotels here for "Greeter's Week" at the Bainbridge playhouse, Minneapolis, beginning Feb. 7, when the farce comedy "Over Night" will be produced. The proceeds of the week's entertainment will go to the fund which the Minnesota-Dakota hotel clerks are raising to send a delegation of boosters to the national convention of the "Greeters" at Atlanta, Ga., to be held in June, in behalf of the candidacy of Earl W. Byer of the West hotel, Minneapolis, whom the association has placed in the field as a candidate for president.

Real live hotel clerks are to take part in the play, the scenes and incidents of which deal with hotel life.

It is hoped by local members that those going to Minneapolis from this city that week will see this play.

NEW SPRING STYLES IN GINGHAMS WHICH WERE MADE IN THE U. S. A.

These ginghams are 32 inches wide, extra quality, 25c and our American makers have really excelled the French this year as you yourself will admit when you see the ginghams at 25c the yard—plain colors, checks, stripes and plaids. Colorings that are absolutely fast with proper laundering. 32 inches wide and 25c the yard.

NEW EGYPTIAN TISSUES, 25c THE YARD.

The best Egyptian tissues we know of. The kind we have sold with so much satisfaction to you for several years. Sheer, yet strong, dainty colorings which do not fade. Plain, plaid, or stripe effects, 27c inches wide, 25c the yard.

DEVONSHIRE CLOTHS FOR CHILDREN'S WEAR. 25c THE YARD

Another American-made fabric with an imported name. Somewhat heavier than the ginghams, and the plaids, stripes and plain colorings, are yarn dyed and will stand frequent tubbing, and hence most desirable for children's wear—25c the yard.

GREYLOCK ZEPHYRS, 15c THE YARD.

These are surely extra good quality at the price. 32 inches in width. The smooth finish and the splendid wearing fast colorings in plaids, stripes and plain colorings are most remarkable at 15c the yard.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO COMPLETE ROSEAU DITCH

State Drainage Commission Desires $60,000 to Finish Work.

Wants More Money to Complete Vast Roseau County Scheme.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—The state drainage commission will ask the legislature for $60,000 to complete the Roseau river canal project for which $80,000 was appropriated at the 1913 session. The first fund was for widening and deepening the channel of this swamp stream in Northern Roseau county for seventeen miles from the intersection with it of the line separating sections 21 and 23 in towns 164 north, range 43 west, to the Canadian boundary. The $60,000 is for the continuation of the work from this point to Roseau lake, a distance of about twelve miles.

Drainage Canal Outlet.

This river is the outlet for the vast drainage canal system in that section constructed by the state and which, it is expected, will reclaim about 400,000 acres of land. The flow into the river from the ditches, however, has exceeded all expectations and for this reason it has been found necessary to improve the channel.

The commission also will ask for $5,000 to extend the Mustinka ditch in Traverse county from a point two miles west of Wheaton into Lake Traverse.

The drainage commission is assiduously hunting for about $19,000 due the state from the government.

NEW HOMESTEAD ACT IS FAVORED

Residents of Dickinson Land Office District Favor Provision.

Medora, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposed stock raising homestead act suggested to congress by the North Dakota legislature would prove helpful to this county. There are in the Dickinson land office district about 400,000 acres of untaken public lands. These lands have been picked over by homesteaders under the original act permitting 160 acres and the other permitting 320 acres until there it little likelihood of more entries under either of those acts. There are places where full sections could be secured with small tracts of arable land that would make a fair total on which the homesteader could raise grain, thence fence and pasture the rest of the 640 acres.

New Act Favored.

The local land office and practically all the people in this district favor the 640-acre homestead proposition. Nearly 200,000 acres of this land is in Billings county, while about 135,000 is in McKenzie, 60,000 in Dunn, 50,000 in Bowman, known as the Bad Lands. Under the proposed 640-acre homestead act the homesteader would not have to cultivate the land and could prove up at the end of three years if improvements in permanent buildings and fences totaling $1.25 per acre on the full section had been made. Much of this bad land is ideal for grazing purposes and a considerable acreage of arable land could be found on most sections.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR INDIGESTION OR BAD STOMACH

Relieves Sourness, Gas, Heartburn, Dyspepsia in Five Minutes.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes all stomach misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Pape's Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapepsin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant stomach preparation which truly belongs in every home.

LUMBER COMPANY MAKES COMPLAINT

Stearns Lumber Company Alleges Northwestern Railroad Overcharges.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 1.—The Stearns Lumber company has filed complaint with the interstate commerce commission against the Chicago & Northwestern railway, claiming that rates on lumber from Odanah to various stations within switching distance are excessive.

Reparation is asked by the Stearns company to the extent of nearly $2,500. The Stearns company is one of the largest shippers of lumber in Wisconsin and most of it is shipped by rail, in fact all of the lumber from their mill at Odanah is shipped in that manner. The officials of the company think that they are being held up by the Northwestern road, as they have no other direct outlet, and for this reason have asked the interstate commerce commission to make a ruling in the matter.

VENERABLE MILWAUKEE PRIEST IS BURIED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 1.—The Rev. Hiram Fairbanks, aged 69, for the last thirty-four years pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, and who died on Friday, was buried today.

Nearly every Catholic priest in Milwaukee attended the services at 10 o'clock in the church the Rev. Fairbanks had presided in for so many years.

The body was transferred to the church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon under escort of the various societies of the church.

The services included the office of the dead by the clergy, followed by high mass celebrated by Msgr. Joseph Rainer, vicar general of St. Francis seminary. The deacon of mass was the Rev. T. H. Durnin, St. Rose church; the Rev. B. Goral was subdeacon.

GRAVEL PIT CAVE-IN CLAIMS TWO LIVES.

Depere, Wis., Feb. 1.—Raymond Van Denheuvel, aged 16, son of Albert Van Denheuvel, a farmer, and the latter's hired man, Albert Bruska, were killed Feb. 1 while working in a gravel pit a few miles from this city. A large bank of gravel broke down and buried the men.

DULUTH CONCERN TO OPEN CREAM STATION.

Jamestown, N. D., Feb. 1.—The Bridgeman-Russell company of Duluth has secured a lease from George Lutz of the former offices of the McCoy Lumber company, corner Fourth street and North Third avenue. March 1 they will open a central cream station here. They will make this a central shipping point for their extensive business and a center for dairy products.

GO TO MILL CITY.

Upper Peninsula Bankers to Study Federal Reserve Bank.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 1.—Upper Peninsula bankers left Sunday for Minneapolis to familiarize themselves further with details of the operations of the ninth federal reserve bank of which this section is a part. The Houghton county delegation consists of the following: John D. Cuddihy, First National, Calumet; J. B. Paton, First National, Laurium; Charles McIntyre, Lake Linden National; R. E. Odgers, Hubbell National; J. H. Rice, Houghton; Roy A. Young, Citizens' National, Houghton; C. V. Seeber, Houghton, and John W. Black, a member of the board of directors of the regional bank. J. C. Jeffery, Superior National, Hancock.

CARRINGTON BANKER DIES IN MILL CITY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 1.—C. H. Davidson, Jr., banker and capitalist, died in the Swedish hospital, where he had been a patient since Jan. 18. He was 48 years old, and was born and reared at Austin, Minn. He was interested in more than a score of banks and other holdings in Minnesota and North Dakota.

His home was at Carrington, N. D., where he started his first bank in 1893.

The funeral will be held at Austin Tuesday at the home of his mother, who was with him at the time of his death.

VERDICT AGAINST RAILROAD UPHELD.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 1.—Frederick W. Stone, who was injured at the Northern Pacific crossing more than a year ago will receive damages awarded him in the district court. The supreme court upheld the judgment of $5,268 awarded in the lower court. Stone was crossing the tracks near the Marshall Oil company, when an engine hit his automobile wrecking it and injuring him.

ENGLISH POET NOW MINNESOTA VISITOR

ALFRED NOYES.

Faribault, Minn., Feb. 1.—Alfred Noyes, English poet, one of the men most prominently mentioned as a successor to the late Alfred Austin as poet laureate of England, is in the city with his wife, guests of A. Bill.

Mr. Noyes talked to Faribault high school students Friday and will address Carleton college students at Northfield Tuesday night. He said that he liked Americans, liked the Minnesota climate, and was glad that he was going to Princeton to take a professorship in English literature. "But I like best, you know," he added, "the wonderful work America is doing to aid the sufferers, particularly the Belgians."

In America unheralded and in Minnesota just four days after his arrival in New York on the Lusitania the young English poet said that William Watson, who with him was mentioned for the honor now held by Robert Bridges, had totally misconstrued the general sentiment of England when he asked America to abandon neutrality and join the cause of the allies.

ROCHESTER MAN IS ARRESTED IN TEXAS.

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 1.—Thomas Burns, former cashier at the Northwestern depot of this city, has been apprehended at El Paso, Tex., and will be brought to Rochester to answer a charge of embezzlement. Burns resigned his position at the depot to accept a clerkship at the Kahler hotel, and after two days there suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from the city. Investigation, it is alleged, disclosed a shortage in his accounts. Sheriff Mitchell of Olmsted county has gone to El Paso to bring him back.

SOUTH DAKOTA IS TO BAR GALLOWS.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 1.—Capital punishment virtually was abolished by the South Dakota senate by a vote of 24 to 18 after three hours' debate, led by Beebe and Stephens for, and Van Demark and Dailey against. The measure had one more than the necessary twenty-three. The Steele bill to the same effect passed the house last week by a big majority and it is likely that the Beebe bill, passed by the senate, will be accepted by the house and become a law. As it is an administration measure there is no question but that Governor Frank M. Byrne will sign the bill.

HILLSBORO WANTS NEW CITY HALL.

Hillsboro, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The present city hall, which is supposed to furnish headquarters for the fire department and the meeting place for the city commission and the jail for city prisoners, is generally regarded by the citizens as a disgrace and an effort will be made to secure a new building this year. A number of other municipal improvements are planned and the city expects this year to show more development and growth than for some years.

MARQUETTE MAN FREEZES TO DEATH.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 1.—The frozen body of Matt Olander, aged 70, who lived with his half-sister, Mrs. William Johnson, on Baraga avenue, was found Saturday morning lying beside the railroad tracks between Third and Fourth streets in the upper yards where it is thought he died from exposure. The body was discovered by the engineer on South Shore freight No. 54 east-bound.

According to Mrs. Johnson the old man had been acting rather demented for some time and had wandered from home several times. He left the Johnson home late Friday night, unknown to Mrs. Johnson, and no trace could be found of him until his body was found. It is thought that he laid down near the tracks and went to sleep. There were no marks on his body to indicate that he had been struck by a train.

LAUDS WISCONSIN CITY.

President's Daughter Praises Neillsville for Having Civic Secretary.

Neillsville, Wis., Feb. 1.—A letter from Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's eldest daughter, congratulating this town on being the first in the United States to employ a civic secretary, was read here at a meeting Saturday in celebration of the event.

"I believe," wrote Miss Wilson, "that the step you have taken will be far-reaching in its effects. It is comparable to the action of that other Wisconsin city, Sauk City, which gained national commendation when it made the schoolhouse its civic headquarters by placing the ballot box there, and officially adding the functions of the old New England clerk to that of school principal."

NORTHERN BELTRAMI DITCH JOBS AWARDED.

Spooner, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Auditor George has just let contracts for the construction of Judicial Ditches Nos. 22, 26 and 28, all in the northern part of Beltrami county. J. C. Parker has secured No. 23 at a contract price of $77,825; S. V. Topping, who has just completed the construction of No. 13, will build No. 26 for a consideration of $35,000, and the Kohler Construction company will dig No. 28 for $55,900. The construction of these drains will greatly increase the area of tillable land in this district, and will hasten the development of this section.

THIS is the time of year when one must be extremely careful to keep the hands and face from chapping.

Since careless washing before going outdoors usually is the beginning of the trouble, the best preventive is the following:

Use Ivory Soap, rinse with cold water, dry thoroughly.

Ivory is the safe soap because it contains nothing to irritate the skin. It merely cleanses perfectly, leaving the skin in the healthiest possible condition.

FARMERS' CLUBS ARE BUSY THIS WINTER

Itasca County Organizations Are Holding Regular Sessions.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—These are busy times for the various farmers' clubs in Itasca county which are holding regular meetings and discussing the year's work.

The Harris township club met Saturday evening and decided that the club will have a township exhibit at the county fair next fall. Seed will be furnished free to any who wish to raise products for displays in this exhibit. The club will hold an exhibit shortly before the fair, at which prizes will be paid for the best products, which will be used as a part of the township exhibits. C. K. Mundy, O. J. Niles and S. P. Hegdahl will have charge of the township exhibit at the county fair.

The next meeting of the Harris club will be on Feb. 13, and it will be a dairy meeting, the topic being "The Kind of Cows the Farmers of This Section Should Buy." W. M. West, who holds some very decided views on the subject, will open the meeting.

Blackberry Club.

The Blackberry Farmers' club members held their first annual banquet at the Blackberry consolidated school, the social center for the community, last Thursday evening. The Blackberry club was organized a year ago in December.

There were over 100 present, all members of the club with the exception of the teachers of the Blackberry school, Mr. Vanpatter, Miss Landry and Mr. Deimers, manual training teacher, and Sherman Dickinson, agricultural instructor, and Mrs. Dickinson.

The large crowd sat down to a fine banquet, and after all had partaken of the meal, short talks were made by Nile McKinley, president of the club; Mr. Delmers, Mr. Dickinson, Seymour Washburn, Elmer and Ed Miller, Axel V. Anderson, J. P. Murphy, Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Anderson and others.

The annual election of officers was postponed until next Thursday evening, the regular meeting date of the club.

Grand Rapids Club.

The Grand Rapids Farmers' club will meet next Saturday at the high school building, and the Laprairie club will hold its next meeting on Friday evening, Feb. 5. At both meetings Miss Frances P. Lapham of Caledonia will speak. Miss Lapham is working with the extension division of the state university.

EVELETH STORE BADLY DAMAGED

Fire Late Sunday Night in Establishment on Grant Avenue.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fire which was discovered by the police shortly before midnight last night did considerable damage in the clothing store of Masinter Bros. on Grant avenue.

The actual loss from fire was not great as the department got it under control promptly but there was a heavy smoke and water loss.

The building is owned by M. L. Wilk of Virginia and both building and stock was insured. The structure is of frame construction standing between two other frame buildings and a possible disastrous fire was averted by the prompt discovery of the fire, which was apparently caused by an over-heated or defective stove.

WOULD KEEP MINORS FROM CARRYING GUNS.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. E. Everett, range probation officer, has had drafted bills to be presented to the state legislature relating to the handling and possession of firearms and ammunition by minors under the age of 16 years. Both these bills propose amendments to laws made at the last legislature. The changes proposed are to prohibit minors under the age of 16 years to handle or have in his possession or control, except while accompanied by or under the immediate charge of his parent or guardian, any firearm or ammunition of any kind for hunting or target practices or any other purpose to prohibit the sale of firearms or ammunition to minors under 16 years of age, and to reduce the age limit for hunting from 18 to 16 years of age.

COLERAINE BAND CONCERT.

Many Attend and Affair Is Voted Splendid Success.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Saturday night band concert at the village auditorium was unusually good and the audience large and appreciative. In addition to the well-rendered numbers by the Coleraine band under the direction of V. H. Gillette, there were several vocal selections by the male quartet composed of Messers Fahey, Walski, Jennings and Schoengarth. The most popular number was the solo by Miss Mae Tresider, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," in which the made quartet assisted with the chorus and the band played the refrain. The following was the program: March, "Fritz March," Fred Jewell; overture, "Psyche," Barnhouse; male quartet, "Moonlight on the Lake," Fahey, Walski, Schoengarth, Jennings; solo, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," Miss Mae Tresider; waltz, "Spirit of the Dance," G. E. Holmes; solo, "If I Were King," J. E. Jennings; characteristic, "Dance of the Imps," King; made quartet, "The Friar's Song;" finale, "Star Spangled Banner," Miss Bertha Ramquist, accompanist.

SPEAKS BEFORE BOVEY CLUB ON CHILD WELFARE

MRS. PETER OLESON.

Bovey, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Peter Olesen of Cloquet, vice president of the Federated Women's clubs of the Eighth congressional district, addressed the Community club here last Friday afternoon at the Bovey school auditorium. Her subject was "Child Welfare," and her address was one of the best ever given before the club. This organization is composed of the mothers and teachers of the Bovey school which has for its object the mutual advancement of the home and the school.

CONVICT'S WARDROBE PROVES SOME AFFAIR.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wardrobe of Matt Ala, sent to the penitentiary last year after being convicted of robbing Felix Sitola in a local lodging house of $300, had some wardrobe, as developed at the sale of his effects conducted in municipal court today, from which $80.10 was realized and turned over to his victim. Among the articles sold were 58 collars, 75 neckties, 6 gold watches, several hats and 4 fine sets of women's furs. Some of the articles had apparently been stolen.

MOUNTAIN IRON MAN BRAIN CLOT VICTIM

Over Exertion in Basket Ball Game Is Blamed for Death.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Basket ball is not such a harmless game as some may think, as Adolph Leppi, a well-known young man of this village, died today from the effects of overexertion in a quint contest a few days ago. Mr. Leppi, aged 23, who was employed as an electrician at the Brunt mine, took part in a strenuous game here. He was the victim of a blood clot on the brain caused by too much exertion in the game, according to physicians. He was a well known resident here and his death is generally deplored.

ANNUAL DOWER BANQUET.

Concern Owning Many Lumber Yards Entertains Managers.

Wadena, Minn., Feb. 1.—The annual banquet of the Dower Lumber company, owning many lumber yards in Minnesota, including some on the iron ranges, was held here Saturday night in the M. E. church dining room and was served by the ladies' aid. All the yard managers and their ladies were present. Mr. Dower, the founder of the company, lived in Duluth for many years, but now resides here.

EAGLE BEND, MINN., CHILD IS CALLED.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Myrtle Elmes, the 5-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Elmes of Eagle Bend, Minn., died here yesterday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Hastings, of heart trouble resulting from a severe attack of diphtheria and kidney trouble, from which the child has been suffering for some time.

Myrtle had been making an extended visit here with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hastings, and had made a host of friends in the city. Her mother arrived the first of last week and her father is expected today. Until his arrival no arrangements will be made for the funeral.

NASHWAUK SALOON MAN IS BURIED.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Domenick Tarro, age 50, died here Friday afternoon from a complication of diseases. Mr. Tarro was well known here, having resided here for the past thirteen years, and during that time has conducted a saloon. His wife died here about a year ago of diabetes. He is survived by two sons and two daughters. The relatives of the family arrived Saturday evening and interment was made in the local cemetery Sunday afternoon.

MINISTER'S WIFE OF VIRGINIA IN PULPIT.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Milma Lappala, wife of the Rev. Mr. Lappala, pastor of the Finnish Unitarian church, occupied the pulpit of her husband's church yesterday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The subject of her sermon was "The Holy War of the Future." Mrs. Lappala is a graduate of a theological school and an ordained minister, and for several years before her marriage filled a regular charge in the Finnish Unitarian church.

HUNTING LICENSES ONLY FOR CITIZENS

Is Object of Bill Fathered on the Mesaba Range.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A section of the bill amending state fish and game laws drafted by range sportsmen and placed into the hands of a committee at St. Paul for introduction before the state legislature, it is claimed, will make many foreigners working in the mines take out citizenship papers and will spare the lives of numerous song birds and harmless animals of the forests.

The section would make it unlawful for any foreigner to take out licenses or be permitted to purchase firearms or ammunition of any kind.

It is customary in the summer time for foreign colonies at locations here to shoot all kinds of wild birds and make "stew" in conjunction with Sabbath festivities. These celebrations are usually culminated by a shooting fray wherein arrests are made for discharging firearms within the village limits or carrying concealed weapons. Convictions for these offenses have been made repeatedly by Municipal Judge Thomas F. Brady. Most foreigners arrested for this offense, although they have lived here for years, have not taken out citizenship papers.

HERRING FISHING SEASON IS ENDED

Over 1,000 Tons Shipped From Two Harbors This Season.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the freezing over of Lake Superior along the north shore, the local fishing industry has closed. The season has been a very successful one, and all things considered, the fishermen are well satisfied with their season's catch. The fishermen were able to fill all their orders, due largely to the fact that they commenced fishing two weeks earlier than last season, and also they report that the demand for the frozen herring was not quite so heavy this season as last. Last year many of the local shippers returned hundreds of dollars' worth of orders which they were unable to fill before the freezing over of the lake put an end to the business. At present there are about fifty tons of fish on the local docks for which there is no market, but the owners expect to receive sufficient orders to take all on hand.

Shipped Over 1,000 Tons.

It is estimated that there was considerably over 1,000 tons of frozen herring shipped from the local port this season to all parts of Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and as far west as Montana. Most of the shipments were made in 100-pound lots. The volume of frozen fish would have been greatly increased had the weather been more favorable. During the freezing weather, when the shipping was possible, the lake was unusually rough, making it impossible for the boats to make the unprotected landings of the various fishermen along the north shore, as well as causing considerable loss to the fishermen by losing their nets. The fishermen also complained that during the earlier part of the season the fish appeared to be unusually scarce, more so than they have ever been before.

Most of the small gasoline boats, which have been busy, are tied up for the balance of the winter in the local harbor. The fish steamers Crescent and Richardson of Duluth have also tied up here for the winter. On account of the recent freeze-up they were unable to enter the Duluth harbor with their cargoes and were forced to return to this port and unload their consignments to be shipped to Duluth by rail.

The fish industry, which appears as yet to be in its infancy here, has proven a great success for those who are in the business. A few years ago those who were already in the business little thought that this industry would grow to such dimensions, but as it has become more established each year and the demand for the fish increases, through increased advertising by the dealers, it is as an undisputed fact that the fish industry in this city has a great future before it.

104 Tons in Two Days.

In two days during the first part of January, there was 104 tons of fresh frozen herring shipped from here. On one of these two days sixty tons were shipped. It required eight full boxcars to handle this amount, which was by far the record for one day.

The principal local shippers are: Sam Johnson & Son, Lind Bros., Jr., Johnson & Hendrickson, and John Degerstedt. Others who ship in larger quantities are: Jenson & Sons, Two Harbors Fish company; Charles Anderson, Jensen & Edison, Sjoquist & Carlson, Andrew Peterson, Johnson & Carr, Fenstadt Bros., Mattson & Goss, Slotness & Co., The North Shore Fish company and Jensen Bros.

VIRGINIA SKIERS IN TRYOUT ON SUNDAY.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many members of the Virginia Ski club were out at the big slide Sunday practicing for future contests. Many local and Eveleth people watched the sport. The local club will enter two professional riders and three amateurs in the national tournament to be held at Duluth Feb. 6 and 7. Ole Feiring and John Evenson will represent the club in the professional class, and Bert Hanson, Adolph Nyland and Albert Forti will appear in the amateur events.

A special car will carry Virginia rooters and their representatives to the big meet. Members of the club are busy registering fans who wish to make the trip.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

VIRGINIA POLICE HAD BUSY YEAR

Chief Gately's Annual Report Shows Work of Department.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia fire and police commission tonight will hear the annual report of Police Chief Owen Gately and probably take some action on the requests made for a reorganization in pay of members of the force. The chauffeurs on the patrol wagons ask that they be paid $100, the pay of regular policeman, while some of the other members of the force are seeking raises in pay. The chief's annual report will show the following:

Total arrests, 1,874; lodgers taken in, 2,364; fines collected, $3,224.50; police wagon called out, 770 times; treated by jail physicians, 13, of whom 4 had delirium tremens; blind-pig arrests, 24, of which 10 were dismissed by the county attorney, 3 cases continued and the balance paid $310 fines; weapons confiscated, 29 revolvers, 2 shotguns, 1 rifle, 3 razors, 15 knives and 14 metal knuckles.

GIVEN DIVORCE FROM EVELETH CHINAMAN.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—Judge Martin Hughes has granted to Hilja Fam, a divorce from Charles Fam, who has been running a restaurant at Eveleth. They were married Feb. 12, 1912, Hilja alleges that, whereas she was doing her utmost to help Charles Fam establish a thriving business, he in return on occasions threw plates and other articles at her and mistreated her. The application was made on the grounds of cruel and inhumane treatment.

VIRGINIANS EXCITED OVER REGIMENT LOSS.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been some excitement here today over press dispatches telling of the loss of life in the Princess Patricia regiment from Canada near La Bassee, France, as it was feared the Ed Roper killed was the same person who once lived here. It develops, however, that he came from Alberta, while the Virginia Roper in the regiment is G. S. R. Roper, whose relatives live in Yorkshire, Eng., and who, so far as known, was not killed.

RANGE PIONEER IS REPORTED DYING.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. Ellertson, former postmaster here and one of the pioneers of the Mesaba range, is reported near to death at his home here today. Mr. Ellertson is about 60 years old and has lived on the Mesaba range for seventeen years.

Winter Lumber Office.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Spang & Hoolihan are opening up an office for their sawmill and lumbering business in one of the buildings owned by M. McAlpine on Fourth street, adjoining the office of H. S. Huson. This office will be occupied until spring when the office will be removed to the sawmill.

Chisholm Dog Races.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations are being made for the annual dog race Feb. 22. William Mueller is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Flip Harrington. Single and double dog team races will be held for prizes offered by the business men.

COLDER AND THEN WARMER

Northwestern Conditions Will Affect Temperature at Duluth.

Bad Storm Creates Havoc With Wires South of Here.

There is no weather map, or other formal and comprehensive weather statement today, as is usually the daily offering in The Herald, for the reason that the wires are down and Weather Forecaster Richardson has been unable to "wise up" on conditions elsewhere, except in the Northwest.

There has been a heavy sleet, rain and snow storm in the Middle Mississippi river valley and it has raised hob with the wires.

Mr. Richardson said this morning that the weather has been much colder in the Northwest, but that it is rapidly warming up in the extreme Northwest; so that Duluth may expect colder weather tonight with a return to the higher temperature tomorrow.

At 7 o'clock this morning the mercury was 2 deg. above zero and at 10 it was 4 deg. up. However that is likely to be knocked out and below zero weather experienced before nightfall.

The prevailing winds will be northwest, shifting to northeast.

A year ago today the weather was soft in the morning, later turning to freezing.

The sun rose this morning at 7:33 and will set this evening at 5:10, giving nine hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

General forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday follow:

Minnesota—Heavy snow tonight and probably Tuesday; colder Tuesday.

Wisconsin—Heavy snow tonight and Tuesday, probably mixed with rain in south portion; colder Tuesday.

Iowa—Heavy snow tonight and probably Tuesday; mixed with rain in east portion; colder.

North Dakota—Probably snow in east portion tonight and Tuesday; unsettled in west portion.

South Dakota—Snow in east portion tonight and Tuesday; probably heavy tonight; partly cloudy in west portion.

Montana—Cloudy tonight and Tuesday, probably rain or snow in west portion.

Lower Michigan—Snow in north, rain or snow in south portions tonight and Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Snow tonight and probably Tuesday.

Is Accidentally Shot.

McLeod, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—While handling a revolver, Bernard Benson, a young man near here, was shot in the thigh and was hurried across the country to Leonard to a physician.

WEST END

MILLS BEGIN THIS WEEK

Mullery-McDonald Sawmill Will Employ 200 Men Tuesday.

Alger-Smith Will Employ 400 More on Wednesday.

Two hundred men will be put to work tomorrow and an additional 400 men will go to work on Wednesday in two of the largest sawmills of the city located in the West end. Tomorrow morning the Mullery-McDonald sawmill will begin a day and night run employing the former number of men.

The fires in the large boilers were started during the latter part of last week and this morning a crowd of men who will be put to work on the day crew were at the mill to be present during a short trial run. The trial run occupied about fifteen minutes of time during which the men were assigned to the various places that they will occupy and foremen looked over the machinery to ascertain whether or not everything was in first-class shape for operating.

About 110 men will go to work on the morning shift while about 90 will go to work on the night shift, which will begin at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Arrangements are about complete for the opening of the Alger-Smith sawmill at the foot of Garfield avenue on Wednesday morning. On Saturday a large crew of men were employed cutting the ice out of the mills' "hot pond" and this work will be completed today. Tomorrow the steam will be turned on so as to keep the place from freezing. The mill will employ about 225 men on the day shift and about 200 on the night shift. A trial run will be held tomorrow morning to test the machinery.

ELECT SCHOOL CONTROL BOARD

Bryant School Finds Pupil-Government All That Could Be Desired.

The election of a board of control for the Bryant school will take place among the pupils of the school on Wednesday. This election is a semi-annual affair at the school and usually takes place within a week following the beginning of each semester.

The board of control constitutes two pupils from each of the grades in the school. One boy and one girl from each room is elected. To this board is referred all questions pertaining to misdemeanors of the pupils and punishment for the unruly is meted out by it.

The discipline at the school, since the organization of this board of control, has been far better than ever before in the history of the school, according to Miss Katherine A. King, principal of the school. The pupils also do all of the hall work thereby relieving the teachers of work that usually took an average of half an hour each day.

Through the organization of the board an example of the quickness and dispatch with which things are done at the school was shown on Friday afternoon, graduation day at the school. A total of 700 children had to be moved. The transfer was made under the direction of the board of control and the children transfered to their new rooms and seats, in the space of fifty-five minutes.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE COURSE FINISHED

Social Center at Bryant School Will Continue Other Activities, However.

Domestic science classes at the social center of the Bryant school will be discontinued until the first meeting of the center in March, according to announcement made by Miss Katherine King, director of the center this morning. The entire course which was started early in September has been completed during which time all of the work pertaining to the art of cooking has been taken up by the instructor. The same course will be taken up in March and will continue until the middle of June.

This evening the Girls' Glee club, the girls' gymnasium class and the boys' gymnasium class will meet. The glee club will meet at 7:15 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening the Boys' Glee club will meet at 7:15 o'clock. The club is making plans for giving a concert at an early date. At 8:15 the dancing club will meet. The club was organized from the membership of the dancing class and social dancing is allowed for over an hour. Membership to the club is limited and each applicant must have his or her name presented to the club before being allowed to join. Miss Margaret Jeffreys is president, and Miss Myrtle McDonald is secretary and treasurer of the organization.

A lecture on "Contagious Diseases" will be a feature of the meeting of the Mothers' club to be held tomorrow afternoon. Dr. A. M. Nicholson will give the lecture at 4 o'clock.

Swedish Mission Notes.

The monthly business meeting of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will be held tomorrow evening.

A number of cottage prayer meetings will be held this week by the congregation. Tomorrow evening two will be held, one at the home of Paul Perling, 2124 Piedmont avenue, and also at the home of Mrs. Julia Erickson, 4129 Puleston street, Lakeside. On Thursday evening, at the home of Andrew Lundgren, 1048 Garfield avenue, and on Friday evening at the home of Emil Uyberg, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Ninth street.

Midweek services will be held at the church Wednesday evening. The Parthenoe society will meet at the same time and will render the program. Following, a social session will be held, at which Mrs. Erick Carlson will be hostess.

Thursday evening Rev. J. J. Daniels will have charge of similar services at the East end mission.

Special song service has been planned at the church next Sunday evening.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

CHANGE IN COURSES.

Bryant School Introduces New System in Higher Grades.

What may be the beginning of studies of high school subjects and the ultimate teachings of the entire high school courses in the West end was started this morning at the Bryant school, Vernon and Third streets. Ninth grade studies, which evolve similar work as that now taught in the freshman classes of the high school, were taken up by the class that graduated out of the eighth grade of that institution last Friday.

The subjects to be given the class will include Latin, algebra, English history, English composition and other higher studies. It is believed that this arrangement will result ultimately in the creation of full high school courses after the classes in a year or two have been transferred to the proposed junior high school building that will be erected adjoining the Lincoln school.

Swedish M. E. Notes.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Swedish Methodist church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Broman, 1913 West Third street. The Sunday school board will meet at the same place tomorrow night.

The choir will meet on Wednesday evening at the home of the pastor, Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, 314 North Twentieth avenue west.

Midweek services will be held in the church on Thursday evening. C. E. Peterson will be leader.

The Epworth League society will entertain at a social and literary program on Friday evening at the church.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. William Lewis, 2618 West Fourth street, will entertain Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the St. Luke's guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

Joe Mettler was picked up lying on the street car tracks near Eleventh avenue west and Michigan street by a street car crew last Saturday night. He was at first believed to have been injured, but an examination at the hospital showed no injury. He was later taken to the police station. The street car narrowly missed running over the man.

Mrs. Harley Sinberg, 2404 West Fourth street, is spending a week visiting relatives in the Twin Cities.

Central Plumbing & Heating company, 2004 W. Superior St. Lincoln 593.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Baptist church will hold a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Alma Murphy, 2615 Huron street, Wednesday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, will meet in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon.

AD VIGILANCE TO BE HIS SUBJECT

Minneapolis Man Will Address Duluth Merchants and Ad Men.

H. J. Kenner, secretary of the vigilance committee of the Minneapolis Ad Forum, will arrive here tomorrow for the purpose of giving a talk before the Duluth Ad club and the Retail Merchants' association at the St. Louis hotel that evening. The dinner, preceding the address will begin at 6:30.

At the last meeting of the Ad club it was decided to co-operate with the Retail Merchants' association in having some speaker from Minneapolis describe the vigilance work there, and it was figured that the address would be arranged for some time in March. However, the retail merchants decided that the affair should take place at once and arrangements were made by long distance telephone.

The vigilance committee seeks to discourage and oust all nefarious or unworthy advertising schemes from the city, and to standardize and keep advertising up to an ethical level. Minneapolis has had a good deal of experience in this work of late and the secretary of the Minneapolis committee will tell how the work was done there and the results attained.

UNCLE SAM'S EMPLOYES WANT RAISE IN WAGES

A plea for an advance in the salaries of civil service employes of the Federal government is being made by the United States Civil Service Retirement association in a document being sent out to persons employed in the service. It is said that nearly 300 employes in Duluth would be affected by the raise. Government salaries in this line have not been advanced in fifty-three years, according to the association, while the cost of living has gone up rapidly in the last few years. The association would secure support for the Austin bill now before congress, which provides for an advance of 15 per cent in salaries and a fund for the aid of superannuated employes.

LETTER TAKES TRIP OF 19,000 MILES

Carl Kling Gets Missive Which Was Written on Sept. 7.

The vigilance and activity of mail clerks is shown in a marked degree by the arrival of a letter to Carl Kling, a Duluth real estate agent, after the missive had traveled a distance of 19,000 miles.

The wanderings of Ulysses after the Trojan war sink into insignificance when compared to the journeyings of this letter. From Konstanz, Germany, to Port Angeles, Wash., back to Konstanz, then to Gothenburg, Sweden, then to Seattle, Wash., and finally to Duluth, sum up the connecting links of the route taken by the letter.

The letter was written by Kling's sister in Germany Sept. 7, 1914, and sent to Port Angeles, where Kling had been staying. It was immediately returned to Germany, but on account of the war was not received there until Nov. 21. Mrs. Kling's sister, who is Mrs. Ludwig Boell, the wife of a German captain, sent the letter to her mother in Gothenburg, Sweden. From there it was sent to Seattle, where Kling had made his home. Then it was sent to Duluth.

As the letter was written shortly after the war broke out, it contains little that is news now. A letter written Mr. Kling's sister states that she has become a nurse at Konstanz, where more than 500 soldiers lie. Her husband, she stated, had just returned from the war because of injuries, having received the iron cross for his services.

HAVE YOU HAD THE GRIP?

The debility and depression following an attack of the grip is not a fancied disorder. "Post-grippal neurasthenia" is the medical name for this condition and its seriousness is recognized by all medical writers.

One authority says: "Broadly speaking, every victim of the grip will suffer from post-grippal neurasthenia also. Lowering of nervous tone, with increased irritability is the most striking effect of the disease, with languor of mind and body, disturbed sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere."

Every sufferer will recognize the symptoms. What is the remedy?

After the fever has passed and the influenza has subsided the diet should be more liberal but be limited to articles easily digested; rest and sufficient sleep are essential and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the only medicine required in most cases. This treatment should be continued until the patient is completely restored to normal health and spirits. It is a specific treatment and rarely if ever fails.

Send today for the booklet "Building Up the Blood." It is free if you mention this paper. Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

EXPLOITS OF ELAINE AT THE STAR EVERY MON. TUE.

SLEET STORM PLAYS HAVOC WITH WIRES

Duluth Cut Off From Communication With Chicago.

Duluth this forenoon was completely cut off via North American Postal telegraph communication with Chicago. A heavy sleet and wind storm south of Milwaukee caused the paralyzing of all trunk lines into Chicago, it was said. The heavy copper wires were overburdened with sleet, and broke down. The Associated Press leased wire into The Herald office was the communication at 9:45 a. m. with Minneapolis, St. Paul, Winona, La Crosse and Milwaukee Associated Press points, but Chicago was "lost" at that time, with wire chiefs of the commercial companies making every effort to patch up a circuit into the Windy City.

Only fifty words had been received from Chicago up to 9:45 a. m., the fifty conveying the information that, according to Russian advices, dated Petrograd, Feb. 1, the Russians had recaptured a trench lost previously to the Germans.

It was said by Postal telegraph operators that but one wire remained up from Minneapolis to Milwaukee, which would indicate that the sleet extended past Milwaukee and towards the Twin Cities of Minnesota. This, however, has not been verified.

Sleet is the greatest enemy of the telegraph. Fog, rain and wind play havoc with telegraph wires, but sleet paralyzes or breaks the heavy copper lines through sheer weight.

At 9:50 a. m. Minneapolis "raised" the Associated Press office in Chicago, and "report" began rapidl yto arrive in The Herald telegraph room.

INTEREST IN ITALIAN LITERATURE GROWING.

Growing interest in Italian literature in the Northwest is shown by the fact that Attilio Castigliano, the Italian consul at Duluth, has been invited by the St. Paul public library to outline a department of Italian works for that institution.

Similar departments are being established in Duluth, Chisholm, Virginia and Hibbing. The Duluth library is to receive a large collection of Italian books. Mr. Castigliano has obtained the co-operation of the Dante Alighieri society of Rome in securing literature.

Villa Not Seriously Wounded.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 1.—Gen. Francisco Villa, reported shot and seriously wounded, was seen Saturday by passengers arriving here from Aguas Callentes, where Villa recently established headquarters. Apparently he was not suffering from a serious wound.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer, if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

THE DAILY ROLL CALL; A COLUMN OF SPORTS

GENTLEMEN, it is with a great deal of pleasure that I introduce to you the principal speaker of the evening. He needs but small praise and no comment. In the words of Shakespeare, "He's a regular fellow." Gentlemen, again let me quote from the classics, "It's a long alley that has no ash cans in it—and every man has his evening." Gentlemen, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker rises and smiles that particularly fatuous smile that every speaker gets in the habit of wearing. Let us add right here that some public speakers get so that they carry this particularly fatuous smile around on the streets. It is a terrible affliction. Several of the speaker's friends applaud as he stands, the fatuous smile still fatuousing. The speaker bows. After this he takes a drink of water. That is one of the rules of the game. All regular speakers take a drink of water before they speak; lots of regular speakers take a drink of something else after they speak. Sometimes this broad assertion goes for some of the members of the audience. But back to the subject.

The speaker clears his throat. Most speakers do. Then he places his hands behind his back. All speakers do not do this, but in the amateur orator's guide this is one of the favorite pose illustrations. Then the speaker rises on his toes. This is another favorite habit of all public speakers. It is supposed to give force and emphasis to words and phrases. As a matter of fact it gives members of the audience the willies. This same habit it used in gymnasiums to develop the calves. Thus we see how the same idea may be utilized for widely different ends.

This is the time for the speaker to say that he did not expect to be called upon. He also says he came to the gathering with the understanding that he would not be called upon. Does he look disappointed that he is called upon? He does not. The fatuous smile is going strong at the first quarter. If he had not been called upon, the chances are that he would have gone home and knocked the meeting.

Right after saying that he did not expect to be called upon and that he has been taken wholly by surprise, like a young lady who has spent two laborious hours in her boudoir with curling iron, powder—heaven forgive us—and other aides to giddiness—and who rushes down to meet him and coyly cries, "Why, Jack dear, I am looking just awful, I forgot you were coming and have not fixed myself up"—the speaker digs down in the tail pocket of his coat—all orators carry their speeches in the coat tail pocket, and pulls out twenty-eight pages of closely typewritten matter.

Those near the speaker sometimes grow faint. The old stagers settle back, lean back in their chairs, though it is not considered polite in the best circles of society, and prepare to sleep through it.

"Ladies and gentlemen, Duluth has the greatest hockey team in the world (applause). Ah, ladies and gentlemen, had I but the eloquence and power to pay a justly adequate compliment to our great hockey team. (Smiles fatuously and waits for applause (applause) (takes a drink of water). It is indeed with great pleasure that I appear before you. As I look into your bright and intelligent faces, I cannot help but think of a story. (Pulls an old one of the vintage of '61). But seriously, ladies and gentlemen, we have the greatest hockey team in the world. Why, a gentleman from Fort William, a wealthy man, a man who rose from the ranks and knows full well the value of the dear dollar, wanted to wager $1,000 on the Fort William team. Ah, ladies and gentlemen, think what our boys did to that remarkable team from the majestic head of the Canadian lakes. (Applause.)

(Takes drink). Rises on toes. (Extends right hand, shaking a long and menacing first finger). Let me tell you that we have one of the greatest hockey teams in the world. We are after the hockey championship of the United States. We have the greatest trainer in the world (here Bill Trepanier rises in the back of the hall and bows to the people), (great applause.) (Bill starts to speak, but is pulled down by John MacGreggor). As I said, ladies and gentlemen, the greatest trainer in the world. I think the curling club is going to present him with a gold watch at the end of the season. I say, I think so. Ah, but ladies and gentlemen, our hockey team. We have a wonderful team (consults notes), a remarkable team, ladies and gentlemen. But it faces a grave crisis. Ladies and gentlemen, it is going to St. Paul, our team, the pride of our city. It is going to play in the Hippodrome rink. This rink is so large, ladies and gentlemen, that players have been known to chase the puck into one corner of its great length and not get back before the game was over. The wily St. Paul men, ladies and gentlemen, will take full advantage of every opportunity. We have the greatest hockey team in the world, ladies and gentlemen, but on that immense, that mammoth rink, ladies and gentlemen * * *

At this point Bill Trepanier could no longer be restrained. William is a strong youth and he rose and spaketh:

"I just want to say right here that our boys are in the very best shape," said Bill. "I know 'cause I have trained the boys. I said to Linder, I said, Joe take the boys all out and run them ten miles out the Pike Lake road and then run them ten miles back. Joe says, ain't you going along, Bill? And I says to Joe, I says, no because I have to stay here and fix up the wrestling room for the boys so that when they come back they can wrestle and box and then take some of my paten stomach exercises. You know I have some paten stomach exercises. Some of the best business men in this city take them. Yes, sir, ladies and gentlemen—I mean men, these exercises will do you a lot of good. Why I took one man, he weighed 245 pounds and now he's a regular athlete. Yes, sir, I want to say right here that our hockey team is alright and that the boys will make them all go some. That's alright about the other teams, but I know what I'm talking about, 'cause I train the boys and they are in the finest shape * * *"

But we sure have some hockey team. Bill and the principal speaker are right. Duluth has developed a real team. Let us suggest that the American Soo be brought on. The Soo has been cleaning them all up—so has Duluth—it would be a great game. She would be a great game.

DULUTH OUT OF LEAGUE

President S. H. Jones Outlines Stand of Curling Club Hockey Team.

"If President Webb insists upon Haas playing with the Portage Lake team, Duluth is out of the Western Division of the American Hockey association." This was the statement made early today by President Stephen H. Jones of the Duluth Curling club. If Webb remains obdurate and insists upon Haas playing, it can be stated, definitely, that Duluth is out of the league for the present season at least.

If no further concessions are to be made by President Webb, it is stated that all further negotiations are off and that the matter stands closed.

NORTHERN LEAGUER JUMPS TO FEDS

Sub-Catcher Winfield of Fargo-Moorhead Aggregation Becomes Outlaw.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the Fargo-Moorhead aggregation of last year has jumped to the Federals. Sub-Catcher Winfield received a contract the other day from Dickinson and Unglaub and in the same mail got another from the Chifeds. Believing there was more possibility of improvement in the latter, he jumped. He does not expect to remain with the Chifeds, but assumes he will be transferred to some other team in the league or in the minor organization that is being started.

Winfield caught a few games last year when Catcher Murphy was out of the game, and also subbed at first. He is a long hitter with the promise of developing along that line, but he did not star either as a backstop or first sacker. Since the close of the season last fall he has been in the employ of the Standard Oil company here.

It is understood that Dickinson and Unglaub are signing up quite a bunch, but will have very few of last year's players on the 1915 team, as Mike Cantilon is said to plan to take some of them to St. Boniface. Col. "Bob" Unglaub will bring a number from the East with him in the spring.

BIG MATCH POSTPONED

Miller and Ketonen Are to Wrestle One Week From Tuesday.

Pole Says "I Must Be Right for This Contest."

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

"I started working out here today for the big match and you can bet that I am going to be right, for Charley Cutler, Earl Craddock and Eddie McGoorty are going to help me get in condition. Regards to my friends. Mike Yokel here tomorrow. How about him as referee?

"WALTER MILLER."

It remained for Walter Miller to postpone the mat battle with Waino Ketonen. The Pole and the little Finn were billed to settle once for all the much mooted question of supremacy tomorrow evening. The big contest that has aroused more real interest than any match made here in years, has been set over for one week. It will be wrestled out on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 9.

Ketonen arrived Friday, with the very smell of the training camp upon him. If ever a wrestler looked right, it is this little Finn. For three weeks he has been working with a squad chosen from some of Nebraska's best wrestlers. Ketonen is on the ground, ready and anxious to wrestle. His confidence is best stated when it is said that he wants to back himself.

When Ketonen learned that the contest was postponed a week, he said little. Immediately he looked up training quarters and went to work. Ketonen had not been in Duluth an hour before he took a workout. Yesterday Ketonen started on the grind of another week. When he steps on the mat for the battle that is to decide many things—and to settle once for all whether Miller or Ketonen is the greatest 158-pound wrestler—the Finn promises to be right.

What About Miller?

Miller wired Tilt Lewis for a week's postponement of the contest—"So as to be right, as you know this match means everything to me."

The fans here want Miller right. Let it be said that Ketonen has gone on record as desiring Miller to be in the best of shape.

Miller is working in Chicago with Cutler, Craddock, one of the greatest young wrestlers in the world, and Eddie McGoorty, as the above dispatch states. The little Pole should be in the condition of his life when he steps to the middle of the mat to answer once for all the long burning question—Can Walter Miller defeat any 158-pound wrestler in the world?

CURLING

Ron McLeod, Elmer Whyte, Ralph Bradley and Billy Dinham are the skips chosen to play against Superior curlers in the Manley-McLennan contest. The rinks that will endeavor to stop Superior were decided upon at a dinner held at the curling club Saturday evening.

The get-together dinner held at the curling club on Saturday evening was a distinct success. There was a large attendance.

DULUTH IS THE WINNER

Fort William Defeated in Fast Hockey Game, 7 to 2.

Linder's Men Show Great Team Work and Endurance.

Fort William was defeated in the second and final game of the series with the crack Duluth Curling club hockey team Saturday evening by the cleancut and decisive score of 7 to 2.

Excelling in team work and at various stages of the contest playing the visitors from the neighboring country off their feet, and at times smothering Fort William by the speed and intensity of its attack, Duluth overshadowed the Canucks, not only defeating them, but also holding the visitors comparatively safe at all stages of the game.

All of Fort William's scoring was done in the first half. The remarkable condition of Duluth asserted itself in the final period of play. When the gong clanged out the end of the first half, the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Linder & Co. In the second period the speed of the local attack seemed to increase, while the gallant Canadians were swept back to the trenches of defense, tired and vanquished by the irresistible onslaught of a team of players that were ever on their toes and always coming.

Mahan a Star.

"Handsome" Jack Mahan was one of the stellar lights of the game. The shooting of Duluth's left wing was one of the best exhibitions that has been given here in many a day. The remarkable exhibition of this boy played one of the leading roles in the successful production of victory.

The back checking of Mohon was another of the decided features of the game. The speed of the Canadian member of the local brigade of puck shooters enabled him to overtake the speed boys from the Dominion upon numerous occasions and check them from the rear. W. Adams, the scintilating point of the visitors, was the bright and particular star for Fort William. This chap exhibited bursting flights of speed reminiscent of "Hammy" Baker. Willie mads some great rushes down the ice with the rubber, and at all times he was a big factor in the stand of the visitors.

Canucks Score First.

Fort William scored in the first eight minutes of play. J. Adams made a shot for the net, the puck rebounding from Nicholson's stop. Lanky Armstrong was Johnny on the spot and drove old man rubber by the defense of the Duluth goal guardian.

Cheers rent the atmosphere precisely one minute later when Mohon drew the puck out from behind the visitors' net and made a pretty shot from a most difficult angle.

Just three minutes after this Mohon score again, this time getting a rebound shot that caromed away from the Fort William goal on a shot from Olson.

Joe Linder made a great rush down the ice with the puck, giving a clever display of stick handling in eluding the forwards and secondary defense of the visitors. Near the goal Joseph slipped the puck to Mahan, who made a pretty shot for goal.

John Adams made the final score of the Fort William outfit by skating through the Duluth team, in one of the prettiest plays of the evening, and feinting Nicholson out and caging a beauty.

Mohon closed the initial period of the game in highly sensational form, thus setting a neat little climax for the curtain, by rushing the puck from middle ice and caging a pretty goal, after a pretty exhibition of stick handling.

Duluth Plays Faster.

Maybe it was because of the slacking of play a trifle upon the part of the visitors, due to the terrific pace, but Duluth seemed to increase its speed in the second half. Right from the bell the locals started and completely played the Canadians off their feet.

Bogan scored in the first two minutes of play. Mahan scored right after Gill caged his, Jack's loft rolling in after hitting Flannagan's stick. Mahan made the final goal of the game, setting a climax to his remarkable play of the evening by making a great rush with the puck and lofting it in from side ice seven minutes before the close of play.

Right after the close of play, as Wilson was skating along and stooping for the puck, Joe Linder renewed the hostilities of the previous evening. Joe corked Wilson a peach. Spectators were on the ice by this time and closed around. Players grabbed the two men and further trouble was prevented.

The lineup and summary:

RUPPERT AND HUSTON TAKE OVER YANKEES.

New York, Feb. 1.—The transfer of the stock of the New York American league baseball club to Jacob Ruppert and T. L. Huston was completed here Saturday afternoon. President Ban Johnson stated that the new owners had paid the remainder of the purchase price due Frank Farrell and assumed control of the club.

The negotiations extended over a period of almost two months, the first payment of $55,000 having been made several weeks ago.

DULUTH AMATEUR LEAGUE MAKING A GREAT RECORD

City Hockey Players Are Playing Fine Brand of Puck Game and Big and Enthusiastic Crowds Are Watching the Games—Doubleheader on Program for This Evening.

Team Standing.

Team—	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Two Harbors	2	2	0	1,000
Universals	1	1	0	1,000
Big Duluths	3	2	1	.666
Northerns	2	1	1	.500
Bagleys	2	0	2	.000
D. C. H. S.	2	0	2	.000

Compelled to play in an open rink, and combating some of the severest weather known in years, it is remarkable the success that has so far been achieved by the Duluth Amateur Hockey league.

It requires genuine enthusiasm for followers of the game to stand in the open, when the thermometer is hovering near the lower extremity of the tube, and lustily cheer for the sport.

But enthusiasm and a healthy attendance have marked all of the games of the league since the belated start of the season. Amateur sport has never received a greater or more deserved boost than that received by the local teams from an enthusiastic following.

Two Harbors Strong.

From the standpoint of consistency, Two Harbors must be handed the palm. The railroad gang, with little Sullivan as one of the stars, has won both of its games, defeating the Bagleys and the high school seven.

Last season the Lake Hardware team was one of the strongest sevens ever organized in this city. But few changes have been made in that team, which this year is playing under the name of the Universals. A postponement of the game scheduled between the Universals and Two Harbors has delayed a test of strength that was eagerly anticipated by the followers of the league.

The Universals have defeated the Big Duluth this season, and so, according to comparative dope, rank next to Two Harbors in strength.

It is rather early in the race to make comparisons or base showings. All of the teams look strong. Several of the teams have been strengthened since the start of the season. It looks like a real race between real teams, and it also appears certain that Duluth is rapidly developing some hockey players that the fans here can shout over, grow enthusiastic about, and feel justly proud of.

Foundation Being Laid.

Close observers of the game declare that the Duluth Amateur Hockey league is laying the foundation for a great league. Often it has been compared with the city league of Winnipeg. Now the Duluth league cannot compare with Winnipeg, but the time is rapidly coming when this same little league, backed by some of the most progressive business concerns of this city, must be finally and definitely recognized.

This evening at the French rink followers of the league will have a real treat served up. The Universals will make their second start of the season. The Northerns and Universals will clash in a contest that is to start at 7:30. Immediately after the initial game the Two Harbors team and the Big Duluths are to hook up.

This is by far the most attractive bill of the season. It brings together the four leaders. In the Big Duluths the railroad men will meet some team, and in the meeting between the Northerns and Universals some real battle is promised.

HARRY WOLFE TO BE WITH THE SOX

Harry Wolfe, who played a strong game for Duluth last season at short stop, has signed a contract for the season of 1915. It is generally believed that Wolfe will show improvement over his 1914 form, as he is a youngster and a hard worker.

Darby O'Brien will play alongside of Wolfe, it is believed, with Bud Croake at first, and a third baseman yet to be determined upon.

Toney Goes to Feds.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 1—Fred Toney, pitcher for the Louisville American Association club, who was drafted by the Brooklyn Nationals, announced yesterday he had signed a contract with the Pittsburg Federal League club.

OSWEGO IS VERY STRONG

New York Basket Ball Team Claims the World's Title.

Rotary Quint Ready for Great Fight Against the Veterans.

Duluth fans will witness the most ambitious basket ball offering ever given here on Wednesday evening, when the Oswego, N. Y., quint, holders of the world's championship title, stack up against Lawrence Duby's Rotary club five, by far the strongest team that has ever been produced at the Head of the Lakes.

For three successive years, 1910, 1911 and 1912, the Oswego team won the championship of the Mohawk Valley league. On Jan. 21, 22 and 23, 1914, the Oswego five defeated the Buffalo Germans in a contest that was announced for the championship of the world.

Starting in 1905, the Oswego team won 19 and lost five games. The next 22 games were won and no games lost. In 1907-8, 30 games were won with no losses. In 1908-9, 44 games were won and four lost. The following season 40 games were won and six lost. In 1910-11, 57 games were won and three lost. The following year 66 games were won to a loss of six. In 1912 and 1913, 58 games were won and seven lost. Last season 61 games measured the winning record of the corn starch players and nine games were the extent of the losses.

All Ready for Game.

The contest will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Circus seats will be placed at the ends of the big gymnasium, thus giving the spectators on the main floor an excellent view of the game. The coming of the world's champion basket ball team is expected to bring out a large gathering of fans.

With eight of the stars of the Head of the Lakes to use during the game, Lawrence Duby believes that the local men will make a remarkable stand against the Oswego veterans.

Duluth players have been practicing for the last two months. Every evening since early in the season the team candidates have been out. Every man in the Duluth squad is a star. Duby declares that team work has been de-

SKI IN RAIN, FOG AND SLEET

Annual Tournament in Chicago Takes Place Despite Poor Conditions.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—A downpour of chilling rain, sleet, fog and several inches of mushy, melting snow handicapped but could not prevent the annual ski tournament of the Norge Ski club of Chicago, held yesterday at Gary, Ill.

Lars Haugen of Chippewa Falls, Wis., carried away professional honors with 280 1-3 points. His first leap was 125 feet, standing, and his second 127 feet also standing. Anders Haugen, Milwaukee, brother of the victor, made the longest standing jump, 129 feet. Ragnar Omtvedt, holder of the world's record, 169½ feet, failed to show championship form. Neither of his jumps showed more than 116 feet.

Thorlief Knudsen of Milwaukee took second prize with 271 1-3 points, giving Anders Haugen with 271 points third place. Omtvedt fell, spraining the right hip, which was injured in the Mount Horeb meet a week ago.

Chris Jellum, Chicago, took first honors in the amateur division with 110 feet; J. Gattersen of Beloit, Wis., was second and Arne Sletner, Chicago, third.

Following are the entries:

AMATEURS.

S. Bergesen, Duluth; Ing. Sands, A. Schou, Oscar Sundby, Melvin Sundby, Stoughton; J. Guttormson, Waldo Hansen, Mark Yost, Christen Johnson, Alfred Burresen, Beloit; Anders Olson, Iola, Wis.; Edgar Nielsen, Madison, Wis.; Earl Gundersen, Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Gilbert Hagens, O. Smithborg, Mount Horeb, Wis.; Jack Beard, George Campen, University of Wisconsin; Hans Hansen, Minneapolis; Sven Welhaven, Milwaukee; Frank Olden, Minar Jensen, Haldor Hagen, Fred Braun, Einar Congell, Christ Jellum, Terje Jensen, George Ostensen, Eugene Petersen, Nels Ruud, Arno Sletner, Chicago.

PROFESSIONALS.

Regnar Omtredt, Sigurd Hansen, Chicago; David Lind, Menominee, Mich.; Barney Reiley, Blair, Wis.; Axel Henriksen, Duluth; Thorleif Knudsen, Anders Haugan, Milwaukee; Lars Haugan, Einar Lund, Oscar Gundersen, Knute Helland, Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Erling Lundwick, Mount Horeb, Wis.; Hans Andersen, Virginia, Minn.

FRED MARTIN WANTS RACE WITH BRYANT.

Fred Martin, world's champion long distance roller skater, as he claims, has sent a challenge to Frank Bryant. Martin is one of the best known skaters in the business and has participated in some of the biggest races held in Milwaukee and other centers of the sport. As Bryant is skating in the best form of his career, a contest between the local star and Martin should be of interest.

"DARK" HOUSE THIS WEEK

No Hockey Game Is Scheduled—Locals to Meet St. Paul.

This is an open week in the schedule of the Duluth Curling club hockey team. The big rink will be "dark" this week in so far as hockey is concerned. One week from tonight the Linderites are due for a pitched battle with the St. Paul seven on the huge sheet of ice at the Hippodrome rink at the state fair grounds.

It is the ambition of Ray Johns' sweet young life to slip over a win on the Duluthians. In this fervid desire Raymond is ably aided and abetted by Uncle Nick Kahler. Nicholas was with us once—now he is agin us.

St. Paul has hired a trainer. This trainer rubs and massages the Apostles and otherwises prescribes rules of health. Cigarettes are tabooed; an ice cream soda is even frowned upon.

Often you have seen or heard of a stock company supporting a star. St. Paul has a team of local players, with one or two Canadians to give eclat and finish to the organization. Uncle Nick has really succeeded in accomplishing wonders with his local talent, augmented by the Canadians.

Many Games Promised.

Calumet is coming hither on Feb. 12 and 13. These will be exhibition games—not league contests.

The Royal Canadians of Ottawa are due here some time, the date being indefinite. Schreiber, a team in the league with Fort William and Port Arthur, may also come. Manager Jacobi is also negotiating with Melville, Sask., a Western Canadian team that is touted very strongly.

But best of all, Manager Jacobi stated today that as far as he was concerned, it was perfectly acceptable for Duluth to arrange a game with the team of the American Soo.

The American Soo aggregation has made a remarkable record this season. It is believed that a contest between Duluth and the Soo would result in one of the greatest games that has ever been played here.

Negotiations are on with both the Monarchs and Victorias of Winnipeg.

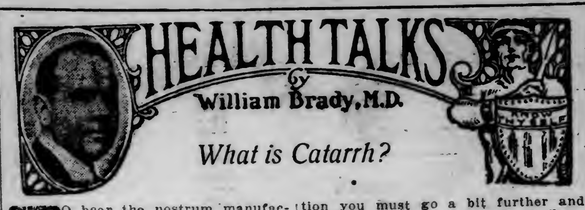

Give Your Blood The Vital Spark

Drive Out Impurities and Make the Skin Smooth and Clear.

Poisons in the blood, so undermine the health as to leave the system in a low state of resistance. But use S. S. S. for a brief time and you flare up the vital spark of blood vigor. It sweeps its way all through the body, dislodges rheumatism, relieves catarrhal congestion, clears the throat and bronchial tubes, dries up all skin eruptions, enables the kidneys, liver, bladder and lungs to work promptly and effectively in carrying impurities out of the circulation. S. S. S. is the best known medicine for the blood and has the confidence of a host of people. They know it is harmless to the stomach and experience has shown that it accomplishes all that was ever expected of mercury, iodide of potash, arsenic and other destructive minerals.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today at any druggist. Read the important folder wrapped around the bottle. It tells of the work being done by a famous medical department, with aids and helps that have proven of wonderful value to those suffering with blood diseases. What is Catarrh?

To hear the nostrum manufacturer's advertising writer talk, it might be imagined that catarrh is a universal disease. You would gather the impression that it is a sort of dyscrasia or ill humor venting itself upon all mentionable organs and some unmentionable ones. Hence it would follow, if the patent medicine man's medical teaching were correct, that one remedy would be about right for all cases of catarrh.

Catarrhal trouble isn't a disease at all. It is no more a disease than itching or elevation of temperature is. It would be quite as sensible to speak of a cure for itching or elevation of temperature, without regard to the disease of which it may be a symptom, as to speak of a cure for catarrh.

It makes no difference whether you use local or internal treatment, you can't cure catarrh without knowing what disease it indicates, without applying whatever treatment that disease may require.

Salt water, glycothymoline, listerine—these and scores of other sprays or nasal douche solutions never cure anything. They simply cleanse, and so give temporary comfort, perhaps. Peruna, sarsaparilla bunk, pink pills and numerous parlor car nostrums which are recommended by unnamed "specialists" of eminent renown—if you can believe the item signed "Adv."—are equally useless in the treatment of diseases which are grouped under the meaningless title, catarrh.

Acute or chronic inflammation of any mucous membrane—the lining of any organ communicating with the outside surface of the body—may be called catarrh if you are satisfied with such a careless diagnosis. But if you want to find relief for that inflammation you must go a bit further and find out what is causing the inflammation. Only by recognizing the cause and, if possible, removing it, can you hope to obtain more than temporary relief for the trouble.

Tomorrow we shall consider some of the causes.

Questions and Answers.

R. T. writes: Please explain what a "psoas abscess" is, and state whether it must be operated on.

REPLY.

An abscess in the psoas muscle in front of the lower spine and back of the abdominal cavity. It is usually a result of Pott's disease (tuberculosis of the spine). Sometimes it must be drained, sometimes not, according to patient's condition.

Workingwoman writes: In one of your health talks you said that there isn't an old sore of any kind that can't be cured, provided it isn't already cancer. I have had an ulcer on my leg right above the ankle for eleven years, and I have used everything I ever heard of on it, and it is as bad as ever. I wish you would tell me how to cure it.

REPLY.

Go to a hospital. If that is impossible, explain your position to your doctor and see what he can do for you. If that is impossible, present yourself to the free dispensary in your city and follow the advice there offered.

Dr. Brady will answer questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. THE QUESTION IS— WHO GOT THE MONEY?

A wealthy Fort William man early Saturday posted $1,000 in a well known downtown cigar store to be wagered on the chances of the Fort William hockey team in the second game against Duluth. The question is, who got the money? Little gobs of it were taken, in piecemeal fashion, it is reported. Some of the Canadian cousins are real sports. Imagine shooting $1,000 on a hockey game! Think of the high price of flour! Things like this give one little thrills.

U. S. RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Close Contest Between First Three Clubs in Competition.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Only a point separates each of the first three clubs in the competition for the interclub gallery rifle shooting championship of the United States, after the first six of the eleven matches. Cleveland leads with 5,948 points out of the possible 6,000; Bridgeport is second with 5,947, Kings Mills, Ohio, third with 5,946, and Warren, Pa., fourth with 5,943. Results of the week's matches:

Class A—Warren, 991, vs. Dickinson, N. D., 979; Bridgeport, 988, vs. District of Columbia, 981; Boston, 961, vs. Adrian, Mich., 917; Cleveland, 994, vs. Stillwater, Minn., 953; Kings Mills, 995, vs. Birmingham, 975; Bucyrus, 988, vs. Manchester, N. H., 971.

Class B—Madison, Wis., 967, vs. Louisville (Swiss), 929; Hopkins, Minn., 957, vs. Milwaukee, 947; Youngstown, 974, vs. Tacoma, 948; Marion, 976, vs. Watertown, N. Y., 956; St. Louis, 971, vs. Indianapolis, 940; Bangor, 985, vs. Des Moines, 958.

Class C—Buffalo, 969, vs. Albion, Ind., 947; Ogden, 954, vs. Detroit, 948; Tucson, 941, vs. Payette, Idaho, 918; New Haven, 968, vs. Corinna, Me., 926; Watertown, S. D., 966, vs. Louisville, (rifle), 926; Kane, Pa., 969, vs. Salt Lake, 964.

WON'T ACCEPT HONORS TAKEN BY DEFAULT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 1.—Play in the championship round of the National doubles racquet tournament came to a sudden end here Saturday because of an injury sustained by C. C. Pell of New York, one of the contestants for the title. Pell was struck over the right eye by a ball on a backhand return from the racquet of J. W. Wear of St. Louis.

The committee in charge of the tournament awarded the championship by default to Davis and Wear who won the title last year. They refused to accept and the match will be resumed on a date to be named later.

DRAWS SIXTY DAYS AT COUNTY FARM

Gust Evangelus Pleads Guilty to Receiving Stolen Property.

Sixty days at the county and city work farm was the sentence which Judge Fesler imposed upon Gust Evangelus who appeared in district court Saturday afternoon and pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property.

Evangelus was indicted by the January grand jury on a charge of second degree grand larceny but was permitted to plead guilty to the lesser offense. He was accused of having stolen a leather pouch containing $25 from Axel Zorbas at 213 West First street Nov. 21.

The prisoner told Judge Fesler that he had received the money from a third person who was indebted to him and that he did not know until later that it was stolen and that it had belonged to Zorbas. J. A. P. Neal appeared in court as his attorney.

DITTMAN, 66, SENT TO PEN

Aged Kenwood Shacker Must Serve Term for Killing Neighbor Boy.

Believed to Be Oldest Homicide Sentenced From St. Louis County.

Carl Ferdinand Dittman reached the age of 66 before he took his first serious misstep. Then he committed the crime of killing a fellow being. Stooped and gray, he stood before Judge Fesler in district court Saturday afternoon as the confessed slayer of 19-year-old Anton Kleimek. He was sentenced to serve from one to fifteen years in the state penitentiary. And he incidentally learned that the law is no respecter of persons, at least so far as age is concerned.

Dittman is believed to be the oldest homicide ever committed from St. Louis county to the state's prison. He was born in Germany in 1849 and came to this country when Garfield was president of the United States. He has lived in Duluth ever since.

In May, 1913, Peter Perelli, 64 years old, was sentenced to the state penitentiary for killing a fellow inmate at the poor farm. He struck one Michael Lenovitch over the head with an iron cuspidor after the latter had taunted him by addressing him as "Macaroni." He was indicted by the grand jury for first degree murder. Judge Dancer permitted him to plead guilty to manslaughter in the first degree and was sentenced on the indeterminate plan which practically means life imprisonment. Perilli's fatal assault upon Lenovitch took place March 26, 1913.

Dittman's Crime.

Dittman shot and killed young Kleimek when the latter tried to force his way into the aged man's cabin about one mile and a half from the Villa Scholastica on the Kenwood road on the evening of Nov. 8, 1914. Dittman used a sawed-off shotgun and discharged both barrels through the cabin door and a storm door. Kleimek was mortally wounded by the charge which passed through his abdomen and died a few hours later on the operating table of St. Luke's hospital. Dittman's story was that the young man was trying to break into his cabin to rob him and that he was warned to leave the premises several times before any shots were fired.

The county attorney stated to the court that the state had witnesses who would testify that Dittman had been drinking on the night in question, and that during the evening young Kleimek and his parents passed the Dittman cabin on their way home from Duluth. Dittman, according to the state's witnesses, beckoned them to come over and the young man accepted the invitation and took a drink with his aged neighbor and then rejoined his family. While the Kleimeks were eating supper they heard shots fired. The boy's father, who heard them, went to the scene of the shooting and found his son mortally wounded.

Dittman was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of second degree murder. After a jury had been impaneled to try his case, he decided to ask permission of the court to plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the second degree. His application was not resisted by the county attorney and the plea was received. Yesterday afternoon he was brought before the court to receive his sentence.

Dittman's wife died eleven years ago. He has four sons and two daughters living in Duluth. For the past three years he had been living alone in a shack on the Kenwood road and the Kleimeks were his nearest neighbors. Young Kleimek, the victim of the shooting, is survived by his parents and a brother and a sister, all of whom reside at Kenwood.

Dittman stated to the court that he had served his full term in the German army before coming to this country and that his father was the mayor in the little German village in which he resided, at the time he left Germany. John H. Norton, former county attorney, appeared in court as his attorney.

LONGER YEAR FOR SCHOOLS

Denfeld Advocates Eleven or Twelve Months and Smaller Classes.

Miss Gladys Reynolds Soloist at Masonic Free Concert.

Those who believe in practical vocational education in the public schools were highly pleased with Supt. R. E. Denfeld's concise but emphatic statements as to the tendencies of modern education, made at the Masonic free concert yesterday afternoon.

After stating that the public schools were established by the state primarily to furnish the state with adequate and well equipped human material with which to carry on the state's development, the speaker went on to describe the changes that have taken place in the aims and methods of modern education. These changes all tend towards the personal development of the pupil, in an attempt to fit him out to meet the requirements of the profession or trade to which he seems best suited. He enlarged upon the close personal relation that should exist between teacher and pupil, and advocated smaller classes and more instructors. He also deprecated the short school year, and looked forward to a school year of eleven or twelve months, giving excellent logical arguments in support of his theory. His remarks were received with hearty applause.

Miss Mary Gladys Reynolds, soprano, was heard to advantage in the prelude to Landon Ronald's "Cycle of Life." She also sang Goncavlli's beautiful dawn song "Mattinata." The popular English ballad, "A Little Gray Home in the West," was charmingly rendered. As encores she gave a dainty little humorous ballad, "The Owl," by J. B. Wells, and Cadman's favorite, "At Dawning."

The organ numbers were all good, particularly the "Allegro con Spirito" from Brahms' symphony in D. Before the rendering of this number Mr. Custance gave a short talk on Brahms and his music. To illustrate the fact that Brahms, besides being a great composer, was also a philosopher and a humorist, the speaker quoted a saying of his, made late in life. "Yes," said Brahms, "I have the misfortune still to be unmarried, thank God."

The program closed with a potpourri of popular Irish melodies. The next concert will be given on Sunday, Feb. 14.

LAST WORDS OF MAN SHOT AS SPY

His Execution Called Judicial Murder By the German Press.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Olbernhan, Germany, Jan. 10.—The following letter was received here by relatives of Frederick Seyfert, who, on Nov. 5, was shot by the French at Casablanca after conviction by a French military tribunal on a charge of espionage:

"Casablanca, Nov. 5, 1914—Dear Aunt and Relatives: I must die! I am about to be shot. I am innocent! I have never carried on espionage! Farewell to all of you! My best thanks for all the good you have done me. Think of me in the future and pray for me. I die gladly for the beloved Fatherland. Farewell dears! Yours truly.

"FREDERICK SEYFERT."

Seyfert had been an employe of the Moroccan postal service. His execution has been called a judicial murder by the German press.

DID NOT KNOW THAT THE WAR HAD BEGUN.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 10.—The German bark Viganella was brought into Plymouth on Jan. 10 with the astonishing news that nobody aboard her knew that there was a war. It was said that she left Corinto on July 6 with a valuable cargo of nitrate. The report was that the first intimation of war reached her surprised crew when she was held up in British waters and ordered into Plymouth.

MINNESOTA STATE SOCIETY'S PICNIC

Former Gophers in Southern California to Have Gathering.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—Former residents of the North Star state now in Southern California are planning to observe Lincoln's birthday with the greatest old-fashioned all-day picnic in the eleven years of the Minnesota State society's existence.

There are 30,000 "Gophers" in this section, many of them prominent in business, professional and social circles. This year it is expected that there will be several thousand more from "back home," owing to the attraction of the big expositions in San Diego and San Francisco and the great open air entertainment program in Los Angeles.

All visiting Minnesotans are invited to register at the Federation of State Societies headquarters, 953 West Seventh street, where the addresses of all their old friends who have come to Southern California are recorded. There are ninety state organizations embraced in the federation and its registers contain nearly half a million names, about 90 per cent of the population here being from other sections of the United States.

NEW POSTMASTERS.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Feb. 1.—President Wilson has sent to senate the nomination of the following Minnesota postmasters: Adolph C. Gilbertson, Ironton; Andrew Rotegard, New Richland, and Thomas Zelen, North Branch.

ENLISTMENT OF CHILDREN

Army of Helpfulness to Relief of Suffering Has Been Proposed.

Evil Influences Arising in the Schools From the War.

New York, Feb. 1.—The enlistment of the 20,000,000 children of the United States in an army of helpfulness to relieve suffering both in this country and Europe is the purpose of a movement which is announced here by a committee of educators of nation-wide reputation. It includes Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university; David Starr Jordan, president of the National Educational association, and Richard Mclaurin, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It is the belief of those interested in the plan that evil influences in the schools of the United States are arising from the war. "Influences of lying, hatred and murder are moulding the lives of America's 20,000,000 children," says an announcement of the committee's plans, "which tend to crush out truth, justice and love. As a nation we are evading our responsibilities in not seriously attempting to counteract these evil influences.

Forbid Discussion of War.

"In many of our schools we forbid all discussion of the war. We cannot, however, hide this war from our children nor keep its destructive influences from their lives.

"With a nation-wide relief movement of our children we can turn their minds from destructive murder to helpful life-giving and build on the terrible need the strongest, most helpful race of men and women the world has ever known.

"The school children are organized, and can begin immediately on relief work. They can raise at least $1,000,000 without burden on any one as the funds will be raised in small sums—the people's gift through their children. They can make millions of needed articles of clothing and other things. Working shoulder to shoulder to offset the influences of organized murderous warfare they will feel the quickening helpful impulse of their great life-giving organization—a mighty impulse in their lives and a great example to the world. They will do more to establish international peace and good will based on kindly acts than years of diplomacy and peace conferences."

What the Plan Is.

The plan announced is that each child earn or make what he gives, or give from what he has, that he may feel he has worked or sacrificed to help. The fund is to be known as the "Children of America's Fund," which boards of education, superintendents, teachers and others are urged to address at Oak Hill, Newton Center, Mass., for working details.

One-half the fund is to be used to relieve local suffering and will be distributed through home charities as far as possible. The other half will be distributed to the sufferers in Europe by the national committee. Arrangements have been made for the free transportation to Belgium of all gifts of non-perishable food or new clothing in packages weighing twenty pounds or more.

It is announced that the plans for carrying out the movement have been based on suggestions received from over 5,000 practical educators. They call for use of the public school buildings for entertainments to raise funds; the co-operation of teachers in getting the children to earn small sums out of school hours; the manufacture of useful gifts by boys in manual training classes; and one day a week devoted by all girls in sewing as a part of their school work.

STEAMSHIP DACIA SAILS WITH COTTON

Vessel Bought From Germans Gets Away, Bound for Rotterdam.

Galveston, Texas, Feb. 1.—The steamship Dacia departed at noon yesterday from Galveston for Rotterdam with 11,000 bales of cotton to be transhipped to Bremen.

Telegraphic orders to get under way were received by Captain George McDonald from E. N. Breitung, the owner. In two hours the vessel had taken on a pilot and was outside of the harbor.

The Dacia cleared Jan. 22. Her delay here is yet unexplained and her agent and master said they did not know why she was waiting. The Dacia's cotton cargo is valued by the shippers at $880,000, or 16 cents a pound laid down in Berlin.

The sailing of the Dacia is expected to add another chapter to the international incident which began when the former Hamburg-American line steamer was transferred from German to American registry shortly after the vessel was interned at Port Arthur, Texas, following the outbreak of the European war.

Her new owners announced that the Dacia was bought with the intention of engaging in the cotton trade with Germany, but immediate opposition from the British government caused the destination of the vessel to be changed from Bremen to Rotterdam, a neutral port. The United States government asked the British government if safe conduct would be given the Dacia to carry one cargo of cotton to Rotterdam to help the cotton situation, the vessel then to return to the United States.

This proposal brought reply that the vessel itself must be considered contraband by the British who have not recognized the legality of her transfer, but every facility would be afforded to have the cotton reach its destination. It was said the cargo would so transferred to another steamer for shipment to Rotterdam if the Dacia was seized.

Seizure of the steamer is expected to result in prize court proceedings and diplomatic representations that may be of far-reaching importance. Comment on the Dacia incident in the British press has been extensive.

Several days ago it was said the Dacia's departure was being delayed until the arrival of a package of important papers from New York. It was surmised the papers referred to proofs of transfer of ownership to be presented to the British authorities should the ship be detained.

Not Guilty, Says Jury.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 1.—A verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury late Saturday in the case of Dan S. Lehon, C. C. Tedder and Arthur Thurman, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with the Leo M. Frank case. Lehon is southern manager for the Burns detective agency. Tedder formerly was employed by the agency and Thurman is a lawyer.

MALE CHOIRS WITH WELSH REGIMENTS.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Cardiff, Wales, Jan. 20.—When the new Welsh army of 40,000 takes the field, it will go to battle to the sound of a Welsh male choir, which has been substituted in its regiments for the customary brass bands.

The choral organization is known as the "Welsh Army Male Voice Chorus," and its members include some of the finest singers in the Welsh valleys, men who have competed in the scores of the famous esteddfods, or minstrelsy festivals.

SPRING WHEAT BRINGS OVER $1.50 ON DULUTH BOARD

Sensational Bulge in Market on Sharp Bidding By Exporters.

Flaxseed Turns Strong With Good Bidding By Crusher's Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 1.—The market was strong up to the close. May wheat closed 4¼c up and July 4½c up. May durum closed 4¼ up and July 4c up.

Oats closed ⅝c up at 57½c for on the track; rye, 1½c up at $1.25; barley, 2c up at from 74 to 85c, and corn, 2⅝c up at 75⅝c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed at 1⅛c up at 68½c up, and July 1⅝c up at 68¾c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.45½, and calls at $1.52.

There was a sensational market in wheat today, record high prices on the crop being scored at all points. Spring wheat sold up to the $1.50 mark on the Duluth market, thus fulfilling Julius H. Barnes' prediction much ahead of time, and the quotation has every appearance of climbing to much higher altitudes.

The advance was steady throughout the session on persistent buying. May wheat opened ⅝c off at $1.45½, and moved up steadily till it struck $1.50⅜ around the noon hour, a gain of 4⅛c since Saturday. The July future opened 1⅛c up at $1.44½ and gained 2⅞c more.

An interesting piece of market news came in the sale of a cargo of spring wheat now at Buffalo, by S. H. Jones. The price paid, 2c over the Chicago May quotation, was practically 4c a bu better than the Barnes-Ames company realized on a cargo sold by it last week. Mr. Jones does not know the destination of the shipment, but he assumes that it will go to Italy as exporters were in the market urgently at Chicago and other points for buyers in that country. The extra bullish sentiment today was in fact brought about through the removal of the import duty on wheat and flour by the Italian government, and the announcement that if necessary grain would be carried at half rates by the railroads over there. Sweden was also announced to have placed wheat on the free list, and all three European nations were said to be bidding for supplies.

Durum was also strong locally, sharing fully in the bulge in spring wheat, as a result of Italian demand. May durum opened 1c up at $1.56, and advanced 3c more up to the noon hour. July opened ½c up at $1.51 and scored a further bulge of 3½c.

Bulge in Flaxseed.

A bullish turn was imparted to flaxseed trading as a result of strong bidding by crushers while offerings were limited. Its market was strong at the start and the early advances scored were well held.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.86 and closed 3⅝c up at $1.89¾. September flax closed at $1.90¼ nominally.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 2¼c up at $1.67⅞ and July 1½c up at $1.68½ bid.

A royal Italian decree issued yesterday suspends entirely the duty on wheat and other cereals and flour. Previously the duty on wheat had been reduced $1.50 to 60c per quintal (220.4 pounds), on corn from 23c to 10c, on rye from 90c to 40c, on oats from 80c to 40c, on flour from $2.25 to $1.05, and on corn meal from 63c to 20c. In addition the decree says if it is necessary wheat will be transported on the railways and steamships at half rates.

The government is authorized by the decree to ascertain the quantity of wheat and other cereals now in private storehouses and mills and whether it is necessary to establish compulsory rules for the manufacture and sale of bread.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Quick Rush for Wheat Brings New High Record War Prices.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Buyers came after wheat today with a rush and quickly brought about new high record war prices. Foreigners were eager for both cash and future deliveries, and it semed as if nearly every commission house in the trade was attempting to fill orders to purchase. Liverpool dispatches said wheat was advancing there with a strong demand. In sharp contrast with this news, domestic advices appeared conclusively that growers in the United States were selling virtually nothing from reserve holdings. The market after opening 1⅛ to 2¼c higher, May delivery selling at $1.54, scored a material further gain.

Notices that Sweden and Italy had suspended the import duties on all grain resulted in big additional increases of prices here. Nervousness prevailed at the close, which was 2⅝@4⅜c above Saturday night.

Corn was drawn upward with wheat, as being relatively cheap—hardly more than half, bushel for bushel. Rough weather had also a bullish effect. The opening, which varied from 1⅛ to ½c higher, was followed by a general further advance.

Subsequently, enlargement of stocks at the principal terminals led to a reaction. The close was unsettled, ⅝c above Saturday night.

Export cail furnished impetus to the oats trade. There was an unusually large volume of transactions, with prices steadily tending to harden.

Provisions reflected the influence of the grain bulge. Weakness in the hog market was lost sight of.

Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.54@1.58; No. 2 hard, $1.54@1.58½. Corn—No. 4 yellow, 76¼@76½c; No. 4 white, 76½@76½c. Oats—No. 3 white, 59@59½c; No. 4 white, 58¾@59¼c. Rye—No. 3, 1.27½; barley, 80@90c; timothy, $5.50@7.50; clover, $12.00@15.00. Pork, $17.00@18.75; lard, $10.97; ribs, $9.25@10.00.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

United States Steel at New Minimum, But Recovers Partially.

Prices Advance in Final Hour and Closing Is Strong.

New York, Feb. 1.—At today's early stock market session, United States Steel sold off from 40 to 38⅛ and 38, its new minimum, while Sears-Roebuck, in recognition of its 50 per cent stock dividend, moved forward to 209½, a gain of almost 14 points. Steel later recovered from its minimum on fairly large dealings to 38⅝. Other active issues showed some irregularity, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul and Atchison making small recessions, while Reading and Amalgamated Copper rose fractionally, both, however, soon reacting. Dealings were on a moderate scale.

The entire list sold lower during the first hour of today's market but recovered later. Steel common continued to hold a fraction over its minimum and the preferred shares, selling exdividend of 1¾ per cent, showed a loss of ¾ of a point. Canadian Pacific lost 2, with one point decline in Northwestern, Atchison, New York Central and Missouri Pacific. Reading was the most active railway issue, rising and falling within a 2 point range. Coppers were uniformly heavy and Bethlehem Steel also fell back. Gains, aside from those already mentioned, were mostly in unimportant specialties.

Bonds were steady.

Announcement of a general price advance by one of its leading subsidiaries caused a further rise in steel and coppers, also rose on new high quotations for the metal. The entire list made favorable response the average level being the best of the day.

Stocks rallied 1 to 2 points but lost from last Saturday's close. Advances in finished steel products and copper were helpful factors.

Active issues like Reading and Amalgamated, which were in steady demand, sent prices higher here in the final hour. United States Steel sold at 40. The closing was strong.

OPPOSE ADVANCE IN RED METALS

Quotations Now Considered Sound for Present Demands.

Copper quotations are now regarded as being on a fairly firm basis at 14⅜ cents a pound, and some of the leading interests in the trade have expressed themselves against any further advances in quotations, feeling that unsettlement would inevitably follow.

Increases in copper production are being made by some of the heaviest producers who have been feeling the trade out during the last few weeks to gain some idea as to probable consumption requirements in the next few months. It is intimated that a shortage of copper metal is being experienced by several agencies, and they are unwilling to let any product go except at maximum prices.

Hayden, Stone & Co. of Boston present some interesting figures on the effect of the war on zinc industry and the benefits that will accrue to the Butte & Superior Copper company from the sharp rise in the price of spelter.

Ordinarily, their circular letter points out, the United States produces just about its own requirements of zinc, 65 per cent of which is used in the steel industry. The outbreak of the war, however, and consequent closing of the largest zinc smelters abroad, has entirely changed this situation and leaves Europe dependent on this country for its requirements of zinc, or spelter as it is commercially termed. Last year the estimated domestic production of spelter was 360,000 tons, domestic consumption 313,500 tons, and exports during the last five months 63,000 tons. The net result of this was a reduction in the stocks on hand in this country from 40,000 tons at the first of the year to 23,500 tons at the end of the year. It is estimated in the trade that Europe will require from the United States during the continuation of the war and for some time afterwards about 10,000 tons of spelter a month.

Butte & Superior for the first three quarters of last year, the mill being closed for practically the entire fourth quarter for repairs to the shaft, produced 91,179 tons of concentrates, averaging 53.10 per cent zinc, on which it earned net $1,264,361, equivalent to about $4.70 per share on its 271,000 shares of stock outstanding. The average price of spelter during this period was 5.06 cents per pound.

Under the operating conditions which prevailed last year, on a production of 10,000 tons of conc

YOUTHFUL TRIO PUT ON PAROLE

Judge Fesler Gives West Duluth Boys Suspended Sentences and Lecture.

Charles R. Cherrier, Samuel Hood and Oscar Dahl, accused of having broken into the storeroom of the Zenith Furnace company at West Duluth on Dec. 31 last and carrying away several dat irons and other articles, were paroled under suspended sentences when brought before Judge Fesler in district court Saturday afternoon. Cherrier and Hood were sentenced to the state reformatory and Dahl was given thirty days at the work farm.

The three were indicted by the January grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree, but the young men were allowed to plead guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, a lesser offense. Judge Fesler told them that in order for them to keep their parole they must abstain absolutely from the use of liquor.

Finger print evidence on a beer bottle led to their arrest. They had gone to the storeroom to play cards. All became intoxicated and the affair wound up by carrying away several articles from the place. Cherrier's finger prints were found on a beer bottle which had been left in the storeroom.

The court sternly rebuked the young men for their habits and declared that there was a curse which followed a man who had served a prison sentence. "You are now facing one," said Judge Fesler, "unless you make up your minds to obey the terms of your parole." The young men were instructed to make regular reports to F. E. Resche, probation officer. Richard M. Funck and John Swindlund appeared in court as their attorneys.

REV. ALLEN CLARK DIES AT AKELEY

Was Pastor of Plymouth Church in West Duluth Three Years.

Rev. Allen Clark, former pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, died last Wednesday at Akeley, Minn., following a short illness, according to information received in West Duluth yesterday. The funeral was held Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Clark was pastor of the local church for nearly three years. He left here about a year and a half ago. While here he was one of the most active workers. In spite of his 72 years he showed remarkable activity in organization work, and had established missions at New Duluth and at Fond du Lac.

After establishing the branches in the western suburbs he conducted services at each of these places on Sunday in addition to the services at the Plymouth church. Owing to the train service at that time he was compelled to walk from Fond du Lac to New Duluth during the afternoons and at the close of the evening meetings at the latter place he often walked from there to his home in West Duluth.

Mr. Clark was 74 years old when he died. He has been in missionary work in Minnesota for more than a half century, much of his work having been in the western part of the state among the sparsely settled communities. He is survived by a widow, one son and three daughters. They are Kendall Clark of St. Cloud, Mrs. Albert Fuller of Orleans, Minn., Mrs. Frank Wheaton of Agency, Iowa, and Mrs. Lloyd Downing of St. Charles, Minn.

SLEIGH RIDE PARTY.

West Duluth and Proctor Young People Go to Clifton for Party.

West Duluth and Proctor young people enjoyed a sleighride party to Clifton on Saturday evening. The party left West Duluth at 6 o'clock in two sleighs, one of which was from Proctor. After arriving at the lake shore village, the young people enjoyed dancing until nearly midnight. Those present were:

Misses Alphonine Blanchett, Nolie Blanchett, Josephine O'Tool, Eva Lamay, Minnie McKeag, Florence Boehe, Edith Wanager, Anna Murray, Margaret and Frances McGinnis of Proctor, Margaret McDonald and Julia Lockney of Superior, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Lowera and Mr. and Mrs. McFadden of Proctor; Messrs. Arthur, George, Alfred and Alphonse Blanchett, C. C. Lester, Robert Wanager, A. Stewart, E. Murray, W. Murray, B. Harris, R. McKeag of Proctor, J. Murphy, E. Murphy, J. A. Sermon, Lester Greer, A. Patterson, E. Washburn, Dean Robillaird of West Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. Blankush and C. L. Himbaugh of Clifton.

QUIET MONTH FOR WEST DULUTH POLICE.

Business was not very brisk at the West Duluth police station during the month of January, according to the report just completed by Lieut. Charles E. Wilcox. During the month only eighteen arrests were made.

None of the arrests were for very serious offenses. The drunks numbered half of the total. The other nine were as follows: Five for trespass, one disorderly conduct, one violation of parole, one assault in the second degree, and one assault in the third degree.

During the month the station accommodated fifty-two lodgers. This number is small when compared with those accommodated at the Central station and considering the number of men out of employment at this time of the year.

Entertain at Cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels P. Willner, 612 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, entertained at cards for a number of friends at their home Saturday evening. The game was played at four tables and one table was devoted to men only. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. E. Tuscan, C. Sliker, Mrs. A. J. Racette and Gust Anderson. At the "stag" table the honors were awarded to W. M. Cochran and Ernest Anderson.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Salter, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Racette, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Christianson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tuscan, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ramsdottom, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Lund, Mr. and Mrs. William Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cochran, Mrs. Lottie Hallen, Miss Dorothy Peterson, Edwin S. Olson, Ernest Alverson, H. Johnson and Elwin Hallen.

Debate on Immigration.

The Luther League of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of Frank P. Olin, 328 North Sixtieth avenue west. A debate on the proposed immigration bill will feature the meeting.

M. T. Carlson will champion the bill while the negative will be taken by Rev. John A. Krantz, pastor of the Elim church. It is expected that a record crowd will attend the meeting to hear the arguments.

Basket Ball Game.

The "We Brothers" Basketball club of the Westminster Presbyterian church will play the junior basketball team of the Second Presbyterian church at the Span clubrooms, 1640 West Superior street, tomorrow evening. A number of young people of the West Duluth church will attend to "root" for their team.

Visit Former Neighbor.

A number of West Duluth people pleasantly surprised Mr. Robert Hand, former West Duluth resident, at her new home on Park Point Saturday evening. Among the West Duluthians in the party were Mrs. H. Huth, Mrs. William Ashback, Mrs. A. Oettle, Mrs. E. Doane, Mrs. L. D. Root, Mrs. E. C. Mehling and Mrs. H. Hand.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Ethel Effelson of Ely, Minn., has returned to her home after spending the week-end at the home of her cousin, Miss Edith Kennell, 5216 Wadena street.

Edda lodge, No. 15, Daughters of Norway, has planned to entertain at a masquerade party on Feb. 10 at the Great Eastern hall. The affair is for members and a few invited friends.

West Duluth lodge, No. 145, A. O. U. W., will hold its meeting Wednesday evening at Gilley's hall, 322 North Central avenue. Several new members will be initiated.

The Ladies' Guild of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Hambly, 507 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

HICKEN TALKS AT MEN'S MEETING

Says Human Welfare Is More Important Than Any Science.

Man, as society's largest and most important asset, should be given more attention than any mechanical or scientific accomplishment, according to Commissioner W. A. Hicken, head of the public safety division, in a 5 o'clock address at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

"If as many persons died from tuberculosis, or fever, or pneumonia, as are killed yearly through the use of liquor and drugs," declared Mr. Hicken, "there would be a revolution in this country. The people would not stand for it for a minute.

"As it is, they have become hardened to it, and don't realize the evils of the liquor traffic. We pay a great deal of attention to the perfecting of labor-saving machinery, but this machinery is not as valuable, if we allow man to deteriorate.

"Churches are taking up civic work more and more every year," said the commissioner, "and the effect of their work is being felt to a marked degree.

"Sentiment is changing, and it no longer is considered out of the way for a church man to take a big interest in municipal, county or state politics. With this change has come a change in the general attitude towards the liquor question, and more progress is being made in ridding the country of this evil now than ever before."

Commissioner Hicken's talk was one of a series of Sunday afternoon addresses being given under the direction of Secretary J. E. Hauter of the "Y" religious and extension work. Next Sunday Rev. U. S. Villars of the Lester Park M. E. church will conduct services in honor of Dwight L. Moody, the day being his birthday.

TWO ARE BANKRUPT.

Charles Penttila and Lion Drug Company of Virginia File Petitions.

Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the district court today. Charles Penttila, a merchant of Eveleth, and one of the commissioners of St. Louis county, owing to the difficulties of collections, asked to be relieved of his obligations and turned in his property to cover his indebtedness. His liabilities were placed at $28,308.63 and his assets at $40,140.28. One of his largest creditors is the Gowan-Lenning-Brown company of Duluth, which holds accounts amounting to $5,953.56. Arvid Hyvarl, doing business under the firm name of the Lion Drug company of Virginia, filed a petition, placing his liabilities at $4,941.89 and his assets at $8,337.29.

LASTS FOUR DAYS.

Minor Civil Action Sets New Record for Municipal Court.

Long distance records for a civil case in municipal court were broken today when the court for the fourth successive day, took up consideration of the case of C. N. and H. H. Hunt vs. the Western Empire Land company.

Cases coming before Judge W. L. Windom in this division of the municipal court seldom take more than a day, and the four-day record of this case is a new one.

H. H. Hunt and his son, C. N. Hunt, are suing to recover commissions alleged to be due them as agents in realty transactions involving certain Carlton county lands. Benjamin Goldberg is attorney for the plaintiffs and Booth & McDonald of Minneapolis for the defendants.

RECOVERED 34 PER CENT OF STOLEN PROPERTY.

Duluthians had lost or stolen from them articles valued at $1,261.61 during January, according to the monthly report of Lieutenant of Detectives Norman S. Terry, submitted to Chief of Police C. H. Troyer this morning.

Thirty-four per cent of the missing property was recovered by police, according to the report, the value being $422.65. In addition to this, Lieut. Terry states that articles valued at $225 were recovered for persons outside of Duluth.

During the month thirtyfive cases of petty larceny were recorded, as were six cases of grand larceny, one of larceny from person, one hold-up and eleven burglaries.

WILL RAISE THEIR RATES

Increase in Passenger Fares Announced By Western Railroads.

Affects All Interstate Traffic West and North of Chicago.

On March 1 a passenger rate increase will go into effect that it is estimated will add $15,000,000 annually to the treasuries of the various railroads of the United States. Twenty-five companies, operating 60,000 miles of track west of Chicago, will file new tariffs today with the interstate commerce commission in Washington increasing their passenger rates from 2 cents to 2½ cents per mile.

The new interstate fares will become effective on March 1 and were filed by the roads of the western passenger association territory at this time so complaints against them could be investigated by the commission during the freight rate hearing which will start in Chicago on Feb. 15.

Similar advances have been made by the railroads in central freight association territory without any action by the board and the commission has advised increased in a former rate decision to the 2½-cent a mile basis.

Roads Affected.

The increases will affect all interstate fares west of Chicago and St. Louis, north of the Kansas-Missouri line, west to the Rocky mountains, and north to the Canadian border. Various Southern roads, including the Illinois Central system, also are included in the list of petitioning roads. Other transportation companies involved in the move are the Santa Fe, the Alton, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, the Northwestern, the Burlington, the Chicago Great Western, the St. Paul, the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, the Minneapolis & St. Louis, the Missouri Pacific, the Rock Island, the St. Louis & San Francisco, the Union Pacific, the Wabash, the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern.

Locally the effect of the increase will be chiefly felt between Duluth and Chicago, and between Duluth and Milwaukee, but it will apply to rates between Duluth and all points outside the state.

Most of the Duluth rates are based on the tariff between here and Chicago. The present rate between Duluth and Chicago is $9.29. On March 1, when the new passenger rates become effective, the tariff will be increased to $11.48.

The present rate between Duluth and Milwaukee is $7.59. On and after March 1 the tariff will be $9.31.

To all points beyond Chicago, and to points on the Pacific coast, the increase is based upon approximately 2½ cents a mile as against 2 cents a mile on the rate basis of the present tariff.

That the rate is not purely interstate business is shown by the fact that the rate from Superior to Milwaukee, intrastate business, is to be increased. The rates between the Head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities will not be increased.

POLICEMAN GOES "BACK TO THE LAND"

Mounted Officer Resigns From Force to Live on Farm.

The "call of the farm" has been answered by Mounted Patrolman Axel Johnson, who resigned from the force today after nearly four years of service. He tendered his resignation to Chief C. H. Troyer yesterday, to be effective at once.

Johnson, with his father, will in the future be located on a farm near Marquette, Mich. During the last year he has been stationed above First street, from Sixth avenue east to Twelfth avenue west. Previous to that time he was in the West end. He joined the force Feb. 24, 1911.

The vacancy thus made will be filled by John M. Magner, 26 North Twenty-fifth avenue west, next in line on the list of eligible men. Patrolman Arthur Callahan will be transferred to the mounted division, Magner taking his former beat.

SUMMONS—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss.
District Court, Eleventh Judicial District.
Scott-Graff Lumber Company, a Corporation, Plaintiff, vs.
John Berlin, Emily B. Martin, Kate B. Martin, Brooke Martin, Kate B. Martin as Executrix of the Estate of William P. Martin, Deceased, Toledo Investment Company, a Corporation, Defendants.

The State of Minnesota to the above named Defendants:

You, and each of you, are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the above entitled action, which complaint has been filed in the office of the Clerk of said District Court in the Court House in the City of Duluth, County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, and to file your answers to said complaint with said Clerk within twenty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of such service.

You, and each of you, are hereby notified that this action is brought to foreclose a certain lien for the sum of one hundred one dollars and sixty-three cents ($101.63), with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from April 15th, 1914; that the premises to be charged are situated in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, and are described as follows, to-wit:

Lots two (2) and three (3), Block one (1), Martin's Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof.

That such lien is claimed by virtue of certain building materials furnished at the request of defendant, John Berlin, in the construction and improvement of the certain frame dwelling house situated on said Lot three (3), and that certain frame barn situated on said Lot two (2); said materials having been so furnished between March 2nd, 1914, and April 18th, 1914, both dates inclusive.

If defendants fail to answer to said complaint within the time and in the manner aforesaid, plaintiffs will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS ASKED TO HOLD DOWN BUDGET

House Favors Cut of $1,000,000 Below the 1913 Budget.

Another Plan to Secure Holding of Constitutional Convention.

State Regulation of Telephones Under Railroad Commission Proposed.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house this morning directed its appropriation committee to hold down its budget, and if possible to keep it within the limits of the 1911 appropriations, which were upward of $1,000,000 less than those for 1913. This was done through the adoption of the resolution proposed by Representative Guilford of Minneapolis, following a debate which led Representative Greene of St. Paul to say that all the economy this legislature will accomplish one could put in his eye, and that if the house really wanted to economize, it might try economizing on time and breath.

Representative Spooner, chairman of the appropriations committee, was not in his seat, and because his statement that the 1913 legislature was the most extravagant in the history of the state had been challenged, Representative Dwyer wanted to lay the matter over a day. His motion to that effect was defeated.

Defends Last Legislature.

Representative Bjornson, who had risen to the defense of the 1913 legislature and had said that much of the criticism of it was buncombe, declared he did not believe that Mr. Spooner wanted the business of the house held up by his absence, and said that no man was so important that the house could not do business without him.

Representative Haislett opposed the resolution as a confession of weakness. To him it sounded as though the house was so fearful that it would commit error that it was voting to tie its hands. However, it was explained that the words "if possible" made the thing light, so the resolution was overwhelmingly approved.

Constitutional Convention.

Representatives Kneeland and Sawyer of Minneapolis introduced a bill outlining their scheme for bringing about a constitutional convention without the two-thirds vote of both bodies now required, which is virtually an impossibility. Their bill proposes an amendment to the section of the Constitution requiring the two-thirds vote, changing it so that the legislature can summon a constitutional convention by a majority vote, but not oftener than

WANTS RAILROAD INVESTIGATION

Inquiry Into Increases in Western Rates Is Asked.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative J. G. Gerlich of Mankato today presented to the house of representatives a resolution calling for a detailed investigation by the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission of recent increases in railroad rates in Western classification territory.

The same resolution will be presented in the senate later in the week.

The investigation, it was stated, has the indorsement of the Minnesota commission as well as that of the house railroad and warehouse committee, the members of which are giving their support to the proposed inquiry. It was also stated in the corridors of the capitol following adjournment this afternoon that the senate railroad and warehouse committee would support the resolution when it is presented in that body.

HEARING ON GAME LAWS

Remarkable Diversity of Sentiment Shown By the Speakers.

Unanimous in Support of Game and Fish Commission.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question as to whether or not there should be a closed season for quail, or whether a hunter should be allowed ten or twenty game birds per day, together with other topics of interest to farmers and sportsmen throughout the state, was responsible last night for the presence of a crowd which occupied every seat on the floor of the house when the joint committees on game and fish of the house and senate held a public hearing on the existing and proposed game laws.

Representative Edward Indrehus, chairman of the house committee, and Senator James A. Carley, head of the same body in the senate, presided jointly over the session, which lasted

ONE OF SPONSORS OF COUNTY DIVISION BILL

SENATOR JOHN A. HEALY
Of Hibbing.

NO VOTE OF THE PEOPLE

Bill for St. Louis County Division Introduced in Legislature.

Petitioners May All Be Residents of Proposed New County.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county division bill, proposing an automatic division of St. Louis county by petition of range residents and without a vote of the people, came in both branches of the legislature today, and was referred to the respective committees on towns and counties of the senate and house.

All of the range representatives joined in the bill, Senators John A. Healy of Hibbing and O. H. Griggs of Virginia introducing it in the senate, and its sponsors in the house being Representatives Samuel C. Scott of Hibbing, Fred Bessette of Orr, Charles T. Murphy of Aurora, and John H. Gill of Virginia.

This was decided on at a meeting attended by all the range senators and representatives, held at the state capitol yesterday afternoon, when M. H. McMahon of Virginia, representing the joint county division committee of the range county, laid the matter before the range delegation.

Mr. McMahon brought two bills, one providing for division by legislative enactment, and the other for division by petition, but neither making any provision for a vote of the people.

Not Votes Enough.

While he left it for the delegation to decide which bill it should introduce, he frankly said that there was no use in wasting time on any bill that called for a vote of the people, because there arenot votes enonugh in St. Louis county favorable to division to carry any such proposition.

Which of the two bills the delegation decided to introduce, he said, was a

LITERACY TEST TO DIE IN THE HOUSE

Representatives Will Not Repass Bill Over President's Veto.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—A Washington special to the Tribune says: That the house of representatives will refuse to pass the immigration bill over President Wilson's veto next Thursday is indicated by a poll of the members completed by the Tribune correspondent.

Although the senate almost certainly would pass the bill over the veto, the measure will die in the jurisdiction of the house, where it originated, if it fails to command two-thirds of those voting in the numerous body next Thursday.

The result of poll in the house follows:

For passage over veto—Democrats, 141; Republicans, 63; Progressives, 13; total, 217.

Against passage over veto—Democrats, 86; Republicans, 36; Progressives, 3; total, 125.

Non-committal—Democrats, 20; Republicans, 4; Progressives, 1; total, 25.

Absent—Democrats, 35; Republicans, 16; Progressives, 3; total, 54.

If this should be the alignment on Thursday, unchanged by returning absentees, and if all the noncommittal members should vote to pass the bill over the veto the number in favor of that action still would be three short of the two-thirds proportion of those voting. Inasmuch as the noncommittal contingent undoubtedly will divide, the chances are wholly in favor of a failure to pass the bill over the president's disapproval.

Representative Sabath of Illinois and others, who are fighting to sustain the veto, claim that the friends of the bill will lack at least thirty votes of the required two-thirds.

NOTHING MORE HEARD OF RUMORED RAIDS ON ENGLAND BY GERMANY

Seemingly No Occasion for Alarm in London Over Zeppelins.

No Further Report of Submarines Seen in the North Sea.

Swift Vessels Still Maintain Service Across English Channel.

London, Feb. 2.—Nothing further has been heard of a Zeppelin raid nor is there any confirmation of reports that German submarines were seen yesterday in the Irish sea between Holyhead and Dublin. Cross-channel service is still running and it is reported there is no great danger for swift vessels.

There seemingly was no occasion for alarm in London over a Zeppelin raid, and the authorities have been unable to discover how the rumors arose that one was imminent.

English papers comment further on Germany's methods of waging war and discuss what methods Great Britain should adopt in reply. The Morning Post advocates the declaration of a strict blockade of the German coast, contending that such a step is possible. Recognizing the difficulty of dealing with neutral vessels bound for neutral ports with cargoes for reexport to Germany, the paper says:

"Diplomacy exists for the removal of such difficulties."

The sailing of the steamer Dacia has reopened newspaper discussion of her status. The Chronicle, in an editorial, reminds the American people that Great Britain's decision not to declare cotton contraband was a costly concession to America. "Every one of our brave men who falls by a German bullet, or is blown to pieces by a German shell," the paper says, "is a victim of American-grown cotton. We are not complaining, but the point is one Americans might fairly bear in mind when they hear Von Bernstorff and Dernburg declaiming about the inconsiderateness of British naval interference."

TRANSFERS PAPERS TO ASIA MINOR

Turkish Government Sends Archives Away From Constantinople.

Copenhagen, Feb. 2.—The National Tidende quotes a letter from Constantinople which declares that the Turkish government has transferred all its archives and papers of state to Broussa, in Asia Minor, and that the Turkish authorities have prohibited the importation of Roumanian and Bulgarian newspapers into the country. The Turks are concentrating troops and strengthening their fortifications along the sea of Marmora, especially in the region of San Stefano and Kavak, where a number of Turkish warships are anchored.

The Goeben has not yet been repaired, as the docks where she was taken after the battle with the Russian Black sea fleet are too small to accommodate her.

HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE PRINCIPAL FEATURE OF FIGHTING IN BELGIUM

Intensity Redoubled on Part of Both Germans and French.

Around Ypres Cannonading Is Exceedingly Violent in Some Places.

Germans Drive British Back But Latter Soon Recover Positions.

Paris, Feb. 2, 2:45 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of the war which reads as follows:

"The day of Feb. 1 was marked by redoubled intensity in the artillery fire in our part as well as that of the enemy and by a series of German attacks of relative secondary importance, all of which were repulsed with serious losses for our adversaries as compared to the number of men they had engaged.

"In Belgium, the German heavy artillery gave evidence of its greatest activity on the front of the Belgian troops and particularly against the various points of support which these troops have been occupying for some time in the region of the Yser.

Cannonading Violent.

"Around Ypres, the cannonading was at some places exceedingly violent. Between the Lys and the Somme a German regiment attacked a British position near Guinchy, and at first drove the English soldiers back. After a series of counter attacks, the British troops reoccupied the German territory they had lost and then advanced into new territory, taking possession of trenches of the enemy.

"The engagement reported in the announcement given out on the night of Feb. 1, which took place along the roadway between Bethune and La Bassee was particularly brilliant for our infantry. It seems that the Germans had at least one battalion in this engagement. The first two attacks were broken by our fire. The third

R. R. BRIDGE IS WRECKED

Canadian Pacific Structure Across St. Croix River Blown Up.

Suspicious Character Arrested in United States Admits Deed.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 2.—One span of the Canadian Pacific railroad bridge across the St. Croix river between Vanceboro and St. Croix, N. B., was blown up early today. The preliminary investigation indicated that the explosion was caused by dynamite. The bridge is on the direct line of the railroad from Halifax, N. S., and St. John, N. B., to Montreal. It is 1,200 feet long, consisting of three steel spans on granite piers.

The portion destroyed was on the New Brunswick side of the river. Until repairs can be made it will be necessary to transfer passengers across the ice. This forenoon the authorities had been unable to find any clew to the persons responsible.

Bridge Blower Arrested.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The Canadian Pacific railway has an official statement this morning regarding the blowing up of the bridge over the St. Croix river at Vanceboro. They state that traffic has not been interrupted, passengers will not have to leave the trains and a delay of only twenty minutes was caused. Damage was done to one span only and repairs were immediately commenced. A suspicious character arrested by the United States officials has admitted the deed.

CHANNEL TUNNEL IS AGAIN BEING URGED.

Paris, Feb. 2.—The Paris press has again taken up the question of the projected tunnel under the English channel, some writers pointing out that had the project been realized, the cooperation of British and French troops would have been so facilitated as to have had an appreciable effect on the military operations.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Women voters of Chicago must tell their ages when they register according to a ruling by County Judge Thomas F. Scully. They must answer the same questions, he ruled, that are required of the men. Campaign managers said that the ruling undoubtedly will keep many women away from registration who otherwise would have placed their names on the books.

VICTORIOUS OVER TURKS

The Russians Administer Sweeping Defeat to Ottoman Troops.

Noise of Elements Prevent Approach of Russ Being Heard.

Petrograd, Feb. 2.—The new victories over the Turks in the Caucasus and Tabriz are of a sweeping character.

The Turks attempted to effect an encircling movement by moving along the track of the Oltichai river, but the Russians encamped at Alti darted out in a bitter snow storm across a ridge where they were invisible to the Turks. The noise of the elements was such that their approach was unheard. Then with bayonets fixed they rushed into the middle of a Turkish marching column which in a few hours was thrown in blind confusion. Great numbers fled into side ravines and have not yet been traced. The Russians captured the general and staff of the central division.

Force Another Battle.

Another Russian column at the same time moved from Djulena, along the Tabriz road, to force battle upon the Turks which had invaded the Persian town of Azerbaijan. The Turks advanced northward from Tabriz to Marand, where a stubborn battle was fought. The Turks were under Djevlet Pasha, who is regarded as one of their best fighters, but after a succession of frontal onslaughts, the Russians broke his army into disorder. The Turks abandoned their cannon and banners, besides all their dead and wounded. The significance of this victory is chiefly political. It is destructive to the German and Turkish influence in Persia. The Persians gave the Turks no assistance during their occupation of Azerbaijan.

WAR DISORGANIZES LEGAL PROCEDURE

Lawyers and Witnesses in Many Cases Are at the Front.

Paris, Feb. 2.—Legal procedure in France has been disorganized by the war. Lawyers and witnesses in many civil suits are at the front; many of them have fallen in battle and no one can now anticipate the extent to which cases may be confused by the disappearance of parties as well as witnesses and attorneys.

Maitre Chenu, the eloquent attorney for the Calmette family in the Caillaux case, and former chief of the order of avocates of the Parisian bar, says that death certificates are such an essential element in all legal procedure concerning inheritances, and there have been already, and will be so many more, unknown dead, that the number of probable tangled estates is incalculable.

"For the moment," Maitre Chenu adds, "judicial life in France is almost entirely interrupted and will continue to languish until the end of hostilities. We don't regret it. Legal quarrels would seem to us to be an attack upon the sacred pact of union that the war has sealed between all the citizens of France."

The business of civil courts is almost entirely confined to the sequestration of the property of German and Austrian subjects and the list, already long, grows every day, showing that the number established in business in France was far underestimated. Instead of the 20,000 sequestrations anticipated the number may reach nearer 50,000.

The practical suspension of court proceedings gives Maitre Chenu leisure to use his pen, and in the Parisian press he is sparing no effort to defend the justice of the French cause.

FALL BACK TO SECOND TRENCHES

Teuton Offensive Distinguished By Great Tenacity of Men.

Advance Made in Close Ranks Well Supported From the Rear.

On Right Bank of Lower Vistula Russians Repulse Germans.

Petrograd, Feb. 2.—The renewal of a fierce offensive in the region of Sochazew and Bolimow, on the road to Warsaw, is admitted in an official statement issued here today. The violence of the German attack, the statement says, compelled some of the Russian units to retire to the second line of trenches. The communication was as follows:

"Along the right bank of the Lower Vistula on Jan. 31 our cavalry made a sudden and successful assault upon the German line along the front between Brezun and Lake Orecelejo, fifteen versts north of Slerpo, capturing many officers and soldiers. The attempt of the Germans on the 30th to open an offensive movement in the direction of Dobrzyn was checked.

"On the left bank of the Vistula front at the villages of Makow and Dybiln, the enemy was thrown back to the line of the villages of Weleze and Nasignewo, northwest of Wloclawek. The Germans in retreating abandoned at Makow many of their dead.

"In the course of the day of Jan. 31 the enemy after having concentrated in the region of Sochazew, Bolimow and south of Bolimow a large force of artillery, developed active operations against our positions with very considerable force. The German offensive was distinguished by great tenacity, advancing in close ranks, strongly supported from the rear.

"After having concentrated a violent attack in the morning upon the region,

ENGLISH COMEDIAN KILLED IN ACTION.

London, Feb. 2.—Lionel Mackinder, a well-known English comedian who was one of the first of a group of London actors who volunteered for service at the beginning of the war, has been killed at the front. Mackinder made his first London success in 1895 in "The Shop Girl."

Max Ludo, the French heavyweight boxer, known also as Ludovic Mercadier, who brought out Carpentier, has been killed in action.

SEA IS FREE, SAYS BRITON

So First Lord of Admiralty Tells Editor of Matin.

Brings Security Never Before Enjoyed By Great Britain.

Paris, Feb. 2.—"For the first time in history England can say the sea is free," declared Winston Spencer Churchill, Great Britain's first lord of the admiralty, in an interview with Hughe Leroux, editor of the Matin.

"In the days when you and we fought each other," he continued, "our most important victories never brought us security comparable with that which we enjoy today. Even after Trafalgar we knew nothing like it. Supposing Germany has friendships and relationships in South America, how can help reach her from them now? There remains the United States. Public opinion there hesitates. Perhaps it is best, owing to its sympathies, but at the present moment it is fully aware that we shall arrange to take precautions fully compatible with the rights of belligerents and the respect due to neutrals.

Can Breathe Freely.

"Germany perhaps can obtain a few supplies from Turkey and Asia Minor. Germany will continue to receive a small quantity of that whereof she has considerable need, but you and we can breathe freely, thanks to the sea we have kept and can keep open.

"Germany is like a man throttled with a heavy gag. You know the effect of such a gag when action is necessary. This pressure shall not be relaxed until she gives in unconditionally, for even if France and Russia should decide to withdraw from the struggle, we English would carry on the war to the bitter end.

"The action of a navy is necessarily slow but the pressure it exercises on an adversary is unrelenting. Compare it to the forces of nature, to the inexorable grip of winter, and remember that it is a stress nothing can resist."

WIRE SERVICE CUT BY STORM

Wire connections between Duluth and the East, with the exception of a single line, were cut off last night by severe storms between Milwaukee and Chicago, and communications had not been resumed to any considerable extent at 2 o'clock today.

From Duluth to the Twin Cities and westwards service was impaired only slightly, but messages destined for Chicago and eastern points have been badly delayed since last night.

"Sleet storms between Chicago and Milwaukee that swept down through Wisconsin and Northern Illinois played havoc with the wires last night," said E. F. Kelley, local manager for the Western Union Telegraph company. "Excepting one Chicago wire, which we managed to keep open, we were cut off from the East. Conditions are improving hourly, and we expect to have things working in good shape by tonight. At noon we had a second Chicago wire in order.

"Sleet is probably the greatest enemy of the telephone and telegraph companies," he declared, "as it breaks the wires and is harder to combat with than any other factor.

"We have felt the effects of this storm since Sunday, when it started to rain in Chicago, and have experienced some trouble ever since that time."

J. L. Fuller, manager of the North American Postal Telegraph company, stated that their Eastern wires had been tied up for several hours, but that service to Southern and Western points had not been seriously affected. He expected to be able to resume communications to a normal condition, or nearly so, by tonight or early tomorrow evening.

WEATHER—Generally cloudy weather tonight and Wednesday, probably snow flurries; moderate easterly winds.

RAILWAY ASKS AID OF PEOPLE

South Shore Begins Educational Campaign for 3-Cent Rate.

A policy hitherto unknown in railroad circles, but one that is destined to become popular throughout the United States has been instituted by W. W. Walker, general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway. To secure a 3-cent passenger rate for his road, Mr. Walker is going directly to the people of Michigan, putting up the case to them by facts and figures, expecting to get relief from the legislature through the pressure brought to bear upon them by the "people back home." It is a campaign of education, Mr. Walker declares.

That he may get his arguments before the people, Mr. Walker has been holding meetings in the Upper Peninsula at which he discusses the problems of the railway. He tells the people of that district how their interests and those of the South Shore road are interwoven, presents them with figures showing the expense entailed in operating a train in the passenger service and closes with an argument for a 3-cent passenger fare.

Good Results Obtained.

Remarkably favorable results have been obtained since this campaign beban about two weeks ago, Mr. Walker said today. Civic and commercial bodies of the Upper Peninsula are holding meetings and discussing the problem among themselves and a large number of these bodies have passed resolutions favoring a 3-cent fare. Even the Commercial Travelers' association has come out strongly for a higher rate. To prove his point Mr. Walker presented a pile of papers containing sets of resolutions from many of the most prominent organizations of the peninsula.

"Too Much Politics."

Mr. Walker has no complaint to make in so far as the public is concerned, but he blames the politicians and so-called reformers for stirring up agitation that is believed destructive to legitimate business. The regulation of freight rates, he says, has been allowed to go to the interstate commerce commission, but passenger rate regulation has been kept in the hands of the legislatures by the politicians that they may gain prestige among the voters by advocating low fares. Virtually everybody is affected directly by passenger fares while freight rates affect the public in a more indirect way. Because of the unwise methods used by these so-called reformers, he says little discrimination has been used in fixing rates for roads established in a thickly populated country and those running through a country sparsely settled. In the case of the South Shore much of its trackage runs through a new country sparsely settled where passenger service is maintained at a loss, the road in the meantime waiting for the country to develop. Thousands of acres of land would be practically worthless he says if it were not for the South Shore road making transportation possible.

Attacks Gone Too Far.

"The attack on the railroads and big business has gone so far," he said, "that many of the roads are in desperate financial circumstances and are unable to make the necessary improvements. Borrowing money for railway enterprises is now impossible and it is time that the attacks on big business come to a stop. President Wilson himself has come to the same conclusion and the people as a whole are beginning to see that their prosperity goes hand in hand with that of the large corporations.

"Duluth and the ranges are dependant upon the railroads more than many persons realize," he continued, "and the decline in railroad activity has been reflected in the falling off of ore shipments and mining operations during the last year." He said the ore situation was summed up fairly well by a Michigan paper in the following paragraph:

Effect of Steel Industry.

"We have been reading how the poverty of the railways has injuriously affected the steel business of the United States. We have seen how, in the past year, our ore shipments fell off about 18,000,000 tons, this being largely due to the condition of the railway organizations. The miners of iron ore in the state of Michigan know that something is the matter with their industry. Idle mines and idle workmen, and mines operating only feebly in comparison with their former activity, tell the fact that something is wrong. Politics, for one thing, undoubtedly injures, and politics has much to do with recent attacks on the railways. The railways buy enormous tonnages of steel in the shape of rails, and shapes for bridges, and for cars and locomotive construction. They are even now using ties made of steel. Of late they have been buying very little because their finances would not permit. They have been husbanding every dollar to meet the interest on their outstanding obligations and have been put to it very hard to even accomplish this much.

Assistance Needed.

"That the roads need assistance, and that they are entitled to it, has been recently made plain in the act of the interstate commerce commission that has granted some of them increased rates for the handling of freight, and the importance of this was at once reflected in the steel market where new orders for steel supplies from the railways were immediately booked. That there are to be other concessions of freight rates for the railways in the West, as well as those of the East is evident, because it is well known that such help is imperative if the roads are to live and carry on the great business which the country needs in the handling of its products."

Mr. Walker states that while the South Shore wishes to keep up the service to the highest standard for the benefit of the public, this could not be done unless the revenues of the company were increased.

HIGHWAY TO NEW DULUTH

Missing Links in Road Will Be Completed This Year.

City officials announced this morning that the highway to New Duluth will be completed late this coming summer.

Work on the pavements from Eighth-fourth avenue west to the intersection of Zimmerly and Ninety-third avenues and from the right-of-way of the Spirit Lake Transfer company through Gary to the south line of the village will begin early in the spring, Commissioner Murchison, head of the works division, said this morning. The Northern Pacific railroad is now at work on the Smithville subway and it is expected that it will be completed early in the summer. The subway and the grading, it is claimed, are both necessary before the street car tracks can be laid.

Last summer the city completed a two-mile stretch of pavement from the intersection of Ninety-third and Zimmerly avenues to the Spirit Transfer company's right-of-way. The pavement is eighteen feet wide and is built on the right side of the road, thus leaving considerable room for the laying of street car tracks. On the left the road has been graded and improved, so that this two-mile stretch is all ready for the rails.

From Eighty-fourth avenue to Zimmerly avenue, the pavement will be eighteen feet wide, also allowing for the rails on the left side of the highway, which will be graded and improved at the same time. From the Spirit Lake company's right-of-way the pavement to the south line of Gary will be fifty-six feet wide, taking in the entire width of the street running through the townsite.

In laying the Gary pavement, it is planned to leave a vacant space in the middle for the street car rails. In this way the city will avoid the necessity of later being compelled to tear up the pavement for the tracks. It is planned to have both pavements completed by late in July.

For the last three weeks the Northern Pacific company has been preparing for the steel work on the subway under its tracks at Smithville. The company plans to sublet the construction of the steel frame and bids for this improvement, it was said this morning, will be opened tomorrow.

"SAFETY FIRST" IS MOTTO OF NEW MOTORCYCLE CLUB

The West Duluth Motorcycle club, the first organization of its kind in the city, which was recently formed will hold another meeting Thursday evening at the home of its president, Fred Delbern, 5119 Wadena street. Plans for a series of entertainments for the members and their friends to take place during the next month or two will be made.

At the meeting held last week the officers were elected. Fred Delbern was elected president; D. Hawkins, vice president; H. J. Price, treasurer; H. Spindler, secretary; and A. Taraldson, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The club will try to secure permission from the city authorities to use a stretch of highway in the outskirts of the city for holding races on certain dates. These will be asked for principally on holidays, certain Saturdays and Sundays during the summer. The club also will boost for better roads for motorcycling purposes.

A motto "Safety First" was adopted by the club. Every member will be cautioned not to exceed the speed limit and the membership proposes to do all in its power to prevent excessive speeding of the machines. The club also adopted green and gold as its colors.

FRED DELBERN.

Plans for a dancing party to be held on Feb. 18 will be made at the meeting Thursday evening.

Druggists Recommend a Real Kidney Medicine

I have sold a great many bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root during the past twenty years and it is a preparation that is very satisfactory to my customers who buy it. I have heard a good many expressions of approval from those who have used it. I think it a good remedy and if I were in need of a medicine I should certainly try Swamp-Root for any case of Kidney, Liver or Bladder trouble.

TWO NEW EVENTS FOR THE CURLERS

The first game in the Henricksen Jewelry event will be played this evening at the Western Curling club. The draw in this event, as well as in the Duluth Universal Milling company's event, was made by the games committee this morning.

The game in the former event to be played tonight will be between Iltis and Mallory. McDonald and Zauft will play tonight in the Esterly event. Last night three games were played. Quinn defeated Judson, 8 to 7; Olson lost to F. H. Wade, 10 to 7, and Evered won from Donald, 8 to 7.

PURE BLOOD MAKES HEALTHY PEOPLE

Hood's Sarsaparilla surely and effectively removes scrofula, boils and other blood diseases because it drives out of the blood all the humors that cause these diseases. They cannot be successfully treated in any other way. External applications for their removal have proven almost useless, because they cannot drive out the impurities that are in the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure, rich blood, perfects the digestion, and builds up the whole system. The skin becomes smooth, clean and healthy. This great blood remedy has stood the test of forty years. Insist on having Hood's, for nothing else acts like it. There is no real substitute. Get it today. Sold by all druggists.

OLCOTT HEADS THE ALUMNI

W. J. Olcott of this city was elected president of the Northwestern Alumni association of the University of Michigan Saturday evening at the University club, St. Paul, where 100 alumni of the university gathered for their annual reunion. About fifteen Duluth alumni were present.

Dr. Harry B. Hutchins, president of Michigan university made an address in which he told of the work which has been done at Ann Arbor during the last few years. He lauded the alumni for their work in boosting the school and for contributing money for improvements. The school, he said, ranks among the first in the country.

George M. Gillette, retiring president of the association, acted as toastmaster for the occasion and when he introduced Dr. Hutchins, the guests sang "I Want to Go Back to Michigan." Other speakers were: Dean Victor C. Vaughn of the Michigan College of Medicine, Dr. W. J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn.; W. B. Chamberlain of Minneapolis, E. C. Lindley and John E. Brurchard of St. Paul.

Besides Mr. Olcott, the Duluth delegation included Judge W. A. Cant, Z. D. Scott, E. W. MacPherran, Dr. J. A. Winter, O. J. Larson, A. E. McManus, F. D. Adams, R. L. Mayall, John Kenney, H. S. Corbin, George Dewey and E. F. Wharton.

PROUD TO BE A CHALMERS MAN

"With the record made by the Chalmers car at the Chicago show last week, I am proud to be called a Chalmers man," said E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Auto company, local agents of the car, on his return last evening from a visit to the show in the Windy City.

"No exhibit at the Chicago show surpassed the Chalmers line in crowd-attracting qualities.

"Set in an inviting English garden scene, the Chalmers models seemed particularly at home. The setting was most appropriate for these glistering thoroughbreds of motordom.

"Thousands upon thousands listened to the lectures on Chalmers cars and the Chalmers factory delivered by J. H. W. Mackie who presided over the 'light six' chassis and Tom Kirker who standing beside the 'six-forty' chassis in Chalmers racing blue told the points of interest about this model.

"The record-breaking attendance indicated a universal interest in motor cars by the public generally that was fully borne out by the large number of retail sales."

Last Tuesday Mr. Filiatrault attended a meeting of 200 dealers from all sections of the country, followed by a luncheon given by officials of the Chalmers company. Hugh Chalmers, president, delivered his annual address to the agents, outlining the program for the year.

FORMER DULUTHIAN DIES DESERTED

Thomas Devine, who for years was a resident of Duluth, and left here about twenty years ago, was found dead in his shack on Johnson creek, near Portland, Or., week before last, and the body was buried a week ago last Sunday in Portland.

Mr. Devine, when residing in Duluth, was counted as having a comfortable fortune. He was a timber cruiser and was also a holder of some fine tracts which he disposed of to good advantage. He was at that time a stockholder in the Imperial mill. He left here about twenty years ago, going to the Pacific coast, and at one time in the interim was a banker at Port Townsend, Wash.

It is said of him that since going West he has made and lost several fortunes. When death found him he was evidently on the lower rim of the wheel of fortune. He died alone in his shack, which was constructed of poles, bark and brush, and in which he had been living for more than two years.

In Duluth, in the old days, he was very well known, and was popular. There are many who will hear with regret of his passing.

FIGHTING IN THE DESERT

British Officer Tells of Battles With Turks and Arabs.

Water More Precious Than Powder in That Locality.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 20.—Fighting the Turks and Arabs in the desert of Mesopotamia, where in places even camels cannot go; where after the Euphrates is left behind water is more precious than powder, and the tribesmen show no quarter to the wounded, is described by Sergt. A. Kingdom, of the Second Battalion Norfolk regiment in a letter to his mother at Thetford.

"We came by ship (from India) up the river Euphrates," he writes, "and disembarked on a lovely landing, up to the waist in mud and water. Not a tree in sight nor a blade of grass, except on the river banks, which are covered with date palms. We marched all the next day through mud. Anything with wheels cannot be taken, and packs of mules and camels are no good, because their big feet pick up too much sand.

Lie in Wet Mud.

"We lay in the wet mud on the desert all night and moved away early again in the morning to find the enemy in position. They consisted of Turks and Arabs, about 1,400 yards to our front. The attack was pushed home under cover of our mountain batteries; the field artillery came up later. The artillery horses were so completely knocked out that they could not walk away from the guns when unhooked. The troops also were knocked out; and in the meantime the enemy's artillery was having it all their own way.

"Our rifles were absolutely choked inside with mud, and the bolt action and sights had to be made to work before an accurate fire could be effected. Some of the men, rather than drink the muddy slush from their water bottles, stood and emptied it in their bolt action, although water is so scarce, and slush worth a gold piece an ounce.

Caked With Clay.

"I was more fortunate; my socks had shrunk so small that I was better able to march without one, so I cut off the toe and put it over my bolt action. So my rifle was fairly clean. We were caked with clay from head to foot. When the sun did come out for a time and we saw a chance of cracking it off, a thunderstorm came over and softened it into a sticky paste.

"Our only transport is mules with ammunition, and they frequently fall down and have to be picked up. Anyhow, the enemy were in their trenches with a decided advantage and were delivering a murderous fire. But by a supreme effort after we got the enemy's range we kept our fire coolly delivered, and within half an hour the Turks were retiring, leaving the Arabs to cover their retreat. They remained another quarter of an hour, and meanwhile we had fixed our bayonets for the grand finale—but evidently they did not wish to prolong their stay.

A Blood-Thirsty Lot.

"Everyone, especially the Indians, was anxious for a charge, but the birds flew before we reached their trenches. It is all right fighting the Turks; but the Arabs use big muzzle rifles with an enormous lead bullet which will smash anything, and not make a pretty little hole like the Turks' pointed bullet, which will heal in no time. The black powder from the Arabs' rifle also causes so much smoke that it is impossible to see the actual firer. They are a blood-thirsty lot, these Arabs, and when the men lay wounded they will shoot you at a yard's distance. A subadar of the natives was shot in this way. On the day after the battle we found the jackals had been at work."

PRESIDED AT HEARING ON STATE GAME LAWS

JAMES A. CARLEY,
Senator From Plainview.

more than three hours and which was addressed by more than two score speakers.

Diverse Views.

As indicated some few days previously, Chairman Indrehus brought before the meeting, under different subdivisions, topics which were largely before the sporting fraternity throughout the state. A remarkable diversity of sentiment on these subjects was displayed by the various speakers, and at one point, when the destruction of game birds and the question of what limit should be placed on a day's bag, the so-called "city sportsmen" and the country-siders seemed almost in danger of locking horns.

Several sporting clubs and associations in different parts of the state had representatives on hand ready to present what they considered to be the best solution of the game problem.

Restriction on the Bag.

Speaking for the Winona Sportsmen Club and Fisherman's association, Dr. S. F. James said that he advocated a stringent restrict on the amount of the bag with respect to game birds. A limitation of the open season, he thought, would be to the best interests of both the birds and the hunters in general. He also advocated the prohibition of shooting of all kinds of game birds from automobiles and set himself on record as opposed to the use of artificial light in spearing fish.

Alfred de Schmidt, game warden of Minneapolis, said that spearing fish should be abolished entirely because it was the most brutal way of killing fish and was wholly unsportsmanlike.

Representative Charles T. Murphy of Aurora had a bunch of letters and petitions from range communities requesting changes in the game and fish laws, including the following proposals: to prohibit aliens from carrying guns or getting hunting licenses; to prohibit shooting game from autos; to limit the deer kill to one antlered buck per season; to protect rabbits; to have a closed season of three years on moose; to provide that all license money shall go to the game and fish fund, etc.

Support the Commission.

While a number of those present had different opinions regarding some of the points raised, all were unanimous when the question of support of the game and fish commission was broached. The chairman explained the inability of the commission to do effective work without sufficient funds, and more than half a dozen speakers supported the resolution to have all license fees and fines revert to the state for the use of the commission, and urged the discontinuance of the rewards paid to game wardens and others for securing convictions of violators of the game laws.

While no definite action was taken by the members of the committee as a result of the hearing, the members expressed themselves as particularly well pleased at the interest displayed in the hearing and the presentation of the several phases of the situation.

M. H. McMahon of Virginia and C. R. Middleton of Baudette were among the speakers.

every twenty years without a vote of the people. If this amendment is adopted, which can be by a majority vote and ratified by the people, the 1917 legislature can call a convention to revise the Constitution.

Woman Suffrage Bill.

The woman suffrage bill made its appearance in the house this morning, being introduced by Representative Larson of Sandstone, author of the woman suffrage bill which passed the house by a large majority two years ago.

Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota, chairman of the senate finance committee, introduced in the senate this morning a resolution providing that the efficiency and economy bill, if passed, shall not be effective before 1917, and directing the finance committee to shape the budget for the next two years on the present laws. This is proposed because the fate of the efficiency and economy bill will not be known for some time, and if it passed to be effective at once a new appropriation budget would be made necessary. One effect of the resolution would be that if Governor Hammond made appointments under the efficiency plan, it would have to be in his next term, not in this one.

Muskellunge Hatchery.

A muskellunge hatchery near Park Rapids is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Hinds at a cost of $10,000.

Senator Baldwin in the senate, and Representative Indrehus in the house introduced olills providing that all revenues from the game laws shall go into the fish and game fund.

The Range Poultry association would participate in state aid for such work under a bill introduced in both houses this morning. Senator Griggs is one of the senate authors, and Representative Murphy of Aurora is one of the sponsors for the house bill.

Senator Healy of Hibbing is the author of new bills prohibiting minors under 16 from carrying arms or ammunition, and prohibiting dealers from selling such commodities to minors.

Regulation of Telephones.

Senators Rockne, Benson and Holmberg joined in introducing in the senate a bill for the state regulation of telephones under the railroad and warehouse commission. It provides that local authorities, instead of the state, shall grant franchises.

The Minette bill, now in the house, will be amended to the same effect.

The senate, in committee of the whole, advanced to the calendar the Gjerset bill proposing a constitutional amendment increasing the supreme court membership from five to seven, and the Campbell bill providing that primary elections shall be held on Mondays instead of Tuesdays.

The house passed, 77 to 27, the bill making an emergency appropriation of $2,000 to enable the drainage commission to make a report and complete its year's work.

Two Bills Passed.

The house passed the Warner bill making interest on state land contracts a flat 4 per cent, and doing away with advance payments of interest, and the Swanson bill prohibiting the sale of cold storage eggs for fresh eggs.

Bills introduced: Representatives Harrison and Malmberg, requiring that berries must be sold in standard containers; Representative Novak, requiring health authorities to paper or calcimine rooms in which there have been contagious disease, first cleaning off the old paper or calcimine; Representative Novak, providing for the state examination and licensing of steam fitters; Representative North of Duluth, prohibiting the sale of Copenhagen snuff and tobaccos containing opium; Representative Guilford, repealing the 1913 law providing for the retirement of superannuated judges; Senator Potter, prohibiting the sale of swine from stockyards except for immediate slaughter.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

matter of expediency. Personally he felt absolutely confident that the proposal to divide by legislative enactment was constitutional, but he could see that there might be difficulty in bringing the judiciary committees of senate and house to see the point.

Senator Healy wanted to stand on the bill for division by legislation, and to get opinions from St. Paul lawyers holding it constitutional. He said he had no doubt of its passage if this could be done.

However, a majority of the delegation were convinced that it was utterly out of the question to push this bill, and the agreement on the bill for division by petition was unanimous, though one or two members had some doubt about the constitutionality of this measure. However, Mr. McMahon assured them that there could be no doubt about that point.

The understanding is that if the bill for division by petition should pass, putting it up to the governor to select the temporary county seat, petitions will flow in from the state asking him to select Hibbing. The bill for division by legislative enactment fixed upon Hibbing as the temporary county seat.

Provisions of the Bill.

The bill introduced today was briefly described in these dispatches yesterday, but following are its provisions more in detail:

Division to be brought about by a petition signed by 25 per cent of the voters of the whole county, and containing the signatures of electors in the proposed new county equal in number to 55 per cent of those voting at the last preceding general election for state officers." This petition, which is to give the name of the proposed new county and fix its boundaries, is to be filed with the secretary of state, and a copy with the county auditor.

If it appears that the petition is signed by the requisite number of voters, "of which fact the affidavit of the persons securing the signatures thereto shall be prima facie evidence," the secretary of state is to notify the governor, "who thereupon shall issue his proclamation declaring such new county to be established." Division will then become an accomplished fact.

The petitioners may all be residents of the proposed new county, and residents of the rest of the old county will have nothing whatever to say about it. If there were 24,000 votes in St. Louis county, and 12,000 votes in the proposed new county, the petition would have to have 6,000 signers to meet the requirement of 25 per cent, and 6,600 to meet the 55-per-cent requirement. The 55 per cent must all come from the proposed new county, and a number sufficient to meet this requirement would at the same time more than meet the 25-per-cent requirement.

Applies Only to St. Louis County.

While general in its terms, the bill is of course special in fact, because it applies only to St. Louis county. It applies to "any county" having a population of more than 50,000 people and an area of more than 2,500 square miles; and St. Louis is the only county in the state this description applies to. Another provision definitely applying it to St. Louis county is that none of the boundary lines of the proposed county may be nearer than twenty miles from the county seat of the original county.

Within twenty days after the governor has issued the required proclamation, the governor is to appoint five county commissioners for the new county. The petition for division, while stating the boundaries of the proposed new county, is not to fix the county seat. This is left to the governor, whose choice is to prevail until there has been an election in the new county.

The county commissioners are to fill all county offices except the offices of clerk of district court and court commissioner, which are to be filled by the district judges.

Locating County Seat.

The question of locating a county seat will come up at the next general election. Any town, city or village may become a candidate by the filing of a petition, which must be signed by at least 500 legal voters of the community. This figure would limit candidacies to a few communities, and it may be reduced by amendment. The names of the committees seeking county seat honors are to be rotated on the ballot.

Records are to be transcribed and taxes assessed, levied and collected as now provided for by law. The indebtedness of the original county above the value of its county buildings and balance of funds in its treasury is to be apportioned as provided by Chapter 7 of the Revised laws of 1913. The assets of the old county are to be apportioned as provided by law. The passage of the act is not to affect the officers of the original county for the terms for which they are elected.

Several of the range members uttered regrets that the delay in bringing in the bill had been so great, and said that it should have been here the first day of the session, in order that its chance of passage might be limited. However, Mr. McMahon said that the drafting of the measures had been attended by a good deal of difficulty, and the delay was unavoidable.

Referred to Committees.

The bill was referred to the committees on towns and counties in the respective branches, which are made up as follows:

Senate—P. H. McGarry, Walker, chairman; John Steffen, Pipestone; James Johnston, Bertha; James M. Millett, Hastings; T. C. Blomgren, Cambridge; R. T. Buckley, Crookston; George A. Turnham, Hennepin county.

House—T. J. Greene, St. Paul, chairman; H. J. Miner, International Falls; E. B. Swenson, Ironton; C. M. Nietzel, Bird Island; Fred Bessette, Orr; E. R. Ribenack, Duluth; S. C. Scott, Hibbing; J. M. Thornton, St. Paul; H. W. Halsett, Butterfield; Fred L. Brown, St. Paul; J. W. Panke, Wageca; T. H. Girling, Minneapolis; Isaac Marschalk, Warroad; Anton Borgen, Duluth; J. H. Boyd, Crookston; G. W. Biornson, Minneota; C. C. Malmberg, Forest Lake.

VIOLENCE OF GERMAN ATTACK IN BOLIMOW

the fierceness of the German offensive compelled some of our units to retire upon the second line of trenches."

Counter Attack.

In the meanwhile a counter attack from another detachment of our forces drove the enemy from all trenches occupied by them, inflicting upon them enormous losses.

"Simultaneously with this attack on Borjimow the Germans delivered a series of ferocious assaults against our front between the villages of Gournine, Burgad and Mogheiy. The attacks were supported by very heavy artillery fire. Up to midday of Jan. 31 every one of these assaults was driven back by us, some by our rifle fire and some by the bayonet, but between midday and 2 p. m. of Jan. 31 the Germans were successful in occupying a part of our trenches. In this they were helped largely by a sustained artillery fire. A little after 2 o'clock we undertook a general counter attack. This was successful and as a result of it the enemy on the evening of Jan. 31 retained but a little of what they had gained that day.

"Up to the present they have not actually appeared on our front. We were successful in repelling every endeavor of the enemy to assume the offensive in the vicinity of Mount Beskid and Mount Wyszkow and we are continuing to advance with success along the front from Nijnia Polianka to Loudo, Iski.

Enemy Dislodged.

"It should be related that during the night of Jan. 30 and 31, at a point near Bolimow a Russian detachment advanced upon the enemy and dislodged them from certain positions which threatened the heads of our trenches. In this encounter our men used the bayonet freely and we captured some machine guns.

"Local inhabitants relate that the enemy after the Lipno-Dobryzn fight used sixty wagons to remove their wounded. German prisoners captured in the region of Borjimow are authority for the statement that between Jan. 24 and 30 the Germans on a front near Borjimow, one-half verst long (a little less than one mile) lost over 6,000 men in killed. The wounded were numerous.

"In the Carpathians between Jan. 26 and 29, on the front between Mijnia Polianka and Loudovisk! we captured 78 officers, 4,065 soldiers, 4 pieces of artillery and 10 machine guns."

TERRIBLE BREAKING OUT ON HEAD

Itched and Burned. Child Would Scratch and Cry All Night. Spread Very Fast. Caused Hair to Fall Out. Used Cuticura. Trouble Gone.

Birdsong, Mo.—"When my little daughter was two years old she had a terrible breaking out on her head which annoyed her a great deal. It came in yellow blisters which would break and run and where the matter would go it would break out again. She could not rest at night. It itched and burned. She would scratch and cry all night. The trouble spread very fast. It gave her great distress and caused her hair to fall out.

"I applied various remedies without her receiving any benefit. At last with but little faith I began the use of Cuticura Soap as a shampoo and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In one week her trouble was all gone and she has never been bothered since." (Signed) Mrs. Lucy B. Utley, June 26, 1914.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends with shapeless nails, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders.

NO MORE COLD WAVES IN SIGHT

Northwest Enjoying Rising Temperature—Storm Rages in East.

The storm in the Ohio valley and in the Central and Eastern states is still raising havoc with the telegraph wires and not only is general news delayed, but the weather man has suffered in being unable to get temperatures from many points affected and, therefore, the table shown in connection with the weather map is very incomplete.

Mr. Richardson gives the comforting assurance that there is nothing resembling a cold wave anywhere in the Northwest, but that the mercury at all points in the territory designated is traveling upward. He says that there is no danger of cold in this vicinity for at least twenty-four to thirty-six hours.

SHIP BILL IS HALTED

Measure to Purchase Vessels Sent Back to Committee.

Alliance Between Democrats and Republicans Enables It.

Washington, Feb. 2.—With staggering suddenness late yesterday nine senate Democrats formed an alliance with Republicans in an effort to send the government ship purchase bill back to the commerce committee. The revolt, as unexpected as it was sudden, turned in a twinkling an administration advantage into a defensive position which last night seemed almost hopeless to many Democratic leaders.

Forced to fight for the life of the measure, the Democrats succeeded in adjourning the senate with the motion to recommit pending, and a party caucus was called for this morning.

Senator Clarke of Arkansas, Democrat and president pro tempore of the senate, revolutionized the situation which has held the senate in deadlock for many days. He rose while Senator William A. Smith of Michigan was concluding a long speech against the shipping bill, and asked him to yield for a motion. The senator yielded, having learned the nature of the motion to come, and Senator Clarke, introducing his remarks with an appeal for consideration of other legislation, moved to send the pending bill back to committee.

Pandemonium Followed.

The pandemonium that followed this development has not been equaled in the senate in many years. Senators poured from the cloak room to the chamber like bees from a hive. Republicans, forewarned, were the first on the scene.

As soon as administration leaders could catch their breath, Senator Fletcher, in charge of the bill, made a point of order against the motion which Vice President Marshall sustained. Senator Clarke appealed from the decision and the chair was overruled by a vote of 46 to 37, nine Democrats joining the Republicans. Afterpromo further parliamentary maneuvering, Senator Reed took the floor and assailed the Democrats who had voted with the Republicans.

"I wonder if our old friend, the shipping trust, is to have an opportunity tomorrow morning to congratulate itself as it has done many times in the past?" he said. "It has been very busy circulating briefs among the members of the senate. There are some here who were members of the senate when the shipping trust undertook to put its hands in the American pocket for the extraction of a ship subsidy. I find nearly all of them now in favor of a subsidy and cheek by jowl with the shipping trust in its attempted raid of the United States treasury. I also find them now in gleeful mood because on the last two or three roll calls the vote has indicated sufficient Democratic defection possibly to accomplish the defeat of this bill.

Must Answer for Vote.

"I congratulate this hoary old monopoly on the fact that it apparently has sufficient vigor remaining to invade the Democratic side of the chamber and find votes for its support. Every man here today will have to answer for his vote on this bill as he must on every bill."

The "shipping trust" the Missouri senator continued, at the very moment war was declared, entered on a system of plunder, extorting enormous sums from American citizens endeavoring to escape from war scenes to their native shores.

Both sides seemed to be willing to declare a truce to take stock of the new situation, and when Senator Fletcher moved an adjournment until noon today there was no opposition.

Administration leaders called a Democratic caucus for today, when an effort will be made to win back recalcitrant members of the party. An attempt will be made to get aid from Progressives by amending the bill. Senators Norris, Kenyon, La Follette and Poindexter, Progressives, are the objects of the Democratic hopes. Some of the party leaders, however, express fears that to win this support from the opposition would require concessions which would cost them more of their own strength, and the situation generally was admitted to be most precarious for the Democratic program.

Atmosphere Tense.

As the roll was called on the motion to sustain the chair's ruling on the Clarke motion, the atmosphere of the senate chamber was tense. When all the Democrats who had been known not to be enthusiastic for the bill voted in the negative, it was clear that the tide in the long legislative struggle had turned.

The Democrats who voted with the Republicans against the ruling of the chair were Bankhead of Alabama, Camden of Kentucky, Clarke of Arkansas, Hardwick of Georgia, Bryan of Florida, Hitchcock of Nebraska, O'Gorman of New York, Smith of Georgia and Vardaman of Mississippi.

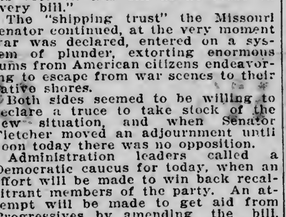

Senators Bankhead, Camden, Clarke, Hardwick, Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Vardaman, it subsequently developed, had conferred early in the day and determined to break the deadlock with a view either to material revision of the measure or entirely sidetracking it, at least so far as the present session is concerned.

President Wilson still feels confident of the passage of the shipping bill, despite yesterday's developments. He discussed the situation at length with Secretary Bryan and Senator Williams and later it was indicated at the White House that there will be no letup in the fight for the bill.

WHY GRIP IS DANGEROUS.

It requires a good tonic laxative to keep the body of the patient as strong as possible to counteract the effect of the poisons created by the grip bacillus. An expectorant tonic with some laxative qualities is the safest remedy. Such is Peruna.

Mrs. Gentry Gates, 8219 First Ave., East Lake, Ala., writes: "I had a bad case of grip. I tried Peruna and it cured me. I can safely say it is a fine medicine."

Mr. George E. Law, 13½ N. Franklin St., Brazil, Ind., writes: "I am satisfied that Peruna is a wonderful remedy for grip, and I do most heartily endorse and recommend it."

was successful in that the Germans entered one of our trenches, but an immediate counter attack at the point of the bayonet resulted in our overcoming the enemy. Only a few Germans succeeded in regaining their trenches. All the others were killed or taken prisoners.

Attack Not Renewed.

"Between the Somme and the Oise and along the front of the Aisne there are no important developments to report with the exception of a German attack on Beaumont hamlet, which was not renewed.

"Our heavy artillery bombarded the railroad station at Noyon, whence the Germans were reprovisioning their troops. Our shells caused two explosions, the smoke from which could be seen for more than two hours and a half.

"Our methodical progress in the region of Perthes continues. I have occupied another small forest to the northwest of this village.

"In the Woevre district the enemy delivered an attack on the western side of the Bouchot forest (northeast of Troyon), which was at once driven back.

"There is nothing to announce on the front in Lorraine and in the Vosges."

CIENTIFICADOS WOULD CONTROL

Movement Is Launched Against the Carranza and Villa Elements.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—A movement directed against the Carranza and Villa elements in Mexico has been launched by the Cientificado party, which supported Diaz and the Huerta regimes, according to authentic information received here. The new movement is said to have received the adherence of many former wealthy land owners.

Five Hundred Killed.

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—Official reports of the capture of the city of Guadalajara were received at Gen. Obregon's headquarters. The battle occurred Jan. 20 and Gen. Villa's troops under Generals Medina, Ortega and Contreras suffered heavy casualties. Five hundred men were killed, including the three commanding generals, the report says, and twelve 80-milimeter cannon, ten machine guns, trains of 300 cars and large quantities of ammunition were captured.

FLOOD WARNINGS FOR OHIO VALLEY

Warm Rains Which Have Fallen Unceasingly Given as Cause.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 2.—Flood warnings were issued last night by the weather bureau. The warm rain which has fallen unceasingly for thirty hours and melted snow in the Monongahela and Allegheny water sheds is given as the reason for the flood prediction. A stage of twenty-five feet, three feet above flood stage, is forecasted for Pittsburg, with a stage of thirty-eight feet at Wheeling tonight. The rain is expected to continue and may cause a higher stage, in the opinion of the weather bureau.

Small streams claimed three lives in this district. Two men were drowned near Latrobe, Pa., and a woman lost her life in a flooded creek at West Wheeling, W. Va.

The Ohio Very High.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 2.—With the Ohio past the 30-foot mark, the flood stage of thirty-five feet is expected here by tonight and a stage of at least forty feet is probable from the water already in sight. Preparations are being made at the United States dam below Evansville for a stage of forty-eight feet here, within six inches of the record flood of April, 1913. Farmers in the bottoms are moving out with their stock and grain. The Evansville and Indianapolis railroad bridge above Petersburg is out.

THREE DECISIONS FOR RAILROAD MEN

Provisions of Federal Laws of 1907 Are Made Clearer.

San Francisco, Feb. 2.—Three decisions further clarifying the Federal states of 1907 regulating the hours of railroad employes were rendered here yesterday by the United States circuit court of appeals. In a case decided against the Northern Pacific, the court held that being on duty is equivalent to continuous duty. A Northern Pacific train was on duty sixteen hours, although part of that time it was idle, as far as manual labor went, owing to a stop. Bad weather and washouts, the court held in the case of the San Pedro railroad, do not excuse the company for working a crew more than sixteen hours. The decision implied however, wherever the company is not in control of the situation, it cannot reasonably be held liable.

In another case a railroad telegrapher who had worked more than the nine hours allowed by the law, in order that he might relieve a sick man, was found to be included in the emergency provisions of the act.

CRAIG GIVES EXPLANATION OF THE EFFICIENCY BILL

General Outline Presented to the Senators and Representatives.

Twin City Contractors Oppose North Bill to Protect Builders.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The efficiency and economy bill had its first public hearing yesterday afternoon before the house committee on efficiency and economy, the senate committee on civil administration, and a large number of members of both houses who with others interested, comfortably filled the house chamber. Chairman Lewis S. Spooner of the house committee presided, and Chairman F. A. Duxbury of the senate committee, sat with him.

The purpose of the hearing was to give the members of the committees and the senators and representatives generally, a general outline of the measure—its scope, purpose, effects and the occasion that gave rise to it. Many questions were asked, some opposition developed which helped to give piquancy and life to the proceedings; and on the whole the effect of the hearing was all that the friends of the measure could have hoped for.

Mr. Craig's Argument.

The principal talk was made by Charles P. Craig of Duluth, chairman of the commission which framed the measure, who said in part:

"In the beginning let it be said that the commission does not submit its work as the 'last word' on civil administration. The words employed in it are not sacred. It is presented to you as the work of thirty of your fellow citizens, of like mind with yourself, undertaken at the request of the retiring governor of the state. These men approached the task, in the beginning, with much diffidence. We were for the most part strangers to one another; the majority of us meeting for the first time. The magnitude of the work itself seemed depressing, and I confess there was not much encouragement from the outside that we would ever accomplish anything worth while.

"It became clear first that of the three great departments of government, the executive, the judiciary and the legislative, that we had to do only with the executive branch. Our problem was not what are the functions of the government, but the method of performing such functions. Not an inquiry to correct men but to correct system. Thus defined the task assumed proportions which gave us courage.

"The work of the commission began by listing the various activities of the state and studying the structure of the organizations to which is intrusted the carrying out of these functions. In such listing and distribution into groups of more or less homogeneous character it found that the executive branch of our government today is carried on by upwards of seventy unrelated boards, bureaus, commissions, etc., independent of each other and of the chief executive, appointed by the governor, but looking to the legislature for pay and the appropriation of funds; separate governmental units with no responsibility to the chief executive for the efficient and economic handling of such funds, owing only political allegiance to the governor as the appointing power; some reporting to the legislature, some to the governor, some to the secretary of state, some to the auditor, and a startling large number not reporting at all. These various boards, commissions, etc., spend 90 per cent of the money biennially appropriated, while the elective and constitutional officers including the governor disburse the remaining 10 per cent. Our government thus presents three striking violations of sound business principles: Multiplicity of independent, unrelated, irresponsive governmental units; variety in the organization of these different units, and predominance of boards and commissions for the performance of purely executive functions.

Unity of Administration.

"To cure these, the commission proposes first to create a unity of administration, with the chief executive at the head, a centralization of responsibility and control extending from the governor, the head of the administration, in unbroken sequence down through the entire executive branch of the government, to the end that some person somewhere may know what every person is doing everywhere all of the time. To group the various functions into convenient homogeneous groups with a director, who is in fact the governor acting by proxy, at its head; to make the plan of organization of each group identical, and to place purely executive duties in the hands of individuals. The commission proposes five departments, public domain, public welfare, labor and commerce and agricultural, each under a director, and education, under two boards of nine members each, one the board of regents in charge of the educational activities of the state except the university. These directors are the arms of the governor; appointed by him, and subject to dismissal at his will. They are as responsive to him as his private secretary. This centralization of responsibility and control in a good governor makes it possible for him to do a maximum amount of good and whilst it also permits a bad governor to doing wrong, he can not escape a most direct responsibility for such mistakes.

"The proposal of the commission not only creates a unified organization and control, with the governor at the head, but introduces the merit system into all branches of the service, below directors of departments, and effects a strict budgetary control over all expenditures for governmental account. Having outlined the plan of organized and responsive executive control, only a few words are necessary respecting the merit system. Whatever objections may be urged to it, I think we are all ready to admit that it has come to stay and what is to take place in the future will be not the abolishment of the civil service principal in government but the perfecting of the system and of the administration and application of the system, thus overcoming the objections to it through improved provision in the civil service law and a more scientific application of it.

The Merit System.

"Under the present system the governor has the naming directly of some 500 appointees, and indirectly the naming of 2,500 others. Under the proposal herewith submitted he would have the appointment of less than fifty people and more than two-thirds of these would be to non-salaried positions. The merit system here offered has received most thorough study, involving examinations of all of the more recently drafted and most highly commended civil service laws. We believe it embodies many desirable points with a minimum of objectionable ones.

"With respect to 'the budget' little need be said. It appeals to every one and is what every one wants, and none of us appreciate its need more than the members of the finance committee and the appropriations committee of this body. It is the only scientific way of arriving at an equitable, wise and conservative expenditure of public money for governmental purposes. The plan of budget proposed in this bill is one demanding only a careful examination by the committees having it under consideration for the purpose of improving it and making it more helpful in accomplishing its purposes.

"The plan of the commission as proposed is comprehensive but not revolutionary. It does not involve any new principle but simply aligns the executive or administrative part of our government with the well accepted principles of modern business organization. It is worked out within the limitations of the constitution and fundamental law of the state. In a word, it may be termed 'a bill to create an administration for the state of Minnesota,' because in no true sense can we now be said to have one. It represents the best thought and is the unanimous judgment of thirty men having given sixteen months to a careful consideration of the subject, holding over forty meetings and hearings, assisted by a statistician of national reputation, a secretary as a general investigator, a committee of five appointed by the Minnesota State Bar association to which was referred legal questions for construction, by the attorney general's office, and finally the entire work checked by Francis H. Tiffany, a legal technician.

Should Keep Bill's Unity.

"It is for you, gentlemen, to consider and amend as in your judgment seems best, but let any changes that are made be directed solely to the merits of the bill and be such as will not destroy its unity and therefore its effectiveness. Do not amend for the sake of expediency.

"In conclusion, let me say to you, you cannot get efficiency under the present plan of administration because of no correlation, and lack of control over the numerous governmental units. You can not secure economical expenditure of money because you cannot place responsibility for extravagance. You can not secure effective budgetary control because that means a budget, under the present plan of administration you would have seventy budgets.

"We submit our work as representing our best thought looking towards a solution of the rapidly mounting governmental expense bill, and our contribution as citizens to the cause of better government, we feel it is entitled to fair and full consideration, and ask that the study of it be approached with open mindedness and with the single purpose of improving the administrative machinery of our state."

Mr. Craig's talk was warmly applauded, and well received.

In opening the hearing, Chairman Spooner of the house committee said:

Mr. Spooner's Views.

"That there is almighty need of a businesslike and non-political reorganization of our state administration, no one not ignorant of present conditions, desiring to be honest with the people, will undertake to deny.

"If these public hearings shall reasonably satisfy me that the enactment of the proposed legislation will be a service to the people of the state, I shall do my utmost to secure its enactment.

"If the enactment of the proposed legislation fails in this session, I give notice that it may be expected that an effort will be quickly undertaken in the direction of the enactment of legislation like or similar to that proposed in House File 1120 of the session of 1911, in order that during the two years interim succeeding this session, due inquiry with authority may be made into the defects of our present state administration, and due report be made to the next legislature qualifying that body to do what this legislature may possibly fail to do. But for the present it is my hope that due consideration will be given to the proposed legislation, earnestly looking toward its enactment, provided these hearings shall have the effect to convince a majority of both houses of the wisdom of the enactment of the legislation proposed.

"A few concrete illustrations will not be out of order in this connection. For example, our bureau of immigration is now asking an appropriation of $200,000 in order to transact the business thereof during the ensuing two years. It is my very confident belief that our bureau of immigration properly administered, under legislation perhaps needed to be yet enacted, should soon get to be self-supporting and that properly administered, it may easily be made so, though to do that may operate to prevent a limited number of individuals from getting rich out of its mal-administration.

"Our oil inspection department, instead of being a bill of expense and an opportunity for political grafting, should be quickly put upon a business basis and when so administered can be easily made to be self-supporting.

Grain Inspection.

"Our so-called grain inspection department administered in the interest of the grain growers and grain consumers of this state, reorganized so as to be upon that basis, might easily be made to be self-supporting—in lieu of a burden upon the taxpayers and the robbery of the grain growers of the state.

"No one whose opinion is worth while will undertake to deny that such legislation should be enacted as will secure to this state such a future administration of our game and fish interests as to make our game and fish commission not only self-sustaining, self-supporting, but an actual revenue earner—analagous to our industries at Stillwater.

"Even our drainage commission, objectionable as have been some of its past operations, objectionable and questionable, expensive as has been its past administration, can, as I verily believe, be put upon a basis which will enable it to be considerably better than a self-supporting arm of state administration."

Other members of the commission who spoke were E. G. Hall of St. Paul, president of the state federation of labor; John H. Hartigan of St. Paul, Ellas Jacobson, Representative Thomas Kneeland, Senator F. E. Putnam and Senator J. D. Sullivan.

Mr. Kneeland said that he first heard of the idea of reorganizing the state government in 1909 at a meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, when Mr. Craig outlined a plan for the correlating of the various bureaus relating to the public domain.

Senator Putnam thought that too much emphasis had been laid in most discussions on the subject of "economy." The state has taken on many new responsibilities that all cost money, and the cost of local government has mounted as rapidly as the cost of state government. Besides, the question what the taxpayers are getting for their money is quite as important as the size of their taxes.

Col. Wilkinson Opposed.

Col. R. A. Wilkinson, formerly attorney for the Great Northern railroad, spoke in opposition to the plan. He said that it proposed a bureaucracy that would make this country worse than Russia, and that the various functions grouped in this bill should be put under the elective officers of the state.

Representative Sawyer said that if he thought the elective officers were so efficient, he should sit down and let them demonstrate how the state printing commission could save $40,000 if it had a mind to.

Col. Wilkinson said that if we haven't the right kind of elective officers we should elect better ones, but that we ought to keep these important things close to the people.

Beginning Thursday afternoon, when the department of public domain will be considered, the joint committee will take up the various divisions of the bill, meeting every Tuesday and Thursday until its hearings are completed.

A sub-committee of the house judiciary committee had a public hearing yesterday afternoon on the bill by Representative W. J. North of Duluth to protect builders against dishonest contractors. It makes it larceny for a contractor to collect pay for work and then fail to pay his bills, leaving the owner liable to liens.

A number of Twin City contractors appeared against the provision of the bill. They declared that they were in sympathy with its purposes, but said they feared that if it passed as it stood technical prosecutions might be begun and responsible contractors might be open to a technical charge of violation of the proposed law, which makes it a larceny if a contractor diverts money or materials to other purposes than those for which they were furnished. It was pointed out to them by members of the committee that the fact of criminal intent would always have to be proved, and that this would protect the honest contractor.

An effort will be made to accomplish the result desired by Mr. North without exposing honest contractors to needless trouble.

Boiler Inspection Charges.

The senate committee on labor, Chairman Campbell announced yesterday, will take up this afternoon an investigation of the charges made at a recent hearing before the committee against the present system of boiler inspection. It was asserted there that inspectors had taken fees for examining boilers which they never saw. J. H. Colwell, state boiler inspector for Ramsey county, requested the hearing and offered $100 for every case of improper practice proved in his district.

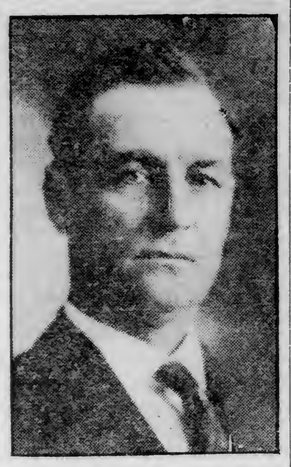

The committee unanimously recommended for passage the Westlake bill reorganizing the boiler inspection, during a hearing on which the charges were made.

The house committee on general legislation, of which E. R. Ribenack of Duluth is chairman, yesterday afternoon began a public hearing on this same bill, which was continued for further hearing after an animated discussion.

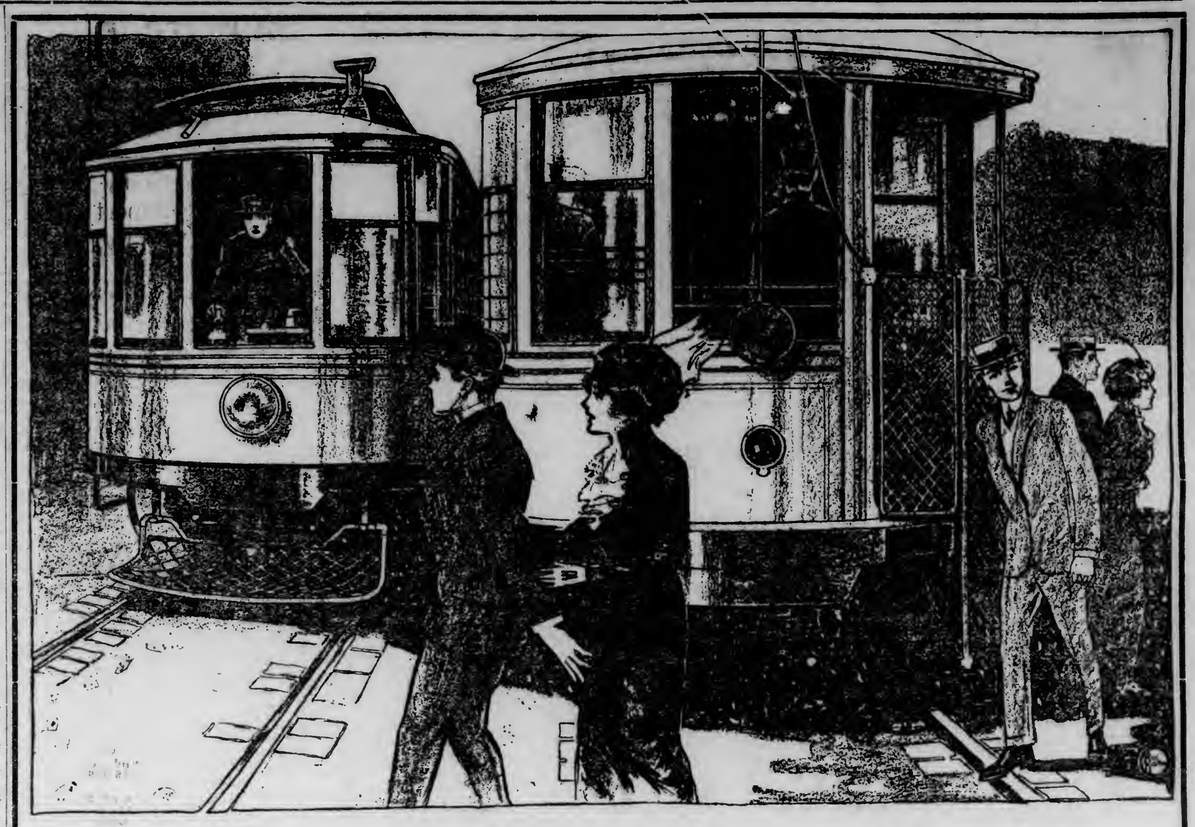

As it stands, the bill exempts from inspection boilers that are insured, as the insurance companies maintain their own inspection system. Members of the committee thought this ought not to be, and the engineers back of the bill agreed, but said they put it that way to remove the opposition of the insurance companies, which used to beat the bill on that account. They would like to see all boilers inspected, but feared stirring up the opposition of the insurance companies. The committee laid it over, with a strong mind to change the bill without regard to the wishes of the insurance companies, and see what they will do about it.

What Could You Do With $5,000?

It would come in very handy just about now, wouldn't it?

You could probably have had that much in the bank by this time if you hadn't been so reckless with your money—if you had really saved as carefully as you intended to.

But it is no use crying over the past. Resolve to act more wisely in the future. Make up your mind to have a substantial sum in bank before another ten years pass. You can save several dollars every week quite easily if you try, without pinching or scraping, and if you put that money in a Savings Account in this strong bank, where it will earn 3 per cent Compound Interest, it will soon grow into hundreds.

Remember that $5,000 will come in just as handy in ten years' time as it would today.

ECONOMIZE ON YOUR MEDICINE

LYCEUM PHARMACY WILL SELL 100 BOTTLES OF MEDICINE AT HALF PRICE. MAKE YOUR OWN COUGH MEDICINE

One hundred residents of Duluth will have a chance to get a 50c bottle (but only one to each family) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant at half price, at Lyceum Pharmacy, today and tomorrow only, but remember on these days only. With a view to giving those who have not yet used this excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, the proprietor and Lyceum Pharmacy have decided to reduce the price so as to give the first 100 applying a regular 50c bottle for 25c, by presenting the coupon below. Even though not in need of a medicine at the present time, it will pay to take advantage of this opportunity, as some remedy is quite sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at half price again.

This latest method of supplying a remedy in such strongly concentrated form, where you buy all pure medicine in small bottles, is more economical. Instead of buying, to break up a cold or cough, several bottles of old fashioned, ready-made remedies containing only a small quantity of real medicine and a large proportion of sugar and water, also paying for bottle, corks, labels, etc., better to get a 2-ounce bottle of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant and mix it at home, making your own sugar syrup (according to directions) and make a full pint of the best Cough Medicine, besides save $2.00 to $3.00, which this quantity would cost for the same amount of the ordinary kinds. One bottle will also probably be a sufficent quantity to last a family the entire winer. Absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine, or any other narcotic is contained in this remedy. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy, as Lyceum Pharmacy will refund your 25c if it is not found the very best remedy ever used for Stubborn Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough or Hoarseness. Persons calling after these 100 bottles are sold or living out of the city where they are unable to get it of their local druggist, will not be disappointed, but will be sent a bottle, postpaid, upon receipt of the coupon and 25c, providing they order of the proprietor today.

OPPOSES BILL ON PRISONERS' BOARD

Sheriff to Meet Delegation; County Board Wants Higher Pay.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff John R. Meining is here to appear before the St. Louis county delegation at its regular weekly meeting tonight to oppose the proposed bill providing that the board of prisoners in the St. Louis county jail shall be handled by the county board at cost instead of by the sheriff at a profit.

The bill is not yet before the delegation, but in response to the recommendations of two grand juries, the county board has instructed Senator Charles E. Adams to draft it.

County Commissioners Alex Fraser, T. H. Little, Charles Pentilla, Charles Kauppi, Walter A. Swanstrom and R. S. O'Neill are also here to appear before the board regarding the pending bill to increase the salaries of county commissioners in St. Louis county.

The delegation has been receiving many letters from St. Louis county citizens urging them to pass this bill, and pointing out that the salary of $1,200 now paid the members of the county board is absurdly out of proportion to the importance of their duties.

The growth of the business of St. Louis county, and of the sums administered by the county board, is shown by this table:

	Assessed Valuation.	Road Levy.
1907	$234,347,180	$114,830
1908	222,008,641	148,746
1909	246,982,328	160,539
1910	272,450,359	247,930
1911	284,775,899	269,113
1912	311,883,370	289,520
1913	314,817,268	530,153
1914	323,964,970	500,526

During this time there has been no increase in the compensation of county commissioners, though the salaries of nearly all other county officers have been increased.

"FRANCE" SUBJECT OF HIS LECTURE

Fifth Talk in Y. M. C. A. Series on Countries at War.

Monsieur Jules Romieux, professor of French at the Duluth Central high school, who has long been a resident of Duluth, will give a lecture tonight to men and women at the Young Men's Christian association at 8 o'clock.

This is the fifth of the series of free lectures the association has been giving on European countries. The subject of the address tonight is, "France, Early and Later." In view of the present crisis in Europe and because of the vital interests that France is having in the war, the subject tonight will no doubt interest many people. In these lectures, however, the speakers have avoided reference to the present war as much as they possibly can, realizing that America is the home of all of these nationalities and representatives of all these countries are found here. So far the lecture course has proved popular and intensely interesting. Many have so far attended the entire course. After tonight there will be but one more lecture, by O. J. Larson, a prominent attorney, who will speak on "Finland and Russia." The lecture tonight will be free to both men and women.

HOFFMAN CLOSES LECTURE COURSE

Dr. W. W. Lawrence Will Continue the Wednesday Evening Meetings.

Dr. J. W. Hoffman has just closed a very successful course of lectures at the Y. M. C. A. on "Business and Religion." These lectures were so successful that several men have asked to have them repeated. On account of special meetings at the First Methodist church, Dr. Hoffman will not be able at this time to give the series.

Dr. W. W. Lawrence, pastor of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church, will, however, continue the regular course of Wednesday evening lectures, beginning tomorrow evening, and for four or five successive Wednesdays will give his addresses on "The Sermon on the Mount." These lectures will be held each evening, closing at 7:45. Preceding the lecture, for the convenience of men who work downtown, supper is served at 6:15, so that men coming directly from work may avail themselves of this convenience. This supper and the lecture are open to non-members as well as members.

Each Tuesday evening two groups meet for supper and Bible study at 6 o'clock. This course has been very popular. Tonight the class will enjoy a special social hour and will have an oyster supper together.

UPPER PENINSULA BANKERS TO ORGANIZE

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 2.—Upper Peninsula bankers affiliated with the Michigan Bankers' association will assemble in Marquette Feb. 18 to form a district organization. Nearly every banker in the northern part of the state is a member of the state association. The meeting place has not been designated and the entertainment of the visitors has not been planned yet. These arrangements will be made by Marquette bankers.

More Policemen Killed.

Anniston, Ala., Feb. 2.—Two policemen were killed here yesterday in a street fight with alleged illicit liquor sellers, whose place of business they had raided. Eight policemen have been killed here in three years in similar raids.

PROFITS OF LIGHT PLANT

Edison Company Files Its Annual Report With the City.

Net Earnings Were $136,000 Without Deducting Depreciation Charge.

Without deducting a reasonable amount for depreciation, the net profit of the Duluth-Edison company for 1914 was $136,010.73, according to the annual report of the company filed yesterday afternoon with City Auditor B. J. Campbell. All the franchise holding companies have now filed their annual reports as required by the city charter.

The above profit is less than that of 1913, and officers of the company say that indications for 1915 are even less promising, because of the new 6-cent rate adopted by the voters at the special election two weeks ago.

The report of the company signed by A. W. Hartman and C. E. Van Bergen, president and secretary respectively, states that the cost of the entire plant up to Jan. 1, 1914, was $3,082,124.36, while during 1914, the sum of $45,387.15 was spent for new property improvements, bringing the total cost to $3,127,511.51 at the opening of business on Jan. 1 of this year. Liabilities of the company include common stock amounting to $500,000, preferred stock valued at $1,150,000, outstanding bonds totaling $1,353,000 and accounts and notes amounting to $76,339.85, or a total of $3,079,339.85.

The gross earnings of the company for 1914 were $549,812.01, while the operating expenses were $282,187.58. This last amount included the purchase of electric power at a cost of $122,925.47, a reserve of $13,812.06 for bad debts and $19,148.03 for legal services. Besides the operating expenses, the company had the following additional during the year:

Taxes and insurance	$ 26,150.08
Interest on bonded debt	67,650.00
Sinking fund addition	25,000.00
Interest on bonds in sinking fund	12,813.62
Total	$131,613.70

Adding $131,613.70 to the operating expenses, $282,187.58, the total expense for the year amounts to $413,801.28. This leaves a net income of $136,010.73.

WEST END

DWYER PROMOTED TO AUDITORSHIP

West End Man's Long Service With Traction Company Rewarded.

William P. Dwyer, acting auditor of the Duluth Street Railway company for several months, has been appointed auditor. The position of auditor has been vacant since last fall, when Sibbald MacDonald was transferred from that office to the position of assistant auditor of the Twin City lines, with headquarters at Minneapolis.

Mr. Dwyer is a veteran in the street railway service of Duluth and Superior. He was originally with the old Superior Transit Railway company and has held various positions in the stores and purchasing departments of the Duluth company during his many years of service. He lives at 2221 West Third street.

CLUB TO OUTLINE WORK FOR YEAR

Garden Contest Plans Will Be Discussed; Election Will Be Held.

The annual meeting of the West End Commercial club will be held at the Simonson hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street on Thursday evening. Officers will be elected and plans will be made for activities to be taken up by the organization during the year.

The present officers of the club are: L. A. Simonson, president; John Thygeson, vice president; George M. Jensen, corresponding secretary; John Moir, financial secretary and Carl E. Lonegren, treasurer.

Committees will also be elected. Among these will be the public market committee, streets and alleys, garden contest, railroad committee and others.

The question of whether the club will have charge of a garden contest will probably be the principal subject of discussion Thursday evening. Several members, who have worked hard during the last three years in promoting the contest, say that the work necessary to make it a success has grown to such proportions that it is too much to expect the business men to handle it. Last summer there were nearly 1,000 children in the Western end of the city entered, and nearly half of that number had gardens that were well worth looking over. If this proposition is taken up next spring and summer a closer co-operation on the part of the schools will be advocated.

Among the principal improvements that the club will seek for this end of the city this year are the paving of West First street from Twentieth to Thirtieth avenues, and Twentieth avenue from the Northern Pacific railroad to Piedmont avenue. The club will also try to secure better police protection and a police station as well as try to induce the city to purchase a site centrally located for a public market. The club will also select a desirable site for a public library.

RHEUMATISM ADVICE

Here is a prescription for rheumatism (to be mixed at home) used all over the U. S. for many years and said to be the surest known remedy; neutralizes acid in the blood and gives results after first dose. "One ounce of Toris compound and one ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of whisky. Use a tablespoonful before meals and at bed time." Get ingredients at any drug store. Genuine Toris comes in one ounce sealed yellow packages put up by Globe Pharm. Co., Dayton, O.

Frost-Bites, Chilblains, Burning, Aching, Tender Feet.

Don't endure foot agony. Here is quickest and surest remedy known. "Two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in warm foot bath." This gives instant relief: corns and callouses can be peeled right off; excess sweating or tenderness is soon overcome and bunions reduced. It acts through the pores and removes the cause. Large box of Calocide twenty-five cents at any drug or general store. Prepared at Medical Formula laboratories, Dayton, Ohio.

PLAN CREAMERY FOR HERMANTOWN

Farmers Will Meet and Discuss Subject From Various Angles.

The question of establishing a co-operative creamery for the Hermantown district will be taken up this evening at a meeting of farmers of the district to be held at the home of Alfred Anderson at Five Corners. It is expected that the meeting will be attended by the majority of the farmers of the community and that definite information as to what such a concern can do in the district will be ascertained.

The majority of the farmers are interested in this subject and have attended meetings held at Proctor, Adolph, Munger and other sections where the subject has been brought up. Plans not having materialized, the Hermantown agriculturists propose to attempt to secure a creamery in their own community on a small scale.

Many of the farmers have spent considerable money in bettering their dairy stock, and now on several of the farms are to be seen the best grade of dairy cattle. It is estimated that milk from fully 400 cows can be secured to supply a creamery.

SAWMILL BEGINS ITS SEASON'S WORK

Mullery - McDonald Company Takes on 200 Men; Many Turned Away.

The Mullery-McDonald sawmill at the foot of Twenty-fourth avenue west, which was scheduled to resume operations this morning at 7 o'clock, started running at 1 o'clock this afternoon. About 100 men were put to work on the day shift and about the same number will be given employment on the night shift, which will be put to work at 7 o'clock this evening.

The crowd of workmen began gathering at the mill long before 7 o'clock this morning. It was estimated that there were enough men on the ground to operate both shifts. The company had practically all the men it wanted for the operation of the mill, and more than 100 were turned away.

The delay in opening the mill was caused in handling logs at the hot pond. No disorders were reported from the place because of the large number of men there.

Tomorrow morning the Alger-Smith mill at the foot of Garfield avenue expects to start running. Every detail for its operation is said to have been attended to. A trial run was made early this afternoon. The mill will employ about 250 men.

PLAN SOCIAL MEETING.

Hermantown Club Disapproves Lakeside Creamery Proposition.

The Farmers' and Producers' Club of Hermantown held its regular meeting at the Hermantown Woodman hall last night and plans were made for a social meeting to be held on Feb. 15. Charles Wittich was selected chairman of the committee in charge.

The club took no action on a communication from the Lakeside Farmers' club requesting co-operation in the establishment of a creamery in the Lakeside district. Members were of the opinion that the proposed creamery would be too far away to be of any benefit to the Hermantown farmers.

Camp Is Entertained.

Members of Line M. Collins camp, No. 3521, R. N. A., were entertained yesterday afternoon at the Woodman hall of Hermantown. Despite the cold weather, a large number turned out. The program consisted of an address on "The Home" by Mrs. Lottie Bernard and "Care of the Children" by Mrs. Nellie Koors. Following the program refreshments were served by a committee.

West End Briefs.

Revival meetings are being held every evening this week at the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The sermon was given last night by Rev. C. Christianson of Washburn. This evening Rev. A. Halvorson of Superior will speak and tomorrow evening the sermon will be delivered by Rev. Peter Austed of this city. An invitation to all is extended to attend the meetings.

A literary and musical program will be given this evening at the Trinity English Lutheran church, Twenty-seventh avenue west and Third street. Among those taking part in the program will be Miss Florence Mattson, Miss Nora Otterson, Miss Gertrude Forman and Miss Louise Murchison.

The junior basket ball team of the Spaa club will play the "We Brothers" team at the clubrooms, 1610 West Superior street, this evening.

The St. Luke's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Lewis, 2618 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Edward Seglem, 2618 West Sixth street, will entertain the Young Ladies' Aid Society of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church at her home tomorrow evening.

YEAR'S CALENDAR FOR TAXPAYERS

Dates Worth Remembering By Those Who Are Taxable in Order to Avoid Penalties, Arrests and Other Annoyances; Taxes Next Thing Surest to Death.

Below is given a calendar for taxpayers, and to those who are liable for taxation, either for personal or real property, incomes, dogs, wheelage or what-not, the list may be worth pasting in one's hat. At any rate here are the dates to remember for the rest of 1915, and one splashes over into 1916.

Feb. 28. Income tax. Last day to file return of income without penalty.

March 1. Penalty of not less than $20 nor more than $1,000 imposed for failure to file return of income. Also a penalty of 10 per cent accrues on this day on all personal property taxes remaining unpaid.

April 1. Personal property taxes unpaid will be collected by the sheriff with additional costs.

May 1. Wheelage tax to city becomes due on all vehicles.

Dog taxes also become due on this date.

May 31. Last day to pay first half of real estate taxes.

June 1. Penalty of 10 per cent on whole real estate tax due unless first half has been paid.

Arrests of owners of vehicles begins where wheelage taxes have not been paid.

June 21. Town and village boards of review meet to hear protests on assessments.

July 1. Income tax. Penalty of 5 per cent on the whole tax with interest at 1 per cent a month accrues on unpaid income tax.

June 28. City board of equalization meets to hear assessment protests.

July 19. County board of equalization meets to hear assessment protests.

Oct. 31. Last day to pay second half of real estate tax without penalty.

Nov. 1. Penalty of 10 per cent due on real estate tax if second half is still unpaid.

Jan. 2, 1916. Real estate becomes delinquent and an additional penalty of 5 per cent and costs accrue.

LENROOT BOOM FOR PRESIDENT

May Also Be Candidate Against La Follette for Senatorship.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—A Washington special to the Tribune says: Wisconsin, as usual, will have a candidate in 1916 for the Republican nomination for president, but it may not be Senator La Follette this time.

"Little Bob," militant statesman and politician, is up against the fiercest fight of his career in his candidacy for re-election to the United States senate next year. For the first time, also, in a decade the senator will find himself seriously opposed for the honor of going into the Republican national convention as the "favorite son" of Wisconsin.

The senator and his friends believe that they will be able to regain next year all the ground they lost last year in the triumph of the conservative over the progressive Republican forces in the state. They regard the result of the primaries and the elections as a fluke and are confident that Mr. La Follette will be able to rally the state again to his support.

There are strong indications, however, that the senator will find much opposition in his own faction of progressive Republicans. It became known here within the last week that there is a well developed movement afoot to boom Representative Irvine L. Lenroot of Superior not only for the senatorship in opposition to La Follette, but for the presidential nomination.

Mr. Lenroot is regarded by many Wisconsin Republicans as the logical successor of Mr. La Follette as the leader of the progressive wing of the party in that state. He is 46 years old, fourteen years younger than Mr. La Follette.

MINING CAPTAIN'S HOME IS DYNAMITED

Explosive Placed on Front Porch, Front of Dwelling Being Wrecked.

Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 2.—The authorities so far have obtained no clew to the identity of the persons who discharged dynamite upon the front porch of the home of Capt. S. J. Perkins at Dirite early Sunday morning wrecking the front of the building and breaking every pane of glass in the house. No one was injured.

Because a comparatively small quantity of dynamite was used, it is not thought the perpetrator of the deed attempted to take the life of the captain or any member of his family, it is thought that not more than two sticks of the explosive were used. The members of the captain's family were badly frightened. The explosion, while it did not arouse everybody at the location, caused no little excitement.

Neither Mr. Perkins or any other official at the American mine, of which Mr. Perkins is the superintendent, have any suspicion as to who placed and exploded the dynamite. It would not have been easy to put the explosives underneath the building, as the structure rests on a solid stone foundation.

Could Not Give All Work.

During the last few months a great many men have applied for work. The officials have not been able to give employment to all applicants. Some have applied a number of times. There is a suspicion that the dynamiting was done by some one to whom work could not be given.

The shaft at the mine was relined and otherwise improved during the summer and fall months and during December it was stated that from two to three hundred men would be added to the force as soon as the shaft was in condition for hoisting. Men walked from Ishpeming and Champion and other towns to the mine, only to find there were no places open for them. When the proper time came the force was increased to approximately 300. This is as many men as will be taken on during the winter.

To Settle for Killing.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Under an agreement reached last night the Canadian government will settle claims growing out of the recent shooting of two American duck hunters by Canadian militiamen, by paying $10,000 to the parents of Walter Smith, who was killed, and $5,000 to Charles Dorsch, who was wounded, in addition to all legal expenses.

MONTH COLDER THAN USUAL

But Weather Man Says That January Was No Record Breaker.

Ice in Lake Thicker Than Last Year—Heavy Snow.

Weather Forecaster H. W. Richardson has just issued his monthly statement showing the general weather conditions during the month past with comparative figures of corresponding months in previous years. The comparisons extend back to 1871, the time when the weather records were first officially kept here. The statement shows that during January, just passed, the warmest weather was on Jan. 5, when the thermometer got as high as 37 deg. above zero. The highest on record for January since the records have been kept was on the 28th in 1877, when 51 deg. above zero was recorded. The coldest during the past month was on the 28th, when 28 deg. below was reached; and the coldest mark in January, according to the records, was on the 2nd in 1885, when the mercury got down to 41 deg. below. The greatest range last month was on the 4th, when a range of 23 deg. was shown; and the least was on the 5th, when the range was only 3 deg.

The month's total precipitation amounted to 1.84 inches, and the greatest for any twenty-four consecutive hours was on the 15th and 16th, when the precipitations reached .95 inches. On the latter dates, also, the heaviest snowfall of the month took place 8.3 inches falling. The amount of snow on the ground at the end of the month was 5.4 inches. The greatest total snow fall for January since 1880 was 24.6 inches in 1888.

The heaviest precipitation in any January since 1870 was in 1871 when it amounted to 2.44 inches; and the least was in 1904, when only .20 inches of moisture fell.

The direction of the prevailing winds was southwest; the total movement for the month was 10,001 miles; the average hourly velocity was 13.4 miles; and the maximum velocity was fifty-eight miles per hour from the northwest on the 17th. The wind blew at a velocity of thirty-five miles an hour or more on Jan. 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 15, 17 and 31.

Comment on Conditions.

During last month there were nine clear days, eight partly cloudy and fourteen cloudy days. There were also dense fogs on the 5th and 10th. No hail or sleet fell during the month. Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on the weather conditions for the month:

"The month was slightly colder than usual, but not so cold as in many other years. From the 4th to the 17th the temperature was generally above normal, but from the 20th to the 30th it was much colder than usual. The minimum of 28 deg. below zero equaled the records for the last two winters. The precipitation was twice the normal amount, but at the close of the month the accumulated depth on the ground was about 2 inches less than the 20-year average.

"The average thickness of the harbor ice was anywhere from 5 to 7 inches more than usual. At the end of the month the harbor ice averaged 30 inches—16 inches more than at the end of January, 1914. In the lake the ice now extends solid beyond vision, while at this time last year there were only floating fields and some shore ice.

"The principal storm of the month was a northwest gale on the 16th-17th, the maximum velocity being at the rate of 58 miles per hour."

STREET MAY BE WIDENED

Fifteen-Foot Strip of Iron Range Road's Right-of-Way Offered.

Railway Would Have City Close Intersections in Exchange.

The proposed widening of East Superior street from Forty-fourth to Fifty-third avenues and the eventual paving of that thoroughfare from the center of the city to Lester Park, as was considered by the old city council several years ago, was given a new impetus yesterday afternoon with the reading of an offer made by F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, to allow fifteen feet off the road's right-of-way in return for the closing of thirteen street intersections.

Mayor Prince read the letter from Mr. House, who offers to give a strip of fifteen feet from the company's right-of-way in return for the intersections, but it is the belief of the commissioners that the railroad should also pay for its share of the proposed pavement. The entire matter was placed in the hands of Commissioner Hicken, and if the company is willing to pay for its share of the pavement, it is probable a settlement will be made some time this spring, the head of the safety department said yesterday afternoon.

"The paving of East Superior street," said Commissioner Hicken, "that we may have a complete roadway from the center of the city to Lester Park, is being held up because of the street being so narrow between Forty-fourth and Fifty-third avenues. This matter was first taken up by the old city council, but no definite arrangement for a change was ever made. The request of the company for these intersections is reasonable and I believe some agreement will be reached this winter."

In return for the fifteen-foot strip, the railroad company wants the city to vacate the intersections of highways with the railroad tracks at Lombard, Gilliat and Puleston streets, which are not open to traffic; Forty-first avenue, which is but a pathway; Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth avenues and Robinson and Gladstone streets, all of which were offered by the old city council; Fifty-second, Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh avenues, which are not open to traffic.

BIG CACKLE UNDER WAY

Annual Poultry Show Opens With More Than 700 Entries.

The big cackle began this morning.

After visiting the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association, which opened at the National Guard Armory this morning, Duluthians agreed that jealousy was more an attribute of the poultry kingdom than even of the fair sex.

Bedlam prevailed in the big assembly hall as the hundreds of birds, each one king or queen "of the walk" in their own farmyard, found themselves in convention with as many others who refused to follow, but insisted on dictating.

Scientists state the sun rose at 7:32 a. m. today, but long before that time families living near the Armory were awakened by shrill, raucous cries of the cocks, and imagined themselves back on the farm. From that time on competition between the many brazen-throated birds was keen and conversation was out of the question when spectators entered the immense showroom.

With more than 700 entries, the pick of birds from the farms of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, this show is the greatest ever staged by the Duluth association and bids fair to be the most successful in the state this year, as the entry list surpasses that of either the Minneapolis or St. Paul show.

Although judging was to begin this morning, the show will not begin in earnest until this afternoon, when Judge James A. Tucker of Concord, Mich., will begin his task of classifying the many entries. Mr. Tucker's arrival was delayed, making it necessary to postpone the formal opening until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Leading the long list of choice birds are the popular Rhode Island Reds, claimed by some fanciers to be the best all-around bird, although this issue will start a riot at any time when three or more poultry owners are gathered together. But the reddish-brown "biddies" in this class are popular, as their eggs rank high, both in quantity and quality.

Vying with the Reds for first honors are the barred, white and buff Plymouth Rocks, the Orpingtons, the Leghorns and the Wyandottes. All of these classes are popular in this part of the United States.

In addition to the more staple variety are the fancy birds, strutting proudly back and forth in their little pens, conscious of brighter feathers and more elaborate markings.

With the arrival of the Fred D. Thiaspen, from Two Harbors, this morning, there were several additions to the "fancy" list. This fancier has an unusual flock of Golden and Silver Penciled Hamburgs that are attracting considerable attention. The H. A. Nelson, Duluth, exhibit of Silver Duckwing Leghorns also is much admired.

Hens and cocks of the ordinary chicken varieties are overshadowed by the several exhibits of ducks, turkeys and peacocks. Several splendid specimens of the vainest of all birds, the peacock, arrived this morning from the A. Fitger farm, near Duluth.

The show will continue during the week, lasting four more days. The rooms will be open and judging will continue from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily

MARRIAGE A FAILURE

Barber Has Made Two Unsuccessful Attempts to End Life.

Bandaged across the chest to care for a slight wound over the heart, Sherman W. McIntosh, a barber, who failed in an attempt to commit suicide yesterday afternoon, appeared in municipal court this morning in answer to a charge of discharging firearms within the city limits. Disposition of the case was deferred by Municipal Judge F. H. Cutting, pending an investigation by Probation Officer Hicks.

Married to Miss Jessie Coon on July 24 last, McIntosh has found his domestic life unsuccessful, according to the police, this reason being assigned for his act. He drew a revolver while in a barber shop at 503½ West Superior street and, placing the muzzle over his heart, drew the trigger. The cartridge was defective, this fact saving his life. Bystanders prevented him from firing again.

His wife found her marriage license on a table in her home, the following message penciled across the back:

"My darling Jessie—I guess you don't care what I do. I think my love was misunderstood, so goodby, my darling.

"I could not stand it any longer. Maybe God will forgive me. You were so mean to me sometimes, dear, it broke my heart. I am tired of living, anyway. It is not your fault. I am doing this to make you happy.

"I asked you to come back before I did this and you wouldn't. I love you just the same. I could take your young life from you, but no man kills the girl he loves.

"Your heart-broken husband, Sherman. Always keep this for a remembrance."

The barber tried to cut his throat with a razor last summer, shortly after his marriage, as he was being taken to headquarters in the patrol wagon by Chief C. H. Troyer. He lives at 1728½ West First street, and has been employed in a barber shop at 1915 West Superior street.

DECLARES IN FAVOR OF TERMINAL ELEVATOR.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The State Society of Equity, in annual convention here, today adopted a resolution demanding that the North Dakota legislature meet with it in joint session to consider the proposal for establishing a state-owned terminal elevator. The demand will come to attention of the assembly this afternoon and promises to create an acute legislative situation, bringing the terminal elevator question to a sudden climax.

TO LIGHTEN THE BURDEN

Woodland Residents Would Reduce Cash Payments for Street Work.

Amendment of the city charter so as to relieve home builders of the burden of having to pay cash for expensive street improvements is to be proposed to the city commission by residents of Woodland, as a result of action taken last night at the regular meeting of the Woodland Neighborhood club. A committee was appointed to lay the proposal before the city officials. More than 200 were present at the meeting.

Other actions taken included the appointment of a committee to represent to the city government a request for the establishment of a voting district in Woodland, and a committee to take up with the Duluth Street Railway company the question of more frequent service, especially during the rush hours. After the business meeting the floors in the assembly hall and gymnasium were cleared and the members spent the rest of the evening dancing.

Among the facts recited in the petition for a polling place at Woodland are: That there are more than 150 voters living in that section of the city; that most of these voters are obliged to travel more than a mile to reach the present polling place, and some of them as much as two miles, and that the present established division along school district lines constitutes a reasonable and natural division for the establishment of an election district. The petition suggests that Anoka street be made the dividing line between the new district and the old Sixth district.

In discussion of the proposal for an amendment to the city charter, it was shown that the charter provides for payment in a lump sum of assessments against property for street improvements whenever the assessment is $50 or less for a frontage of fifty feet. It was pointed out that this had worked hardships on homebuilders in different parts of the city, because in some cases where the total frontage was 100 feet and the assessment came to $90 or more, the owners were compelled to pay the entire sum as a cash payment upon completion of the work, instead of being given the privilege of paying it in four annual installments, with interest, as they could have done had the levy been more than $50 for every frontage of fifty feet.

In other instances, where the homebuilder had a frontage of only fifty feet and the assessment amounted to $49.50, he was obliged to pay this all in a lump instead of having the privilege of paying it in instalments, and often this burden has been found more severe for the homebuilder than the greater one has been for the man with a more extended frontage on the street.

The change proposed at last night's meeting was that the amount be reduced to $25 instead of $50, as it was declared that while a wage-earner might be able to pay $25 on a lump sum, it is frequently a severe hardship for him to pay more than that and at the same time keep up the necessary payments on his home and its furnishings.

The Woodland committee will ask the privilege of presenting its case before the city council and the members of the former charter commission with whom the commissioners are to advise relative to proposed charter changes.

Superintendents' Convention.

June 15, 16 and 17 have been set as dates for the annual convention of the Minnesota Association of County School Superintendents. The convention will be held in Duluth this year. Heretofore the annual sessions have been held in the Twin Cities. H. R. Painter of Marshall, Lyon county, is president of the association.

Killed Big Wolf.

One of the largest timber wolves on which bounty has been claimed in this county was presented to the county auditor's office this morning by Oscar Wilson, a settler in Fine Lakes township. The animal which was killed near his home measured six feet and eleven inches from tip to tip. Wilson also brought in another animal. He was paid $30 bounty.

For Breaking Parole.

Warren E. Greene, county attorney, is in Hibbing today to appear for the state before Judge Martin Hughes at the hearing on the revocation of a parole granted Marie Gabriel by the court several months ago. If the parole is revoked the woman will be obliged to serve a penitentiary sentence. She was paroled to Mrs. A. B. Siewert and placed in the girls' industrial home. Mrs. Siewert charges that the woman has broken her parole on several occasions.

Gets Army Contracts.

The Collingwood Shipbuilding company of which Capt. Alex McDougall of Duluth is president, has received orders for a large supply of shrapnel from the British government. DID MR. G. HOG SEE HIS SHADOW?

Weather Man Says Sun Was Shining Brightly When It Arose; Brightness Continues; If Woodchuck Saw Shadow It Means Delayed Spring.

There is some doubt as to whether or not Mr. G. Hog saw his shadow this morning. The question is a sorely important one, for, if there is anything to Indian tradition, coal bills, at least, will be much affected by the decision of the groundhog, or woodchuck, which is another name for him. Just to prove zoological learning, it might be added that he is also known as the American marmot, and his Latin name is Arctomys Monax.

That being settled, the question of whether he saw his shadow this morning again comes to the fore. The question is: Does the groundhog appear for this experiment at sunrise or at any time he takes a notion during the day? Some people have it one way and some have it another.

The sun rose this morning at 32 minutes after 7 o'clock. Mr. Richardson, the weather forecaster, says that while the sky was partly cloudy and rather smudgy at 7, a few minutes later it cleared up, and to the best of his recollection, the sun was shining when it peeked over the horizon. If Mr. G. Hog got out and stretched himself then, there is no question but that he saw his shadow, and up to the present writing, if he delayed his debut until later in the day the same effect would have been produced, except for a short time early in the morning.

If that is the case, according to tradition, it means six more weeks of winter. In Duluth it is also likely that there will be six weeks more of winter if he didn't see his shadow.

SUE TO RECOVER LOSS ON GOODS

When fire destroyed a Northern Pacific freight shed in this city on the night of Oct. 11, 1914, a consignment of household goods and other effects belonging to Carl and Lena Edman was lost.

In district court today, the Edmans are suing the Northern Pacific Railway company for $697.50, the amount which they claim they are entitled to because of the loss. A jury in the case was drawn this morning.

The goods were shipped from Minneapolis Oct. 5, 1914, and were being held for the Edmans in the Duluth freighthouse when the fire occurred. The company denied that the goods were worth the amount claimed and the dispute centers around this point.

Lathers & Hoag appear as attorneys for the plaintiffs and J. A. Sinclair of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell for the Northern Pacific Railway company.

ARRIVES TOO LATE TO SEE SON

Because of storms in the East and the resultant impaired telegraph service, F. L. Childs, 415 East Second street, lost a 500-mile race with death this morning, arriving here from Galena, Ill., to find his son, George, aged 14, dead after an illness of a few hours.

Shortly after the father arrived he received a message sent to his wife by himself from Chicago last night, stating that he was coming on the first train.

The boy had been ill for some time, but recovered sufficiently a few days ago, so that the family thought they could move to Galena, where the father recently was appointed agent for the Adams Express company. The household goods were packed to be moved when the son was taken seriously ill.

In the meantime the father had gone on to his new post, expecting his family to follow, and reached there in time to be notified by the telegraph company agent at that point that his son was near death. He formerly was with the Adams company in Duluth. The body will be shipped to Galena tomorrow, and funeral services will be held there.

WRENSHALL FARMER IS NEARLY KILLED.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elmer Holmes, a farmer living near Wrenshall, had a narrow escape Monday when his team was struck by a switch engine on the Northern Pacific tracks. Mr. Holmes was going to town early in the morning and while crossing the tracks failed to see the approaching engine, which killed one of his horses, injured the other and badly damaged his sleigh. Mr. Holmes jumped in time to save himself and succeeded in quieting the injured horse.

MUST FACE JURY ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Albert Magias was arrested yesterday afternoon by the Federal authorities on a charge of introducing intoxicating liquor into the Fond du Lac Indian reservation, and was today ordered to the St. Louis county jail to await the action of the Federal grand jury. The prisoner was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Thomas H. Presnell and placed in bail of $300. Being unable to put up the money he was placed in jail.

The specific charge against Magias was that of introducing a gallon of alcohol on the land of Susan Posie, a Chippewa Indian, the land being held by the United States government. The complaint was made by Egbert S. Oakley, assistant United States attorney.

Magias will probably face a grand jury at Minneapolis as that city will be the first to call a session of the jury.

EMPLOYER ASSAULTED

Alborn Sawmill Owner Says Workmen Nearly Killed Him.

While H. T. Agnew, sawmill proprietor near Alborn, nursed a badly bruised and battered head and face today, five of his erstwhile employes languished behind bars at the county jail charged with having made a murderous assault upon him. They were arrested yesterday afternoon at Alborn and brought to the county jail last evening. Agnew arrived in Duluth this morning.

The men under arrest are John Dulkowski, Russell Deshoubon, George Deshoubon, William Schultz and W. M. Walker. They are charged with the crime of assault with intent to kill. Tomorrow, they will be arraigned before G. W. Mell, justice of the peace at Alborn, who, it is believed will bind them over to await the action of the March grand jury.

Agnew claims that he was assaulted by five of his employes after he had reprimanded them for making too much disturbance in the cook shanty at the sawmill camp yesterday afternoon. One of the men, who appeared to be the leader, was discharged on the spot by Agnew and this apparently started things.

An offensive movement of the discharged man and his allies with Agnew as an objective, ensued and fighting in the enemy's camp raged fiercely for several minutes. Agnew managed to hold his own against the allied forces until some one grabbed a steel trap which was aimed with considerable preciseness at Agnew's head. That was the blow that told. Agnew dropped and his assailants piled on him. He claims that if reinforcements had not arrived, he would have lost his life.

Agnew's head was covered with bandages and plasters when he arrived in the city this morning. He will appear against the men in justice court tomorrow at Alborn.

NO VERDICT YET REACHED

Up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, no agreement had been reached by the district court jury which is deliberating upon the question of the guilt or innocence of George K. Robertson, Northern Pacific switchman charged with complicity in the theft of $3,000 worth of copper annode plates from a Northern Pacific box car Nov. 5, 1913.

Judge Fesler gave the case to the jury at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A disagreement and mistrial is now looked for.

FIRE WARDEN HAS A BUSY MONTH

January was the busiest month Fire Warden J. J. Schinlaub has experienced since he has held the office.

Here are some of the things he did during the month, according to his report filed this morning with Mayor Prince: Served 373 notices to remove rubbish, visited 938 basements, inspected two chimneys, condemned two chimneys, ordered one fire put out, visited 1,110 buildings, ordered the removal of twenty-two ash cans, ordered a pipe cleaned, ordered ten sinks cleaned, ordered eleven gas stoves cleaned, ordered repairs to four electric wires, two stoves, one pilot light, a red light in a theater and four steam pipes underneath a stage, inspected fifty-three fire extinguishers, recharged thirty-nine extinguishers and repaired two extinguishers, refilled eight fire buckets, repaired two elevator gates and answered one call.

FREED OF ASSAULT CHARGE, BUT HELD

Although acquitted last evening on an assault charge after a trial in district court, Gust Heikkila did not walk from the courtroom a free man. Under the court's direction he was rearrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and ordered held to the next grand jury.

Heikkila shot and wounded one Charles Teeri on Nov. 21, 1914, at the town of Culver, where Teeri was attending a dance. Heikkila was outside the dance hall boasting about being a bad man with a gun. He was intoxicated, witnesses testified. When Teeri, a stranger, remonstrated with him, Heikkila is said to have drawn the revolver and shot the latter through the ankle. The jury found him not guilty of assault in the second degree. Heikkila claimed the shooting was accidental.

Attorney O. J. Larson appeared for the defendant and the state was represented by Harry F. White, assistant county attorney. The jury came in with a verdict about 8:30 o'clock last evening. The case was tried before Judge Ensign.

STUDY PENSION BILL.

Council Will Go Over Measure Prepared By Chief Troyer.

Members of the city commission are studying the new police pension bill, which was prepared last week by Chief of Police Troyer, and it is expected that it will be discussed formally at the regular meeting next Monday.

Commissioner Hicken is eager to secure the approval of the commissioners before sending the bill to the state legislature, where it will be introduced by State Senator Charles E. Adams.

The revised bill provides for an elastic tax levy not less than one-tenth, nor more than one-sixth of a mill to maintain the pension fund for members of the police department.

KOCH MUST STAND TRIAL

Judge Dismisses Demurrer to Indictment for "Faking" Injuries.

Christian F. Koch, recently extradited from Nevada to answer to a charge of defrauding the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company out of $1,000, must stand trial on the indictment returned against him. Judge Fesler in district court today overruled the demurrer which John H. Norton, Koch's attorney, interposed to the indictment. Arguments on the demurrer were heard last week.

Koch is charged with having secured $1,000 from the railroad company on a personal injury settlment. Last November he fell while alighting from a train at Two Harbors. He represented that he was suffering from paralysis which would leave him a cripple for life. Koch withstood the usual tests, it is claimed, and after he obtained the money went south for further treatment.

The next heard of him was in Nevada where he was arrested on a charge of defrauding the company. He was traced by railroad detectives. He was extradited from Nevada to Duluth.

Judge Fesler also filed orders today overruling demurrers interposed by Attorneys Norton and G. A. Finlayson to indictments returned against Julius Paul and Edward Fitzpatrick, jointly charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Paul and Fitzpatrick are accused of having defrauded A. N. Friedman out of $50 by false representations. One of the defendants, it is alleged, went to Friedman and represented to him that he had a purchaser for his stock of goods, but demanded $50 as advance commission before introducing him to the purchaser. The other defendant was the "purchaser." The deal was not consummated and when Friedman demanded his money back, it was refused him.

Woman's Realm

An informal reception was held at the Spalding hotel this morning in order that the active members of the Matinee Musicale might meet Miss Adelaide Carmen of Indianapolis, the special representative of the president of the National Federation of Musical Clubs. Receiving with the guest of honor and Mrs. George Richards, president of the Matinee Musicale, were the members of the executive board of the organization and Miss Carlotta Simonds, the recording secretary of the national body.

The use of the parlors of the hotel was extended by the manager, G. W. Reynolds.

Miss Carmen left this afternoon for St. Paul, where she will be the guest tomorrow at a luncheon given by the Schubert club. In the afternoon she will speak at the regular section meeting of the Schubert club that will be held at the home of one of the members. Thursday she will speak in Minneapolis at the regular program of the Thursday Musicale that will be held in the First Baptist church.

Speaking of the work of the national federation this morning Miss Carmen said: "Our work is creative and not competitive. Each one can do something no one else can do and it is not necessary for one musician to undo the things others have done. I think if any one could sit in our board meetings and see how the women turn their homes into work shops and how enthusiastic they are he would grasp the idea. An artist who is selfish or petty is the most inconsistent thing imaginable.

"It is delightful to see the prominent composers giving all they possibly can to the furtherance of this work. Men are serving on committees that are managed by women and that means a great deal."

C. H. S. SENIORS WILL PLAY "SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

"She Stoops to Conquer" has been selected as the class play to be presented by the seniors of Central high school.

This year Oliver Goldsmith's popular classic has won over the more modern, but often less praiseworthy drama. The selection was made by the English department faculty, the members of which considered there was enough ability in the class to warrant its giving something standard.

The play unfolds the story of a young Englishman of good family who is bashful when with young women of his own rank but who is able to make good use of his tongue when in the company of maidservants. His father, who for many years has been a friend of a country gentleman whose daughter he wishes his bashful son to marry, sends the young man for a visit at his friend's home with instructions to make the young woman's acquaintance.

Misled by a rather brainless boy, young Marlowe mistakes his host's home for an inn and meets the young woman with the idea that she is there by chance and, as usual, stammers hopelessly. The young woman, who has heard something of his bashfulness, disguises herself as a barmaid. Marlowe becomes fascinated, finds his tongue and professes the supposed maid is a jewel compared to the girl he is supposed to marry. Just at the right time the maid tells who she is to the great joy of Marlowe and the play ends with the prospect of two weddings for another romance has developed during the development of the plot.

BANGS RECOGNIZES IMPORTANCE OF HUMOR

Robert Makay said in Success magazine some years ago: "Sometimes I wish it could be possible for every man and women to have a little talk with John Kendrick Bangs. It would do them good. There is too little stress laid on the necessity of humor as a factor of every day life. Mr. Bangs recognizes this important phase of immortality and he is trying his best to get others to recognize it too. The home often loses some of its brightest hours because there is nothing in it to supply genuine laughter. Cares take the place of smiles, petty worries drive sentiment a-begging and troubles are allowed to stand in bold array where pleasure longs to be king; and all, because there are human beings who fail to comprehend the value of a smile."

Another item from the press says: "Throughout the lecture there were many things to laugh at, but at the same time perhaps the unexpected impression gained by many who went to hear the illustrious humorist was that of a man who is not merely witty but has a deep appreciation of the finer things of life, sympathy with his fellow men and that spirit which leads one to laugh with a man and not at him."

John Kendrick Bangs will give his best lecture, "Salubrities I Have Met," Wednesday, Feb. 10 at the Pilgrim Congregational church at 8 o'clock, the third lecture in the course offered by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae.

FEDERATION DAY PROGRAM

Miss Carmen, Representative of the National President, Addresses Matinee Musicale Members.

The members of the Matinee Musicale were fortunate in having their federation day program yesterday afternoon include a talk by Miss Adelaide Carmen of Indianapolis, the representative of Mrs. Julius Eugene Kinney, president of the National Federation of Musical clubs. Miss Carmen is a member of the American Opera association and is familiar with the work of the executive committee that is now busy making plans for the biennial meeting of the federation to be held in Los Angeles this summer.

Mrs. George S. Richards, president of the Matinee Musicale, expressed her hope that an annual federation day would be taken up by other musical clubs in the state. "Our connection with the national body is largely due to Miss Simonds, who was for many years state vice president, she said. "She needs no introduction, but I am sure you will be glad to greet her today as recording secretary of the National Federation of Musical clubs."

Miss Simonds' Talk.

In her talk on "What the Federation Has Meant to the Matinee Musicale." Miss Carlotta Simonds traced the relation between the Matinee Musicalo and the national federation from the time the local organization joined the larger body eight years ago, during the presidency of Miss Mary Bradshaw. "When I was president I attended the convention held in Grand Rapids, Mich., and I came home with wonderful enthusiasm and for the next two years I no doubt overlooked the word 'co-operation' that was the keynote of the convention. I feel we owe not a small part of our success to our affiliation with the National Federation of Musical clubs and its influence on us."

Letter From President.

Mrs. Richards read the following letter from Mrs. Kinney, the national president:

"San Diego, Cal.

"To the officers and members of the Matinee Musicale club:

"Greeting: It is difficult to send a greeting where I had expected to come personally to give you of my belief in and enthusiasm for the work of the National Federation of Musical clubs.

"As I have been in California for two months working with the local committees in perfecting the plans for our 1915 festival, I will mention only that, leaving the general work to the other speakers of the afternoon. When the invitation came to hold a two weeks' festival in Los Angeles in 1915 the national board felt 'Here is our opportunity with plenty of time to present our work as never before.' While this is true, already so many things are presented for our program six months in advance the committee in charge is having difficulty in deciding what shall be chosen which will be of greatest value to our delegates and the hundreds who will attend who are in sympathy with our work and are working with us, though not belonging to our voting body.

American Music.

"The congress for the Encouragement of American Music, of which Charles Wakefield Cadman is the chairman, and which is a part of our festival, will bring some of our most illustrious American musicians who have signified their intention of coming to present or conduct their own works.

"All the business sessions will be filled with the work of the National Federation of Musical clubs, giving suggestions for each individual, the club and the community, and the visions of the future music in our beloved America.

Prize Opera.

"The grand climax to the festival will be the presentation of the prize opera, 'Fairyland,' written by Horatio Parker and Brian Hooker.

"I would urge every member to make the greatest effort to attend this 1915 festival and I can promise the utmost returns for any inconvenience necessary to make the trip.

"I have of course touched only lightly on the festival. The American Opera association of Los Angeles and the National Federation of Musical clubs have arranged to have Miss Adelaide Carmen visit clubs during the spring and give a better idea of our plans for the future as well as all the particulars of the festival, low rates and routes. I hope you will arrange to have her come to you.

Congratulates Miss Rogers.

"Let me extend congratulations to the club that one of its members, Miss Faith Helen Rogers, has won a prize in our regular competition with high commendation of the judges. With best wishes for further success of the club and individual members, I am, yours most cordially,

"LEILA BRONSON KINNEY."

Miss Carmen's Address.

Miss Carmen, who is starting out to visit clubs belonging to the federation as the special representative of Mrs. Kinney, said:

"I must say I am glad to start my work in a large club. We all know the power of large numbers. There are 100,000 women in America who belong to the federation and it is only 18 years old. By the time it has reached the age of maturity and will be entitled to a coming out party it will be worth a great deal more.

"We need all kinds of support. You have reached a pinnacle in having one of your members win a prize. It gives you a prominent place in the federation. Many other young composers will take heart and will say 'We can do that because Duluth has done it.'

"There are many departments to the federation. We have taken up the student contest to find students who are starting out on careers and need assistance. When the contest is finished it will mean that twelve young persons will have been found who otherwise would not have been heard of. Representatives from clubs will go to Los Angeles instructed to make engagements with these young musicians to appear before their clubs, in so far as the plan is practical. The tentative program for the meeting at Los Angeles is made out for young people.

"We are standing for art and the artists of America. We are going to work to bring up the standard of church music and we are going to work in the interest of public school music.

"The citizens of Los Angeles have given the $10,000 prize won by Horatio Parker for the best opera. Now they are asking that Los Angeles be made the permanent home of the National Federation of Musical clubs and the meeting place of the alternate bi-ennial conventions.

"I am reminded of the story of the old woman who used to ask her husband on his return from a meeting what kind of meeting they had had. If he said, 'O, it didn't amount to much,' she knew he had had nothing to say. If you feel that way about the federation it is because you have never done anything.

"My talk has been limited to thirty minutes. I feel thirty minutes is a very short time because in our board meetings we are accustomed to talk all day, all night and all the next day."

The Price Song.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers' prize composition, "A Ballad of Trees and the Master," alluded to by Mrs. Kinney and Miss Carmen, was sung by Miss Mary Bradshaw, with the composer at the piano, special permission having been obtained from the federation, as prize compositions are not to be played in public until the convention. Miss Rogers' contribution to American music reflects great credit upon her creative ability. The members of the club would not be satisfied until the talented musician had bowed an acknowledgment of their enthusiasm several times.

Mrs. Isabel Pearson Fuller, who furnished the organ numbers of the program, played "Suite Gothique" by Boellman and the introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin." On account of the unusual length of the program it was necessary for her to omit "Evening Bells and Cradle Song," by MacFarlane.

Miss Myrtle Hobbs sang "O Cessats di Tiagarmi," by Scarlatti, "The Cock Shall Crow," by Carpenter, and "Minuet la Phyllis," by Gilberte, as her first group. The second group consisted of Von Fielitz's "Es Liegt ein Traum auf der Haide," Brahms' "Sandmannchen" and Gounod's "Waltz Song" from "Romeo and Juliet." Miss Hobbs' accompaniments were played by Mrs. J. N. McKindley.

Miss Nora Harrison gave two piano numbers, Brahms' Intermezzo, op. 117, and Schumann's sonata, op. 22, andantino and scherzo.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Better Be Ahead of Time.

I for one am heartily in favor of having the time-piece by which I rise and dress five minutes ahead of the correct time. Of course to secure the greatest benefit from any such arrangement as turning the hands of a clock backward a few minutes in time's flight, one should be ignorant of the fact that it has been done.

I do maintain, however, that if you know your watch or clock is a few minutes fast that there is a tremendous lot of comfort in the knowledge that you have an extra few minutes in which to do things. It saves you from going to pieces completely, if you are a woman, many times, and I have known men who were saved from a very similar fate by the same ingenious method.

Another test of the merits certain people have discovered in the scheme of keeping a clock a few minutes ahead of time, is exemplified by the large clocks on the towers or other high parts of the great railroad terminals in various great cities, both in this country and abroad. Those who travel constantly tell me that this is a general practice and I know of at least three instances where great public clocks are kept a minute or two ahead of the standard time.

It was very much in the nature of a joyful surprise when I first made the discovery, for I thought I had surely lost an important train, and the disappointment was great while it lasted. This happened a second time and after that I was convinced that the clock was made fast purposely. I presume there are thousands of others who pass in the numerous doors of railroad stations with disappointment and anger marked on their brows who have their baffled, wrathy look turned to one of happiness and contentment as they pull themselves aboard an outgoing train. All because a clock is a couple of minutes fast.

So it seems, even though people may be slow to acknowledge that there is any efficacy in setting the hands of a clock ahead two or three or even five minutes, that there are those in places where thousands congregate who have learned that it is of very great benefit to man and womankind in many ways.

AT THE GRAND.

Venetian Four Headlines New Bill of Vaudeville and Pictures.

The Venetian Four, a quartet of harmonists on stringed instruments, headline the new bill at the Grand theater which opened an engagement at that popular playhouse yesterday. Although the whole bill is good, this act probably excels any seen at the Grand for some time.

Three violinists and a harpist make up the quartet, and they play their harmonies in a real Venetian setting. The costumes are those of the players' native land, and the back ground of the act is that of Venice, the Island City, softly illuminated in the moonlight.

Park, Rome and Francis, three comedy singers, dispense considerable wholesome humor, and their character songs of Swedish types are done well and were greatly enjoyed. Holden and Harron in "The Messenger and the Lady" offer a diverting novelty made up of chatter, song and dance. Selbini and Grovini, a European novelty duo, combine some clever bicycle riding and acrobatics in an ingenious manner.

The photoplays were diversified and entertaining. The Broadway star feature, "The Sage-Brush Gal," is a Western picture that is a little "different." The hero of the play, which is in three reels, is the proprietor of the Square Deal saloon, and he is portrayed as an honest man. At the close of a rather exciting plot he destroys his saloon and gambling apparatus, and decides to take up a new business. Pretty Mabel Trunnelle appears again in the "Olive's Opportunities" series. This time it is "Olive in the Madhouse," and the gypsy heroine has a rough experience, being incarcerated in a "bughouse" to prevent her from marrying her millionaire lover. She is rescued from the burning building by the hero, and they are escaping from the guards while fighting a pistol duel when the film play closes. Several other good films add variety to the program.

Barton the Printer.

In the big printing office scene in "Mary Jane's Pa" at the Lyceum this week, Homer Barton, leading man of the Baldwin Players, is very much at home. In fact, Mr. Barton was brought up to be a country printer. His father was formerly the editor and publisher of a little country paper in Missouri, and Mr. Barton was destined to become a printer. He learned to "stick type" in the early days before the linotype machines invaded the country printing offices, and he was a fair printer when the call of ambition started him on the career of a wanderer.

The career of Hiram Perkins, the printer, which part Mr. Barton is playing, is also similar to Mr. Barton's own career, in that Mr. Barton ran away from home and became a wanderer for some ten or twelve years, only Mr. Barton didn't leave a wife and two children behind. He was a mere boy when he left, and only his anxious and rather sorrowful parents were left at home. They sent him money occasionally when he was in danger of not eating regularly, but they couldn't quite induce him to desert his wandering habits, which took him to every part of America in circus vans and with old-time minstrel shows. But Mr. Barton, like Hiram Perkins, finally returned home and settled down to a career of respectability as a stock company leading man.

"This is the first time I have had a chance to use what I learned about the printing business," said Mr. Barton. "Maybe I am not very fast at the type case, but I can spell moderately well, and with a few weeks' practice believe I could hold down a job in a country office. And that old hand press is just like the one father had when I was a printer's devil. I'd like to know where Al Smith dug it up. He won't tell us."

Pauline and Hypnotism.

Pauline, who is creating no end of comedy and amusement with his remarkable demonstrations of hypnotic suggestion at the Orpheum this week, adds a few stunts to his performance that leave room for thought. He states that he is not a hypnotist, but a scientist.

Pauline became aware of his power while in his teens. His father was a physician and a hypnotist, and had used control of his body and muscles in surgical work. This served to bring up the question which had been much discussed. It has been stated that Dr. Pauline is a graduate physician. He is not. What he is, he declares is a professor of psychology, and he calls his work advanced psychology. The professorship was obtained when Pauline, or Poulin, became professor of psychology in the University of Vermont, a position which he held for three years.

The most remarkable thing done by Dr. Pauline is his demonstration of his ability to control the flow of blood in the human body. In his present tests he brings about a complete stoppage in the arm of his subject, and then causes the blood to recede, leaving the hand as white as that of a corpse. At his command the blood returns. Dr. Pauline confesses that he cannot keep back the blood for a long time. Its use in surgery, however, is made possible by the process of strapping the arm when once the blood has been induced from the hand.

He volunteers the information that physicians and scientists have tried every means to make him give it to the world. He says they promised him rich financial reward, told him that his name would go down in history as the discoverer of blood control and many other things. "But I realize," said Pauline, "that this is the one feat that makes my act get by in vaudeville. The audiences cannot sneer at that and cry fake."

"The Idler."

"'The Idler' which is the current attraction at the Rex, is a quite unusual type of what may be called for want of a better word "drawing-room drama." Here is what the New York World said of it: "Virile and interesting in every phase of the development of its story of two men and a woman. Excellently done by a capital company fully equal to the great acting qualities of C. Haddon Chambers new play."

THE WEATHER AGAIN.

In spite of the fact that it is impossible to say, as this is written, what the weather may be like by the time the paper gets onto the street, it would be beyond human nature to let weather conditions like those of yesterday and this morning pass without some comment.

It was the same old story over again—storms and gales and hindrance to traffic on all sides, with Duluth immune from such troubles. The "Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas" sat placidly on her hillside and fed the furnace according to the usual schedule, without any necessity for exceptional efforts or emergency measures.

Uninformed pessimists will say that we'll get ours later, but experience has shown that that theory doesn't hold good in this climate. Duluth is still the favored spot, and she's not ashamed to let the rest of the world know it.

It is suggested that the great trouble in combining the Twin Cities would come when it was proposed to elect a man from either one of them for mayor. But that needn't hinder at all. They could come to Duluth and probably find a better mayor than either of the Twins could furnish.

THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION.

Verbal reports from St. Paul are to the effect that the chances look good for the passage of the woman suffrage bill. That is as it should be, for the bill is in fact nothing more than a proposal that the people of the state be allowed to pass on the suffrage question.

Of course there is a good deal of talk here and there about the merits of the suffrage question. That doesn't enter into the consideration of the present bill, however, for the bill does not provide that Minnesota women shall be given equal rights with men at the polls. It only provides that the question be submitted to popular vote.

In the work being done before the legislature at present there is no reason apparently why the suffrage advocates and the "antis" should not be in harmony. It is claimed by some of the "antis" that the state is not ready for woman suffrage; that it would be beaten in a popular election. If that is the case, it should be the "antis" who are urging the submission of the question, and the "pros" who are opposing it.

But whether the state is ready for it or not cannot of course be definitely known until a referendum vote has been taken. If that vote goes in favor of equal suffrage, the conclusion will be inevitable that the state is ready for it; and if it goes against the proposition, that will be quite as conclusive the other way.

But in the meantime that issue is not before the legislature. The only issue before that body is whether to let the people express their wish on the suffrage question. And it certainly seems as if the legislature ought to be willing to do that.

Paris people are excited over having seen an Alsatian stork in that city. In view of recent low birth rates in France, the visit of any kind of a stork should encourage the people of that nation.

TO PROTECT BUILDERS.

Representative North's bill designed to protect builders should not be lost sight of by the legislators. It will remedy a condition that ought never to have been permitted to exist.

Briefly stated, it provides in effect that when you let a contract to build a house and advance to the contractor a certain amount with which to purchase materials, it shall be unlawful for the contractor to use that money for some other purpose than the purchase of those materials, and thus leave you liable to the trouble and expense of having a lien put on your building by the men who furnished the materials. In other words, it safeguards builders against the possibility of having to pay twice for the materials that go into houses or other structures.

Of course the diversion of funds in this way is not always the result of criminal intent on the part of the contractor, but thus far at least there has been no means found to protect the builder except to make the contractor responsible, as is done in this measure.

It will mean, if it is passed, that there will be less likelihood of difficulty for those who employ others to do construction work for them; and to the dealers in lumber and similar supplies it will mean that in some cases where they would have to wait for payment under the present system, they will be paid promptly with the funds advanced for that purpose by the person for whom the work is to be done. And it will mean a decided check upon the operations of such men as take advantage of the present lack of restraint to abuse the confidence of those who engage them to perform specific services.

Dr. Dernburg says he would not want to see the United States mix in the war. On that platform, the doctor could probably capture a large majority of the votes in this country.

DULUTH IS ALL RIGHT.

J. Adam Bede, who was in New York last week, is quoted in the Times as saying: "Duluth is the only weak spot in Minnesota now. Duluth is not agricultural, and that's why it's weak just now."

Just why Mr. Bede went out of his way to cast this undeserved slur at Duluth it is impossible to say. He ought to know that there is not a word of truth in what he said regarding Duluth. The fact is that, instead of being weak, Duluth is exceptionally strong, when compared with many other cities in the country, East and West. Duluth is agricultural, to the extent that it is the market for a great share of the wheat and other grain raised in the Northwest, and the grain trade transacted here has never been better. Duluth's jobbing houses are doing the best business in their history, and there are few cities in the Union where the retail trade is in as good shape. Duluth was one of the very few cities in the United States to show increased bank clearings during the month of January, and its financial condition is sound.

Perhaps since Jadam was retired from congress by Duluth and has begun to run for congress in a Minneapolis district he thinks his chances of again drawing a salary at the public expense may be improved by patting Minneapolis on the back and taking a slap at Duluth.

London has once more prepared for an aerial attack. The only wonder is how London manages to get unprepared in the short times between scares.

CAN STILL SAVE MONEY.

One feature in the economy and efficiency program suggested for the legislature has gone glimmering with the death in committee of the proposal for adjournment early in April. Taken in conjunction with the already developed tendency toward week-end adjournments, the interment of this proposition seems to indicate that we are to see the accustomed tail-end rush and flurry when the statutory limitation on length of sessions draws near. And to that extent, unless this legislature develops a system radically different from all its predecessors, efficiency is pretty sure to be the sufferer.

But there still is time to save money, and saving money means lessening the burden of taxation. Here's hoping the legislators will see their way clear to accomplishing this. Then the members, in later years, can not only boast of having had seats in the first non-partisan legislature in the country, but of having made that legislature a distinct success from the standpoint of economy.

One sure way to get your name in the paper is to desert your side in a congressional controversy just at the critical time.

Had Enough of Experts.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: T. S. McEachran, a hardwood lumberman of the Philippine Islands, was standing in the lobby of his hotel when a stranger walked up and introduced himself as an expert blacksmith and carpenter who would like employment in the Philippine woods.

"Not a chance," was the almost instantaneous reply of Mr. McEachran, who has holdings scattered over the Island of Luzon and some in Cebu.

Afterwards he explained to a group of acquaintances why he had been so curt.

"Many years ago, when I was just entering the Philippine Islands business, I took a bunch of experienced workers from the states. It cost me about $150 apiece for their fares, and most of them were under contract to receive $125 a month for a year. The venture was a sad failure.

"Before three months had gone by these men had taught the natives how to do the work, hired them at $10 a month and were themselves lazily basking in the sunshine. I went out into the cuttings one day and found an entire native crew running the donkey engines and other machinery, while my $125 a month experienced help were playing with the monkeys or sleeping. Every few hours they would take a look at the engines to see that everything was all right and then go back to sleep. I couldn't make them work."

Mr. McEachran concluded with the statement that the Philippine Islands offered no opportunities for the man with small capital or the man who intends to work for a salary. "Too many of the natives can do that kind of work and will do it for one-half of what a white man wants and needs," he said.

Cause of the Row.

Philadelphia Ledger: "What started the row?"

"A fake dentist sold a set of celluloid teeth to the man who eats fire in the vaudeville show."

Louis Brownlow

(By Savoyard.)

Washington, Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two of the weak spots in what we may call "Americanism" are found in the way we rear children and the way we govern municipalities. Our children are without reverence and our cities are flagrantly mismanaged. The average American city throughout the nineteenth century was turned over to the depraved classes for loot. Of all the absurd things attaching to American politics the chief is making a city administration a fruit of party victory. Instead of governing the city, the average "city fathers" are governed by the board of directors of the local public utilities, and in more cities the saloon is a powerful factor in the selection of our city officers.

But the public conscience is at last awakened and the time is at hand when city government in our country is to be purified and the audacious spirit of private graft exorcised. The saloon must retire from politics, and selfish interests must relax their grip on the city hall.

In this town we have commission government, which is a great improvement on the misnamed self-government of most American cities; but even here there is wide room for reform. There are public utilities in sore want of discipline; there have been private interests too greatly favored.

The president is deeply interested in the national capital and anxious to have it recognized as a model city ere his administration is concluded. To that end he has chosen young men, capable and enthusiastic, to administer the affairs of the municipality. There was a revolt and it is attempted to pick a jury off the sheet to review and reverse the action of the president of the United States and the senate of the United States in the discharge of a constitutional duty. That issue is now before the supreme court for adjudication.

Oliver P. Newman is the chief commissioner. He is a young man and ere he was 30 had taken high rank in his profession, journalism. During the campaign of 1912 and from the election till the inauguration he was in close personal contact with the president-elect, who came to learn that this newspaper man had given much study to the subject of city government, and so impressed was Mr. Wilson with the young man that early after he became president Newman was appointed commissioner of the District of Columbia. It was from that act of the president and from the confirmation of the nomination by the senate that certain parties took appeal to a jury of an inferior court of this jurisdiction.

Louis Brownlow is another young newspaper man chosen by the president for Newman's colleague in the government of the District of Columbia. He is a native of Missouri, born of parents from Tennessee. He is Scotch-Irish from skin to marrow and he is of that Preston blood descended from the mother of Patrick Henry, that has supplied more eminent public men to our republic than any other. Though a near kinsman of the famous Parson Brownlow, the father of the new commissioner was a Confederate soldier, serving four years in the ranks and receiving four wounds in battle for the Lost Cause. There was not a slave holder in his regiment, and the soldiers learned to paraphrase "The Bonnie Blue Flag" in this fashion:

"We are a band of brothers,
All native of the soil,
A-fighting for the property
We never owned at all."

After the war the elder Brownlow lived at Buffalo, Mo., and was the editor of a country newspaper.

Louis Brownlow was born in 1879. In childhood his health was delicate, extremely so, but his mind was wonderfully precocious. At 5 years of age he knew the politics of every voter in the town. He knew how to read earlier in life than the average child had mastered the alphabet. He could read with the page of the book in any position, upside down, or sideways.

At 13 this boy wrote editorials for the paper, or rather set type without "copy." Four years later he was a full-fledged editor of a country paper and in a political disputation he was more than a match for his contemporaries. But he soon outgrew the rural paper and at 21 we find him connected with the Nashville Banner under the tutelage of Marmaduke B. Morton, and then and there young Brownlow was a pupil in as good a school of journalism, guided by as consummate a master of the cloth, as the country affords. After two years with the Banner he went to Louisville and subsequently, at the age of 25, we find him at the national capital, correspondent of the Nashville Banner and the Louisville Post.

Brownlow owes a great deal to books, which he devours with exceeding rapidity and rapacity. But he owes more to conference with his fellows, for which he has great capacity. When you have been in this young man's company a few times you will agree that those who hold that conversation is a lost art are mistaken. I do not believe that even the late James A. McKenzie of Kentucky was a more delightful or a more enlightening companion. I know of no man who can entertain on more different subjects. He is the shrewdest of observers. If he and I were to spend the day going from pillar to post, and conferring with a score of public men in this town, Brownlow would see and hear ten times as much as I. Nothing escapes him. He has a delicious sense of humor and Proctor Knott would have delighted in him. He is also a sagacious and shrewd judge of human nature, and

"Keeks thro' ev'ry other man
Wi' sharpen'd, slee inspection."

After a year or so in Washington, Brownlow went to Paducah, Ky., and for a time edited a paper there, succeeding Irvin Cobb in that capacity, but soon he returned to Washington and joined the Haskin syndicate and traveled twice around the world, seeing more, you may be sure, than a dozen men like the writer of this would see in a dozen trips of like extent.

Brownlow is fond of politics and an ardent Democrat. Instinctively he is a Democrat. He knows more about the politics of England since the passage of Earl Gray's reform bill of 1832 than any man I know, and I don't believe a single man on Capitol Hill—John Sharp Williams or Cabot Lodge—knows more of the subject. To hear Brownlow discourse on it is a privilege, and as he talks the intelligent stranger does not have to ask if he is a Democrat.

He is also thoroughly versed in American politics—no man at the capital, unless it be Woodrow Wilson, is better acquainted with our political history from the promulgation of the Declaration of Independence to the present. As early as 1911 he began to advocate the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, and his remarkably suggestive mind has lent valuable aid to the Wilson cause.

Brownlow has studied the problems of city government here and abroad. He has some decided views on the subject and fortunate it is for this community that he is now in position to put them to the practical test.

In 1909 Brownlow was married to Miss Elizabeth Sims, daughter of the congressman of that name from Tennessee. She is a woman of exceptionally fine mind who takes great interest in public affairs. She and her husband are chums and their domestic life is delightful.

If I had my way, Brownlow would be in congress, and senator, at that.

Relative Cost of Navies

Washington correspondence of the Boston Advertiser: That the United States should have been able to transform so little of its immense appropriations for military purposes into actual military assets—a thorough-going and adequate national defense—has been exceedingly puzzling, and has caused a great deal of comment, but in so far as the navy is concerned some light has just been provided by the secretary of the navy, who has accumulated facts regarding the cost per man in the militia and in the regular navy, showing where the money has gone; also similar costs abroad. The European nations seem to have spent really not much greater sums than the United States, but they in the main have been able to show themselves quite well prepared for war, whereas the United States, according to students of military matters, has spent more than one million dollars in the last ten years in producing what is tantamount to nothing.

It appears to be to no mean extent a matter of pay-roll for the men who compose the military establishment.

Excluding officers, the cost is about $54 a year for men in the naval militia of the United States, including the cost of their arms, uniforms and subsistence during the fifteen days' cruise they are permitted.

But the average yearly cost of an enlisted man in the regular navy is about $636. The total cost of maintaining the 7,132 men of the naval militia is about $385,000 a year, while to maintain the same number of men in the regular navy costs about $4,600,000 annually.

The navy department has in particular prepared a table which shows in condensed form the pay of the enlisted men in the English navy with comparisons with that of the United States. The pay of the chief petty officers in the United States navy is from $50 to $70 per month, while that in the English navy is from $21.29 to $54.75. American petty officers of three classes receive from $30 to $65 a month compared with $10.34 to $38.32 a month in England.

The American mess men receive from $16 to $60 a month, compared with $7.50 to $21.90 a month given in the English navy.

American seamen of the three classes receive from $15 to $35 a month compared with the English rate of $3.65 to $25.54 a month.

It has been found practicable to compare the pay of the men in the American navy with those of countries in Europe forcing service in their navies through the conscript system. Service in the American navy is voluntary, as likewise in England.

In the continental countries, the men, being obliged to serve, are practically provided with no pay, although, with all the necessities, by their government. When money is given it is in the nature of an allowance—very small.

Wins $1,000 in Barber Contest.

Philadelphia Evening Ledger: The hairiest and most bewhiskered man in Philadelphia has been shorn of all his locks, and as a result Joseph Papaleo, proprietor of the Sanitary Shaving parlor on South Seventh street is $1,000 richer than he was. The man's hair was trimmed at the annual hair-cutting and shaving contest of the Italian barbers held in the Casino theater.

Seven men, who might have been mistaken for the proverbial hairy men of Borneo, were gathered at the Inasmuch mission as subjects for as many barbers in the contest. For four and one-half minutes fur flew on the stage and the participants were almost hidden by flying locks and whiskers. Then Papaleo emerged the winner by several minutes. He had shaved his subject and cut his hair, without leaving a scratch from the razor or shears in the record time of four and a half minutes. No one disputed his right to the $1,000 prize.

The Romance of an Advertisement.

New York Herald: The wise man reads the advertisements in his favorite newspaper as closely as he does the news. One of these men of wisdom is Samuel Gibbons of this city. Because Mr. Gibbons is a close reader of Herald advertisements four American heirs to a Canadian estate valued at half a million dollars have been found.

The story of this romance in real life was told recently. In its search for the heirs to the estate of Mrs. Martha E. Campbell of Prescott, Ont., the Trust & Guaranty company, Ltd., of Toronto placed an advertisement in the personal column of the Herald. Mr. Gibbons read it. William T. Doherty, one of the long sought heirs, was known to Mr. Gibbons and was soon put in possession of the news that meant so much to him, his sister and his two brothers.

"It pays to advertise"—and to read advertisements!

My Daddy's Dead.

They tell me my daddy's dead.
The other day my mamma read
A letter that the postman brought.
And then she bowed her pretty head,
And cried, and cried, an awful lot.
Then took me in her arms and said:
"O, laddie, laddie! Daddy's dead!"

I hardly can believe it so!
Why, just a little while ago,
He stood with me by mamma's side,
And spoke so quiet like and slow.
While mamma held his hand and cried,
Until he stooped and whispered low:
"Our country needs her sons, you know!"

And then he said "good-by" and took Me in his arms—my, how they shook—
And hugged me to his breast "for keep"—
Just like the shepherd with the crook
Holds in his arms the little sheep—
And daddy's eyes had just the look
As has the Shepherd in the book!

And just this morning mamma stayed
Upstairs so long I grew afraid,
Because the house was awful still,
And even when I talked or played
It sounded empty like, until
I knelt by mamma where she prayed,
And on my head her hand was laid!

And then I felt it must be true,
And closer to my mamma drew—
Why, we need daddy just as bad
As anything—indeed, we do—
For mamma's heart is awful sad,
And something hurts me thru and thru.
My daddy dead! What shall we do?

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—James C. McReynolds, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, has his library and workshop in a hotel room.

The fact is not extraordinary, for Justice McReynolds is a bachelor and naturally lives at a hotel. So why should he not take his law books in hand and do his work right there?

But let us pause and consider the situation:

Did you yourself ever attempt to do any serious work in a hotel room?

Let us assume that you were merely trying to write a letter.

Before you had completed the first page is it not a fact that a chambermaid came along the hallway rattling her keys and trying them in different doors? And didn't she come in and leave you a supply of towels? And did she not putter about the room just long enough to gum up your train of thought?

Moreover, was there not in the adjoining room either a woman telling about something she had bought, or a drummer telling of something he had sold?

And if there was not that didn't a plumber come in to take a cynical look at your radiator?

And did you ever finish your letter?

If so was it not a shorter letter or at least a different letter than the one you started to write?

Supposing, now, that instead of a letter it had been a supreme court decision you were working on—a decision from which there can be no appeal.

McReynolds, of course, is at a good hotel and has a secretary to protect him. Also, people are less likely to disturb an associate justice of the supreme court than if he were a traveling salesman for a suspender concern.

Still, even at that, if Justice McReynolds were working away in his hotel room some morning on a decision of international consequence, and a chambermaid should come in to change the lace curtains or the counterpane—

And, should stumble off a stepladder and upset a bucket of soapsuds on the floor—

Thereby upsetting, in turn, the justice's train of thought—

Wouldn't it be odd?

Senator Cummins of Iowa, either consciously or unconsciously, likes to be original. For this reason it is extremely difficult to agree with Cummins. According to one of Cummins' fellow committeemen, here is what happens:

Cummins states his view on a proposition. It may be an unusual view that few men would take. But some other senator, let us say, speaks up and says that he is in full accord with Cummins. He and Cummins seem to agree precisely. Then Cummins qualifies his attitude, making it more specific, and going into more details, until the first thing one knows he and the other senator do not agree at all.

We'll suppose, for illustration, that Cummins remarks some bright, clear day that he is inclined to think it may possibly rain before sundown. Up speaks another senator and declares that he himself wouldn't be at all surprised if it should rain ere nightfall. Then Cummins says that owing to certain peculiar barometric indications it will rain, not only before sundown but within three-quarters of an hour, and if it goes any longer than that without rain there doubtless will be a dry spell lasting a week.

After Cummins has thus defined his exact view of the situation the other senator who looked for rain doesn't agree with him at all.

A friend of Vice President Marshall made up a little scrapbook of newspaper clippings and pictures of Marshall and gave it to him for Christmas. On the last page of the book, in place of the customary "Finis" was a wee picture of William Jennings Bryan. Marshall inquired why Bryan's picture was used in that way.

"Oh, I thought it was appropriate," said Marshall's friend. "You know, after everything has been said, there is still Mr. Bryan."

The "Old Scouts"

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: Having emancipated the boy from the servitude of silence, and "not bothering" about the house, by directing his energy in healthful recreations, philanthropists are now looking about to devise some means to keep the older and waning generations of men busy. The man who has reached an age beyond ordinary business activity is particularly the subject of their solicitude, and for these it is proposed to form an organization of "Old Scouts" that will be equally as effective, in its way, as the "Boy Scouts" in furnishing direction for energy and something to live for.

One of the projectors of the "Old Scout" movement writes:

Why not form an army of "Old Scouts" with an organization similar to that of the "Boy Scouts," and perhaps federated with the boys? Could we not in this way bring the old soldiers and others together in a great army of peace that would labor in concerted effort for the good of mankind? And why not an International Army of Old Scouts? One that might render assistance in adjusting the present strife, or help in the work of adjustment that will follow the war. An army of men too old to fight, but not, thank God, too aged to counsel or to serve.

There is no question that the man who gets out of business life at 60, 65 or 70 years is likely to fall into a rut that deprives him of many of the joys of living and shortens his days. If he could be busied with some live concern in the affairs about him it would give him a new hold, a new interest in life. He should join the "Old Scouts."

Applicable Adjectives.

Pittsburg Dispatch: "Cruel and barbarous treatment" is a charge that figures frequently in the divorce courts, but if the report in an Eastern case be true, has seldom been so applicable. The petitioning wife is quoted as charging that she, her husband and children were passengers on the ill-fated Titanic, that after the collision with the berg her husband came to the stateroom and said: "Get up and dress yourself and the children;" that she never saw him again until she was taken on board the rescuing Carpathia, when she saw him leaning over the rail of that vessel, and that all he said was he had had a jolly good breakfast and that he never thought she would make it. He did not appear to testify, and the decree was granted.

If this woman's statement is correct it can only be said that some apology seems due Ismay.

First Non-Partisan State Legislature

Suggestions and Comments From the State Press.

Maybe, and Maybe Not.

Baudette Region: When the present legislature gets through there will be a score of additional inspectors of one thing and another. Will it ever stop?

What About Appropriations?

Warren Register: The two houses of the Minnesota legislature are to be commended for their efforts so far to make this an economical session. Thus far the members have been furnished only such supplies as are absolutely necessary. Penknives, fountain pens and similar luxuries are no longer handed over to them by the state. At some former sessions the members received so much in the name of "supplies" that public scandals resulted. While extravagance of that sort was and is indefensible, it relatively amounts to little and does not appreciably affect the state tax levy. Whether or not the present legislature shall make a record for economy depends not upon the few dollars it may squander upon unneeded supplies for the legislature itself, but upon how it shall dispose of the flood of appropriation bills that will be poured in upon it during the next thirty days.

Regulating the "Movies."

Tower News: Legislative members are interesting themselves in many matters these days. The "movies" are now to be husked of their horrors, as they should. Films as pure as the wing of a gull are asked for and no doubt will be obtained in time. The "movies" are unconscious educators and great care should be used in their production. No film should be made which could not be shown in your home to your wife, daughter or son. Any legislation to sweep the impure or injurious from them should not be hampered.

Should Hurry It Up.

Mora Times: We hope that the legislature will take an early vote on county option in both the house and senate. No good can come from delay.

Get It Out of the Way.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: Governor Hammond's suggestion that the county option matter be taken up promptly by the legislature, and settled one way or the other early in the session will be echoed by every thinking man in the state. Every legislator has been elected with full knowledge of what his constituents expect of him in that regard, and the fewer changes there are due to "dickering", the safer it will be for the integrity of the legislative vote.

A Weak Plea.

Aurora News: Every appointive body of any consequence will take a poke at the plan of the efficiency commission, regardless of the welfare of the state at large. Nevertheless a set of laws embodying these plans should be enacted to bring the affairs of the state up to a business standard. The plea of appointed officeholders that their duties cannot be better done is a weak one.

Another Suggestion.

Faribault Pilot: Senator Campbell has introduced a bill providing one day in seven for rest. He should introduce another bill providing that the senate should work one day in seven.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

When you've said your say,
Let up!
Don't just chew the rag all day—
Let up!
If you've lost your fight or won it,
Licked the chap who had begun it,
Or been shown you cannot run it,
Let up!

Fight until the matter's settled—
Let up!
When it's over don't stay nettled—
Let up!
Put up just the hardest scrap
In you 'gainst the other chap;
When one of you's off the map,
Let up!

Don't go trying to explain—
Let up!
Boasting also gives a pain—
Let up!
If the thing's worth any talk
Then let others do the squawk,
While you coyly take a walk—
Let up!

Put a padlock on your jaws—
Let up!
Brag's a foe to nature's laws—
Let up!
Say, "I'll try," and then begin,
Do your level best to win;
Then when all your licks are in,
Let up!

Steel's Good Example

New York World: The United States Steel corporation might have saved the dividend on its common stock by the simple expedient of cutting wages. In the old days a great corporation so placed would have done this. Wages would have been the first to suffer. Salaries and dividends would have been the last. That was the corporate spirit which made the railroad strikes of 1877 so savagely fought. Few people are able to appreciate how far the country has progressed of recent years in a juster consideration of labor at the hands of the employer.

This action of the Steel trust will not stop where it is. It must inevitably radiate an influence for stability in wages extending over the whole steel industry. If it is to be cursed as a power in the trade for high and stable prices, it will have to be praised now as a power in the trade for high and stable wages. If natural or legal forces have made it less of a menace to competition than it was, we shall have to admit that it has voluntarily assumed an influence in the trade at its own cost to protect the worker from the consequences of over-competition.

It is true, of course, that if this could not be done without general harm to the industry it would not be done. But the American iron and steel industry is in a position to establish its own plane of competition. It will become largely independent of tariff protection before the war. The war, tariff or no tariff, has put foreign steel competition out of business here for years to come. Black as have been the days just past for this great industry, it faces an immediate future correspondingly bright.

The Sloth.

Topeka, Kan., Capital: The neighbors have a good joke on Absalom Multy, a retired farmer who lives across the street from the Methodist parsonage. In the case of John G. Howard against the Duluth Driving Park association, Judge Ensign has handed down a decision that will cause consternation among the stockholders in that defunct corporation, for each and every one is made responsible for its liabilities. Many of the defendants asserted that they had donated the sums set opposite their names without any intention of becoming stockholders and that the stock had been forced upon them. Judge Ensign finds that W. P. Heimbach, M. O. Hall, A. W. Dutton and Duncan, Brewer & Co. never were stockholders. The entire indebtedness is $21,516.57, and the receiver, W. G. Crosby, has secured only $41 in assets.

D. H. Moon of St. Paul, who owns large lumber mill interests at Virginia, gave a banquet to the business men of Virginia at the Hotel Virginia. The American Calf.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Deer hunters are forbidden to kill fawns in most American states. There are laws to protect the bay seal. Game fish under a certain size have their lives insured by official regulation. How does it happen then that the American butcher goes on slaughtering the American calf, slashing at the throat of the nation's meat and dairy supply, without audible protest from any quarter? The heifer calf's place in our system of table economy is not a matter of guesswork or theory. The calf that is eaten as veal never develops into beef, nor can it continue the race of its valuable kind. It is a contention of experts that a very definite reason for our dwindling beef supply is the unrestricted slaughter of very young heifers.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer (though these need not be published). A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"TWENTY-NINE" HAND.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Will you please inform me in the Open Court in regard to a cribbage game, what cards must a person hold and what cards turn up in the deck to make up a twenty-nine hand?
Respectfully,
WILLIAM J. NADEAU.
Mitchell, Minn., Feb. 1.

Turn a five spot and hold the three other fives and the jack in the suit of the five that is turned.—The Editor.

COLOR OF MAIL BOXES.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Please answer through your valuable paper the following question. "Why are United States mail boxes on the street corners painted green?
J. L. G.
Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 2.

The United States government has decided that green paint is the best for that purpose, being a bright color and a good protector against rust. It also distinguishes the boxes from fire alarm boxes which are usually red.—The Editor.

LETTER CARRIERS AND THE PENSION BILL.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Please allow me space in the Open Court column of your paper to answer a question which is often asked. "Do you letter carriers receive a pension after long years of service?" To this we answer "No." There is no provision made by the government to pension their old and faithful civil service employes. Most people are surprised, believing we are pensioned the same as in other countries. I venture to say fully one-half of the general public think we receive a pension.
There is, however, a retirement bill pending in congress, whereby civil service employes, after serving a term of from twenty to twenty-five years or more, and having reached the age limit would receive a pension. It is doubtful if this bill can be acted upon at this session of congress. If not, it will in all probability come up for action at the next. Many state legislatures, city councils and fraternal bodies have petitioned congress in favor of a pension. Any one wishing to help the passage of such a bill can do so by writing to their respective congressmen, asking them to act favorably on said bill when brought up.
Yours respectfully,
THOMAS G. THOMPSON,
Letter Carrier No. 17.
Duluth, Feb. 1.

MRS. McADOO.

To the Editor of The Herald:
Would you kindly give the following information in your Open Court?
When was Mr. McAdoo married to President Wilson's daughter?
"D." says he was married in 1913.
"J." says he was married in 1914.
Who is right? Respectfully yours,
ARVID TEEMAN.
Duluth, Feb. 1.

The wedding took place May 7, 1914. —The Editor.

HIS VIEW OF THE LITERACY TEST

To the Editor of The Herald:
"I am lost." In compliance to the article in the Open Court of The Herald of Jan. 25 by Ralph Mantell, I repeat again I am lost to my present life. "I am in Europe." I am a young, big, strong, honest and married man and ambitious to better my conditions of life, I long to go to the land of the free and the home of the brave. But I am informed that to be admitted to the United States I must be able to read and write or in a small way have an education. I am disappointed because I cannot read or write in my own language. I am an illiterate but being ambitious I start to educate myself, at the same time save for our trip to America and by the time I have saved enough to pay for our passage to America I have not only gained the necessary knowledge to pass the "Literacy test," I have gained a great desire for more education and knowledge, likewise a desire to become a citizen of the United States, which I believe would be the ambition of all big, strong, honest young married men whom Mr. Mantell mentions.
Education in the United States is necessary when a citizen desires a government position, and you don't hear people protesting that the illiterate does not have a chance for these positions. When in fact he has no chance until such time as he obtains an education. Therefore why should an emigrant have more privilege than a citizen? There is no doubt but what educated people are the most ambitious to rise and do things and a greater percentage of this class becomes citizens than of the "illiterates."
After a foreigner has been admitted to the United States and desires to become a citizen he has to pass an examination or in other words a literacy test. If it is necessary after he lands why not before?
Of the illiterates that come to America a great many come for the purpose of making a stake and then returning to the native land to spend it. While in the United States they have not benefited the country in any way except to make a few American capitalists richer and keep the wages down for the American workman.
Of the European countries that furnish the greater number of illiterate immigrants we get the least number of citizens through naturalization. Therefore if an immigrant is to be of benefit to this country he has to be in an educational frame of mind to get the American spirit and thereby become a citizen.
In a great number of colonies formed by immigrants they have never become citizens and the education of their children is more devoted to the mother country and language than to the United States.
In Minnesota some time ago a superintendent of schools advised the teachers in rural schools to go out and play with their pupils and try and break them of the habit of talking in the native language of their parents.
No, Mr. Mantell, you can remain lost and stay in Europe but none for mine. "Too much war." I am going to stay here and write to our congressman from this district to pass that literacy test bill over the president's head.
Yours for good citizens and lots of them. G. H. FRANKLIN.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:
"We Are Seven," from E. A. B. of Ashland.
"Nobody Knows But Mother" from Ernest A. Johnson of Ely.
"Passing Policeman" from George Hall of Bunker, Minn.
Requests have been received for the following:
"I've Grown Used To You" from George Hall of Bunker, Minn.
"Paddy Backwards" from P. A. Bengry of Taconite.
"In The Cold Old Winter Time" from Tom Myhre of Duluth.
"Georgia Rose" from Lolita Geroux of Bergland, Mich.
"Friendless and Sad I Am Dreaming" and "Climbing Up The Golden Stair" from Mrs. A. of Duluth.
The chorus of "A Little Boy In Blue" from Ernest A. Johnson of Ely.

Nobody Knows But Mother.

How many buttons are missing today?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many playthings are strewn in her way?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many thimbles and spools has she missed?
How many burns on each fat little fist?
How many bumps to be cuddled and kissed
Nobody knows but mother.
How many hats has she hunted today?
Nobody knows but mother.
Carelessly hiding themselves in the hay?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many handkerchiefs willfully strayed?
How many ribbons for each little maid?
How for her care can a mother be paid?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many muddy shoes all in a row?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many stockings to darn, do you know?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many little torn aprons to mend?
How many hours of toil must she spend?
What is her time when her day's work shall end?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many cares does a mother's heart know?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many joys from her mother love flow?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many prayers by each little white bed?
How many tears for her babes has she shed?
How many kisses for each curly head?
Nobody knows but mother.

"We Are Seven."

A simple child—dear brother Jim,
That lightly draws its breath,
And feels its life in every limb,
What should it know of death?

I met a little cottage girl;
She was 8 years old, she said;
Her hair was thick with many a curl
That clustered round her head.

She had a rustic woodland air,
And she was wildly clad;
Her eyes were fair, and very fair;
—Her beauty made me glad.

"Sisters and brothers little maid,
How many may you be?"
"How many?" Seven in all," she said,
And wondering looked at me.

"And where are they? I pray you tell."
She answered, "Seven are we;
And two of us at Conway dwell,
And two are gone to sea.

"Two of us in the churchyard lie,
My sister and my brother;
And in the churchyard cottage I
Dwell near them, with my mother."

You say that two at Conway dwell,
And two are gone to sea,
Yet ye are seven!—I pray you tell
Sweet maid, how this may be."

Then did the little maid reply;
"Seven boys and girls are we;
Two of us in the churchyard lie
Beneath the churchyard tree."

"You run about my little maid,
Your limbs they are alive;
If two are in the churchyard laid,
Then ye are only five."

"Their graves are green, they may be seen."
The little maid replied,
"Twelve steps or more from mother's door,
And they are side by side."

"My stockings there I often knit,
My 'kerchief there I hem;
And there upon the ground I sit
And sing a song to them."

"And often after sunset, sir,
When it is light and fair,
I take my little porringer
And eat my supper there."

"The first that died was sister Jane;
In bed she moaning lay,
Till God released her of her pain
And then she went away."

"So in the churchyard she was laid;
And when the grass was dry,
Together round the grave we played,
My brother John and I.

"And when the ground was white with snow
And I could run and slide,
My brother John was forced to go,
And he lies by her side."

"How many are you then," said I,
If they two are in Heaven?"
Quick was the little maid's reply,
"O, master, we are seven."

"But they are dead; those two are dead!
Their spirits are in Heaven!
'Twas throwing words away; for still
The little maid would have her will,
And said, "Nay, we are seven!"
Author—William Wordsworth.

NEW BASIS APPROVED

Change in Representation in Republican National Conventions.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Secretary James B. Reynolds of the Republican National committee has announced that the new plan of representation in the next Republican national convention proposed by the Republican national committee, has been approved by states representing 290 electoral votes—some twenty-five more than necessary under the conditions made by the national committee—and will be put in effect when the committee meets to arrange for the next national convention.
Secretary Reynolds' statement says: "At a meeting of the committee, held in Washington in December, 1913, it was decided that the basis of representation should be changed, if Republican state conventions in states representing a majority of the votes in the electoral college, which would be equivalent to the majority of delegates in the national convention, should authorize the change. At that time the following resolution was passed:
"'Confident that the action of this committee, representing, as it does, the practically unanimous sentiment of the Republican voters of the various states, will be ratified and be made effective,
"'Be it resolved, That this committee shall issue the call for delegates to the national convention, to be held in the year 1916, to nominate candidates for president and vice president, in accordance with the following basis of representation:
"'Each state shall be entitled in such convention to four delegates-at-large;
"'Two additional delegates-at-large for each representative-at-large in congress elected from any state entitled to one or more additional representatives in congress under the apportionment made in accordance with the last census, but in which state no new congressional district has been provided by law;
"'One delegate from each congressional district;
"'An additional delegate for each congressional district in which the vote for any Republican elector in 1908, or for the Republican nominee for congress in 1914, shall have been not less than 7,500;
"'Provided, however, that the total number of delegates to which any state is entitled shall be chosen from the state at large if the law of the state in which the election occurs so prescribes; and
"'Provided, further, that in the case of any state electing all representatives in congress from the state at large, such state shall be entitled to as many delegates, elected at large, as though the state were divided into separate congressional districts.'"
The resolution also provides for alternates; delegates from the District of Columbia, Alaska and the insular possessions; and the approval of the new system in such number of states as are entitled to cast a majority of the votes in the present electoral college.
Mr. Reynolds' statement further says: "The states that formally ratified this plan, and the electoral votes that they represent, are as follows: Arkansas, 9; California, 13; Colorado, 6; Connecticut, 7; Idaho, 4; Illinois, 29; Indiana, 15; Maine, 6; Massachusetts, 18; Michigan 15; Missouri, 18; New Jersey, 14; New York, 45; North Carolina, 13; Ohio, 24; Oklahoma, 10; Rhode Island, 5; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Vermont, 4; Washington, 7; West Virginia, 8.
"There were, in addition to these, several states which were in favor of the plan, but which held no state convention during 1914."
The membership of the next national convention, in accordance with the above plan, has not yet been worked out in detail by states, as this requires a canvass of the votes in each congressional district, in order to determine the additional delegates to be allowed. The result by states will be made known later by the national committee.
The statement further says: "The official returns that have been compiled by the Republican national committee show that on national issues the vote of the country in November was: Republican, 5,915,270; Democratic, 5,752,580; Progressive, 1,474,243."
This compilation was made on the vote for United States senators and representatives in congress, and not on the vote for governors or other state officers.

SIMMONS ACQUITTED ON HIS SECOND TRIAL.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 2.—After being out six hours and a half, the jury in the Fred Simmons arson case returned a verdict of not guilty. This was Simmons' second trial, the first jury having disagreed.

Accused in Chisago County.

Stillwater, Minn., Feb. 2.—Richard McCarthy and James Dodd of St. Paul are lodged in the local county jail, following an examination before a justice of the peace in Chisago county. They will await a grand jury action on a charge of taking from the Anez saloon, Jan. 24, $35 in cash, some whisky and smoking and chewing tobacco, at Wyoming.

PARCEL OUT COURT-HOUSE INSURANCE.

Meeting as a committee of the whole yesterday afternoon, the county commissioners apportioned $640,000 worth of insurance on the courthouse and its contents among more than sixty agencies. Policies were extended for five years.
The insurable value of the courthouse building is given as $700,000, which is at least 80 per cent of its cash value. Of the entire amount of insurance taken out, $560,000 represents policies covering the building itself. The fixtures are insured at $40,000 and the records at the same figure.

CITY PLANS TO SPEND $170,000

Three Pavements Ordered Which Will Cost About $145,000.

New Motor Truck and Auto for Chief Would Cost $8,500.

The city commission yesterday afternoon passed resolutions and heard the reading of ordinances, appropriating about $170,000 for street improvements, road oil for 1914, new fire equipment and the construction of sanitary and storm sewers in various parts of the city.
Three pavements were ordered constructed this year on Minnesota Point, Woodland and East Ninth street at a total cost of about $145,000. Commissioner Murchison, who introduced the resolutions, announced last Saturday that the improvements would be ordered and it is the plan of the commission to begin active work early this spring.

Park Point Paving.

The pavement on Park Point will be a continuation of the roadway built last year to Twelfth street. It will continue on Minnesota avenue to Thirty-eighth street and will be of two-course concrete, forty feet wide, costing about $86,000. The Woodland avenue pavement will be built from Fourth street to Kent road, a distance of eight blocks. The roadway will be thirty feet wide and estimates for its construction have been prepared by the city engineer as follows: Sandstone, $30,848; asphalt, $25,000; bitulithic, $24,800; concrete, $22,840; macadam, $14,865, and bituminous concrete, $23,600.
The pavement in Ninth street, between Seventh and Fourteenth avenues east, will be of crushed rock macadam and will cost about $30,000.

Would Buy Motor Truck.

First reading was given the ordinance introduced by Commissioner Hicken, appropriating $8,500 for the purchase of a new motor truck and an automobile for Chief Randall. This appropriation, Commissioner Hicken announced, will cover the total expenditure proposed for new equipment in 1915.
Second reading was given the ordinance introduced last week by Commissioner Murchison asking for an appropriation of $9,000 for the purchase of road oil during this summer.
An ordinance was introduced by Mayor Prince appropriating $175 from the library fund for the purchase of a floor-cleaning machine. The bill was given its first reading.

Jobs By Day Labor.

Resolutions were passed ordering the construction of a sanitary sewer in Albion street, from Central avenue to a point 340 feet west of Central avenue, and a sanitary sewer in Sixtieth alley west, from Huntington street to Tacony street. Both jobs are to be done by day labor.
Public comfort stations throughout the city are urged in a communication to the city commission from the Women's Christian Temperance union. The matter was referred, to Mayor Prince.
On the motion of Commissioner Hicken, licenses and transfers were granted as follows: Saloon—Charles D. Campbell, 201 West Michigan street; August Moisio, 338 Lake avenue south; Thomas Cote, 713 West Superior street; H. B. Weinstein, 216 Lake avenue south, transfer from W. P. Wheaton, 228 Lake avenue south; Samuel Patelle, 1031 West Michigan street, transfer from Carl Jannetta, same place. Cigarettes—Fred Hill, transfer from 21 Fifth avenue west to 212 South First avenue east; A. Jannetta, 2102 West Third street. Harry Silver was granted a permit to hold an auction at 217 West Superior street for a period of thirty days.

NINE PRISONERS GET AWAY FROM CITADEL.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—How he escaped from the citadel, a British military prison at Halifax, N. S., where he and other German reservists had been confined several months, was told by Frank Schmidt of Vera Cruz, Mex., a non-commissioned officer in the German army reserve, who arrived here yesterday. Nine prisoners scaled the walls of the citadel by means of a rope surreptitiously woven from pieces of twine. They had previously cut the bars of a window with a saw made from a steel table knife.
"Ten of us wanted to celebrate Emperor William's birthday so we set last Thursday for our attempt to escape," said Schmidt. "We slipped through the opening made with the knife and crouched under the wall in the darkness until the sentry's back was turned. Then I threw the rope over the top of the wall and a hook which we had placed on one end caught. Nine of us climbed the rope and dropped safely on the other side, but the last man was captured. Four of the nine were retaken shortly afterward."

To Quickly Remove Ugly Hairs From Face

(Beauty Notes)

Beauty-destroying hairs are soon banished from the skin with the aid of a delatone paste, made by mixing some water with a little plain powdered delatone. This is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed to remove the remaining delatone. This simple treatment banishes every trace of hair and leaves the skin without a blemish. Caution should be used to be certain that it is delatone you buy.—Advertisement.

DERNBURG DENIES MAKING REMARKS

Says He Never Spoke of Combination of Fleets to Curb British.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 2.—Dr. Bernard Dernburg, former colonial secretary of the German empire, last night emphatically asserted that any idea of involving the United States in the present European war would be "quite criminal and every well wisher of this country should be entirely foreign to that idea."
This statement was brought forth by published reports quoting from Dr. Dernburg's address before the Civic association here to the effect that the combined fleets of the United States and Germany could curb Great Britain in "her arrogant policy" of controlling the seas. In reference to this, Dr. Dernburg issued the following statement:
"There is no truth in the statement purporting to come from me that I had asked United States' aid for free ocean traffic through the combining of the fleets of the United States and Germany. What I said was that Germany was engaged in a fight over Great Britain's control of the seven seas; a topic in which the United States also is interested. But I neither suggested, nor hinted that the United States should be dragged into this war. Any such idea I would consider quite criminal, and every well wisher of this country should be entirely foreign to that idea."
Dr. Dernburg was the guest of honor at a banquet last night given by the Germanic Society of Minnesota. Tonight he speaks at a mass meeting in St. Paul.

CRYSTAL FALLS MINE EMPLOYS FULL FORCE.

Crystal Falls, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bristol mine resumed working a full force of 250 men yesterday, following the visit here Saturday of General Manager Hopkins.
The Bristol has been employing about fifty men in shaft-sinking for the past month, so that the addition of 250 more will make quite a hole in the ranks of the idle.
The single men as well as the married men were put back to work, and preference given to the old employes of the mine. Many of the old workmen, especially the single men, had removed from the city, so that there were some vacant places to be filled by new men.

LONG DELAYED SUIT BOOKED FOR TRIAL

Meisner Divorce Action, Filed Five Years Ago, Just Dug Up.

A suit for divorce, started five years ago at Virginia in the range division of the district court, but which, for some reason, was never brought to trial, was yesterday transferred to the Duluth division and placed on the present term calendar.
The action is one in which Mrs. Margaret Meisner is suing Frank Meisner for a divorce on the grounds of desertion. In her complaint which was filed with the court at Virginia on Dec. 21, 1909, she alleges that they were married on Nov. 12, 1898, at Bark River, Mich., and that he deserted her Nov. 1, 1908.

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.
Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Boyce Drug Store and other leading druggists of Duluth and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.
Caution:—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

THE DAILY ROLL CALL; A COLUMN OF SPORTS

(By Bruce.)

JUST now Jack Curley is flooding the country with press stuff dealing with the various and multifarious details of the coming Johnson-Willard contest. Curley believes emphatically in the theory about it being a judicious investment to advertise. Whether there will be a crowd at the ringside, it is difficult to state—but the country will be a-guessing over the contest and will be widely discussing it before Curley is through.

Willard is big enough to lick any man in the world—if he can hit that any man. All followers of the fight game have generally admitted that the big Kansan can uncork a terrific blow.

Charley Cutler naturally does not love Willard like the Bible asks us to love and cherish our brothers of the big earthly family. But at the same time the big Chicago wrestler comes through with the statement that Willard is liable to beat Johnson.

Here it is—Willard will either prove the biggest hulking frost in the world—or a world beater. With such gigantic men there is usually no half way course. There may be a surprise harvested for the world in this match.

Bring on the Soo.

IN this dear town we love hockey. Bring on the American Soo, Jack Jacobi. Down in the Copper Country they have declared that we are bringing dub teams here. The American Soo is the class of the league we left; it has defeated Calumet and Portage Lake in handy manner—it would be the greatest boost in the world for our team, the conclusive proof of the ability of the team, to meet and defeat the Soo—let's do it.

Some rip snorting game, Bill. Some hockey, eh Carroll? Come on, Jack, schedule this game, it will be great. Let's see if Duluth has the greatest team in this section of the country.

Watch Old Oswego.

OSWEGO, N. Y., is the place where they play basket ball. Here is expressing the hope that Lawrence Duby's Rotary team extracts some of the starch from the Oswego team.

One Grimstad is known as the "Terrible" Swede. He stands about six feet three and is as large and roomy as an apartment house in Yonkers, N. Y. Why lavish all this pity on poor Pauline? Spend some of it on the local man who is marked to play against this Grimstad person.

They call Swede Grimstad the greatest basket ball player in the world. We wonder what the man playing opposite him will be calling him.

All these little things are interesting.

Don't Forget the Meet.

GOOD people, don't forget the ski meet of Saturday and Sunday. Remember that Duluth is after the honor of becoming the permanent home of the National Ski association's annual tournament. Lest you forget, we repeat that every one who attends the meet of Saturday and Sunday will be assisting in assuring Duluth of this honor.

We are the home of American curling—some day Duluth may have the largest steel slide in the world. Think of the talk the aerial bridge has stirred up—both at home and abroad. Yes, and think of the kind of talk it has stirred up at home. Did you ever live on Park Point? Please don't. But the steel slide—it would be a great thing for the city. The new one is going to be constructed on a higher and steeper hill. Come out and be a booster for the large ski meet.

What's Waino Doing?

WHILE Walter Miller is industriously engaged in getting in the shape of his life at Chicago, with Charley Cutler, Ernest Karje, Earl Caddock and Eddie McGoorty, the boxer, assisting in putting the little Pole through the jumps, Waino Ketonen is putting in long hours each bright day in West Duluth.

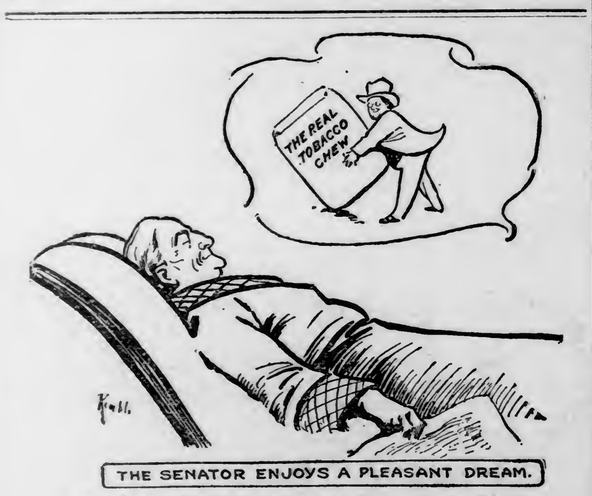

Waino has Karhunsaari, the Finn wrestler, who made so short and sensational work of Sailor Jack recently, and a raft of the best of the local wrestlers to assist him.

All Waino has to do is to hold his already remarkable condition. The little Finn looks right, acts right and talks as if he is possessed of the utmost confidence in the world.

There is an old saying about money being possessed of a remarkable amount of conversational power. On top of the chance he is taking about losing all his traveling and expense money, he is willing to wager $250 on the result of the contest—and Waino thinks he is going to win.

OUTPOINTS "CHAMP" FREDDIE WELSH

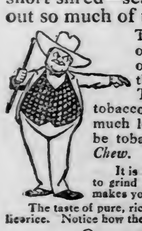

Akron, Ohio, Feb. 2.—Johnny Griffiths, local lightweight outpointed Freddy Welsh, the lightweight champion in a twelve-round bout here last night, according to the majority of newspaper men who saw the fight. No decision was given.

THE SENATOR ENJOYS A PLEASANT DREAM.

A NATIONAL benefit—is "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew. Nearly all men use tobacco. When you think how much human comfort it must be giving it's no wonder the many thousands of users are talking about it to their friends.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

RANGE SKI RIDER GOING AFTER RECORD

BARNEY RILEY.

What would be a ski meet without Barney Riley? Among the long list of Scandinavian names the Irish monica of the range Celt sticks out like a sore thumb on a hand. When Barney Riley's name is announced through the big megaphone, there are "Ohs" and "Ahs" rifting on the winter air. Barney is a pronounced favorite with the crowd and one of the most popular ski riders in America. He is coming to Duluth's big national meet—and he is going to attempt to break the world's record. More power to you, Barney.

CANUCKS ARE AGAIN BEATEN

St. Paul Hockeyists Defeat Fort William in Another Good Game.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—St. Paul won another hockey victory, this time over the veteran Fort William players in a hard-fought battle here last night, the final score being 5 to 3.

Superb back-checking on the part of both teams tended to slow the play up from the outset, but as the game wore on the pace grew faster and faster until finally the game ended in one of the most brilliant and speediest rallies ever seen here. Fort William slipping the elusive puck past for three goals during the last seven minutes.

For nearly 28 minutes after the opening of play one of the most desperate struggles imaginable was waged. It was simply a case of Larry Brennan pitted against the Fort William defense.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 2.—The Sault hockey team continued its winning streak and registered its fifth consecutivev shut-out by beating Calumet in the coliseum last night, by a score of 3 to 0.

Calumet offered an imported Canadian named Smith in the line-up, as rover, and he played a great defensive game, but was not effective in offensive work.

The game was not particularly exciting, but was good technical hockey. The Sault made no protest against Smith.

BILLIARDS

Hoene was defeated by Hankins in the billiard contest played last evening in the tournament that is in progress at Hatley's parlors. The game was one of the best of the tourney to date.

ENTRIES POURING IN FOR NATIONAL SKI MEET

Crack Professional and Amateur Riders of America Will Attempt to Surpass Ragnar Omtvedt's World's Ski Mark of 169, on the Big Chester Hill Slide—Governor Hammond and Staff May Be Here.

It begins to look as if Duluth's national ski tournament will be the largest held in years. Secretary Peter Wright has already received the entries of fifteen of the crack professional riders of the United States. Some of the best of the amateurs are already entered, with the promise that the list of amateur ski jumpers will be the heaviest in years.

President Hovde and the members of the board of directors of the Duluth Ski association are sanguine that the world's mark of 169 feet, held by Ragnar Omtvedt of Chicago, will be broken during the two days of the meeting that will be held on the huge Chester hill slide Saturday and Sunday.

In the first place, there is enough snow, and it has been packed hard enough to make conditions ideal. In the second place, the height of the hill has been increased eight feet. In the third place, the hill's steepness has been increased to an angle of approximately 38 deg.

Work will start on the big slide Thursday, and every effort is going to be made to have the long slide as smooth and hard as ice. One of the chief ambitions of every official and member of the Duluth club is to have the world's long-standing ski mark set for the Chester park hill. With the take-off remodeled, with the hill made higher and steeper, and conditions favoring the replacing of the old mark set at Ironwood, Mich., two years ago, the promise is shouted forth that all those attending the big gala event will have more than the worth of their money.

Governor May Attend.

Supplementary to the urgent invitation extended to Governor Hammond and the members of his official family to be the guests of the Duluth Ski club at the big meet, Aksel H. Holter, secretary of the National association, has also written and urged his excellency to come up and witness what promises to be the greatest meet staged in years.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate the largest crowd of spectators that has witnessed an American national ski tournament in years. All of the grandstand and bleacher seats are being set in order and the snow at the base of the hill will be smoothed down so as to enable spectators to have standing and walking room.

All roads leading to the ski grounds will be leveled so that automobiles and sleighs will encounter not the slightest difficulty in getting to the grounds. One of the spectacular features of this tournament promises to be the number of automobiles that will make the winter scene unique.

A Big Entry List.

As previously stated, the entries for the big meet are pouring in. The directors of the local club expect that 100 of the crack riders of the United States will compete for gold and amateur trophies.

Following is a partial list of the entries that have already been received:

Professionals—Ragnar Omtvedt, Chicago; Carl Hall, Ishpeming; Anders Haugen, Milwaukee; Ole Feiring, Virginia; Lars Haugen, unattached; Henry Hall, Ishpeming; Barney Rielly, Mt. Horeb; John Evenson, Virginia; Axel Henrickson, Blair; Sigurd Hanson, Chicago; Simen Erickson, Superior; Erling Landwick, Stoughton; Einar Lund, Chippewa Falls; Ole Mangseth, Coleraine; John Braflund, Ironwood.

Amateurs: Marwin Olsen, Virginia; Henry Fieldseth, Ironwood; Earl Gunderson, Chippewa Falls; Jonas Hille, Starbuck; Jennings Rielly, Coleraine; Emil Jacobsen, Virginia; Arthur Blair, Coleraine; Sigurd Bergeson, Virginia; Hans Hansen, Minneapolis; John Fieldseth, Ironwood; Bert Hansen, Virginia; Einar Bakke, Beloit; John Jobe, Ironwood; Anders Olsen, Iola; Alfred Erne, John Guttormsen, Beloit; Henry Landre, Duluth.

UNIVERSALS AND TWO HARBORS ARE LOSERS

Northerns Defeat Flour Makers and Clothiers the Railroaders.

Both Games Are Fast and Show Vast Improvement in Play.

Team Standing.

Teams.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Big Duluths	3	1	.750
Two Harbors	2	1	.666
Northern	2	1	.666
Universals	1	1	.500
Bagleys	0	2	.000
D. C. H. S.	0	2	.000

The result of the two games played last evening at French club rink was a distinct surprise to the followers of the game. The Northerns defeated the supposedly crack Universals by the score of 3 to 0, and the Big Duluths slipped a win over on the Two Harbors outfit by the score of 6 to 5.

Stacked up against a defense that proved impregnable, the Universals were able to make but slight headway. The Millers played a valiant battle and made a dying effort in the closing minutes of play, but failed to penetrate the secondary defense of the hardware people.

Scores Come Early.

Clark of the Northerns scored the initial goal of the game just two minutes and twenty seconds after the bell started the first half. The puck was taken down the ice in a pretty rush and caged from directly in front of the net. Nelson caged the second game in 9:10, and a trifle more than a minute later another goal was scored.

From this point on the play grew faster and the Universals seemed to get together. The rushes of the Northerns were checked and the defense of the Millers tightened, but all efforts to break down the defense of the hardware team met with failure.

Clothiers Show Form.

In winning from Two Harbors the Big Duluth seven displayed the best form of the season. At the end of the first half the Clothiers were leading by the score of 2 to 1. The Duluth team took the lead in the first two minutes of play and was never headed.

Poissant shot the first goal and Blais followed closely with a pretty shot. La Fleur caged the puck for Two Harbors at the end of 23 minutes.

Blais and Olson each shot a goal for the clothiers early in the second half and it began to look like a walk away for the clothiers.

At this point of the game the playing of the veteran La Fleur opened the eyes of spectators. The railroad leader shot three goals in close succession, tying the count and making it look as if the visitors were just getting started.

Blais put the merchants in the lead by caging a neat shot and then Belland of the visiting team tied the count. Poissant, the chunky center of the clothiers, made victory certain for the locals by shooting the final goal of the evening at the end of 19 minutes.

Both Contests Fast.

Speed marked both games. A vast improvement was shown in the play of the Big Duluths and Northerns. Before the start of both games it was generally believed that the Universals and Two Harbors teams would be returned the winners. The improvement in play of the Northerns was the most amazing. Andy Grenner has been coaching the hardware men for the past week and his labors with the Northern stick handlers are beginning to count.

Olson was one of the stars of the evening. Belland and Captain La Fleur were the stars of the visiting team.

DEFEATS SUPERIOR THREE STRAIGHT

Duluth Curling Club Junior Hockey Team Shows Speed.

What is considered to be one of the best of the younger hockey teams at the Head of the Lakes is the Duluth Curling club junior septet. They have made an enviable record this season and expect to add more laurels to their string very soon. Their most noteworthy achievement is a record of three consecutive victories over the Superior Curling club juniors, having won their third straight game from them last Saturday morning, when they defeated the strong village team on their own ice by a score of 5 to 0.

The Duluth team is made up, for the most part, of the best of the younger high school players. Some time ago they defeated the Woodland team, 4 to 2, with whom a return game may soon be played. They are now planning on a range trip. In the game Saturday, Hall shot three goals, Gow one and Comstock one. The lineup was as follows:

Duluth—		Superior—
Fitzsimmons	g.	Greenlaw
Lynch	p.	Fee
Gow	cp.	Holmes
Hall	c.	St. Clair
Nott, McCormick	r.	(Capt.) Moran
Comstock (Capt.)	lw.	Stanbury

INDOOR MEET POSTPONED

Central High Athletes Given More Time for Conditioning.

Changing of Semesters Makes Postponement Advisable; Class Leaders.

Because of the great amount of work connected with the close of the first and the opening of the second semesters at Central high school, it was decided yesterday to postpone the interclass track meet, to have been held on the afternoon of the coming Thursday, to a week from then—Thursday, Feb. 11. Athletic Director G. A. Glyer felt that the date had been set at an inopportune time and that it is best to hold it at a later date when the school has settled down and more attention can be paid to it. The boys who expect to participate in the meet are all training hard and the postponement will come as glad news to them for they will be in still better shape by the time it is held.

An indoor interclass track meet is an innovation at Central high school and the students are all agog over it. An outdoor meet has been customary for many years, but this is the first year in some time that the indoor meet has been introduced and it is quite probable that it will be tenable. To Coach Glyer belongs the credit for pushing the idea until it has been set on a firm base.

Probably the greatest booster from the student body is Skull Hrutiford, the 100-yard speed king of Central high school and an all-round athlete. He has been working hard to make the meet a success and his efforts will undoubtedly be crowned with success. There are a great many good track athletes at school, probably the most of them being from the junior class. Yesterday Hrutiford was elected captain of the junior class and he looms up as the biggest candidate for the school leader, the selection of this position to be decided after the class meet.

George Lewis, a track and football star, was appointed by President George Lawson of the sophomore class as temporary leader for their cinder leader, and he will get his men out today. "Bob" Paine, the school high jump champion, is a sophomore and should make some great records in years to come. Last year, when only a freshman, he cleared 5 ft. 4 in. and broke the school record.

None of the other classes have decided on their leaders, but will probably do so in the near future. The meet will be held in the school gymnasium.

MAY RESTORE RACING.

Bill Introduced in Arkansas to Permit Betting on the Ponies.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—Horse racing in Arkansas may be revived by a bill just introduced in the state house of representatives which would place racing under control of the commission and permit the Pari-mutual system of betting.

The bill is reported to have the indorsement of Hot Springs business men with a view to renewing racing there.

BOWLERS TO ATTEND I. B. A.

Duluth to Send Crack Pin Spillers to National Meet.

Duluth bowlers expect to make a strong showing at the I. B. A. tournament that is to be rolled at Minneapolis Feb. 11 to 22.

The Elcoras, Park Hotels and Peoples Brewing company teams will be sent. There will be one other five-man team. The crack pin spillers of the city play on these teams and local followers of the pin game are sanguine that Duluth will break into the prize money.

Duluth players will compete in events on Feb. 19 and 20, playing in the five-man team event, the doubles and singles. Duluth players are also to compete in the big special prize event. In this event each player puts in $5 and the pot is rolled for, teams and players finishing well up dividing the money.

The showing of Duluth last season aroused commendable comment from all sources. Never in the history of the pin game has there been the grade of bowling in the two local leagues that has been displayed this season. The cracks of the city will be sent to the big national pin meet and followers of the game here will be sorely disappointed if Duluth does not return with some prizes.

TOMMY GIBBONS IN REAL BOUT

Mike's Brother to Oppose Billy Murray of California.

In Mike Collins' Hudson arena this evening Billy Murray, the Portugese battler from the sunny climes of California, and Tommy Gibbons, the younger member of the famous St. Paul family of boxers, will hook up.

In the event of Murray winning the chances are that he will be pitted against Brother Mike. This would make an ideal match, one in which revenge would enter and family pride would count; one in which the interest of the public would be greatly aroused.

Murray lost to George Chip in two terrific battles on the coast, but his showing against Eddie McGoorty at Milwaukee was such as to stamp him as one of the real birds in the middleweight division.

The fight will be one of the toughest fights that Tommy Gibbons has been asked to make and the outcome will be observed with special interest by fans all over the Northwest.

Mike has provided a first-class card for the fans and the indications point to one of the largest houses that ever witnessed a contest at Hudson.

CURLING

The first game in the Manley-McLennan Curling event will be played at the Duluth Curling club rink. The second game will be played at the Superior club. If a third contest is necessary, it will be played on the Duluth rink. The date of the initial contest has not been set as yet.

Nothing has been heard of Elmer Whyte at Portage, owing to wire trouble.

Feb. 26, Trinity and Shrine; dancing.

FLYNN HAS STAMINA; SMITH HAS SKILL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 2.—Gunboat Smith won a newspaper decision here last night over Jim Flynn in a ten-round boxing contest. There was never a time during the bout that Smith did not have a shade the better of the arguments on points, but the stamina displayed by Flynn won the admiration of the spectators. Flynn was the aggressor and while he received four blows for every one he delivered, he was in good condition when the contest ended.

In the clinches, Flynn showed at his best, but even in this style he was no match for Smith, who worked a terrific uppercut to advantage.

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

What Causes Catarrh?

THANK heaven, when one speaks of having catarrh today it is commonly assumed that there is something wrong in the nose. No longer can "catarrh of the stomach" or "catarrh of the lungs" or "catarrh" of other places be considered anything else than an apology for ignorance. To diagnose catarrh of the stomach is merely to confess that you don't know what is the matter.

Nasal catarrh is a chronic inflammation of the lining of the nose, with more or less accompanying inflammation of the lining of the Eustachian tube and middle ear, and other cavities directly communicating with the nasal cavity, as, for instance, the frontal sinus, or air-space in the bone of the brow.

This inflammation is, of course, directly produced by bacteria. But antiseptics are quite as futile in the treatment as they are in the treatment of tuberculosis. The more important factor to be searched out in chronic inflammation of the nasal lining is the local or systemic condition which so lowers natural resistance as to permit infection of the mucus membrane by germs which are perhaps never absent from the nose and throat of individuals living in artificially heated houses.

The one great common factor of nasal catarrh is still, artificially warmed air. Not moving air, but dead, denaturized, comfortable, indoor air. Bad ventilation and overheating of living rooms, workrooms, assembly rooms and schoolrooms invites acute infections — so-called "colds" — and chronic catarrh. Every little coryza leaves a definite amount of more or less permanent trouble behind. Frequent attacks of acute coryza, or "cold" in the head, leave the lining of the nose thickened and congested, and that is catarrh.

The greatest preventative of catarrh ever discovered, and one of the greatest remedies for catarrh, too, is the open bedroom window every night in the year, regardless of weather. Cold night air kills off the germs of acute and chronic catarrhal infections and raises the individual's resistance against renewed infection.

Questions and Answers.

Mrs. M. L. D. writes: Our little boy, aged 4, has frequent spells which I am told are caused by worms. He passed a round worm once about six months ago. I have been giving him worm powders three times a day ever since, but he has passed no more worms? Do the powders dissolve the worms? Or can you advise something better?

REPLY.

No known medicine will dissolve worms. That is deliberate falsehood on the part of fake medicine manufacturers. In the first place, it is futile to give worm medicine three times a day. You must make the boy fast at least twelve hours, then give a cathartic, then, after the bowel is emptied, give one full dose of worm medicine. If no worms are passed, the boy is innocent of the charge. It is usually best to follow the dose of worm medicine with another half-dose of cathartic.

S. J. asks: Does a cup of coffee for breakfast every morning predispose to insomnia and heart trouble?

REPLY.

As a general rule, no. If you have insomnia and heart trouble, it may have a bearing on your symptoms. Let your own physician decide.

Neurasthenic asks: Please give the name and address of a reliable manufacturer of abdominal supports for men.

REPLY.

Send addressed stamped envelope for personal reply.

D. W. L. inquires: Does acid dyspepsia cause gingivitis of the gums? Is there anything that will remove acid from the system?

REPLY.

(1) More likely the gingivitis causes the dyspepsia. (2) I don't know what "acid dyspepsia" is, in your case. However, there is no drug that will remove acid from the system, except in an indirect way by digestive change.

Dr. Brady will answer questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald.

NOTED RAILWAY CONTRACTOR DIES

Felix Barbeau Called After Long Illness in Minneapolis.

Felix Barbeau of Minneapolis, the contractor who built the Soo line from Duluth to the Twin Cities, died at St. Barnabas hospital, Minneapolis, Sunday night after an illness of about two months. He had lived in the Twin Cities for forty-six years and was 64 years of age. His former home was at 813 Emerson avenue north, Minneapolis.

Mr. Barbeau was one of the best known railway and bridge contractors in the Northwest. He was founder of the railway contracting business know today under the name of Barbeau & Werring, and built, in addition to the Duluth line, practically all the railroads running West from Minneapolis into Dakota and Montana.

His widow, two sons and two daughters survive him. They are Francis G. Barbeau, Thomas E. Barbeau, Mrs. James H. Werring and Mrs. Frank H. Merrill, all of Minneapolis. Funeral services were at 9 o'clock this morning, from St. Anne's Catholic church, Minneapolis.

REFUSED TO OBEY ORDERS

United States Consul at Aix-la-Chapelle Quits the Service.

Calls "Neutrality" Stand of United States Unjust to Germany.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Robert J. Thompson of Chicago, United States consul at Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany, one of the best known men in the consular service of the country, has reached Chicago with the acceptance of his resignation from the service in his inside pocket.

Friction with Secretary of State Bryan over the conduct and duties of American consuls in German territory led to the final break.

Mr. Thompson objected to the instructions sent to him from the Washington state department. He was instructed to remain entirely neutral, to cease his investigations of the atrocities stories, to incorporate in his official reports only official business and to refrain from expressing an opinion as to the truth or falseness of the charges made against the German army.

Refused to Obey.

Mr. Thompson refused to carry out these instructions. He insisted that as the representative of the Washington government it was his duty not only to make a careful investigation of the entire situation, particularly since his post at Aix-la-Chapelle was on the German frontier at the point where the German troops passed to the western theater of war, but to report to Washington the result of his investigations. The state department sat down on him pretty hard.

Now Mr. Tohmpson has decided to prepare an open letter to Secretary of State Bryan in which it is understood he will criticise the consular service of the United States in the European war and will insist that Germany has not been given a square deal by the American public.

Will Defend the Germans.

Mr. Thompson now proposes to devote much of his time in the near future to defending the German people against what he says are the calumnies instigated by nations now engaged in war with the empire.

Added interest attaches to Mr. Thompson's proposed course because his wife is an Englishwoman, who now is in London with the family, and his brother-in-law now is serving in the British army.

"My conclusions," he said, "are academic, perhaps, and more of an intellectual phase than anything else. I am not influenced by my long service in Germany to speak for Germany, but I am simply trying to set forth my observations and conclusions. I have no enmity for any of the warring nations or no personal end to serve.

"I was instructed by the state department definitely to make no investigation of atrocities reported to have occurred on the Belgian frontier which were initiatory to the reprisals of the German army occurring later in various cities of Belgium. I felt that the department would like to know the truth as it might be obtained by its representatives, impartially and from a disinterested standpoint. In response to a preliminary report explaining the presence of a number of representative American journalists at the consulate and the efforts to get their statements to America contradicting the atrocity reports sent out from London, Paris and Antwerp, I was instructed very positively to make neither investigation nor reports on such subjects.

Held Instructions Trivial.

"In view of the enormity of the charges made against Germany, intimate with the United States by blood relationship and vast material interests, I considered these instructions gratuitous and trivial in view of the great opportunity afforded me to learn the truth. It was my feeling that the attitude of the government was contrary to the spirit, and as soon as I found it possible to withdraw from the innumerable calls for my services I came to the United States and at once forwarded my resignation to the secretary of state.

"I am inclined to think that the American government is trying to be fair, but I believe that the conditions surrounding the war are so extraordinary that the whole proposition taken outside of the field of history is a precedent in international law. Under the laws, of course, we may technically supply the allies with arms, ammunition, and a full equipment, and we are doing so—to the end that a great friendly state and people may be destroyed. That is all right according to international law. But that law finds its foundation of enforcement upon the supreme expression of militarism, against the militarism of the sea.

Criticizes Washington.

"If we had at Washington a force of sufficient moral courage to rise above the precedent and rules of international law, which, after all, are nothing but the judgment of nations sufficiently strong to enforce them, I believe we could gradually prepare the way for peace between the combatants.

"It is very doubtful indeed if the United States as a political arbiter stands as well in the eyes of the combatants as Switzerland, Holland and Italy. Not an ounce of military material goes out of either of those countries to the belligerents. Germany certainly does not object to the manufacturers of the United States supplying her enemies with arms. She accepts the fact stoically and with deep regret that her navy does not permit her to prevent it.

"Nevertheless the moral position of the United States as a peacemaker and a good Samaritan is enormously weakened by the fact that she is one of the chief allies of the allies.

"Under international law the prevention of shipments of arms to the allies would be a violation of neutrality. I suppose it would be thus regarded; at least not as an act of overfriendship. Nevertheless I don't think any war would result from stopping shipments of arms to England. If it could be proved that the act was done for the purpose of shortening the war, neither England nor any other country could object to it.

Thinks Germany Misjudged.

"My only purpose in reviewing the situation is to get out of my system a deep conviction that Germany has been almost altogether misjudged on the general merits of the war, and specifically on the various subjects on which I intend to write, its military establishment, its ideals, and position. The subject matter will include the diplomatic and physical isolation of Germany, forced upon it by England, and which I consider to be the inevitable cause of the war. As early as 1912 I predicted a conflict of this kind, and was nearly removed from the consular service for it. As it was, I was transferred to England from Germany."

Mr. Thompson finally said that it was the supreme duty of the United States to see that international disarmament shall follow the war.

WASHINGTON IRVING

Great American Author, Exemplar of Right Living and Right Thinking. Wrote "Rip Van Winkle," "Life of George Washington," etc., etc.

Washington Irving Loved the Good Cheer of a Tavern.

CHARACTER OF IRVING SHOWN IN HIS BOOKS.

Washington Irving speaks of "the honest laughter in which a man indulges in that true temple of liberty, an inn." And when we remember the life and character of Irving we know what meaning to give his words. We do not give innocent feasting and drinking and honest merriment the meaning of gluttony and drunkenness and riotous behavior.

Bancroft says of Irving, "For more than fifty years he employed his pen as none other could have done and in all that time never wrote one line that was not as pure and chaste as the violets of Spring."

The barley brews and light wines such as provided good cheer in Washington Irving's inn have their counterpart in the natural beer of today.

A WISH COME TRUE
"A DRAUGHT BEER IN BOTTLES"
How many times have you wished that your bottled beer had that full, rich taste and savory fragrance of good beer drawn fresh from the wood?
Fitger Natural Beer is that "wish come true." Our Kieselguhr filter (first of its kind in America) filters beer through a substance called diatomes of Kieselguhr which catch every yeast germ and leaves only the pure, natural, fragrant liquid of the beer.
This simple and natural method does away with the old method of pasteurization which kills but does not eliminate yeast germs in bottle beer; which, by heat converts a splendid, fragrant beverage into a drink robbed of its natural character and taste.
Besides retaining the taste of the best draught beer Fitger Natural Beer retains the full, wholesome character of the ingredients of the natural beer.

PROPERTY OWNERS MAKE A PROTEST

Would Change Ordinance Barring Employment Offices Near Station.

Modification of the employment agency ordinance, so that agencies may be permitted on the upper side of Michigan street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, is asked in a petition to the city commission by Stryker, Manley & Buck, prominent realty operators of this city.

The petition, which is signed by every property holder on Michigan and Superior street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, was read to commissioners at the regular meeting yesterday afternoon. No action was taken, but the matter was tabled for future reference.

The employment agency ordinance, which was passed on April 13 of last year, prohibits the location of agencies in the block opposite the Union station, and it is the repeal of this part of the law that the petition asks. It is claimed that the property owners have lost considerable money because of the new ordinance, while the agent himself has been greatly handicapped as a result.

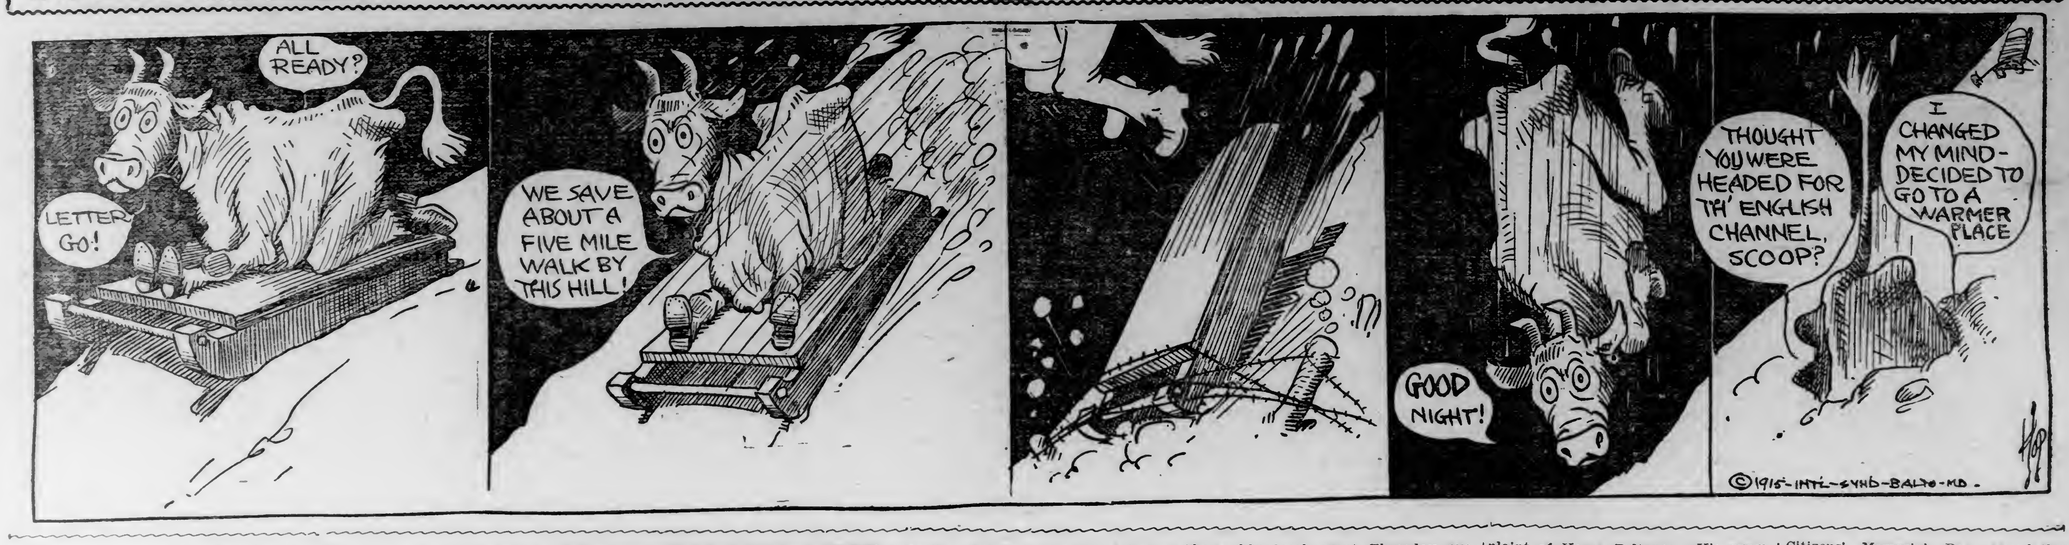

In the communication to the commission, Mr. Stryker states that the block on Michigan street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, is the logical place for agencies, as it is directly between two railroad stations and where all the cheaper hotels are located. He states further that the signers of the petition paid $13,418.58 in taxes on the property affected by the ordinance, and that these men paid a total of $42,000 in taxes last year on all the property they own in Duluth.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GAME FARMS ARE SOUGHT

North Dakota Game and Fish Commission Would Propagate Game.

Also Propose Law to Prevent Aliens From Carrying Weapons.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authority to establish a game farm for the propagation of additional game and their distribution over the state is sought by the members of the North Dakota game and fish board, who will go to Bismarck this week to appear before the game committees of both houses in behalf of such a measure.

They wish to carry on experiments in the propagation of ruffed grouse or partridge, quail and pheasants. There are many ruffed grouse in the Turtle mountain country now protected by a closed season. It is suggested there are other sections of the state especially adapted to these birds, if a proper distribution was made and protection assured. A number of private persons have grown quail successfully, but it is rather doubtful whether they are sufficiently hardy for this region. All kinds of pheasants thrive in this state.

The board is enthusiastic over a game refuge proposition that will provide for the establishment of refuges and reservations all over the state. They have prepared a measure that, upon the application of any landowner of the state, his property can be dedicated as a game refuge, or a number can unite in this for preserving lakes, and in that way create refuges for both land birds and waterfowl. When the property is dedicated for a game refuge, the game board will assume control and mark and protect the places. As this is purely a voluntary proposition, it will insure the establishment of game refuges in localities where an interest is taken in the movement, and the board will have help in protecting them.

Alien Gun Law.

An alien gun law is also proposed, to make it impossible for anyone not a citizen, or who has not applied for first citizenship papers, to carry a shotgun or rifle. This will not interfere with foreign residents who come here to make this their permanent home, but will exclude the transient labor class that so ruthlessly slaughters game, and will also, in addition to protecting game, have a tendency to prevent some of the murders and other tragedies around the railroad camps.

A further closed season on deer, an open season for trapping beaver, which have been protected so many years they are now doing damage to trees in some localities; licenses for fishermen, trappers and professional dog trainers are some of the new legislation that will be requested. There are a number of amendments suggested in order to make the game laws more effective and workable.

Several bills have already been introduced, the one attracting the most attention being that of Representative Kringen of Mountrail county, who would abolish the game board, the game wardens, the fish commissioner and all the present game law enforcers, and place that work in the hands of the sheriffs and the county supervisors. As all but two or three states of the Union have gotten away from the sheriff plan, it is not regarded likely that the legislature will adopt a retrogressive measure, and as the sheriffs are now on a salary proposition, some of them will object to being given extra work.

Many Licenses Issued.

In 1914 39,000 licenses were sold. This is about three-sevenths of the voting population of the state. It is probably a safe estimate that seven of ten license holders are thorough sportsmen. The game law enforcement in this state, as well as the propagation and distribution of fish, is financed entirely from the license fund, without any county or state appropriation. No resident of the state who does not hunt or no resident who does hunt except on his own land, pays anything at all toward game protection, which resolves the proposition down to where the sportsmen pay the bill and are practically the only ones interested.

MOORHEAD IN HOT LICENSE CONTEST

Wets and Drys Are Straining Every Effort in City Election.

Moorhead, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "wet" and "dry" fight is the big issue in the municipal election here Feb. 16. The question of the mayoralty is only secondary. At present Dr. Awty and Editor Melander are the candidates, with the chances largely favoring Awty's election. There has been considerable talk about John Vincent entering the race as the candidate for the "drys" but it is understood that he declines to make the race.

At first it was thought the "wets" would easily win the election, but the killing of Mrs. Hendrickson in Fargo by her husband, who had been drinking in Moorhead saloons, the blackballing of certain temperance workers by the wet element of the Commercial club, and other incidents have made sufficient impression to indicate a close fight.

A house-to-house canvass of the voters is being made and the "drys" believe they have a majority of seventy-eight votes. Another check up will be made next week. Both sides are working hard.

Wolf Stolen From Trap.

Grand Marais, Minn., Feb. 2.—A wolf was stolen out of a trap belonging to Henry Westerlund of Hovland. It is believed that this is the wolf brought in by a lumberjack coming from the Pigeon two weeks ago, who said he had shot it while on the road, and received the bounty.

UNIVERSITY BUDGET IS SLIGHTLY LESS

Decreased Sum of $94,614 Is Asked By University Authorities.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—Economy entered into the preparation of the 1914-1915 budget issued Monday by the regents and administrative officials of the University of Minnesota to the extent of $94,614.

The budget total is $3,887,450, the decrease being a compromise with the school expenses during the 1913-1914 period. The present request of the university heads shows a figure which is $410,720 less than the budget of two years ago.

For Agricultural Purposes.

Of the total requested appropriations for the coming two years, 35 per cent will be expended for agricultural purposes.

In addition to $76,200 requested from the state legislature, Federal appropriations of $75,000 will be used for agricultural extension purposes.

KOOCHICHING WILL LET DITCHING JOBS

Contracts for Ditches Amounting to Over $500,000 Planned.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 2.—Contracts calling for the expenditure of more than half a million dollars will be let in Koochiching county this week for judicial ditch construction. The contracts will include ditches Nos. 14, 17, 18 and 20.

According to O. L. Dent, referee in ditch matters, a large number of contractors will bid for the jobs and the competition will be keen. Estimates on the cost of the construction of the four projects total $549,762, and the drains in all will be about 211 miles long.

One 100 Miles Long.

One of the ditches, No. 18, will be built at a cost of approximately $280,484 and will be 101 miles long; No. 14 will be 53.6 miles long, the estimated cost being $136,929; No. 17 will be 37.5 miles long, the estimated cost being $86,908, while No. 20 will be 20 miles long and will cost about $46,369. The total number of acres to be benefited by the completion of the ditches will number 261,384, while the cost of construction will total $549,762.

BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Bowman County, N. D., Judgeship Still in Courts.

Bowman, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although E. P. Totten was elected county judge over Judge Deihl the latter is holding the office. When Totten got ready to assume the office Deihl started a contest and refused to relinquish the position on the ground that Totten had violated the corrupt practice act in that he had bribed the voters in public speeches and by advertisements with the statement that if elected he would draw less than authorized by the present law. This, according to Judge Deihl, makes Totten ineligible to the position. Totten brought mandamus proceedings against Deihl and won before Judge Crawford, but Deihl appealed to the supreme court and the matter may not be heard till the latter part of the month or some time in March. In the meantime, Deihl continues to perform the duties of the office.

FARE ORDER RESCINDED.

No More Thirteen Rides for Fifty Cents on Milwaukee Car Line.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 2.—The order of the Wisconsin railroad commission, issued in 1912, providing for the issuance by the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company of thirteen tickets for 50 cents was rescinded yesterday by the same commission.

Additions of physical property by the company is given as the principal reason by the commission for the rescinding of the order.

IS KILLED BY TRAIN.

Jamestown Man Run Down Between Moorhead and Dilworth.

Moorhead, Minn., Feb. 2.—The funeral of Frank Belotta, aged 45, of Jamestown, N. D., who was run down and killed by a Northern Pacific train Friday afternoon while walking on the track between Moorhead and Dilworth, was held here yesterday, with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Belotta was walking towards Dilworth and was on the south side of the eastbound track when Engineer Truman of No. 4 first noticed him. He was just stepping upon the track, and the engineer blew the whistle and applied the brakes.

It was impossible to stop the train after Belotta stepped over, as he was less than 200 feet in front of the engine. The body was brought to Moorhead.

Coroner Vincent investigated the accident and did not hold an inquest, as no blame attaches to anyone except the unfortunate man himself. The coroner found in the dead man's pocket a pass from Jamestown to St. Paul that had been punched for the first stage of the trip.

Belotta was a Northern Pacific section hand at Jamestown.

KELLY WILL PROTEST AGAINST ALLOWANCE.

Devils Lake, N. D., Feb. 2.—Col. Joseph M. Kelly has left for Washington, where he will appear before the proper committee and protest against the allowance which it is proposed to make small railroads for carrying the mails. Col. Kelly says that if the proposed law goes through, his railroad will sustain a heavy loss each year for transporting the mails from here to Hansboro.

GRAND MARAIS BANK HAS CHANGED HANDS.

Grand Marais, Minn., Feb. 2.—John A. Blackwell has purchased the Cook County State bank stock formerly owned by A. M. Anderson and others, and has been elected to the office of cashier. Mr. Blackwell has associated with him H. L. Wombacher, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, and represents a majority of the bank stock.

A. M. Anderson, who has had charge of the bank as cashier for the last three years, has also sold his one-half interest in the land company to Mr. Blackwell, the latter gentleman having been elected secretary and treasurer.

SUNDAY TRAIN APPEAL CASE BEING HEARD.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hearing on the appeal of the Great Northern Railway company from the order of the railroad and warehouse commission, reinstating the Sunday train on the Fosston line between East Grand Forks and Duluth, began Monday in district court before Judge Dickson.

Sunday service on this line was discontinued Nov. 22, 1914.

Leo Baer, a merchant of Crookston, testifying in behalf of the railroad company, declared that the business interests of Crookston do not need Sunday railway service.

KILLS HIMSELF AS HIS WIFE LOOKS ON.

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 2.—Standing before a mirror, in the presence of his wife, Rube Lewis, an old-time resident here, blew out his brains at his home here yesterday. Insanity is believed to have been the cause. Lewis was for many years an undertaker and came from Pennsylvania. He was about 60.

Bank Deputy Under Knife.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—H. S. Quigley, deputy state superintendent of banks, was taken to St. Luke's hospital yesterday, suffering from appendicitis, to be operated on.

FARGO'S ARMORY WILL BE DEDICATED THURSDAY.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dedication of the new armory and the thirty-fourth annual military ball by Company B will be a big local event Thursday evening. The local militiamen have sent out invitations to the members of the other militia organizations of the state and all the leading officers are expected to attend. The new armory was recently completed. It is the largest and claimed to be the best equipped armory in the state.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Sioux Falls, S. D.—The authorities have been advised of the surrender to the police of Kansas City of Richard Bleskahek, alias Richard Miller, a paroled convict from the South Dakota penitentiary, who violated his parole about a year ago and disappeared. It is presumed by Warden Swenson that he surrendered himself because he was weary of being a fugitive.

Rapid City, S. D.—Accused of forgery and check raising, W. C. Gilmore was returned to Corson county after his arrest here on telegraphic authority. Gilmore is charged with forging the name of his father who resides at Wakpala to a deed conveying 320 acres in Stanley county to his wife. It is charged that he previously raised $1,300 on the same land by a different transaction and was seeking to transfer it to his wife to check her suit for non-support.

Starkweather, N. D.—Several members of T. J. Dougherty's family here were nearly asphyxiated as the result of gas escaping from a furnace, the door of which had been blown open by an explosion.

Bismarck, N. D.—There is a movement among some of the members of the legislature to extend an invitation to James J. Hill, Louis W. Hill, Jules Hannaford and Edmund Pennington to appear before the legislature in a joint session and give their ideas upon immigration to the state.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The final semester examination commenced at the university Saturday morning and will continue throughout this week, ending Saturday afternoon, Feb. 6.

Fargo, N. D.—Rev. J. H. Flower of St. Louis, Mo., and superintendent of the Light House mission, at that place, is conducting special revival services all this week at Glad Tidings mission. Rev. Mr. Flower is a former classmate of Rev. O. E. McCracken and has been in Fargo before.

Ryder, N. D.—Mrs. Elizabeth L. Sweet, wife of Kay C. Sweet, of this place, died Saturday at the Northwestern hospital, Minneapolis. Her husband, three sons, John C. Sweet, De Cyril F. Sweet of Minot, and Alfred J. Sweet of Auburn, Me., and two daughters, Mrs. Clara Carlson of Calumet, Mich., and Mrs. Francis P. Hoerr of Mankato, Minn., survive her. The remains were taken to Fort Wayne, Ind., for burial.

Fargo, N. D.—O. A. Olson, local merchant, arrested on the charge of having violated the pure advertising law, was found not guilty in county court before Judge Hanson. The charge, which was brought by several local merchants, maintained that Mr. Olson sold a black dog skin muff as a black wolf muff.

Grand Forks, N. D.—W. S. Begg, H. W. Randall, A. L. Larson and Paul Griffith have left Washington, where they will attend the sessions of the United States Chamber of Commerce. They are representatives of the local Commercial club which is a member of the chamber.

Minot, N. D.—The Normal School Boys' club has been organized with these officers: President, Paul Sanford; vice president, Herbert Phelps; secretary, Harold Myers; treasurer, Otto Rom.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—A young girl residing on West Washington street contracted smallpox last week. She was ill in school and after she had been at home for a day her case was diagnosed. The home has been quarantined. The first case of smallpox in Marquette this winter was reported to the health department about two weeks ago. The patient has recovered.

Negaunee—"Bones" Hulkonen, a Negaunee junk dealer, is held in the city jail, charged with stealing silverware from Charles Thoren, Sr. The silver is valued at $160.

Iron Mountain—Gust Glaser, a section man employed by the Northwestern road here, had his right leg broken below the knee when the motor car on which he was riding collided with a locomotive at the crossing of the St. Paul Quinnesec track and the Northwestern loop line at the signal tower near Lake Antoine.

Ishpeming—Miss Bertha Ruez, who has been a patient in a Chicago hospital for two weeks past, has arrived home accompanied by her sister, Miss Emma Ruez, who is employed in Chicago as a trained nurse.

Marquette — Undersheriff Litchard and Deputy McGrath of Mackinac county, brought to the Marquette penitentiary Saturday afternoon Mike Pavlock and Frank Tannas. Their sentences are one to ten years, with two years recommended. They were convicted at the January term of the Mackinac county circuit court of a charge of committing great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder.

Houghton—The funeral of Capt. Louis Slock took place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Ignatius church to Forest Hill cemetery. Mrs. S. S. Robinson of St. Croix Falls, Wis., a sister of the deceased arrived to attend the funeral.

Chassell—A night school in commercial work has been organized by Supt. Goddard. Several local men are taking advantage of this opportunity. A small fee is charged. Classes are conducted two Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Calumet—Rev. A. B. Penniman of the Calumet Congregational church and assistants plan to increase the scope of the work of the church. The community has been districted, each district with its separate organization or board, presided over by a chairman. District meetings will be held and attempts will be made to arouse more interest in the work of the church.

Houghton—The 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lentila of Hurontown fell into a tub of hot water and was scalded severely.

Calumet—Charged with assault and battery and highway robbery, Hjalmar Jankkila was arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. O. Jackola on complaint of Henry Peltonen. His examination was set for Wednesday. Peltonen claimed that on Tuesday night Jankkila held him up near the Copper Range railway station, Calumet, and, after knocking him and mauling him considerably, relieved him of $9 in cash.

Crystal Falls—A petition asking that the C. & N. W. company erect a new passenger station in this city was circulated by R. B. Webb and Dan Neely and freely signed by the business men and residents in general.

Baraga—Sumner L. Kidder, who has served as assistant cashier in the Baraga County State bank since August 31, 1914, has been elected to the cashiership of the State Savings bank of Dowaglac, Mich.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Kenosha—A large quantity of mail matter of all classes was completely destroyed by fire at the village of Truesdell, just west of Kenosha, on Saturday, when a car attached to one of the fast trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road took fire.

Grand Rapids—Miss Mabel Ferguson, aged 22, of Plainfield, committed suicide by taking chloroform. Her family can assign no reason for her act. She recently became assistant in the postoffice.

Babcock—John Corbett of South Milwaukee, is making preparations to start work early in the spring, on the drainage of cranberry marsh near here. He will remove 1,000,000 cubic yards of dirt and must complete the job in three years. Three dredges will be kept constantly at work.

Washburn—The Kenfield-Lamoreaux company of this city has begun operating its sawmill plant night and day and will continue to operate on the double shift during the winter.

Rhinelander—Great progress is being made in Oneida county, agriculturally, according to W. D. Juday, county representative. Two communities have made headway of particular note. At Jennings they are looking for more and better cattle and are asking for pedigreed seeds for next year's sowing.

Marinette—Mrs. Emerson Place and her 6-months-old baby narrowly escaped death when a coal stove in the kitchen of her home exploded.

Oshkosh—Mrs. Frances Mueller, aged 72, dropped dead Sunday morning. She was on her way to work in an uptown establishment.

Florence—Sunday was the fifty-fourth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Damon Fisher, pioneer residents of Florence. Mr. Fisher is now 82 years of age and Mrs. Fisher is 72. Four years ago they celebrated their golden wedding and entertained hundreds of people from all over the country.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

New Ulm—It is reported that Fred Pfaender will be recommended for postmaster in New Ulm to succeed Philip Liesch, whose term expires in March. Fred Lynch is said to have agreed to recommend Mr. Pfaender to President Wilson.

Spooner—Nels Overson and Nels Benson living southwest of Carp were in town looking for a purchaser for the hides of three black bears, which they recently secured. The bears were found in the den and the mother and two cubs were shot.

Stillwater—Secretary Doe of the Citizens' Memorial Day association has received a letter from Governor Winfield S. Hammond, saying that he accepts the invitation of the committee to deliver the Memorial day address at the exercises on the court house grounds.

International Falls—The superintendents of the various schools of the county were here Saturday in conference with Miss Shelland, county superintendent. Among them were A. T. Haley of Loman, H. E. Pierce of Birchdale, J. D. Lowe of Indus and Mr. Davis of Littlefork.

Badger—Several school districts in Roseau county have consolidated, the latest being at Roosevelt, and the sentiment for consolidation here is growing.

St. Cloud—Twenty dollars worth of revenue stamps were necessary before a deed from Peter Van Hec and wife to George J. Andrews could be filed with the register of deeds here. The deed was for $28,000 covering 316.45 acres in Paynesville. There was an $8,000 mortgage also filed so that the stamps covered a $20,000 transaction.

Hallock—George Bruce, employed at the Hill farm, froze his hands last Wednesday while endeavoring to hold a runaway team of horses. He was teaming about the farm when the horses broke away and in order to get a better grip on the lines took off his gloves and in a two-mile race in the cold air his hands froze.

Bemidji—Sherm Bailey of Bemidji, for many years game warden for this section of the state, has been notified that he is one of the seven game wardens to retain position with the game and fish commission. With the exception of the seven, many well known wardens, including Billy Munch of Crookston, are out of office, the cause being lack of funds with which to carry on the work of game protection. Bailey is the only warden in this section of the state who is retained.

Rochester—At the meeting of the Southeastern Minnesota Educational association, held here, Red Wing was selected as the convention city for 1916. The following officers were chosen: President, Supt. O. W. Herr of Red Wing; vice president, Supt. E. B. Feeney of Chatfield; secretary-treasurer, Supt. L. L. Sloniger of Hastings.

Crookston—The United States land office here has rendered a decision in favor of Perry Austin, whose homestead claim in the town of Winsor, Clearwater county, was contested by A. E. Roese, formerly publisher of a newspaper at McIntosh, now of Long Prairie, Minn. The case has attracted considerable attention and the outcome has been looked forward to with much interest by homesteaders in this section.

Moorhead—Officers of all the farmers' clubs in Clay county will be asked to meet at Hawley on the afternoon of Feb. 20. They will be addressed by A. D. Wilson, head of the extension division of the Minnesota Agricultural college and state leader of county agents.

St. Cloud—By a vote of 208 to 70 the voters of the St. Cloud independent school district directed the issuance of $10,000 bonds to make possible an addition to the Lincoln school on the East side.

Krielfall; secretary-treasurer, G. J. Hodorff; directors, F. J. Popp, August Sauer. The creamery last year sold $18,289 worth of butter.

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP---25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save Your Hair! Make It Grow Luxuriant and Beautiful.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

CLOSE CALL THIS MAN'S

Struck By Pilot of Engine and Rolled, Gust Maki Is Not Killed.

Sleeping Off Potions on Track Near Orr When Train Hits Him.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although he was rolled between the tracks for more than fifty feet by the pilot of a locomotive pulling a south-bound logging train on the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad last night, Gust Kaki, a woods laborer, will live; he sustained only a slight injury. He was intoxicated and had started to walk east from Orr on the track when he was overcome by the liquor and fell asleep between the rails. His prostrate body was not observed by the engineer until the locomotive was nearly upon him and when the emergency brakes were applied and the train brought to a standstill with such a shock that the conductor and rear brakeman in the caboose were thrown from their seats. The engine crew turned their heads when they saw the pilot strike Maki.

Partially Under Pilot.

When the train was controlled he was unconscious in front of the pilot and partially pinioned under it. He was badly bruised and shaken up, but at the McIntyre hospital here, where he was brought, it was reported this morning that his injuries were not serious and that he would be confined only a short time.

The fact that recent snows had packed between the tracks saved Maki from being mangled to death.

WORK STARTED ON GILBERT'S PLANT

Plans to Improve Village's Water Service Have Been Started.

Gilbert, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Actual work on the new $30,000 filtration plant began here yesterday under the supervision of G. A. Arnolds, who will be the engineer on the grounds for Kimball & Fay, Chisholm, consulting engineers for the village.

In digging the trenches, instead of bucking the frost, Mr. Kimball, said that he would follow the plan used by Virginia and sink shafts from ten to fifteen feet deep and then drift. He says that he believes the world could be done much cheaper in this way.

Electrically Driven Pumps.

The filtration plant, which will be similar to the one at Chisholm, but only one-half of its capacity, will have two lower service pumps of 250 horse power, electrically driven, to pump the water in from Ely lake to the clear well and two high-service pumps the same as the lower-service ones to pump the water from the clear well into the filtration tank. The plant will have an intake of 800 feet of water with a depth of thirty feet and the water will be pure before it gets into the filtration tank.

The plant will have three-quarters of a mile of ten-inch pipe for supply. The filtration tank will be supplied with a chloride alum treatment. The plant will have an exceptionally large clear well to furnish the supply for fire-fighting purposes, but the tank will be small.

EVELETH CURLERS MEETING HIBBING

Final Games for the McDonald Trophy Will Be Played.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth curling club will meet the Hibbing curlers tonight in the final games for the McDonald trophy. With Virginia disposed of so easily, the Eveleth curlers have plenty of confidence and expect to have a lead over Hibbing when the scores of the eight games are totaled.

Although three Eveleth rinks out of eight were defeated by Virginia Saturday for the trophy the total of the scores gave Eveleth a lead of 17. The five rinks that won piled up large scores and more than overcame the lead of the three winning Virginia skips.

E. O. Greening with Lyons, Schmidt and Anderson are curling a Hibbing rink this afternoon at Eveleth. Tonight Pratt with W. J. Davey, Trevarrow and Wilson; Van Slyke with Schulze, Morril and Eddy, and Hatch with Johnson, Nelson and West will play Hibbing rinks at Eveleth, while Loye with Cornwell, Dungan and Anderson; H. Murray with W. Murray, Sundlie and Farley; Robb with Peterson, Hellstrom and Eklund; Campbell with T. H. Davey, Andrews and W. Malloy will curl at Hibbing.

The same special car that will take the Eveleth curlers to Hibbing will carry the Eveleth bartenders to Hibbing for a contest on the bowling alleys. On a visit here a few days ago the Hibbing mixers trimmed Eveleth and there is considerable rivalry.

MAY ORDER MATERIAL.

Expected Hibbing Council Will Close Contracts for Sewer Supplies.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contracts for the material for the Alice sewers probably will be let by the council tonight.

Providing the village has secured the necessary information relative to the legal status of the Carnegie library and its connection with the Carnegie library corporation of New York, the appropriation asked by the library board for the ensuing year will be considered. The board asked for an appropriation of $10,000.

If a location for an incinerator has been selected, it is probable that new bids for its construction will be ordered advertised.

ENJOINS POWER CO.

International Falls Would Prevent Machinery From Blocking Street.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 2.—An order has been secured in district court by the city restraining the Minnesota & Ontario Power company from blockading First street at the dock with its pulpwood conveyer until a hearing can be had in the district court on Feb. 8, when an effort will be made to secure a permanent injunction to prevent the company from appropriating the portion of the street to its own use.

Representatives of the company recently applied to the council for permission to cross the street with the conveyer. The company has for a long time wanted the council to vacate the stub of a street, the only value of which is its river frontage, but has never been able to get together with the city fathers in the matter, the majority of the council holding out against the latest request of the company, with the resultant restraining order.

EARTHQUAKE HIS UNDOING.

Virginia Italian, Crazed Over Calamity, Goes to Drinking.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anthony Givanni, a homeless Italian who asked Sergeant Boden at the local police station for a place to sleep last night was given a bed at police headquarters and he told a pathetic story.

Givanni said he lost his parents in the Italian earthquake. Until that time he was working in a bakery at Virginia. Hearing of this news he got drunk, he said, to drown his sorrows. He declared that he had saved $235. Failing to appear for one week his employer dismissed him and since that time he had been drinking and spending money recklessly.

"Tomorrow," he said, "I will begin looking for a job. I didn't mean to get stewed, but when the demon once got me, I got wild. It was useless for any one to argue with me. My parents are dead. It is sad, but I expected that under a strain I could bear up better than I did. I'm not entirely gone yet and I expect to brace up and be a man for once and always."

DISTRACTED MOTHER SEEKS HER DAUGHTER

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Police searching for Miss Lucinda Woods of Keewatin, who is missing from her home and is said to have eloped with a man of that place, have been notified that the couple were seen boarding a Mesaba electric car here for Virginia Sunday afternoon. It is now believed that they have gone to a claim of the young man's located near the Canadian line.

Mrs. M. Hall, mother of the girl, is frantic, and with the aid of the police and other volunteers has scoured range villages in the hope of finding some clew which will lead to the discovery of her daughter. She told the police that it is probable that the couple went to Port Arthur, Ont., whither she left last night.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents and gives you a full pint—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HINE GOES TO VIRGINIA

Duluthian Secures Control of the Fay Hotel in That City.

C. A. Hine, former chief clerk of the Spalding, today closed a deal that gives him possession of the Fay hotel of Virginia.

Mr. Hine has purchased the hotel from Walter J. Markham, one of the former owners of the Hotel St. Louis of this city.

For the last five years Mr. Hine has been employed at the Spalding. He is president of the Minnesota Hotel Clerks' association and one of the best known hotel clerks in the Middle West.

While Mr. Hine stated today that he regretted exceedingly parting with some of the staunch friends he has made in Duluth, he believed he is making a good chice in Virginia and that the business opening is a most promising one.

Since coming to Duluth Mr. Hine has made a host of friends who will regret to hear of his departure. Mr. Hine was one of the chief organizers of the Duluth Hotel Greeters and has ever worked for the best interests of the hotel business.

Roy Quigley becomes chief clerk of the Spalding with the departure of Mr. Hine. L. T. Funk of the Hotel St. Louis succeeds Mr. Hine as treasurer of the Duluth Hotel Men's association, the election of Mr. Funk being held at a meeting of the Duluth hotel clerks last evening.

The Fay hotel is one of the largest hostelries on the range. Mr. Hine is sole proprietor and will have the active management of the hotel.

DISTRICT COURT AT HIBBING OPENS

Calendar Called and Judicial Decks Are Cleared for Action.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The February term of district court was opened here today by Judge Hughes, Deputy District Clerk Holloway and other court officials with a good-sized sprinkling of attorneys from Duluth and other outside points in attendance.

During the morning Judge Hughes called the calendar and generally cleared up pending motions preparatory to beginning jury trials tomorrow when the petit jury will report. Six-teen civil actions were continued, five advanced on the calendar and three stricken off.

The divorce case of L. R. Oliver vs. William Oliver was heard today. Later in the day the grand jury may be charged and placed at work investigating alleged infractions of the laws of the state. The court officials anticipate a long and busy session of court.

DANCE FOR CHARITY.

Biwabik Firemen Will Give Ball Proceeds to Associated Charities.

Biwibak, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik volunteer fire department will give their seventh annual ball next Friday evening in the gymnasium of the high school, under the direction of the Biwabik Associated Charities.

The music will be furnished by Kraft & Abbarat's seven-piece orchestra.

The tickets will be $1, and it is hoped a large sum can be raised, as the Associated Charities are doing good work and need all the financial assistance they can receive.

CHISHOLM NOTES.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ragtime club entertained a large number of guests at a dance last evening at the Chisholm opera house.

Dr. A. W. Graham who has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks suffering from pneumonia, left Monday for the South.

Eveleth Chess Players.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chess is getting to be quite popular in Eveleth. The city has three veteran players and a club was organized early in the winter. A board was kept at the Glode hotel and nearly every evening found a game in progress. County Commissioner Pentila is one of the game's newest recruits.

BEAR RIVER SEEKS PHONE CONNECTION

Question of Building Rural Line to Chisholm or Hibbing Agitated.

Bear River, Minn., Feb. 2.—Secretary Brude of the Bear River Farmers' club has been in communication with the officials of the Mesaba Telephone company at Duluth in reference to the probable cost of constructing a telephone from Togo through Bear River to either Hibbing or Chisholm where it would connect with the line of that company.

F. E. Lister, manager for the telephone company suggests the organization of a local rural telephone company to construct the line and that his company would handle the local range business on a 5-cent call exchange basis, with the long distance business subject to the regular rates. The company now has connection with several rural telephone companies on this basis and it is proving very satisfactory.

Gathers Cost Data.

As to the probable cost of the line Mr. Brude gathered data which was sent Mr. Lister.

Lists are already out soliciting probable stockholders and those who will install telephones in their homes, and thus far the efforts have been so successful the committee feels justified in calling a meeting to organize a rural telephone company to construct the line, and this meeting is called to be held at this place Saturday, Feb. 6, at 2:30 in the afternoon. Every farmer in the Bear River country who is interested in the development of this section is expected at the meeting.

VIRGINIA-CHISHOLM DEBATE WEDNESDAY.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much interest is manifest in the Virginia-Chisholm high schools debate on the subject of government ownership, which will be given at the high school auditorium Wednesday evening. The local team, John Lipovetz, Burton Freedy and Wilbur Hayes, will defend the affirmative of the question. A musical program will be given by the high school musical organizations, under the direction of Miss Brandenburg and Miss Clark.

DOCTORS COULD NOT SAVE YOUNG HEPP.

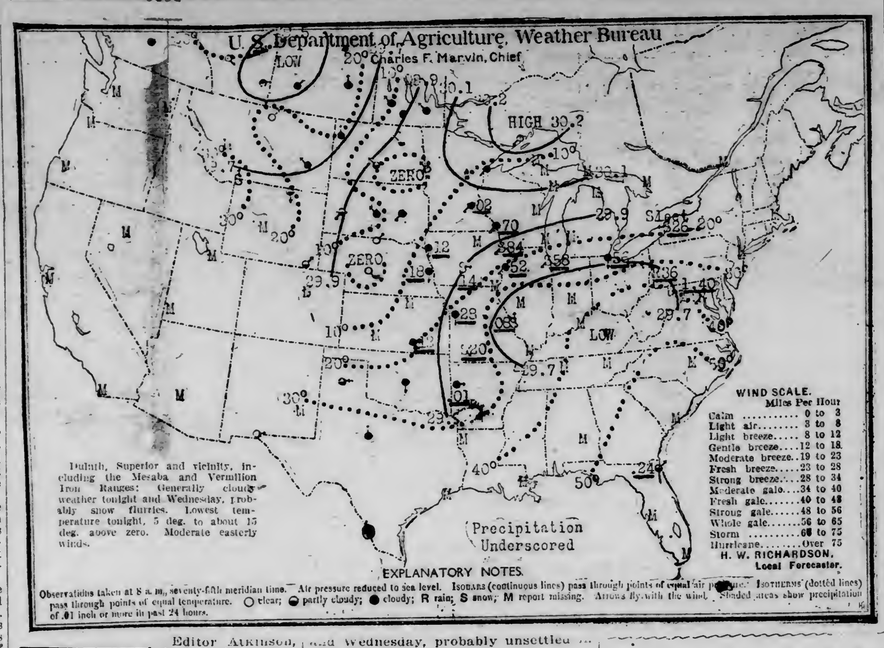

Mountain Iron, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although three doctors were called, Shaw of Buhl, Lenont of Virginia, and Parsons of Mountain Iron, they could not save Adolph Hepp, who died yesterday, as stated in Monday's Herald, of blood clot on the brain due to over exertion in a basket ball game Jan. 19, having been unconscious most of the time since the game.

He was 23 years old and leaves his mother and four or five brothers and sisters. He was a member of the Mountain Iron band and the main support of his family.

TOWER'S ELECTION RATHER TAME AFFAIR.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city election being held today has not developed much interest up to noon as there is only one candidate for mayor and one for treasurer, the chief offices to be filled. The candidates are: For mayor, Albert Weinzierl; aldermen, Joseph Stonich, P. E. Morin, Andrew Bystrom, William Hill and George Hunter; recorder, Charles Lang and E. S. Johnson; treasurer, Julius Pearson; municipal judge, G. B. Heath and J. A. Quinn; assessor, Alex Wagner and Arvid Anderson.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

Editor Atkinson, of the "old man hereof" of the Mesaba Ore, published at Hibbing, said in his latest issue:

"If this winter weather were any more ideal, we'd sure have to charge an admission fee."

That is about the way one feels today concerning weather conditions. With the sun shining brightly, and just enough frost to make the walking good and the blood to tingle, and not making it necessary to rub the ears, nose or other exposed and projecting parts, nothing much better could be asked.

A heavy snow fell a year ago today. The sun rose this morning at 7:32 and will set this evening at 5:12, giving nine hours and forty minutes of sunlight. The ten-hour day will begin a week from today.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm centered over the Ohio Valley has caused considerable rain, sleet and snow over the lake region, Central and Eastern states during the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours. This disturbance has greatly demoralized telegraphic facilities and the reports from the East, South and West are not available. Colder weather prevails in Central states, but throughout the Northwest the temperature has risen rather decidedly in connection with the barometric depression overlying Alberta."

General Forecast.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Minnesota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probably unsettled in east portion.

Wisconsin—Probably snow tonight and Wednesday; fresh northerly winds.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; warmer in east and south portions.

South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; warmer Wednesday and in west portions tonight.

Montana—Mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, probably rain or snow in west portion; warmer tonight; fresh winds.

Shipper's Forecast—Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishable produce against temperatures ranging from about zero to 15 deg. above in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

BEAR RIVER FARMERS' CLUB ORGANIZED

Bear River, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bear River Farmers' club was organized here last night with a membership of 100. The following officers were elected: President, Albert Weinzierl; vice president, Joseph Stonich; secretary, Peter Brude; treasurer, Julius Pearson; executive committee, Albert Weinzierl, Joseph Stonich, Peter Brude, Julius Pearson and Alex Wagner.

The club will meet every two weeks and will discuss matters pertaining to the farm and farming. The club will also take up the matter of securing a rural telephone line to Chisholm or Hibbing.

ADDITIONAL ENGINE ON LOGGING WORK.

Biwabik, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The N. B. Shank & company, loggers, have owing to the increase of their logging operations put on an additional engine, making two now, and they are kept busy with the long haulage from Saari Brothers' camp to the Duluth & Iron Range transfer and all spurs off the Shank main track.

VIRGINIA HORSES FALL INTO LAKE.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—A team of horses belonging to W. L. Smith, for several years barn boss for the Oliver Iron Mining company, barely escaped drowning when they broke through the ice on Silver lake over which they were being driven. They were hitched to a sled loaded with ties and that also broke through into the lake. The horses were in the cold water over an hour before they could be rescued with the aid of another team. Thoroughly chilled by their icy bath and worn out with struggling, it was necessary to work on the horses for several hours before they could be made to stand up.

UNDERGROUND DIGGER IS GIVEN SOME TESTS.

Virginia, Minn., Feb 2.—The Rex Loading & Engineering company tried out the newly invented underground digger of which Samuel Hoar is the inventor, at the machine shops of the Cole & McDonald Exploration company, yesterday.

A successful machine for underground mining has not yet been invented although several attempts have been made in that direction. Should this machine invented by Mr. Hoar prove successful, there will be much demand for it, according to several mining men hereabouts.

BAD COLD? GET RELIEF AT ONCE WITHOUT QUININE

"Pape's Cold Compound" Ends Severe Colds or Grippe in Few Hours.

You can end grippe and break up a severe cold either in head, chest, body or limbs, by taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

FOUR ALDERMEN TO BE RECALLED

Unemployed Said to Be Back of Movement Against Quartet.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four local aldermen are said to be facing recall unless at tonight's council meeting they vote with the other aldermen to construct sewers in Chestnut street alleys to give work to the unemployed, according to John Bilto, a former bartender, living at 110 Pine street, who claims to be acting for the unemployed. He says that there have been prepared four petitions seeking the recall of Aldermen Harvey, Coffey, McGhee and Matheson, and they will at once be circulated unless these aldermen get into line tonight. He says there are 700 unemployed in Virginia, clamoring for work, and these aldermen will not heed them. Bilto's figures as to the number of unemployed are said to be exorbitant, as there are not many idle in town anxious to work, but the whole matter will again be the center of the proceedings at tonight's council meeting. Bilto has called a meeting of unemployed at Socialists' hall for next Thursday evening to discuss the proposition of recalling the aldermen if favorable action is not taken.

KINNEY WILL BUILD WATER WORKS PLANT.

Kinney, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—This village yesterday voted $20,000 to build a municipal water works system. It is proposed instead of getting water from the Canisia mine as at present, to install a standard system of deep wells.

VIRGINIA POLICE MEETING ADJOURNED.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the absence of Commissioner Poirier the meeting of the police and fire commission scheduled for last night to hear Police Chief Gateley's annual report and act on applicctions for salary reorganizations was postponed until next Monday night.

VIRGINIA GAS PLANT NOW GIVING SERVICE.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's municipal gas plant, erected at a cost of $60,000, was put into service today. The mains stood a pressure of sixty pounds and the system when in complete working order promises to come fully up to expectations.

EVELETH GAS FRANCHISE WILL COME UP AGAIN.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gas franchise which the council is considering granting to Lynch & Kennedy will come before the city council again at its meeting tonight. A report that the Virginia municipal gas plant can furnish gas to Eveleth at 75 cents, delivered at the plant, may be a cause for further delay on the franchise if those opposing its passage show that Virginia can give this service.

Plan Poultry Association.

Bear River, Minn., Feb. 2.—The farmers of the town of Bearville are planning to organize a poultry and egg association. The project has been discussed considerably and it is very likely a meeting will be held at an early date to perfect an organization. The Bear River Farmers' club hope to have H. G. Larson, agricultural agent for St. Louis county, at its next meeting, Saturday evening, Feb. 20.

Crosby Woman Dies.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Nellie Anderson, wife of J. A. Anderson of Crosby, died at a local hospital Saturday from a complication of diseases. She was 20 years old. She was born in Minnesota, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sjodin, and spent most of her life in the state. She leaves no children.

Last Chisholm Number.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chicago male quartet, Elias Breclin, director; Frank Barnard, tenor; Frank H. Collins, baritone; and W. O. Smith, basso; will appear at the high school auditorium this evening in the final number of the high school entertainment course.

Eveleth Lodge Dance.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Degree of Honor lodge will give a dance at the Auditorium Wednesday evening. The lodge has been growing in strength in Eveleth, and the committee in charge is working hard to make the party a success.

To Decide on Franchise.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council tonight is expected to decide whether to grant a franchise for a gas plant to John Kennedy of Virginia or Tom Lynch of Eveleth.

STUDY AND EXERCISE

Study does not hurt a child unless the study time is taken from time that should be spent in out-of-door exercise.

Overstudy and lack of exercise make thin, bloodless children. It is a combination that provokes St. Vitus' dance.

If your child is thin and pale, listless, inattentive, has a fickle appetite and is unable to stand still or sit still, you must remember that health is even more important than education.

See to it at once that the patient does not overstudy, gets at least two hours out-of-door exercise every day, sleeps ten hours out of every twenty-four and takes a non-alcoholic tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills until the color returns to cheeks and lips and the appetite becomes normal.

For growing children who become pale and thin Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not only safe but in the great majority of cases that are the very best tonic that can be taken. They build up the blood and strengthen the nerves and assist nature in keeping pace with rapid growth.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send you two books on the blood and nerves if you mention this paper. If your child is very young ask for the booklet "The Care of the Baby." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

WAR INCREASES POSTAL SAVINGS

One Hundred Thousand Persons Added to List of Depositors.

Washington, Feb. 2.—One of the effects of the European war has been a phenomenal growth in the postal savings system in this country. Since the outbreak of the war more than 100,000 persons have been added to the lists of depositors in postal savings banks and the total deposits have increased nearly $2,000,000 a month.

During the fiscal year ending June 10, 1914, postal deposits increased about $9,600,000, or 28 per cent. During the six months from July 1 to January $15,750,000, or an increase of 36 per cent was added to the aggregate savings in the keeping of the government. The European war more than doubled the rate of increase.

The August figures showed a net gain in deposits of $4,000,000—four times the average gain; September and October rolled up over $3,500,000 each, and while November and December felt the usual holiday drain, these months nevertheless show more than twice the normal receipts, or about $2,000,000 each.

These facts are regarded by postal authorities as argument in behalf of the legislation now pending, which modifies the existing limitations on the amount that may be accepted from depositors. In all the large cities scores of would-be depositors have been turned away because they offered larger amounts than the law permitted postmasters to accept. If the restriction limiting to $100 the deposit which may be made in a single month is removed and if the maximum single interest-bearing deposit be increased from $500 to $1,000, as proposed in the pending legislation, the business public will reap a still larger benefit from the operations of the postal banks.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled wtih uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

FRESH HIGH RECORDS SET IN MARKET PRICES

Market Scores Big Bulge on Export Buying and Short Covering.

Upturn in Flaxseed Renewed With Demand From Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 2.—The market took another sharp upturn at the close on urgent buying. May wheat closed 4¾c up and July 4¼c up. May durum closed 1½c up and July ½c up.

Oats were strong on heavy demand, closing ⅞c up at 58⅝c. Rye closed 1½c up at $1.26½; barley, 2c up at from 76@87c, and corn, ¼c at 75⅞c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¾c up at 68⅝c bid, and July 1¼c up at 69⅞c bid.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.47⅛, and July at $1.59⅝.

A wildly excitable market developed in wheat at the opening this morning. Within a few minutes after the gong sounded, the May future scored a bulge of 4c a bu, while operators scrambling to climb aboard. The further accession of strength was imparted through an upward move of 4c at Liverpool, and reported heavy inquiry by foreigners at the seaboard. Quotations held at around the $1.54 basis till about 11:30 when an easier tendency developed as a result of trading being interfered with through the dislocation of the wire service. The regular service with Chicago was also not available, so that lacking any outside lead, the market began to drag.

May wheat opened with a bulge of 1⅞c off the reel at $1.52, and then moved up 2c more. A break of 1⅝c developed later, followed by a recovery of 1c within the next five minutes. At the noon-hour, the quotation stood at $1.53⅜. July wheat opened ¼c up at $1.48, and advanced to $1.50.

Durum did not follow spring wheat in its ascent, and after the opening upturn it showed a weaker tendency. May durum opened ½c up at $1.60, gained ½c up at $1.58, and declined ¾c. The cash inquiry for durum was not as urgent as it had been. Only one elevator was reported to be paying the May figure for it whereas all of them had been ready of late to pick it up on that basis.

Another lot of wheat afloat at Buffalo was sold yesterday afternoon by a Duluth operator on a basis of 3c over May. This was 1c higher than the sale effected in the morning by another trader here.

Receipts at Duluth have been in better volume during the last few days, inspections today amounting to 98 cars of wheat, compared with 29 last year. At Minneapolis 212 cars were inspected against 181 a year ago.

Bulge in Flaxseed.

Good buying by crushers again materialized in flaxseed at the start and its quotations moved up 1⅞c within the first few minutes. The market eased up later on more liberal offerings and a drawing off on the part of buyers. The close was firm.

May flax opened ½c up at $1.90 and closed 2⅜c at $1.91½ bid. September closed 1⅜c up at $1.92 nominal.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 2⅛c up at $1.70, and July 3c up at $1.71½.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The sale of another lot of wheat from the elevator stocks at Buffalo was put through by a Duluth operator yesterday afternoon on a basis of 3c over May. This was 1c better than the figure taken by S. H. Jones on the sale of a cargo lot effected in the morning.

A choice lot of No. 1 northern cash wheat was sold at 1c over May on the Duluth board of trade this morning. The ruling market was, however, ½c under the May price.

An unusual incident in the flour trade was reported by A. D. Goodman, manager of the Duluth Universal Milling company, this morning in the receipt of an order for 100 barrels for future delivery from a customer in the Copper country, accompanied by a deposit of $1 per barrel. As the market was advanced 30 cents a barrel this morning the buyer is already ahead of the game.

Chicago public and private elevator stocks of wheat decreased 850,000 bu; corn increased 384,000 bu; oats increased 482,000 bu. Contract stocks of wheat decreased 132,000 bu; corn increased 2,013,000 bu and oats increased 4,016,000 bu.

The sharpness of the advance checked the buying in the Minneapolis spot market. Premiums were easier. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 4@4½c over May and velvet chaff at the May price to 1c under May. Flour sales were light with shipping directions free. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.51½ to $1.56½ and No. 2 northern at from $1.49 to $1.54½.

A Quincy, Ill., wire said: "Owing to heavy floods in that district the winter wheat crop in the lowlands is entirely ruined and the loss will be heavy. Flood warnings have been sent out in the Ohio valley and a stage of 25 feet, which is 3 feet above flood stage, is forecasted for Pittsburg tonight."

The Oklahoma February report makes the wheat condition 79 per cent. January was 84 per cent and last February 99 per cent. Farm reserves of wheat there are 9,000,000 bu, corn 19,000,000 bu, oats 10,000,000 bu. Decreases during January were 3,000,000 bu wheat, 7,000,000 bu corn and 2,000,000 bu oats.

C. E. Lewis & Co. wired from Minneapolis: "Shipments from here were 190 cars of wheat and 75,000 bbl of flour. Our stocks show a decrease of 350,000 bu for three days, which is about 100,000 bu a day. With these big shipments of wheat and flour we will commence to show bigger decreases shortly. Our stocks would have shown much larger decreases this week, but millers have been drawing on their private stocks, which are not included in our public stocks. Consequently decreases in the private stocks fail to show up. Inside of two weeks we look for our stocks to be decreasing a million a week."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Wild efforts to buy wheat today made prices run beyond the celebrated corner record of 1909, $1.60 a bu. Not long after the opening today the may delivery here sold at $1.60½. Profit-taking then set in and a reaction of a cent took place, but rallies quickly followed.

Big advances in Liverpool quotations owing to the increased war risks because of submarine attacks on commerce were mainly responsible for the excited buying in the wheat pit. After opening 1½c to 3¾c above last night the market scored a material gain before the severe tension relaxed and the usual swing in prices began.

Shipments of bonded grain—None.

EXPORTERS HAMPERED

High Ocean Rates and Scarcity of Bottoms for Transportation.

All Lines Affected—Duluth Flour Exporter Chartered Ahead.

American grain shippers and exporters of various manufactured articles are greatly concerned over the high ocean freight rates and the scarcity of available vessel tonnage.

Iron and steel manufacturers are finding their opportunities for doing business greatly curtailed as they are unable to contract for deliveries at European ports with any degree of certainty. As it is now, only the more expensive lines of goods can be shipped abroad, the rates being asked by ship owners practically placing an embargo against contracting for shipments of the lower classes of freight. Were it not for this condition, the tonnage of lumber and dimension timber shipped out from Pacific coast ports would reach large proportions as there is said to be a scarcity of many classes of forest products in England owing to the blockade from the Scandinavian countries.

The milling interests of the Northwest are also finding their scope of foreign operations hampered in a great measure, though dealers in foodstuffs are better favored than those in other lines as foreign consumers have become reconciled to the necessity of paying the tolls entailed in sending goods to them.

Local Exporter Prepared.

Said B. Stockman, manager of the Duluth-Superior Milling company, today.

"It is a fact that the mills in this country are finding themselves under a serious disadvantage in working foreign flour sales for the reason that in taking action upon bids it is difficult to figure upon the ocean freight rates. For ourselves we were fortunate in having a fair amount of vessel space to some ports chartered ahead. We have therefore been doing some business in flour right along."

The following tabulation of ocean freight rates as on Jan. 23 to the principal trans-Atlantic ports with comparisons since July 6 goes to illustrate the present abnormal freight situation:

FIRM MARKET IN MINING STOCKS

On account of the complete disarrangement in the wire service no quotations were received in mining stocks from Boston today. North Butte was reported to have sold there this morning at $22.87 and Shattuck at $23.

Amalgamated Copper sold a fraction off in New York at $54.63. Anaconda sold 38 cents up at $27.38 and Utah Copper 87 cents up at $54.12.

It is predicted by Boston operators that Butte & Superior will sell at $50 this week.

At St. Louis, lead closed quiet at $3.60 and spelter, firm, at $7.50 bid.

INCREASE IN TRAFFIC

Railroads Report Gain in Tonnage for January.

Larger Movement of Coal Is Responsible in Part.

Railroads operating at the Head of the Lakes are now moving a large tonnage of freight, and traffic generally is fully normal for the season.

Returns of the Lake Superior Demurrage bureau, as prepared by the manager, A. E. Piering, show that 26,665 cars of freight were handled during January, as compared with 25,430 cars during the corresponding month last year, being an increase of 1,235 cars. The movement of coal from here over the West showed a substantial gain and the tonnage of general merchandise and other commodities handled also compared favorably with a year ago.

Northwest railroads systems are considered to be doing relatively better than those in other sections of the country from a traffic standpoint, and the opinion is expressed that the betterment will become more marked with the opening of spring. Enhanced earnings are expected to result from the higher class and commodity rates between Duluth and the Twin Cities, which went into effect on Jan. 23. Hopes are also entertained of a favorable decision in the application by the Western railroads for increased rates, now being heard by the interstate commerce commission.

An official of the Soo line said today that he counted upon his system making a favorable January traffic showing. Coal handlings were heavy as a result of the cold weather during the month. A feature in that connection was the large tonnage moved from the docks here to Winnipeg and other points in the Canadian West. The good snowfall and the strong demand from the paper and pulp mills led to a rush of pulpwood shipments from over the Soo's Plummer branch and the Duluth-Minneapolis short line to Eau Claire, Tomahawk, Ladysmith, Park Falls, Port Edward and other points in Wisconsin.

The outgoing movement of merchandise from Duluth is also considered large for the season, and is said to show signs of expanding.

TIRES LIKELY TO BE CHEAP; RUBBER IS

Record Low Prices for Crude Rubber Are a Feature of Trade.

Automobile tires are thought likely to sell upon a reasonable basis throughout this year in spite of the European war situation.

Fears of a scarcity of raw rubber have been relieved through the removal, by Great Britain, of the embargo against rubber shipments. Instead, therefore, of starting the year with prospects of a crude rubber famine as appeared likely at the close of last year, manufacturers are today buying their Para at record low prices.

High grade Para rubber is now selling at 58 cents a pound. This compares with a low price for the same grade in 1914 of 61½ cents. In fact, the present price of Para is the lowest in several years.

High grade plantations are selling at 56 cents a pound. General expectation among the larger rubber manufacturers is that the plantation grades will also see further recessions. They base this on the belief that 90,000 tons of plantations will be put on the market this year, as compared with 70,000 tons in 1914.

PLAN TO SELL SCHOOL BONDS

Part of Authorized Issue Will Be Put on Market.

At the meeting of the board of education, to be held next Friday night, aside from general routine business, the chief matter of interest will be that of disposing of a portion of the bonds recently authorized for building purposes.

C. F. Colman, chairman of the finance committee, which has the bond matter in charge, said today that he expects that the board will advertise for the sale of $100,000 of the bonds. An issue of $200,000 was authorized by the voters at the election.

The bond matter has been held up because of the financial depression and the bad condition of the bond market, there being no chance of selling, apparently no matter what inducements were offered.

"Of late," said Mr. Colman, "we find that the bond market condition has improved greatly, and the recent sale of park bonds by the city causes us to believe that we can sell what bonds will be necessary at a reasonable figure. The issue will be bonds of 4½ per cent; and while we may have to make some sacrifice we do not expect that it will be serious. The sale of $100,000 worth of bonds will enable us to give the West end what it has long sought and appealed for—a junior high school. We realize that such a school is absolutely necessary, and the West end would have been given one long ere this had we not been handicapped by lack of money with which to build.

"With the cash from the bond sale on hand, we will proceed with the proposed Lincoln junior high school, the plans for which have already been drawn. It will take just about $100,000 to construct the necessary additional buildings and assembly room; and I can assure West end people that just as soon as the money is realized by the sale of the bonds, they will not have long to wait for the junior high school.

Other school building will hardly be taken up at this time. The proposed Morgan Park school will be left untouched for the present, and in fact, until the board has reasonable assurance that the steel plant is going to start up and enough pupils will be available to warrant the expense of starting a school in that portion of the city.

PREPARING NEW HOSPITAL BILL

A few days ago, at a meeting held at the Commercial club to talk over ways and means to have a bill passed in the legislature providing for a city and county hospital to be located at Duluth, it was decided to send a committee there today to meet with a house committee at the St. Paul hotel tonight. However, since that time, that plan has been abandoned and nobody will be present from Duluth. The proposed bill is unsatisfactory, and Oscar Mitchell is preparing a new one, which will be presented to the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature as soon as it is completed and passed upon, and the delegation will be asked to shove it through.

BRIDE OF TWO WEEKS TAKES LYSOL

Following a quarrel with her husband at 7 o'clock last night, Mrs. Walter Johnson, aged 22, a bride of two weeks, drank half a bottle of lysol in an attempt to commit suicide, according to the police. She will recover. The couple live at 220 South First avenue east.

Mrs. Johnson asked Norman Wickham, living at the same place, to purchase the poison for her, saying that she wanted it for cleansing purposes. Wickham secured some at a Superior street drug store.

Her attempt at self destruction was discovered at once, and Dr. E. I. Lindgren was summoned. Detectives Frank Schulte and Donald Irvine responded to a call sent into police headquarters.

"NEW" EMPRESS TO BE OPENED

The new Empress theater, remodeled and redecorated, will be opened on Sunday, Feb. 14, for an engagement of the Manhattan Opera company of New York, which will present musical comedies.

W. M. Abrahamson, proprietor of the theater, announced this morning that a contract with the musical stock company had been made and the playhouse would be opened a week from Sunday afternoon.

The first production will be "The Man Who Owns Broadway." This show will be followed by "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway."

There are thirty members of the company, including the chorus.

JANUARY IS MOST ORDERLY MONTH

January was the most orderly month Duluth has had in two years, according to police records, compiled by Assistant Secretary Fred Johnson.

There were 300 men and 16 women arrested during the month. In February, 1914, the next best month, there were 312 men and 20 women arrested. Records for December, 1914, show that there were 474 arrests.

The January record is far below the average, as the total of more than 5,000 arrests for the year just ended shows. Of the total last month, the West Duluth station is credited with 16 men and 1 woman.

DR. H. V. GOETCHIUS IS SUMMONED

Dr. H. V. Goetchius, aged 67, one of the pioneer physicians at the Head of the Lakes, died at 1 o'clock this afternoon, following an illness covering a period of about six years.

Dr. Goetchius came to Duluth from Tower, Minn., about thirty years ago, and practiced at his profession until he became incapacitated six years ago through ill health. He is survived by a widow and a brother and a sister, living at Elmira, N. Y.

The funeral will be held from the residence, 5137 London road, at 2 p. m. Thursday.

ELECTION CONTEST HAS BEEN REJECTED.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee on elections this afternoon voted unanimously to reject the contest proceedings brought by Frank Dunning against Representative T. H. Girling of Hennepin county, basing its decision on a ruling by the attorney general that the contestant had completely failed to comply with the law governing procedure in contests under the corrupt practices act.

ACCUSED MAN ACTS AS OWN ATTORNEY

Acting as his own attorney in a case wherein he is charged with attempting to escape from the city and county workfarm on the afternoon of Jan. 21, Raymond Boyer, aged 28, furnished considerable amusement in Judge Frank H. Cutting's division of the municipal court this morning.

When Boyer was given an opportunity of quizzing Supt. Fred Ward of the institution, and J. Ericeson, a guard who helped capture him, he availed himself of the opportunity to the utmost. It is alleged that he, with Anthony Fink, left the gang with which they were working and tried to make their way to Duluth. They were caught after being at liberty for several hours. Boyer's cross-examination was so lengthy that the case was not finished when court adjourned this morning.

Frank Hahn, also serving a sentence at the farm, who escaped with Fink and Boyer, was re-sentenced to sixty days in the county jail Jan. 22. Hahn was not arrested until he reached the city. Third Assistant County Attorney Harry White appeared for the county.

REAL ESTATE MEN AGAINST TWO BILLS

The Duluth Real Estate exchange held its monthly meeting following luncheon at the Commercial club this afternoon, and besides transacting regular routine business took stands against several matters of proposed legislation by which Duluth will be affected.

One is the bill providing for an increase in the salaries of county commissioners, and the other is the bill providing for a division of St. Louis county. On both these matters the members of the exchange voted unanimously.

There was very little discussion on either and the meeting was brief.

WAS FOLLOWING ADVICE.

Thomas White, Charged With Theft of Flour, Gives Unique Reason.

When Thomas White, aged 57, saw an 85-pound sack of flour fall from the delivery wagon of Tessman Brothers' company yesterday afternoon and called to the driver to stop and pick it up, he was interrupted, he says, by a bystander, who said:

"Shut up, you chump, and take it."

He was arraigned in municipal court this morning, before Municipal Judge F. H. Cutting, and pleaded not guilty to a charge of petty larceny. His case was set for tomorrow morning at 10 a. m.

White was arrested yesterday afternoon at his home, 102 West Second street, by Detectives Frank Schulte and Donald Irvine.

BRAINERD JUDGE'S RULING CRITICIZED

Interpretation of Civil Rights Statutes Brings Court Letter.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge W. S. McClenahan, of the district court, has received a letter from Detroit, Mich., wherein the writer, name unsigned, takes umbrage at the judge's recent ruling that the Minnesota civil rights statutes does not regulate Sunday schools or churches and consequently that a young colored person had no remedy in a suit brought against officers of a Sunday school because the former was forced, it was alleged, to either sit separate and apart from the white members of such Sunday school, or to leave it and the building.

On a printed circular headed "Last, But Not Least, Rev. 1:8," and bearing a religious argument carrying the printed signature, "Rev. William Stone and Others," the anonymous writer has written in the top margin in indelible pencil: "I'm reading in the paper of your ruling against negroes in Sunday school. Wish to say that God is not a respecter of persons. You had better get right with God." In the bottom margin is written: "Your Friend in Christ, 986 Cameron Hse, Detroit, Mich."

At the bottom follows the seal of "The Willing Workers for Christ, headquarters, Cleveland, Ohio."

SUPERIOR

Elliott Gets Berth.

F. S. Elliott, general superintendent of the central division of the Great Northern railroad, with headquarters at Great Falls, Mont., will succeed C. O. Jenks as head of the Lake Superior division of the road. Mr. Jenks was recently appointed manager of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle road. The new superintendent will arrive the latter part of this week.

Coal Bids All Alike.

Competition among coal dealers to sell the city of Superior coal during the year 1915 was "keen." Seven dealers responded with figures yesterday. When the bids were opened all were the same. Each was willing to furnish the fuel at the rate of $4.20 per ton, delivered at the city hall. The commissioners decided to purchase the coal from time to time, dividing the orders among the various companies.

Premium for Bonds.

A premium of $1,157 was offered by H. T. Holt & Co. of Chicago for the purchase of the $32,000 sewer bonds of the city of Superior. Twelve companies submitted bids for the block but the Holt firm was the highest. The bonds bear 5 per cent interest payable semi-annually. The Holt company's bid for the block was $33,157.

No Trace of Relatives.

The body of the man found in a box car several days ago will be buried in the potter's field by the county tomorrow afternoon. All efforts to locate where the man came from or who are his relatives have proved unsuccessful. The car in which he was found was consigned to Superior from a point in the state of Washington.

TWO THOUSAND RANGES FOR THE BELLIGERENTS

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 2.—An order for 2,000 field cooking ranges at a cost of $1,000,000 is being filled by a local concern for one of the European belligerents, it became known today. The order is to be ready for shipment within 200 days.

The contract was granted, officials of the company say, upon the condition that strict secrecy be maintained concerning the structure of the ranges. Unofficially, it was said that the order was placed by the French government.

GERMAN LINE IS ADVANCING

Movement Toward Warsaw Without Doubt Having Begun.

London, Feb. 2.—The German line after a long period of preparedness would appear today, judging from reports reaching London, to be putting into execution the plans for an advance on Warsaw. At the same time the Austrians seem to have renewed their forward movement in the Carpathians. The fighting in the Carpathians is expected to decide for the period of the war the mastery of the three most important passes through the mountains—Uzsok, Dukla and Wyszkow. The strategic value of these passes is indicated by the fact that Wyszkow is almost due south of Lemberg, while Uzsok is in the same relative position from Przemysl and Dukla is situated similarly with regard to Cracow. The fighting in the Carpathians apparently has not yet assumed full proportions, but the Austro-German concentration is progressing notwithstanding the Russian harassments.

Spirited Contests in West.

Spirited contests are progressing in the Western war theater, the Germans having made attacks in force at La Bassee and along the coast. The French assert that the battle at La Bassee has not resulted in a change of positions, while along the coast the German attacks were directed at the recovery of Great Dune, a position near Lombaertzyde, which however, remains in the possession of the allies.

London's Zeppelin scare of last night now appears to have been in the nature of a rehearsal. No foundation is discoverable for the rumors that German air craft were traveling over Dover. The firing by the Dover forts is said to have been a warning to ships which omitted to comply with port regulations.

Boats Held Up.

The German submarine raiders, although not known positively to have been in the Irish sea within the last twenty-four hours still hold up a majority of the coasting steamers and fishing boats. Liverpool insurance men are quoting rates approximating four times the former figures.

From South Africa comes the news that arrangements are being made for the surrender of the rebel leaders Maritz and Kempf. It is stated that they had disagreed with their German advisers.

TO STUDY RESERVE BANK

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large delegation of officials of the national banks of the upper peninsula of Michigan, representing some thirty institutions, has left for Minneapolis, the headquarters of the Ninth reserve district, which includes Northern Michigan, to look into the workings of the Federal reserve bank system.

LEGISLATURE RECONVENES

North Dakota Solons Resume Work After Week's Recess.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota state legislature reconvened today after a week's recess.

One of the important bills introduced today was by Representative Divet, contemplating the establishment of a franchise tax.

The Lathrop investigating committee yesterday had President T. A. Hillyer of the Mayville normal school before it. That institution made a favorable impression on the legislators, but requests for appropriations to the extent of $40,000, which is the total asked by the institution, will not be allowed. Of that amount, $38,500 was wanted for a practice grade school, while $1,500 was for insurance premiums.

A proposition was put up to the committee by President Hillyer contemplating the construction of this practice school out of funds that the school has on hand, but this plan didn't appeal to the committee particularly because the committee is opposed to any further investment in such schools.

To Operate Local Schools

The committee will seek to bring about the enactment of a law which will make it possible for normal schools to operate in conjunction with the localities in which they are located, in the matter of maintaining practice schools. Under the arrangement proposed, the normal school would maintain and operate the local schools, the community to pay a certain tuition fee to the state.

Another important educational change planned will repeal the state aid for high schools and substitute county aid. With that object in view, Chairman List of the house educational committee has prepared a bill. It would create a county high school board as the controlling unit.

Changes in the rural district transportation act are also being urged. This will bring on a hot contest.

State Terminal Elevator.

The grain-grading and warehouse committee of the house, to which was referred the board of control's report with reference to the proposition of establishing a state-owned terminal elevator, has been unable to agree on a report. It is expected, however, that a report will be made showing that it will be impossible for the state to go into the business because of the lack of funds.

The presence in the city of the state convention of the American Society of Equity has opened the whole subject on a wide plane, and it is expected that this week will see the climax of the fight for the establishment of the state terminal.

Today the state tax commission investigation was resumed with new vigor, the return of the committee members opening up the work again. It is considered likely that this committee will ask the legislature to establish a one-man commission to replace the present three-man board of commissioners.

Powers of the commission are so restricted by constitutional provisions, the investigating committee contends, as to make it unnecessary to have a three-man commission.

WILL OPEN BIDS FOR NEW ARMORY

The bids for the proposed new armory, to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, to be erected at Thirteenth avenue east and London road, will be opened by Col. Resche of the Third Regiment, N. M. G., and the officers of the Duluth battalion this afternoon at the office of Building Inspector S. M. Keilley at the city hall. The local board will have nothing to say in the matter except to open the bids, list them, and then forward them to the armory supervising board at St. Paul, which will award the contract. There are several bidders.

It is expected that there will be no delay in making the award and that work on the proposed armory will begin within a few days. The city recently purchased the site for $16,000 and deeded it to the state. It is expected that the stone used in the construction of the foundation will be taken from the Point of Rocks.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota,
County of St. Louis—ss.
In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of Peter Peterson, Decedent.

The petition of Lena Peterson having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Peter Peterson, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 11th day of December, 1914, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the creditor of said decedent and praying that letters of administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to said Lena Peterson, It is ordered, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 15th day of February, 1915, at ten o'clock a. m., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered further, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing, and that a copy of this order be mailed to each heir at least fourteen days before the said date of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., January 18th, 1915.

By the Court, S. W. GILPIN,
Judge of Probate.

SHERIFF'S EXECUTION SALE—

Under and by virtue of an Execution issued out of and under the seal of the District Court of the State of Minnesota, in and for the Eleventh Judicial District and County of St. Louis, upon a judgment duly rendered in the Municipal Court, of the City of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 4th day of August, 1913, in an action therein, wherein F. H. Martin was plaintiff, and Erick Appa also known as Erick Apponen, defendant in favor of said plaintiff and against said defendant for the sum of two hundred nineteen and 87-100 ($219.87), dollars, a transcript of which said judgment was thereafter and upon the 6th day of August, 1913, duly filed and docketed in the office of the Clerk of said District court in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, which said execution has to me, as Sheriff of said St Louis County, been duly directed and delivered, I have levied upon and will sell at Public Auction to the highest cash bidder, at the Sheriff's Office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County of St. Louis, on Monday, the 22nd day of March, 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all right, title and interest that above named Judgment debtor had in and to the real estate hereinafter described, on the 6th day of August, 1913 that being the date of the filing and docketing of said Judgment at the Office of the Clerk of the District Court in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, or any interest therein, which said judgment debtor may have since that day acquired. The description of the property being as follows, to-wit:

Lots three (3), four (4), and Southeast quarter of Southwest quarter (SE ¼ of SW ¼), and Southwest quarter of Southeast quarter (SW ¼ of SE ¼), of Section thirty (30), Township fifty (50), North of Range eighteen (18), west of the Fourth Principal Meridian in St. Louis County, Minnesota, according to the United States Government Survey thereof.

Dated, Duluth, Minn., Jan. 25, 1915.

Live Wires!

Advertising is like the copper wire that carries the electricity from the dynamo and turns the wheels.

It brings energy to you from the highly charged dynamo of business.

It comes to you through the columns of your favorite newspaper.

Use the live wires of advertising in The Herald.

Make them serve you.

You will be astonished and pleased at the splendid business activity of the merchants and manufacturers.

You will realize that it is for your benefit.

For unless it is of use to you it is all waste energy.

Be alert. Be up to date. Get the best there is out of life.

The men and women you admire because they do things are advertising readers.

They do things because they know.

They are advertising readers because they know these live wires of advertising carry the news that keeps them up to date.

GORDON FORCES FIGHT THE EFFICIENCY AND ECONOMY PROGRAM

New Committee to Prepare Reorganization Plan Is Proposed.

Bill to Prohibit Sale of Liquors Over 4 Per Cent Alcohol.

Jones Would Stop State Aid to Schools Teaching Militarism.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight against the efficiency and economy program took more or less open form this morning with the introduction in the house of a resolution, offered by Representative Sam Y. Gordon and said to be backed by the Gordon forces, anticipating the defeat of the efficiency plan and proposing an alternative reorganization plan to be framed by a committee of twenty, named in the resolution.

The resolution was laid over till tomorrow at the request of its author. It recites a grave doubt about the passage of the efficiency bill, takes note of the fact that most of the members are pledged to do something, and proposes that this committee study the state government and propose a bill or bills consolidating such bureaus and departments as it finds feasible to consolidate. The proposed committee, consisting of two from each congressional district, is dominated by Gordon supporters, and is as follows:

Parker, Papke, Lars Teigen, Bendixen, Kuntz, Malmberg, Greene, Cornling, Guilford, J. M. Harrison, Davis, Warner, Christianson, Gordon, North, of Duluth; Murphy of Aurora; Adams, Konzen, Madigan and Pratt.

Rockne Resolution Amended.

Efficiency and economy also figured in the senate, where the Rockne resolution calling on the civil administration committee to make the efficiency bill effective in 1917 was discussed and passed, but only after it had been amended by the author to eliminate the provision as to when the bill shall

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN CHICAGO WHEAT

Peace Rumors Cause Loss of 8¼ Cents, With Quick Rebound.

Chicago, Feb. 3. — Peace rumors knocked 8¼c off the price of May wheat at the outset of today's market, but the break was only temporary for the May delivery scon shot up to $1.65½, a new high record.

The opening downward break was from $1.65, yesterday's closing price, to $1.56¾.

Fear of the opening of the Dardanelles had considerable to do with the wild fluctuations. Transactions were relatively small.

The July option, in which business chiefly centered, was given a setback of 2 cents at the opening.

The scene in the pit gave little hint of any greater strain than usual. The volume of business was less than ordinary and the crowd of brokers looked thinned out. The reason was that heavy calls for margins had made trading conditions nearly prohibitive to smaller speculators.

On the rebound from the fall at the opening, May wheat jumped eventually to $1.66, making the range covered by that option 9 cents in less than an hour—a swing seldom equaled in so short a time. July dropped 5 cents to $1.38, but recovered to $1.40¾.

TO ABOLISH DEPARTMENT

House Committee Would Discontinue State Immigration Department.

Gordon Bill for State Census Is Favorably Recommended.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The abolition of the state immigration department will be recommended to the house by its committee on public accounts and expenditures.

This was decided yesterday afternoon by the committee after one or two very brief hearings.

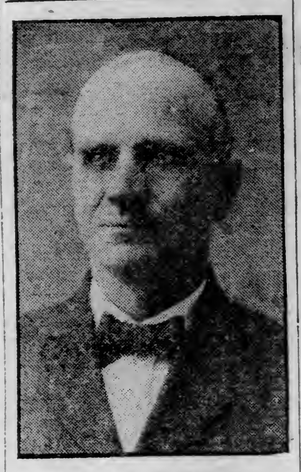

Bills increasing the appropriation for immigration work from $35,000 a year to $100,000 a year are pending in both branches of the legislature.

The ground on which this radical proposal is based is that real estate men are reaping the harvest from the advertising campaign carried on by the department. It is also asserted that the department has not exercised care in preparing books setting forth the advantages of Minnesota, that many of these books are virtually duplicates of others, and that considerable money has been needlessly spent in this manner.

The sub-committee to which the matter has been referred for investigation declared that it was absurd to continue the department on its present

PRESIDED AT HEARING OF ELWELL ROAD LAW

CHARLES W. BOUCK,
Representative From Royalton, Chairman of House Committee on Roads and Bridges.

ELWELL LAW IS DEFENDED

Lively Hearing Before Committees of House and Senate.

Northern, Western and Southern Minnesota People Against Repeal.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a lively hearing before the senate committee on highways and the house committee on roads and bridges in the house chamber yesterday afternoon on the A. V. Anderson bill to repeal the Elwell road law, it developed that while the attack on the Elwell law comes from Southern Minnesota, Northern Minnesota for once is not alone in its fight.

For while Northern Minnesota was there in force, most of the afternoon was taken up by a gallant defense of the bill by people from Southern and Western Minnesota.

Chairman C. W. Bouck of the house committee presided over the meeting, which comfortably filled the house chamber.

Northern Minnesota was represented by a large delegation, including the following: Charles T. Kelly of Menagha, president of the Northern Minnesota Development association; C. A. Allbright of Brainerd, former president of the Northern Minnesota Development association; Miss Annie Shelland of International Falls; George D. McCarthy of Duluth, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association; W. R. Mackenzie of Minneapolis, former secretary; F. D. Lycan of Bemidji, L. H. Rice of Park Rapids, C. R. Middleton of Baudette, County Auditor L. H. Slocum and E. H. McPartlin of International Falls and Bert Rodman of Akeley.

Miss Shelland's Appeal.

The principal talks against the repeal of the Elwell law were made by Miss Shelland of International Falls and C. R. Middleton of Baudette. Miss

QUARANTINE SHOULD EXTEND TO PERSONS

Cattle Disease Dangerous to Human Beings and Household Pets.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3.—Quarantine, not only of stock, but of men, women, children, dogs and cats, on all farms where the infection is found, is the only way to eradicate the foot and mouth disease, according to speakers before the Missouri Valley Veterinarians' association, in session here today.

Five hundred veterinarians from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota were in attendance. The prevalence of the foot and mouth disease was the principal topic for discussion. Farmers were urged also not to use feed from infected districts.

"Public education and sanitation are the essentials in the final solution of this trouble," said Dr. J. W. Connoway of the University of Missouri. "A farmer must learn that a sick animal in his herd is dangerous and must be isolated immediately. An individual quarantine is the best way to stamp out the disease."

The states themselves are largely to blame for hog cholera, according to Dr. K. J. Stouders of Ames, Iowa.

"They have been slow in the creation of boards to eradicate the disease," he said. "Scarcely any of the Missouri valley states have more than four or five veterinarians connected with the state boards who are equipped to handle the hog cholera problem."

Other speakers were Dr. G. A. Johnson of Sioux City, Iowa, and Dr. L. C. Kigin, state veterinarian of Nebraska.

GERMANS HURL SOLDIERS FORWARD IN CLOSE FORMATION WITH HEAVY LOSS

WILL DEMAND EXTRADITION

Dominion Authorities Preparing Case Against Bridge Dynamiter.

Prisoner Says He Committed Act of War and Feels Safe.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 3.—The Dominion authorities were busy today building up a case to support their request for the extradition of Werner Van Horn, who yesterday attempted the destruction of the international bridge over the St. Croix river.

Before noon a large party of secret service officers arrived here from Montreal. Their business was to establish that Van Horn had deliberately caused damage to a railroad and so committed an offense which is extraditable under the treaty between the United States and Canada. At the same time the question whether Van Horn was a criminal or political offender was to be made the subject of exchanges between Ottawa and Washington.

Van Horn, still claiming to be an officer of the German army and appearing to feel secure in his position that he had properly committed an act of war and so could not be extradited, awaited events with composure. His only regret, so far as expressed, is that he succeeded in damaging the bridge but slightly.

Has Not Consulted Lawyer.

It has been stated that he would appeal to the German embassy in Washington, but so far as known he has

HIGHER PASSENGER RATE NEEDED, IS CRY

Fourteen Railroad Presidents Present Arguments to Governor Dunne.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—Fourteen railway presidents today presented to Governor Dunne and members of the utilities commission arguments why the passenger rates in Illinois should be raised from 2 to 2½ cents. The hearing was the opening of the campaign of the transportation companies to obtain legislation permitting the increase of passenger revenue in Middle Western states. Several of the heads of the railways and many important officials of their traffic departments will make speaking tours of the various states.

The views of the railways were presented to the governor by Charles H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central. He asserted the conference today was at the suggestion of the interstate commerce commission, which after its investigation to learn if an increase in freight and passenger tariffs was justified and after granting an increase in freight rates, recommended that the railroads seek the amendment of the 2-cent fare laws granting larger passenger revenues.

NEW PLAN OF DEMOCRATS IS YET UNKNOWN

Administration Leaders Hope to Put Ship Bill on Its Passage.

Details of Movement Are Worked Out at a Party Caucus.

Refuse to Show Hand Until Measure Is Before Senate.

Washington, Feb. 3.—When the senate met today to again consider the government ship purchase bill the Republican senators were eager regarding the plans of the administration senators by which they hope to break down the opposition to the measure. But the Democrats still were refusing to show their hand. They had pledged themselves to secrecy at a party caucus last night in order that their program might not be frustrated.

It was believed that the plans of the Democratic leaders would not be disclosed at least until the senate was ready to act on the motion which was pending to send the shipping bill back to the commerce committee.

Plan Perfected.

A plan which they guarded with the utmost secrecy was adopted by administration Democrats of the senate in caucus last night to break down opposition to the government ship-purchase bill. The program includes parliamentary maneuvers which will be actuated this afternoon in the senate, and according to leaders of the party, is calculated to bring support

SEVEN SIKHS ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH

Part of Hindus Who Resisted Deportation From Canada.

Calcutta, Feb. 3.—The judge at Firozpur, in the Punjab, has sentenced to death seven sikhs who had been convicted of killing two police officials at Calcutta last October in the rioting which followed the arrival of the steamer Komagata Maru at that port from Vancouver.

The Hindus who mutinied at Calcutta last year were the men who for several months resisted the Canadian government's order of deportation, but who finally were compelled to return from Vancouver on the same steamer which brought them out. The rioting at Calcutta was suppressed by troops who fired on the sikhs.

PATIENCE OF THE KAISER

Never Loses Mastery of His Tongue, Says Dr. Ganghofer.

Speaks Appreciatively of Good Qualities of His Enemies.

Munich, Germany, Feb. 3, via London.—The Neueste Nachrichten has published an interview with Dr. Ludwig Ganghofer, the German author, in which is given a further account of the writer's visit to Emperior William at the imperial field headquarters. Dr. Ganghofer says:

"I heard and saw an example of the emperor's quiet patience with slanderous statements that should be instructive for us all. Remarks of such a nature embitter him, but in his greatest excitement he never loses the mastery of his tongue. I heard him say in such a case: 'That is strong, but it is silly also. It is fortunate that truth always is wiser in the long run and that it has longer legs.'

Knightly Conduct Pleases.

"The knightly conduct of individual opponents in the field gladdens Emperor William," continues Dr. Ganghofer, "and rarely have I heard any man speak so justly and appreciatively of the good qualities, the courage and the accomplishments of the nation's enemies. Even against England I heard from the emperor no unmeasured word spoken in anger. Every verdict he pronounces, severe as it sometimes is, is always within the bounds of supreme reserve. Nevertheless there is a slight but hardly noticeable vibration in his majesty's voice when the subject is our Germanic cousins across the channel.

WILLING TO RESUME DURING ARBITRATION

Coal Operators Expected to Submit Proposition to Conciliators.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 3.—When officers of the United Mine Workers' organization and Eastern Ohio coal operators met today to continue their joint conference in the hope of bringing about a settlement of the ten months' strike of 15,000 miners, they were expected to submit in writing to the Federal conciliators their respective positions on certain suggestions made late yesterday by the Federal representatives.

It was reported that the operators will tell the conciliators today that they will be willing to have the mine resume operations pending arbitration on a wage basis of 58 cents for lump coal and 22 cents for fine coal, and in the event the arbiters decide on a higher wage rate they will reimburse the miners accordingly for the time they have been working.

RISES FROM COWBOY TO SPEAKER OF LEGISLATURE

JOHN W. WOODS.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 3.—From cowboy to lawmaker is the record of John W. Woods of Texas. He is a native of Texas and while a lad he made good as a regular "hand" herding cattle on the range. After working on the farm, he became a school teacher and then a lawyer. Recently he was elected to the state legislature and at its organization he was elected speaker. He is a Prohibitionist.

TRAWLERS AS PROTECTORS

Thousands of Fishing Boats Doing Good Work in North Sea.

Form Cordon Around Warships to Detect Submarine Approach.

Yarmouth, Eng., Feb. 3.—The nickname of "Mosquito fleet" applied to the navy's torpedo flotillas, is appropriately given to the fishing trawlers, of which the government is gathering together a swarm for the three-fold purpose of mine sweeping, protecting battleships from submarines and operating in the shallows of the Belgian coast against the Germans. Over 500 of these boats were requisitioned in the past week, and thousands are already out. They are found so useful that the government evidently thinks it cannot have too many.

Trawlers still continue their original duty of seining for menaces to shipping, as enormous quantities of mines are still strewn at sea.

Following the German raid on Scarborough and the Hartlepools last month, as many as 1,500 mines were picked up in one week. Many boats have been lost in this work; more than have been officially announced. These struck German mines with their bristling contact points which often explode in the nets. The nets have

FIRE ROUTS GUESTS OF CHICAGO HOTEL

Thousands Block Traffic to Watch Blaze in the Kaiserhof.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Practically every piece of fire-fighting apparatus in "the loop" responded to an alarm from the Kaiserhof hotel, whose upper stories were attacked by a blaze that routed guests today. Thousands of spectators crowded the streets, completely blocking traffic.

There seemed but little chance of the fire harming the new Kaiserhof, a skyscraper adjoining, but some fear was felt for other buildings in the block, including the Victoria hotel.

Among the guests driven out was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

MOVEMENTS A MYSTERY TO WAR EXPERTS

Old-Style German Battling Causes Great Sacrifice of Men.

Little Permanent Gain Made By These Violent Attacks.

Teutons Making Strong Offensive in Both East and West.

London, Feb. 3.—British military experts are unable to explain the sudden and violent offensive movements begun by the Germans to the west of Warsaw, in Russian Poland, and in the vicinity of La Bassee on the northwestern end of the battle line in France.

In both these regions there has been a return to the old style of German battling, the men being hurled forward in close formation at great sacrifice, British reports say, with little permanent gains.

Germans Holding Ground.

In Russian Poland the Germans are holding some ground in front of Warsaw, which these attacks netted, but the recent German onslaughts on the western battle front, military officials assert, almost invariably have resulted in failure to consolidate the positions gained.

It is suggested that Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the German commander, is again hammering toward the Polish capital with the idea of holding there Emperor Nicholas' crack troops, which otherwise might be transferred to the Carpathians, where the Russian and Austro-German forces still are fighting in the mountain passes.

British Suffer Heavily.

La Bassee, twelve miles south of the Belgian border, long has been a critical point on the western front, and the British troops congregated in the neighborhood have suffered heavily.

French Statement.

Paris, Feb. 3, 3:24 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of the military operations, reading as follows:

"In the country north of the Lys there is nothing to report.

"Between the Lys and the Oise in the sector of Nouvelte to the west of Lens, French batteries put an end to

NINE LABOR LEADERS ARE UNDER ARREST

Indicted By Colorado Grand Jury on Various Charges.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 3.—Nine labor leaders and members of miners' unions have been arrested on indictments returned by the Huerfano county grand jury, charging murder, arson, assault to kill and rioting, in connection with the recent troubles in the coal mining region. Two of the men, W. T. Hickey, secretary of the Colorado Federation of Labor and Ell M. Gross, another official of that organization were arrested here. Seven others were arrested at Walsenburg and one arrest was made at Trinidad. Besides Hickey and Gross, the men arrested are: John Burke, president of the Walsenburg local United Mine Workers of America; Charles Haines, secretary of the Walsenburg union; William Wootton, Arthur Wootton, Mike Savage, James O'Neill and Robert Jolly, the latter former strikers and members of the United Mine Workers. All of the warrants served read: "To be held without bail."

It is understood that most of the charges grew out of the attack by strikers upon the McNally mine near Walsenburg, April 29, 1914, in which Maj. P. P. Lester of the hospital corps in the Colorado National Guard, and a mine employe were killed.

Warrants against about 150 men, labor leaders and strike sympathizers have been issued according to information received at the Denver office of the United Mine Workers of America. Further arrests are expected.

THIS HOG WILL STAY IN HIS HOLE INDEFINITELY.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Field Marshal von Hindenburg's new drive at Warsaw apparently has accomplished little more thus far than the winning of a comparatively few Russian advance positions. Neither the Berlin nor the Petrograd official reports indicate that marked changes have resulted from the fighting which daily becomes more intense.

The German commander has chosen to make his principal assault along the front between Sochaczew, thirty miles due west of Warsaw, and Sklerniewice, a few miles to the south, which is in the same section in which the Germans vainly attempted to break through on their previous attempt to reach Warsaw. Both sides occupy strongly entrenched positions.

Russian successes in this region and also in the Carpathians are claimed in today's Petrograd official statements.

Russian troops are said to have made marked progress in the Dukla pass, advancing over the crest of the mountain, and to have repulsed an Austrian assault south of Uzsok pass.

Fighting continues between British and Turkish forces in Arabia, near the head of the Persian gulf, where small forces of Turks have taken the offensive. An attack on Kurna near the junction of the Euphrates and Tigris rivers was stopped by the fire from British gunboats.

According to the German version of the recent fighting in Poland, the Russians have been forced back near Bolimow. The Germans captured a village and 4,000 prisoners. Russian attacks elsewhere, the German war office asserts, were repulsed. Except for a renewal of infantry fighting near Perthes only artillery exchanges were in progress yesterday in France and Belgium. Neither side gained.

NEW BIDS SAME AS THOSE REJECTED

Council Will Consider Offers of Insurance Agencies to Protect Workmen.

All the bids entered by local agencies for the employers' liability insurance, which the city is planning to buy to protect itself in the sewer work at Gary, are practically the same as those rejected by the city commissioners two weeks ago. The bids which were opened this morning will be considered at the regular council meeting Monday.

Because of the deep trenches that are being dug for the Gary sewers, the city officials decided to protect the municipality with liability insurance covering the workmen's compensation act. In this way the agencies will pay for any casualties that may occur, thus covering the city's liability as provided by the statutes.

Two weeks ago the commissioners rejected the bids, claiming that they were too high, and new bids were then advertised for. Those opened this morning are practically the same, with the exception of the Southern Surety company, represented here by E. L. Firmine, who failed to send a certified check and who will not be considered, as a result.

The bids, which are practically the same, follow: Sewer work not over seven feet deep, $5.78 on an estimated payroll of $100; no depth limit, $915.60 on payroll of $10,900; drivers and helpers, $1.43 on payroll of $100, and foremen, $6.30 on payroll of $1,500.

CITY IS SUED FOR $7,000 DAMAGES

Injured Wife and Husband File Actions for Fall on Sidewalk.

Mrs. Carolina Carlson yesterday afternoon filed a complaint against the city for $6,000 alleged damages as a result of a fall at Sixth avenue east and Seventh street on the afternoon of Jan. 4 last. Her husband also asks for $1,000 damages.

The notice of the suit, filed with City Clerk Palmer, states that Mrs. Carlson fell on a slippery sidewalk and sustained serious injuries. John Jenswold, Jr., is her attorney and the suit will be referred to the city attorney's office.

LAKE NEBAGAMON'S WINTER CARNIVAL NOW IN FULL BLAST

MAIN ENTRANCE TO ICE PALACE.

Lake Nebagamon, Wis., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The winter carnival here is now in full blast. Miss Edna Green of Duluth, formerly of Superior and this place, daughter of the late Champ Green, is queen of the carnival, or, as she is called, Queen Borealis. Frank Duffy of Lake Nebagamon was her partner in the coronation. The carnival is attracting many Duluth and Superior people here and will continue as long as the ice palace lasts. In her remarks accepting the honor of carnival queen, Miss Green expressed her gratification over the honor, told how she had watched the ice palace grow block on block and added: "But, my friends, this only goes to show what the Lake Nebagamon people can do, and I am prouder to be crowned its queen than to be crowned the queen of any of the royal palaces today. For I love this pretty village, and I want to pledge myself right here to stand first, last and forever for Lake Nebagamon and its interests.

"Now, my loyal subjects of Lake Nebagamon, let us use the same energy and the same spirit that we did in building this palace to give to our guests a royal good time. Again I thank you."

Fooling Father Time.

Appearing as the mother of Miss Margaret Lotus is the role assigned to Miss Dorothy Shoemaker at the Lyceum this week, in the play of "Mary Jane's Pa" being presented by the Baldwin Players.

It has created no little friendly banter among the members of the company, for it is known that the difference in ages between the two young women is very slight. Their experience on the stage has been of about equal length, and neither has been before the footlights more, than five or six years. None of the members of the company would be ungallant enough to disclose the real age of either of them, but Miss Shoemaker, by a new method of hairdressing and a few deft touches of makeup, added about ten years to her appearance, and looks the part of a young matron of about 35 years. Miss Lotus, by the simple expedient of shortening her dresses and allowing her hair to hang down her back, took some eight or ten years off her appearance, and looks the young miss of 16 summers.

Stock company members have a habit of addressing each other in private by their character names for the week. It makes the "lines" come more easily; so Miss Shoemaker is "Mother" to at least two members of the company this week.

"It makes me feel delightfully middle aged and settled," she says. "Mary Jane's Pa" is proving one of the most popular bills yet chosen by the Baldwin Players. It will continune until Saturday night and next week "The Lion and the Mouse" will be the offering.

Science or Fake?

Pauline, Orpheum headliner, professor of psychology, scientist, hypnotist, a polished likable man with a magnetic personality, at the Orpheum this week, smilingly tells you at the opening of his act that you are at liberty to call his performance science, fake or anything you like, "and what ever you call it, that is what it is." He then proceeds to do things in the way of hypnotic demonstrations that remove every vestige of doubt as to the genuineness of his work. He also frankly informs you that a lot of his act is simply nonsense for amusement only, and the other part is science of the highest type, and something that will be studied fifty years hence. That he can and does make his subjects do funny things that bring roars of laughter, is demonstrated at every performance, but the other part of his work would take a student of advanced psychology to explain. An article in the Burlington school of Vermont scientific journal, edited by Dr. Russell, deemed one of the greatest teachers of psychology, casses Pauline's hypnotic suggestion demonstration of the "blood test" as being fifty years ahead of present day science.

Be it what it may, science or fake, anyone witnessing Pauline's performance is sure of one thing, that it is highly interesting, and in addition to the mystery of the demonstration, Pauline never fails to produce as many hearty laughs as is ordinarily found in a whole evening's vaudeville show.

At the Grand.

The present excellent bill now current at the popular New Grand will close with tonight's performances. Headlining the bill, the Venetian Four has created more talk than any act seen at this popular playhouse in many weeks. They are excellent musicians and a sumptuous stage setting of a Venetian night makes the act a pleasing one to the eye as well as the ear.

Park, Rome and Francis, harmonious singers, are a trio of young men who can sing well and are good comedians.

Selbinia and Grovini offer a novelty in versatility. They dance, sing, juggle, ride bicycles and accomplish feats of strength with equal proficiency.

Halden and Harron in their comedy skit, "The Messenger and the Lady," are one continuous laugh from start to finish. Possessed of a refreshing line of chatter and a repertoire of excellent songs, they score heavily.

Among the photoplays is the three-reel Broadway star feature, "The Sage Brush Gal;" one of the Olive stories, "Olive in the Madhouse," and a comedy, "The Laundress."

Tomorrow the bill will change throughout, and will be headed by the celebrated European violin virtuoso, Maleti Baconi. The three Millards in a comedy skit, "Zeke in Society;" Dawson, Lannigan and Covert, dancing fiends, in comedy singing, dancing and chatter, and the Four Prevosts, comedy acrobats in their latest creation, "Fun in a Swimming Pool" are other acts on the bill. Among the photoplays is a two-reel feature, "Life's Game," a Helen Holmes story, "The Broken Circuit," and a comedy, "Snakeville and the Corset Demonstrator," The Hearst-Selig News of events in the world at work and play, complete the bill.

Pretty Film Story.

It is a pretty story and a good one the Famous Players—paramount gave in "The Dancing Girl" at the Rex. The production marks the screen debut of Florence Reed, who is known to theater goers through her work in "Seven Days," "The Typhoon," and more recently in "The Yellow Ticket," Miss Reed charms by her personality and moves by her portrayal of youth as fresh and sweet as a midsummer morning. Her role is that of a girl born and raised a Quaker on an English island, going on a visit to London as a young woman and finding life there so attractive that home and all its ties are forgotten.

The story brings out striking contrasts of the austerity of the gray-garbed islanders with the worldliness of the Londoners with whom Drusilla lives is thrown. The Dancing Girl is a tale of one who aims to be "the topmost rose on the topmost bough and live in the sunshine," but who discovers that in spite of her many suitors and her gay surroundings she fails to find real happiness.

One of the strongest scenes is the denunciation of the butterfly by the father and the subsequent fall by Drusilla down the great staircase. The staging of this one act alone is wonderful.

EPIDEMIC IS ON INCREASE

Contagious Diseases Are Spreading, Says Health Director Webster.

General Apathy of the Public Is Given as Main Cause.

The epidemic of contagious diseases has been growing steadily, and the situation today is worse than it has been at any time in the last year.

Several weeks ago Dr. H. E. Webster, health director, reported that there was a serious epidemic of contagious diseases in the city, and that the situation had become somewhat alarming. Since then the conditions have become even more serious, he says. The general apathy of the public is given as the reason.

According to the daily health bulletins in the office of Dr. Webster, there were nine cases of diphtheria in Duluth yesterday, thirty cases of scarlet fever and seven cases of typhoid fever. Two weeks ago but twenty-seven cases of scarlet fever and seven of diphtheria were registered. The smallpox situation has remained about the same since the first of the year.

On Jan. 2, the records show, there were but eight cases of scarlet fever and two of diphtheria.

In commenting on the situation today, Dr. Webster again urges citizens to show more regard for the instructions given out by the health department.

"We are constantly warning the people of the danger of these diseases," said Dr. Webster this morning, "but we are almost completely disregarded. In every case so far I have found that the direct cause was contact with a person already diseased. Those who are sick should not mingle with others, while parents should exercise great care in diagnosing the ailments of the children. The public must work with us, or we will accomplish nothing."

The health department is doing everything possible, Dr. Webster said, to check the epidemic.

URGE EMBARGO ON ALL WAR SUPPLIES

Advocates of Hitchcock Bill Appear Before Senate Committee.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Senator Hitchcock's bill to empower the president to forbid exports of war supplies was urged before the senate foreign relations committee today by Horace L. Brand and Michael English of Chicago and Representative Bartholdt of Missouri.

Mr. Bartholdt said England had enacted a similar law in 1853, just before the Crimean war, and regarded it as a domestic matter. He cited the biography of Ambassador White at Berlin in 1898, during the Spanish-American war, to show Germany's attitude. A shipload of war materials had left Hamburg for a Spanish port when Mr. White protested, he said, and the German government, although it had a clear right to permit such traffic, ordered the ship back to Hamburg to be unloaded.

ADMITS LARCENY CHARGE.

Thomas White Draws Deferred Sentence for Flour Theft.

Thomas White, aged 57, 102 West Second street, appeared in municipal court this morning, before Judge F. H. Cutting, and pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny. His sentence was deferred, pending an investigation of the case by Probation Officer Hicks.

When arraigned for the first time yesterday, White pleaded not guilty. He was charged with stealing an eighty-five-pound sack of flour, which had fallen from a delivery wagon belonging to Tessman Bros. company, 102 East Michigan street. He was arrested by Detectives Frank Schulte and Donald Irvine.

UTILITY MEN MEET.

Merritt Association Hears Address Given By Ray Pattison.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Merritt Utility association held last evening in the city hall chambers, a paper on "The Duties of Distribution Employes" was read by Ray Pattison. A general discussion followed the paper.

The association is composed of all the employes in the water and light department, there being a membership at present of about 150. The object of the organization is to bring the employes together and to discuss the questions of the division.

E. W. Kelly, chief engineer, is the president.

MAMMA, DADDY AND CHILDREN ALL LOVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"
Harmless "Fruit Laxative" Cleanses Stomach, Liver and Bowels.
A delicious cure for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all this distress lies in a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.
A tablespoonful to-night means all constipation, poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even a delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel regulator and tonic ever devised.
Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Say to your druggist, "I want only that made by the 'California Fig Syrup Company.'" This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.

DECEPTION IS SUICIDE

Truth in Advertising Necessary to Business Success, Says Kenner.

Secretary of Minneapolis Vigilance Committee Talks to Merchants.

Trickery, untruth or deception of any sort in advertising is a slow method of committing business suicide, according to H. J. Kenner, secretary of the vigilance committee of the Minneapolis Ad Forum, who talked on "Truth in Advertising" at a joint meeting of the Duluth Retail Merchants' association and the Duluth Ad club. Mr. Kenner's address followed a dinner and business meeting at the St. Louis hotel.

The speaker told of the vigilance work done by the "truth" committee of the Minneapolis Ad Forum and of the results it is accomplishing along all lines. He declared that successful advertising had been defined as "an investment in public confidence" and that the truth bureau of the Minneapolis Ad Forum operated upon the principle that to make this investment safe and sound, advertisers must tell the truth, tell it well and stick to it.

"The Truth Bureau of Minneapolis," said Mr. Kenner, "will be most happy to join hands with the Truth Bureau of Duluth and exchange information, if such a bureau is established in yout city.

Advertiser on Honor.

"Co-operation reaches its highest efficiency in advertising. In fact, advertising is nothing more nor less than an appeal for co-operation. Therefore, the advertiser is by reason of his invitation to the reader, put upon his honor. Yet there are many advertisers who pride themselves upon their verbal truthfulness, but who deal in fiction in their advertising to a startling degree.

"The maxim, 'Caveat Emptor'—the buyer beware—is becoming obsolete in merchandising. Man-to-man truthfulness is coming into its own in advertising. The wise advertiser is beginning to realize that he must stand squarely in front of his readers, look them in the eyes, and deliver the straightest tale he can possibly construct—if he wishes his advertising to pull anywhere near the maximum of its possibilities.

"Truth in advertising can be uniformly achieved by the influence of three distinct forces. It can be brought about by public opinion; it can be compelled by advertising media—the newspapers and magazines—or it can be attained by advertising themselves.

"Advertising is regarded as a sinister force by many estimable people who have not taken the pains to prove that their prejudices are based on the exception rather than the rule in advertising. But the man who gets 'stung' because he has had faith in advertising is quite certain that all advertising is buncombe. A radical public opinion can force advertising to sheer truthfulness, but long before that advertising will have lost much of its effect.

"Thou Shalt Not Lie."

"It is not to be desired that public opinion force truth upon advertisers, and it is not wished that any newspaper or magazine stand with a club over the advertiser and say: 'Thou shalt not lie.'

"The advertiser much prefers to take it upon himself to correct his advertising before either the newspaper club or the big stick of public opinion is raised against him. At least this is the attitude which we believe Minneapolis advertisers have taken.

"When the establishment of a bureau to investigate their advertising and bring prosecutions under the existing state law—passed in March, 1913—was first broached to the merchants of Minneapolis it seemed rather odd to them that they should be asked to contribute money to a service which should determine whether or not their advertising were honest. In fact, it was said by wise heads that they would not subscribe real money to such a proposition, that they were afraid to do it. But they did it and they are highly satisfied with their investment.

"In March, 1914, about fifty-five retailers and national advertisers subscribed approximately $3,000 to carry on the work of the Truth bureau, or Bureau of Fair Competition, as it was first called. H. P. Wickham, an ex-police reporter, was employed to carry on the work.

Educational Work.

"From the first it was designed that the work should be more of an educational force than a police power. Newspaper stories and advertising space in the dailies announced the inauguration of this work to the public. It was planned to work first amongst the merchants themselves in a man-to-man endeavor to get their co-operation in the campaign to make truth paramount in Minneapolis advertising.

"With that idea in mind, blanks were furnished to all subscribers to the bureau. On these blanks information was given regarding the statement and when and where it appeared. When the investigation was completed, the facts gathered were presented with the action that the bureau had taken in a confidential report.

"The bureau believes in prosecution only when a violator of the law persists in violations. In other words, it gives every man a chance to clean up. We have had very few cases in court.

"It took about $3,000 to run the bureau from March 1, 1914, to March 1, 1915. This included salaries, purchases and every expense except rent, which was donated. Next year, in an office of our own, paying rent, we will spend about the same amount.

"Our new year begins March 1, yet we have already secured renewals of subscriptions for half the $3,000 needed.

"We lost only one subscriber last year, for reason of dissatisfaction, and thus far we have secured four new ones for the coming year. Several subscribers have voluntarily raised their subscriptions and only one has asked for reduction, and he said he would pay former amount if need be.

"One standard national magazine found that only 20 per cent of subscribers queried believed what they read in advertisements. There is immediate need for decided action on behalf of truth in all advertising.

Economically Right.

"The merchants and national advertisers of Minneapolis are in this movement for clean advertising because it is economically right. It is generally conceded that a thing is morally right if it is economically right.

"We believe that untruth, trickery, or any cort of deception in advertising is a slow method of committing business suicide. And we want to vitalize and build toward greater volume of sales, through our constructive bureau service.

"Our merchants are confident of the business sanity of our work, yet in the last analysis it requires vision and gameness to go through with a Truth campaign.

"Duluth has an advertising conscience that needs but to be awakened to make her investments in public confidence increasingly profitable and permanently safe."

About sixty members of the two organizations attended the joint meeting. The retail merchants and the ad men gathered in the cafe of the New St. Louis hotel at 5:30 o'clock, where a sumptuous feast had been prepared for the occasion.

J. J. Moe, president of the Duluth Retail Merchants' association presided at the business meeting and routine matters were disposed of before the address of the evening was given by Mr. Kenner.

A. C. Pearson, credit manager for French & Bassett, and president of the local organization of credit men, and W. B. Brinkman, manager for the George A. Gray company, called attention to the annual convention of the National Credit Men's association to be held in Duluth in August. George A. Gray reported that the committee in charge of preparations for the annual Duluth Style show had agreed upon March 25, 26 and 27 as dates.

LOOKS FOR TUBE UNDER CANAL SOON

Commissioner Merritt Declares Aerial Bridge Will Soon Be Inadequate.

Commissioner Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, declared that the time will soon come when the construction of a tube underneath the Duluth canal will be necessary to handle the traffic to and from Minnesota Point.

"I consider that the bridge is nearing the point where it will be inadequate," said Commissioner Merritt. "We have just ordered two more miles of paving on the point, which will make a fine auto course and will attract many across the canal. The bridge will feel this traffic increase.

"We have trouble with the bridge in every spell of heavy weather. Violent winds, of which there are many in this section, rock the cab and put the bridge out of commission. The span is not necessarily dangerous, however. It is impractical and troublesome.

"It has been contended that, owing to the depth to which it would be necessary to sink the tube to give boats ample draft, engineers would have to carry approaches a great distance back on Lake avenue, involving condemnation of much high-priced property. The tunnel could be placed east of Lake avenue a block to avoid condemnation of expensive property."

THIEF RIVER FALLS CREAMERY PROSPERS

Annual Meeting Just Held Declares Dividend of 10 Per Cent.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Creamery association, just held, showed that institution to be in a very prosperous condition. Following the meeting 260 sat down to a banquet served by the United church and paid for by the members of the association.

The new officers elected follow: President, Carsten Christensen; vice president, H. L. Muzzey; secretary, Henry Hanson; treasurer, Halvor Fodstad; director, Jens Loftness.

The report of the retiring secretary, Peter Engelstad, Pennington county's most prosperous farmer, created much interest in view of the fact that he urged the payment of a dividend of 10 per cent to the stockholders, this being the first dividend of the association.

Mr. Engelstad has been connected with the local creamery as secretary since its organization. The report showed that the average price paid for butterfat during 1914 was 33.42 cents.

Gross Receipts Increased.

The gross receipts of the organization increased 55 per cent in 1914. The increase in the production of butterfat was 13 per cent over any previous year. The report also shows that there was a total of 836,193 pounds of cream, 118,607 pounds of whole milk and 83,631 pounds of skimmed milk received during the year. The average test of cream was 28.32 per cent and of milk was 3.8 per cent; 176,214 pounds of butter were shipped, 91,537 pounds were sold in the city and 1,397 pounds were sold to patrons. The per cent of overrun was 23.17. On Dec. 31, 1913, there was a balance in the treasury amounting to $47.38 and on Dec. 31, 1914, this balance had been increased to $268,7.88. The total receipts for butter shipped were $49,402.75 and from all products sold in the city, $37,860.22. Patrons were paid $74,784.11 during the last year.

LUMBER CAMPS MISREPRESENTED

Surveyor General Kennedy Says Charges of Bad Conditions Are Untrue.

Stories that lumber camps near Duluth are "not fit for dogs to live in," are unfounded, according to W. A. Kennedy, state surveyor general of logs and lumber, who receives reports from twenty assistants, constantly in the field.

"Two men working under my direction north of Winton and three along the Alger-Smith line," reported Mr. Kennedy yesterday, "declare that all camps coming under their observation were sanitary and that the food served to the men was good."

Andrew Myles, state timber cruiser, also stated that he had found no indications of bad living in the camps. None of the twenty men working under the direction of Mr. Kennedy have made or received unfavorable reports, he says.

Complaints to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, some time ago, alleging that conditions in camps were "deplorable," started an agitation for betterment of the lot of the lumberjack. The complaint has been referred by Dr. Webster to the state board of health and by it to the state labor bureau.

LOOK FOR SNOW.

So Says Prediction of Official Weather Bureau at Washington.

Washington, Feb. 3.—This is today's official weather bureau bulletin:

"There will be snows tonight in New England, New York, and on the Middle Atlantic coast, followed by fair in these districts Thursday. Snows are also probable in the upper lake region. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi river the weather will be fair tonight and Thursday. Temperature will rise Thursday in the lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf states.

"Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Block Island to Eastport, Me."

W. A. BOURKE IS HOST TO MASTERS.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments that the members of the Duluth lodge of Shipmasters and their wives have had this season took place last evening at the rooms of the Lake Carriers' association, at the foot of Fifth avenue west, when fifty-six of them were guests of William A. Bourke, commissioner of the association at Duluth.

G. A. Tomlinson, who is resident director of the association, gave a very enthusiastic and suggestive talk on "Team Work," telling what the association is doing for the licensed officers and the seamen, and of how the latter are beginning to co-operate when they find that the association is sincerely desirous of establishing their welfare. Another interesting talk was that by H. W. Richardson, weather forecaster at Duluth. Mr. Richardson told of the efforts which the weather bureau is making to benefit and protect the men.

There was an elaborate luncheon, informal music and dancing following the addresses.

PORTUGUESE SEND TROOPS INTO AFRICA.

Berlin, Feb. 3, by wireless to London.—A dispatch from Lisbon says:

Reinforcements have been sent to Angola-Angola as the Germans now occupy the greater part of that colony.

Announcement was made early in January that German forces had invaded Portuguese Angola on the Western coast of Africa, although there had been no declaration of war between the two countries. The Portuguese casualties in Angola were estimated at that time at about 800 killed, wounded and prisoners. The Germans were said to have lost about 200. It was said that 4,000 fresh Portuguese troops were ready to embark for Africa.

PLEADS OWN CASE; IS SENT TO JAIL.

Following a jury trial wherein Raymond Boyer, aged 28, charged with escaping from the city and county work farm on Jan. 21, acted as his own lawyer yesterday, he was found guilty and sentenced to forty-five days in the county jail by Municipal Judge F. H. Cutting.

Boyer's interpretations of legal methods and procedure furnished a large audience with considerable amusement during the day. With Anthony Fink and Frank Hahn, Boyer left the work farm and was at liberty several hours. Hahn was given a sixty-day jail sentence Jan. 22.

Court Dismisses Jurors; Prisoner Charged With Theft of Copper.

George K. Robertson, Northern Pacific switchman, charged with complicity in the theft of copper plates worth $3,000 from a Northern Pacific railway box car a year ago last November, will be obliged to stand trial a second time for the crime of which he has been accused.

After deliberating forty-three hours and fifteen minutes and spending two nights at the courthouse, a jury reported to Judge Fesler at noon today that it was unable to reach an agreement on Robertson's guilt or innocence. The court discharged the jurors from further consideration of the case and ordered a mistrial entered on the court journal.

Since yesterday afternoon, the jury has twice filed into the court room. At 10:20 o'clock last evening, the foreman advised the court that apparently there was no chance of reaching a verdict. Judge Fesler asked them to try to agree and sent them back. Soon afterwards the jurors retired to their improvised sleeping quarters.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning, the jurors again returned into court and asked that a portion of the court's charge bearing upon corroborating evidence be read to them. Again they returned to their quarters and there remained until noon, when the court was notified that they were hopelessly divided. It is understood that the final ballot stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal.

Robertson was jointly indicted with Joseph Regali, also a switchman, and Zigmund Zalk, foreman for the Duluth Iron & Metal company. After his arrest Zalk confessed, implicating Robertson and Regali. When Robertson's case was brought on for trial, Zalk turned state's evidence and testified that he had a "deal" with Robertson and Regali, two switchmen, to "spot" the car containing the copper anodes near the yard of the metal company in order to facilitate the theft. Zalk testified that he gave the two men $300 for the job. He also told how the metal was removed by himself and two other employes of the metal company one night and how it had been concealed under a pile of rubbish near the railroad tracks where it remained for more than a year before it was discovered.

Robertson denied having any knowledge of the transaction and brought witnesses into court to prove his previous good character. He also sought to prove that Zalk, who had turned state's evidence, had a bad reputation for truthfulness and veracity.

Regali has not yet been tried. County Attorney Warren E. Greene appeared as prosecuting attorney and John H. Norton represented the defendant.

SECRETARY IS WITNESS

Rockefeller Foundation Executive Again on Stand.

Says Character of Directors Guarantee Against Misuse of Power.

New York, Feb. 3.—Jerome D. Greene, secretary of the Rockefeller foundation, was a witness again today before the Federal commission on industrial relations conducting an inquiry here into the causes of industrial unrest.

Among those present and ready to testify today was Paul Basek, a striker, who was wounded at Roosevelt, N. J. He said he had not been summoned but that he had been asked by labor men to appear.

When the hearing opened today, Jerome D. Greene resumed the stand. His entire time was devoted to the work of the Rockefeller foundation, he asserted.

The word "publicity" Mr. Greene said, had "been given a black eye," because of methods by which editorial and news space used to be purchased in newspapers. The "honest publicity as dispensed by Ivy J. Lee," the witness thought, was perfectly fair and proper.

The foundation now employs only three clerks. The number may be "increased later, when the foundation is a little older," Mr. Greene said.

No Misuse of Power.

Mr. Greene said the character of the Rockefeller directors was insurance against a misuse of power. Legal restrictions upon the actions of directors would be bad, he thought. If there ever was a misuse of power it was within the right of the legislature to revoke the charter of the Rockefeller foundation or any other foundations.

He was questioned closely about how he arranged for the legislature to grant the Rockefeller foundation a charter. Under its charter the Rockefeller foundation might conduct a propaganda against trade unionism, the witness admitted.

"But," he added, "such a thing would be atrocious. I might go into the street and commit murder if I had a gun."

The Union Label.

Chairman Walsh asked Mr. Greene whether under its charter the foundation could prohibit the use of the union label in the publications to which it had given money.

"I don't like these questions," the witness replied. "They are unfair."

Mr. Walsh said he had no desire to be unfair, but he just wanted to determine if such things were possible under the charter.

Mr. Greene said the foundation could conduct a campaign against workmen's compensation for injuries. "But, I assure you that it would not," he added.

IN BETTER SHAPE.

Chicago News: A tourist once happened to meet the usual "oldest inhabitant" of a village. In the course of conversation he asked the ancient his age.

"I be just 100," was the reply.

"Well, I doubt if you'll see another hundred years," said the tourist, trying to make conversation.

"I don't know so much about that, master," was the hopeful response. "I be stronger now than when I started on my first hundred."

FORMER DULUTHIAN IS NOW IN TRENCHES WITH ENGLISH TROOPS

Capt. Eugene Houghton, formerly of Duluth and later of Winnipeg, Man., is believed to be now in the trenches on the continent in front of the German army. His brother, Fred P. Houghton of the Tomlinson company, Board of Trade building, received a letter from the captain, dated Jan. 4, from Salisbury Plain, England, in which the writer said that he expected that he and his men would be transported to the continent some time between Jan. 15 and 20.

At the time the letter was written, Capt. Houghton was in a hospital with a slight attack of blood poisoning in his hand, the result of experimenting with rapid-fire guns and their mountings. He was sent from Canada in command of a rapid-fire squad, as he had qualified in both the United States and Canada as a champion marksman.

While in England Capt. Houghton invented a new mount for rapid-fire guns, which is lighter, more serviceable and better adapted to quick movement than the old style, and the British government has adopted it, using it now in all of its rapid-fire gun squads. The captain has been put in charge of sixteen rapid-fire squads and will have charge of that number in the war in France.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN WAR AND PEACE

War Measures Teach How to Mobilize Armies of Industry.

By GRAHAM TAYLOR.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

Unemployment is testing the patriotism and national resources of all the peoples at war. The test in the rear was instantly recognized to be one and the same with the test at the front. The military army and the industrial army were considered equally vital to the national defense.

However, industrial depression had hitherto been left to crush whom it might, however unemployment had been regarded as a misfortune to be borne as best it might by the individual or by the class, however the right to work had been denied and the assertion of it denounced—now without a moment's hesitation this laissez faire attitude toward unemployment was abandoned and the nations recognized the claim of their people to be nized the claim of their people to be kept at work. As soon as each parliament was faced by the possibility of war, it squarely faced the certainty of unemployment as a national crisis which could be met only by national resources.

War Budgets Provide Work at Home.

The necessity of making some provision in advance to meet the lack of work was anticipated by the governments before it began to be felt seriously by the workers themselves. In the very first war budgets large appropriations were included to pay for public work undertaken to compensate in part, at least, for the decrease in private employment. Among the earliest measures for national defense taken in Germany, France and Britain were enabling acts authorizing the national and local administration to protect and promote employment. Public work already undertaken was thus continued. New enterprises requiring labor on a large scale were initiated. The British parliament added its first appropriation of $500,000,000 for war purposes, another of $20,000,000 to keep the building trades busy in erecting and renovating dwellings for better housing of the working classes. Housing thus became a national issue, as a legislative principle at least.

In Germany new public enterprises have been started by many municipalities, urged by the reichstag and supplemented by the imperial government. Experience in social legislation enabled both these nations, the more readily and effectively, to mobilize all their national resources, not only for the defense of their frontiers, but for the conservation of their industrial forces at home. "Arms and the man" found its equivalent in "tools and the man."

Crises of Peace.

If the certainty and disastrous effects of economic depression and unemployment could thus be anticipated, forefended, and provided for, in any measure, by people distracted and distraught by war, is not the possibility suggested of mobilizing the greater resources of forethought and reserve capital available in times of peace, to meet the same sort of an emergency in a nation's industrial life?

No crisis has become more chronic than that which throws multitudes of workers in every land out of their employment. And yet no industrial nation more than ours has so utterly ignored the possibility, not to say certainty, of the frequently, almost regularly, recurring periods of industrial depression and unemployment.

We act as though such an emergency would never come again, however many times we well remember it to have come. When it does come, we do nothing directly to meet it. Indeed, with more caution than is truly cautious, we diminish our commercial and industrial activity, thus making matters worse. Although the classes who most suffer by industrial depression are least responsible for it and least able to protect themselves from it, they are unjustly left to bear the brunt of the burden and to suffer disaster from which many of them never recover either their self-dependence or their industrial efficiency.

National Strength for Industrial Disasters.

There, then, is the sorry contrast between mobilization for war and the lack of it in peace. Under the urgency of war the nation instinctively feels that the strength of all is impaired by the weakness of any, that its whole resource is available to conserve every vital force, that as each individual and class is needed by all, so all that the nation has is available for each. This is the justice newly experienced in Germany, Britain and France by those who have hitherto for the most part been left to suffer alone the national industrial disasters of peace.

The difference between the two experiences lies precisely at the point thus indicated. It is in the presence or absence of a national consciousness and resourcefulness in meeting national industrial emergencies. In peace we have not yet become conscious that unemployment is a national emergency, to be met only by the concern and the resources of the whole nation. In America, the emergency is still thoughtlessly and unjustly left to the individual, the family, the locality and the class suffering most from it, to grapple with. Even they delay so late to do so that they can have recourse only to charity, seldom to justice; only to relief, never to prevention; only to recovery from disastrous effects, not to dealing with causes of disaster.

This has been and now is the experience of every industrial community hit hardest by the present paralysis of trade and labor. Private employment agencies fail to find work for their applicants, who are often their victims. Public employment agencies are so narrowly localized and disconnected, so politically exploited and therefore ineffective, that they are no better than private organizations, if as good, in bringing the demand and supply together. Employers are besought for jobs that they do not have. Their charity is appealed to for part-time work, when there is no demand for the product of the workers already employed. Public authorities are turned to as a last resort to provide "relief work," which generally proves to be only another form of public dole to the unemployable and inefficient.

Great constructive public work to employ the employable is the last resource to be thought of in peace, although the first to be resorted to in war. Should it not be resorted to, not at the very end of everything else, but when private employment is slacking up, and as an alternate with seasonal work? On the other hand, should not great private interests, which demand reserve labor for work unavoidably seasonal, be expected to tide their own reserves over periods of slack work or unemployment? If both public and private employers deem it not waste but economy to sustain their reserve soldiers, police, firemen, watchmen, and emergency corps during periods of inaction, have not the reserve mechanics, craftsmen, and laborers of industrial forces somewhat the same claim to be upheld while they are in reserve?

In the very act of denying the right to live, war is asserting the long and unjustly withheld right to work for a living. Not the least of the reprisals which peace may take from war may be constructive, constant, progressive national policy to assure employment to the employable.

WOULD FOSTER PATRIOTISM

Office Men's Association Will Advocate Observance of National Days.

Commander Moffatt Will Address Banquet on Thursday, Next Week.

At the February dinner of the Duluth Association of Office Men to be held Thursday evening, Feb. 11, a movement will be started for a more general observance of patriotic holidays and events.

J. Harris Trux, president of the association, announced this morning that Commander W. A. Moffatt, in charge of the governmental training stations on the Great Lakes, who will be the principal speaker at the banquet, will also address the pupils in the public schools at the special exercises to be held in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, the following day.

Commander Moffatt, who is coming to Duluth under the auspices of the Navy League of America, was to have been here some weeks ago with Field Secretary Lewis, when the latter addressed the office men's association, but at the last minute was unable to leave. Commander Moffatt was in command of the gunboat which covered the landing of the United States troops at Vera Cruz, shelling the Mexicans with her big guns until the jackies and marines had secured a foothold on land.

In addition, Mr. Trux announced, plans are now being made for a special city-wide program for George Washington's birthday anniversary, thus beginning the movement for a more general observance of these patriotic holidays and national events. The campaign is to be extended especially among the school children of the city.

At the banquet on Feb. 11 W. H. Schilling, assistant superintendent of schools, will address the office men on his experiences in the European war zone immediately after the opening of hostilities. Mr. Schilling was visiting in Europe before the war broke out.

The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock and will follow in order those held each month during the past year. A similar program is being followed out for 1915.

Lack Forty Names.

The petition being circulated for the recall of Mayor J. S. Konkel still is forty names short of being completed, according to a statement given out this morning by one of the instigators of the petition. Backers of the movement say they will have the petition complete so that it can be filed with the city commissioners early next week.

To Open Home for Women.

The Children's Home association of Superior and Douglas county will open a home for women at 2100 Ohio avenue, Billings Park, said to have become necessary owing to the crowded condition of other charitable institutions in the county. The place was purchased by the association some time ago and the announcement that it would be opened was made yesterday.

Want Street Railway to Share.

Property owners interested in the extension of the paving on Belknap street and the paving of West Fifth and West Seventh streets, propose to make the street railway company stand a share of the cost if possible. At a meeting of forty of the property owners held last night a resolution asking the city to institute action against the railway company, compelling it to pave between the tracks, was adopted. The property owners intend paving the full width of the street, but propose to only pay for that part of the work between the curbing and the company's rails.

Charged With Illegal Voting.

Earl Thorp was arrested this morning on a charge of having voted illegally at the general election last November. His arrest was brought about following investigations of alleged illegal voting in the Second precinct of the Fourth ward. Thorp is accused of not having been a legal voter in the city. It is claimed by the authorities that he had not lived in the city or state long enough to have established a residence. Thorp is said to have formerly lived in Duluth. When arraigned before Court Commissioner Pickering this morning he pleaded not guilty and, through an attorney, asked for a change of venue. His case will be taken before Court Commissioner Kellogg.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINTERY WILL PUBLISH ZENITH THIS YEAR

After a long discussion yesterday, the members of the Central high school Zenith board finally decided to have the Zenith printed at the high school printing department. This marked the culmination of three weeks of indecision on the part of the board and although the members unanimously expressed their approval it was reached only after a thorough and exhaustive discussion.

The annual has always been printed by some of the local companies. This year the board of education installed a complete printing department in the manual training building and put it in charge of Robert Rankin.

There are a few things that will have to be done outside, but for the most part the book will be a high school production. Contracts for the linotype and binding work will be awarded to some of the local concerns, otherwise the school printery is so completely equipped that the work may be thoroughly done. The Gazette, the high school bi-weekly paper, is printed at this department and mistakes are rare. Many of the students are taking printing and under the careful supervision of Mr. Rankin they have developed rapidly and will aid materially in the production of the Zenith. One, or possibly more, professional printers will be employed by Mr. Rankin to put on some of the more difficult parts of the job.

Printing the annual at the school department will take just a little while longer, but this is off-set by the great saving that will be made. The work will be started immediately and with each member of the board putting his utmost efforts into the project, the task will have been completed in due time. The Zenith board members realize that the entire responsibility rests on their shoulders and that they will have to take the blame for any mistakes that may develop. Each and every member of the board, however, is absolutely determined that there will be no mistakes and that the book will be the best one ever turned out by a graduating class, even though they have a certain expense limit above which they must not go.

HAROLD COE,
Editor-in-Chief of the Zenith.

To Harold Coe, the editor-in-chief, belongs the greatest credit for the success of the annual thus far. He has a hard-working and enthusiastic board under him and they should turn out an excellent publication.

ENGLISH FRIENDLY TO AMERICANS

British Customs Official Writes of War—Tells of Conditions in Belgium—No Conscription Feared in Island Kingdom.

The people of England are in hearty sympathy with the people of the United States in regard to the controversy between the two countries over the question involving the right of the British government to search American vessels, according to John R. Grant, official in the English customs and excise offices at South Shields, Eng., in a letter written to his cousin, William E. McEwen, postmaster at Duluth. The war is an economic one to a large extent, the letter states, and England is eager to prevent Germany from getting any materials for food or equipment that may prolong the struggle. The blow is intended to weaken Germany and is meant in no way as an unfriendly act toward the United States.

Mr. Grant opens by stating unqualifiedly that the English are confident the allies will win. The cause of England's entry into the conflict is given solely as the breaking of the neutrality of Belgium by Germany. England's friendly attitude to Belgium is shown, according to the letter, by the English people, who are caring for thousands of Belgian refugees who are wandering over the country homeless except for shelter given by strangers.

"The official correspondence between the two countries concerned will convince you of the justice of our cause," the letter adds.

Newspapers' Attitude.

The hostile attitude of the English newspapers toward the government is largely due to the strict censorship of the government and the forbidding of war correspondents to go to the front. The American newspapers are getting about the same war news that is available to the English press.

As to the war situation at present, the English feel that there is a deadlock, but that the advantage is gradually turning in favor of the allies.

Conscription in England to increase the British army is being widely discussed there, says Mr. Grant, but he declares that he does not believe it will be necessary.

"We in England are filled with admiration for the German army," the letter states, "as a fighting force, but all of us are filled with horror at the awful atrocities committed in Belgium. I cannot describe to you what Englishmen feel in regard to this poor country. We have given—all of us—of our substance as much as we can spare to help these poor folks. We have taken thousands of refugees from Belgium into our towns, and each municipality is caring for a number.

"Think of your own state of Minnesota being invaded by a million men and terrible inventions of war; the overwhelming of your little army; your churches, houses and valuable buildings destroyed.

"Such things have been done to a terrible extent in Belgium. Hundreds of thousands of people are wandering about homeless. It's a desolate land, full of destitute people."

DAIRY PLAN IS CHECKED

Importing Cattle to This Locality Stopped Because of Disease.

Danger of Foot and Mouth Affliction Suspends Ashland Plan.

The committee that has been having in charge the distribution of blooded dairy stock among farmers here on what is known as the Ashland plan, has halted its activities and will not resume until all chances of bringing in the hoof and mouth disease, which is causing such depredations among cattle in various part of the country, will have passed. The stock in this part of the state, and, in fact, throughout the state as a whole, is free from the disease and breeders are taking no chances of importing it by buying more stock. It is expected that by spring the disease will be stamped out, or reduced enough so that activities in importing stock may be resumed.

E. G. Church, who has had charge of the work of assigning the dairy cattle, said today.

"It is really too bad that this condition should arise for we figured on the introduction into this wonderful dairy country of a lot more stock between now and spring. Not only have those who have already been furnished with stock made good and are entitled to more help, but we have numerous applications from others who have not been heretofore helped, but who now want dairy stock on the same basis as the others. These have been looked up and have been found perfectly worthy of the credit to be extended; but now we are blocked by this fear of spreading the disease, and we must wait until that danger will have passed.

"We have been singularly fortunate in the extension of credits. The farmers herabout who have been favored in this way, have lived up to the very letter of their agreement as to payments and breeds, and all of them are finding that the new plan is making them good money. They are disposed to foster it and branch out, and I predict that in an unexpectedly short time you will find a whole army of prosperous farmers at the back door of Duluth."

A LOGICAL DYSPEPSIA TREATMENT

Importance of Eliminating Acidity and Food Fermentation.

During the past two or three years reports have frequently appeared in the Press concerning the remarkable value of bisurated magnesia as an antacid; and its ability to promote normal, healthy digestion by preventing food fermentation and neutralizing dangerous stomach acid has often been demonstrated. Until recently druggists could supply bisurated magnesia in powder form only, from one to two teaspoonfuls of which, taken in a little water after meals, almost instantly stops all fermentation and neutralizes acid, but sufferers from stomach trouble will be glad to learn that, after a long series of experiments, a leading firm of manufacturing druggists has now succeeded in producing a 5-grain tablet which combines all the valuable antacid properties of the ordinary bisurated magnesia in a very convenient form. This new tablet of bisurated magnesia can now be obtained of druggists everywhere and many physicians are already prescribing them instead of the powder form.

BOYS' CABINET HOLDS MEETING

The regular February meeting of the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., cabinet was held at the home of Louis Wade, 1831 Jefferson street, last night. Reports were read of the work of the different committees and work planned for the month.

The minstrel show dates were changed from Feb. 25-26 to March 3-4. Speakers were secured for the Sunday club for the month and programs made. The following will go to the state convention to be held at Mankato Feb. 11 to 14: Russell Duncan, Gordon Hegardt, Charles Diers, Ben McCabe, Edwin Pearson, Harold Coe, Ed Scrivens, Willard Thorp, Ralph McCarthy. There will also be two boys from the Denfeld High School Boys' club who will go to the convention.

Mr. Leitch gave an address last night to the high school club at the boys' department on the "Greatest Story Ever Told," it being the story of how the Bible has survived.

On Friday night there will be a night of games on the gymnasium floor, with refreshments after.

TROYER HEADS CLUB.

"Aggies" at Central School Hold Semi-Annual Meeting.

In a close contest Marc Troyer was elected president of the Agricultural club of the Duluth Central high school yesterday afternoon at the semi-annual meeting of the club. Troyer received nineteen votes, while Frank Cox obtained sixteen. Stuart Taylor, the former president, received fourteen votes and Russell came close behind with thirteen votes.

Other officers elected were: Vice president, Phillip Seymour; recording secretary, Ben McCabe; corresponding secretary, Marc Troyer; treasurer, Carlyle Burgess.

The new president gave a short talk urging the members to attend meetings more regularly. Committees will be appointed soon. Reports of work done by each committee during the last semester will be made at the next meeting.

FOLLOWERS OF "SKY PILOT"

Convert of F. E. Higgins Declared to Be "Second Billy Sunday."

J. W. Sornberger Will Conduct Meetings With Former Saloon keeper.

J. W. Sornberger of this city, one of the converts of "Sky-pilot" Higgins of the lumber camps, who was dubbed the "Second 'Billy' Sunday" at the St. Paul auditorium two years ago, will devote his time this winter to evangelistic work. Cities throughout the Northwest have asked for his services, and he has consented to conduct a series of revival meetings at Delano beginning Feb. 21.

Mr. Sornberger is said to be a remarkably eloquent speaker, and has created a sensation wherever he has spoken. Last summer he made a trip from Niagara Falls to Denver, and during this tour spoke at Dr. Timothy Stone's church in Chicago. Dr. Stone is said to have declared that Mr. Sornberger's address was one of the most powerful he had ever heard.

Noon Meetings.

P. R. Peterson, another of Rev. Mr. Higgins' converts, who is conducting religious work in the camps, was speaker at the Y. M. C. A. this noon and gave an account of the work being done now. He also addressed a noon meeting at The Herald office.

"The old lumberjack is passing," said Mr. Peterson. "Only a few remain of that sturdy group of men who cut their way through the virgin forests and helped to build up the great Northwest.

"Booze and the wear and tear of time have reduced their numbers, while many of the more temperate and sturdy are still in the woods."

Many of the woodsmen of the present time are unfitted for their work he said. Men who might be earning large salaries are now working for $18 a month because they are victims of "booze." A singer who might be earning a large salary is now a cook and another woodsman who formerly held a responsible position with a leading railroad is swinging an ax.

Mr. Peterson was once a saloon keeper and whisky salesman, but was persuaded by the "Sky-Pilot" to do religious work eleven years ago. Mr. Petersen will aid Mr. Sornberger at Delano during the revival meetings there.

DULUTH BUILDERS TO CEMENT SHOW

Many Will Attend Exhibition in Chicago—Much Construction Expected.

Interest of Duluth contractors is being aroused in the cement show to be held in the Coliseum, Chicago, on Feb. 10 to 17. It is taken for granted that he trade here will be well represented.

A record attendance, both of exhibitors and visitors from all over the country, is regarded as assured. Within a month after the floor plans were opened last July, it is said that every foot of space in the big building was taken, and there is now a waiting list of over thirty manufacturers, who expect to make exhibits if arrangements can be made for them.

Cement men the country over, according to reports, are firmly convinced that 1915 will be a banner year in concrete construction. This industry is recognized as being peculiarly susceptible to changes in business conditions, therefore when trade in that class of construction is good, the indications point to public confidence being strong with business prospects correspondingly bright.

On Feb. 8 and 9, just prior to the opening of the cement show, members of the National Builders' Supply association will hold their sixteenth annual convention at the Hotel Sherman. Important questions, vitally affecting the welfare of the building material dealer, will be discussed.

Six Steamers Icebound.

SKATING TO THEIR WORK

Marching Club of Summer Mornings Has a New Rival.

Lakesiders Skate Along Lake Shore to Their Offices.

The B. V. D. Marching club has a serious rival.

In the balmy days of summer and fall the Marchers may be seen early in the morning, walking to work.

When the chill winter winds begin to blow, and the sidewalks are snow-covered, the Marchers desert the ranks of the club and take to the "Warren Fives" if they are not fortunate enough to own a "six" or an "eight" or a "one lunger" of their own.

But the Marching club has been replaced by the Fleece-lined Skating brigade.

Every morning from fifteen to twenty-five Lakesiders have been skating to work. The ice on the lake is now smooth and firm, and safe enough close to shore. When the wind is not too high or is in the right direction, the skaters make good progress. With a favorable wind, a good skater can beat the street car to the city.

"It's great," said one of them this morning. "It beats the old walking-to-work game seven ways. You get to your desk in a brisk glow, with your blood circulating freely, and able to do a day's work in half a day. With a good wind behind you, you can open your coat and sail in. I am going to keep it up just as long as the ice lasts."

GETS AMERICAN COMMISSION.

Canadian Will Take Depositions Across Line for St. Louis County.

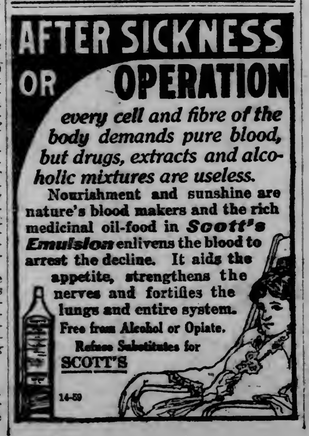

Judge Fesler in district court yesterday signed an order granting a commission to J. F. MacGillvray, notary public, at Kenora, Ont., to take the depositions of Wilhelm Boqvist, Mrs. Anna Swanson and Dr. Chapman, all Kenora residents, who will testify as witnesses on behalf of Marie Boqvist in her suit for divorce against her husband Gustav Boqvist.

The action is now pending in district court here.

The girl enlisted under a man's name and the deception has just been discovered. The cross of St. George, fourth degree, has been awarded to her.

APPEALS TO AMBASSADOR

Man Who Blew Up Bridge Puts Case Before Von Bernstorff.

Novel Features Without Precedent Involved in Matter.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 3.—Werner Van Horn, who attempted to blow up the railway bridge here yesterday, today appealed to the German ambassador at Washington, Count Von Bernstorff. He told the latter that he had not been on Canadian soil and asked for protection from extradition to Canada.

Presents Novel Features.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Great Britain's application for the extradition of Werner Van Horn, charged with attempting to blow up a Canadian Pacific railway bridge on the Canadian side of the St. Croix river with dynamite, rested today in the British embassy. It was to be formally presented to the state department before night. Meanwhile American officials declined to discuss the case and the diplomatic representatives of the allies here, as well as of Germany and Austria, were observing the proceedings with watchful interest.

The case here presents some novel features and in some respects is without precedent. In time of peace and under normal conditions the matter would be simple, for the crime is covered in paragraph 12, article 1, of the supplementary extradition treaty of 1900 between the United States and Great Britain negotiated by Secretary Hay and Ambassador Pauncefote.

Adds to List of Crimes.

That article adds to the list of crimes for which extradition was demanded, included in the original treaty of 1889, the following:

"Willful and unlawful destruction or obstruction of railroads which endangers human life."

But Van Horn is reported to have set up the plea that his offense was political and article 2 of the treaty of 1899 reads:

"A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be one of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has in fact been made with a view to try and punish him for an offense of a political character."

So the question undoubtedly will be whether Van Horn's effort to cut a railroad through which his country's enemy receives munitions of war and reinforcements can be considered as a political offense.

Commissioner Will Hear Case.

A commissioner designated by the department of justice will hear the case. If he decides Van Horn is not guilty of the offense with which he is charged and orders him released, the state department may not be called on for any action, but if the commissioner holds that extradition should be granted an appeal will have to go to the department.

The application for Van Horn's extradition is of a formal character. The department probably will reply that it will await the commissioner's report before passing on the case under the terms of the extradition treaty.

At the German embassy it was said that while there were somewhat similar names on the list of German army officers, there was no Werner Van Horn on their list, although that does not include retired officers of the German army.

CYCLE MEN TO MEET.

Enthusiasts of Duluth and Superior to Outline Activities.

All motor cycle enthusiasts of Duluth and Superior have been asked to attend a meeting at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms next Sunday evening. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the West Duluth Motorcycle club, which recently was organized.

Subjects of interest to owners of wheels, such as better roads, racing and other topics will be discussed. In case other clubs of a similar nature are organized at the Head of the Lakes, it is proposed to have these affiliated for the protection of its members. One of the subjects that will be touched on at this meeting, will be the securing of a site for a saucer race track at which meets will be held. A large delegation of Superior motorcycle owners are expected to attend the meeting.

DRIVEN FROM HOMES.

Flood at Wheeling Inundates Houses and Shuts Down Factories.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 3.—Ten thousand men in factories in and around Wheeling and double that number along the Ohio river between here and East Liverpool, Ohio, were temporarily deprived of employment today by the flood.

Wheeling island was almost entirely inundated, and it was estimated that 2,000 persons had been driven from their homes. Schools were closed and public buildings thrown open for the refugees.

There was a great deal of inconvenience, but very little actual suffering. An unidentified foreigner was drowned at Mingo, Ohio.

BEDS SCARCE FOR JURORS

One Panel Sits Up All Night While Another Jury Slumbers.

Five-Sixths Verdict Brought in, Favoring Street Railway.

Beds for closeted jurymen were at a premium last night at the courthouse.

Two juries spent the night in the building, but two juries did not sleep there. One stayed up all night because the other had a monopoly on all of the available beds. The improvised sleeping quarters for jurymen were too small to accommodate both and consequently one had to either agree or stay up all night. The agreement was not reached.

The jury which spent a sleepless night was one drawn to try the damage suit brought by Otto F. Wennerlund against the Duluth Street Railway company. The jurors who occupied beds were serving on the panel which was trying George K. Robertson for the alleged $3,000 copper theft. They had already been out one night and were nearly fatigued when bedtime came again last night.

The jury in the street railway case in an early morning consideration of the case reached a five-sixths verdict in favor of the traction company and against the plaintiff who sued for $975 damages. The verdict was signed and sealed at 7:45 o'clock this morning and opened and read before Judge Dancer about two hours later.

Wennerlund sued for damages to an automobile struck by a street car on Sept. 24, last. He testified that while he was driving his car across the tracks for eastbound cars on the Third street line between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west about 10 o'clock on the evening mentioned the engine suddenly stopped. A street car came along and bumped the automobile off the track.

Shows Delinquencies.

Thomas S. Wood, attorney for the street railway company, who appeared at the trial of the case for the traction company, developed the fact that Wennerlund had previously stopped his automobile headed east on the upper side of the street against the line of traffic and in violation of the city ordinance. He also developed the fact that Wennerlund had no headlights burning and that the motorman was given no warning until he was on top of them. Two women who were seated in the car were uninjured.

Wennerlund testified that he tried his self-starter when his engine stopped but it would not work. He then got out to crank the machine, and while doing so, a street car struck the machine and ran about three feet past before the motorman succeeded in stopping the car. Wennerlund is a West end jeweler. He was represented by Attorney Andrew Nelson.

Two jurymen hung out for the plaintiff until the prescribed twelve hours when a verdict was brought in without their consent, ten other jurors concurring. The two whose views did not harmonize with the verdict were Harmony Bartlett and Thomas R. Gleason. They did not sign the verdict.

CONFERRED WITH ROCKEFELLER, JR.

HAYES, DOYLE AND LORD.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had a conference last week with Frank J. Hayes, Edward L. Doyle and James Lord, three labor leaders, concerning the conditions in the mining districts of Colorado and Wyoming. This conference quickly followed one with Mother Jones. Hayes is vice president of the United Mine Workers; Doyle is secretary and treasurer of district 15 of the organization, and Lord is president of the mining department of the American Federation of Labor. The three labor men and Mr. Rockefeller refused to tell the result of the conference but the labor leaders were smiling when they left the young millionaire's office so it was inferred that the results were satisfactory to them.

MAY MEAN BLOCKADE.

Warning Given By German Admiralty So Construed By Some.

Berlin, Feb. 3, by wireless to Sayville.—The warning of the German admiralty staff issued yesterday concerning coming operation on the French coast is considered by some Berlin newspapers, among them the Morgen Post, to mean that an actual blockade is to be put in effect by the Germans.

The Morgen Post, however, points out that many of the essentials of a blockade are lacking, among them being a definite description of boundaries and a warning that neutral ships must not enter the forbidden zone.

ANTI-VICE CAMPAIGN ON IN LADYSMITH, WIS.

Ladysmith, Wis., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the efforts of District Attorney Charles Kirwan of Rush county, backed by the city commission, which has had a detective on the ground for several weeks, a complete and general cleaning up of vice is under way here. In the past week a half dozen cases have been brought before Circuit Judge Wickem at Eau Claire for making false birth certificates to the health officer, practicing adultery, supporting prostitutes, etc. It is now said to be the plan of the district attorney to continue until every case bearing convicting evidence is cleared up and the city and Rush county morals improved.

NEW BUILDING AT FARGO COLLAPSES

One Man Seriously Injured and Three Others in Hospital.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At noon today the framework supporting the molds for the concrete floor in the new Ford branch plant under construction here gave way, and the entire building collapsed. Workmen were pouring concrete for the reinforced floor of the second story, and but little concrete had been poured when the collapse came, the second floor crashing through the first to the ground, and the north wall was pulled in.

One Seriously Hurt.

John Erickson, carpenter foreman, was probably fatally hurt, and three others, whose names have not yet been learned, are in a hospital.

It is possible that there are still others under the debris. The fire department was called out and aided in the work of rescue. The building is to be a $90,000 branch plant for North Dakota.

The Duluth Concert orchestra will give its first symphony Sunday, Feb. 21, when a Haydn composition will be produced. At the time the orchestra was organized the modest title "concert" orchestra was given it, but at its fourth appearance music lovers will have the opportunity to hear a Haydn symphony.

Miss Mary Bradshaw will be the soloist at the concert to be given by the orchestra Sunday afternoon, Feb. 7, in the Central high school. She will be accompanied by the entire string orchestra. Of particular interest in this connection will be the presentation for the first time here with full string accompaniment of the Tschaikowsky song, "To the Forest."

Charles Helmer will also be heard in a cornet solo, the exquisite "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

The following program will be given:

"La Odelisque," Turkish march.....
.....Kretchmer
Selections from "Tannhauser".Wagner
"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Sampson and Delila".....

BISHOP'S CLUB.

Miss Doyle Gives History of Three Religious Orders.

At the meeting of the Bishop's club last evening Miss Gertrude L. Doyle gave an account of the founding of the Benedictine, Franciscan and Capuchin religious orders and told of the work done by the members in this country and in the missions abroad. A more detailed account was given of the Benedictine order than of the other two as there are many Benedictines in Duluth and the vicinity.

Miss Agnes Mae Johnson read "Laddie," a Scotch selection; Drummond's "Little Eateese," and a negro dialect number, "A Friendly Cloud."

The musical part of the program consisted of a left-hand arrangement of the sextet from "Lucia," played by Miss Bernice Haverty, who gave as an encore a Chopin etude.

John Belanger sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and for an encore gave "Burning Love" from "The Bird of Paradise," by Tully. Miss Theresa Lynn was Mr. Belanger's accompanist.

Miss Susan Pfau gave the Bible reading and Miss Mae A. Spencer was in charge of the current events topic. Mrs. W. T. Smith was the hostess of the evening.

RED CROSS BRIDGE PARTY.

Benefit Is Given for the Work Shop Fund.

Auction bridge was played at seventy-five tables at the benefit given at the Spalding hotel this afternon for the Red Cross work shop. A red cross ornamented each table and there were small red crosses on the score cards and the wrappings of the fifteen prizes. The Gowan-Lenning-Brown company gave four prizes, and one prize each was given by Miss Barbara Ripley, Mrs. E. L. Tuohy, Cowen & Zimmerman, C. H. Bagley, George A. Gray, the Glass Block store, Simon Clark, J. J. Le Borlous, A. D. Goodman, the Duluth Floral company and an anonymous friend.

Those in charge of the party were Mrs. C. W. Andrews, Mrs. Percy M. Shaw, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Cotton and Mrs. W. J. Olcott. Miss Dorothy Olcott and Miss Helen Potter were in charge of the receipts at the door.

The King's Daughters who assisted in serving were:

Mesdames—
John Peyton, William Harrison,
Herbert Spencer, William Pitt Abbott.
O. E. Amtsbuechler,
Walter Congdon,

HOUSING ORDINANCE.

George Morgan and Abraham Holstead Speak at Meeting.

At the meeting of the Duluth Woman's Suffrage association, held yesterday afternoon in the library clubroom, George Morgan and Abraham Holstead discussed the housing ordinance that was passed in 1913, just before the new charter took effect.

Mr. Holstead recommended that the rooms be the maximum prescribed by law as many persons leave their windows closed during the severe winter. He commended the subject of proper housing to the women, for, as he said: "Few men are entirely disinterested in a movement of this kind from a business standpoint. It therefore devolves upon you women, being without or above prejudice, in this regard."

"That the housing ordinance has been criticized is only natural," Mr. Morgan said, "as it was drawn without regard to local conditions in some respects, but on the whole it is one of the best specimens of municipal legislation along this line in the country."

Dr. Mary McCoy urged the members of the association to write to their senators asking support for the suffrage bill. Mrs. W. W. Lawrence, president of the organization, mentioned that the suffrage bill had passed both houses in West Virginia and will go to the people.

Miss Clara Fider gave a humorous reading from the "antis" point of view.

The advisability of holding the meetings at an earlier hour and some changes in the constitution will be taken up at the next meeting of the executive board.

CABINET MEMBER'S DAUGHTER WILL DO RED CROSS WORK

NONA M'ADOO.

Miss Nona McAdoo, the daughter of the secretary of the treasury, has been studying nursing and has gone abroad with her friend, Miss Catherine Britton of Washington, to do Red Cross work.

Linnaea Society Meets.

Several amendments to the constitution were made at the meeting of the Linnaea society held yesterday afternoon in Foresters' hall and the year book was ordered printed for distribution at the next meeting. During January $80 was spent by the society for charity. The hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. Otto Johnson, Mrs. J. F. Fredin and Mrs. A. Fredin.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Samuel B. Sheldon of 1531 East Superior street will entertain at a bridge luncheon Saturday at 1 o'clock. The game will be played at two tables.

Fuller-Crowley.

Miss Elva L. Fuller and Charles A. Crowley were married this morning at 7 o'clock at the Sacred Heart cathedral by Rev. Father O'Brien. Miss Dolly Crowley and James F. Crowley, sister and uncle of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

There was a wedding breakfast for the immediate relatives at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Crowley, 210 East Third street.

An out-of-town guest was the bride's sister, Mrs. P. C. Diederick of Green Bay, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will be at home after Feb. 15 at 6206 East Superior street.

Chartier-Eklund.

Miss Ivy Helen Chartier and George A. Eklund were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Clement's Catholic church by Rev. Augustine Brockmeyer. Miss Jane Miller and Michael McMahon were the attendants. Mrs. Emil Barth played the nuptial music and Miss Eva O'Neil sang an "Ave Maria."

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast of twenty covers at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Chartier, 430 Nineteenth avenue west.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chartier of Freeland, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. George Chartier of Lakewood, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee of Superior and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Woods of Proctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Eklund left for a trip to the Twin Cities. They will be at home after Feb. 20 at 531 West First street.

Meeting at Bethel.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, will speak and Mrs. J. A. McGaughey will sing at the women's meeting at the Bethel tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All women who are interested in the work of the Bethel are invited to attend the meeting and the social half-hour that will follow.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

By MARY JANE McCLURE.

Baked Bean Sandwiches—Remove the beans from the can, heat and press through a coarse sieve. Mix with one tablespoon of tomato catsup, one-half teaspoon of onion juice, one-half teaspoon of mustard, salt and paprika to taste. Spread Boston brown bread with butter, then with the bean mixture, and press the slices together.

Watercress Sandwiches—Mix one can of potted ham and chicken to a smooth paste with parsley butter and spread on the bread. Dip well washed watercress in French dressing, and place between the slices of bread.

Tongue and Rye Bread Sandwiches—Chop lunch tongue fine with one Spanish red pepper, and mix smooth with paprika butter. Spread bread with mayonnaise, then with seasoned tongue.

Tongue and Pepper Sandwiches—Slice canned lamb's tongue delicately. Chop green peppers and mix with mayonnaise. Spread entire wheat bread with this mixture and place the thin slices of tongue between the pieces of bread.

Egg and Ham Sandwiches—One-half cup of deviled ham, one teaspoon of lemon juice, yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, one-fourth teaspoon of mustard, one-fourth cup of butter. Rub the eggs smooth with the butter, mix the other ingredients and spread on bread.

Potted Tongue Sandwiches—Spread the bread with butter creamed with potted tongue, season with lemon juice and chopped parsley. Lay slices of hard-boiled eggs between the slices of bread.

Egg Sandwiches—Chop hard-boiled eggs fine. Mix with mayonnaise and spread on buttered bread. Lay strips of Mortadella sausage between the slices of bread.

Chicken and Tongue Sandwiches—Mix the yolks of hard-boiled eggs smooth with potted chicken and tongue. Chop cress and mix with sauce tartar. Spread brown bread with the meat mixture, white bread with the cress and press a slice of white bread with a slice of the brown.

Ham and Currant Sandwiches—Mix potted ham with one-fourth part currant jelly and spread on buttered bread.

Deviled Ham Sandwiches—Mix the can of deviled ham with one tablespoon of butter, one tablespoon of chutney sauce and one tablespoon of minced chives.

Welsh Sandwiches—Mince until quite fine pieces of cold boiled ham and add an equal quantity of soft Brie cheese. Spread between slices of buttered bread.

Roast Beef Sandwiches—Chop enough tinned roast beef to make one cup, add one tablespoon of melted butter, one tablespoon of catsup, one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, and one of salt. Mix to make a smooth paste and spread on buttered bread.

Corned Beef Sandwiches—Mix one cup of finely chopped corned beef with one-half teaspoon of made mustard and three tablespoons of butter. Add chopped nuts or olives or cheese and spread on buttered bread.

Chicken and Tongue Sandwiches—Use sliced lunch tongue with potted chicken, or potted tongue with sliced chicken, or both may be chopped. In this case take equal quantities of chopped chicken and tongue, mix with one-fourth cup melted butter, yolk of one egg, paprika, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Mix well and spread on the bread.

Acknowledges Gift.

Mrs. A. M. Miller, who with Mrs. A. R. Macfarlane, collected garments and hospital supplies last fall for relief work among the Belgians has received the following letter from the Belgian consul at New York:

"Consulat do Belgique,
25 Madison avenue, New York.

"Mrs A. M. Miller, 2303 East Second street, Duluth, Minn.—Dear Madam: I have your letter by which you inform me of the generous donation of the ladies of Duluth.

"These boxes we intend to ship to Rotterdam by the Holland-American line on next week's boat to be distributed among the refugees in Holland, as it is unfortunately impossible to reach any part of Belgium, except with supplies. The clothing is being distributed there by the Netherlands committee for Belgian refugees and with the assistance of the United States and Belgian consular authorities. This office does not work in conjunction with the Red Cross, it being understood that all the clothing collected here goes to the Belgian war sufferers, but our work does in no wise interfere with the Red Cross activities.

"Thanking you very much for your donation, I am, yours very truly,

LACE

From Answers, London: The shop windows lately have been full of the most beautiful examples of lace that have ever been seen in England, a great deal of it having been rescued from France and Belgium, and showing to our British eyes the tireless industry of the women of those countries who work with the needle.

Most people can readily recognize our ordinary lace, such as Honiton, Carrickmacross, etc., and it may be of interest to tell how to identify other kinds of lace. The medieval style was the first development of lace from mere threadwork on linen, and was introduced about the end of the fifteenth century. The original patern is composed of symbolical figures, emblems, misshapen monsters, trees, leaves, wreaths and scroll work, and was the prevailing style until about the year 1550. This was followed by the geometrical style until about the year 1620, which was a curious combination of squares, triangles, wheels, segments of circles, lozenges, etc.

THE DEVIL IN A MAN'S STOMACH

From the Saturday Evening Post: Every married woman who does her own cooking will agree that a man has a devil which lives in his stomach. There is nothing about which the average man is half so cranky as the food he eats. Eighty per cent of the petty domestic quarrels start at the table; disprove the statement if you can.

"What! Chops again? Why in the name of all that's good and great can't we have a steak once in a while?"

"Why, John, I had a nice steak for you Tuesday night and you waited until the last minute and then telephoned that you wouldn't be home for dinner! Went to your old club, I suppose?"

"Well, there's one thing about the club—I can get what I want there. Now, my mother used to have some variety to her cooking. I remember—"

And they are off to a fine flying start with no telling where they will finish; but one thing is certain—the demand for variety was the cause of the trouble.

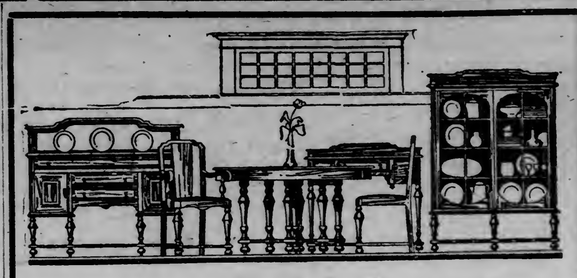

Variety! How well I know that word as applied to the commissary department! Ever since the dawn of history people have been complaining about the lack of variety in their food. Very likely Noah had trouble with the crew of the ark—big trouble, for his sons brought their wives along.

Moses is one Old Testament character who has always had my sympathy. He led the Children of Israel out of Egypt, and no sooner were they across the Red sea than they began to complain about shortage of food. Manna was sent them from heaven—a miracle; but were they satisfied? No; they wanted meat, and they got quail.

The next we hear of them they were reminding Moses of the melons and the onions and the leeks they used to have when they were the slaves of Pharaoh! And they wanted fish—on a desert! What do you suppose they would have done to Moses if they had been paying their board?

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

What Constitutes Profanity?

In one short, concise word there is no other that so vividly describes the conditions and atmospheres of certain places as well as the word "hell" to which a New York woman, presiding at a meeting for the unemployed, took exception recently.

The word as used carried no hint of disrespect to the women who were gathered with the men, but was employed to typify the very antithesis of heaven to which we refer very often, indeed.

No one seems to feel that there is any sacrilege in the use of the word heaven, and, indeed, none is intended, therefore there can be very little controversy over the word hell, used to express the depths of human woe, depravity or torture. I well know, however, that there are many who have been taught to look upon the use of this word, even in a sincere sense in every day conversation, as something to be avoided and as something almost as bad as taking the Lord's name in vain.

As a child, my idea of a very bad man was one who made use of profanity of any kind, and the word "hell" used in even the finest sense was enough to make my eyes stick out of my head. I positively felt that I was a guilty little party to be in hearing distance of anything that approached the profane. These teachings were imbibed by most of us at the knees of our good mothers, and I do not know that any of us are the better for having outgrown our youthful sentiments.

Grown men and women use words that are or should be approached and uttered in reverential attitude quite as commonly as they do the ordinary "I said," or "He said," or any of our lesser slang expressions. It is not at all uncommon to hear women who have a well-bred appearance use God's name in the course of a conversation with a friend on the street, or in a public conveyance, in a most matter of fact way.

You can tell that it is a habit of a woman who uses God's name so carelessly, by the ease and frequency of its use, and that she is unconscious that it cheapens her womanhood. She does not mean to be coarse or unwomanly, but if the use of profanity in men is disgusting, and not used by men who have respect for themselves, how much more disgusting it is in a woman and how necessary that she shall eliminate everything from her conversation that is slangy or questionable.

MAY MARRY LATEST SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

LUCY BURLESON.

Lucy Burleson, the daughter of the postmaster general, is reported to be engaged to Associate Justice McReynolds of the supreme court. She has known him since her father was made a member of the Wilson cabinet in which at that time Mr. McReynolds was attorney general. Rumors concerning them have been in circulation for some time and Washington society is now confidently expecting a formal statement of the engagement.

WASTE.

Every once in a while we get a dispatch from Europe telling of warnings issued to the people of the belligerent countries not to allow any food to go to waste. It has even come to the point where a campaign is proposed against the world-wide habit of children of taking a few bites from a slice of bread and allowing the rest to drop on the ground and lie there.

If the war shall prove to be the means of curing the habit of wastefulness in the civilized countries of the world it must not be written down in history as a total loss. This fault has been one of the big factors in the high cost of living in thousands upon thousands of families, and is just as big a factor today in many of them.

Bits of food that in themselves are of little value, but which if saved up would combine into a palatable and nourishing dish, are thrown away or allowed to spoil. Certain vegetables are prepared in such a way as to cause the loss of valuable portions of them. And meats are sometimes cut in such a way, after they arrive in the kitchen, as to cause definite loss.

Do you remember the old-fashioned pudding your mother used to make out of dried bread? Maybe she called it "bread pudding" or maybe she called it "poor man's pudding," or maybe she had some other name for it that was less generally used than either of those. But you may recollect that whatever name it went by, it was a mighty palatable dish for a hungry and growing youngster, and when served up with reasonably rich milk and a dab of some of mother's famous preserves, it just hit the spot.

Well, that pudding was a tribute to mother's saving habits. Instead of throwing away each slice or half slice or even half loaf of dried bread, she kept it all until she had an accumulation big enough to make the pudding, and then—presto!—and there was an actual gain instead of a direct loss.

And there are other things. Potatoes should not be half cut away in peeling them. They should not be cut away at all. Just take off the skin, and that's all, for underneath the skin, and before you really get into the other part of the potato, is the best, most valuable, and in fact only worth-while part of the whole vegetable. And every time you see potato peelings an eighth of an inch thick you can know that somebody has wasted, right there, more actual food value than there was in all the rest of every potato so peeled.

Waste is one of the biggest factors in today's cost of living, and also one of the most needless factors. It isn't like the much-abused middle man—outside the direct sphere of housewifely influence. It is right in the kitchen and in the diningroom and in the basement. And the best wife is she who keeps the best account of these little details and is able to make every ounce of foodstuffs that comes into the house do its proper part in supplying the bodies of the members of the family with the necessary materials.

Have you learned how to run that heating plant yet?

WORKING ON PUBLIC SYMPATHY.

New York has had two jolts on the sentimental side recently. The first one came when two sturdy young boys were found standing on a street corner, bearing a note saying that their parents were very poor and out of work—were in fact "down to their last cent," and would be grateful to anybody who would take the children in and give them a home until the father could get work again.

The note explained that he had been trying for weeks to get a job, but couldn't; but that as soon as he could do so he would look for the children and take them home again. It added that the parents wished whoever took the boys would make his address public through the newspapers, and also that they hoped the lads would be kept together, as they were very fond of each other.

New York opened its arms wide, or at least some of its citizens did, and the boys had a good home in very brief time. Meanwhile the story of the affair caused such a stir as the city had not seen in many months.

The second chapter of the story also caused a stir—but not of the same kind. Investigation brought out the facts that the boys were sons of Frederick and Jeannette Haeffner; that on Nov. 14 last, Haeffner voluntarily gave up a good job and disappeared from his former frequenting places; that on the night of Nov. 15, Mrs. Haeffner bundled up the two younger children, one of them a baby two months old, and Haeffner took them out in the storm and left them in a vestibule; and that Mrs. Haeffner does not want any of the children back, as she says that "four children are too many for any woman to take care of," and she is sick of them.

Of course the charge of abandonment can be placed against the Haeffners and they can be given certain punishment for that under the law. But it does seem as if there ought to be some other way of getting at such people as these, not only as a punishment for their playing falsely on public sympathy, but because every such case as this throws the mire of doubt and discredit on actual cases of suffering and need.

And yet it would be hard to frame a law or practice that would cover such cases adequately. Perhaps after all the best treatment for people of the character of the Haeffners is just to leave them to suffer the inevitable ostracism that will grow up spontaneously in that same public sentiment which they have outraged.

Dr. Dernburg says the war is harmful to the United States. The doctor evidently hasn't come under the influence of the high tariff agitators.

HAVE A LOOK.

Have a look at the poultry show at the Armory before the week is over. You may not be especially interested in fowls at present. You may have a kind of feeling of resentment against them whenever you think of the price of eggs. Maybe you ate birds in so many different forms during holiday week that you are not yet over being sick of them.

But whether that is true or not, have a look at the poultry show if you can possibly find the time. If you are a suburbanite it will either inspire you with the desire to have a poultry yard of your own, or it will qualify you to look intelligent when your neighbor who keeps hens cuts loose with one of his periodical tirades on the subject. You may even pick up some hint that will be handy when you want to come back at him, either seriously or with some form of kidding.

And if you are not a suburbanite, go anyway. In fact, you should then be all the more certain to go, just to refresh your memory as to what a fowl looks like.

And if you are a non-suburbanite and have young children, then by all means take them to see the show. Did it ever occur to you that there are many children whose only notion of what a hen looks like is gained from picture books? They get no idea of what the motions of the creature are. The only time they ever actually see the bird is when its head and feet and feathers have been removed and it is served up on the table, nicely browned and safely past the troubles of laying eggs or crowing.

If you have a youngster like that in your house, take him to the poultry show, and if you don't get even more fun out of it than he does, then you both need medical attention. You would sit a whole afternoon under a stuffy circus tent "to please the kid;" now please him by taking him where he can see real live poultry and hear the roosters crow.

By all means have a look at the poultry show. It's one of the best there is, and you will find your time far from wasted.

If this be winter weather, let us make the most of it.

Neutrality.

W. W. Reid in Life: Neutrality is the enforced repression of instinctive belligerency. It is the foundation stone of modern civilized society—so-called. A savage is never a neutral; that is why savages are happy only in warfare. Without neutrality there would be a constant clashing and re-clashing of interests. Without neutrality our senators and representatives all would have overdeveloped forearm muscles and flattened noses.

Men are more prone to be neutral than they confess. Many sit home on Sunday morning because they are neutral; they refuse to take sides between God and the devil. Then, whether they ascend or descend to their last abiding place, they at least cannot be accused of open antagonism.

Today neutrality combines the art of diplomatic aloofness and the science of grasping the other fellow's fading opportunities for trade. A neutral philanthropist may send food and clothing to the suffering, he may ship guns and powder to their enemies. He gives visible expression to his desire to aid both—that's neutrality.

Political neutrality is the sublime acumen that enables a man to sit astraddle the fence until the right moment comes to flop quickly, on one side and seize the red apples left by the unsuspecting gentleman with the whiskers.

On the mental litmus war gives us red, while fear of war gives Wall Street the blues. Therefore, says the president, we must remain neutral—a perfect white.

"The Deadly Toll of Trespass On Railways"

From a Bulletin of the Railway Business Association.

Stricter laws and stricter enforcement for the prevention of trespassing upon railways are urged upon the state legislatures in "The Deadly Toll of Trespass on Railways," a bulletin of the Railway Business association, the national organization of manufacturing, mercantile and engineering concerns dealing with the railroads.

"There were," the bulletin declares, "33,000 persons under 21 years of age killed or injured while trespassing on railways of the United States from 1901 to 1910, enough to make a mile post for every mile around the world."

Comparing the record of the United States, and the United Kingdom the following figures are quoted:

	Killed.	Injured.
United States...1901-10	50,025	63,427
United Kingdom.1901-10	4,434	1,315

Telling why this striking difference exists, the explanation is given:

"In the United States laws against railroad trespassing are generally not enforced.

"In the United Kingdom persons other than passengers or employes found on railroad property are fined $10 for each offense."

When a Titanic goes down, it is pointed out, "and hundreds perish, a thrill of horror runs through Christendom. Thousands perish one at a time and nobody pays any attention, not even the neighbors."

Progress toward enactment of laws providing effective penalties and toward conviction and sentences for those who wilfully expose themselves to danger is said to be slowly spreading, while loss of life and damage as affecting railways is increasing. France punishes trespassers by fines up to $579 and jail up to a month; Germany, by fines up to $25; Canada by fines up to $50 and imprisonment up to two months. The Wabash railroad operates a part of its mileage through Canada. In the year ending June 30, 1914, of the 94 trespassers killed on that road only three were killed in Canada.

"In the United States laws are few, and even where penalties are prescribed, magistrates hesitate to impose them, as local authorities dislike to feed and lodge convicted tramps." Trespassers, however, "include little children and wage earners living in the vicinity, whose death or disability leaves families destitute.

"Elevation of track in Chicago was resorted to at an expense of $70,000,000, which is expected to reach $150,000,000. Trespassers leap over a city ordinance and climb up on the elevation in their conscientious devotion to the pursuit of being killed and maimed. In three months 339 arrests were made on the elevated right-of-way of four systems. Only 67 of the offenders were punished.

"Thirty-five states have no laws specifically prohibiting persons walking on railroad right-of-way. Thirteen states by statute prescribe penalties ranging from $5 fine to ten days in jail in Maine to $500 fine or one year in jail in New York: New York, Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Virginia, Missouri, Rhode Island, Delaware, Georgia, Minnesota and Washington."

Missouri has a law which protects the railroad from damage suits, for the purpose of which trespass is a defense for the railroad, but the law in defining the act a trespass for that purpose specifically says "but not otherwise."

Activity on the part of many railroads to lessen the number of fatal accidents on their lines is bearing fruit. The New York Central lines took the question up with justices of the peace and police court magistrates armed with statistics. Newspapers were urged to give the campaign publicity. Warnings in several languages were posted, while manufacturers and public school teachers were enlisted. The railroad's police department made arrests systematically. During May, June and July, 1914, there were 4,545 arrests and 4,015 convictions. In seven months ended April 30, 1914, there was a reduction in those killed over the corresponding period one year previous from 136 to 98.

The American Museum of Safety, New York, has published pamphlets containing stories of child interest, and two New York and Brooklyn schools have issued Safety League buttons, organizing safety patrols. A pamphlet issued in Texas is "Harry Hop-the-Train," describing Harry's surgical experience and his release from the hospital a cripple who could never again join his playmates in the old swimming hole.

"Minors and children, following the example of their elders, flock upon the tracks, engines, cars and turn-tables and are ground to pieces or crippled for life. Tramps and yeggmen travel around the country in 'side-door Pullmans,' robbing box cars and burning ties, stations, bridges and timbers, and robbing farmers, country banks, stores and postoffices. In Canada, where stealing rides is a crime punishable by a fine of $50 or two months in jail, there are very few tramps.

"It would probably cost the states and municipalities less to enforce a law against trespassing than it does to pick up and bury the dead and care for the cripples."

A Super-Baby

Life: Announcement was recently made that a baby born in Wisconsin was the first baby born under the eugenic law of that state, which went into effect about a year ago. The weight of the baby is given at eleven and one-half pounds. It appears to be a good, durable boy baby, but is there any guarantee from the state? It would seem as if, when a state makes a law about babies, and the contracting parties conform to the law, the state should guarantee the results. That is only fair.

Of course one of the difficulties in a case like this is the transient quality of the state. There are blue laws on the statute book of Connecticut now that no authorities would think of enforcing.

Suppose this baby turns out to be a gambler, a gunman or a poet. What is to be done about it? Who is to pay for it?

Babies are an uncertain quantity. Some of the unhealthiest specimens you can imagine, fit only to take the booby prize at the Asbury Park baby show, have done, later on, some of the greatest things in the world.

An ordinary gambling establishment, with a faro outfit, roulette, three-card monte, and every other appliance, run, say, by a retired publisher, is like a Sunday school picnic compared with the chances parents take with a baby. Reducing the mortality may only increase the number of incompetents. Raising the physical standard seems to be a good thing, but there are so many variants that nobody can tell until it is too late to care. What Wisconsin has been attempting is to become an understudy for nature and providence. Every baby defies her.

The Newspaper That Wins Public Approval

From a talk on "Reasonable Restrictions on the Freedom of the Press," given by Charles H. Grasty, formerly editor of the Baltimore Sun, before the American Sociological association.

Only men thoroughly experienced in the workings of journalism can keep in the straight and narrow path when, according to the ordinary business view, there lies another and less difficult road to success. No business man ever yet succeeded in journalism without first forgetting all that he previously knew about business. In all dealings with advertisers there must be the strictest adherence to public standards. If he is entitled to the ordinary consideration of a business customer, his enjoyment of such consideration will establish precedents and analogies that logically lead to the utter destruction of the public character of journalism.

The paper that is dickering and swapping with the advertiser can never be on such terms with the reader as to make the advertiser's use of its columns profitable to him. The paper that puts commercialism first will never have a place in the family circle. The esteem and affection without which no newspaper can be a successful salesman are not bestowed on the newspaper that concerns itself chiefly about salesmanship. And the newspaper that barters away one iota of its independence, loses not only its own soul, but the whole world as well.

When I speak of public opinion, I mean the common thought and "common sense of most," and it is this which should give shape and direction to journalism. The editor of today does not go about his work with a consciousness of the laws of libel, but at all times he is sensible of the same forces that are maturing public judgment all around him. The newspaper that offends the prevailing sense of right and good taste inevitably suffers a loss of prestige, and it is through the play of forces of this kind, rather than the restrictions of constitutions and laws, that newspapers are held to their obligations.

The substantial assets of a newspaper are not physical—they are not presses, type and real property. The big figure on the credit side of the ledger is always the figure opposite "good will." Good will is accumulated public approval. The history of every successful paper will be found to lead back to an idealist, who clearly understood and unflinchingly carried out the public obligation on the part of the newspaper first, to print the news; and, second, to comment fairly on it.

In recent times men have had to bring to this work moral and intellectual qualities approaching genius. They had to be martyrs and heroes—men who were willing to deny themselves friends, and, humanly speaking, many of the dearest things of life, in order to print the news without fear or favor. We should now be approaching a clearer common ground, where public opinion and journalism can meet eye to eye.

Odd Facts

Philadelphia Ledger: Possibly you have forgotten some of the incidents relating to presidents and vice presidents of the United States:

Washington was the one president to be elected unanimously.

The only vice president to resign was John C. Calhoun, who gave up the vice presidency to become a United States senator.

William Henry Harrison served the shortest time as president, having caught a fatal cold the day he was inaugurated and died exactly one month later.

Impeachment was tried against but one president and failed by one vote, in the case of Andrew Johnson.

Johnson was a tailor and could not read until his wife taught him how.

Five vice presidents became president by the death of the president—Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson, Arthur and Roosevelt.

Cleveland was the only president to have someone else sandwiched between his two terms, Benjamin Harrison being the sandwich.

John Adams was not only the oldest of ex-presidents when he died, being more than 90, but lived the longest after leaving office, about twenty-five years.

Relatively, Washington was the richest president, but his private income was hardly equal to that of Roosevelt.

Col. Roosevelt was the only vice president to attain the presidency by another's death and then be honored by a re-election.

Buchanan went through his term a bachelor.

Woodrow Wilson and James A. Garfield were college presidents and Jefferson founded the University of Virginia after he retired from the White House.

Washington, Monroe, Jackson, the two Harrisons, Taylor, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Hayes, McKinley and Roosevelt were soldiers.

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and Washington's farewell address are quoted far more frequently than any other presidential utterances.

Cleveland's "Public office is a public trust," Grant's "Let us have peace," Jackson's "By the eternal" and Roosevelt's "Malefactors of great wealth" became universal catch words.

One president was inaugurated in New York, two in Philadelphia, and all the others in Washington.

The official salute for the president is twenty-one guns. A salute of 101 guns was fired for King Edward when the proclamation was read. When the body of Napoleon was brought back from St. Helena and arrived in the River Seine a salute of one thousand guns was fired.

Across the Sea.

Across the sea I heard the groans
Of nations in the intervals
Of wind and wave. Their blood and bones
Cried out in torture, crushed by thrones,
And sucked by priestly cannibals.

I dreamed of freedom slowly gained
By martyr meekness, patience, faith,
And lo! an athlete grimly stained
With corded muscles battle-strained,
Shouting it on the fields of death.

I turn me, awe struck, from the sight,
Among the clamoring thousands mute;
I only know that God is right,
And that the children of the light
Shall tread the darkness under foot.

I know that pent fire heaves its crust,
That sultry skies the bolt will form
To smite them clear; that nature must
The balance of her powers adjust,
Though with the earthquake and the storm.

God reigns, and let the earth rejoice!
I bow before His sterner plan,
Dumb are the organs of my choice;
He speaks in battle's stormy voice,
His praise is in the wrath of man.

Yet, surely as He lives, the day
Of peace He promised shall be ours,
To fold the flags of war and lay
Its sword and spear to rust away,
And sow its ghastly fields with flowers.

—Whittier.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—If you did not know that Tommy Hardwick is now a United States senator from Georgia, and were to seem him in a crowd, you might guess him to be any one of a number of things. But United States senator would be about your last guess.

Hardwick perhaps looks less the part than any other senator, unless it would be Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois, who almost had to fetch affidavits and witnesses before the operators of the private elevators in the capitol would believe that he is really a senator.

To start with, Hardwick is below average height and looks youthful. Just as his colleague, Hoke Smith, is one of the largest senators, Hardwick is the smallest. He became a member of the house at the age of 30 and remained there for twelve years until just now, but he doesn't look much older today than when he struck Washington as the boy congressman. And he has never made any effort to look old or dignified by means of wearing high hats, long coats or any of the other symbols of true greatness. To the contrary, he has gone about his tasks without much thought of mere outward appearances, and sometimes gives one the impression of having got his clothes from a mail order catalogue. He might be an earnest young shoe salesman, so far as looks go, or a garage keeper. Not until he starts to talk do you appreciate that Tommy Hardwick is a young person out of the ordinary.

He is one of those eat-'em-up debaters and is at his best when he gets into a legislative controversy unexpectedly and without preparation. It is no trouble at all for him to think up plenty of good come-backs just as he goes along.

During his campaign for the seat of the late Senator Bacon in the senate, Hardwick remarked in a public speech that he is a man of small means and could not possibly buy his way into high office; whereupon an old-time Populist in the audience inquired:

"Whatta you been doing with your money? You draw a big salary."

To which Tommy Hardwick replied: "I've been spending it to suppress just such d—n fools as you."

Hardwick's small stature and boyish appearance have been a big asset to him in the dozen years he has been in public life. Whenever he makes a speech people are so surprised at the things he has to say, coming from so unpretentious looking a chap, that the impression he makes is all the deeper.

Occasionally Senator Hardwick finds recreation in a friendly game of poker and he plays poker like no one else does. One might write an entire brochure about Tommy Hardwick's methods of figuring out what the other fellow is thinking at a poker table. And it would be a brochure that should be in every household.

Associate Justice Day of the supreme court presented to two of his sons a number of years ago, a large, handsome, expensive and highly instructive set of books devoted to the life and works of Abraham Lincoln. The two boys were to own the set in partnership, share and share alike.

One day the older of the two sons went to his brother in a burst of generosity and said:

"I have decided to give you my half of the Lincoln set—just as a slight token of my genuine brotherly esteem."

The other one, not to be outdone in magnanimity, came right back with this:

"That's certainly mighty nice of you and I appreciate it. I'd like to do something for you. You can have my half of the Lincoln set."

A Good Year for "Ads"

Atlanta Constitution: In a personal letter written recently, one of the biggest corporation heads in America said:

This (1915) is going to be a record year in newspaper advertising and all forms of publicity, or I misread the sense of the average business man. We are recovering from the shock of the European war. We are about to enter an era of expansion. Publicity helps expansion, is a first aid to every going business and puts ginger into trade. The house that cuts down its 1915 advertising appropriation is saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung.

These views are thoroughly sound! They apply to business not only at home, but abroad. The day when advertising was considered experimental or a luxury belongs in ancient history.

The publicity expert and advertising are as much the assets of the modern business as its good name, its bills receivable or its stock in trade.

Economies elsewhere may be reasoned out and justified on a basis of logic. Economies, or a surfeit of them, in advertising means simply that the house practicing them will be at a disadvantage with its more enterprising neighbor. It is well, too, to remember that advertising now may be done not only with an eye to the present, but the future as well.

Spy Signaled With a Bicycle Lamp.

Searle Hendee in the Popular Mechanics Magazine: The Rev. Lord William Cecil recites the story of how a British raid on a German squadron in the North Sea was frustrated.

During a heated argument in an ale house an English sailor, championing the prowess of his navy, declared that he knew positively that dreadnoughts, cruisers and torpedo boats were at that moment pushing ahead under full steam to surprise the German boats. Shortly afterward the bar was closed for the night, and one of the group, who had precipitated the argument, mounted a bicycle which had a brilliant headlight, and struck down a road leading along the coast. After a time he jumped from the cycle, released the air from the front tire and then set about to mend a "puncture." In doing this he repeatedly passed in front of the lamp, crossing the patch of light now just for an instant, now deliberately stopping in front of it. Presently he inflated the tire and pedaled back to the city. When the British battleships arrived at the scene of the intended raid the Germans were not there. The bicyclist was a German spy. His message, flashed in dots and dashes, had been seen through the periscope of a waiting German submarine.

Laws Against Billboards.

Popular Mechanics Magazine: Laws designed to preserve the beauty of the highways by preventing, as far as possible, the placing of advertising signs on buildings, trees and stones along the highways, are now in effect in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York. The New York law, which went into effect recently, makes it a misdemeanor to place a sign on any tree, stone or structure within the limits of a highway, or on any private property without the consent of the owner. It is also provided that any sign placed in violation of this law may be removed and destroyed by anyone, without resort to legal formalities.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Hammond for Senator.

Luverne Journal: The slam-bang fight in this state two years hence is going to be over the United States senatorship. It will be a bitter, factional fight in the Republican party, as a result of which that man Hammond, Democratic vote-getter par excellence, is just exactly as liable to grab the prize as he snatched the governorship last fall. Mark the prediction. And if one of our noble ultra conservatives should land the G. O. P. nomination Mr. Hammond's luck will be a case of "Ish ka bibble" with us.

Looking to the Future.

Barnesville Headlight: Ole Sageng introduced the first woman's suffrage bill at this session of the legislature. Two to one Ole is dreaming of the future when women will have their rights and he is a candidate for governor.

Unusual Admission.

Benson Mirror: The Princeton Union in a recent editorial says that in spite of the Democratic administration present indications are that a real prosperous era is about to dawn in this nation. That is a significant admission for a strong Republican paper like the Princeton Union to make. Through Republican eyes such a thing as prosperity under a Democratic administration has always been considered an impossibility in the past. Our Republican friends are at last keeping in touch with the public pulse.

Well Meant, But Futile.

Stillwater Gazette: There's a senator from Duluth—he ought to know better—who has introduced a bill in the senate that makes it compulsory that every logging camp maintain a bathroom so the boys may have frequent baths. There have been tens of thousands of men employed in the woods of Minnesota where there are hundreds now, who never thought or dreamed of such a thing as a bath in camp during the winter. A tub of hot water and plenty of soap so the lumberjacks could wash their underclothing and discourage the little germs that sometimes showed up was about all they wanted or expected or would make use of. Pretty late in the day to propose bathrooms in the woods.

Efficiency Bill Commended.

Aurora News: Efficiency in state affairs is attacked by the horde of people who are holding appointive office, which but commends the plan all the more to thinking people throughout the state. The efficiency bill will run up against a snag in the senate from all indications, the members of the senate being in closer touch with the invisible government of the past.

Taking His Own Advice.

Winona Leader: It appears that Governor Hammond is making his appointments without the advice and consent of the politicians and he may be wise at that.

Governor of All.

Faribault Pilot: From his official actions and declarations to date no one could tell whether Governor Hammond is a Democrat or a Republican. He is just the plain, honest governor of all the people of Minnesota without regard to parties or politics.

Yes, Why?

Baudette Region: An exchange says that it knows a half dozen members of the legislature who know nothing about Northern Minnesota. Why specify Northern Minnesota?

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

It is new life to know that to love God and man is the sum of existence.

Let us look into this word love. Love to man may mean several things. It may mean love to his person, which is very different from himself, or it may mean simply pity. Love to God can only mean one thing; God is a Character. To love God is to love His character. For instance—God is Purity. And to be pure in thought and look; to turn away from unhallowed books and conversation, to abhor the moment in which we have not been pure, is to love God. God is love— and to love men till private attachments have expanded into a philanthropy which embraces all—at last even the evil and enemies with compassion—that is to love God. God is truth. To be true, to hate every form of falsehood, to live a brave, true, real life—that is to love God. God is Infinite; and to love the boundless, reaching on from grace to grace, adding charity to faith, and rising upward ever to see the Ideal still above us, and to die with it unattained, aiming insatiably to be perfect even as the Father is perfect—that is love to God. This love is manifested in obedience; love is the life of which obedience is the form. Nothing can be love to God which does not shape itself into obedience.

Well-Springs of Wisdom.

This day, O Christ, we celebrate Thy victory over death. Bring to us new life of body through this nourishment, and new life of soul by Thy presence with us now and help us to say with Thy servant of old, "Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through Jesus Christ our Lord." Amen.

He that keepeth the law, happy is he.—Prov. xxix, 18.

Oh, righteous doom, that they who make
Pleasure their only end,
Ordering the whole life for its sake,
Miss that whereto they tend;

While they who bid stern duty lead,
Content to follow—they,
Of duty only taking heed,
Find pleasure by the way.

Advice to a New Workman.

If you stop to find out what your wages will be
And how they will clothe and feed you,
Willie, my son, don't you go on the Sea,
For the Sea will never need you.

If you ask for the reason of every command
And argue with people about you,
Willie, my son, don't you go on the Land,
For the Land will do better without you.

If you stop to consider the work you have done
And to boast what your labor is worth, dear,
Angels may come for you, Willie, my son,
But you'll never be wanted on Earth, dear!

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

Advices received from Honolulu under date of Jan. 19 announce that ex-Queen Liliuokalani has been arrested on a charge of complicity with the insurgents in the recent rebellion. All the insurgent leaders have been taken into custody and are being tried by court-martial. Stores of arms and dynamite bombs were found in the former queen's house.

A five-mile skating race will take place at the West Duluth rink this afternoon between Peter Morrow of West Superior and Anton Lutzka of West Duluth.

Mrs. S. M. Fry, state president of the W. C. T. U., will hold temperance meetings on the Mesaba range next week.

Mrs. Robert E. Miller of Minneapolis is visiting with Mrs. J. G. Howard of West Fifth street.

Mrs. W. R. White and Mrs. A. C. Van Hagen of Sleepy Eye, mother and sister of Mrs. T. E. Bowen, are here on a visit to the latter.

Bids were opened yesterday by the United States engineer for the work of repairing the piers at the Portage Lake ship canal. The successful bidder was the Wisconsin Dredge & Dock company of Manitowoc, Wis., the figure being $18,394.96.

John P. Gordon, formerly of the Northern Steamship company, and his bride are preparing to occupy the home built for them by H. M. Peyton on his lot, corner of First street and Fourteenth avenue east. The "nest," as the house was dubbed some time ago, is perched on a knoll overlooking Chester creek and has the advantage of all the park-like improvements made by Mr. Peyton and Mr. Hartley around their palatial homes.

The Neighborhood Literary club has been organized at Woodland Park this winter. The object is the discussion of literary topics, and the club meets at the residence of W. C. Sherwood every other Monday.

The Thistle club, composed of twenty-five of the most prominent young Scotchmen of the city, will give a series of dancing parties at Hunter hall. The reception committee is composed of William Donaldson, William Barrie and Alex Thomson.

Miss Magoffin and Miss Jennie Magoffin will leave next fall for Germany, where Miss Jennie Magoffin will pursue her musical studies.

Mrs. Emil Werner and family have gone to Los Angeles, Cal., where they will spend several months.

Thomas A. Phillips and his mother, Mrs. Martha A. Phillips, left yesterday for California to remain during the winter.

W. W. Warner, who left New Duluth about three weeks ago, is now in British Columbia.

How Do You Do?

Life: What is your normal attitude toward yourself? Much depends upon this. When you look at the great, wide, world and then at yourself in your own little center of it, how does it impress you? That is to say, are you a constant source of surprise and wonderment to yourself, which causes you ever and anon to halt in your tracks, look back over the road you came and marvel that you were ever able to make it?

Or do you take yourself for granted and consider that it is the most natural thing in the world for you to be where you are and doing what you are?

Or have you been so excruciatingly busy trying to get somewhere that you have had no time to take these little mental invoices to discover just where you are and why and for how long?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer (though these need not be published). A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HOMESTEAD RIGHTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly inform me if a person can prove up on a homestead before he has his second citizenship papers made out, or can he if he has only applied for same?

GEORGE F. COTEY.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 31.

No, a person cannot prove up on a homestead unless he has become a full-fledged citizen. He may file on a claim, however, before he becomes a citizen, and take out his papers later and prove up.—The Editor.

"HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I will try to give an answer to the question of Charles Zimmer, which you have asked some reader of the Open Court to throw light on: i e "Here's looking at you." This is slang for to drink tete-a-tete, to hob and nob together, or "To clink glasses together." In the old English houses there was a hob at each corner of the hearth for heating the beer or for holding what one wished to keep warm. Hob was from the Saxon (to hold). The little round table set at the elbow was called a nob, hence to hob-nob was to drink snugly in the chimney corner with the beer hobbed and the little nob table set in the corner or snuggery. Imbibers tete-a-tete or as the slang of today—"Here's looking at you." The old corruption of "hob nob," meant—Have or not. A similar construction to "Willy nilly." Sir Edward Fitzgerald translates one of Omar's quatrains as follows—"Into this universe, and why not knowing nor whence, like water willy-nilly flowing, and out of it, as wind along the waste, I know not whither, willy-nilly blowing."

"The citizens in their rage shot habbe-nobbe (hit or miss) at random." Holinshed, in the history of Ireland.

"He is a devil in private brawls—hob-nob is his word, give 't or take 't." Shakespeare. Sincerely yours,

C. D. BARTHE.

CLEAN HOCKEY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having witnessed the Portage Lake, the Port Arthur and the Fort William games here I would like to express a few of my opinions regarding same. As to the Portage Lake game I think the officials of the Duluth club have taken the only and proper stand for the elevation of clean hockey, and after setting this example for other teams why not enforce this same ruling on the home team, that is clean hockey. For I think the feature of the Fort Arthur and especially the Fort William game was not the stellar playing of Capt. Linder, but the unsportsmanlike tactics that he displayed against his opponents, and as Duluth is playing a high quality of hockey, and has won the majority of the games played here, do the officials for the cleaner hockey approve of Capt. Linder's actions of Saturday night against Mr. Wilson of the visiting team, which I think was the best exhibition of bully work that I have ever witnessed in professional or amateur hockey. If Fort William was in a league with Duluth I think they would have better ground for refusing to meet Duluth again, than Duluth had for refusing to meet Portage Lake over the action of Haas. As Capt. Linder's previous record with the Duluth team is marred by just such actions as he performed in the recent games and for the benefit of his cleaner team mates and the fastest game in the world, "hockey," I think that the cleaner hockey officials should take some action and enforce "clean hockey" at home.

Thanking you for giving me this space in your Open Court, I beg to remain respectfully,

"CLEANER HOCKEY" FAN.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"The Passing Policeman," from an unsigned subscriber and Mrs. Elbert H. Reid of Farris, Minn.

"The Orphans," from Miss Grace Atwood, Bruce, Wis.

"The Green Fields of Virginia," from Mrs. H. H. Smith, Duluth.

Requests have been received for the following:

"Good-by, Mary, I Must Go," and "The Little Boy in Blue," from Mrs Elbert Reid of Farris.

"Scotch Lassie Jean," from Mrs. A. L. Wilkins of Hibbard, Minn.

"School Days," "Back to the Homestead on the Hill," and "On a Dark and Dismal Night," from C. H. Dalby of Duluth, Minn.

"The Picture From Life's Other Side," from Russell Clemence of Duluth.

The Green Fields of Virginia.

'Mid the green fields of Virginia,
In the vale of Shenandoah,
There's an ivy-covered homestead
that I love;
With its quaint old-fashioned chimney,
and its simple homelike air,
'Twas the home of my dear parents,
now above.
Though I'm living in a mansion grand,
With wealth at my command,
I'd give it all just for a single day,
To play with my young comrades and see my mother dear,
'Mid the green fields of Virginia far away.

Chorus.

There's a peaceful cottage there,
A happy home so dear,
My heart is longing for it day by day,
Where I spent life's golden hours in the vale of Shenandoah,
'Mid the green fields of Virginia far
away.

'Mid the green fields of Virginia,
Stands an old mill by the stream,
And I'd come to that old spot to sing and play
Ah, how often would I throw the stones into that babbling brook,
And I dreamed some day 'twould carry me away.
Yes, the dream came true—one day in June I left the dear old home,
They told me mother's heart had broke that day;
Oh, if I could but see her, I'd lay me down and die,
'Mid the green fields of Virginia far
away.

A Passing Policeman.

A passing policeman found a little child,
She walked beside him, dried her tears and smiled.
Said he to her kindly, "Now you must not cry,
I'll find your mamma for you, bye and bye."
At the station he asked her for her name,
And she answered "Jenny," which made him exclaim,
"At last—of your mother, I have now a trace,
Your little features bring back her sweet face."

Chorus:

"Oh! do not fear little darling,
I'll take you right home;
Come and sit close beside me,
No more from me you shall roam,
For you were a babe in arms,
When your mother left me one day.
Left me at home, deserted, alone,
And took you, my child, away.

"It was all through a quarrel, madly jealous, she
Vowed then to leave me;
Woman-like you see.
Oh! how I loved her, grief near drove me wild."
"Papa, you are crying," lisped the little child,
Suddenly the door of the station
opened wide.
"Have you seen my darling?" an anxious mother cried.
Husband and wife then meeting face to face.
All is soon forgotten in one fond embrace.

The Orphans.

Two little children, a boy and a girl,
Sat down by an old church door;
The little girl's feet was as brown as the curl
That fell on the dress that she wore.
The boy's coat was faded, and hatless his head,
A tear shone in each little eye.
"Why don't you run home to your mamma?" I said,
And this was the maiden's reply:

"Mamma's in heaven; they took her
away;
Left Jim and me alone;
We come here to sleep at the close of the day.
For we have no mamma or home.
We can't earn our bread, we're too little," she said;
"Jim is five years and I'm only seven.
We have no one to love us, since papa is dead
And our darling mamma's in heaven.

"Papa was lost out to sea long ago;
We waited all night on the shore.
For he was a life-saving captain, you know,
But he never came back any more.
Then mamma got sick; angels took her
away,
She said to a home warm and bright;
She said they would come for her darlings some day;
Perhaps they are coming tonight.

"Perhaps they've no room up in heaven," she said,
"For two little darlings to keep."
She then placed her hand under Jim's little head,
She kissed him, and both fell asleep.
The sexton came early to ring the church bell,
He found them beneath the snow
white;
The angels made room for two darlings to dwell
In heaven with mamma that night.

GOOD-BYE DYSPEPSIA

OPPOSITION DEVELOPS

No Action By Delegation Regarding Board of Jail Prisoners.

Bill to Increase Commissioners' Salaries Is Also Laid Over.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bitter opposition developed at the St. Louis county delegation meeting at the St. Paul hotel last night to the bill authorizing the St. Louis county board, if it deems it to the best interests of humanity and the county, to take over the boarding of county jail prisoners and do it at cost instead of leaving it to the sheriff to do at a profit.

The measure was laid over for a week, and will be considered by the delegation at its meeting next Tuesday night.

Similar action was taken with the bill increasing the salaries of the county commissioners from $1,200 to $2,400.

During the discussion of the bill for boarding prisoners, Senators George M. Peterson of Duluth and John A. Healy of Hibbing, who strongly opposed the bill, made inquiries tending to develop a doubt whether the county board had authorized Senator Charles E. Adams, the board's attorney, to draft the bill.

Action Was Informal.

Commissioners O'Neil and Fraser were in doubt on this point, but the other commissioners made it very clear that such action had been taken, though informally. It appeared that as a result of the showing that prisoners are being boarded at the work farm for 7 cents a meal, and of the recommendation of two grand juries that the board take over the work of boarding county jail prisoners, the board in committee of the whole discussed the matter informally, and that it was the sense of the meeting that such a bill should be drawn, in order to authorize the board to take such action if it deems it best.

The bill simply does this, and leaves it to the board to determine the wise course to pursue.

Sheriff Against Bill.

Sheriff John R. Meining was present to speak against the bill, which he did in emphatic terms. He said that he was indicted by one of the grand juries that had made this recommendation, and that it was all malicious, and was due to the "Siewerts." He didn't believe that the work farm can be boarding prisoners so cheaply as it claimed, and said he's like to see the bills to justify the assertion.

"There is a little money in boarding the prisoners," he said, "or I would not be here. There might be 2 cents a meal. Why am I not entitled to it? The county is rich, and 11 cents a meal is the lowest rate in the country.

"The scheme of turning it over to the county board is impractical. The board can't leave it to a cook to handle, as the bill provides, because cooks are notoriously unreliable. The sheriff has to have absolute charge of the feeding of the prisoners, and the court has so held.

"It would be an injustice to pass this bill, and mere persecution following up the last campaign."

Commissioner T. H. Little said that it was unjust to say that the board would persecute the sheriff. The bill simply puts it up to the board to act or not, and it would act only for the best interests of the public.

New Jail Needed.

Commissioner Charles Kauppi, in the course of the discussion, said that St. Louis county should by all means have a new jail, and that the board is discussing the plan of doing it by short-term bonds. Sheriff Meining agreed with the statement that a new jail is greatly needed.

"What objection is there," inquired Senator Adams of Mr. Meining, "to voting to authorize the board to do this if it thinks it wise, when it does not follow that the board would act?"

"Because it would leave a club with the commissioners, and I don't think it is right," said Mr. Meining. "The bill is a club against the sheriff to hold him down—a political club."

After a discussion of the bill in executive session, the delegation decided to lay it over a week, to give public sentiment a chance to develop.

Ask Higher Pay.

All of the county commissioners except Commissioner MacMahon appeared before the delegation in behalf of the bill to increase their salaries, and they were accompanied by County Auditor Odin Halden. Many letters from Duluth citizens approving the measure were read. No action was taken on it.

A request from County Treasurer Vivian for an increase in his clerk hire allowance from $15,000 to $20,000 was received and placed on file.

The delegation heard a committee of Twin City postal employes in behalf of the Steen joint resolution asking congress to pass a civil service retirement bill to take care of superannuated government employes.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick tell how they have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it ½ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this recipe a trial and free themselves from this destructive disease.

VOSS WILL TAKE FIRST VACATION

City Commissioner Feels That Twenty-Eight Years of Work for City Has Earned Two-Weeks' Lay-Off.

Some time in March Fred J. Voss, commissioner of finance, will take a two weeks' vacation, the first he has had during the twenty-eight years he has been in the service of the city.

Mr. Voss said this morning that he plans to spend the two weeks in Florida, where he recently purchased some land in the vicinity of Palm Beach.

Since entering the city's employ on Jan. 15, 1887, Mr. Voss has never taken a vacation, with the exception of one or two days at a time, when he would remain away from the city hall for a short rest at home.

"I have been eagerly looking forward for some time to this, my first vacation since working for the city," said Mr. Voss this morning.

basis, and that even if it is not abolished, $15,000 a year should be saved by cutting down the number of employes and reducing the output of literature.

The committee, in its report to the house, will recommend that whatever advertising it is thought necessary to do should be handled by the state land department in the state auditor's office.

Census Bill Favored.

The house committee on census yesterday afternoon recommended for passage the bill by Representative Sam Y. Gordon providing for a state census to be taken next June under the direction of the secretary of state. The appropriation, which the census committee cut from $100,000 to $90,000, will have to be passed upon by the appropriations committee.

The committee also considered the bill by Representative Charles L. Stevens of Warren proposing a constitutional amendment abolishing the constitutional requirement of a decennial census. Sentiment seemed to be against it, but no action was taken. Representative L. G. Prendergast of Bemidji raised the point that the state census was useful as a basis for legislative reapportionment.

Teaching Agriculture.

That the teaching of agriculture in common school and semi-graded school was of greater importance than a similar course in high schools, was the contention raised by Senator Henry N. Benson of St. Peter, chairman of the senate committee on education and educational institutions, in urging the passage of his bill to enlarge educational work at the meeting of the senate committee yesterday. "The common schools and semi-graded schools are attended by farmers' sons and daughters, who are far more in need of instruction in agriculture than the students in the city high schools," said Senator Benson. "The cry of 'back to the farm' is a myth; people are not going back to the farm; they are stopping there where they are brought up, and it is these people that this bill will benefit."

This bill, together with Senator D. P. O'Neill's bill to amend the Constitution so as to permit the loaning of school funds on farm land mortgages and the same senator's bill to annex unorganized territory to adjacent school districts, was recommended for passage.

The measure introduced by Senator L. H. Nord of International Falls, to appropriate money for the erection of a normal school at Bemidji, and Senator Henry N. Benson's bill to appropriate $13,500 for the maintenance of the state public library commission were referred back to the finance committee.

Deaf and Dumb Hospital.

The affairs of the state hospital for deaf and dumb at Faribault were investigated by the house state hospital committee yesterday afternoon.

Through an interpreter, Representative A. F. Tiegen of Montevideo questioned Supt. Tate regarding the care of inmates, the size of the rooms, the number of beds therein and the medical attention accorded inmates.

It was brought out during the hearing that as many as twenty beds are contained in one room of 40 by 20 feet.

Although Mr. Telgen delved deeply into the details of the management of the institution, the concensus of opinion among the committee members was that conditions practically are the same as those existing in many other public institutions, and it was not believed that anything of a serious character would be brought to light as a result of the investigation.

Game License Fees.

The Baldwin bill providing for the use of all hunting and game license fees by the state game and fish commission, introduced in the senate yesterday, was recommended for passage by the unanimous vote of the members of the senate game and fish committee at their meeting yesterday afternoon.

Several speakers at the public hearing on Monday night pointed out the utter inability of the commission to enforce the game laws without sufficient funds, and sportsmen and farmers from all sections of the state, who were present, expressed their approbation of a measure that would result in the reverting to the commission of license fees.

Opposed by Linseed Oil Men.

Stating that the linseed oil business in Minnesota would be ruined should the legislature enact a law requiring the oil mills to work their employes only eight hours a day, President Daniels of the Daniels-Archer linseed oil mills of Minneapolis, appeared before the house labor committee yesterday in opposition to the bill introduced by A. O. Devold, together with other representatives of the linseed oil interests.

Speaking in support of his measure, Representative Devold said:

"Would not a quarter of a cent added to the price of oil compensate the employers for the extra expense incurred in establishing an eight-hour day?"

Mr. Daniels said that he thought that this might be true, but added that the business in this state would be ruined.

The Lydiard bill, giving rest of one day in seven to employes in all lines of work, with a few exceptions where the work was absolutely necessary, was the subject of a lengthy debate before the committee. This measure was opposed by Minneapolis milling interests and by G. M. Gillette, president of the Minnesota Employers' association. While the bill carries a provision whereby a person can be employed on Sunday, providing the work is necessary, it also provides that the employe so working shall be given one day in compensation.

State Fair Buildings.

As chairman of the state fair committee of the house, Representative Robert Carmichael introduced in the house today a bill appropriating $290,000 to be used by the Minnesota State Agricultural society in the construction of state fair buildings and for the repair of other state fair property.

The county division bill, introduced yesterday, has been changed so as to reduce the number of petitioners required to propose a community as a candidate for county seat honors from 500 to 300.

BIG CREWS PUT TO WORK

Alger-Smith Sawmill Resumes Operations With 225 Men.

Wages Range From $1.80 to $3.50; Many Hands Turned Away.

At 7 o'clock sharp this morning 225 men were put to work by the resumption of operations at the Alger-Smith sawmill at the foot of Garfield avenue. This makes a total of 425 men that have gone to work in sawmills in this end of the city since 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and an additional 200 men will be put to work at 7 o'clock this evening when the Rice's Point mill will start its night crew.

When the Mullery-McDonald mill resumed its night operations last night there were about 400 men on the ground seeking employment. Fully 200 additional men were on the ground at the opening of the Alger-Smith mill this morning who were unable to find jobs.

The wages being offered the men are about the same as granted during the winter operations of the mills in former years. These range from $1.80 to $3.50 a day according to the position that the men are able to hold. These wages while slightly lower than paid during the summer months, are well up to the average paid during winter months.

The supply of timber on hand as well as that which is expected to arrive daily will keep the mills running at their capacity from now on.

FARMERS ARRANGE FOR SHORT COURSE

Experts Will Conduct Two-Day Meeting at Hermantown.

Farmers of Hermantown have arranged to have a short course in farming, dairying and poultry raising conducted at the Woodman hall of Hermantown on Monday and Tuesday, April 12 and 13. The dates have been arranged after consultation with agricultural experts of this district.

Three sessions will be held on each of the two days. These will be held at 9 o'clock, 1 o'clock and 7 o'clock. Several of the best lecturers in the state have been secured to speak. Among those who will be present are Prof. A. J. McGuire, state agricultural college; Prof. N. E. Chapman, poultry expert; state experimental farm, and A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of county agricultural agents, and others.

Truck gardening, preparation of the soil, planting, weeding and other topics incidental to the farm; dairying, feeding of the stock, its selection and subjects pertaining to poultry will be taken up.

TO OUTLINE YEAR'S WORK.

Improvement Club Will Hold Its Annual Meeting.

The Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club will hold its annual meeting this evening at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street. The election of officers will be the principal feature of the meeting.

Members of the club will present an outline of what improvements the club will advocate during the year. Among these are the building of sewers, paving of certain streets, enlarging of the Merritt school and playground, and the establishment of a fire hall in the district.

FUNERAL FOR AGED DULUTH PIONEER.

The funeral of Mrs. H. A. Hanson, aged 84, who died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Olson, 215 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Rev. J. M. Nervig officiated.

Mrs. Hanson is survived by seven children. They are Mrs. Olson, Miss Hannah Hanson of Tacoma, Wash.; Miss Emma Hanson, Watertown, S. D.; John Hanson, Seattle, Wash.; Anton, Christ and Richard Hanson of this city. Mrs. Hanson was a resident of Duluth for twenty-nine years.

DON'T USE SOAP ON YOUR HAIR

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

APPEAL APPRAISERS' BOULEVARD ESTIMATE.

Before a jury in Judge Dancer's division of district court this morning, trial of an appeal from the appraisers' estimates of damages for property to be condemned by the city of Duluth for the proposed north shore boulevard was started. Several property owners are concerned. The jury will be asked to adjust the awards in question.

The city of Duluth is planning to extend its boulevard system from the present eastern terminus of London road to the Lake county line, a distance of about twenty miles. The highway as it is planned extends through fifty-three different parcels of land in which more than 150 persons are interested.

GAVE FRESH EGGS AS TIPS.

New York Times: A man who attracted attention by reason of the generous size of his checks on his suit, and carrying a rosewood case, entered the barber shop of the Vanderbilt, and, after selecting an operator, carefully deposited his box near a hat rack. Having been released from the chair, he strolled about the room, putting on his collar and necktie the while, and finally said to Miss Mae Lewis, the head artist of the manicure department, that he would like his nails treated.

"But," he said, "I must warn you that I do not give cash for tips; I give only eggs."

"Eggs?" gasped Miss Lewis.

"Surely," repeated the visitor, "real fresh, newly-laid eggs. You do not know what a treasure such a thing is in New York. I always bring a case of them when I come in from the country. Look!"

He brought over the rosewood case and opened it. On top, sure enough, was a layer of eggs.

"I never travel without them," went on the stranger. "This case I have had made especially for carrying them. Now, having seen how highly I value these eggs, would you consider an egg a substitute for a tip?"

"You don't have to tip," replied the manicurist scornfully. "I'll be willing to fix your hands for the regular price."

"And what is that?"

He was told.

"Fifty cents!" he echoed. "Why, I should never think of having my nails done where they charge less than a dollar. Good day."

And he put on his coat and hat, grabbed up the case, and stalked out, leaving everybody wondering.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

CLOTURE RULE IS THREATENED

May Be Employed to Suppress Republican Tactics, Says Stone.

Senator Pays Glowing Tribute to Acts of the President.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Warning that the senate majority might invoke a cloture rule to suppress continued obstructive tactics employed against the government ship purchase bill was given the Republicans today by Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee. With this threat, the senator coupled a vigorous defense of President Wilson, replying particularly to critics of the president's Jackson day speech at Indianapolis.

"We must pass this ship bill without much further delay," he said as he concluded. "The public interest and welfare demand this at our hands. I have grown weary beyond endurance of this astounding nonsense with which we are daily harassed—the nonsense of senators invoking the technical letter of rules to justify the most reprehensible violation of their spirit.

Cloture May Be Necessary.

"I have been always opposed to cloture in the senate, but, bad as I think the cloture would be, there is something worse. The unrestrained domination of the majority by even a small minority, cohesive, unrelenting and determined to stop the wheels of legislation, might endanger the safety of the nation. I close with this admonition, that if the necessity for a cloture is forced, it may be reported, and if it is reported, it will be passed."

In his arraignment of the critics of the Jackson day speech, Senator Stone referred to the president's remark that the Republican party had not had a new idea in thirty years and to Senator Borah's reply citing the Republican legislative record. Of the great legislation claimed by the Idaho senator for the Republican party, he declared that the act creating the interstate commerce commission was passed when the house was Democratic and President Cleveland was in the White House; that the income tax was enacted by the Republicans only after a similar act passed under a Democratic administration had been held unconstitutional by the supreme court, for which the court was condemned in the next Democratic national platform, and after a revolutionized public sentiment had compelled the Republicans to change their attitude. The resolution submitting the amendment for direct election of senators, he said, was introduced by Representative Rucker of Missouri, a Democrat, and of the sixteen members of the house who voted against it, two were Speaker Cannon and Republican Leader Mann.

Not Surprising.

"Nothing so stirs the gall or upsets the nerve equilibrium of the average Republican politician as the name of Woodrow Wilson," said the senator. "It is not surprising that this should be so, for the burned child dreads the fire and the galled jade winces. Their backs are still raw from the well-deserved drubbing Wilson gave them in 1912 and they still smart from the salt on the old sores last November.

"What the president said at Indianapolis about team work and about the captain of the team seems to hit an especially tender spot. I have not for a long time beheld so much froth and waste of energy as this rather platitudinous remark of the president about team work has occasioned. I call it 'platitudinous' or commonplace because it is just what we have all been saying for a long time.

"Woodrow Wilson is the president of the whole people; that is so for this reason, if no other, that the people of this country can have but one president. But this one president is the head of the Democratic party. Remember that fact as well as the fact that he is president. In due form he was elected and installed as the chief executive; and also in due form he was chosen as the titular head and leader of his party—the captain of the Democratic team. The immediate significance of this latter statement is that the Democratic party has been entrusted by the people with the power and duty of making and executing laws and of establishing and administering public policies.

Must Pull Together.

"To do that successfully we Democrats must maintain a cohesive organization, and, as far as possible, pull together in concert; in other words, we must do team work. The president, by the choice of the people, is the head of the team. There cannot be more than one head unless you would invite confusion. Leadership does not mean dictation, for dictation spells disaster.

"I regard Mr. Wilson as a great president, with all a wise and able party leader. I do not assert or for a moment imagine, that he is infallible; that he makes no mistakes. But, believing as I do, with all my heart, that he is striving unselfishly and nobly to achieve a great work solely for the good of his country and the American people, I shall do whatever I can to strengthen his hands; at least I shall not, because of minor differences, sulk in my tent and weaken or embarrass him by any act of mine. In other words I mean to do team work with the president and with my Democratic colleagues in the senate and house of representatives.

Cannot Be Shaken.

"Our friends across the aisle cannot shake me in this purpose by cajolery or threat, by fulsome praise or hostile sneer. Without qualification I avow that I prefer the leadership of Woodrow Wilson to that of Elihu Root, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jacob Gallinger, Theodore Burton or William Edgar Borah."

The senator declared not many people would be fooled about the purpose the "ridiculous performance" of the Republican opponents of the shipping bill would serve.

"Overwhelmed by facts and beaten in the argument," he continued, "we are now solemnly assured that 'the people are against the bill.' What people do these gentlemen speak for? Not for the planters who grow cotton in their fields; not for the farmers, feeders, and millers who produce food supplies; not for the miners who produce metals and fuel; not for the manufacturers who fabricate a thousand things that are essential to industrial and individual life; not for any people who have products to ship to the waiting markets of the world and who are suffering enormous losses for the want of adequate transportation facilities and from exorbitant exactions. The people these senators speak for are those who control the executive committee of the New York chamber of commerce and other like organizations."

Of the men who, he said, formed the potential membership of these organizations, responsible for resolutions sent to congress attacking the bill, the senator named J. P. Morgan, William H. Skinner, W. H. Porter, E. H. Outerbridge, P. A. S. Franklin, and others interested in great steamship companies.

Held to Grand Jury.
Henry Malone, aged 28, colored, arrested Sunday on a charge of burglary in the third degree, was bound over to the grand jury under $400 bail when his case was taken up in municipal court this morning. He is alleged to have entered the home of Miss Hattie Douglas, 911 East Third street, who also is colored, and to have stolen a gold necklace and locket.

Firemen Answer Two Calls.
Firemen responded to two alarms this morning. The first, at 426 Lake avenue north, was a chimney fire and caused no damage. In the second, sparks from a chimney set fire to the roof of a residence at 217 Pittsburg avenue. The damage was nominal.

Inspects City Work.
Roderick Murchison, commissioner of public works, made a visit to New Duluth this morning to inspect the sewer work at Gary and the progress made on the Smithville subway by the Northern Pacific railroad.

Will Address Sailors' School.
Capt. Albert Swenson, hydrographic officer at Duluth, will give an address this evening to the sailors who attend the night school conducted at the Lake Carriers' association at the foot of Fifth avenue. It is expected that Capt. Swenson's talk will be of a highly instructive order and that many beside those who attend the school will be on hand to hear it.

Two Go Into Bankruptcy.
Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the United States district court today. John Neubauer, a grocery clerk, Virginia, one of the petitioners, placed his liabilities at $325.78 and his assets at $200. Paul Dasovich, a miner, Virginia, the other petitioner, placed his liabilities at $390 and his assets at $113.50. The later's indebtedness involved purchases of groceries, meat and beer. Beer purchases amounted to $156.

Meeting Is Postponed.
The regular monthly meeting of the Humane society directors, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed until tomorrow afternoon. It will be held at the society's offices in the courthouse. The monthly report of the agent will be submitted and other routine business transacted. R. D. McKercher, agent, is in St. Paul this week appearing before a legislative committee in the interests of a bill providing an appropriation for the State Humane society.

City Appraisers Meet.
The city appraisers met this morning in the council chamber to condemn the property for slope easements for the Smithville subway now being constructed by the Northern Pacific railroad. The report of the appraisers will be acted on by the commissioners at their regular meeting next Monday.

WINNER OF PATENT FIGHT OVER HYDRO-AEROPLANE

ALBERT S. JANIN.

Albert S. Janin, a poor mechanic of New York, has won a big patent fight over Glenn Curtiss. He has been declared inventor of the hydroaeroplane. Janis lives on Staten Island with his family. He has given a great deal of thought to invention and particularly to aviation problems. Some years ago he thought out and put on paper the design for the hydroaeroplane which Curtiss is now making. But he was too poor to make a practical demonstration of it. He says that his ideas came from watching the seagulls when he was working on a mail ship in 1899.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Ready Tomorrow—the Latest Novelty White Goods for the Summer of 1915

Little did we hope a few months ago to offer such a collection as is ready here tomorrow. What perhaps seemed impossible has been accomplished.

Many of our orders for these imported novelties were placed early last spring—as a result here are many things which will be found in very, very few other stores in the land.

Prevailing conditions point to a great shortage in the supply of these high-class imported white goods and your good judgment will suggest the advantage of anticipating your needs here now.

When you write to your friends in other cities you may safely tell them that right here in Duluth at Gray's is a display of white goods surpassing even the 1914 displays, and if they cannot find what they want in their home stores you can get it for them here.

Sheer Embroidered White Voiles

Here are lovely designs on charming qualities. Really surprising are the values at 75c and $1.00 the yard.

SERVICE IS CRIPPLED

Telegraph Companies Have Not Recovered From Storm Near Chicago.

Winnipeg Is "Interpreter" Between Head of Lakes and East.

Duluth was talking to Chicago and the Eastern United States today, using Winnipeg as an interpreter. Otherwise "conversation" over telephone or telegraph wires was limited.

After working all night to repair the many miles of wires and poles carried down in the terrific storm which cut a swath between Milwaukee and Chicago, extending down through Wisconsin and Northern Illinois, officials of the telegraph companies announced today that it would be some time before service again was normal.

Managers of local branches of both commercial telegraph companies announced that they had been able to get a few messages through to Chicago, via Milwaukee, but that no delivery could be guaranteed on messages. This condition is expected to be largely remedied by tonight, however, they say.

Sleet and rain weighted the wires and resulted in mile after mile of poles and wires being down. Repair crews are being hindered in their work by the deep snow, which has compelled them to shovel their way for long distances, according to report.

Readers of The Herald were able to get the usual news of the world's doings yesterday, without delay, because of the Canadian or Western Associated Press. All Associated Press news appearing in the afternoon paper was relayed to Winnipeg along the northern shore of the Great Lakes chain, and thence to Duluth.

Underground telephone cables were pressed into service early this morning by the Associated Press, and outside news in today's Herald was sent over a telephone wire from Chicago to Milwaukee and from Milwaukee to Winona, to the Twin Cities and Duluth. Telephone wires, when underground, may be used for telegraphic purposes by merely attaching a battery and telegraph instrument, say operators.

"The situation is fully as bad today, if not worse, than yesterday," said J. L. Fuller, manager of the local office of the North American Commercial Telegraph company.

"From Minneapolis we have connections with Detroit, via Marquette, and from there we are sending messages to Chicago. We have been able to handle considerable business, but there is some delay. It is hard to tell when the wire service will be normal, probably several days."

"The situation is about unchanged," declared Manager E. F. Kelley of the Western Union. "There has been no improvement, but with our Winnipeg connections, the wire to the Twin Cities, and the Detroit wire into Chicago, we are caring for most of our business."

PATIENCE OF THE KAISER

sentative of a neutral state, the emperor once said, 'You are a sportsman. When in a horse race the weaker animals gradually drop out and only the two strongest are left, have you ever seen the jockey of the horse which threatens to fall behind strike with his whip at the jockey of the more ambitious and stronger animal?'

Should Strike Own Horse.

"The man questioned shook his head. The emperor continued: 'Why does England strike at us? Why does she not rather strike at her own weakening horse?'

"Yet other words of the emperor must be remembered," the Neuste Nachrichten quotes Dr. Ganghofer as saying. "On one occasion he made this remark: 'Many people who judge us Germans solely by outward polish and term us barbarians seem not to know that there is a great difference between civilization and kultur. England certainly is a highly civilized nation. One notices this always in the drawing room, but it does have "kultur" means to possess deep conscience and high morale. My Germans have conscience and morale. When they say in other lands that it was my intention to found a world's empire, that is the funniest nonsense ever said about me. But in the morale, industry and conscience of the German people is to be found a conquering power that will open the world for them.'" made no move in this direction. Nor has he consulted a lawyer.

No charge has been preferred against him and he is detained only on the authority of the attorney general of Maine, until an inquiry into the facts of his case can be made.

It was explained that he could be held indefinitely unless a writ of habeas corpus was obtained in his behalf. Van Horn has shown no disposition to seek his liberty, but provision has been made to forestall such procedure. A local trial justice stands ready to issue a warrant for the arrest of the dynamiter on any one of the several charges that have been suggested. These include the illegal transportation of dynamite and of causing damage in this town where the windows of some buildings were broken by the explosion.

Carefully Guarded.

Van Horn was carefully guarded at the immigration offices throughout the night. No formal charge had been preferred against Van Horn, who said he was an officer in the German army and that he had exploded the dynamite as an act of war.

Under the auspices of Canadian officials, a court session was held last night at McAdam Junction, just across the New Brunswick border, at which testimony was given before a police magistrate, who later issued a warrant against Van Horn.

No service was made on the prisoner, however, local authorities having decided that the warrant had no legal standing unless accompanied by an order for extradition.

Basis for Charges.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 3.—The information laid against Werner Van Horn, upon which the Canadian authorities seek his extradition from Vanceboro, Me., was stated today by J. B. M. Baxter, attorney general of New Brunswick, to be based on section 282 of the criminal code. This section is as follows: "Everyone is guilty of an indictable offense and liable to life imprisonment who unlawfully, with intent to injure or endanger the safety of any persons traveling or being on any railway, injures or destroys any train, bridge or fence of said railway or other portion thereof."

Mr. Baxter said that if Van Horn were brought to Canada and indicted he would be tried in Charlotte county, N. B.

International Problem.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 3.—Another international problem incident to the war was thrust upon the United States by the action of Werner Van Horn, who, operating on the Canadian side of the border, dynamited the railway bridge over the St. Croix river and then escaped into this state. A few hours later, in a room at a hotel here, Van Horn quietly submitted to arrest, but immediately proclaimed himself an officer of the German army and set up the claim that he had committed an act of war and, having fled to a neutral country, could not be legally surrendered to an enemy of the fatherland.

The Canadian authorities, however, at once instituted proceedings to obtain the extradition of the prisoner on a charge of destruction to railroad property. Pending the outcome of these efforts, Van Horn is held at the immigration office here in custody of Deputy Sheriff George W. Ross of Washington county.

Not Much Damaged.

The bridge which Van Horn sought to destroy was not greatly damaged. Within a few hours cars were shunted across, one at a time, the passengers walking over on the ice. In a short time, railroad officials said, the bridge will be strong enough for traffic.

The St. Croix river for some distance forms the boundary between Maine and New Brunswick. The bridge is owned jointly by the Maine Central and the Canadian Pacific railways and is on the direct route of the Canadian Pacific from Western Canada to the Maritime provinces. Over this road have been shipped large quantities of war materials for the allies, which were placed on board ships at St. John and Halifax.

According to the police, Van Horn, a man of middle age and military bearing, told them that he left Germany five years ago and for the last four years had been managing a coffee plantation in Mexico. Recently he made unsuccessful attempts to return to his native land.

Friday night he left New York city, arriving here Saturday night and staying at a hotel. The same night, by appointment, he met at the east end of the bridge a man unknown to him. The man gave him a satchel containing dynamite. Van Horn suspended the satchel from the inside of an end post of the bridge and about 2 o'clock yesterday morning discharged the explosive.

enough weights attached to their cables to sink them about four feet under the surface so that they run with the tides to the shallower water where the weight strikes bottom and anchors.

Trawlers a Protection.

Nothing is so effective against submarines as a cordon of trawlers around a fleet. The submarines must come close to be effective and they are easily detected by the trawlers on rising to the surface to use the periscope. There is also the chance of getting in a shot at what the navy calls "Tin Whales."

The large fleet of trawlers will soon take part in the Belgian coast operations, and some already are there. They carry one gun forward and one aft and two abeam. The weapons are quick firers of comparatively small caliber, but boats, sailing in close under the lee of the sand dunes and increasing the general volume of fire prevent enemy guns from taking a base alongside, and making a direct target of the big monitors and cruisers.

Very few fishing boats are now left in Yarmouth out of its once great fleet, and these are allowed to fish only off the small strip of coast. Moreover, it is difficult to man these, since practically every able-bodied fisherman is in the navy, to which he belonged as a reserve.

The government pays a liberal rental for the boats. If it were not for this and the pay of the men now in the navy, there would be great want in Yarmouth and all the coast towns at this time.

GERMANS HURL SOLDIERS FORWARD

a spirited fusillade from the enemy.

"The Germans endeavored to float down the River Anore some blazing rafts, setting them from a point above Aveluy, which is north of Albert. We were successful, however, in stopping these floats before they exploded.

"Our artillery has continued to secure excellent results in the valley of the Aisne. We have made slight progress and have taken prisoners and have repulsed a counter-attack to the west of Hill No. 200, near Perthes.

"In the Argonne a second German attack took place yesterday near Bagatelle at about 6 o'clock in the evening. This also was repulsed, as had been the attack previously reported and which took place at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

"The front from the Meuse to the Vosges has been quiet. In Alsace we are organizing our forces on the ground won by us to the south of Ammertzyviller."

German Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 3, by wireless to Sayville.—German army headquarters today gave out a report on the progress of the fight, which reads as follows:

"The attacks made by the French on the German positions near Perthes have been repulsed. On the remainder of the western battle front there was yesterday nothing more than artillery exchanges.

"There have been no new developments along the East Prussian frontier.

"In Poland, north of the Vistula, cavalry onslaughts by the Russians have been repulsed, while south of the Vistula German attacks at a point east of Bolimow ended with the occupation of the village of Humin (to the northeast). Fighting for possession of Wolaszye-Lowiczka has been going on since Feb. 1. In these engagements we have taken over 4,000 prisoners and captured six machine guns.

"Russian attacks at night against the German positions near the Bzura river have been repulsed."

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Feb. 3.—Successes for the Russian arms in the region of Warsaw and in the Carpathians are recounted in an official Russian statement issued here today.

Confirmation is given also to the report that German troops have been sent to the Carpathians to assist their Austrian allies. The text of the communication follows:

"The engagements in the region of Mlawa have continued favorable to our troops. On the left bank of the Vistula the battle on the roads from Bolimow proceeded on Feb. 1, with considerable intensity. A large number of heavy and light batteries participated energetically in the engagement.

"The German attack the morning of Feb. 2, north of Borjimow, was repulsed with great losses for the enemy. A violent combat was begun south of the village of Goumine, where we recaptured advanced trenches which we lost Jan. 31. The possession of a small farm still is undecided.

"South of the Pilica, near Dounaietz, the enemy increased the intensity of his bombardment, continuing night and day, but attempts of the enemy's troops to make progress are without success.

"In the Carpathians, the conflict continued Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. Our forces advanced, fighting along the broad front at Dukla pass as far as the Lower San, having crossed the principal ridge of the mountain range in the region of Jasliska and Mezo Laborcz, where we took a battery of six cannon, two mortars, a number of rapid-firers and numerous prisoners. An offensive movement undertaken by the enemy southeast of Uszok pass was repulsed with enormous losses.

"News relative to the transportation of German troops to the Carpathian front finds confirmation in the fact that on Feb. 2, southeast of Beskid pass we destroyed a battalion of the Two Hundred and Twenty-fourth German regiment, a remnant of which, notably battalion and company commander and twenty soldiers, were made prisoners."

be effective, leaving it merely a direction to the appropriations committees to frame the budgets on the present law.

The resolution in its original form was opposed by Senator Duxbury, chairman of the committee that has the bill, and others. The compromise was made at the suggestion of Senator Sullivan of Stearns county.

Senator Rockne made the point that consideration of the efficiency bill would take so long that the finance committee would not have time to reshape its appropriation bills after the efficiency bill was passed, if it was passed.

Partial Prohibition.

State-wide prohibition of the sale of ardent liquors, but the regulated and licensed sale of malt and vinous liquors containing less than 4 per cent of alcohol, is proposed in a bill offered in the senate this morning by Senator Gardner of Brainerd. Manufacturers are to pay the state $5,000 for licenses and retailers are to be licensed by county boards and municipal governing bodies. It is proposed to make the measure effective next January.

* * *

Senator Gahdrud introduced a drastic blind pig bill, giving full authority of search and seizure and charging law officers with its enforcement under penalty.

Against Teaching Militarism.

That no schools teaching the spirit of militarism by allowing military training shall receive state aid is the purpose of a bill introduced in the senate this morning by Senator Richard S. Jones of Duluth. It prohibits any school getting state aid from giving training in military tactics or permitting the use of guns or military equipment either for drill or target practice, and provides that any school disobeying shall forfeit its state aid.

The house failed to pass the bill making the reserve requirements of state banks the same as those of national banks; but after its defeat it was reconsidered and returned to general orders to be given another chance. The bill is part of the program to let state banks enter the Federal reserve system, and it was opposed by many rural members because of the provision requiring country banks to keep reserves in city banks.

The house unanimously adopted the report of the elections committee throwing out the Dunning-Girling contest.

* * *

Representative Spooner offered a resolution which the house laid over until Friday, providing for an investigation of the Faribault school for the deaf by a special committee of three.

An Economy Proposal.

Representative Elmer L. Adams proposes an economy in a bill introduced this morning by putting the inspection of weights and measures under the dairy and food department. It is now under the railroad and warehouse commission. The bill also does away with the requirement of an annual inspection of weights and measures on the ground that it is unnecessary to reinspect inspected and tagged weights and measures.

* * *

The house refused to print in the journal a number of petitions favoring prohibition, presented by Representative Anderson, Prohibitionist.

To Visit University.

Both branches adjourned at noon, and will spend the remainder of the day at the state university, the state college of agriculture and the Minneapolis Institute of Arts.

Bills introduced: Representative Boyd, appropriating $20,000 to complete Sand Hill river ditch and its extention in Polk county; Representative Boyd, requiring telegraph companies to report back their inability to deliver messages, or become liable for damages; Representative Wilson, requiring the state fair to give passes to holders of concessions on the fair grounds; Senator O'Neill, making it a felony to import and arm private guards without the consent of the governor; Senator Jones of Duluth, providing for the state examination and licensing of plumbers; Senator Westlake, prohibiting the sale of stocks of merchandise in bulk to defraud creditors.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

Still Fast in Ice.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—The steamer Alabama of the Goodrich Transit company, caught in the ice floes yesterday, was still fast today. No aid has been asked by thesteamer which is expected to free itself when a favorable wind blows. The vessel has a crew of fifty men, but no passengers are aboard, according to the owners.

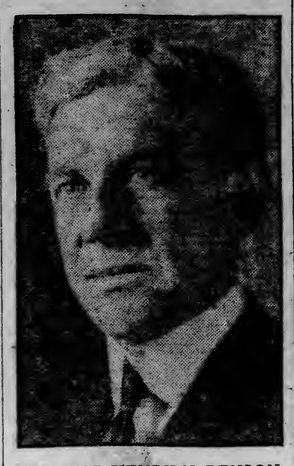

Overnight Relief For Constipation

When the bowels become clogged with a mass of poisonous stomach waste, sick headache with all its attendant misery, belching of sour stomach gases, bloat and general discomfort are sure to follow.

A mild, pleasant laxative-tonic that will carry off the congested mass without upsetting the stomach or griping the bowels, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose taken just before retiring will afford grateful relief next morning, without unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the ideal family remedy, especially for the women and children and old folks. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

HAS BILL TO ENLARGE EDUCATIONAL WORK

SENATOR HENRY N. BENSON
Of St. Peter, Chairman of Committee on Education and Educational Institutions.

ELWELL LAW IS DEFENDED

Shelland made the following appeal in behalf of Northern Minnesota:

"The very fact that men from counties where the Elwell law is not in operation are seeking to repeal a law that is optional, that does not raise the taxes anywhere except in the county using it and that it takes no more money per county from the state than the county would receive otherwise looks very peculiar, indeed, as it cannot interfere with their counties in any way. When they say it is not limited and can run an unlimited amount of debt upon the state, they do not realize that the Dunn law has limited it through its apportionment of money or that it was always limited in the fact that no county could draw less than 1 per cent or more than 3 per cent.

"It seems very queer that they wish to take the only constructive measure on the books that is of great aid to backward counties and limit them to what little road work they could do each year. This does not strike Southern Minnesota very much for she has roads everywhere that can be traveled with an empty wagon and many miles of good graveled road. It does strike Northern Minnesota very hard for she has no graveled road and few good dirt roads and is taxed to the limit.

A Striking Comparison.

"Please notice the difference in acreage, road mileage, valuation and county tax in the following comparisons:

County.	Area.	Valuation.	County Tax.
Kittson	1,108	$ 5,983,221	$12,582
Rock	482	8,581,528	15,446
Roseau	1,740	4,281,180	9,977
Noble	720	11,324,612	10,211
Beltrami	4,757	6,823,397	20,470

"When you realize that in every one of these cases the northern counties are from two to six times the size of the southern counties, yet the valuation of every one of the northern counties is very much smaller and the road tax very much higher, it is plainly seen that the northern counties need aid while the southern counties have valuation enough to do for themselves. If any county wants to anticipate its funds for the next ten years, in what way will it hurt its neighbors? If Koochiching county wants to build 200 miles of road now instead of twenty miles a year for the coming ten years and have the use of it during that ten years, why should it worry anyone else?

"Roads are a necessity to the state and to the north particularly. What is the use of having a farm, even five acres, if you cannot get any produce to market? What would you do tomorrow if you absolutely knew that you could not get one single thing that you raised to market inside the next two years? How much work would you do? If you knew that every mouthful you ate must be packed in on your back or bought a year ahead of time and brought in in the winter, how long would you pack it?

"When you visited the schools and saw the stockings of all the children drying behind the stove because the ning back to school and knew that condition was common to the county, would you say twenty miles or 200 miles now?

Would You Be Satisfied?

"If you never went any place in the summer without walking and never met your neighbors socially because you could not take the family except by the pack-sack method, would you be satisfied? If you knew that in case of sickness the doctor was twenty miles away and must walk that twenty miles in order to see a member of the family who was dangerously ill, would you want roads or not? When the boards of the coffin must be packed in on someone's back and your loved ones buried without a minister's services, would you ever want to see that place again?

"Yet, that is the condition in much of the north and you seek to stop the only law that enables them to work and make it possible for them to live economically and socially. If you think the law lacks, amend it. Let them get 51 per cent of the signers of those benefited or limit the use of the state funds to three-fourths of the amount received from the state, but don't repeal it.

"If this bill passes it will leave thirteen counties with contracts amounting to $1,421,754 on their hands and the state will repudiate $710,877 of indebtedness of her own making, violating its obligations to counties and individuals. Beside this $1,329,969 worth of preliminary survey work has been done in all, and this will leave twenty-one counties or one-fouth of the whole state to assume indebtedness that they contracted through faith that the state would do her share.

"Can you as a body afford to put the state in this light?"

Want Any Kind of Roads.

C. R. Middleton, representing the Commercial club of Baudette, four farmers' clubs of Beltrami county and the Northern Minnesota Development association, said that Northern Minnesota was not asking good roads under any particular variety of law, but any kind of roads at all under any sort of law, so its people can get in and out.

"The indictments that have been read here against the Elwell law," said Mr. Middleton, "are a hodge-podge of tommyrot. They are appeals to selfishness and prejudice, not to reason or common sense."

Former Senator Thomas E. Cashman of Owatonna, N. J. Robinson of Lyon county, Former Senator J. T. Elwell of Minneapolis and Dr. Duncan B. Pritchard of Winona also made strong talks in favor of the Elwell law.

Talks against the bill were made by Representative A. V. Anderson of Goodhue county, author of the bill; Senator been asked by thesteamer which is expected to free itself when a favorable wind blows. The vessel has a crew of fifty men, but no passengers are aboard, according to the owners.

NEW PLAN OF DEMOCRATS

for the measure to offset the Democratic revolt last Monday.

After reaching an agreement, the caucus adopted a resolution pledging every member to secrecy. Senator Kern, chairman of the caucus, announced that secrecy was necessary, for the obvious reason that to make the plans public might mean their frustration.

It was reported later that included in the plan was an agreement to amend the bill to conform with some suggestions that have been made from various sources within the last few strenuous days.

"We will get into the bill in the senate again today," said Senator Kern. "That positively is all that can be said. The opposition did not confide to us what they intended to do last Monday. For that same reason we cannot divulge our plans."

"Does the plan contemplate winning votes for the bill."

To Hold All Votes.

"We expect to hold all the votes we had for the bill," said Senator Kern.

"Do you mean the forty-two votes which stood fast Monday afternoon?"

"That would not be enough," Senator Kern replied.

"Is there hope for the bill?" the senator was asked.

"Hope, defined," the senator replied "is a combination of expectancy and desire.

"Our plan, suggested following the conference, was that an effort might be made to amend Senator Clark's motion to recommit the bill by adding instructions to the commerce committee to return it to the senate at once with amendments."

To Safeguard Neutrality.

The amendments are said to be on lines to safeguard neutrality with regard to purchase of belligerent ships and the length of time in which the government would engage in ocean transportation business.

Later it was learned that when the Clarke motion to recommit comes up, Senator Fletcher will move as an amendment that the committee report back within forty-eight hours and that an amendment be included which would not commit the government to a permanent policy in the proposed shipping enterprise and that the time limit for the undertaking be fixed.

It was said this would be fixed either at eighteen months or two years. Upon these amendments, it was pointed out, the administration Democrats had pinned their hopes in winning back Democrats rather than in winning over Progressive Republican support.

Clapp Stands Firm.

In addition to discussing the situation with Senators Kenyon and Norris, President Wilson sought to learn the position of Senator Poindexter, Progressive, and Senator Clapp, Progressive Republican. The engagement with Senator Poindexter was canceled later, and he was understood to be definitely aligned against the administration on the bill.

Senator Clapp went to the White House in response to an invitation but frankly reminded the president that he had recently made a speech opposing executive interference with congress. Thereupon the president said that, under the circumstances, perhaps the shipping bill had better not be taken up. The question was discussed briefly.

Senator Clapp refused to talk about the interview, but at the White House it was said there was no unpleasantness and that the president respected the senator's position.

CATARRH CAUSED BY A GERM

Must Be Destroyed Before Catarrh Itself Can Be Cured, Says Specialist. Wonderful Results From Breathing Medicated Air.

Medicine taken into the stomach will never cure catarrh. And neither will the sprays, douches, lotions, creams and other temporary reliefs that so many catarrh victims make a habit of using. To cure catarrh so it won't come back you must first drive from your body the millions of germs that are flourishing in the inner recesses of your nose and throat and are causing the disease.

There is a preparation which does this called Hyomei (pronounced Hi-o-me). Hyomei is a germ killing vaporized air formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients. You breathe Hyomei through the mouth and nose by means of a little hard rubber inhaler which druggists furnish with it. This medicated germicidal air penetrates into every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of your nose and throat, kills the catarrh germs that lodge there, soothes, reduces and heals the swollen inflamed membranes, stops the discharge and open up the clogged nose and air passages in a truly wonderful way. It gives blessed relief in five minutes from catarrhal distress of every kind and if you make a practice of breathing Hyomei for a few minutes each day for just a few weeks not only will all the symptoms of catarrh vanish but the disease itself will be a thing of the past. No one need try or buy Hyomei on pure faith. Boyce Drug Store and many other leading druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell it with the positive guarantee that it must cure catarrh or that the money paid for it will be refunded. Hyomei is very inexpensive and with this protecting guarantee behind your purchase there is absolutely no reason why any sufferer from Catarrh should not give it a fair trial.

NEW RESIDENT OF DULUTH LED INSURANCE "HUSTLERS" OF COUNTRY

Barney N. Scott, who led the life insurance underwriters of the country in 1913 and who was second on the North American continent in that year, arrived in Duluth this week from Wausau, Wis., to become assistant superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance company. Mr. Scott's family arrived this morning and they will make their home here in the future.

Although in the insurance business but five years, Mr. Scott has during that time made a national name for himself among the underwriters of the country. It was while in charge of the Wausau district in Wisconsin that he made his enviable record and also helped place Wisconsin at the head of the states in the Union for life insurance business done during 1913.

Following the national record he made for business in 1913, Mr. Scott was given an honorary banquet at Merrill, Wis., by the officers of the Prudential company. He has also led the life insurance writers of Wisconsin for the last three years.

Mr. Scott is 30 years old and had resided in Wisconsin ever since he was 12 years of age.

BARNEY N. SCOTT.

J. L. Vermilya of Dover, author of a similar bill pending in the senate; William Codman of Winona, an attorney representing farmers opposed to the Elwell roads there; Col. R. A. Wilkinson of Lake Elmo and A. J. Rick of Winona county.

Both committees will take action on the bill soon.

County option comes to a vote in the senate tomorrow afternoon, when it will be taken up as a special order.

The outlook is that it will be one of the closest contests of the session, with the outcome depending probably on a single vote.

Both sides are claiming a victory, and both apparently with confidence; though on the whole the opponents of county option seem slightly less certain of their ground than its opponents. If the bill is defeated, it will be by one vote. If it passes, it will probably be by one vote, and not to exceed two votes at the outside.

Regardless of the fate of the bill in the senate, the county option bill presented by Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin will be pressed in the house, where the chances of putting the bill through are much more dubious than they are in the senate.

BOMB THROWERS ARE ACTIVE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—The third bomb exploded within the last few weeks in Italian setlements was set off today in Kensington, a suburb. It partially wrecked a grocery store in which it had been placed, although the occupants escaped unhurt. Windows within a radius of several blocks were shattered by the explosion.

KAISER WILHELM TO INSPECT WARSHIPS.

Berlin, via London, Feb. 3.—Emperor William will leave for Wilhelmshaven, the second most important naval station in Germany, to inspect the warships stationed there. He will have an opportunity to look over the units of the squadron which participated in the North sea battle, including the Seydlitz, which was squarely hit by one shell, and the Kolberg, which was struck by two.

The emperor, who already has visited both the west and east fronts, will complete his inspection of the empire's armed forces by visiting the units of the newly organized armies still garrisoned in Germany.

TO CAN MILLIONS OF PIGS FOR GERMANS.

Amsterdam, via London, Feb. 3.—The Berlin Tageblatt says that the German government intends to buy up pigs to the value of $50,000,000, to be killed and canned, in order to save fodder useful for military and other purposes.

MYSTERIOUS CRUISER NEAR THE WEST INDIES

New York, Feb. 3.—A four-funneled cruiser, thought at that time to be either the German cruiser Karlsruhe or the British cruiser Suffolk, spoke the steamer Isabella on the night of Jan. 15, in West Indian waters, according to declarations made today by the Isabella's officers on the arrival of the steamer here.

The warship asked the whereabouts of the former Hamburg-American liner President, converted into a German auxiliary cruiser. The meeting of the Isabella and the warship, the Isabella's officers said, occurred about 8 o'clock in the evening while the steamer was on her way from San Juan to Mayaguez, another Porto Rican port. It was too dark to establish the warship's identity, they said.

The Karlsruhe has four funnels; the Suffolk three.

CO-OPERATION WITH THE GOVERNMENT

Only Safe Way to Take Advantage of Foreign Business, Says Speaker.

Washington, Feb. 3.—In an address before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in convention here today, on the subject of "Our National Policy as to Investments Abroad," Samuel McRoberts, vice president of the National City bank, declared the United States could take profit by the commercial opportunities of the European war only by co-operation of the government by opening new markets and diplomatic intervention for protection of trade and investments.

"The security of the right of property and the enforcement of equal justice is essential to any commerce," said he. "Ought there to be any question that a citizen investing in the instrumentalities of trade in foreign lands should not be completely protected in his rights in case they should be threatened through failure of government, injustice, oppression or confiscation?

"In the Orient, in the Carribbean, in the northern part of South America, in Mexico, we have the opportunity to do great constructive work. The uncertainty of protection stands squarely in the way. If you want to do anything in these countries, the standing advice is to 'get under the French, German or English flag.' As long as a question can be raised as to the property rights of Americans in respect to investments made outside of the territory of the United States, our foreign commerce will languish."

As a substitute for red in danger signals, which is the color less easily distinguished by the color blind, experts have advocated blue circles with wide yellow rims.

SLINGSBY DECLARED HEIR TO $500,000

London Court Finally Decides Famous Case in Favor of Lieutenant.

London, Feb. 3.—The probate court decided today that the son of Charles R. Slingsby is the legitimate heir to the $500,000 baronial property of the Slingsby family in Yorkshire. The case has been before the courts for nearly two years.

Charles R. Slingsby, formerly a lieutenant in the British navy and afterward a resident of San Francisco is in possession of the property which was devised to his offspring. When he asked the court to confirm the succession, a younger brother protested on the ground that the child was not a legitimate son but an infant substituted by the lieutenant's wife when her own child died.

Since the case has been on trial evidence has been taken in California and records produced there to prove the child the legitimate son and heir of the Slingsbys.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

A Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

Mother's Friend Before Baby Arrives

During several weeks of expectancy there is a splendid external embrocation in our "Mother's Friend" in which thousands of women have the most unbounded confidence. They have used it and know. They tell of its wonderful influence to ease the abdominal muscles and how they avoided those dreaded stretching pains that are so much talked about. This safe external application is gently used over the skin to render it amenable to the natural stretching which it undergoes. The myriad of nerve threads just beneath the skin is thus relieved of unnecessary pain-producing causes and great physical relief is the result as expressed by a host of happy mothers who write from experience.

It is a subject that all women should be familiar with as "Mother's Friend" has been in use many years, and is recommended by grandmothers who in their earlier days learned to rely upon this splendid aid to women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. Get a bottle to-day and then write for our little book so useful to expectant mothers.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CORN YIELD IS GROWING

Production of That Grain Continually Increases in North Dakota.

Half Million Acres Last Year Yielded About 14,000,000 Bushels.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota had 500,000 acres in corn in 1914 and grew 14,000,000 bushels of corn, or an average of 28 bushels per acre, at a valuation of over $8,000,000. The state had about 7,250,000 acres in wheat, which was valued Dec. 1 at about $90,000,000. In other words, there was only one-fourteenth of the acreage of the state in corn as compared to wheat, still the value of the corn crop was about one-tenth of that of the wheat crop. Each acre of corn land produced an income of about one and one-half as much in value as each acre of wheat.

The state in order to reach the proper percentage of corn should devote about one-fifth of its entire cultivated area to corn, and this would be about the proper adjustment of crops in order to care for the necessary for livestock that should be raised and also provide about the necessary crop rotation, according to Director Thomas D. Cooper of the North Dakota experiment station, who has devoted a great deal of time to the corn crop of this state and is probably better posted on the situation than any other resident of North Dakota, from a state-wide viewpoint.

Is Gaining in Wheat.

"It is only by means of comparisons that one may realize the importance of the corn crop at the present time and its value to the state," Mr. Cooper declared. "The value of the wheat crop in North Dakota fluctuates between 75,000,000 and $100,000,000 annually. Given five years more at the rate of increase during the past five years and the value of the corn crop as produced on 1,000,000 acres of land, will be approximately one-quarter the total value of our wheat.

THOMAS D. COOPER.

"The flax crop has been important in the agriculture of the state. We are accustomed to consider the failure of the crop as a great disaster. Yet the value of North Dakota's corn crop in 1914 was $1,000,000 less than that of the flax crop, and it was grown on five-eighths of the acreage.

Profit in Corn.

Profit in corn may be direct or indirect. The latter is the most important to the North Dakota farmer. Fortunately, it is not probable that corn produced in this state will be generally sold as a cash crop. Such interchanges as occur will probably be locally between farms. Thus the opportunity to make a direct profit as a cash crop is limited. I have known of a number of farmers this year without sufficient livestock who have sold corn at from $20 to $28 per acre.

"The indirect profit or return obtained through the utilization of the crop on the farm is the important one and offers the greatest opportunity to the North Dakota farmer. These profits are obtained practically in two ways: first, through the feeding of the corn crop to productive forms of livestock, and second, through the effect of the corn crop on the following crops. So long as grain production represents an important feature of North Dakota agriculture, so long will the corn crop have a very important effect upon its production of grain the year following."

IRON RIVER MAN IS STRUCK BY SNOW PLOW

Iron River, Wis., Feb. 3.—Standing by the side of the South Shore track waiting for a snow ploy engine to pass, Albert Hauck, an employe of T. F. Mackmiller, did not figure on the extension of the snow plow "wings," and was knocked a distance of thirty feet. The fact that he landed in a snow bank saved him from injury. He was brought to town for examination, which disclosed only a few bruises.

WIGGINS CASE SETTLED.

Portland Man Settles Ashland Charge and Is Given Freedom.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 3.—D. L. Wiggins of Portland, Or., formerly of this city, who was returned here on a charge of defrauding Edward Tordenshield, a ward, whose affairs he managed, effected a settlement of the difficulty and was released yesterday. The settlement came when the case was called, and after Mr. Wiggins had produced receipts from the complaining witness that he had been settled with, District Attorney Sanborn moved that all proceedings in the case be stayed upon payment of the costs of the case by Mr. Wiggins.

It cost the officers of Ashland county the sum of $311 to get Mr. Wiggins here, counting his board since coming here, and this amount Mr. Wiggins paid.

Wiggins formerly was a lumber inspector in Ashland. He was appointed guardian of Edward Tordenshield, but invested his ward's money in a lumber deal and lost the entire amount. He declared Tordenshield would receive the money in time, but after two years' negotiations in which a settlement was not effected, a charge of embezzlement was preferred.

DERNBURG TALKS ABOUT THE WAR

Says War With Germany Is War Against United States.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, the former colonial secretary of the German empire, in an address here last night argued that the logical sequence in the interruption of trade between Germany and the United States, through Great Britain's command of the sea, both transportation and communication, is that "the war with Germany is a war against the United States."

The speaker, who is making a series of addresses, told of the commercial embarrassments now suffered by Germany and the effect upon neutral countries, and said: "The uncertainty of the status of 'conditional contraband' is doing untold harm to a number of people in these states, and is largely responsible for the fearful increase in unemployment."

Continuing, Dr. Dernburg followed the line of previous speeches in which he endeavored to place upon Great Britain the responsibility for the war and to convince the American people that Germany did not want it.

CLUBBED VICTIM WITH IRON BAR

Row Between Two Laborers in Bessemer County Nearly Fatal.

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 3.—Howel Kosalka, a Russian Pole, about 30 years old, is making a fight for life at the Wakefield hospital. Joe Lutkus, also a Russian Pole, and 21 years old, is locked up in the Ironwood jail, and is being held as the alleged assailant of Kosalka.

Lutkus, it is charged, clubbed Kosalka with an iron bar, cut him up frightfully with a knife, took away his money amounting to $90, and left him lying beside the South Shore railway track between Thomaston and Tula where he was found by a trapper. Kosalka was removed to Wakefield, Dr. Eddy finding it necessary to make over sixty stitches to assist in the reduction of his wounds.

Makes Full Confession.

When arraigned in Justice Gustafson's court here Thursday, Lutkus made a full confession. He said that he and Kosolka met at Ashland last week, sleeping together two or three nights at the Tremont hotel. Then they left for this section, he says, intending to work at McDonald's camp north of Bessemer. Lutkus says he asked Kosalka for $10 but instead was given a drink of whisky and eventually they got into a fight. When Kosalka attacked him with an iron bar he wrenched the bar from him and beat him and also admits using the knife, in self defense, he says.

Continuing the confession says:

"He pleaded with me not to kill him and he would give me the money I wanted. I told him I would not if he gave me the money which he did, all that he possessed, and I told him that I only wanted $10, but he insisted on me taking all he had, but not to molest him any more. I took all he handed me. This happened along the railroad track. When I got the money, I started walking east on the railroad track. I left my partner sitting in the snow. I told him he can go his way and I will go my way. If he had not started the fight I would not have beaten him up. I told him I would not beat him up any more. I got $90.03 from my partner. That was all the money he had. I then walked about three miles along the railroad track. I came to a small place, bought a ticket in a little store for Marquette and waited an hour and a half until the arrival of the train. On leaving the train at Marquette I was arrested."

PURITY CONGRESS AT FRISCO JULY 18-24.

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 3.—The ninth biennial session of the International Purity congress will be held at San Francisco from July 18 to 24 next, it was announced by B. S. Steadwell, president of the congress.

RUMORED EXTENSION OF MILWAUKEE ROAD.

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 3.—A new railroad rumor in regard to the extension of the Milwaukee railway west of the Black Hills has appeared. The road is said to hold an option on the Crouch line, which runs from Rapid City to Mystic, and expects to take over this line. The company, it is reported, has run a survey up Jenny gulch from Silver City, and contemplates an extension from Silver City to Nahant, thus giving a connection with the Burlington into the northern and southern hills as well as a connection west from Nahant into an extensive timber region of Wyoming.

INJUNCTION WILL BE DECLARED OFF

International Falls and M. & O. Power Company Reach an Agreement.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 3.—council will drop the injunction proceedings started against the M. & O. Power company involving the company crossing First street with its pulp wood conveyor which move the council feared was an attempt to gain possession of the street. President Backus of the company discussed the matter with the council. After considerable discussion, the council finally agreed to withdraw the injunction proceedings in consideration of the company putting up a $2,500 cash bond to guarantee the removal of the conveyor and all other obstructions by May 1, 1915. This was considered a very happy ending of an incident that threatened to disturb the harmonious relations of the company and city.

NOW IN CHARGE OF ALL SHEVLIN YARDS.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 3.—J. A. McDonald, at one time resident of Crookston as manager of the Crookston Lumber company headquarters here, but now a resident of Minneapolis, has taken charge of eighty retail lumber yards owned by the Shevlin interests, with offices in Minneapolis.

Another transfer of much interest and in which Mr. McDonald is interested was that in which the Shevlin-Carpenter Lumber company announced the sale to the Northland Pine company, a Weyerhaeuser concern, of its yards and warehouses in Minneapolis and St. Paul, including stock, equipment and organization. The transaction is understood to have involved between $200,000 and $300,000. The transfer was made today.

MISSING CROOKSTON YOUTH IS LOCATED.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 3.—Word has been received from Leard Anderson, by his uncle, Alfred Anderson of this city, after a period of silence for one and a half years.

Until the letter arrived Anderson was supposed to have been dead. He had left Crookston eighteen months ago, going from here to Philadelphia, from where he shipped out as a ship hand on one of the large merchant vessels. The letter was dated from South Africa, and was sent just before he embarked on a vessel bound for Mexico.

HAVE YOU A CHILD?

Many women long for children, but because of some curable physical derangement are deprived of this greatest of all happiness.

The women whose names follow were restored to normal health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write and ask them about it.

"I took your Compound and have a fine, strong baby." — Mrs. JOHN MITCHELL, Massena, N. Y

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine for expectant mothers." — Mrs. A. M. MYERS, Gordonville, Mo.

"I highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before child-birth, it has done so much for me."—Mrs. E. M. DOERR, R. R. 1, Conshohocken, Pa.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system and have the dearest baby girl in the world." — Mrs. MOSE BLAKELEY, Coalport, Pa.

"I praise the Compound whenever I have a chance. It did so much for me before my little girl was born." — Mrs. E. W. SANDERS, Rowlesburg, W. Va.

"I took your Compound before baby was born and feel I owe my life to it."—Mrs. WINNIE TILLIS, Winter Haven, Florida.

Anderson will be in Gulfport, Mexico, on Feb. 13, and in his letter, he stated that if any of his old friends wished to correspond with him, they would be able to do so by addressing a letter to Gulfport, Mexico.

LIVED FORTY YEARS IN SAME HOME.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 3.—Two sons and a daughter, twenty grandchildren and four great-grandchildren survive Mrs. Eliza Hanley, 87 years old, whose funeral was held Monday from the St. Anthony of Padua church. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Hanley at the age of 20 left Tipperary, Ireland, and came to New York. After her marriage there she came with her husband to Minneapolis and lived here sixty-two years. During that time the family occupied only two different houses, living more than twenty years on the East Rivers flats and the balance of the time at 432 University avenue northeast.

IS INJURED SKIING.

Marquette Boy Thrown and Lacerated By Screwdriver in Pocket.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 3.—Edward Desautelle, aged 20, son of Mac Desautelle, was seriously and possibly fatally injured when he fell while skiing in South Marquette near the quarry. He was sliding down a steep grade at a rapid rate when he lost his balance, fell, and when he struck the ground a screw driver which he was carrying in his coat pocket, punctured his side, tearing a large hole in the flesh and narrowly missing the intestines.

He was rushed to St. Mary's hospital, where he is in a critical condition.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—A branch of the public library will be opened at the university settlement house, 1305 International avenue, according to plans now being matured. Books will be given out for circulation on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings between 7 and 9 o'clock.

Fargo, N. D.—J. P. Finch of Finch Bros has left for Illinois for the purpose of selecting another lot of 100 head of horses and cattle from their purebred herds and bringing them to this city for distribution to the various parts of the state that are now demanding them.

Tower, N. D.—The mayor of Tower has received a letter from the navy department stating that a cannon will be shipped to that town to be used for decorative purposes to take the place of the gun recently recalled by the department, and which will be used as an anti-aeroplane gun.

Devils Lake, N. D.—The mission conducted at St. Joseph's Catholic church for the German members of the congregation has closed. The mission was conducted by Bishop Wehrle of Bismarck, who has made a tour of the western part of the state doing missionary work.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Cora Mabel Curt, aged 2 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Curt, died Monday morning at the family residence of tumor of the brain. The child had been ill for the last three weeks and the end was not unexpected.

Minot, N. D.—Postmaster E. H. Stenvick, just back from Washington, D. C., says the new Federal building here will be completed by June 1, and at that time will be ready for business.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Miss Kathryn Lyons, aged 40, died Monday evening at a local hospital from an illness lasting several months. Miss Lyons, whose only relatives in this city are several cousins, came to the city a few months ago, hoping to benefit her health in the Canadian Northwest, but was taken to a hospital at Winnipeg.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

La Crosse—Rev. O. C. Myhre of Adams, Minn., has accepted a call to fill the pastorate of St. Paul's Norwegian Lutheran church in La Crosse. He will succeed the late Rev. Rasmus Anderson.

Oshkosh—Governor E. L. Philipp has accepted an invitation to address the convention of industrial school teachers to be held here on May 17 to 19.

Medford—A few months ago Vincent Wuest of this city traded his "Broadway store" here for a hotel and saloon at Dorchester. On Monday he pronounced the building a total loss, and began making plans for rebuilding. His newly acquired property was destroyed by a fire starting from an unknown cause.

Oshkosh—Fire which started in the Witzel & Rossmeissel shoe store Monday night, destroyed the stock and nearly gutted the building. The origin is unknown. The loss will come close to $10,000.

Milwaukee—The Petit Salt company of Milwaukee, of which C. M. Petit is president, is planning the construction of a new $1,000,000 plant for the manufacture of salt at Ludington, Mich., according to an announcement just made.

Baraboo—The First National bank of this city has been designated by the secretary of the interior as the depository for the $50,000 of the Winnebago Indian trust fund.

Ashland—W. H. Putman, freight agent for the Omaha railroad in the city will leave this week for Marshfield where he has been transferred to a more lucrative position, having charge of the freight offices of both the Northwestern and Omaha railroad.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Grand Marais—The congregation of the Norwegian Lutheran church held their annual meeting. Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Foreman, Rev. T. G. Sandeno; vice foreman, Hans Holte; secretary, Claus Hanson; treasurer, Abert Rindahl; elders, Andrew Johnson and Ole Amundson; trustee, Chris Johnson; sexton, Andrew Johnson.

St. Cloud—Walter Hill, son of James J. Hill, who has a fine stock farm of his own at Northcote, has just purchased from Smith & Sons of Meadow Lawn five of the best bred shorthorns in the country—a bull and four heifers.

Little Falls — An unusually large number of wolves were killed during the month of January this year by Morrison county hunters, thirty-five being the number on which the county auditor's office paid bounties. Paul Miller of Randall got the most, bringing in seven.

Bemidji—Expecting to complete the work within three weeks, the men appointed as the board of viewers on Rural Highway No. 62 will begin their duties immediately. The viewers are C. G. Johnson of Shooks, H. Pflund of Kelliher and Chris Hagen of Bemidji.

Crookston—When C. C. Lavely, an Andover farmer living about five miles southwest of the city, did not rise at the usual hour Sunday morning, a visit to his room revealed that he had died during the night. The deceased was a widower, 40 years of age, and besides his parents, with whom lived, leaves a daughter 5 years old. The funeral will be held on Wednesday.

Bemidji—George Dyer, son of Supt. and Mrs. W. P. Dyer, was taken very suddenly ill with an attack of appendicitis Sunday evening and was operated upon Sunday night at the St. Anthony's hospital. He is getting along nicely.

Moorhead—According to local weather reports the rainfall during 1914 amounted to a total of 25.49 inches. This was slightly more than the normal rainfall at this point, which the weather bureau records show to be 23.82 inches. The greatest precipitation during any twenty-four hours was 3.64 inches on June 7 and 8.

East Grand Forks—Albert J. Boggs, driver for a brewing company of this city, was seriously injured in a runaway. He was thrown from the wagon and suffered a badly lacerated head as a result. He will probably be confined to his home for several days.

Moorhead—Sheriff Dan W. McDonald returned Monday from Duluth and brought back Edward Laine, who is charged with stealing a watch from E. H. Flanigan, a Dilworth railroad man. The police at Duluth held Laine on a description from the authorities here and the sheriff identified him upon reaching that city.

Winona—A patent has just been issued to Bruce Leland, a Northwestern railway engineer, living in Winona, for a device which will make the filling of the lubricator a safe process, and at the same time his device has the advantage of economy in saving oil. The device is in the form of a reservoir or tank that holds about six quarts of oil.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—The building on the corner of Fifth and Pine streets was visited by fire early Monday and considerable damage was done both to building and fixtures. The fire is said to have originated from a defective chimney. The building is owned by the estate of Mrs. Emma Mackenzie and was damaged to the extent of $3,000, which was covered by insurance.

Houghton — The Copper country Michigan College of Mines club has elected the following officers: President, Enoch Henderson; vice president, J. T. Reeder; treasurer, C. H. Frimodig; secretary, B. W. Presho; directors, Thomas H. Bennett, H. L. Chamberlain and J. George Schubert; representative to the board of managers of the alumni association, James Fisher.

Marquette—Members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, System Division No. 116, which includes all points along the South Shore line, met here and adopted a resolution favoring the 3-cent fare for railways of the Upper peninsula. There were eighteen delegates in attendance. P. M. Stillman of Seney presided.

Calumet—The free vaccination of residents of Calumet and Osceola townships and the village of Red Jacket and Laurium continues. Dr. C. H. Rupprecht, health officer of Osceola township, has vaccinated about 350.

Houghton — Sister Mary Bernard, who was known to Houghton people as Miss Bridget McLaughlin, died recently in Chicago. Miss McLaughlin taught in the East Houghton school prior to six years ago, when she entered a seminary to become a nun.

Marquette—Alfred Dubois, aged 16, was knocked unconscious and suffered internal injuries Sunday night when a bob, on which he was riding, turned over on North Front street hill. Dubois was steering the bob, on which there were riding eight or ten other young people.

Calumet—The local B'nai B'rith lodge has elected these officers: President, A. Albion; vice president, B. Arne; secretary, A. Berlowitz; treasurer, H. Joffee; monitor, I. Abel; assistant monitor, L. Rein; warden, N. Joelson; guardian, M. Sharp.

Marquette—Mike Tansy and Erwin Sullivan were bound over to circuit court Monday by Judge Byrne on the charge of breaking into a box car of the South Shore railway with intent to commit larceny.

Negaunee—Mrs. William J. Northey died Sunday. She was a well-known resident of the city, having spent her entire life here. Mrs. Northey was born in 1880 and was a daughter of Mrs. John Jacka. Besides her husband is survived by four children, the oldest being a girl of 12. Other relatives are a sister, Mrs. John Rough, and three brothers, Edward and Ernest Jacka of this city and John Jacka of St. Paul, Minn.

Ishpeming—The circulation of books from the Carnegie public library last month was 9,470. It was, with one exception, the banner month for the library. In March last 9,719 books were drawn.

Marquette—The city now has $69,770 cash on hand, according to the statement of H. A. Higgins, auditor, who has filed his report with the mayor. The report will be published in detail in the annual statement.

NO matter how careful one may be in washing sweaters and other knit goods, ordinary laundry soap never leaves them as soft and pretty as when new.

The alkali and inferior fats contract, stiffen and weaken the woolen fibers. This means a change both in the appearance and fit of the garment.

To keep them in perfect condition, wash with Ivory Soap. Because of its freedom from alkali and all harmful materials, Ivory is as easy on these garments as your own careful handling. It cleans them but their texture remains the same.

Here are some timely hints on washing knit goods:

If very loosely woven put them into a pillow case or cheese cloth bag so they will not be stretched. If no bag is used, slip a towel under them to remove them from the suds. Throw the sleeves of sweater over the back of a chair while the body lies on the seat. Use lukewarm water and Ivory Soap Paste. (See directions inside wrapper.) Do not rub soap on the garment or the garment on the board.

WATER HEN SECTION BEING SETTLED UP

Timber Being Cut and Land Cleared Preparatory to Farming.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Sterbertz of this city, who has been getting out pulpwood and ties at his place on the Water Hen river, two miles east of Moose lake, while in the city, reported the neighborhood fast settling up and predicts that there will be a flourishing settlement of farmers there in a short time. He homesteaded his land there thirteen years ago and was one of the first settlers in the Water Hen valley.

He has been getting out wood and ties this winter preparatory to clearing the land and still has firemen cutting timber and banking it on the Water Hen for the Cloquet Pulp & Tie company, in the spring he expects to have forty acres to hay meadow. Hay grows shoulder high in the Little valley, he states, and it will be a great stock district when more of the timber has been removed.

The Cloquet company is buying nearly and the Water Hen is banked high with timber. Most of the timber is spruce and tamarack with some white pine. In the spring when the logs goes out it will be floated to the St. Louis river and down to the company's hoist at Forbes where it will be loaded on cars.

Buys Railroad Timber.

The Cloquet company has bought the timber from two townships on the Water Hen owned by the D. & I. R. Ry. company and is cutting it this winter. It is understood that this land will be thrown on the market for settlers at $15 an acre as soon as the timber is off. This is good land, Mr. Sterbentz states and will make good farms. It lays low and is timbered with spruce and tamarack but with the timber gone it will dry out and make valuable land.

Charles Tacow, a neighbor of Mr. Sterbentz, is cutting the timber from 80 eighty belonging to the Cloquet company and banking it on the Water Hen. He has fifteen men at work and is getting out a large amount of timber.

The biggest need of the Water Hen district now is roads. At present there is no wagon road within two miles of his place, Mr. Sterbentz states, but the settlers hope to have roads in a short time. There are now 15 or 20 settlers in the Water Hen valley and about 300 more farther east.

GABRIEL GIRL IS AGAIN ON PAROLE

Judge Hughes Makes Order After Hearing on Case.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mary Gabriel, the Virginia girl paroled three years ago, after she agreed not to see a young man alleged to have been indirectly connected with the theft of a diamond ring, got in the limelight in district court here again yesterday afternoon when she was up for again breaking her parole, and after hearing the matter Judge Hughes again paroled her for the fourth time. Before the court took this action Miss Mary Walsh of Duluth, secretary of the Prisoners' Aid society, made charges of contempt of court against Mrs. A. E. Siewert, superintendent of the Industrial Home for Girls, and Mrs. Mabel McPherrin, matron of the home. Miss Walsh criticized their management of the home. "I can prove that the man whom she was forbidden by the parole to see only gained access to the young girl here through the conspiring of Mrs. Siewert and Mrs. McPherrin," said Miss Walsh. "I can prove that Mrs. McPherrin let the man visit the young girl in the European hotel at Virginia for two hours and that both the women have been directing their influence so that the girl would see this man instead of keeping away from him as Judge Hughes conditioned in the parole. The home itself is not the ideal place for any girl, much less the kind of a girl that is usually sent there. It is seldom if ever that a physician is called when a girl gets sick. Some time ago Mrs. Siewert declared that usually Dr. L. J. Murphy of Duluth was summoned in case a girl became sick. Dr. Murphy denies this."

Dr. Murphy Called.

Mrs. Siewert testified that Dr. Murphy usually was called when any one was ill, and said that he and other physicians had been called several times.

Following the testimony Judge Hughes, addressing Miss Walsh, said: "Suppose I should again parole Mary, what do you suggest doing with her?" "It has been suggested," was the reply, "that she be sent back to the home."

"No, that won't do," said the judge.

"Well, you could place her under the supervision of Probation Officer Col. F. E. Resche of Duluth," Miss Walsh declared, "and put her directly under my charge. I will take care of her. I believe that he girl is not responsible for this violation and don't think it fair that she be sent to Stillwater."

County Attorney Warren E. Greene, who was prosecuting the case then said: "I have known Miss Walsh for some time, judge, and what she promises she will do."

Criticism of the management of the home by Mrs. Siewert and Mrs. McPherrin was made by Miss Walsh.

VIRGINIA LODGE OFFICER ON VISIT

EDWARD C. A. JOHNSON.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward C. A. Johnson of this city, grand patriarch of the encampment of the Odd Fellows, is in Southern Minnesota visiting cantons. Before returning he will visit the cantons at Faribault, Northfield and Owatonna.

EVELETH WILL VOTE ON GAS FRANCHISE

Election March 2 and Municipal Plant Also May Be Considered.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last night set March 2 as a date for a special election to vote on the ordinance, which if passed, would give Tom Lynch and John Kennedy a gas franchise. This action was decided on after a discussion which kept the council in session until 12:30 a. m. today.

It had been generally understood that the franchise would be granted by the council with the understanding that it would be brought to a vote by a referendum petition. Those opposing the ordinance, headed by Solomon Sax and A. N. Peterson, thought that a fairer vote of the people would be obtained if there was no question of vetoing the action of the council. A section in the charter which permits the council to submit a proposition to the people without an initiative or referendum petition was found and a resolution was finally passed fixing a date for the election.

Municipal Plant Talk.

There is talk of exercising the initiative to bring a proposition for a municipal gas plant before the people at the same election, but this will probably be dropped until the outcome of the vote on the ordinance is learned, as two propositions at the same election would tend to be confusing, and it was pointed out that it might even happen that both propositions might carry, which would simply nullify the election as far as showing the council what the attitude of the voters is.

EVELETH CLASS PLAY.

"Old Eli," Yale Comedy, Selected for This Year's Class.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class play selected for this year is a four-act comedy of Yale college life entitled "For Old Eli." Miss Greaves will have charge of the rehearsals. There are twenty-three characters, seventeen boys and six girls. The cast is as follows:

Charles Walker, captain of the Yale track team, Willard Shea; Dick Carson, Walker's roommate, Harry Roberts; "Artie" Armstrong, Mauritz Nordstrom; "Beef" Campbell, Ernest Lampi; "Bill" Baily, Arthur Saari; Assistant Professor Allbright, Herbert Andrews; Jack Ludlow, a freshman roommate of Walker and Carson, Herbert Anderson; Alice Fairfield, Ludlow's cousin, Florence Maxwell; Edith Van Norton, Sadie Feldman; Mary Calderwood, Alice Leach; Gwen Hardy, Sara Rabinowitz; Mrs. Fairfield, Alice's mother, Gertrude Bjornaas; Helen Beckwith, friend of Alice, Josephine Burke; "Bub" Turner, Arthur Helps; "Spud" Foster, John Peterson; "Skinny" Allison, Atry Peterson; "Ollie" Olcott, Matt Levant; Mike McCarty, the Yale trainer, Arthur Forsman.

There are also five minor characters that have not yet been decided upon. Besides these there are students, swipes, etc.

RURAL PHONE LINE.

To Be Built This Year From Eveleth to Haenke's Farm.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A rural telephone line will be built west from Eveleth in the spring to the farm of William Haenke, connecting also with any other settlers in that direction. The small tracts of land which have been sold in that section will be easily accessible to the new line.

The plan is for the Forbes Rural Telephone company to co-operate in building the line from this city to the point where the Iron Junction road turns south. From there Mr. Haenke will complete it to his farm and the Forbes company will complete it to Iron Junction, where it already has a line. This will give the Forbes company a direct wire to Eveleth, where they intend to negotiate for switchboard service with the Mesaba Telephone company.

Debates Postponed.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—The practice debate for Virginia high school's debating team against the Chisholm high school team, which was scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been postponed until Saturday and the debate with Two Harbors high school's debating team will not be held until Saturday, Feb. 13.

"I Eat Grape-Nuts the Year Round and it agrees with me," writes a doctor, "better than any breakfast food on the market—unless there is one I have not tried."

Grape-Nuts is scientifically prepared to agree with both strong and weak digestions. Long baking—about 20 hours—partially pre-digests the starch cells for quick, easy assimilation.

Besides, Grape-Nuts supplies, in concentrated form, all the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the invaluable mineral elements often lacking in ordinary food.

Wax-sealed—crisp—ready to eat—and economical.

VIRGINIA PUBLIC LIBRARY POPULAR

During Last Month 17,000 Used Library's Reading Room.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—Seventeen thousand persons used the reading room at the Virginia public library during January, according to the report of the librarian submitted to the library board at its regular meeting. The library was open for circulation twenty-six days. During January it registered 86 new adult and 25 new children borrowers, making a total of 111. There were loaned to adults 4,072 books and to children 3,338. Six hundred and eighty books were loaned through the schools.

Books Loaned.

The total number of books loaned was 8,090. The daily average circulation was 311. The largest daily circulation was 462 and the smallest 210. There were circulated, during the month 115 Swedish, 66 Norwegian, 105 Polish, 181 Finnish, 16 Italian and 11 French books. The attendance at the children's story hour was 1,003. A total of 145 new books for children and adults were received and placed in circulation and a total of 64 were worn out and discarded.

VIRGINIA COUNCIL MAY ORDER SEWERS

Disposition Is Shown to Reach Adjustment of Differences.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Differences that have developed between the mayor and members of the council over the idea of constructing sewers in the alleys north and south of Chestnut street are in a fair way of being adjusted as evidenced by action taken by the council last night when on motion of Alderman McGhee, after hearing business men on the matter, it was decided the council would meet Sunday afternoon as committee of the whole to reach a final decision. Business men last night argued in favor of building the sewers both on sanitary and economic grounds, the latter to furnish employment to the idle.

After hearing C. L. Eaton in favor of a $250 appropriation to aid the Commercial club the council voted that it be paid from the mayor's contingent fund.

The engineer's estimate of the cost of the connecting sewer under Virginia avenue between the new six-foot sewer and the North side sewer was $2,000. The council laid the question over until it can be learned whether segment block pipe can be bought.

HIBBING CLUB WILL HAVE DULUTH PLAYERS

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following his announcement that Hibbing will be represented with one of the most formidable baseball nines of its history this summer, Judge Thomas F. Brady, manager, has obtained the services of Jerry Edmonds, catcher for Duluth last year and star back-stop in the Grand Forks team during the See-Eye league maneuvers, and two other experienced players.

Joe Fautsch, premier short stop on the Winona team in the Northern league last year, who held high record for both batting and fielding on that team, and Jim Withers, once twirler in the Kansas City, American Association nine, and later of Duluth and Superior in the Northern league, have both agreed to play for Hibbing next summer.

Besides these additions the judge will have all the last year players from which to make his selection. The first game will be played at Virginia with the league team at that place on April 26. A return game will be played here May 3.

HIBBING GUN CLUB WANTS LAW CHANGES.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—The Mesaba Gun club will hold its annual meeting at the council chambers at the village Sunday at 11 a. m. Officers will be elected and proposals for changes in the game and fish laws will be made.

According to J. L. Lewis it is probable that changes in the game and fish laws will be drafted by a committee and be presented at the meeting Sunday. Providing these changes are endorsed by resolutions it is probable that the proposed changes will be placed in the hands of a delegate to turn them over to law makers at St. Paul.

SHERIFF DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE ACTION.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of M. J. Helmer vs. Sheriff Meining for $1,000 damages growing out of the attachment and sale of a horse is on trial in district court today. The plaintiff lives at Chisholm and claims his animal was illegally seized by a deputy sheriff on order of the sheriff and sold. The case may be submitted late today.

The grand jury was charged by Judge Hughes yesterday afternoon and went to the work on pending cases.

John Carmichael was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

There are nine Hibbing men on the grand jury, the balance coming from Duluth and other points. It is reported that the grand jury has been probing alleged blind-pig and bawdy house operations on the Mesaba range, and that a sensational report may be made late today or tomorrow morning of wholesale indictments of alleged violators of the law.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

CHISHOLM DOG RACES ATTRACTING.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Mueller has charge of the annual dog races and has made arrangements to hold them on Washington's birthday. Since it has become known that the races will be held, the boys of the village have been training their dogs for the events, which consist of three single and three double harness races. The races will be run off in heats and the winner will be decided on points. Cash prize will be hung up for competition and they are liberal, having been donated by the business men of the village. The races will be run off on Lake street in the afternoon.

EVELETH IS WINNER OF McDONALD CUP.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The McDonald curling trophy competed for by eight Eveleth, Virginia and Hibbing rinks, was won by the local rinks last night when they defeated the Hibbing rinks 9 to 8, Virginia having previously been defeated. There is much joy among local curlers over capturing the prize.

VIRGINIA RETAIL CLERKS' ELECTION.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—The Retail Clerks' Benefit association has elected the following officers for the year: President, Adolph Cornell; vice president, Matt Niemi; secretary, John Prince; treasurer, Ernest Lostrom; trustees, L. Harris, Dan Jolly and Ed Newbare; watchman, Gust Jacobson.

The Retail Clerks' Benefit and Social society was organized about four months ago and now includes nearly all the retail clerks in the city.

VIRGINIA STUDY CLUB WILL STUDY RUSSIA.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—The Virginia Study club has chosen as its subject for the next year "Russia." A special study will be made by the club of Russian art, literature and history.

Mrs. D. W. Stebbins and Miss Newhard were appointed to act in co-operation with similar committees, representing the women societies on the range affiliated with the State Federation of Women's clubs, for civic and social improvements.

HIBBING BOARD ORDERS HYDRANTS.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six hydrants were ordered from the Western Valve company of Chicago and water mains were ordered laid from South street to Third avenue by the water and light board last night. Chairman John Curran was absent on account of illness and Fred M. Smith presided.

Hydrants will be placed in the new mains at such places as Fire Chief McIlhargy deems necessary. The payroll for the month of January was passed on.

Virginia Woman Low.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 3.—Mrs. J. F. Toeller, wife of Secretary J. F. Toeller of the Virginia Commercial club, is seriously ill at her home at 315 Spruce street. Mrs. Toeller has been confined to her home for the past two weeks with an attack of pleurisy and her condition at present is grave.

Another Eveleth Rink.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ball park has been flooded by the city for a skating rink. The two rinks at opposite ends of Grant avenue were insufficient, as they could not be used for hockey and skating at the same time and there was a strong demand for both. The ball park will make the largest rink of the three and the board fence will protect it from the winds.

HIBBING COMPANY TO BE INSPECTED.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual Federal inspection of Company M, Minnesota National Guard, will take place March 18, according to an announcement made today by Capt. E. C. Junker. Capt. E. A. Fry, Twenty-first infantry, U. S. A. will make the inspection.

COOK COUNTY DEATH.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—O. W. Niemie left Monday for Hovland, Cook county, where he was called by the death of a brother-in-law, W. Sundquist. The funeral will be held Friday.

WEINZERL AGAIN MAYOR OF TOWER

Tower, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city election held here yesterday was a tame affair, Albert Weinzerl being re-elected mayor without opposition, getting 148 votes. Jalmer Pearson was also unopposed for treasurer and got 140 votes. Charles Lang was elected recorder, getting 128 votes to 37 for R. B. Johnson. The following were chosen aldermen by the vote indicated: Andrew Bystrom, 123; Joseph Stomich, 102; Peter E. Morin, 83. George Hunter got 82 votes for alderman and William Hill 63 votes.

George B. Heath, local news writer, was elected municipal judge, getting 126 votes to 37 for J. A. Quinn. Alex Wagner beat Arvid Anderson 86 to 77 for assessor. J. F. Burgess got 109 votes for special municipal judge. After the result was announced last night the band serenaded Judge-elect Heath and other lucky candidates.

Goes to Minneapolis.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. F. J. Souba, who has been employed at the Fabiola hospital, left Sunday for Minneapolis, where he intends to establish a private practice. Dr. Souba is a native of Hopkins, just outside of Minneapolis, and is acquainted there.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO OR STIFFNESS AWAY

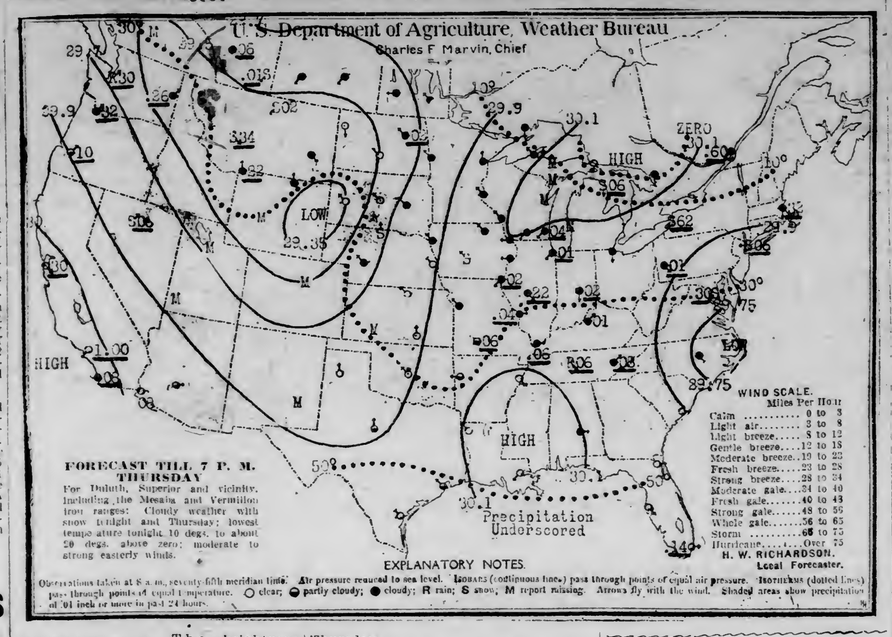

Rub pain from back with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. THURSDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Cloudy weather with snow tonight and Thursday; lowest temperature tonight 10 degs. to about 20 degs. above zero; moderate to strong easterly winds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature. ○ clear; ◒ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. Shaded areas show precipitation of .01 inch or more in past 24 hours.

SNOW

The brightness has gone from the day but the balmy air still remains. Perhaps "balmy" is not exactly the word; "mild" might be better. A touch of dampness in the air rather makes the word "balmy" inadequate. But it is not unpleasant, nevertheless, and nobody is objecting much with the recent extremely cold spell still fresh in mind.

A year ago today was fair. The sun rose this morning at 7:31 and will set at 5:14 this evening, giving nine hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions: "Moderate temperatures are the rule except that zero weather prevails in Eastern Ontario. The temperature is falling over Alberta and Saskatchewan but this turn to colder is not expected to reach the Head of the Lakes until Thursday night or Friday. During the last twenty-four hours rain or snow fell over Central and Eastern states and the Far West."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather tonight and Thursday, probably light snow or rain; rising temperature.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather tonight and Thursday, probably snow; warmer tonight.

Iowa—Unsettled weather tonight and Thursday; probably rain or snow; warmer tonight and in east portion Thursday.

Upper Michigan—Cloudy with probably snow tonight and Thursday; rising temperature.

Lower Michigan—Cloudy with probably local snows tonight and Thursday; rising temperature Thursday.

IROQUOIS MINE NOW BEING DISMANTLED.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Iroquois mine here that was last operated by the Rogers-Brown company, is now being dismantled and the machinery shipped to Grand River, Mich. It is claimed there is still plenty of ore in the property.

Eveleth to Play Buhl.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Friday evening the high school basket ball team will meet the Buhl high school team at Buhl. The team will be somewhat crippled by the loss of Lampi, who will probably be forced to remain out of the game for the remainder of the season owing to a severe injury to his instep. Although the boys have lost every game this season and will go to Buhl crippled, they are hopeful.

Council Meeting Postponed.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the village council scheduled for last night was postponed until tonight.

GIVES LECTURE ON FRENCH HISTORY

Development of Nation Told By Prof. Romieux at Y. M. C. A.

Prof. Jules Romieux, instructor of French at the Duluth Central high school, gave an interesting and instructive lecture last night at the Y. M. C. A. on "France, Early and Later." Mr. Romieux's address was the fifth in the series of historical lectures of the "Y" winter course, which deal with virtually all the European nations directly involved in the war.

There was a good attendance at the lecture, and the speaker gave first-hand information on France of the present time, and also reviewed some French history. However, he pursued the policy adopted by all the previous speakers of the course, of abstaining from a discussion of the war, or any partisan expression.

He dwelt at considerable length upon the French revolution, its causes and effects; the rise and downfall of Napoleon, and the origin and development of the present republican form of government in France.

The next and last lecture of the series will be given next Tuesday evening by Attorney O. J. Larson, who will speak on "Russia and Finland."

DR. BARKER'S WORK IS BEARING FRUIT

Rotary Men Meet Three Times Weekly for Workouts.

The instruction given by Dr. Charles E. Barker, who conducted health meetings here for a week under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., is already bearing fruit. A large number of men have begun taking the exercises suggested by the speaker, and are meeting at the "Y" building three days during each week for workouts under the direction of A. F. Olson.

Dr. Barker's talk to the Rotary club men appears to have been especially impressive, and members are now enthusiastic about the exercises. About ten of the rotary men met this noon for workouts. Several of those who took part are well past their prime, and some had not taken regular physical exercise in years. The promise of youth to be found in physical training as pointed out by the man who says a "person can live to be 100 years old" is apparently a lure that appeals to all.

IMMIGRATION IS HARD TO ARRANGE

Obstacles in Way of Getting Belgian Refugees Here Now.

George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the Duluth Commercial club, today received a letter from Dr. Henry van Dyke, American minister to Holland, in which the latter replies to inquiry as to the possibility of getting Belgian refugees to come to this part of the United States to settle on land. Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, who has also been written to, has not yet replied. Both letters sent by Mr. McCarthy were sent through Congressman Miller to the state department and forwarded from there to the American officials.

In his reply, Dr. van Dyke asserts that it will be difficult at this time to send Belgian refugees as immigrants to America, and that the American legation in Holland is powerless in the matter, for, he says, one "must obtain the approval of the government at Washington, as, without special instructions from the department of state, the department officers are strictly forbidden to recommend any particular business enterprise."

The Duluth letter was written as a result of the agitation started here to bring Belgian refugees into this country and give them homes and tracts of land on which they could settle and make a living. Several prominent Duluthians agreed to donate land for the purpose, if the immigration could be arranged.

DANGEROUS DEBILITY

Debility may result from a number of causes—worry, after-effects of acute illness, lack of nourishment due to disordered digestion, or anything that makes the blood thin, thereby preventing it from carying health and nourishment to the tissues of the body.

The symptoms of debility vary but weakness is always present, often a tendency to fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, dizziness, wakefulness caused by inability to stop thinking, and unrefreshing sleep.

Debility is dangerous because it weakens the body's defence against disease. For instance, debilitated people take cold easily and winter is always a trying time for them. When one cold follows another the system surely needs building up.

The treatment of such run-down conditions with Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills is based on sound medical principles and common sense. These pills build up the blood so that it nourishes every part of the body, nerves as well as muscles and brings vigor, strength and health.

Mention this paper and we will mail you the booklet "Building Up the Blood." Address: Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

SHACK BURNED; NINE MEN DEAD

Explosion of Gas Believed to Have Fired Sleeping Quarters.

Kane, Pa., Feb. 3.—Nine men were burned to death and six others were seriously injured in a fire which early today destroyed the sleeping house of the Tionesta Chemical company at Mayburg, Forest county.

The men, mostly wanderers of whom little was known, were employed in tfhe forests as woodmen and at night slept in the cheese cloth lined frame building erected for them. The house was heated by gas, and it is believed increased pressure in the mains caused an explosion which fired the building.

The identified dead are Henri Stransislaur and Bertini Marosin, both Macedonians, and the identified injured Ludovic Martilli and Henry Marsan. Physicians expressed the belief that two of the injured will die.

MITTENS AND SHOTGUN.

Frank Griffen Accused of Lifting Them From Display Window.

When Frank Griffen, aged 30, walked hurriedly away from the display window of a second-hand store at 711 West Superior street last night, carrying a shotgun and an extra pair of buckskin mittens, he was stopped by Patrolman Le Beau and after a short conversation, was arrested on a charge of burglary in the third degree.

He was arraigned before Municipal Judge F. H. Cutting this morning, and waived examination, being bound over to the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $300.

Griffen is alleged to have removed some boards covering a hole in the plate glass of the window, and taken the gun and mittens, which were on display. The shop is operated by Aaron Shapiro, 1330 West Superior street.

CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYES WORKING FOR HAMILL BILL.

At a meeting of Branch 165, National Association of Civil Service Employes, held in the postoffice building last evening there were eighty members present and important business was transacted.

The Duluth membership of this association is 139. The object of the members is to secure legislation favorable to the enactment of a civil service retirement bill known as the Hamill bill, whereby old civil service employes may, after years of long and faithful service, be enabled to retire with a pension.

The association is sending R. G. Malcolm, one of Duluth's oldest letter carriers, to the national convention to be held in Washington, D. C., March 1 and 2. Plans have been made for a social entertainment, to which the general public will be invited. The officers of the association are: Thomas G. Thompson, president; C. C. Mathiesen, vice president; J. B. Pfau, secretary-treasurer.

GAS, HEARTBURN, INDIGESTION OR A SICK STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends All Stomach Distress in Five Minutes.

Time it! Pape's Diapepsin will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach surely within five minutes.

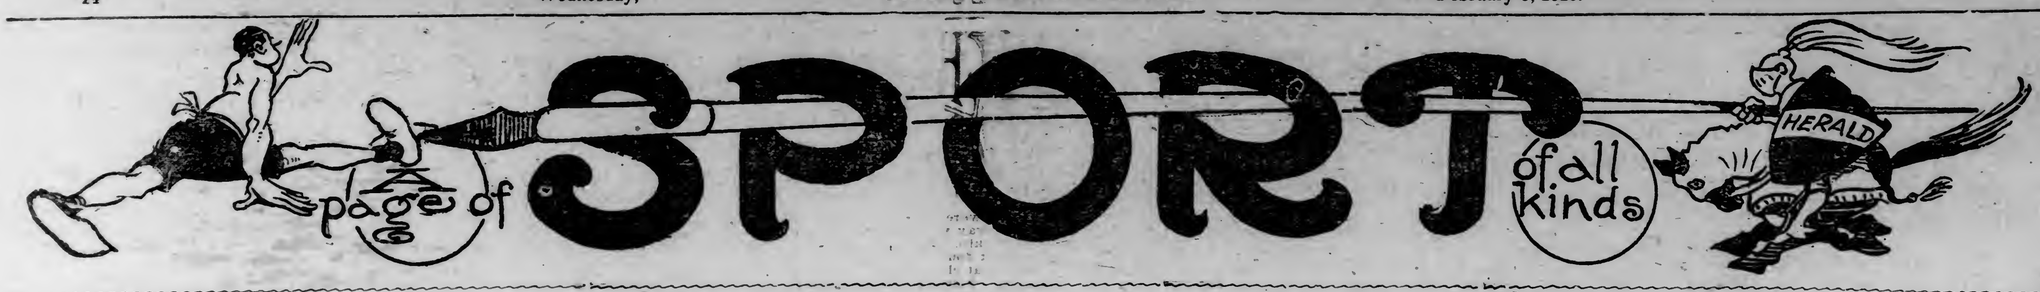

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minute from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.

THE DAILY ROLL CALL; A COLUMN OF SPORTS

BY BRUCE.

WAINO KETONEN sure does believe he is going to stake Walter Miller to a beating when the Finn and Pole stack up in the "battle of a season," that is carded for next Tuesday evening at the big Auditorium arena.

Yesterday afternoon Waino was sitting in the lobby of the Frederick hotel, waiting to take a car to the West Duluth Athletic club for the strenuous afternoon workout with several huge wrestling partners.

Several interested bystanders began questioning the little Finn as to the coming battle—and the word Battle is used advisably.

"Are you afraid of the headlock?" asked one questioner. "Miller is a demon at this sort of work, you know," he shot at the Finn.

The Finn looked at the questioner steadily for half a minute, and then a slow, mirthful smile broke out.

"Yes, I know those headlocks," said the little Finn.

"How about the toe hold?" asked another.

"I get some of them, too," said Ketonen.

Let it be stated that it was with the toe hold that Ketonen defeated Fritz Hanson and won the Lord Lonsdale belt, the beautiful trophy that is on exhibition here at the present time.

Several newspaper men watched Ketonen go through his work yesterday. If the Finn performs on the mat with Miller in the sensational manner he is going through his training stunts, the contest should prove a revelation.

If Ketonen doesn't make a wonderful battle from the first in the contest that he has yearned for during the greater part of past two years, then our judgment of wrestlers is faulty—and we have looked at all of the best in the world.

Walter Miller is now better than ever before in his career. His defeat of Peter is the best and most convincing proof of this. For any man of his weight to beat Walter is a bear; but judging the two men from what they have exhibited in training at different times, this column again voices the opinion that Waino will win.

It would not surprise us to see the first fall go for a long time. Miller is wonderfully strong for a little man and wonderfully fast. Ketonen is stronger than Miller, it is generally believed, and possesses a block for most of the ordinary holds of wrestling.

Whoever wins should, in the face of all the dope on the two boys, realize for several days afterwards that he has been in a real battle, in which brain, brawn and courage have been called to the test.

The Master Hand.

HERE it is years after Joe Gans passed away—years as measured by the flying clock hand of pugilism—and the followers of boxing grow more lavish in the flowers of compliments heaped upon the dead pugilist.

Every once in a while some good lightweight comes to the front and some writer, wishing no doubt to heave several superlative encomiums the way of the toiler on the tortuous path of pugilists, declares that the newcomer reminds him of Joe Gans.

They called black Joe the old master. A master in the ordinary construction of the word, is one thoroughly schooled in every rudiment, every small detail of his profession. And they called Gans the old master—and rightly so.

Do you realize how long it requires to make a great pugilist? The analogy is not completely ridiculous—the comparison to a master of the brush. No man ever achieved true greatness without years of laborious effort; without the dark hours of discouragement, without a combat with the lurking shadow of failure.

As a slim and sinuous youth Gans hung around the Baltimore fish market. As a kid he first attracted attention through his great natural aptitude for boxing. But before Gans became known as the greatest lightweight of his time and perhaps of all time, he spent hours, months and years in rehearsing and going over the small details of the assemblage of arts that made him an artist in the squared circle.

From Bob Fitzsimmons the negro learned the art of hitting; from Jim Corbett Gans absorbed some of the superlative cleverness that made the Baltimore man rank in the high strata of pugilism with Tommy Ryan—a wonderful boxer—a wonderful fighter.

As a boxing instructor on the Pacific coast Jim Corbett used to place some of his smallest pupils on the leather gymnasium horse and instruct them to hit him on the nose. For long and presumably weary hours the future champion of the world would practice slipping blows—used to see how narrowly he could avert being hit.

As a result of this prodigious practice Jim Corbett was the hardest man to hit in the face that the world has ever produced—with one blazing exception—Young Griffo.

Therefore, when we hear some glowing sporting writer comparing some stripling of the ring to the finished and consummate style of Joe Gans, we wearily smile, sadly and with infinite regret—Bill, "there ain't no more like them."

Once Mike Twin Sullivan, one of the greatest welters of his time, fought Joe Gans. The fight was entering the fifteenth round. Sullivan had been going along fine. Then he started a swing. When the Cambridge Irishman was revived the people were on the street and discussing the affair.

One small opening—one false move upon the part of an opponent—and blooie! Those were the days when some of the master pugilists of the world were molded.

We don't revere fighters or look up to them—we have seen too many. We admire any man for true greatness. Gans was the greatest by far of his time; perhaps the greatest of all time.

Let us tell a little story for closing up. When Kid Herman and Joe Gans were out in Tonopah, Nev., training, it proved very difficult for the fighters to get supplies of fresh meat. The colored pullman car conductors used to bring Gans chickens and fresh meat of all kinds at every opportunity. One of the men in the Herman training camp told us the story, and then added that Gans always insisted upon Herman taking half of the supplies of meat.

Gans knocked Herman out—fought as hard in the ring as any man—and yet before the battle he was a kind and courteous chap, shaking hands with Herman on the road and dividing his rations with the man who was going to try to knock his head off.

We modestly rank Gans with the five greatest pugilists of all time. Joe's skin was black—but his heart was white.

KANSAS CITY SKATER RIDICULES LOCAL RECORD.

Rollie Birkheimer of Kansas City writes here to state that Bryant and Raymond Kelley never made the record claimed on the Auditorium track. Birkheimer claims that with Jesse Carey he covered 293 miles and several laps and that the claim of Bryant and Kelley is ridiculous.

In conclusion, Birkheimer, who states that he has beaten some of the greatest roller skaters in the country, says he is willing to come up here and prove his statement by defeating both Kelley and Bryant.

Birkheimer is in Kansas City at the present time. He declares he won second position in the world's professional championship races, skated at Detroit last March, and has also defeated Roland Cioni, in addition Birkheimer claims the state championship of Ohio.

TOMMY GIBBONS BESTS MURRAY

Phanton Mike's Brother Gets Decision in Hudson, Wis., Bout.

Hudson, Wis., Feb. 3.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul was awarded a newspaper decision over Fighting Billy Murray, San Francisco, in a ten-round bout here last night. The men are middleweights.

Gibbons had the better of seven rounds, Murray led in one, and two were even.

At the very start the St. Paul fighter showed a disposition to force the San Franciscan to open up, and for two rounds Gibbons led. Then in the third, Murray developed added speed and had shaded Gibbons when the round ended.

After the third Gibbons gradually improved, holding the fighting even in the fourth and outpointing his adversary in the fifth, sixth and seventh. The eighth was even, but again in the ninth and tenth the St. Paul boxer showed his superiority.

New York, Feb. 3.—Kid Williams of Baltimore, bantamweight champion of the world, defeated Eddie Wallace, a Brooklyn featherweight in ten rounds in Brooklyn last night. Williams outfought his opponent in every round. He weighed 119¾ and Wallace 120½ pounds.

Sutton Does It Again.

Alton, Ill., Feb. 3.—George Sutton defeated Koji Yamada 300 to 195 in a national championship billiard players' 14.1 balk-line match here last night.

Hockey Game Between Crack Teams of West in the Air.

Contest, If Played, Will Determine Question of Supremacy.

It begins to look as if the American Soo hockey team will play a series of games with the crack Duluth Curling club team on the local ice.

The matter has been called to the attention of President Stephen H. Jones of the club and Manager Jack Jacobi, hockey manager.

Mr. Jacobi declares that he has no objection to the trial of strength between the two teams, if the proper arrangements can be made. A contest between the American Soo and Duluth would create a storm of interest here and would, it is believed, draw the greatest crowd that has ever witnessed a hockey game in this section of the country.

In the contest with Calumet last evening the Soo seven was scored upon for the first time this season. In the matter of a record the Soo is ahead of Duluth, for Linder's men have felt the sting of one decisive defeat, the one administered by Port Arthur in the first game of the series.

Soo Very Strong.

Before the start of the season the American Soo team was picked by hockey experts as being a team of remarkable possibilities. The record of the Soo crowd in being scored on but twice and not losing a game is remarkable and shows more conclusively than mere words the strength of the Soo players.

Up here the fans believe thoroughly in the Duluth seven. It is the greatest team that has ever represented this city and without a doubt one of the greatest in the United States. For this very reason the fans are eagerly asking if there is a chance for the two crack aggregations to tie up and fight it out.

Duluth Team Right.

Just at the present time the Duluth hockey team is in the best condition of the season. All of the present week has been devoted to preparation for the St. Paul game of Monday evening. Interest in the outcome of this game is intense here. On the immense rink of the Hippodrome the Duluthians will necessarily be at a decided disadvantage.

Duluth will go down early and take all the practice possible before the game so that the members of Linder's gang may become a trifle familiar with the big sheet of ice.

Manager Jacobi has a number of games planned. Should the Soo series be arranged and should Duluth emerge the winner, Cleveland may come for a series of games and Duluth may make the trip to the huge Cleveland rink for a return series.

MANLEY CUP TURNED OVER

Handsome Hockey Emblem in Possession of Club Directors.

The $1,000 Manley-McLennan hockey trophy has been handed over to the officials of the Duluth Curling club for the purpose of preparing rules to be followed in competitive play.

No rules and regulations under which the handsome trophy will be played for have yet been made. The leaving of the Western division of the American Hockey association by the local team somewhat upset the plans of the directors of the club.

A series with the Soo and Cleveland teams for possession of the cup, which is a challenge trophy, may be arranged. If this handsome trophy, of exquisite design and workmanship, is played for this season, it is stated that a regular series of games will be demanded and that the contests for the cup's possession will be played under formal rules and regulations that the local curling directors will insist be lived up to in future contests.

It is declared upon good authority that the cup is the handsomest hockey emblem in the United States.

HOW WILL JOHNSON REACH JUAREZ?

Seems to Be Blocked in All Directions—Plans Not Revealed.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 3.—How Jack Johnson, heavyweight pugilist, will enter Mexico and by what route he will travel to Juarez, for his fight on March 6 with Jess Willard, is still unexplained.

It was learned that Federal officers are prepared to arrest the pugilist, who is under conviction in Chicago for violation of the Mann act, should he attempt to pass through the United States.

Promoters of the fight claim that Gen. Villa has promised transportation to Johnson, but at the present time the coast is controlled by Carranza, and Mexico City, occupied by Gen. Obregon, would prevent the entering through Central America.

CRACK SHOOTER OF THE ROTARY QUINT

"MORREY" HARRIS.

"Morrey" Harris is one of the stars of the Duluth Rotary Basket Ball team. Many followers of the game here are eagerly awaiting to see what Harris will do against the strong Oswego players.

MILLERS AND BAGLEYS DUE

Hockey Teams of Duluth Amateur League Will Clash.

With the addition of several new players in the lineup, the Bagleys of the Duluth Hockey league will oppose the strong Universals this evening in the league race. The game will be played at the French rink and will be called at the usual time.

Frank Crassweller, formerly a star of the Cornell college team, and several additional players have been added to the jewelry aggregation. A large amount of practice has been given the Bagley team the last week and it is expected that the watch repairers will give the flour makers a hard fought contest.

Swanson will be at goal for the Bagleys and his presence is expected to bolster up one of the weak places on the team. Manager Ed Harris of the Universals is confident that his team is going to win the pennant in the amateur league and says the start toward the top of the percentage table will be made this evening.

In four seasons the Universals have lost but four games. One of these games was dropped the other evening to the Big Duluths. Some of the cracks of the city are enrolled with the Universals, and in the contest of tonight the Universals are expected to show a reversal of form.

Despite the fact that the Bagleys are low down in the race, one of the best games of the season is looked for.

BRYANT OFFERS TO RACE FRANK MARTIN

To the sporting editor of The Herald:

In reply to Champion Fred Martin's letter to me, dated Jan. 28, with reference to a race between his team and the Bryant-Kelly team, which established a world's record of 348 miles and 8 laps in a twenty-four hour race against the previous record of 293 miles, we wish to say that we are not only glad of the opportunity, but are quite anxious to meet this team in a twenty-four hour race. Mr. Martin suggests Duluth as a good place to hold this contest, but from a financial standpoint we do not think Duluth would pay for bringing together two such teams, and we would prefer that Mr. Martin would arrange for the race in either Milwaukee or Chicago, or some Eastern city that would guarantee a suitable purse for such a strenuous race, as we can, no doubt, do even better than our record made here, on a larger track. On the other hand, if Mr. Martin will accept a percentage of the gate receipts, we will be glad to meet his team here. As for Mr. Martin alone, I will be glad to race him here for 40 per cent of the gross receipts, to be divided 60 and 40. There is no doubt but that it will pay him to come here for a series of three races, two best out of three five-mile races and one ten-mile race. These races, I think, would draw well.

I have offered Harley Davidson three dates here and have agreed to his guarantee, but have heard nothing definite as to his acceptance. I would be glad to race either Martin or Davidson here in the near future for any distance from one to ten miles, but I insist on starting Australian pursuit style. Furthermore, I will give any other first-class man the same terms as offered Martin and Davidson. Very truly yours,

FRANK BRYANT.

Duluth, Feb. 3.

CRACK ROTARY BASKET SHOOTERS PRIME FOR OSWEGO

Eastern Quint Classed as World's Championship Team Will Meet the Very Pick of the Head of the Lakes Stars in Lawrence Duby's Team—Hard Game Expected.

The crack Oswego basket ball team of New York state will meet the strong Rotary quint this evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The starchmakers are rated as the strongest team in the United States, and the remarkable record of the Eastern quint proves this claim to be a valid one. In the Rotarians the Easterners will meet by far the most impressive agregation of basket shooters that has ever been lined up on a local floor.

"Dutch" Zemmer is the latest acquisition to be added to the list of players available for use on the Rotary team. This boy is rated as one of the strongest players at the Head of the Lakes and is expected to add considerable reserve strength to the Head of the Lakes aggregation.

Hard Game Is Promised.

Looking at the contest of this evening from all angles, it looks as if the Eastern quint, with all its class and the prestige of perhaps the greatest record ever made by any team in this country, should have the call. Any team that was able to decisively defeat the Buffalo Germans is some team.

Manager Duby is confident that his team stands an excellent chance of winning. The Rotary bunch has been working with real determination for the big contest. Since returning from the road trip the men have spent several hours a day on the floor and the team work is said to have been perfected to a high degree.

Local followers of the game are keenly interested to ascertain what a star of the high order of "Morrey" Harris can accomplish against a team of the undoubted class of the Oswego five.

Harris Has Class.

Followers of the game here will never forget the remarkable exhibition given by this boy against Denny Deighton's Duluth Boat club team several seasons ago.

Young Harris came up here with the Minnesota "Ineligibles," a team composed of some of the cracks of the University of Minnesota, who were barred from trying for the first team, either because of the freshman rule or some other regulation.

The playing of Harris was a revelation to local followers of the game. If this boy can show some of the same stuff in the contest of this evening, his playing will be a constant menace to the widely famed stars of the Oswega quint.

"Dutch" Jeronimus, Roy Johnson, Dick and Bill and Jim Bradley, Oscar Solheim and several other stars have rendered distinguished service on local floors and have starred in other lines of sport. Duluth will present the strongest array of basket ball talent that it has been possible to gather here—and if the Oswego quint is returned the winner, it will be because the veterans of the visiting team are among the classiest players in the country.

Much Interest Aroused.

Special interest is aroused here over the appearance of "Swede" Grimstad. This giant stands six feet three in height, according to the advance reports, and is said to be the greatest basket ball player in the world.

The game is scheduled to start shortly after 8 o'clock. Arrangements have been made for seats on the floor and in the balcony of the association gymnasium. All of the members of the Rotary team have a large local following and a big crowd is looked for. Manager Duby announced that a large number of fans from Superior are coming over.

FIGHT LOOKS CERTAIN.

Mandot and Brown Sure to Meet in Squared Circle.

While no signed contract has been received by the Abrams boys as yet from Joe Mandot, it is announced today that a meeting between the French market boy and the range battler is assured.

Tommy Walsh, manager of Mandot, was one of the spectators at the Murray-Gibbons mill of last evening. The Mandot pilot may come to the Head of the Lakes and close the deal himself.

Brown has already begun training. The meeting with Mandot will be the most important engagement of Brown's career.

MINNESOTA MAT MARVEL.

Successor to Frank Gotch Unearthed in This State.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 3.—Another sporting celebrity who arrived during the week is Emil Klank, manager for Frank Gotch.

According to Klank, his protege discovered a worthy successor to Gotch, who, Klank states, has retired and will not wrestle again. The new wonder is Joe Stecher of Minnesota, and Klank bases his prediction on the young Bohemian's future success from seeing him perform a few weeks ago, when

William Faversham

Famous Actor, says:

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

he easily won a match from a big Swede named John Nelson.

"Gotch refereed that match," said Klank. "Every one imagined the big Swede would eat the little Bohemian up, but the reverse was true, and the kid handed out a great surprise, for he won easily. Stecher's work so impressed Gotch that the champion immediately took the youngster under his professional wing and is now his trainer."

FOUR RINKS TO CANADA

Duluth May Be Well Represented at Winnipeg Spiel.

First Game for Manley-McLennan Trophy Is Scheduled.

Ralph Bradley, "Steve" Jones, Ron McLeod and John Oldham may take rinks to the Big Canadian bonspiel, generally recognized as the greatest curling spiel in the world.

The Winnipeg spiel of the Manitoba Curling association will open on Feb. 10. In return for the courtesy of the Winnipeg clubs in sending down some of their crack curlers, Duluth is anxious to send several rinks to the big spiel.

Play in the Manley-McLennan curling contest is scheduled to begin tomorrow evening. The first game of the series will be played on the ice of the Duluth club. The second game will be played at Superior. If it is necessary to play a third contest to decide the winner, the game will be played here.

Following is the result of the games played last evening and the draw of this evening:

AMERICAN LEAGUE HAS MANY PROBLEMS.

New York, Feb. 3.—The proposal to lift the draft rule from the Class AA leagues, the question of reducing the playing limit of twenty-one players, and the adoption of the schedule for the coming season, were the matters up for consideration at the meeting here today of the American league club owners.

BASEBALL DECISION BY NEXT SATURDAY.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Decision in the Federal league's suit against organized baseball, which, it was alleged, operates in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, will be handed down not later than next Saturday.

United States District Judge Landis, before whom the case was heard, made this announcement yesterday.

Kaws Get New Pitcher.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3.—Lefty George, a pitcher, has been purchased by the local Americans from the Cleveland club of the same league, Owner Tebeau has announced. The price was not stated.

Bryant to Challenge.

Frank Bryant will leave for Minneapolis this evening to challenge Harley Davidson for a series of roller skating races in Duluth. The little Duluthian states that he will personally appear on the track where the veteran is racing and make his defi a public one.

SAULT SCORED ON FOR SECOND TIME

Beats Calumet at Hockey Again—Remarkable Season's Record.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 3.—Sault Ste. Marie and Calumet played last night at the Coliseum one of the most stubbornly contested games of hockey ever seen in the Copper country, with the final score of 3 to 1 in favor of Sault Ste. Marie.

At half time Calumet had 1 to 0 for the visitors, and the Calumet enthusiasm became almost frantic. The score was tied by the Soo early in the second session, and then up to five minutes before the end of the game the tie held. The Soo opened a desperate attack and scored twice in the short time remaining.

The lineup was the same as on Monday night. This is the second time Sault Ste. Marie has been scored on this season, both times by Calumet, in eight games, and the total score against the team is only two.

AHEAD OF RECORD.

Evers Team in Six-Day Bike Race Makes New Time.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Every one of the six-day bicycle race teams was ahead of the 128th hour record at 7 a. m. today. The four leaders were then eight laps better than the record and had covered 2,507 miles and one lap.

Sprints and jabs marked the hours from midnight to dawn and left Moran-McNamara, Egg-Verri, Drobach-Piercey and Corry-Carman in the lead.

Directum I Sold.

New York, Feb. 3.—Directum I, 1:58, the world's champion pacer, was sold yesterday by James Butler to M. E. Sturges of this city, at a price said to be not far from $45,000. Directum I will be shipped from Kirkwood, Del., to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to join the training stable of Thomas W. Murphy, grand circuit driver, who will prepare him for racing and exhibition purposes the coming season.

ONE MAN LOSES LIFE IN FIRE AT EDMONTON.

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 3.—One man was killed, a second is in the hospital in a precarious condition and half a dozen are more or less seriously injured as the result of a fire which destroyed the Victoria inn here yesterday.

There were twenty roomers sleeping in the place at the time of the outbreak. A large number of them jumped from the windows and were for the most part injured in so doing.

When the fire department arrived the police and private citizens were engaged in taking the inmates, all of whom were clad in the scantiest of night attire, to places of safety and shelter.

The cry was raised that there were still some roomers left in the building, and the firemen at once raised ladders to the windows. A search revealed one man in the alley way, having jumped from the side window. He was dead when found. The flames were extinguished after the building had been gutted.

"OPIUM QUEEN" FINED $2,000 FOR SMUGGLING

New York, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Sophie Ghee, known to the police as the "Opium Queen," was sentenced by the Federal court yesterday afternoon to pay a fine of $2,000 and to serve six months in the penitentiary for smuggling opium into the United States. Because of the aid given by her to the government on the apprehension of eighteen men associated with her, the district attorney asked that the jail sentence be suspended, and this was done.

Mrs. Ghee, who was the agent of a Chinese living in Liverpool, left for Liverpool the latter part of December before she was indicted, and was deported by the Liverpool authorities upon her arrival there.

TWENTY-FIVE LARGE LOCOMOTIVES ORDERED

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Contracts for the purchase of twenty-five locomotives of the largest type from a Lima, Ohio, corporation, were signed yesterday by the Illinois Central railroad. The order, the total value of which is more than $1,000,000, will make work for about 3,000 workmen.

LYCEUM PHARMACY SELLING COUGH MEDICINE AT HALF PRICE TODAY A CHANCE TO REDUCE EXPENSES

Any person calling at Lyceum Pharmacy today or tomorrow and presenting the coupon below, will be entitled to a 50c bottle of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant for half price. But remember on these days only. With a view to giving those who have not yet used this excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, to prove its merits, all persons applying are thus given a chance to obtain a regular 50c bottle for 25c, by presenting the coupon below. Even though not in need of such a medicine at the present time, it will pay to buy one today, as some such medicine is sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at half price again.

This excellent remedy is so strongly concentrated that 2 ounces when mixed at home with simply one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water (according to printed directions) makes a whole family supply (16 ounces) as much as would ordinarily cost $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of cough medicine, of doubtful merit. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine, or any other narcotic or injurious drugs which do most Cough Remedies, and can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy, as Lyceum Pharmacy will refund your 25c if it is not found the very best remedy ever used for Stubborn Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough or Hoarseness. Persons calling after the supply has been sold or living out of the city where it cannot be obtained of a local druggist, will not be disappointed but will be sent a bottle, post-paid, upon receipt of the coupon and 25c, providing they write the proprietor today. Address R. J. Schiffmann, 205 W. 6th St., St. Paul, Minn.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 3.

This coupon and 25c is good for one (only) 50c bottle of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant at Lyceum Pharmacy if presented today or tomorrow only.

LIFE SERIES OF REUNIONS

"Millennial" Class of Scottish Rite Masons to Plan Banquet.

Members Will Meet Yearly During Existence of Class.

Tomorrow evening the "Millennial class" of the Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite Masons, will meet at the Masonic temple to make arrangements for the second annual banquet and first annual reunion of the class. Tomorrow night's meeting will be the first annual meeting of the class in observance of the initiation of its members to the fourteenth degree, which took place one year ago.

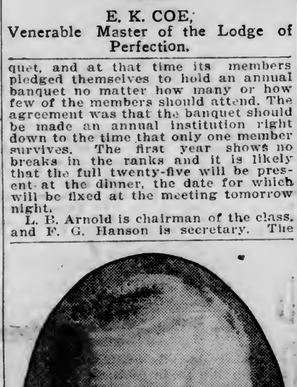

The class was named the Millennial class, because with its initiation the 1,000 mark was passed in the matter of membership of the Lodge of Perfection.

On Feb. 12, last the class held a banquet, and at that time its members pledged themselves to hold an annual banquet no matter how many or how few of the members should attend. The agreement was that the banquet should be made an annual institution right down to the time that only one member survives. The first year shows no breaks in the ranks and it is likely that the full twenty-five will be present at the dinner, the date for which will be fixed at the meeting tomorrow night.

L. B. Arnold is chairman of the class, and F. G. Hanson is secretary. The FORMER MINNESOTAN GETS NEW YORK JOB.

Moorhead, Minn., Feb. 3.—Frank A. Lord, formerly of this city, a brother of Mrs. W. J. Awty, has been appointed by Police Commissioner Woods of New York city as second deputy police commissioner of that city. Prior to his appointment Mr. Lord was complaint clerk at police headquarters. Commissioner Woods has now assigned him to take charge of the policing of the Bronx.

Frank Lord was born in Winnebago City, Minn., and resided with his parents in Moorhead for a number of years. He was graduated from Yale in 1898, and from the Yale Law school in 1900. He was an assistant district attorney under William Travers Jerome from 1902 to 1906. In legal practice Mr. Lord was associated with Special Sessions Justice Kernochan and Former Assistant District Attorney William Rand.

FOUR DROWNED WHEN BIG DREDGE CAPSIZES.

Port Jefferson, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The steam suction dredge Eastern, lying at anchor on Long Island sound, was blown over by the high wind yesterday and four of her crew of eleven men, penned fast in the bunkhouse, were drowned. All aboard were asleep when the vessel capsized. The seven other men clung to the wreck six hours and were rescued.

Women Win Election.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 3.—After the commission form of city government had been defeated at two former elections, it was carried by the women yesterday in spite of a man's majority against.

Recruiting Light.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 3.—Recruiting in the capital and district for the 38th Royal Ottawa regiment is none too lively. Up to date the recruiting has resulted in 252 men enlisting. The number required from Ottawa is 525 so that less than half the battalion has been secured.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Coddling and Catarrh

CLOTHES were never intended to do away with the function of the skin. Nor is there the slightest foundation for the fancy that clothes of any kind protect us against disease. It is just as much a sign of intellectuality to wear an iron ring for rheumatism as it is to wear a red flag on a weak chest. If the chest protector were worn outside as a necktie, we would hail it with delight as a danger signal; but worn inside of four to eight shirts it is nothing less than a public nuisance which ought to be investigated by the board of health.

A human being can accustom himself or herself to almost any inconvenience with perseverance. We tried once to cure a terrier of killing chickens by tying one of his victims to his collar; after the first day or two the pup rather took pride in his decoration; after a couple of weeks we gave him away. He had positively learned to like wearing that chicken. We might have learned to stand for it, too, only we hadn't enough faith in the dog. It is an abiding faith that perpetuates the use of the red flannel chest protector.

Underclothing should be porous, light in weight, not too good a conductor of heat. Knitted wool, or wool and silk makes the ideal material for the colder months of the year. An indoor worker makes a serious mistake in wearing cotton, especially fleece-lined cotton. Cotton is too warm indoors, and permits too sudden cooling outdoors. The same is true of heavy wool. Indoor workers should wear light weight underclothes and rely upon heavy coats to protect them against severe weather outdoors.

Throat mufflers, extra clothing over the chest, and boas of furs about the throat, are hygienically bad. The whole skin surface should be evenly clothed. Coddling one part at the expense of another necessarily disturbs the equalization of circulation, and that means congestion somewhere, which naturally affects the weakest spot—the head.

Questions and Answers.

Social worker asks: Putting aside your natural sex prejudice, will you please state your professional opinion as to the comparative morality of man and woman?

REPLY.

After prolonged consideration we would distribute the prizes as follows: Gold medal goes to woman. Man is entitled to honorable mention.

Doubting Thomas writes: I am a down-and-out-dyspeptic. I have tried all the sure cures without the slightest benefit. A friend suggested that I eat a test meal and have my digestion analyzed. Please explain what a test meal is and whether it tastes good.

REPLY.

A test meal is a meal fed at a certain hour to be determined by your doctor. It tastes fine. At least it tastes fine on the down trip. On the return trip you taste nothing but rubber—for the doctor makes you give up the meal through a stomach tube after you have had it an hour or so.

* * *

H. L. H. asks: What are the signs of sunstroke?

REPLY.

Pain in the head coming on during exposure to excessive heat; dizziness, a feeling of oppression, sometimes nausea or vomiting. In severe cases there is twitching of the muscles, or actual convulsions. In most cases there is temporary or prolonged insensibility, and after recovery there is inability to bear high degrees of heat. The patient's skin during the attack is hot, face flushed, temperature very high. Instead of twitching there is sometimes complete muscular relaxation. After recovery the memory may be affected, and mental vagaries may appear.

LOUNSBERRY LOW BIDDER

Submits Lowest Figure for Construction of New Armory.

Work Will Begin Soon—Building to Be Completed By Fall.

When the bids for the new armory at Thirteenth avenue east and London road were opened yesterday afternoon it was found that the lowest—for $107,410—was entered by George H. Lounsberry, a local contractor.

The bids were opened by Col. F. E. Resche of the Third regiment, in the presence of the officers of the Duluth battalion, and will be forwarded sometime today to the board of armory supervisors at St. Paul. The contract for the work will be awarded this month and active construction work is expected to begin some time this winter.

The bids entered by contractors for the erection of the building follow:

George H. Lounsberry	$107,410
Fawcett & Bergstrom	107,995
Jacobson Brothers	108,000
McLeod & Smith	114,070
Bowe-Burke	119,319
Zenith Construction Co.	119,450
D. H. Clough & Co.	128,556
I. F. Schleunes	141,000

The site for the proposed armory near the curling club was purchased by the city for $16,000 and donated to the state, so that a state appropriation would be made for the local building. Plans for the structure, submitted recently to S. M. Kielley, city building inspector, contemplate a $100,000 building.

Local militiamen expect to have the building finished next fall.

Regain the Mastery Over Blood Trouble

No Matter How Disheartening You Can Overcome It.

Blood disorders are quickly checked by S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. It rushes into the blood and in three minutes has traversed the entire circulation. It penetrates to where the blood is made. It washes out those spots and places where stagnation has settled, it cleanses the membranes, drives irritation from the joints, fills the blood stream with antidotal influence and from head to foot creates conditions that make for blood health. There are people in every community who know this to be true. They have used S. S. S. for severe forms of rheumatism, for indolent, ulcerated spots, for eruptive skin diseases, for any and all those bodily conditions caused by blood loaded with impurities. Being a pure product of Nature it can not hurt the stomach and has therefore been the refuge of a host of people misguided in their dilemma by first flying to those dangerous mercurial drugs which have claimed so many unfortunates. If the skin breaks out in a rash, if boils or other eruptions appear, if there are blood risings or any other indications of impure blood get a bottle of S. S. S. at once of any druggist. But beware of substitutes. If in doubt as to your trouble or you wish competent medical advice free, write to the medical department, The Swift Specific Co., 58 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This department is known far and wide as one of the greatest of helps to blood sufferers. But don't delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. today.

NEW MARK IN ATTENDANCE

Opening Day of Poultry Show Establishes New Record.

Judge Delayed, Arriving on Snowbound Train Several Hours Late.

More persons viewed the birds exhibited at the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association yesterday than ever before on an opening day. Starting in with a record attendance again this morning, officials of the association were predicting at noon that attendance records for the week would far surpass all previous ones.

James A. Tucker of Lansing, Mich., judge of the show, was delayed yesterday, being held for several hours on a snowbound train between Chicago and Duluth. Because of this, judging started this morning, instead of yesterday morning, as first announced.

With all the birds in place, combed and barbered to the last degree, the official census taker of the association counted 675 heads last night. This is a large increase over any previous entry list.

F. D. W. Thias of Two Harbors, one of the most prominent poultry fanciers in the state, and holder of many blue ribbon birds, has the largest exhibit of any one entrant, with more than seventy birds on display. Theodore Hollister of Duluth has the next largest, with fifty-four birds.

Notable among the women who have birds entered is Mrs. John Wolf of Grand Forks, N. D., who won all the firsts, seconds and many thirds and fourths at the Chicago show last month with her White Wyandottes. Miss Clarissa Mace and Miss Mary Ober of Duluth have fine exhibits also.

Oceans of Eggs.

When visitors entered the showrooms they were compelled to run a gantlet of eggs from large white ones to small brown ones. Tables had been arranged extending from the door, with displays of eggs from the different kinds of birds in different cartons.

Housewives were attracted by this display more than the main one, remembering that store eggs were 45 or more cents a dozen, and sometimes "unreliable" even then. Restaurant patrons also stopped in awe, refusing to believe that hen fruit ever grew so large.

In addition to having the largest number of entries, the nineteenth show also boasts the largest "turk." This Thanksgiving day bird, part of the exhibit of L. Gulden of Osakis, Minn., weighs forty-two pounds and evidently is conscious of his superiority. It is claimed that this bronze and red feathered beauty could put to shame the historically large turkey which graced the table of President Wilson on Thanksgiving day.

A long list of trophies has been offered for the best birds in the various classes, among them being: The Commercial Club of Duluth cup; the Quartet cup, also given by the Commercial club; the Kelley Hardware company's cup; the Duluth & Iron Range Challenge cup, and the Gately Challenge cup.

GRAIN AND FLOUR SUBJECT TO SEIZURE

British Fleet Ordered to Treat Them as Conditional Contraband.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Ambassador Page at London cabled the state department yesterday that the British fleet had been ordered to treat cargoes of grain and flour destined for Germany or Austria as conditional contraband, subject to seizure and confiscation. This step, the ambassador explained, followed the announcement that the German government had decreed confiscation of all grain and flour to conserve the nation's food supply.

Since the publication of the German order the ambassador here, Count von Bernstorff, has virtually assured the American government that no foodstuffs imported from the United States or other neutral governments would be liable to seizure and press dispatches have announced the issuance of modifying decrees making exemptions.

Ambassador Page said the British government had informed him that because the steamship Wilhelmina, now bound from New York for Bremen with grain and other goods, had sailed before the issuance of the German decree, an exception would be made in her case. The vessel will be seized, it was said, but she would be released and her cargo purchased at invoice price by the British government.

Warning was given that other shipments hereafter of like character, when destined for Germany directly or indirectly, would be seized as well as the vessels carrying them, without compensation being paid.

This announcement put an entirely new complexion on the negotiations that have been in progress intermittently since the beginning of the war in regard to the right of neutral states to ship food supplies to belligerent countries. In the British note to Secretary Bryan, it was said the conclusion had not been reached to interfere with such shipments, provided they were intended for the non-combatant elements of the population and not for the army or government of the belligerent states with which England was at war.

It was intimated, however, that the exceptional conditions of the present war might warrant some such action as an act of retaliation.

The state department has not decided what shall be done in the matter.

Ambassador Page has been asked for further information on the general subject.

MARKET BREAKS SHARPLY AS RESULT OF WAR RUMORS

Wheat Recovers After Early Slide—Fresh Weakness at Close.

Flaxseed Weak on Heavy Offerings and Light Support From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 3.—The market sustained another break at the close on the appearance of liquidation. May wheat closed 3½c off and July 3½c off. May durum closed 2c off and July 2c off.

Oats closed 1⅞c off at 56½c for on the track; rye ½c up at $1.27; barley 4c off at from 72c to 83c and corn 2⅜c off at 73½c.

At Winnipeg May oats closed 1¼c off at 67¾c and July 1⅞c off at 68¾c. Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.40¾ and calls at $1.59½.

Trading in wheat is a lively proposition these days. With the market at its present high range of prices, it is easily influenced by rumors of all kinds. That condition was fully illustrated in the course of today's market around the opening when wild fluctations were recorded on a rumor to the effect that the allies had demolished some of the forts in the Dardanelles. To begin with, May wheat opened 1⅞c up on advices that spot wheat in Liverpool showed an advance of 4d, and that the weather in Argentine is unfavorable. On that score traders expected another sharp bulge in the day, and started in to get aboard. Then a cloud from a clear sky the Dardanelles rumor came along, and there was a scramble on the part of operators to unload. The market broke 7c in less than five minutes on cent at a time declines, and there did not appear to be any bottom to it. When the $1.50 mark was struck, heavy buying appeared from a local exporting house, and prices quickly recovered to within ¾c of their opening figure. It is estimated that orders for over 250,000 bu May wheat were put through on account of that operator on the break. Subsequently trading became quiet up till the noon hour, the May quotation then standing at $1.55⅛ or ¾c up from yesterday's close. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.52, broke 4c and then recovered to $1.52½.

Heavy export trade in wheat was reported at the seaboard, but on account of telegraph service with Chicago and other points being cut off by the storm trading on the local market was restricted.

Operators here were interested in the intimation from Chicago that steps may be taken to put a stop to wild speculation in the grain markets through increasing the marginal calls.

Trading in durum was comparatively quiet today, and the fluctuations in it were narrow. May durum opened unchanged at $1.61, eased off 1c and then recovered to the same extent. July opened unchanged at $1.58 and gained ¼c.

Break in Flaxseed.

Trading in flaxseed was quiet and it was easier from the start on the appearance of some offerings and limited crushers' inquiry. The close was weak on renewed selling.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.91½ and closed 2c off at $1.89½ bid. July opened 1c off at $1.91 and closed 2c off at $1.90 nominally.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 1⅝c off at $1.68⅞ bid, and July 1⅛c off at $1.70¼ asked.

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Chicago: "It looks like as if the new basis of marginal calls between brokers will be increased on wheat, corn and oats, starting with a fixed minimum and increased daily until it is sufficient to stop wild speculation."

Seaboard clearances yesterday—Wheat and flour, 845,000 bu; last year, 41,000 bu; corn, 189,000 bu; last year, nine; oats, 2,000 bu; last year, none.

The total available world's wheat supply is estimated at 183,726,000 bu against 206,855,000 bu last year. There was a decrease of 1,747,000 bu in the week, compared with 8,886,000 bu decrease in the previous week. Last year the decrease for the corresponding week was 1,426,000 bu.

Receipts of all grains at Duluth during January aggregated 3,407,825 bu against 3,406,298 bu last year. Wheat receipts were 1,187,094 bu against 2,170,822 bu a year ago; corn, 704,374 bu against 383,890 bu; rye, 126,324 bu against 119,286 bu, and flax, 259,239 bu against 449,862 bu.

Shipments of all grain were reported at 1,799,033 bu, against 723,174 bu a year ago. Wheat shipments were 657,225 bu against 524,570 bu last year; corn, 382,236 bu against 76,974 bu; rye, 245,438 bu against 50,829 bu; and flaxseed 98,973 bu against 65,037 bu last year.

Basic prices on cash grain were unchanged at Duluth today. No. 1 northern wheat sold at the May price to ½c under; durum at the May price and flaxseed at 1c under May. In some cases crushers paid the May price to ½c under for choice cars.

Minneapolis cash market was unsettled, with demand limited. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at $1.56; No. 2 northern at $1.53, and No. 3 northern at $1.50. Bad wire service has cut off the Eastern flour market, and new business was light. Holland was in the market there for flour. Elevator stocks at that point showed an increase of 490,000 bu in four days.

Duluth car inspection: Wheat—No. 1 northern, 5; No. 2 northern, 40; No. 3, 16; No. 4, 8; durum, 8; mixed, 2; total wheat, 79, last year 13; flax, 9, last year 4; corn, 38; last year 1; oats, 17, last year 2; rye, 4, last year 1; barley, 11, last year 1; total of all grains, 158, last year 22; on track, 79.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

No. 3 yellow corn, 72@72½c; No. 3 white oats, 55⅝@56c; flax, $1.87½@1.90½. Flour, unchanged; shipments, 68,900 bbl. Barley, 78@87c; rye, $1.27@1.28; bran, $24.00.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Peace Rumors Send Wheat Down 8¼ Cents at Opening of Pit.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Wheat prices plunged wildly downward at the start today as a result of peace rumors and because of apparent chances that the Dardanelles might be unexpectedly thrown open for Russian shipments to Western Europe. Before the lack of confirmation in either case could be ascertained the market dropped 8¼c for May and 5c for July.

Big margin calls had greatly reduced the volume of wheat trading, especially in May. Consequently excitement was not so intense as on much less provocation at other times, and the market rallied in short order when buying orders began to increase. The ensuing upturn carried May to 166, a new high record and 9c above the low points touched in the early trade. July which had dropped 5c to $1.38, rallied to $1.40¾.

Subsequently the market continued to show great nervousness and fluctuated rapidly on small orders. For the most part the tendency was downward. Exporters were said to have withdrawn temporarily from the market owing to steamship companies altering terms because of new uncertainties of ocean traffic. The close was unsettled at 4⅝c to 5¾c under last night.

Changes in other grain reflected the course of wheat, but only in a moderate degree. Commission houses quickly absorbed the offerings of corn. Prices for that cereal started 1⅛@1¼c off to ⅛@¼c up, and at one time showed a setback of 2⅛c to 3⅛c, but afterward overcame most of the loss.

Stop-loss selling led to a fresh break in the last hour when depression of the wheat market again became acute. The close was nervous at 2¼c to 2⅝@2½c net decline.

Oats was more actively dealt in than for a long while. The reason was the comparatively small resources needed for transactions. The extreme break in oats was 1¾c, half of which was later canceled.

Intgrest in provisions nearly disappeared on account of the grain flurry. Pork averaged somewhat higher, the rest of the list lower.

Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.61@1.65; No. 2 hard, $1.58@1.65.

Corn—No. 4 yellow, 74@76c; No. 4 white, 75½@76c.

Oats—No. 3 white, 58¼@59½c; No. 4 white, 57¼@59¼.

Rye No. 2, $1.39; barley, $1@89c; timothy, $5.50@7.50; clover, $12.50@16.00.

Pork, $17.00@19.10; lard, $10.50; ribs, $9.37@10.12.

STRONG MARKET IN THE COPPERS

Increase in Butte & Superior Dividend Expected in March.

Owing to disarrangement in the wire service only a few quotations in Boston mining stocks were received today. Butte & Superior sold up 87c from Monday to $47.25. Copper Range sold $1 up at $34. North Butte a fraction up at $22.87. Granby 50c up at $62, and Mohawk $4.50 up at $56.

In the curb list there, Calumet & Corbin sold at 19c.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed 25c up at $54.25; Anaconda a shade off at $27.25 and Utah Copper a fraction off at $53.75.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from Boston: "Lake coppers showed signs of life again yesterday. Allouez sold at $43.50. If New York does not react too much, we look for a much further advance in local coppers."

* * *

At St. Louis, lead closed at 3.60 cents bid and spelter excited and firm at 7.75 cents bid, with none offered.

* * *

Considerable interest is attached to the annual meeting of the Butte & Superior Mining company, to be held at Boston next Tuesday, Feb. 9. It is believed that the present rate of quarterly dividends of 75 cents a share on the company's stock will be increased at the March distribution.

GENERAL TRADE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Duluth Bank Clearings Show Substantial Increase.

While financial conditions in Duluth and district are reported to show no change during the last ten days, general trade is said to be showing material improvement. That Duluth bank clearings for January showed a substantial increase is regarded as gratifying in affording evidence that the trade movement has become more active of late.

Reports are at hand to the effect that wholesalers' salves over the territory are expanding, and that retailers' paper is being satisfactorily taken care of.

Logging and lumbering operations in this territory are below normal, but they are considered to be on a much broader scale than had been hoped for earlier in the season. A feature in it is the large output of pulpwood which is now being moved from the camps for transportation to Wisconsin paper and pulp mills.

The returns from the trade will mount up into a heavy aggregate.

Money rates are easy with 6 per cent the nominal basis, but high grade commercial paper is being placed at a lower average.

At the present time, money is a drug on the market at the Eastern financial centers, and bond dealers are reported to be taking advantage of the situation to market some large issues. Banks are discounting customers' paper at all the way from 3 to 4½ per cent.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Downward Trend Is Shown Soon After the Market's Opening.

Heavier Tone in Late Dealings and Closing Is Irregular.

New York, Feb. 3.—A downward trend was shown by today's stock market soon after the opening, Reading and Canadian Pacific losing a point each, with some heaviness in other prominent issues. United States Steel movement was uncertain, opening with a slight loss, from which it recovered, only to fall back again. The metal shares held steady and petroleum stocks were a trifle higher in connection with reports of another advance in the price of crude oil. Trading was unusually light, with a further absence of outside inquiry.

London's range of price for Americans was lower, Reading yielding a point.

Another meteoric movement in wheat had the effect of a further checking operation in the stock market today, trading in the early session aggregating less than half of the recent output. The demand for stocks continued irregular and narrow, with more selling of the speculative leaders at every favorable opportunity. Canadian Pacific and Reading continued to bear the brunt of these offerings, which were assumed to come in part from abroad. Fertilizer issues developed sudden strength.

Bonds were firm with a large oversubscription of the Pennsylvania railroad issues.

Spasmodic selling of Steel, Amalgamated and Reading imparted a heavier tone to the late dealings. The closing was irregular.

NO STOCK QUOTATIONS.

The wires are still interrupted as the result of storms, and no quotations were received today from the New York and Boston exchanges.

WILD DAYS IN GRAIN TRADE

Market History Made Daily on Urgent Buying By Exporters.

Flaxseed Strong for Time, But Is Still Labeled Dangerous.

These are wildly hilarious times for bulls in the grain markets. As a result of urgent export inquiry and competitive bidding by millers, holders of wheat have had it all their own way for some time back, and more especially so during the last few days.

The intensity of the bullish influences is attested in a bulge of 13⅜c to $1.55¼ in the cash wheat quotation during the last week. Of that bulge 9⅜c was accounted for in the concentrated buying of yesterday and the day before, during which some fat profits were picked up by local operators.

As had been foreshadowed, foreigners have turned their attention to buying wheat, and they are endeavoring to obtain as large a tonnage as possible. They are not splitting hairs on prices either, as shown in the liberal premiums being offered for wheat afloat and in elevators at Buffalo. The sale of a round lot of No. 1 northern was reported on Monday on a basis of 3c over the Chicago May price, that following the booking of a cargo at 2c over earlier in the day.

Millers Becoming Alarmed.

In consequence of the enormous tonnage of wheat going abroad, and the heavy contracts outstanding for delivery up till next June, millers are becoming increasingly anxious regarding the possibility of elevator and farm stocks becoming exhausted before the expiration of the present crop year, and they are now reported to be curry-combing the country for supplies. Operators do not care to go on record regarding the altitude to which prices will eventually climb. Even the old-timers in the trade freely admit that the market has passed beyond their reckoning, and taking all the conditions into account, they look for surprises and big swings materializing from time to time during the next few months. The plunger, they say, may build up his bank account in a series of coups, or he may be caught badly in a sharp break. The majority of traders predict, however, that a much higher range of prices will prevail between now and the next harvest. War or no war, it is felt that there will be a ready market at high prices during the coming twelve months for all the grain that can be raised in this country, with accompanying prosperity to the farmers and grain men of the Northwest.

Durum Again Moves Up.

After having shown some hesitancy, cash durum moved up to $1.61, a new high point, yesterday, and shows a bulge of 6c a bushel in the week. With the light supplies still available in the country, the market in it is easily controlled and fresh fancy figures are thought liable to be set for it at any time.

Heavy Oats Demand.

Oats have been a market feature during the last few days, consequent on good bidding for them for export and an increasing tendency on the part of growers to hold their remaining stores. Locally cash oats advanced to 58⅝c, a bulge of 3¼c in the week. Oats showed special strength at Winnipeg, on bidding by buyers representing the British government. The cash article advanced nearly 10c there during the week to 69c a bushel.

Rye has also been strong marketwise during the last few days, advancing 5½c to $1.26½ as at the close yesterday. Persistent export inquiry for it in conjunction with light remaining supplies over seed requirements in the Northwest has been responsible for its steady bulge during the last two months. Back in July, rye was quoted at only 57c.

Corn Moves This Way.

The volume of corn moving this way has picked up substantially of late, and is exciting considerable interest among traders. It is being routed to Duluth from over a wide area of country and is commanding a ready sale. Its yesterday's cash figure of 75⅞c showed a bulge of 2⅞c in the week.

Flaxseed Market Nervous.

As was predicted by a Duluth operator a few days ago, the flaxseed market has been more nervous than usual of late. After selling down from $1.92½ a week ago to a low of $1.84 following the appearance of some liquidation, its market was on the upward trend during the last two days, and its cash price of $1.90½ yesterday is off 1¾c. Crushers have been again picking it recently, a feature in that connection being the purchase of a substantial tonnage at Winnipeg for shipment to Minneapolis, where it is going into store. Specialists in flax in Duluth are still inclined to go slow, and they are working entirely along merchandising lines, regarding the market in the seed as dangerous in view of possible developments in the linseed oil trade.

BRYAN PLEADS FOR SHIP BILL

Asks Chamber of Commerce to Support Administration Measure.

Also Asks Influence Toward Ratification of Colombian Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Secretary Bryan addressed the chamber of commerce of the United States here today, with a plea for support for the administration ship bill and ratification of the Colombian treaty.

"The present war has shown us the disadvantages to which we are subjected when we rely upon foreign ships to carry our merchandise," he said.

"The interruption to trade, incident to any great war throws a heavy burden upon the neutral nations. Steps already have been taken to largely increase our merchant marine, and the shipping bill is a still more important step toward independence upon the seas. Ships under government control will serve a double purpose, one permanent in its nature and the other important in an emergency, such as now exists.

Establish New Trade Routes.

"The permanent advantage of government ships is to be found in the fact that they can establish new trade routes, acting as pioneers and going where private ships would be afraid to venture. It takes time to establish new routes, and those who lay out such routes are liable to incur a temporary financial loss. As soon as there is sufficient trade to make the routes profitable for private ships, it will be easy to find ships, but in the open competition of the seas, the pioneer ship has no assurance that it can reimburse itself for the money spent in the development of new trade. A government ship can do in this respect what a private ship would not do.

"In addition to our permanent needs, we have urgent temporary demands to consider. There are numerous reasons why the government should be prepared to meet such an emergency as that which now confronts us. Our traffic is interrupted and available ships are so scarce that freight rates have risen enormously. Government competition would tend to prevent the injustice from which our commerce now is suffering.

Government Has Responded.

"The government acting for all the people has already responded to recognized needs in establishing the branch banks and in the provision made for a merchant marine. It now is attempting to render further service through government owned ships, but there is another avenue for governmental activity. While friendship cannot make up for economic disadvantages or for lack of banking or transportation facilities, still friendship is a factor that cannot be overlooked. The various departments connected with foreign trade are in full sympathy with the president in his efforts to cultivate the good will of our South American neighbors. These efforts have been manifested in many ways and in connection with our dealings with a number of countries, but I venture to call special attention to one matter in which the members of this body will, I am sure, feel a deep interest, namely the Colombian treaty.

Colombian Treaty.

"For eleven years the relations between this country and Colombia have been abnormal. All the republics in Central and South America will be favorably affected by the termination of this misunderstanding. The pending treaty does not reopen the question at issue in 1913. It deals simply with the situation as it exists today and attempts to reach an honorable settlement which will be satisfactory to both nations and thus restore the friendship which so long existed between the United States and Colombia."

The secretary referred to the new bank law briefly as probably the greatest single step toward enlarging American foreign trade.

NEW STOWE SCHOOL NEARLY COMPLETE

Contractor Says Building Will Be Finished By March 15.

The new Harriet Beecher Stowe school under construction at New Duluth will be completed and turned over to the school authorities within the next six weeks. Jacob Jacobson of Jacobson Bros., contractors, said this morning that the work was rapidly nearing completion and that he expected to be able to turn the school over to the board of education by March 15.

The new Stowe school will be one of the most modern in the city. It is thoroughly fireproof, being built of stone, brick, tiling and reinforced concrete. The building provides for sixteen rooms, which include a gymnasium and an assembly hall with seating capacity for 500 people.

The building has three floors. The first includes the engine and heating rooms, gymnasium, and two class rooms. The principal's office is situated on the second floor as well as several of the class rooms. The assembly hall is on the third floor. The gymnasium will be equipped with lockers and shower baths.

When completed the school will have cost the city about $75,000. It is expected that the building will be used for school purposes during the last three months of the school year.

BIG REALTY DEAL OF YEAR CLOSED

W. H. Grono Buys Property on North Central Avenue for $11,000.

The largest realty deal reported in West Duluth this year was closed yesterday when W. H. Grono purchased the property at 311 and 315 North Central avenue. Both lots are in the heart of the business district of West Duluth and are considered among the most valuable in this end of the city.

The consideration is said to have been $11,000. The lot at 311 is occupied by a brick building now rented to Nels Sorenson. The deal includes this building, which is ninety feet deep. The other lot is occupied by a building owned by the Scott Realty company.

Mr. Grono announced this morning that there would be some improvements made to the property but was not ready to announce just how extensive these improvements would be. The transaction is the largest that has taken place on Central avenue property in several years.

HOSPITAL WILL BE COMPLETED APRIL 1

Additions to Nopeming Sanatorium Are Being Rushed.

The $93,000 hospital and additions being made to the Nopeming sanatorium will be completed April 1, according to a statement made this morning by Jacob Jacobson, contractor. The new hospital buildings and other additions under construction are made of fire-proof material and are being rushed to completion by the contractor.

The new addition includes an arcade that will connect the new and old buildings. This arcade is fire-proof, 80 feet long and 20 feet wide. It will not only be used as a passageway between the two buildings, but will also be used as sleeping quarters for some of the patients.

The main hospital under construction is 52 feet by 120 feet. It has two stories and a basement. Its foundation is of stone with a brick superstructure and reinforced concrete floors. Window casings, doors and door casings are the only material burnable in the buildings.

In addition to the hospital and arcade, the contractor has built a power heating plant, 40 by 60 feet, and this has been connected with the hospital buildings by a tunnel 260 feet long. Through this tunnel will be run the heating pipes, wires and other equipment used in the heating and lighting of the institution. A smokestack for the power plant, 100 feet high and of reinforced concrete, has just been completed.

BIRTHDAY OF POET WILL BE OBSERVED.

Swedish-Finnish residents of West Duluth will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Johan Ludvig Runeberg, with special ceremonies and a program on Friday evening at the Great Eastern hall, 210 North Central avenue. A program is being arranged under the auspices of the Swedish-Finnish Sick Benefit society and the Swedish-Finnish Temperance society.

The program will include addresses on Runeberg given by members of the society, literary selections, and musical numbers. A local orchestra will furnish instrumental music and an octet of the Orpheus Singing society, under the direction of W. A. Anderson, will give vocal numbers. Others who will take part in the program are W. Lindstrand, Miss May Norland, J. A. Forsberg, Victor Johnson and others.

Travel Lecture.

Rev. W. H. Farrell, pastor of the Asbury Methodist church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, will lecture tomorrow evening on "The Head Hunters of Malaysia." The lecture is one of a series of illustrated travelogues which he has been giving this year. This evening Rev. Mr. Farrell will give the same lecture at the Lakeside church.

Westminster Wins Easily.

The basket ball team of the Westminster Presbyterian church had an easy victory over a team from the Hazelwood Presbyterian church last night. The score was 51 to 7. In the first half the score was 20 to 1 and the second half, 31 to 6. The lineup was as follows:

Westminster—		—Hazelwood.
C. Anderson	c	Hanson
Goodhand	f	Shaw
Manden	f	McKenzie
Huth	g	Carlson
Galbraith	g	Campbell

Wins Close Game.

Mallory won the first game in the Henricksen jewelry event played last night at the Western Curling rink. The game was won from Iltis by a score of 14 to 13. Two games are scheduled for tonight in this event. They will be played between Quinn and Judson, and McDonald and F. H. Wade.

Mrs. Anna Erickson Dead.

Mrs. Anna Erickson, age 57, died this morning at the home of her son, Gust Erickson, 4821 West Fourth street, following a short illness. The body was taken to Richter's undertaking rooms where funeral arrangements will be made this afternoon or tomorrow.

To Give Masquerade.

Edda Lodge No. 15, Daughters of Norway, will entertain on Feb. 10 at a masquerade dancing party at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Inga Olson, Mrs. P. A. Lund, Mrs. Paul, Miss Mabel Hultrud and Miss Astrid Rude.

West Duluth Briefs.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Betty Johnson, 436 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

A chimney fire at the home of George Bothwell, 601 North Fifty-seventh avenue west yesterday afternoon, slightly damaged the roof of the house. Firemen from No. 8 firehall quickly put the flames out.

The Spaa club of the Second Presbyterian church will give a sleighride party this evening going to the pumping station at Lakewood. A supper served at the place will feature the affair.

The Young People's Society of the Swedish Mission church will be entertained tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. T. Johnson, 436 North Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Clifford Little left last evening for Park Falls, Wis., where he will spend the winter.

R. Granquist, electrician, 304 Central. Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

The partnership hitherto existing between Carl Larson and Tiff Stickney, doing business as Larson & Stickney, has been dissolved. The coal and wood business will be conducted by Carl Larson, and all outstanding accounts are payable to him and he has assumed all liabilities of the firm.

FOUR PASS TESTS FOR POLICE JOBS

Results of Civil Service Examinations Announced By Johnson.

Ruben Johnson, secretary of the civil service commission, this morning announced the applicants who were successful in the examination held on Jan. 9. The members of the commission met all day yesterday and corrected the examination papers.

Out of the eleven applicants who took the examination for patrolman, but four passed and are now on the eligible list. They are: G. A. Henry, N. Nesgoda, J. H. Nystrom and C. E. Wolf. Eight out of twelve passed the tests for telephone operators, they are: F. W. Shegren, C. O. Buck, Edward White, J. J. Lockhart, F. J. Keenan, Otto R. Blais, Harold Berquist and T. Taylor.

Miss Bernice Fowler of the city assessor's office took the examination for clerks and typists and passing with credit, will be able to hold the position.

John C. Crane, Bruce Patterson and Erick Newman were the three successful applicants who took examinations for positions as janitors in public buildings. Roy Kretwitz, the only candidate for the position of messenger, was also successful.

Both Miss Ethel Blackwood and E. Dwello received passing marks in the examination for office attendants.

COURT DISMISSES ANTI-TRUST SUITS

Action of the Government Against Steamship Lines Finally Thrown Out.

New York, Feb. 3.—The government's anti-trust suits against the Prince line, the Hamburg-American line, the Lamport & Holt line, and others, charging restraint of trade in connection with freight and passenger steamship business between American ports and Brazil; and against the American Asiatic Steamship company and others, whose steamships ply between New York and Asiatic ports, were dismissed today.

The government's suits were filed about two years ago. That against the Prince line and others charged that the companies composed the so-called Brazilian conference. Defendants to the other suit were all members of the so-called Far Eastern conference, it was alleged.

The Federal district court was asked by the government to declare each of the combinations illegal and to enjoin certain alleged practices in conducting the business.

In dismissing the petition against the Prince line, and its co-defendants, which include a British line, and two German lines, Judge Lacombe asserts that the combination complained of has been practically dissolved as a result of the European war.

"In consequence," the opinion reads, "the questions presented have become largely academic and it seems unnecessary to undertake any exhaustive discussion of the facts."

Arvid Boquist Succumbs at Hospital After Brave Struggle.

His spinal cord badly lacerated by a fall from a telegraph pole, Arvid Boquist, aged 21, of Cloquet, Minn., died at St. Luke's hospital last night after a two-months' fight for life.

Boquist, who was an electrician, fell from a pole Dec. 11 and sustained fatal injuries, his back being broken. The body will be taken to his home at Cloquet today from Crawford's undertaking rooms.

BURSTING OF MAIN DOES $100,000 DAMAGE

New York, Feb. 3.—The damage done by the bursting of a water main at Forty-second street and Eighth avenue last night was estimated today at $100,000, almost all of which was due to the flooding of cellars for several blocks along Eighth avenue. The torrent of water in some places reached a depth of two feet.

After the water had been turned off in six mains, the break was believed to be in either a thirty-inch or a six-inch main.

A BIG YEAR FOR NATIONALLY ADVERTISED GOODS

Mr. Merchant, this message is written after a careful and exhaustive study of trade conditions all over the country.

This is going to be a big year for standard goods of recognized quality, because the manufacturers are going to make more determined efforts to push them than ever before.

Newspaper advertising in newspapers such as this will be largely used. And it is going to be pushed with the greatest vigor, and bring the best results in the places where the local merchants are ready to co-operate.

The manufacturers are willing to spend money to make a market at your doorstep, but they want you to let the people know that the goods can be had in your store.

They will send the trade your way if you are willing to care for it when it comes.

When such a condition exists, the live merchant should need no urging to do his share.

Let us suggest that you get in touch with the manufacturers whose lines you carry, and let them know just what you are prepared to do in the way of co-operative work.

It will mean better business for both of you.

COUNTY OPTION BILL TO PASS SENATE BUT BE BEATEN IN HOUSE

Senate Result Made Virtually Certain By Adams and Griggs.

Drastic Bill for the Regulation of Telephone Companies.

State Teachers' Insurance and Retirement Fund Is Proposed.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county option bill will pass the senate this afternoon, and probably will be beaten by a close margin in the house when it comes up there later on. That it will pass in the senate with a vote or two to spare was made virtually certain today when Senators Charles E. Adams of Duluth and O. H. Griggs of Virginia decided to give it their support.

Attempts will be made to amend the bill by making it provide that cities may determine their own policy on the liquor question, and that when a county votes wet it shall all be wet, instead of leaving dry the communities that have voted dry under local option, as the county optionists propose.

It is doubtful if these amendments will be adopted.

Drastic Telephone Bill.

The most drastic telephone regulation bill yet proposed was introduced in the senate this morning by Senators Andrews of Mankato and Dwinnell of Minneapolis. It requires rival telephone companies to connect with each other's lines on request of any patron, instead of only requiring toll line connections as the Minnette bill does; it limits the charge for such connections to 1 cent for three minutes; it limits telephone earnings to 5 per cent; it prohibits charges for talk between adjoining cities like Minneapolis and St. Paul; it prohibits a greater charge for business phones than for residence phones, and it requires telephone directories to be issued at least every other month and to contain no advertisements.

HORN PLACED UNDER ARREST

To Avoid Complications Dynamiter Is Held on Local Charge.

Prisoner Says Plans to Blow Up Bridge Were Made in Germany.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 4.—Werner Horn was today sentenced to thirty days in the county jail on conviction of having damaged property in this town by the explosion of dynamite under the International railroad bridge.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 4.—Werner Horn, who attempted to blow up the international bridge over the St. Croix river, was arrested today on a warrant issued by a local trial justice, charging him with defacing and injuring buildings in Vanceboro. The injury to the buildings was caused by the shock of the explosion when Horn exploded a charge of dynamite under the bridge.

This move was made, it is understood, to avoid possible complications in further detaining the dynamiter without a formal charge having been made against him.

Horn will be given a hearing late this afternoon. It is expected that he will be surrendered by the state to Federal jurisdiction and transferred to Bangor or Portland for a hearing before a Federal commissioner on the application of the British government for the extradition of the prisoner to Canada.

Plans Made in Germany.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 4.—In a statement last night, Horn, who is held for dynamiting a bridge, asserted that arrangements for destruction of the bridge were made in Germany. He said he was paid for the job but declined to say by whom he was employed.

"I really did it for my country,' he said. "We wanted only to stop traffic of British supplies over that bridge."

Horn said he intended going back to New York immediately and had no plans for the destruction of other bridges.

Horn denied a report from New York that he had claimed to be the son of Count Karl Van Horn, former Bavarian war minister and general in the Bavarian army.

In State Department.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Great Britain's request for the extradition of Werner Horn, the German charged with dynamiting the Canadian Pacific bridge over the St. Croix river, today rested in the state department. Officials consistently declined to discuss it except to point out it was a most unusual and complicated case.

When the evidence is received by mail the application for extradition and evidence will be sent to the local magistrate in Maine, where Horn is held on charges preferred by the state. The secretary of state finally, however, has discretionary powers and if he has reason to believe that a prisoner may be tried for a political offense he may withhold extradition.

Whether Horn's act was a violation of American neutrality was discussed among officials as a question that might raise another complication in the proceedings.

FIERCE ATTACKS ON BELGIAN TROOPS

Germans Make Repeated Onslaughts Near the Yser.

Amsterdam, via London, Feb. 4.—The Belgian positions on the Yser near Westende again have been the scene of fierce attacks by the Germans, in which the bayonet was used by the troops on both sides of the trenches, the Telegraaf states in a dispatch from its Sluis correspondent. The Germans, after the usual preparatory bombardment by artillery, the correspondent says, made repeated but unsuccessful attacks on several important Belgian trenches. The desperate nature of the fighting of the past two days is indicated by the large convoys of wounded being sent to Germany.

ROUMANIA ORDERS MUCH AMMUNITION.

Rome, Feb. 4.—The Roumanian government has placed orders in Italy for a large quantity of ammunition, delivery to be made during the month of April. This war material is ordered with the consent of the Italian government.

Capt. Michel, the Roumanian military attache at Rome, was instantly killed yesterday by an explosion while he was conducting experiments with a bomb.

BANKER WALKER IS REFUSED A PAROLE.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 4.—William F. Walker, defaulting treasurer of the Savings bank of New Britain, who is serving a sentence of one to twenty years in state prison, has been refused a parole by the board of parole.

Walker embezzled $565,000 of the bank's funds and about $56,000 from the Baptist convention of Connecticut, of which he was also treasurer. He disappeared from his home in February 1907 and was captured ten months later in Lower California, after a nation-wide search.

EXTRA CHARGE FOR BREAD WITH MEALS.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—The allied associations of the restaurant and hotel keepers of Berlin have decided henceforward to charge for all bread served at meals.

A dispatch received here from Dresden says the municipal council has decreed that all the bread baked in Dresden conform to the government's standard.

The Berlin stock yards report a further increase in the price of hogs. The highest quotation is 103 marks ($26) per 110 pounds.

ONE STEAMER BREAKS THROUGH THE ICE.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The steamer Alabama of the Goodrich Transit company, ice-locked Tuesday nine miles from the Chicago harbor, broke its way through the floes and arrived safely at Grand Haven, Mich., today, according to the owners. No fear for the safety of other vessels caught in the ice was expressed by company officials.

MARSHALL TO SETTLE BILL'S FATE

Vice President Is Expected to Cast Deciding Vote on Ship Bill.

Democrats Figure the Contest Will Be Even on the Floor.

Will Stave Off Vote Until Two Absent Senators Arrive.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Vice President Marshall probably will cast the vote which decides whether the administration ship bill lives or dies at this session of congress.

If the expectations of the leaders are fulfilled it will be one of the few instances in which the vice president has swung the balance. The last was when the late Vice President Sherman cast the deciding vote for the Bristow resolution which put a constitutional amendment for direct election of senators before the people.

Administration Democrats reformed their lines today and found they had only forty-six votes against the forty-eight Republicans waiting to send the bill back to the commerce committee without instructions. Their only course was to stave off a vote until Senator Newlands hurries back from California and Senator Smith of South Carolina can come from the bedside of his sick wife.

With these votes the Democrats figure that, barring surprises, the contest will be even on the floor and the vice president will be called on for the deciding vote.

Not Enough Votes.

The revolting Democrats yesterday flatly refused to accept the concessions of the majority, agreed upon in the secret caucus, and the majority leaders discovered early in the day that they could not muster enough votes to defeat the coalition of Republicans and insurgent Democrats seeking to send the bill to committee without instructions, to be pigeonholed for the session. The party leaders determined to hold off the vote, and agreed in the meantime to castigate the seven Democrats who overturned the shipping bill program last Monday.

Senator Stone of Missouri was selected for this task, and he delivered a long speech on the floor of the senate, bitterly arraigning the "recreant Democrats who had endeavored to unhorse their party." He particularly attacked Senator Clarke of Arkansas, whom he described as the leader in the revolt, and Senator Camden of Kentucky. He declared they had entered into a secret

NEW YORKERS TO VOTE ON SUFFRAGE

Amendment Giving Women Right to Vote to Be Submitted to People.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4.—The woman suffrage resolution passed by the legislature in 1913 was adopted in the senate today by a unanimous vote. The voters of the state will now be given the opportunity to vote on the question of a constitutional amendment permitting woman the right of suffrage.

BOERS SURRENDER TO BRITISH TROOPS

Five Hundred Burghers Give Themselves Up With Col. Kemp.

Pretoria, via London, Feb. 4.—The rebel leader Bezuidenhout and the so-called "prophet" Vankensberg, with Lieut. Col. Kemp, surrendered to the British forces, it was officially announced today. The commando which gave up its arms also included forty-eight officers and 500 burghers. The rebels capitulated at Upington. Vankensberg's influence is credited with being largely responsible for the rebellion. The announcement states that additional surrenders are expected tonight and that Lieut. Col. S. G. Maritz and his men probably will give themselves up before the end of the week.

Announcement of the surrender of Kemp and his commando was made at Capetown last night. He and Maritz have been operating together against Upington, Bechuanaland, with 1,200 troops.

1,000 YAQUI INDIANS MUTINY AT GUAYMAS.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 4.—Four persons were killed and twenty were wounded, including two officers, when 1,000 Yaqui Indians mutinied at Guaymas yesterday, according to wireless advices received today by Rear Admiral Howard on board the flagship San Diego, which is now in the harbor.

The mutiny occurred while the Indians were being sent to support a retreating column of Villastitas, which had evacuated Navajoa, Sonora. No foreigners were injured.

The Villa troops sailed for Ybaros aboard the steamer Bonita and the schooner Leonore. The latter vessel was compelled to return to Guaymas on account of weather conditions.

RUSS AIRMEN DROP BOMBS ON GERMANS.

Petrograd, Feb. 4.—Russian aviators, on Feb. 2, successfully dropped bombs on the mobilized reserves and trains of the Germans at Rawa, Zarzecze and Boguszyce, about fifty miles southwest of Warsaw, according to an official announcement issued here today.

SHIP CRUSHED BY ICE IS SUNK NEAR CHICAGO

Iowa, Caught in Ice, Sinks Three Miles From Harbor.

Crew and Passengers, Numbering Fifty, Take to Ice.

Lake Men Declare Jam Heaviest Seen in Years.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The steamer Iowa of the Goodrich Transit company sank in Lake Michigan about three miles off the river mouth today after being crushed by what lake men declare was the heaviest ice jam seen in years off Chicago harbor.

The crew of fifty and one passenger clambered to the ice pack as the vessel settled and struggled over ice hummocks to the shore. Those who reached safety first declared no one had been lost.

The Iowa, beaten back from the Chicago harbor Tuesday night, made a fresh start from Milwaukee last night and with the Racine and other vessels was caught in ice floes off this harbor this morning. The vessel, valued at $150,000, carried a miscellaneous cargo, from $50,000 to $75,000 in value. Officials of the company said it was fully insured.

Reach Breakwater.

Spectators of the wreck watching from the roof of a lake front skyscraper, reported that the Iowa's men reached the government breakwater which guards the mouth of the Chicago river and had climbed on it after a perilous walk of a mile and a half across the ice. Two tugs were making their way to the pier.

The steamers Kansas, Arizona and Racine, the former held fast in the ice, were only a short distance from the Iowa. The Racine which was in clear water though hemmed in by ice, started to the rescue of those on board the Iowa.

The city fire boat Graeme Stewart was much hampered in its progress by the ice and made slow progress toward the scene.

SUMMER SCHEDULES FOR EUROPEAN R. R.

Conference of Representatives of Various Roads Held in Munich.

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 4, via London.—The European railway schedule conference to fix schedules for the summer of 1915 is holding its annual meeting here.

Representatives of all the German railroads, and Austro-Hungarian state railroads, as well as the larger privately owned railroads in these countries, are present. Other countries represented are Denmark, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and Holland.

The session of yesterday was opened by a speech from the Bavarian minister of railroads, who declared that the freight traffic of Germany was at present only slightly below the normal, and that passenger traffic was over 75 per cent of what it had been for the corresponding period of last year.

OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT OF GERMANS TO WEST OF WARSAW CONTINUES

Russians Claim to Be Exerting Pressure at Other Points.

Say Fighting Has Gone Against Teutons in the Carpathians.

Artillery Engagements Continue in the Western War Zone.

London, Feb. 4.—Emperor William's troops still are maintaining an offensive movement in battlefields to the west of Warsaw, in Russian Poland, but in the remainder of the eastern battle line the Russians claim to be exerting the greatest pressure, notably across the Prussian frontier and in the Carpathian mountains. In the latter region the Russians claim that the fighting has gone against the Austro-German forces and the Russians again are reported to have crossed into Hungary.

On the western front—in Belgium, France and Alsace—artillery engagements continue over most of the battle line with isolated and sporadic German rushes on the French position.

The newspapers of both Germany and England are filled with discussion and speculation regarding the outcome of the proposed widespread German submarine activity against merchant shipping.

A few weeks ago it was said confidently in Great Britain that Roumania would enter the conflict perhaps by the middle of February. Dispatches to the British newspapers from Bucharest, the Roumanian capital, now say that the government of Roumania has no intention of breaking its neutrality at an early date.

There is less talk now of Italy breaking into the conflict.

French Statement.

Paris, Feb. 4, 2:45 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of the fighting, which reads as follows:

"To the north of Lys there was yesterday in the vicinity of Nieuport a particularly spirited artillery engagement.

"At Notre Dame de Lorette, to the southwest of Lens, a determined German attack the morning of Feb. 3 was driven back by the fire of our artillery. The French guns also put an end to a bombardment of the road between Arras and Bethune.

"In the region of Albert and Duquesnoy-en-Santerre we destroyed several blockhouses. Throughout the entire Aisne valley there was yesterday an artillery engagement in which the advantage rested with us.

"The three attacks reported last night against our trenches in the vicinity of Perthes, Mesnil-les-Hurlus and Massiges were carried out by forces of the enemy which equaled a battalion (1,000 men) at each point. The first two attacks were completely dispelled by the fire of our artillery. The third, which took place north of Massiges, took advantage of a mine explosion to make headway. Later we captured these locations. We built new trenches at a few yards distant from those which had been blown up by the Germans and which had become untenable.

"Feb. 3 passed quietly in the Argonne.

"In the Woevre district and in the valley of the Seille we were successful in some outpost encounters and we

SAYS ALLIES ARE ABLE TO FORCE DARDANELLES

ABDUL HAMID.

London, Feb. 4.—A Bucharest dispatch to the Daily Mail says that Abdul Hamid, the former sultan of Turkey consulted by the Young Turks, has advised them to conclude peace. At the same time, he expressed the belief that the Anglo-French fleet would be able to force the Dardanelles.

WARNED FROM FRENCH COAST

Washington Notified By Germany That Vessels Should Keep Away.

Government Does Not Regard Notice as Blockade Declaration.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Germany today notified the state department that American vessels should avoid the north and west coast of France.

The state department does not regard the notice as a formal declaration of blockade by Germany of the French coast. It is said that the mere presence of German submarines or the planting of German mines would not constitute a blockade which, according to long established principles of the state department, requires the maintenance of a fleet of warships sufficient to prevent any intercourse with the blockaded port.

Therefore the department regards the notice as similar to one issued by the British government and to a preceding notice from the German government regarding the presence of mines in the North sea.

The notification was presented by the Berlin foreign office to Ambassador Gerard, who transmitted it today to the state department.

Charged With Assaulting Prominent Young Married Woman.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 4.—Dr. A. B. Culberson was charged with assaulting a young married woman, the daughter of a prominent citizen of Martinez.

BLANKETS WASH ASHORE

Two Marked "Idler" Believed to Be Proof of Wreck of Yacht.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Two blankets marked "Idler," washed ashore at the Cape Hatteras coastguard station, are regarded as silent proof that the vessel wrecked on the Diamond Shoals last week was the yacht of that name from New York on a cruise to the Pacific, and that her captain and crew of twelve undoubtedly were lost.

JAPANESE CRUISER ASAMA IS WRECKED

Stranded About 350 Miles South of Port Bartolome.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Rear Admiral Howard, commander of the Pacific fleet, reported to the navy department from his flagship San Diego, that the Japanese cruiser Asama with 500 men was wrecked about 350 miles south of Port Bartolome and was breaking up.

The admiral added, he was sending assistance at once from the nearest American vessel.

The Asama is a cruiser of about 9,800 tons displacement.

FATE OF PRIEST SOON IN HANDS OF JURY.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Fate of the Rev. John K. Mullen, former pastor of the Church of the Holy Rosary, charged with the murder of Thomas W. Patterson, postmaster at Hillside, will be placed in the hands of the jury tonight, it was expected today.

Final arguments of counsel on both sides were expected to be finished this afternoon. Father Mullen took the witness stand in his own defense yesterday and disclaimed any recollection of having killed Patterson. His defense was transitory insanity.

WHEN HOOPS COME IN STYLE—USEFUL AS WELL AS ORNAMENTAL.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The remnants of the Belgian troops which are still defending the little strip of their fatherland not in possession of the Germans, once more are bearing the brunt of the fighting in the west. Unofficial reports from Amsterdam state that the Germans are again making an attack along the Yser, scene of the earlier German attempts to break through the allied line and reach the English channel. The Amsterdam reports say the German attacks have been repulsed.

The struggle in the east is increasing in severity as the Austro-German attack develops. Heavy fighting is now in progress along virtually the whole front, except in Bukowina. An official statement from Petrograd reports that in Northern Poland, near the West Prussian border, the village of Skempe has been captured by the Russians and says that to the west of Warsaw, the Germans, after furious attacks, suffered immense losses and were driven back.

Russian aviators successfully bombarded three German mobilization centers, another official report says.

The surrender of Lieut.-Col. Kemp, the South African rebel leader, and 500 burghers is expected at Pretoria to bring to an end the uprising. The surrender of Col. Maritz, the only one of the four original rebel leaders still at large, is predicted.

BERLIN HEARS NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Berlin, Feb. 4, via London.—A News dispatch has been received here from Washington saying that President Wilson has consented to an amendment of the ship purchase bill, which provides that no vessel is to be bought by the United States if such purchase would lead to conflict with any one of the belligerent powers.

Nearly all the German newspapers criticize this course sharply; they virtually unite in calling it a backdown before Great Britain on the part of President Wilson. The Kreiuz Zeitung says:

"This tender consideration for Great Britain is the more remarkable inasmuch as it injures America herself."

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 4.—Edward, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Merryman, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday when a cartridge in a 22-caliber rifle with which he was playing exploded. A portion of the cartridge was thrown from the chamber and grazed the boy's forehead.

NEW BUILDINGS WORTH $90,155

Inspector Issued Fifty-Six Permits for Month of January.

Fifty-six building permits, calling for an expenditure of $90,155, were taken out during January, states S. M. Kielley in his monthly report of the building inspector's office submitted this morning to Mayor Prince.

Of the fifty-six permits issued, twenty-four were for the construction of frame dwellings in various parts of the city, at an estimated cost of $44,900.

In addition, Building Inspector Kielley tested fifty electric meters, granted three permits for the removal of buildings, granted three permits for the erection of electric signs and issued eleven elevator licenses during the month.

ESTIMATES OF LAND VALUE

Expert Testimony Given on Appraisal of Right-of-Way Property.

W. A. McKay Declares Land Undervalued; Lake Shore Boulevard Involved.

W. C. Sargent, George Claypool and G. A. Bush took the witness stand in Judge Dancer's division of the district court this morning and yesterday afternoon to give expert testimony on land values, with a view of aiding a jury to determine the amount of damages to which William A. McKay is entitled for land which he released to the city for right-of-way purposes in connection with the building of the proposed north shore boulevard.

The jury is concerned with an appeal which Mr. McKay took from the award made by appraisers appointed by the court in condemnation proceedings instituted by the city to acquire a right-of-way for the lake shore drive. The boulevard, as planned, extends from the present eastern terminus of London road to the Lake county line, a distance of about twenty miles. The condemnation proceedings affect fifty-seven parcels of land, in which more than 150 people are interested. The road will pass through Lakewood and across the French river, and from there on will parallel the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company's tracks. Before reaching the county line it will cross the Big Sucker and Little Sucker rivers.

Jury Inspects Land.

The amount awarded by the appraisers will not be put into evidence, as the jury will be expected to make its own award, which will be based not only upon expert testimony on land values in that vicinity, but also on a personal inspection of the property involved.

This inspection was made by the jurors yesterday afternoon. The members of the jury, in custody of a deputy sheriff, were taken by train yesterday to Lakewood, where they visited the McKay property, which lies about a half mile east of the Lakewood pumping station. The jurors returned to the city in a sleigh.

The McKay property is a tract of about fifteen acres fronting on Lake Superior. The right-of-way taken by condemnation is a strip of 2.97 acres and comprises the shore line. Mr. McKay, respondent, at the hearing now in progress, asserts that the proposed road will destroy the value of his land as a summer home site by cutting it off from the lake.

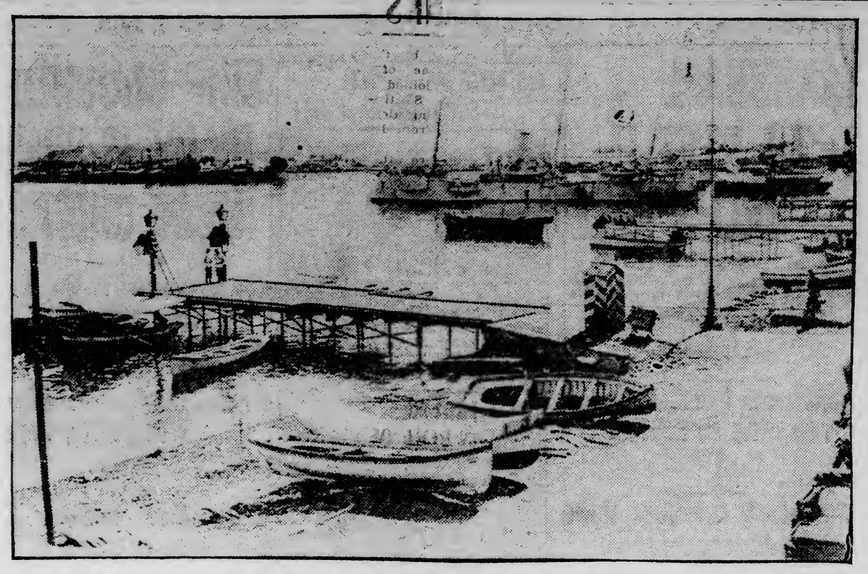

W. C. Sargent fixed the damage at $4,200, George H. Claypool at $3,000 and G. A. Bush at $3,500.

LARGE DECREASE IN VISITORS TO BERLIN.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The number of visitors from the provinces and abroad to the German capital has fallen off over 25 per cent since the outbreak of hostilities. In December only 73,000 persons came to the capital as compared with 103,000 in the same month of the preceding year. Among the countries with which Germany is at war, Britons and French totaled all together only 7, Belgians 31, Russians 114 and Portuguese 2. There was an influx of 513 Swedes, 532 Danes, 94 Norwegians, 999 Dutch, 253 Swiss and 71 Italians, but other neutral countries were represented by very small groups.

"RIGHT SMAHT GAME WHEN THEY GET STAHTED"

Texan Thought Curlers Were Just Preparing the Ice for a Contest When He Saw Them Sweeping.

Many people who have lived in the South all their lives have never seen a curling game, and if they did, would not know what was coming off, so it is not surprising that "Tex" Stafford, now of Duluth, but until recently of Texas, did not know what was doing when he watched a game at the curling rink one night this week.

Mr. Stafford is a recent arrival in Duluth and has entered business here, for he finds it what he calls it, in his slow Southern drawl, "a burg with pep in it." He likes sport of all kinds, but when, during the recent bonspiel, he heard on every hand about curling, and heard people talk about "laying" so many stanes in such and such a "head," he divined that a new form of sport was being discussed, and secretly asked an acquaintance about it. "Tex"—he is called that because he hails from the Lone Star state—has made many friends since he arrived in Duluth, and the friend to whom he appealed for enlightenment tried to explain, but giving it up, suggested that they go out to the curling rink and watch a game or two, for it would be easier to explain there. So out they went.

They sat in the windowed inclosure and watched a lively game in progress. For about fifteen minutes "Tex" said nothing, but then, turning to his companion, he said:

"They take a right smart while gettin' ready fo' this game."

His friend looked at "Tex" sharply, for he has gained the reputation of "kidding" in a quiet way. The friend made no reply, fearing that he might be the "goat" of something. But his fears in this regard were dispelled when "Tex," after a pause, said with the utmost sincerity:

"But I reckon that it'll be a good game when they get roun' to it, with all those fellows throwin' them cuspido's, roun' and sweeping out thataway."

His companion found it utterly impossible to explain for the time being.

IRON CROSSES FOR SUBMARINE'S CREW

Kaiser Decorates Men of Famous U-21 for Valor.

Amsterdam, Feb. 4, via London.—A dispatch received here from Hamburg says Emperor William arrived at Wilhelmshaven this morning. His majesty inspected the German submarine U-21, going over the vessel personally. He bestowed the decoration of the Iron Cross upon the members of the submarine's crew. U-21 is undergoing repairs at Wilhelmshaven following her recent exploits in the Irish sea.

The emperor also inspected the units of the fleet at Wilhelmshaven. The men on the various warships lined the decks and cheered his majesty loudly as he made his appearance.

The town council of Wilhelmshaven will tonight give a dinner in honor of the emperor.

IS HIT ON HEAD; ASKS DAMAGES

Workman Hurt During Ore Dock Construction Sues Employers.

Trial of an action in which Charles Lamson is seeking to recover $2,150 from his former employers, the Whitney Brothers company, for injuries received March 31, 1913, while engaged at construction work on the new Missabe ore docks in this city, was started before Judge Cant and a district court jury this morning.

Lamson was a hookman. He alleges that while a large timber was being transferred from the top of one of the docks to a trestle or top of another dock under construction, through the negligence of fellow workmen it was permitted to swing around so that it struck him on the head. John Jenswold, Jr., is plaintiff's attorney and Theodore Hollister is in court for the defendant company.

CONGESTION AT LONDON DOCKS

Has Been Severe But Return to Normal Conditions Rapid.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 20.—The newspaper charge that chaos exists at the London docks, with the implication that high wages have caused the dock laborers to drink instead of work, is denied by J. G. Broodbank, chairman of the dock and warehouse committee of the port of London authority.

Mr. Broodbank admits that the congestion has at times been severe since the outbreak of the war, but the improvement toward normal conditions is rapid, and a few weeks ought to see the wharves fairly well cleared.

The real trouble, he says, is due to the fact that the needs of the army and navy came before those of the merchants. Military and naval shipments are enormous. Although the war called away large numbers of reservists from the docks, there are 6,000 men employed this month as against 4,000 at the same time last year. In addition, the London port authorities have had to send something like 1,600 trained stevedores to French ports, particularly Havre, to help handle the military shipping there.

To mention some of the additional burdens that war has thrown upon the port of London, the year's sugar supply purchased by the government has to come through here; about 150 army transports ply in and out of the Thames; merchant ships are diverted to London which ordinarily are berthed in other ports now closed for naval reasons; and all of the various supplies such as Australian wool, lately held up by the exploits of the Emden, are beginning to arrive.

Electric Light In Your Home

IS CLEAN—There are no lamp chimneys to get smoked up or greasy; no mantles to break and drop on the floor.

IS HEALTHFUL—It does not use up any of the oxygen in the air, but leaves it all for you to breathe; and oxygen means life and health.

IS PLEASANT—It gives off no odor and never makes a room seem "stuffy."

IS EFFICIENT—One ordinary electric globe will light a room better than four ordinary lamps.

IS SAFE—There is no flame to set fire to anything, and it requires no matches.

IS STEADY—It does not flicker in drafts, does not blow out when the door opens or shuts; has no delicate mantle to break or grow black, and does not "flare" and break the shade.

IS EASY TO USE—You don't have to carry a lamp or matches with you on going from one room to another. It does not cause careless scratching of matches on walls or woodwork.

More than all these—Electric light is cheap

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

SUPERIOR

FARMER HELD FOR ASSAULTING HIS WIFE.

Edward Rupke, a farmer living sixteen miles from Solon Springs was brought to Superior last evening by Constable Charles Brown and is charged with assault with intent to kill. The charge is made by his wife, who claims that he attacked her with a chair and drove her out of the home and compelled her to walk seven miles to the home of a neighbor before she found shelter. He will be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES AGAINST MAYOR KONKEL

Two candidates are already out, it is said, for the office of mayor of Superior in case the petition for the recall of Mayor J. S. Konkel is filed. The men who are said to be possible candidates for the position are James Hile, who was candidate for the position, at the recall election held a year ago, and Gustaf Carlson, whose term as sheriff of Douglas county expired Dec. 31. The petition will probably be filed early next week. Dil Galeson, a leader in the recall movement said this morning that there were 1,150 names to the petition and that only 1,182 were needed.

Grocers' Banquet.

The Superior Grocers' association will hold its annual banquet on Tuesday evening, Feb. 9, at the Tower hall. Plans are being made to entertain 150 guests. WIFE SECURES THIRD DECREE

Mabel Rice, Colored, Tells Sorrowful Tale of Matrimonial Trouble.

Husband Denies Charges, Saying He Was Inveigled Into Marriage.

Mabel Rice, 33, colored, yesterday afternoon shook off the matrimonial chains which bound her to her third and latest husband, Warner Rice, aged 35, when Judge Dancer of the district court signed and filed divorce findings in her favor. They were married three years ago last October at Superior. The decree was granted on the ground of cruelty. Mrs. Rice has secured divorces on two former occasions.

Rice, according to the story told by his wife when the case was heard before Judge Dancer at the opening of the January term of court, was not a "family man." She declared that he cared more for clubs and cards than he did for her, and spent his nights drinking and gambling. She also claimed that he contributed little if anything towards her support, and that when the rent became due she had to pay it.

She also testified that because of his cruelty she left him on three occasions. Twice, she said, he worked his sympathies on her until she was induced to return to him. With tears in his eyes, she said, he begged her to come back, and on both occasions he promised to reform. But he soon fell back into his old ways, she declared. In September, 1913, she quit him for "keeps."

Rice, who contested the action, told a different story. He denied her charges and declared that his wife had deserted him several times. On the street, he says, his wife has ignored him, and once, he said, when they met at a funeral, she refused to recognize him. He also charged her with infidelity.

The woman's first marriage took place in the East, but it turned out unhappily. She secured a divorce and remarried a Detroit man, which also proved an unhappy venture. She again applied to the courts for relief. Rice claimed that he was unwittingly inveigled into marrying her.

Judge Dancer also granted a divorce decree to Eugene La Rochelle from Ida La Rochelle on the grounds of desertion. They were married at Ishpeming, Mich., on May 8, 1902, and later moved to Crosby, Minn. At Crosby, La Rochelle claimed, she deserted on Jan. 27, 1913. The case was heard before the court at the opening of the January term.

HELMER WILL PLAY SOLO AT CONCERT

Well-Known Musician to Be Featured on Sunday's Program.

Among the interesting features of the program to be given next Sunday afternoon at the Central high school by the Duluth Concert orchestra will be a solo by Charles Helmer, first trumpeter of the orchestra. His selection will be "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from the opera, "Samson and Delilah," arranged for the trumpet by Tobani.

Mr. Helmer is well known in Duluth for his musical ability. For several years he has been director of the

CHARLES HELMER.

Svea Glee club and was recently made leader of the Third Regiment band, which has shown marked progress under his direction.

He has received many flattering offers from out of the city, but has great faith in Duluth musically, which has been added to largely by the organization of the Duluth Concert orchestra. Mr. Helmer's most recent offer came through Emil Oberhoffer, director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, who recommended him for the position of solo trumpeter with Nelson's Concert band, which appeared at Lake Harriet last summer.

NOT SAFE TO CROSS ON ICE

Engineer's Office Warns Citizens of Dangers of Ship Canal.

Park Point residents who have been in the habit of crossing the ship canal on the ice and skaters who go between the piers have been warned by Maj. E. D. Peek of the government engineer's office, that it now is very unsafe, and that no one should attempt to walk across. Several pedestrians were stopped this morning as they were about to walk to the point.

The thaw has melted the ice from above to some extent and combined with the undercurrent, has reduced the thickness so much that in many places it will not bear the weight of a man.

Unless there is another cold snap this ice will not be safe again this year, according to the engineers, so that no one should attempt to walk across. With the swift current and the very cold water, to break through the ice would mean almost certain death.

FIFTEEN GIRLS JOIN THE RANKS OF "SKATERS-TO-WORK"

Not to be outdone by the men, no matter what the line of endeavor, about fifteen girls joined the newly organized Lakeside Skating brigade this morning by skating along the lake shore all the way from Lakeside to the canal.

Most of the girls are attending Central high school and those who made the trip this morning report that they not only enjoyed it, but that they are going to increase the membership of their little band.

About fifty people skated in from Lakeside this morning and on the way, several East end residents joined the skaters and came into town with them.

The ice is like glass, the skaters say, and with the favorable wind this morning, they succeeded in beating the car to the city. Three of the skaters made the trip in eighteen minutes.

The snow this afternoon may put an end to the skating.

MAYOR A FAILURE IN ROLE OF CUPID

Mayor Prince is a failure in the role of Cupid, the youthful god of love.

About six months ago he received a request from Mrs. Jennie E. Worley of Aitkin, Minn., asking the city executive to find a husband for her. An account in The Herald at the time produced an applicant, who was sent to the widow by the mayor.

This morning Mayor Prince received another letter from Mrs. Worley, stating that she did not like the other man and that she still wants a husband.

"I guess I'm a failure as Cupid," remarked the mayor after reading the letter, which follows:

"Gentleman, Sir: I have not found anyone yet to suit me or that would like me as their wife. Now I will kindly ask you again for a little help, although I am ashamed to have you help me again. I am a grass widow woman, with a baby boy. My age is 39 and my name is Mrs. Jennie Worley.

SUE FOR $697; RECOVER $296.

After an hour's consideration, a jury in Judge Fesler's division of the district court this morning returned a verdict in favor of Carl and Lena Edman for $296 in their suit against the Northern Pacific Railway company to recover loss on household goods destroyed by fire while in possession of the company.

The Edmans sued for $697.50. The goods were shipped from Spokane the latter part of September, 1914, and were destroyed by a fire which consumed a Northern Pacific freight shed in this city on Oct. 5 last.

Lathers & Hoag represented the plaintiffs and J. A. Sinclair appeared in court for the railroad company.

LEAVES ELEVEN CHILDREN.

Frank Bondy Dies at Cloquet After Four Years' Illness.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Bondy, age 59, and a resident of this city for the past year, died at his home on Seventh street, last night. Mr. Bondy had been in poor health for about four years and confined to his bed for some months.

He is survived by a wife and eleven children, three of whom reside here. Mr. Bondy was well and favorably known here. The funeral will be held presumably Saturday, from the Lady of the Sacred Heart church.

ANIMATED SCENE IN THE WAR ZONE

Headquarters of Some of Big Guns of German Army.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, Jan. 20.—St. Quentin, where the British troops made a stand that retarded the German advance and facilitated Joffre's strategic retreat, has been for nearly five months within constant sound of the guns pounding at each other along the line from Roye to Peronne, but, according to news received by underground channels, the town has otherwise experienced little of the rigors of war.

Never has the city hall square been so animated. The coming and going of motor cars filled with officers is incessant as this is the headquarters of some of the big guns of the German army who are comfortably located in the elegant villas of the Champs-Elysees. Every afternoon officers crowd the pastry-cooks' establishments of which the animation rivals the most popular 5 o'clock teas of Paris. Enormous quantities of tea, chocolate and cakes are requisitioned daily and among the habitues none have a better appetite than Prince August William, the emperor's fourth son, who is always the center of the most animated group.

The emperor himself made a short visit to St. Quentin, lodging at the Hotel Charles Basquin on the Champs-Elysees.

The Bank Lecuyer-Lourinais, the Cardier asylum, the Parvacques palace, the Henri Martin lyceum and the Girls' lyceum are constantly filled with German wounded, who are sent to hospitals further in the rear as fast as their condition permits.

TRIBUTE PAID TO GERMAN ARTILLERY

Kept Battery Going Until Every Gun Was Destroyed.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Petrograd, Jan. 15.—Tribute is paid to the German artillerymen in an account of a minor incident during the fighting west of Warsaw.

"The Russians were on the defensive, with the Germans opening up a wide attack on their positions. A German battery of six guns was moved out into the open field to shell the Russian trenches.

"Very coolly the German artillerymen went about their work, although they must have known that we would soon make it hot for them. Our observers soon got their range, and the third shell fired from our batteries on the left destroyed three of the German guns, killing fully half of the entire German force of artillerymen. The others sought shelter, but quickly returned and brought the remaining three guns into action against our trenches again.

"They had only time to fire two rounds when another shell from our battery smashed two more guns, destroying their crews.

"But those artillerymen had been given their orders, and their bravery was dauntless. The survivors, after a short interval, returned to their single remaining gun, and kept it going until another Russian shell laid it low."

CRIME IN SAXONY IS REPORTED ON DECREASE

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Dresden, Jan. 15.—Criminality has diminished in Saxony during the war to a remarkable degree, according to the police commissioners' reports. In Dresden the number of frauds has been reduced by 40 per cent and burglaries by 70 per cent. This occurrence is not attributed to the calling up of the members of the habitual criminal classes among the men drawn to take their places in the ranks of the army, but is due to psychological reasons, in the opinion of the noted criminologist, Dr. Robert Heindl.

REVIVAL HAS REALLY BEGUN

Local Freight Agents Optimistic After Six Months of Gloom.

One of the most optimistic notes sounded in the railroad world during the last six months was struck today by several local freight agents, when it was stated that carload shipments of freight were showing a rapid increase and that coal and pulpwood were also moving freely and that it was expected that a heavy increase in freight tonnage would be registered over the mark set in February a year ago.

"Carload orders for goods for shipment from Duluth are coming with gratifying frequency, and the indication is that the long-delayed ordering has really begun," said one of the agents today.

"There has been a delay in executing heavy orders and a consequent delay in freight movement of carload lots. The freight situation looks as if something was opening up, and that Duluth traffic is going to feel the effects of a decided increase in the volume of traffic."

It is predicted by several of the local freight traffic agents that the tonnage records of the present month will show a substantial increase over the total tonnage record of local roads in 1914, and it might be stated that February of a year ago was a good month.

Coal movements for January were ahead of those for January a year ago, and it is expected that the tonnage for the present month will be heavy. There are more inquiries reported for lumber, it is stated, at the various railroad offices, with pulpwood showing a very heavy movement.

USE OF FRENCH IS NOW PROHIBITED.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The German military authorities in Alsace-Lorraine have just decided to take steps for the further suppression of the French language in business affairs in the Reichsland, and the substitution of German in its place. The commanders of the four army corps stationed there have issued a decree prohibiting the use of French on signs and placards posted on the streets, on the inner or outer walls of shops or other places of business. Bills, receipts, letterheads and other business forms must be in the German language; books must be kept exclusively in that language, and only in German money. Metz and several towns in Upper Alsace are exempted from the decree.

GRANDMOTHER'S STORY.

New York Evening Post: Two old ladies were once talking of how small babies sometimes are when they are born. One old lady said, complacently:

"When I was born I was so small you could put me into a quart tankard and shut down the lid."

And the other old lady said, astounded:

"W'y, did—you—live?"

And the first old lady said:

"They say I did, and growed nicely."

NO PUBLIC NECESSITY

Judge Dickson Decides Sunday Train Service Not Needed.

Directs That Order of Railroad Commission Be Vacated.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—Judge Dickson in the district court yesterday decided that the state railroad and warehouse commission had not shown that there was "sufficient public necessity" for the running of passenger trains on Sunday mornings on the Great Northern railroad between Duluth and Grand Forks, and directed that the order of the commission restoring this service be vacated. It is stated that the commission may take an appeal to the supreme court.

Judge Dickson, after expressing the belief that the public necessity was not sufficient to deny the prayer of the railway for the vacation of the commission's order of restoration, stated that he did not believe that order was "an interference" with interstate commerce. He said that the trains were "a luxurious convenience," that no substantial business interest had complained about their withdrawal, and that the order of the railroad commission was unreasonable. The court said:

No Public Necessity.

"Well, this commission has found as a matter of fact their prima facie case; they have found that there was a reasonable public necessity for these Sunday trains. Now it seems to me from the language of the statutes that it is a question as to whether or not there is a reasonable public necessity, and that this court has a right to decide. I may be wrong about that, but if I am, the provision for an appeal is a foolish thing; it don't amount to anything. I think that under all the facts in this case, it has not been shown that there was such a reasonable public necessity for the restoration of those two trains, at this time, as would warrant an order putting them in.

"Now no substantial business interest has complained about the loss of these two Sunday trains. The only thing that has been shown is that it has interfered with the convenience or will interfere if it is continued long enough into the summer; will probably interfere with the baseball fans, but it certainly don't now—didn't at the time that the order was made, nor did it at the time that the order was made interfere with the ice cream business because the ice cream season was gone by.

Not Really Inconvenienced.

"So that the only thing that was left was an occasional sporadic casual instance of some man that might want to leave the country so as to get to the Twin Cities by Monday morning and he would have to leave Saturday night instead of Sunday; and a few children between Shevlin and Bagley attending the Bagley schools, that if they went home to spend Saturday and Sunday with their people, would lose on day of school, and in a couple of instances where they would either have to pay more for a preacher or else go without preaching every other week, and the delivery of the mail delayed a little bit and no Sunday papers would be received on Sunday. Those are not things that substantially affect the business interest or the real interests of the community. They may cause a little bit of inconvenience, but not much; they are easily obviated under the present situation. And it seems to me that the court ought to find, and I do from the facts here, that there was not and there is no reasonable necessity for the restoration of the trains.

Interstate Business Unaffected.

"Under this finding, of course, it is unnecessary to decide the other question as to whether or not this is an interference with interstate commerce, but I think there is no objection to expressing my opinion that it is pretty clear that it is not an interference with interstate commerce, because it does not cast any burden on interstate commerce, nor is it at all likely that the running of that train twenty miles through Wisconsin will in any way affect the Wisconsin people. Of course, it doesn't interfere with commerce between Minnesota and Wisconsin; it is a aid of it. I have always understood that the Federal government would not be interfered with except to prevent obstacles and burdens to and upon interstate commerce, but, as I say in view of the findings of fact that I make here, it is necessary to decide that question. Of course, on appeal that will still be a question if the supreme court should take a different view of the facts than I do."

ANNUAL DANCE

Given by International Association of Machinists at the Auditorium, Friday Evening, Feb. 5, 1915. Come and we will show you a good time.

MID-WINTER THAW HERE

This is either a delayed annual January thaw or a premature March one, some believe. Mr. Richardson, the weather observer, says one may take it either way, for there is usually a thaw due somewhere around this time of the year, and that if it does not arrive, it is a sign that there is an exceptionally cold winter on hand.

The snow has been melting fast for the last twenty-four hours, and last night Duluthians were soothed to slumber by a drip-drip from the roofs.

This, says Mr. Richardson, is the result of an approaching northeaster, but the present mild state will not remain for long. The storm this morning centered around Omaha, but later on tonight will be here with the accompaniment of high winds, sleet and the other delightful accessories that go with a real northeaster. By tomorrow, he says, the wind will shift to westerly and the weather will become colder. It will likely get down around zero by tomorrow night, unless shouldered off by some other brand not yet sighted.

crib telephoned to the water department that apparently all of the persons on the Iowa had left the vessel before it sank.

Only One Passenger.

The steward of the Iowa, Charles Pinsonneult, reached shore at 11:55 and reported that all aboard the vesel had taken to the ice and were straggling in. He said he believed all would reach shore safely. There was one passenger aboard the vessel.

The Iowa was of 1,157 gross tonnage, 202 feet long and of 900 indicated horsepower. The vessel was built at Manitowoc, Wis., in 1896, and was of wooden construction. Her crew numbered fifteen ordinarily, and according to the best information available here there were thirty-five passengers aboard when the vessel left Milwaukee Tuesday.

A northeast wind drove the ice into the southern end of Lake Michigan, and when within a few miles of the Chicago river the Iowa's captain found his vessel in the plight of several other boats, fast in the floes.

After hours of fruitless efforts to break through the boat was turned back and returned to Milwaukee. A fresh start was made from there last night, but the Iowa was caught again before daylight.

Ice Punctures Ship.

The first intimation of the accident came in a wireless message to the owners of which this captain reported that his boat was fast and leaking and that the ice was "running." Huges cakes of ice were forced against the side of the vessel, startthe timbers and piercing the sheathing. Feverish work on the part of the crew failed to stop the leaks and further punctures resulted as huge masses of ice surged against the ship.

Within half an hour from the time she began to settle the Iowa sank. She listed to the starboard and then sank on an even keel until the final plunge was made bow-on. Not a spar or mast was visible after she sank.

The Iowa collided with another steamer in the Chicago river more than a year ago. Government inspectors pronounced her repairs satisfactory.

Vessel in Good Shape.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 4.—The Goodrich Transit company's steamer Iowa, which sank in the ice off Chicago today, was last inspected by the Federal inspection officials at Milwaukee on April 25, 1914. The report of inspectors showed the vessel to be in good shape and a marking of A1 was registered.

The Iowa, built in 1896 and rebuilt in 1911.

After the accident in Chicago on July 16, 1913, when she sank at her dock, the steamer was raised and taken to Manitowoc, where she was thoroughly rebuilt and considered as good as new.

The Iowa has 1,157 gross tonnage and is equipped to carry 200 passengers.

When the steamer sank at her dock in Chicago in July, 1913, she had a cargo of general merchandise. It is said here that there were no lives lost in the dock accident.

The steamer Georgia will replace the Iowa on regular trips.

COUNTY OPTION BILL

MARSHALL TO SETTLE BILL'S FATE

agreement with the Republicans, and he charged that Senator Clarke had violated a campus pledge. This was denied by the Arkansas senator in a vigorous speech, in which he explained he had warned his colleagues that he would not be bound to any action which would deprive him of his right to vote against the ship purchase bill. Senator Camden also replied, declaring he was willing to let his constituents pass upon his record, and adding that a denunciation of secrecy came "with ill grace from the senator from Missouri, who is known the world over as 'Gumshoe Bill'."

Work to Prevent Vote.

While Senator Stone was speaking, Senators Lane, Simmons, Fletcher, Martin and others worked to prevent a vote being taken until some absent Democrats could return to Washington or until assurances of enough progressive Republican support could be secured to insure temporary victory, even though victory might not be effective in averting another filibuster from the Republican side.

In their estimate of the situation the Democrats were counting upon Senator Morris to vote for their amendment to the recommitment motion. Senator Kenyon, whose support they had hoped for, will not be with them, nor will any of the seven insurgent Democrats. Senator La Follette is regarded as certain, however, to vote with the Democratic majority. Today Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who has been absent because of illness, and Senator Smith of South Carolina may return.

With these votes the leaders are hopeful that the bill may be recommitted with instructions for its return within forty-eight hours with amendments to limit to one year the term for which the government, under the proposed law, might lease ships to private corporations and to prohibit purchase of ships which might menace the neutrality of the country.

No Night Session.

Republican senators admitted that Senator Morris might vote for recommitment with instructions, but they agreed to an adjournment without attempting to force a night session, hopeful that Senator Penrose might be able to reach Washington today to add one more to their side of the vote, should it be reached.

With Senator Penrose here, they felt confident that they could recommit the bill without instructions.

In any event the Republican leaders insist the bill cannot reach a vote at this session. Should the effort to amend the bill and return it within forty-eight hours succeed, they declare, the Republican attack will be resumed and kept up until the measure either is withdrawn or is killed by the adjournment of congress March 4.

"We are through caucusing," said Senator Kern, the majority leader, "and expect to make progress. The shipping bill is not dead by any means."

Charges Hostility.

Denouncing his Democratic colleagues, Senator Stone held the senators through the lunch hour and attracted scores of members of the house who crowded in the rear of the room. He charged the seven members with open hostility to their party, and declared that they had joined in an unholy alliance with the enemy. The Missouri senator also made a vigorous defense of the president, asserting he would rather follow his leadership than that of "Elihu Root, Henry Cabot Lodge, Theodore E. Burton, William Edgar Borah, Jacob Gallinger or any recreant alleged Democrat who goes about with a dagger in his sleeve."

Senator Thomas of Colorado made a plea for a cloture rule in the senate, and asserted that without a change in the rules, the senate would continue to be bound and shackled by filibusters.

Just before adjournment, Senator White presented a telegram from the Alabama legislature, announcing the adoption of a resolution by that body urging the passage of the ship bill. Senator Bankhead of Alabama was one of the seven Democrats who joined the Republicans.

dispersed certain convoys of the enemy.

"In the Vosges there have been some encounters between patrols on skiis and our troops have made slight progress to the southeast of Kolschlag and to the northwest of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf. The snow has begun to melt."

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Feb. 4.—The general staff of the Russian army today issued a report on the progress of the war which reads as follows:

"In East Prussia our troops have strengthened their positions near the village of Gross Medunischken, on the left bank of the Angerapp.

"On the left bank of the Vistula our encounters with the enemy have become more frequent. Engagements of considerable importance have taken place on the front between Lipno and Bejune. Our troops took by assault the town of Skempe, the east of Lipno, and repulsed an attack of the enemy on the village of Bilno, inflicting heavy losses on him. In this fighting we captured the commanding officer of the battalion, three other officers and 100 soldiers.

"On the right bank of the Vistula the fighting on the front between Borjimow, Goumine and Wolaczosnoska continued Feb. 2 with the same energy. The enemy brought into this engagement fourteen regiments of first line troops and quantities of artillery, including their heavy pieces. The artillery fire was continued all day and night. An engagement of particular severity took place at the village of Goumine, where after sanguinary hand-to-hand fighting we repulsed the furious attacks of the enemy. The Germans here sustained immense losses, but they continue to bring fresh troops forward to the fight.

"A demonstration of the enemy along the Nida river did not result successfully.

"The fighting in the Carpathians is continuing and the engagements are becoming more and more tenacious in character. It is apparent that considerable forces of Germans are engaged."

German Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 4, by wireless telegraphy to Sayville, N. J.—The headquarters staff of the German army today gave out an announcement on the progress of the war, which reads as follows:

"Yesterday saw nothing more than artillery engagements on the front from the North sea as far as Reims. Further French attacks near Perthes were repulsed with losses to the enemy.

"German forces yesterday delivered attacks at points north and northwest of Massiges and to the northwest of St. Menehould. They stormed three lines of French trenches, one behind the other, and occupied the principal occupations for a distance of two kilometers (1 1-5 miles). All the French counter-attacks which were continued during the night were repulsed. We took prisoners seven officers and 601 soldiers and we captured nine machine guns, nine other guns of smaller caliber and much war material.

"In the middle Vosges there occurred yesterday the first encounter of German troops mounted on skis with French chasseurs. The outcome was successful for us.

"In East Prussia Russian attacks against the German position south of the Memel river were driven back.

"In Poland, north of the Vistula, there have been skirmishes between small detachments of German and Russian cavalrymen. At a point south of Sochaczew the Russians delivered repeated night attacks upon our positions. They were forced to retire with heavy losses. The Germans' advance in the vicinity of Bolimow is progressing and this in spite of the violent Russian counter-attacks. The number of prisoners we are taking is increasing.

"In the Carpathian mountains German and Austrian and Hungarian soldiers have been fighting shoulder to shoulder for some days past. We and our allies several times have been successful in this difficult, snow-covered, mountainous country."

Will Hold Autopsy.

Coroner C. F. McComb will hold an autopsy this afternoon over the body of Harry Hanson, woodsman, who died suddenly at the Cloquet Lumber company's camp, ten miles from Drummond, Minn., yesterday afternoon.

Reports from the camp indicate that Hanson was a victim of heart disease, as he is said to have dropped dead while at work. The body was brought to Duluth this morning and taken to the Crawford undertaking rooms. It is believed that Hanson has relatives in Duluth, although a search for them this morning was without result.

How to Cure Rheumatism.

Here is a prescription for rheumatism (to be mixed at home) used all over the U. S. for many years and said to be the surest known remedy; neutralizes acid in the blood and gives results after first dose: "One ounce of Toris compound and one ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of whiskey. Use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time." Get ingredients at any drug store. Genuine toris comes in one ounce sealed yellow packages.

Surest for Coughs and Colds.

Don't experiment on a bad cough or cold; it is very risky. The following formula, easily mixed at home, makes one of the surest and quickest cough and cold remedies obtainable, often curing the worst cough or cold in a day. Pine as medicine is as old as the Bible, but here is best form: "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine); add these to half pint of whiskey. Use a teaspoonful frequently as required. (Smaller doses to children.) Be sure to get the 'genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). It is put up only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in a screw-top can.

Frost Bites, Corns and Sore Feet.

Don't endure foot agony. Here is a remedy for quick results. It works through the pores, removing the cause: "Two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in warm foot bath." Gives instant relief for aching and sweaty feet; corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Specially effective for sore bunions, chilblains, and frost bites. A large box of Calocide twenty-five cents at any drug store.

WEATHER FINE FOR LOGGERS

Heavy Snows in Woods Prove Boon to Small Operators.

Conditions Best in Years; Sufficient Supply of Logs for Mills.

Logging conditions in the woods are now said to be the best known in years. Although there is not much snow in Duluth, it is said that the fall in the woods has been quite heavy and that this is very favorable to operators.

The snowfall has been particularly beneficial to the small companies, it is said. Many of the little companies cannot afford to put in an extensive system of ice roads, and this makes them dependent upon snow for moving the logs. For several years the snowfall has been light or has come at the wrong time of the year and has proved a serious handicap to operators. The snowfall this year in the woods has been quite heavy and has been uniformly distributed.

Most camps are said to be well supplied with men at present they say. While the number of men employed this season has not been as large as during many former years, it is expected that the output of timber will be good owing to the favorable weather conditions.

Three big sawmills are now in operation in Duluth, and it is said that there will be a sufficient number of logs to keep them busy for an indefinite period. The lumber market is uncertain at present because of war conditions, but the lumber dealers here are arranging to saw up a good supply while labor is cheap and plentiful and weather conditions are good. Lumbermen believe that there will be a big demand for building material when conditions adjust themselves and the market gets on a normal basis again. The general lull in building operations during the last season should prove a benefit to the market when the business revival gets into full swing, they believe.

Bouquet for Jens.

For the first time in many years Director Jens Flaaten of the Lyceum orchestra received a bouquet yesterday. It was a large cabbage head tied with a ribbon.

The "bouquet" was the result of the selection chosen for this week's musical program, to be played between the first and second acts of "Mary Jane's Pa" which is the play being offered this week by the Baldwin Players. The selection is entitled, "The Village Orchestra," and it is a good sample of broad comedy in music. The program carries the explanatory note that the Bangtown orchestra has been practicing for weeks for a concert which will give each member of the orchestra a chance to show his "best girl" what he can do. The result is fearful and wonderful. It has created gales of laughter and applause at every performance this week, and yesterday Manager Morrissey of the Lyceum theater decided that is was time Mr. Flaaten received some recognition. He prepared the "bouquet" and had one of the ushers hand it to Mr. Flaaten.

Mr. Flaaten is not the only one to receive a bouquet this week. Little Muriel Cole, the child actress who is playing the part of Mary Jane, has been the recipient of flowers, as has Marshall Haines, the high school boy who is playing the part of Llewellyn Green. Incidentally, "Mary Jane's Pa" promises to be the most successful play from a box office standpoint, that the Baldwin Players have presented during their winter engagement.

How It Feels to Be Hypnotized.

Pauline, demonstrating hypnotic suggestions at the Orpheum this week, seems to have started a fad in hypnotic subjects. At the opening performance he had to coax for several minutes to get an even dozen "subjects" on the stage upon which to make his demonstrations. Since then the circle has been growing larger and larger at each performance, and for the last two days he has been besieged by so many young men who just "want to try it once to see how it feels," that he has the stage crowded to capacity and is forced to dismiss some of them to give room for the rest of the performance. That Pauline uses them to provide huge enjoyment for the audience does not seem to daunt them in the least, as at every performance there is always a large waiting list to take the places of those who drop out of the circle on the stage.

"Little Nap, the most recent exponent of the Darwin theory, is to be one of the features of next week's vaudeville bill at the Orpheum. Little Nap is a Chimpanzee who does a complete vaudeville act unassisted, appearing on the stage alone and going through his entire act without the aid of a trainer. Other numbers of the next week's bill will be Dorothy Hoye, the double-voiced grand opera singer; Robert O'Connor & Co., in the one-act comedy drama, "The Stick Up Man;" Burdella Patterson in artistic poses, and Lew Hawkins, "Chesterfield of Minstrelsy."

New Bill at Grand.

An entirely new show containing some choice morsels of vaudeville will begin a week-end engagement at the popular New Grand this afternoon.

Heading the bill is Maleti Balconi, the celebrated European violin virtuoso. Miss Balconi's technique is remarkable and she is an artist every inch.

Dawson, Lanigan and Covert offer a diversion in singing, dancing and chatter. Original in their work, they offer a program as varied as it is clever.

One of the latest acts to score emphatically in vaudeville is the Three Millards. Their offering is the skit, "Zeke in Society," and it is of the kind to create an abundance of fun.

The Four Prevosts, comedy acrobats, with the accent on the comedy, present a laugh-compelling novelty, "Fun in a Turkish Bath." A laugh a second is the usual score they register.

Once again the Hearst-Selig News will project interesting views of strange happenings the world over.

Among the photoplays is the two-reel feature, "Life's Game," a story of love and politics; one of the Helen Holmes railroad stories, "The Broken Circuit," and a comedy, "Snakeville and the Corset Demonstrator."

At the Rex.

At the Rex theater tonight will be shown the five-part film version of "The Dancing Girl," by Henry Arthur Jones, which serves to introduce another popular stage favorite to the motion picture public. Florence Reed's success, "The Yellow Ticket," placed her among the greatest of the young American actresses of the present day. Miss Reed in "The Dancing Girl" portrays the part of Drusilla, the Quaker girl who later becomes London's greatest dancer, with considerable feeling and deftness.

With commendable discretion, the Famous players have dressed the production in all the lavish fashion for which their subjects are justly famous. The situations in the play permit of many impressive and massive settings, and those opportunities have been taken advantage of to the fullest mechanical extent. The assisting characterizations provided by the supporting cast are uniformly excellent, and the company as a whole has been discreetly and effectively selected.

CLOQUET BOYS NOW PLAN MOCK TRIAL.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Boys' 6 o'Clock council met in the high school last evening and after the usual 6 o'clock supper in the domestic science department, adjourned to the assembly room, where the following program was given: "The Boys' Council," Rev. Dr. Coolbaugh; "The Commission Form of City Government," Carl Westerburg; violin solo, William Syrala.

A mock trial is being arranged for the next meeting and Edwin Johnson has been summoned to appear before the council to answer to a charge of shortage of city funds. He was bound over to the "grand jury" and will be "indicted" and tried at the next meeting.

Horses sleep only three or four hours in each twenty-four.

Radium---The Secret of Hot Springs, Ark., Waters

The General Ideas Held Regarding These Springs Have Been Proven Correct

The Interior Department of the United States Government has demonstrated, under a report made by Prof. Bertram B. Boltwood of Yale College, that the waters of Hot Springs, Arkansas, are heavily charged with radio-active gas, "that all the springs on the United States Reservation are radio-active to a marked degree—"

Experience has demonstrated that the thousands of wonderful cures at this great Resort can be attributed to Radium, that the radio-active waters of the Arkansas Hot Springs stimulate cell activity, causing the system to throw off waste products.

These waters afford almost certain relief from Rheumatism, Gout, Malaria, Locomotor Ataxia (earlier stages), Bright's Disease (not too far advanced), Liver or Bladder trouble, Dyspepsia, Skin or Blood disease, Catarrhal trouble, Women's diseases, or any ailments of a kindred nature.

It must be understood, however, that this delightful place offers attractions for the pleasure-seeker that are second to no resort in America.

The springs being owned and controlled by the U. S. Government, every consideration is shown to visitors. The charge for baths is strictly regulated, the hotel rates are extremely reasonable, accommodations practically unsurpassed, and many attractions are offered. There are splendid tennis courts, a golf course of 18 holes that is one of the finest in the country, baseball fields, mountain drives, dancing and social activities constantly active.

Situated high in the mountains, the climate is ideal the year around. Winter golf is one feature offered, as it is seldom cold enough to interfere with outdoor sports.

Write and get full particulars, handsome souvenir booklets, views of the city and Government reports full of interest to you and your friends.

Cut out the coupon and mail it today.

H. E. Landre Passes Naval Examination; Goes to Norfolk.

H. E. Landre of Hunter's Park, who was accepted yesterday at the local naval recruiting station, considers himself remarkably fortunate. In a letter to Peter Coyle, recruiting officer here, he says that he passed both the physical and shipwright examinations yesterday afternoon at Minneapolis, and will leave tonight for Norfolk, Va. There he will go into training for six months before joining the navy.

Landre is only 22 years old, and in addition to getting $60 worth of clothes free and his naval training, will be in line for $33.60 a month salary and board when he completes his course. Positions in the United States navy are now in good demand.

JUDGING IS UNDER WAY

Winners in Seven Classes at Poultry Show Are Announced.

Two Ties and Several Close Contests for Premier Honors.

With two ties and several nip-and-tuck contests for premier honors in various classes, interest in the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association, being held at the Armory this week, was greater today than during any previous session.

Attendance records again were broken Wednesday, and at noon today officials predicted that this record would be exceeded by the Thursday total. Duluth entries have made an excellent showing so far, breaking into the blue ribbon and cash prize class several times.

Theodore Hollister, Duluth attorney, and F. D. W. Thias of Two Harbors, Minn., owners of the two largest entries, were leading for first honors this morning, although judges will be unable to determine the winners of the various cups and larger cash prizes until each class has been judged.

James A. Tucker of Lansing, Mich., judge, had passed upon the points of nearly all the birds this afternoon, and expected to complete his first survey tonight. When this is done the work of figuring the points won by the various entries will start.

In the Blue Andalusian cockerel class the Hollister birds are tied with birds from the Thias pens for first prize, and in one of the White Leghorn classes, Mrs. A. T. Johnson of Angus, Wis., is tied with entries from the Buhl Poultry farms, Buhl, Minn.

Mrs. John Wolf of Merrifield, N. D., won all of the prizes in the rose comb class White Leghorns, the Buhl Poultry farms leading in the single comb White Leghorn class.

Seven Classes Judged.

Awards have been made in seven classes, the Barred Plymouth Rock, Buff Plymouth Rock, White Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Reds, S. C. White Leghorns, R. C. White Leghorns and Buff Wyandottes.

In addition to Mr. Hollister, Duluth, contestants whose birds are making a strong showing, are: E. H. Conkey & Son, Dr. F. C. Lee, Miss Clarissa Mace, T. H. Cornell and J. W. Nelson.

H. J. Hammerback of Superior, Wis., is also making a good showing, already having won several ribbons.

The following is the list of prize winners, as announced by the judges today, addresses of all but Duluth entries being given:

R. C. White Leghorns—Entries of Mrs. John Merrifield, N. D., were awarded prizes in the different varieties of this class.

S. C. White Leghorns—Cocks: Buhl Poultry farms, first, third and fourth; H. J. Hammerbeck, Superior, second; Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, Crookston, Minn., fifth. Hens: Buhl Poultry farms, first, second, third; Theodore Hollister, Duluth, fourth and fifth. Cockerels: Buhl Poultry farms, first, second and fifth; J. H. Batson, third; H. J. Hammerbeck, Superior, fourth. Pullets: Buhl Poultry farms, first, second, third and fourth; Mrs. A. T. Johnson, Angus, Wis., fifth. Pen: Buhl Poultry farms, first and second.

Buff Wyandottes—Cocks: George K. McDonald, first and second; F. D. W. Thias, Two Harbors, third. Hens: George K. McDonald, first and third; F. D. W. Thias, second, fourth and fifth. Cockerels: F. D. W. Thias, first and fifth; George K. McDonald, second, third and fourth. Pullets: George K. McDonald, first, second and third; F. D. W. Thias, fourth and fifth. Pen: George K. McDonald, first; F. D. W. Thias, second.

Barred Plymouth Rock: Cock, Theodore Hollister, first and Clarissa E. Mace, third; cockerel, James J. WANTS $1,030 FOR A BEATING Street Car Conductor Says Passenger Was Disorderly and Profane.

Carl Jannett wants the Duluth Street Railway company to pay him $1,030 damages for a beating which he says he took from Bert Moorer, conductor, on a Duluth-Superior car on Nov. 16, 1914. To this the traction company demurs claiming that Jannett started the fuss and brought the trouble upon himself.

The question of who started the fight and what damages, if any, Jannett is entitled to receive from the street railway company will be submitted to a district court jury. The case was called for trial yesterday afternoon before Judge Ensign.

Jannett's story is that while he was a passenger on a Duluth-bound interurban car, the conductor stepped on his foot, shoved him about and then assaulted him with a steel punch inflicting three cuts on his head and making it necessary for him to take to his bed for three days.

Moorer, as a witness for the company, this morning had a different version. He claimed that Jannett came into the car with a lighted cigar in his mouth and that he violated another rule when he expectorated on the floor. When he cautioned Jannett, he said, the latter insulted and struck him.

Another witness, a bystander, declared that before the mixup took place, Jannett passed an insulting remark about a woman who alighted from the car and that he was using profanity. Jannett denies that he was using profanity but admits that he might have spoken louder than usual after he had been pounded on the head by the conductor's steel punch.

Thomas S. Wood appears in the case as attorney for the street railway and G. A. E. Finlayson is representing the plaintiff.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE?

When your kidneys are weak and torpid they do not properly perform their functions; your back aches and you do not feel like doing much of anything. You are likely to be despondent and to borrow trouble, just as if you hadn't enough already. Don't be a victim any longer.

The old reliable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, gives strength and tone to the kidneys and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar combination of roots, barks and herbs. No other medicine acts like it, because no other medicine has the same formula or ingredients. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's, and get it today.

CARUSO CARICATURES NOTED YOUNG TENOR

MARTINELLE AS LEFEBVRE.

Giovanni Martinelli looks like this to Enrico Caruso when he sings the part of Lefebvre in the new opera "Madame Sans Gene," which is now at the Metropolitan opera house, New York. Lefebvre is the sergeant, who is made a duke by Napoleon. Martinelli is one of the younger members of the Metropolitan company.

GIVES SNAKE TO THE COMMISSIONER.

When Commissioner Hicken returns tomorrow morning from Warba, Minn., where he went to see his son, who is ill, and enters his office for the business of the day, he will see a big stuffed snake.

A real snake—of the stuffed variety—was presented to him this morning by Capt. Mann of West Duluth, and Secretary Trux has placed the reptile in a box alongside Commissioner Hicken's desk, where he can't miss it on entering his office tomorrow.

The snake was recently killed in West Duluth and was stuffed by the donor.

CO-OPERATION IN FRAMING LAWS URGED BY PRESIDENT

Business Men and Government Should Get Together for Common Good.

Executive Gives Able Address on Needs of Present Day.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Co-operation between business and the government in framing laws for the benefit of all the people, was urged by President Wilson in an address last night before several hundred representatives of business men here attending the convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States. He said, "we must all pool our interests" in order to discover the best means for handling public problems.

The creation in the United States in time of peace of the same kind of united spirit which moves nations during war, was advocated by the president, who remarked that when peace is as handsome as war, there will be no war," and "when men engage in the pursuits of peace in the same spirit of self-sacrifice as they engage in war, wars will disappear."

The president predicted that, while there is a shortage of food in the world no w,the shortage will be much greater later. He pointed out that under the guidance of the department of agriculture, efforts must be made by farmers in the United States to grow more and more grain in order that the world may be fed.

Foreign Trade.

Speaking of the foreign trade of the United States, the president asked that business men devise some way of allowing exporters in the United States to combine to secure common selling agencies and to give long time credits in such a way that these co-operative devices may be open to the use of all. He declared that apparently the anti-trust laws prohibited such combinations now, but that he would favor a change, if a method fair to all could be found. He spoke of the work being done by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in "surveying the world" for the benefit of all business men. Business men themselves are to blame if intelligent laws affecting them are not framed, the president asserted. He asserted that they should come out into the open and use their knowledge of conditions to bring about fair laws to prevent business evils.

The Mexican question was mentioned by Mr. Wilson as an example of the difficulty he had in getting accurate information.

Would Be as One of Them.

"I would prefer that you receive me as if for the time being I were one of your own number," said the president, "because the longer I occupy the office I now hold, the more I regret any lines of separation; the more I deplore any feeling that one set of men has one set of interests and another set of men has another set of interests; the more I feel the solidarity of the nation, the impossibility of separating one interest from another without misconceiving it, the necessity that we should all understand one another in order that we may understand ourselves.

"We often speak of a man who cannot find his way in some jungle or some desert as having lost himself. Did you never reflect that that is the only thing he has not lost? He is there; he has lost the rest of the world. He has no fixed point by which to steer. He does not know which is north, south, east or west and, if he did know, he is so confused that he would not know in which of those directions his goal lay; and therefore, following his heart, he walks in a great circle from right to left and comes back to where he started to himself again.

"To my mind it is a picture of the world. If you have lost other interests and do not know the relation of your own interests to those other interests, then you do not understand your own interests and have lost yours. What you want is orientation, relationship to the points of the compass, relationship to the other people in the world; vital connections which have for the time being been severed. And so I am particularly glad to express my admiration for the kind of organization which you have drawn together.

"I have attended banquets of chambers of commerce in various parts of the country and have got the impression at each of those banquets that there was only one city in the country. If I may be permitted to say so, they were intended to boost something in particular.

"The advantage about a chamber of commerce of the United States is that there is only one way to boost the United States and that is by seeing to it that the conditions under which business is done throughout the country are the best possible conditions. There cannot be any disproportion about that. If you draw your sap and your vitality from all quarters, then the more sap and vitality there is in you, the more there is in the commonwealth as a whole, and every time you lift at all, you lift the whole level of manufacturing and mercantile enterprise.

"Moreover, the advantage of it is that you cannot boost the United States in that way without understanding the United States.

Cannot Lie Consistently.

"No man can lie consistently, and he canot lie about everything if he talks to you long. I would guarantee that if enough liars talked to you, you would get the truth.

"I had somewhat that experience about Mexico and that was about the only way in which I learned anything that was so, for there have been vivid imaginations and many special interests which have depicted things as they wished me to believe them to be.

"Now, seriously, the task of this body is to match all the facts of business throughout the country and see the vast and consistent pattern of them. That is the reason—and I think you are to be congratulated upon the fact—that you cannot do this thing without common council.

"I have asked myself, before I came here tonight what relation you could bear to the government of the United States and what relation the government could bear to you. There are two aspects and activities of the government with which you will naturally come into most direct contact.

"The first is the government's power of inquiry—systematic and disinterested inquiry—and its power of scientific assistance. You get an illustration of the latter, for example, in the department of agriculture. Has it occurred to you, I wonder, that we are just upon the eve of a time when the department of agriculture will be of infinite importance to the whole world?

"There is a shortage of food in this world now. That shortage will be more serious a few months from now than it is now. It is necessary we should plant a great deal more. It is necessary that our land should yield more per acre than it does now. It is necessary there should not be a plow or a spade idle in this country if the world is to be fed; and the methods of our farmers must feed upon the scientific information to be derived from the state departments of agriculture and from that tap root of all, the United States department of agriculture.

Other Ways Also.

"But there are older ways of using the government of the United States. You can use the government of the United States by influencing its legislation. That has been a very active industry, but it has not always been managed in the interest of the whole people.

"Men on the inside of business know how business is conducted and they cannot complain if men on the outside make mistakes about business, if they do not come from the outside and give the kind of advice which is necessary. The trouble in the past has generally been that they came on to see what they could accomplish, but what they could prevent. They did not come to guide, but they came to block, and that is of no use whatever to the general body politic.

"What has to persuade us like a great motive power is that we cannot and must not separate our interests from one another, but must pool our interests.

"There is one thing about war which has a very splendid side, and that is the consciousness that a whole nation gets, that they must all act as a unit, for the nation; and when peace is as handsome as war, there will be no war. When men, I mean, engage in the pursuits of peace in the same spirit of self-sacrifice and of conscious service for the community with which, at any rate, the common soldier engages in war, then shall there be wars no more.

Asks for Advice.

"There is a specific matter about which I, for one, want your advice. What I am thinking of is competition in foreign markets as between the merchants of different nations.

"I speak of the subject with a certain degree of hesitation, because the thing farthest from my thought is taking advantage of nations now disabled from playing the full part in that connection, and seeking a sudden selfish advantage because they are, for the time being, disabled. Pray believe me, that we ought to eliminate all that thought from our minds and consider this matter as if we and the other nations of the world were in the normal circumstances of commerce. There is a normal circumstance of commerce in which we are apparently at a disadvantage.

"The anti-trust laws of the United States apparently make it illegal for merchants in the United States to form combinations for the purpose of strengthening themselves in taking advantage of the opportunities of foreign competition.

"What I would like very much to be shown, is a method of co-operation which is not a method of combination. I want to know how these co-operative methods can be adopted for the benefit of every body who wants to use them, and I say frankly if I can be shown that, I am for them.

Hopes to Be Shown.

"If I cannot be shown that, I am against them, and I hasten to add that I hopefully expect that I can be shown."

Experience has taught him, the president said, not to dominate any conference called to get the best solution of a problem, because "common counsel" always brings the best results.

"Many minds are necessary to compound a workable method of life in a various and populous country," he said.

"It is a splendid thing to be part of a great wide-awake nation; it is a splendid thing to know that your own strength is infinitely multiplied by the strength of other men who love the country; it is a splendid thing to feel that the wholesome blood of a great country can be united in a common purpose, and that by frankly looking one another in the face and taking counsel with one another, prejudices will drop away and handsome understandings will arise and a universal spirit of service will be engendered and, with this increased sense of community of purpose, will come a vastly enhanced individual power of achievement, for we will be elevated by the whole mass of which we constitute a part."

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elmwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Miss "Constance" asks: "I am very thin and bloodless and want to increase my weight about 30 pounds. Please tell me what method to pursue."

Answer: A regular and persistent use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will usually produce an increase of weight by aiding nutrition and building up the flesh tissues. Scores of patients have reported increases of from 10 to 40 pounds from the use of these tablets. Full directions come with each sealed package.

Mrs. X. asks: "My scalp itches terribly, is feverish and a great amount of oily dandruff is present. What is good for this?"

Answer: First shampoo the hair and then apply plain yellow minyol about once a week as per directions. This relieves the itching, overcomes the dandruff and makes the hair beautifully glossy and vigorous. Obtain in 4 oz. jars of druggists.

Mabel R. writes: "Both my husband and I suffer all the time from stomach trouble. Nothing we eat seems to digest properly. Neither of us can ever get any enjoyment from our meals and we are drowsy and then again at bedtime we are sleepless. Please prescribe for us."

Answer: Dyspepsia, indigestion, sluggish liver and costive bowels with symptoms like yours are best conquered by a good aid and tonic for the functional organs. I advise the new treatment known as "double-four stomach and bowel medicine," as the best for such conditions. Almost immediate relief and permanent benefits follow its use. Sold by druggists in sealed packets with directions complete.

Mrs. "Annie R." writes: "My husband is surely afflicted with some kidney disease. He has become weak and suffers with headache and pains in his back and groins. Pains are like rheumatism. His ankles swell and his feet seem to be tired all the time. Some days he has chills and no appetite. Please prescribe."

Answer: The symptoms indicate derangement of kidneys and should not be neglected. I would advise balmwort tablets, a compound well suited to such cases. Obtain in sealed tubes with directions for home use.

"Old Soldier" writes: "I would like to know what to do for rheumatism, as I am so crippled that I cannot walk. Please answer at once."

Answer: Here is the best remedy for rheumatism that is known, and if taken according to directions you will soon be out again and be strong and well. Get 2 drams of iodide of potassium; 4 drams sodium salicylate, ½ oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort and 5 ozs. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

C. O. C. asks: "I am constipated, tongue coated, have headache, dizzy spells and indigestion sometimes. Please advise?"

Answer: I advise that you begin using three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur.) These tablets are laxative, act on the liver, kidneys and bowels and tend to keep the blood pure, by arousing the eliminative functions. Relief should follow quickly.

"Secretary" writes: "I have pains in my spine and frightful headache in back of head, fainting spells, twitching and trembling, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and strength, and in fact am a 'has been,' when it comes to performing accustomed work and duties. Please advise."

Answer: In all such cases the assimilative functions have not kept pace with waste functions and a powerful, harmless tonic treatment is needed. I find three-grain cadomene tablets unexcelled and astonishingly beneficial in such cases and advise them for you.

Mrs. C. W. B. asks: "I suffer greatly owing to too much fat. Can you advise me of a good reduction remedy?"

Answer: Any well stocked pharmacy can supply you with 5-grain arbolone tablets, packed in sealed tubes with full directions for use. These tablets have proven wonderfully effective in reducing abnormal fat.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you should be well relieved by using the following: Get a 2½-oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene, have him order it for you of the wholesale firm.

Mrs. D. E. B. ask: "Will you please give me a prescription for Pelvic catarrh and catarrh of the head?"

Answer: The very best local treatment for the relief and correction of catarrh is antiseptic Vilane Powder. Obtain either a two or eight ounce package and with it you will find complete directions for treating catarrh of the head and pelvic catarrh (leucorrhea). It is an antiseptic of the very highest quality.—Advertisement.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

JACK TAR GIVEN MARKET DELICACIES

The high cost of living doesn't touch the sailor aboard one of Uncle Sam's battleships. It doesn't matter whether turkey gobblers are selling for 25 or 10 cents a pound, and pumpkin pie, salads and other delicacies such as sea foods and hothouse products are served to Jack Tar for special occasions. Peter Coyle, local naval recruiting officer, has just received a letter from on board the U. S. S. Scorpion, which was recently at Constantinople, giving the menu for Thanksgiving dinner.

This dinner, as all others on a battleship, was approved by the official food tester before being eaten by the men. The deck officer fills this important position and is given samples of each dish before it is served. The Thanksgiving menu follows:

Tomato Soup
Olives Celery Radishes
Roast Turkey
Oyster Dressing Giblet Gravy
Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Spiced Ham
Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Fruit Cake
Pumpkin Pie Mince Pie
Mixed Nuts
Fresh Grapes Apples
Coffee.

"BETAS" GATHER FOR ANNUAL DINNER

Members of College Fraternity Have Banquet and Attend Theater.

Gathered under their "wooglin," members of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity last night at the Spalding hotel held their first dinner of the year. P. S. Anneke, 1801 East Second street, was the guest of the evening.

Graduates of various colleges in the United States, now living in Duluth, who became members of this fraternity while on "the campus," sang their old songs and talked over old times. Following the dinner there was an informal business meeting, during which the matter of a permanent organization of Head of the Lakes alumni was discussed. At 8:30 o'clock the diners adjourned to attend the evening performance at the Lyceum theater.

Among those present were: R. F. McDougal, Minnesota, '06; W. F. Eberhardt, Bowdoin, '13; Philip Ray, Minnesota, '12; George W. Morgan, Minnesota, '05; Victor Anneke, Cornell, '16; Jesse Becher, Nebraska, '94; Frank Falk, Cornell; Thomas Miller, Brown, '08; Fred Hargreaves, Cornell, '89; Wilbur Joyce, Minnesota; Henry O. Lee, Minnesota, '13; Robert A. Angst, Minnesota, '98; Lawrence Davis, Bowdoin, '11, and A. K. Smith, Iowa Wesleyan, '80 of Superior.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GETS SETBACK IN ARKANSAS.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 4.—Because the state Constitution forbids the submission of more than three proposed amendments to the Constitution at any election, women suffrage yesterday suffered a setback of two years more until it can go before the people for settlement.

Three amendments already asked to be submitted to the people are: Providing a state board tax; providing for raising of school tax levies, and an act to amend the initiative and referendum amendment.

First Dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" Relieves All Grippe Misery.

Don't stay stuffed up!

Quit blowing and snuffling! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

"Pape's Cold Compound" is the quickest, surest relief known and costs only 25 cents at drug stores. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Don't accept a substitute.

BUSINESS IS MORE ACTIVE

Jobbers Consider Trade Over Northwest Good for the Season.

Advancing Price Tendency Is Being Shown in Many Lines.

No special developments are reported by Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers during the last week. Generally speaking trade is considered to be rounding up satisfactorily for the season. In some lines in which advances in quotations are expected, a disposition is being shown by retailers to anticipate requirements somewhat, but on the whole a conservative policy in placing orders is being pursued.

Sales managers of the various houses are looking forward to a substantial business revival up this way in the spring in view of the greatly increased acreage likely to be placed under crop in the West.

Grocery Trade Normal.

Normal trade for the season in groceries was reported by the Barthe-Martin company of this city, and the Twohy-Elmon Mercantile company of Superior. Comparatively few price changes in the list of staples have come about during the week. Sugars have been advanced 10 points, with New York jobbers quoting 5.25 cents for cane. This is due to the firmness in raw sugars as a result of delays in the marketing of the Cuban product. Coffees are weak, following the development of some liquidation in the East and heavy offerings in both Rios and Santos.

Quotations in canned and dried fruits and vegetables are easy in most directions, caused by stocks being generally large and efforts to unload on the part of some of the heaviest holders. Prunes are, however, firm with a strong demand being met with for them.

Flour and all cereals are advancing steadily, quotations in most lines being at the highest range in several years. That is especially the case in oatmeal following the recent bulges in the oats market. Flour is climbing, and jobbers express themselves as much exercised regarding where it is all going to end.

Drygoods Business Satisfactory.

P. A. Patrick & Co. advised a satisfactory trade in drygoods lines in the agricultural sections of the country with business, however, still below the mark in the mining and industrial districts throughout the territory being covered. Satisfaction was expressed over the development of the house's trade in Patricks as a result of the selling campaign instituted a few weeks ago. A special feature commented upon was the expansion of sales in those lines in New York, Boston and some of the other Eastern centers.

Hardware Market Strong.

Hardware trade is good for the season, according to the Kelley-How-Thomson company and the Marshall-Wells Hardware company. The market was advised to be strong in most iron and steel products. Announcement of an advance of a ton in nails and wire is expected any day now, rumors to that effect having gone out from the mills.

On account of the abnormal situation in the spelter market with the product hovering around the 8-cent a pound mark, it is figured out that the difference between black and galvanized sheets should be $1.45 instead of at its present basis of $1.10. An advance of 25 or 35 points in galvanized sheets is therefore regarded as inevitable. Trade in shelf hardware is said to be especially good at the present.

Shoe Sales Picking Up.

"Our salesmen tell us that sentiment is much more cheerful over the West than it had been, and that is being evidenced in better bookings," said F. E. Church, sales manager of the Northern Shoe company. The cold weather and snow of the last two months has enabled retailers to clean up their stocks of overshoes and heavy footwear much more closely than in some seasons back, and they are therefore showing a disposition to place orders more freely.

Furniture Styles Unchanged.

H. F. Seitz of the De Witt-Seitz company has just returned from a round-up of the furniture markets, during which he visited Chicago, Grand Rapids, Mich., Cheboygan, Wis., Milwaukee, New York and other points. He met buyers from all over the country and found them to entertain hopeful views regarding the future course of business. Furniture styles in standard goods, for the new season, show no startling changes, he said. The tendency is all in the direction of simplicity and the elimination of "gingerbread." Jacobin dining room furniture will be good, and fumed oak will retain its place for dens and cosy rooms during the year.

FOOTPADS FAIL TO OBTAIN LOOT

Three Men Attack Martin Johnson; Scared Away By Street Car.

Three footpads waylaid Martin Johnson, 1907 West Superior street, as he was on his way home about 11:30 o'clock last night, but were frightened away by the approach of a street car before they could relieve him of any of his valuables, and made good their escape.

Springing from the shadows of a building between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues west and Michigan street, the three would-be robbers hurled themselves upon Johnson, as he passed and had little trouble in overpowering him. Seeing the approach of a car, one of the thieves cried "Beat it, a street car!" and the trio dodged out of sight around the buildings.

Johnson was unable to furnish a good description of his assailants. He reported the incident to Patrolman V. G. Fagerberg, whom he encountered a few blocks farther on.

ANNOUNCES FACULTY FOR SHORT COURSE

Well-Known Specialists Will Give Lectures to Farmers.

The faculty list for the short course work, which will be offered at the Northeastern Minnesota experiment station, was announced yesterday by M. J. Thompson, superintendent. It is as follows: Andrew Boss, farm management; S. E. Brown, agronomy-potatoes; O. I. Berg, agronomy; A. B. Hostetter, potatoes; C. P. Bull, plant breeding; George P. Grout, dairy husbandry; E. P. Gibson, home creamery; Francis Jager, bees; H. G. Larson, dairy husbandry; W. A. McKerrow, beef cattle, hogs; R. S. McIntosh, fruit and garden; J. S. Montgomery, horses; T. G. Paterson, sheep, meats; W. L. Oswald, seed testing, weeds; A. C. Smith, poultry; N. E. Chapman, poultry; E. Y. Reynolds, veterinary.

Programs for the short course will be ready about Feb. 15. In addition to the faculty list above mentioned, a number of local men and agricultural specialists along certain lines are expected to take part on the program. One of the features of the affair will be the "farmers' club and county agents' day."

The short course begins March 8 and continues through March 20.

GHOST WILL WALK.

City Payroll Will Not Be Held Up as Was Feared.

Tomorrow morning the "ghost will walk" in the city hall.

All department heads filed their annual reports on time this year, City Auditor E. J. Campbell said this morning, and the salaries will therefore be paid as usual. According to the charter, if the reports are not in by Feb. 1, the payroll of that department is suspended and held up until the report is filed.

This morning the members of the commission held a short meeting, during which they passed the payrolls.

SINCE TAKING PERUNA

I can say my bowels are much more regular. My heart is stronger. My appetite is much better. My throat is much better.

Mrs. William H. Hinchliffe, 20 Myrtle St., Beverly, Mass., writes: "I have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said for Peruna."

Those who object to fluid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

Woman's Realm

Scene—Curling rink.
Time—This winter.
Characters—Girl.
Her escort.

Girl and her escort enter just as bell rings for beginning of play. They wrap themselves in a steamer rug, and the girl surreptitiously brings a small piece of gum from her cheek and begins cautious operations. Escort looks around in worried manner, and decides not to light the cigar he carries.

The puck is "faced off."

GIRL—"I hope it won't be a rough game. I hate to see them fighting."

ESCORT—"It is hard on the game. People won't come to see a lot of hockey players wrangling over decisions. Over in Canada they won't stand for this rough play. They fine the players over there. When a man has been fined twice—. Oh have a heart, Frank. Have a heart. He wasn't off side by a mile."

GIRL—"I think it's silly to call off side. Just when the game gets exciting, the referee rings his silly little bell, and stops the game. I think they'd get along much better without a referee."

ESCORT—"Back in Canada they used to play the game so you could skate a man on side. This made fewer offsides, and made the game faster—Wow, did you see that Canuck trip Mahan? He wouldn't dare pull that stuff with Joe."

GIRL—"I love to see Joe start from behind the goal and come tearing down the ice."

ESCORT—"There he comes now. 'At a boy, Joe. 'At a boy."

GIRL—"O-h-h-h-h."

ESCORT—"Look at them slash. Play the puck, you rowdies, play the puck. What do you think this is, a European war?"

GIRL—"Did you see that point hit Joe with his stick?"

ESCORT—"Joe 'll get him."

GIRL—"I hope he does. He deserves it. He deliberately hit Joe."

ESCORT—"Snappy work, Russ. Snappy work. Don't let that big Canuck hand you anything."

GIRL—"I think Barkell is awfully good looking."

ESCORT—"Some kid, all right. He's some kid with a hockey stick. Pretty shot, Mohan. None of them have anything on that boy when it comes to speed. I'd like to see him up against Hans Baker."

GIRL—"Oh-h-h-h-h."

ESCORT—"I thought they had us that time. Get back in your goal, man. Get back in your goal. Lord, that man's never in his goal."

GIRL—"I'd hate to be a goal tender. You just stand there and let them shoot at you and don't get any credit."

ESCORT—"Don't take any of that rough stuff from him, Bogan. Never mind, it was worth two minutes to get him. We can beat them with six men."

GIRL—"I don't think that was fair at all. He hit Bogan first, and Bogan was perfectly right to hit him back."

ESCORT—"Well, I wouldn't say he hit Bogan first but he looked as if he might be going to. Ah-ha. Frank saw that big cover-point body checking at last, eh? Three minutes for you, boy. Three minutes for you. You can't get away with any dirty hockey over here."

GIRL—"Oh, dear."

ESCORT—"Too bad. That was a fluke, boys. Never mind that. We'll get that one back quick enough."

GIRL—"No wonder they can score, when they are so rough."

ESCORT—"Watch us this time. I'm asking you, watch us this time. See that? Just getting started. That's the old team-work, Arnie. That's playing the game. Wow-ow-ow-ow-ow-ow! Evened her up."

GIRL—"Who scored that one?"

ESCORT—"I don't know. Mohan, I think, or Barkell. Popped it right in from the scrimmage. Those boys are there."

GIRL—"Good. I'm glad that big brute was hit. He deserved it. I don't like to see a rough game, but when the other side is so rough, you have to be rough. You can't expect our boys to just stand still and let them hit us."

ESCORT—"He was lookin for it all right, and he got it and got it good. That's the way, boys."

SOCIETY GIRL WILL BE NURSE IN FRANCE

MISS KATHERINE BRITTON.

Miss Katherine Britton, a young society girl of Washington, will accompany Miss Nona McAdoo to Europe to do Red Cross work. Alexander Britton, her father, is one of the best known business men at the capital. He says that the two young women intend to go to London to join Mrs. Hope Nelson, another American, and go with her to a nursing station in the south of France. Both of them have been taking a course in nursing. Miss Britton speaks French fluently.

backed by "overwhelming public sentiment," are trying to eliminate all rough play from hockey games, "so women may enjoy them." This may explain why progress seems slow.

CHOCOLATE POPULAR.

Incas of Peru Cultivated Bean Centuries Before Conquest.

Washington Star: "In every civilized country of the world the dark brown cake of commercial chocolate is known. Wherever candies and confections delight the appetite for sweets of many adults and practically all of the children of all nations the chocolate-coated bonbon is a favorite. Chocolate has become both food and drink in many lands, but, of the millions who now use it, comparatively few know that it is made from a bean which grows on a beautiful tropical tree," writes Edward Albes in the bulletin of the Pan-American Union. Still, it is quite an old story, this drinking of chocolate, cocoa, or cacao, as the authorities point out in his story. Columbus is said to have introduced the delightful drink into Europe, for cacao is indigenous to the tropical regions of the Americas, and prior to the discovery of the Western world it was unknown elsewhere.

Chocolate, as it was known by the Aztecs of Mexico, formed the favorite beverage of the luxurious Montezuma, no less than fifty jars being prepared for that monarch's daily consumption. The Incas of Peru cultivated great fields of cacao, and the concoction made from the bean had been in use among them for centuries before the Spanish conquest. So the story of cacao is rather old in the "New" world and a little more than 400 years young in the "Old."

Theobroma cacao is the scientific name of the tree, and it means "food for the gods!" It is found most plentifully in Ecuador, Brazil, Trinidad, Venezuela, and the Dominican Republic. It grows to a height of 16 or 18 feet when cultivated. The fruit is a pod shaped like a cucumber, from 7 to 10 inches long, and from 3 to 4 inches in diameter, has a thick leathery rind, and its interior is divided into five long cells, in each of which is a row of from 5 to 10 seeds, imbedded in a soft pink pulp. These seeds, which look much like thick almonds, are the cacao beans of commerce.

The picking on large plantations generally takes place twice a year, although there are no regular seasons, the trees frequently having buds, flowers and fully ripened pods on them at the same time. The pods, which grow directly out of the trunk, as well as from the limbs, are cut off with a specially designed instrument, known as a cacao "picker," a sharp V-shaped blade attached to a long pole, and so constructed that each pod may be cut from the tree by skilled workmen without damaging either the other pods or the limbs of the tree. The severed pods are gathered in heaps and left lying on the ground for a day or two before being opened and the beans extracted or shelled. After the acid juice and pulp has been removed, the beans are assorted, according to size and state of ripeness, and then taken to the "sweating boxes." These are made of wood, are cubic in form, and from 3 to 4 feet each way in size. They are provided with a grating at the base, through which the liquid products of fermentation can pass away. The beans are placed in these receptacles and allowed to ferment for several days, and then taken out and dried either by the natural agency of the sun or by the mechanical means of hot-air blasts. They then are ready for the market.

RAISE $500 FOR WORK SHOP

Card Party Given By King's Daughters for Red Cross Fund Is Social and Financial Success.

The auction bridge party given yesterday afternoon at the Spalding hotel for the Red Cross work shop fund, was attended by 268 women from all parts of the city who were joined at the luncheon hour by about thirty women who do not play the game.

G. W. Reynolds, manager of the hotel, donated the use of the ballroom and made possible the clearing of $500 for the work shop.

There was a large red cross in the center of each table, red crosses ornamented the white score cards and the prizes were wrapped in white, each package being brightened by a large cross.

In keeping with the Red Cross idea were the bugle calls that gave the signal for the game to begin and called for attention when the winners of the prizes were announced. The scorekeepers and judges were: Mrs. W. J. Olcott, Mrs. Percy M. Shaw, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Cotton and Mrs. C. W. Andrews.

Prize Winners.

The prize winners, prizes and donors were: Mrs. Carl F. Rowe, six silver bonbon dishes, donated by C. H. Bagley; Miss Frances Nesbitt, one dozen Madeira tea napkins, George A. Gray company; Mrs. F. CLUB NEWS FROM OTHER CITIES

Atlanta Women to Rescue of Birds—Portland Women Studying Exceptional Children—Garden Work in Augusta—Cooking School for Denver Working Girls.

Through the co-operation of the school children, the Burroughs Nature club of Atlanta is carrying on a campaign to help the birds in and around that city. Last Saturday Dr. H. J. R. Le Loach, head of the state agricultural experiment station, gave a practical lesson on the making of birdhouses at one of the schools.

The club has offered four prizes to the school boys and girls of Atlanta and Fulton county for the best bird boxes. The prizes will be awarded Saturday, April 3, John Burroughs' birthday, and the boxes will be put in position the same day. Later prizes will be offered for the largest number of houses occupied by birds other than English sparrows.

In order to stimulate interest in the preservation of bird and plant life, members of the club visited fifteen of the Fulton county schools last week and made short talks to the pupils.

At the last meeting of the Portland, Or., branch of the National Association for the Study of Exceptional Children, principals of the various schools of the city reported in person or in writing on the children of marked ability, who had come under their observation. It was shown it would be necessary to classify talent under the following heads: Originality, mechanical skill, handicraft, oratory, cooking, drawing, language, mathematics, composition, music, nature study, humor, dramatization and leadership. One of the meetings this month will be devoted to music, and children will have an opportunity to display their musical ability.

The conservation department of the Woman's club of Augusta, Ga., has a plan that will help many persons in their garden work and make a more beautiful city. Those who have a surplus of plants are asked to send them to the home of a member of the department, and those who wish plants are asked to give their names, addresses and the kinds and quantity of plants desired on a postcard sent to the same member who will conduct the plant exchange. It is thought a central bureau and special days for reception and distribution may be necessary later in the season. The committee expects to give with the plants directions for planting, suggestions regarding soil, drainage and cultivation and other advice for successful and artistic gardening.

To start the ball rolling the chairman of the conservation department says in her notice: "I would like to secure some Shasta daisies. Who has some to spare? I have more rudbeckia, golden glow, than I can possibly use and will be glad to donate two dozen plants to the committee. Just let me know when it is wanted."

The free cooking school for working girls that was organized last April under the auspices of the social science department of the Woman's club of Denver has increased steadily in interest and numbers and is turning out good cooks. It and the free employment bureau go hand in hand and each is necessary to the other.

Mrs. Le Roy Baker, who is in charge of the school, says she has no trouble placing girls, who have taken the course, in good homes, as almost every woman who applies to the school for help says, "Send me a good cook."

The social science department of the club is proud of its philanthropic work, as it trains incompetent girls, who would drift from place to place, into reliable workers with steady employment.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Male Friendship More Binding.

Is it at all a matter of astonishment that the friendships between women, and of women for the opposite sex are held so lightly in the main and are made the butt of seething ridicule by paragraphers wherever men and women are known?

Women who pretend to have the truest friendship and love for one another do not scruple behind each other's back to do their level best by remarks that are not only spiteful but are often possessed of a double meaning to work real injury to those discussed. And when a quarrel separates them or disgrace and trouble threatens one or the other, how ready some of them are to forget that they came by a part of their knowledge through accident, part through trusted confidence and the rest by hearsay.

Would it not be kinder, safer and more womanly to refrain from repeating what other people say when their friend or enemy, as the case may be, is in trouble of any kind. It must strike a chill to the hearts of those assembled in a courtroom to hear one woman divulge the secrets that have been entrusted to her in confidence, under happier circumstances, by another, and in the next breath prate of friendship.

The average woman seems utterly lacking in that pride in her own sex and the determination to stand by and see any member through to the bitter end, that is characteristic of men. I have known men who were wholly truthful themselves to tell great lies to cover up the weaknesses of one of their kind or to protect him from some untoward circumstances that confronted him and to stick to it like grim death, too. Men do not, when a difference arises with some one of their friends, immediately seek redress and satisfaction by repeating all that they know or think that they know to the discredit of a party with a view to getting even. Men are not as a class prone to simulate friendship, when none exists.

But women do both things and more. They lie about each other, but not for each other. If they have a quarrel their promises to hold certain confidences sacred are as naught and everyone of us knows at least a half a dozen women who will kiss us on the cheek and tear our reputation to shreds once we are out of hearing.

Men are the true exponents of friendship, and it is one of the greatest things that women can learn from them.

CECILIAN SOCIETY MEETS.

Mrs. Ostergren Discusses Russian Composers Since Glinka.

Russian composers and Russian music occupied the attention of the members of the Cecilian society at the meeting held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. K. Elliott, 2231 West Third street.

Mrs. K. A. Ostergren spoke on "The Russian School of Musicians After Glinka," taking up the musicians in groups. The old lyric composers who were associated with Glinka were followed by the nationalist group that took Russian subjects for operas and laid stress on the folk songs of the country. About 1908 the nationalist idea waned and the music of Russia became cosmopolitan with a strong leaning toward the modern French school. Mrs. Ostergren took up Rubenstein and Tschaikowsky, whom she characterized as world-wide composers who are in a group by themselves. The works of the various musicians mentioned and their influence on music in Russia were features of the talk.

Mrs. Bruce Ter Bush gave a cello selection and Miss Emily Smith a violin selection from Glinka's opera, "A Life for the Czar." Other Glinka numbers were a vocal solo by Mrs. Homer Anderson and a trio by Mrs. Ter Bush, Miss Smith and Mrs. H. C. Strong.

Miss Winnifred Hicks gave a bercause by Karganoff, Miss Clara Stocker sang "Lonely Song" by Palmgren and "Song of Autumn" by Gretschaninow, and Miss Gladys Reynolds sang a lullaby by Wapprannik, with cello obligato by Mrs. Ter Bush.

Mrs. S. P. Stocker and Mrs. Strong were the accompanists.

Victor Anneke will leave Monday for New Orleans, and will proceed to San Francisco by way of Panama. He will return to Duluth in the late spring or early summer.

Miss Ada Kallen of New York, who has been a guest of her sister, Mrs. C. D. Jacobs, 1429 London road, since last July, left this afternoon for Chicago, where she will visit with relatives for several days before returning to her home. During the last two weeks Miss Kallen was honored with numerous affairs given by her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillon, 419 Eighteenth avenue east, have left for Two Harbors, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Gillon for a week.

THOSE VACANT LOTS AGAIN.

How about that vacant lot this year? Are you going to build on it? No? Going to use it for something else, perhaps. No? Then here's a suggestion: Why not let somebody else use it to cut down the high cost of living? Wouldn't that be a pretty good scheme?

Of course this isn't a new idea, but it's none the worse for that. In fact it's a little better for a trifle of age, because you see it has been tried out and found worth while.

Briefly it's this: Find somebody whom you believe to be worth helping, and offer him the use of that lot for garden purposes for the coming season. It doesn't take such an awfully big area, you know, to raise potatoes to supply quite a family over the time when potatoes cost the most on the market. And it doesn't take a very big lot of ground to furnish all the onions and lettuce and radishes and peas and beans an ordinary family will eat in a season—and to have some left for canning purposes, too.

Now all these things are more or less necessary to the table of a family whose members are to remain healthy, but also all these things cost money, and that is something that a lot of people find it hard to get their hands on. But seeds don't cost so much, and besides they are to be purchased at a time when there is no coal to buy, as a rule. And all that lots of people need is the ground to put the seeds in.

If you've never tried the plan, and have a vacant lot that isn't going to do anything particular this summer, just try this out. It may mean the saving of a good many dollars to whoever has the use of the ground, and anyway a garden looks a heap better than a vacant lot. And so there will be mutual benefits, besides the good you will get yourself out of just the fact of helping somebody else along in a simple and practical way.

It remains to be seen whether Villa can fight any better for his own presidential ambitions than he did for those of somebody else.

ISN'T IT A JOKE?

When the woman suffrage movement was in its infancy one of the stock jokes about it was the one in which a woman refused to tell her age to the officials at the polls. It was regarded as a pretty good joke, at first, as political jokes go, but after awhile it got to be monotonous and finally was dropped even by the professionals—and when they drop a joke it is somewhat aged.

And now, after all these years, it turns out that it isn't a joke after all. At least Associated Press dispatches from Chicago tell of the unwillingness of Illinois women to register as voters if they have to tell their age, a revelation which the state's legal department says is a necessary preliminary to the privilege of voting.

We hope the women will not stick to any such idea as that. In the first place, it would stamp them as more or less silly, and in the second place it would cast discredit on the whole suffrage movement if any considerable number of the women refused to use their hard won privilege on any such excuse as this.

It may be that the custom of making voters tell their ages is foolish in itself, but the custom exists, and no man is allowed to vote unless he tells his age. Assuredly the women who are so desirous of sharing this privilege will not object to obeying this same simple rule.

And the folly of such an objection is all the more apparent when you stop to think that any person interested could ascertain the age of any of these women by merely referring to the records of her birthplace. Why should she try, then, to conceal a fact that is of public record, when its concealment would mean no gain for her, and when its acknowledgment is required under the law she has herself invoked?

It really would be too bad to spoil the illusion that this old gag of the anti-suffragists was only a joke. The shattering of that belief would not only put a crimp in an old and honorable supposition, but would give the enemies of suffrage a weapon they would not be slow to use.

If the baseball scraps ever get into court, will fans be barred from the jury?

SOME UNPUBLISHED HISTORY.

There is some unpublished history being made at Washington that would be mighty interesting reading if it could be put into print. The pity of it is that it probably never will be put into print, though there is no question that its publication would attract nation wide attention.

It centers around the fight over the ship purchase bill, and the big feature of it is the switching of those nine Democrats from the administration's side to that of the opposition. Wouldn't it be interesting to know all the inside of that affair—who proposed the change, what arguments were offered to bring it about, how it was arranged and all the rest? You bet it would! And there is just such a story, for remember that the event was known in advance by the Republican minority, all of whom were ready and on hand to see the thing come to a head.

There is a lot that can be imagined to fill in the details—the first futile efforts to persuade these nine Democrats to switch; the later weakening of one or more of them; the necessity for time in which to work with or on the hesitators; who did the work; the arrangement to have that long-winded talking bee, with men being served with lunch while they were delivering their contributions to the program; and the denouement, when, with everything fixed, the Republicans waited in the cloakrooms for the signal that should bring them in just in time to carry out their part of the program.

Of course there are other phases that would enter into the complete story of the thing, but a writer who could fill in the outline suggested above would be sure of catching the attention of several million people. The difficulty is that it probably will never be published.

Another feature which may make this war memorable is the amount not accomplished, considering the number of men involved.

THE ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY OPPOSITION.

Supporters of the economy and efficiency bill should not be discouraged by the move made by the Gordon men in the state legislature. Just because those who oppose the bill assert that it may not pass is no sign that it won't pass, and in view of the fact that opposition in one form or another was to be expected, it is vastly better that the opposition should take concrete form and be some force that can be frankly faced, than to have it lie hidden and uncertain until the last minute. The difference between the present situation and the former one is just the difference between meeting an opposition that you can see or having to go blindly against one that is hidden and uncertain.

The efficiency plan isn't beaten yet, by considerable, and the chances are that by the time the legislators have had time to simmer it all down and understand the advantages of the proposed system, it will be still farther from being beaten. It always takes a struggle to do away with an old system and replace it with a new one, but if the state is to benefit by this change, as The Herald believes it would benefit, it will be worth all the effort required to secure legislative action on the proposal.

Meanwhile, though the opposition to the bill is of course not to be underestimated, the fact that there is opposition and that it comes in its present form is no ground for discouragement.

Some of the reports about Villa are almost enough to persuade a man that certain war correspondents have been transferred from Europe to Mexico.

A PUBLIC DEFENDER.

Kansas City Star: Suppose there had been a public defender in Atlanta, Ga., when little Mary Phagan was killed. Every person arrested or suspected would have been the center of an earnest, two-sided endeavor to find out his real connection or lack of connection with the crime. It would not have been possible for police and prosecuting officers (obsessed by desire quickly to fasten the crime on somebody) to look only for circumstances favorable to their first guess. It would not have been possible for them to warp their own judgments and to prejudice public opinion at the start to such an extent that no amount of evidence later set forth could procure fair consideration.

A public defender is required everywhere to do the needed "teamwork" with a public prosecutor.

"'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished." There is too much in the nature of "railroading" accused men to prison or to death in this country. Every prosecuting attorney, it seems sometimes, is intent on convicting the accused, whether justly or not. He sees only one side of the case, and that means that the state, as the accuser, sees only one side of the case. With a public official whose duty was to see the other side, it is at least logical to suppose that there would be a vastly greater likelihood of justice.

It is a far cry from the original theory that the prosecutor was as much the employe of the accused as of any other citizen, to the present system which makes the only public official connected with a case the enemy for the time being of the one citizen most interested in the outcome, and who has the most at stake.

And in the matter of expense, it is undeniable that no falsely accused person should be put to the cost of defending himself. Yet, in the absence of a public official to defend him, competent presentation of the case of the accused is too often limited by the length of his purse.

The Fairmont Sentinel says Francis Sayre, Jr., "is pretty sure to be petted and pampered and spoiled." Tut, tut! It's too soon to talk like that. The spoiled child is supposed to be an only one.

Snow

Richard Le Gallienne in Harper's Magazine: Snow brings a curious sense of friendliness and gayety. Though a child of the cold, the gentle sister of the frost, it has a warm, caressing, playful way with it, and, particularly in the city, at once evokes a mood of holiday-making even in the most serious and care-worn hearts. Mankind at large seems to be filled with a boyish glee at its coming, and, at whatever expense to our convenience, tieups of traffic, and other interruptions of our serious business, the wilder it whirls and the thicker it falls the better pleased we grow. We read of telegraph wires down, of trains north and west snowed in, of snowplows fighting their way through twenty-foot drifts, and the like excitements with kindling eyes. We take a personal satisfaction in the triumphs of this wild, white, simple thing from the wilderness that is able with such ease to throw out of gear all the complex machinery of our boasted civilization, and with its soft fingers stop so effectively the pompous work of the world. Deep in our hearts, I am sure, we are glad of the enforced interruption to the dull routine of our lives. It was so at school we might have rejoiced in any happening, however calamitous, from the burning alive of the head master to an epidemic of scarlet fever, that for the time made going to school an absolute impossibility. So the coming of the snow proclaims a sort of elemental holiday, and, however the superficial grown-up side of us affects irritation at the state of the streets, and fumes and fusses at the blocked trolleys, the eternal school boy in us secretly exults and entertains a wild desire to snowball the passers-by and roll in the luscious gathering drifts.

Moving Is Fast in Chess.

Washington Post: What is the average length of time that a chess player in an international championship game takes to move?

Among mere human players there are many traditions of how these peers of the game scorn to make a move in less than an hour; nay, more, how they consume whole evenings and oftentimes days in a single move. Such tales are rife in rural chess circles.

Now, in hard fact, these superplayers move more rapidly than the every-day expert. The common limit in international championship games is fifteen moves an hour; a player failing to get within this limit loses the game, no matter how commanding his position; an average of four minutes to the move is considered ample time. Indeed, when Capablanca challenged Lasker for the world's championship he was held to be justified in refusing Lasker's condition that the limit be lengthened to twelve moves an hour.

In championship games a chess clock is always used. This has two dials, each dial controlled by a plunger. Immediately after Black has moved, White strikes his plunger, which starts the hands on his dial to recording time. At the instant he moves, he strikes his plunger again, halting the mechanism. Black then strikes the plunger of his dial, starting his clock in turn. The dials thus record the net time each consumes in moving.

Of course, in practical play, the contestant gets more than the four minutes. The first eight or ten moves are almost always book plays, made in less than a minute each. This allows much time as credit on later moves. Furthermore, even when his opponent is moving, a player studies his own next move, based on the probable move of his opponent. But the day-long, or even hour-long move, exists only in the imagination of the village champion.

War Brides

From "War Brides" by Marion Craig Wentworth in the Century Magazine: One day we will stop giving you men. Look at mother. Four sons torn from her in one month, and none of you ever asked her if she wanted war. You keep us here helpless. We didn't want dreadnaughts and armies and fighting, we women. You tear our husbands, our sons, from us—you never ask us to help you find a better way — and haven't we anything to say?

Who gives you these men? We women. We bear and rear and agonize. Well, if we are fit for that, we are fit to have a voice in the fate of the men we bear. If we can bring forth the men for the nation, we can sit with you in your councils and shape the destiny of the nation, and say whether it is to war or peace we give the sons we bear.

Pretty Good World.

This world's a pretty good sort of world,
Taking it altogether,
In spite of the grief and sorrow we meet,
In spite of the gloomy weather,
There are friends to love and hopes to cheer,
And plenty of compensation,
For every ache for those who make
The best of the situation.

There are quiet nooks for lovers of books,
With nature in happy union;
There are cool retreats from the noontide heat,
Where souls may have sweet communion;
And if there's a wrong, we know ere long
That heaven above will right it.

So it's not for us to make a fuss
Because of life's sad mischances,
Nor to wear ourselves out to bring about
A change in our circumstances;
For this world's a pretty good sort of world,
And He to whom we are debtor
Appoints our place and supplies the grace
To help make it better.

The "Reactionary" Democrats

(By Satoyard.)

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Mr. Wilson became president it was the prediction of Republicans that certain Democratic senators classed as "reactionaries," would smite the administration and defeat the efforts of the president after the fashion of a Gorman of Maryland, or a Smith of New Jersey, who betrayed the administration of Mr. Cleveland. The wish was father of the hope in this case, for never yet was a president more loyally or more zealously supported than Mr. Wilson has been by all, save the Tammany senator, of those Democrats in that body who had been grouped as "reactionary."

I have in mind a certain Democratic senator who had provoked much criticism from tariff reformers by his conduct when the Payne-Aldrich tariff was considered. He was hostile to the nomination of Wilson at Baltimore and was instrumental in carrying his state against him in the primary of 1912. This gentleman dwells in a town larger than Kansas City, and the president selected for postmaster of his home town a man not at all friendly to the ambitions of that senator; but the senator made no protest. He supported the nomination, which was confirmed, and there was no row.

A little while later the president nominated to an important office a gentleman to whose confirmation there was aggressive objection, and a wink or a nod from that senator would have defeated confirmation; but he said nay, that Wilson was the chief of the party, responsible to the party and to the country for that official, and he saw to it that the man was confirmed. That senator is a Democrat, and he has been a tower of strength on whom the president and the party have leaned ever since the congress was convened in extra session in April, 1913. And it is due the president to say that the time has come when that senator's counsel is as welcome at the White House as is his support in the senate.

Republicans were even counting on the leader of the Democratic side of the senate to defeat the policies of the administration. That senator also was classed as a "reactionary," but never president has had more loyal support than this man has given, and not in forty years has the senate been more ably, more successfully, more brilliantly led than this man has led it. I am glad to make this acknowledgment, for I did all my little utmost to defeat that man for re-election to the senate.

And I will say, besides, that if Claude Kitchin had as good a record since March 4, 1913, as F. M. Simmons has made, friends of the Democratic administration would contemplate his elevation to the leadership of the house with more satisfaction than they now do.

Since the president spoke at Indianapolis the recalcitrant Democratic senators have not been as active against the administration as they were. The Republicans committed a tactical blunder in taking on themselves the task of "answering" the president. When Republican senators like Charles Sumner, Carl Schurz, Lyman Trumbull, Reuben E. Fenton and Thomas W. Tipton assailed President Grant's administration, the Democratic side, able as it was, was mute, and allowed the Republicans to do all the fighting among themselves.

But instead of depending on Reed, Vardaman, Martine and the other recalcitrant Democrats to assault Wilson, the Republicans in the senate appointed themselves to that job. Of course, no Democrat could then join in the assault without cutting himself adrift from the party. Mr. Vardaman, I believe, did assail the president in an interview in a standpat newspaper which a Republican senator or representative promptly put in the Congressional Record for free distribution through the mails under the frank of Republican senators and members. When Republicans circulate utterances of Democratic senators to promote their political campaigns it is about time for that Democratic senator to stand fast and take an observation of himself. His politics is out of whack.

The news comes from Michigan that the Democratic governor of that state has discovered a conspiracy to defeat the renomination of Mr. Wilson for president in 1916. Without a mention of the name, it is said that a certain prominent Democrat is to be rewarded with the nomination and Wilson rebuked and discharged. What would that man do with the nomination if he got it? It would not be worth a rap. Champ Clark hit the nail on the head when he said that if the Democratic administration was acceptable to the country nobody could beat Wilson for the nomination, and if the administration was unpopular nobody would want the nomination, or words to that effect.

Mr. Wilson put it this way: A nomination to be of value must be deserved, or words of that import. There is going to be no contest in the Democratic national convention of 1916. All the fun will be in the Republican powwows, in which there will contend more than a dozen candidates.

It is fatal to be too eager for a nomination for president. The late William McKinley was not a great man; certainly he was a mediocrity intellectually. His acquired knowledge was meager, except what he learned—mostly by observation—in congress, but he had admirable political instinct. He presided over the convention that renominated Ben Harrison for president at Minneapolis in 1892. He could have had the nomination and it would have come to him more easily than it came to Garfield a dozen years earlier.

It was not scrupulosity that restrained him, but judgment. He knew the nomination, under such circumstances, was not worth a snap, and refused it, or else he had never been president.

If any Democrat is seeking the nomination against Wilson in 1916 I would advise him to take a lesson from McKinley. Hamlet will not be put on the boards with the prince of Denmark left out of the cast.

Mr. Wells in Good Temper.

Kansas City Times: H. G. Wells, Englishman, says he did not wish to write about G. B. Shaw, Englishman, while Mr. Wells was sick. He was afraid he was too feverish to write in good temper. Having waited until he got in a good temper, Mr. Wells now writes of Mr. Shaw: "He just has to be let go on making mischief, falsifying issues, lying about our national honor, lying about Russia, distracting and complicating the business before us."

Perhaps it was better that Mr. Wells did not write when he was in a bad temper.

Minnesota Children.

Kansas City Times: On the Minnesota farms, says a careful statistician, speaking of the fecundity of different races in America, only one Polish-American wife out of fifty-eight is childless, while as to other races, only one Irish-American wife out of thirteen, and one English-American wife out of twelve have no children.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—When Brig.-Gen. Hugh L. Scott was sent down to active service along the Mexican border a while ago his associates recalled a certain incident.

Every so often army officers must mount horses and, led by their colonel, ride for some five miles over a series of hurdles and other obstructions. The thing must be done rather rapidly, too—five miles over obstructions in eleven minutes, or some such time as that—and the event rarely makes a great hit with the army officer who has been taking no exercise more vigorous than to brush his teeth.

The last time Hugh Scott went into this rough-riding event was when he was stationed down in Texas two or three years ago. All his brother officers were worried about him, for if Scott couldn't make the hurdles he would have to be retired. He has had half his fingers shot off, is along in years, and his associates feared he couldn't handle his horse.

"It's a shame to see a wonderful officer like Scott retired on a technicality," they said. "Let's see if we can't fix it some way." And they set about getting word to Gen. Wood, then the chief of staff, to have Scott called away the day of the riding exercises.

When Scott heard of this he was the maddest he had been for years. He took the whole thing as an insult.

"Think I'm too old to make a few hurdles, eh?" said he. "Well, let us see."

And they saw. He gave the young lieutenants a horseback ride that nearly jiggled their livers up into their throats, and took hurdles as if death has no sting.

When the event was over the younger officers were considerably less worried about Scott than they were about themselves.

To look at Brig.-Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, as he appears at his office in citizen clothes, one would not take him for a military chief. His dress is so plain and his manner so unassuming that he looks more like a prosperous manufacturer of shoes or a scientific farmer from out somewhere in the Middle West. His clothes always run to plain, unemphatic colors, and his trousers are not always pressed with military preciseness. The chances are that one would take him for a farmer—for a farmer, though, who works the soil intensively, and has all the latest improvements.

What one would not guess after a look at Scott is the fact that he is an accomplished linguist—the best in the army. He knows something of practically every language of any consequence and numerous Indian tongues, besides the languages of four or five Filipino tribes.

As one of his assistants remarked the other day:

"If an untutored savage from an African tribe were to drop into the office Scott would be able to talk to him somehow. They might have to resort to Esperanto, or just make signs, but they would manage to hit some kind of a conversational basis."

* * *

Senator O'Gorman, as we were remarking recently, is a dignified person and rarely adresses even his intimate friends by their first name. A few days ago as O'Gorman stood conversing with a number of the great men of the nation, Mr. "Fingy" Connors of Buffalo happened along, and was introduced all around. At a certain point in the talk Connors wrought great consternation. He slapped O'Gorman on the back and declared:

"I've often said: 'When Jimmy O'Gorman gets to the senate, they'll not put anything over on him."

Congressman "Zeke" Candler of Mississippi always carries two watches. Nobody knows why he does it, and he does not like to talk about it. The thing is a mystery. Whether one watch is sun time and the other standard time, or whether they both start out together and are supposed to check up each other, nobody can find out. Candler always looks at whichever watch he consults in a furtive manner, as if he did not care to have anybody else see what he sees.

He Shirked Jury Duty

Brooklyn Eagle: Illustrating the responsibility of the individual citizen for the right conduct of the work of the courts, Justice Ransom told of an incident which strongly impressed itself upon him when he was first admitted to the bar and was a resident of the borough of Brooklyn.

"I had the fortune to be one of the attorneys of record," said he, "in a case of considerable importance, in which the attorney for the principal defendant was one of the well-known trial lawyers of this borough, and he conducted the case for all the defendants. His client was a conspicuous example of the familiar type of business man who is too busy to give any time to civic duties. We had the greatest difficulty in getting a satisfactory jury, but finally our challenges were exhausted, and we had to take the best we could get, after that. The case was one in which the defendant should have won, before a jury which would have given it fair and conscientious consideration, but the jury was far below the average panel, and the judge showed little disposition or ability to impress upon his panel the importance of the right performance of their duties. The jury's verdict, as we feared, was for the plaintiff.

"As he walked out of the courthouse, the busy business man was busy in profane comment upon the court and jury and the whole American system of administering justice, whereupon his veteran counsel sharply said to him:

"'Hold on a minute! How many times during the last six years have you asked me to get you excused from jury duty? How many times have you served on a jury in the last twenty years? Why, I have to keep a clerk in my office with political affiliations for no other purpose than to get you and your kind of patriots out of jury duty whenever you are called. Of course the jury trimmed you; it did not know any better; but you got exactly what you deserved. You business men who always manage somehow to get out of jury duty better remember that some day you may have to face a jury, and then you will wish that more men of your kind were in the panel. Don't criticize the jury to me; it is exactly what you business men have made it, with your lack of patriotism and your conjured up excuses!'

"That is the point of view which ought to be emphasized before every citizen."

The Example of Japan.

Providence Journal: Those who hope to breed a dove of peace big enough to dominate the world should not lose courage because of the present setback. All that is needed is persistence. It is related that the natives of the Island of Shikoku, Japan, after a hundred years of patient effort, have succeeded in breeding roosters with tail feathers eighteen feet long.

First Non-Partisan State Legislature

Suggestions and Comments From the State Press.

Taxing the Speculators.

Warroad Pioneer: A bill has been introduced in the legislature to assess unimproved land at 50 per cent of its value, instead of 33 per cent. This would make speculators pay more than the resident owner—which would be right and proper.

Amending the Constitution.

Brown's Valley Tribune: If the bill introduced by Traverse county's representative becomes a law, it will be easier to amend the Constitution, as the bill provides that 60 per cent of those voting on an amendment will carry it. At present it takes a majority of all votes cast. So many people neglect to vote on the amendments that it is almost impossible to pass one.

Attacking Worthy Measure.

Pine River Sentinel-Blaze: The Southern Minnesota legislator who has introduced a bill to repeal the Elwell road law should be sentenced to ninety days' hard labor. This is the best that the state has ever had and is proving wonders up here in Northern Minnesota, where, were it not for this law, road building would be delayed for many years.

Improve; Don't Repeal.

Alexandria Citizen: Instead of repealing the present good roads law, the better plan would be for the legislature to improve them. The payment of road tax in cash is surely an improvement over the old plan. Give the present laws a fair chance.

Calls It Highway Robbery.

Baudette Region: Some of the Southern representatives want to repeal the Elwell road law. An effort at highway robbery with the Northern part of the state as the victim.

Where Efficiency Is Needed.

Aurora News: With one month gone, the legislature is not yet really in working order. There is too much attention paid by the solons to organization for advantage and too little attention paid to real service to the people of the state. The legislature is elected to represent the people and to make desirable laws and unmake those which have proved unsuitable. More attention to that sort of business and less attention to self would make certain of the members much larger in the public eye. There is as much need of efficiency in the legislature as there is in state government.

Shows Good Sense.

Perham Enterprise-Bulletin: Governor Hammond showed the expected long-headedness when he urged the legislature to get the county option issue out of the way early. There is plenty of important work for the legislators to do, and it will never be done if the session is turned over for a wet and dry arena.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlus, the Sunshine Man.

He might have been saved if somebody had gone
In the spirit of love and forgiving;
He might have returned in the morning of life
And remained with the useful and lfving.
But the Christian passed by with a critical eye
The path of the weak and the straying,
And left him to grope without mercy or hope
In the shadow where dangers were staying.
In a sad, dreary place, with the tempter, alone
He strove where no helping hand sought him.
He fell where no Christian's light ever shone,
"Unworthy," they said, and forgot him.
She might have been spared if a helping hand
Had been lent in the time of her sorrow;
But the world went its way on the wings of the wind,
With never a kind word to borrow.
And a flower of heaven was ruthlessly crushed,
Thankful her day was not longer;
Then cast it aside with no merciful thought,
Chidden for not being stronger.
Oh, we that in Zion are resting, awake!
The hungry to feed and the lonely to cheer.
The one to whom courage and life you may take
May be buried down in the battlements near.
Rebuckle the armor and burnish the sword,
Give heed to the perishings' pitiful cry,
Then haste thee away in the name of the Lord—
Haste thee, O haste thee, for soon they will die.

Camels Like to Smoke.

Boston Transcript: The sad, ill-tempered camel, who has borne so long the burdens of the desert, is forced once more to make his appearance on the field of honor. As he has been appearing there for countless centuries, without a doubt he is used to it, but this does not prevent his remaining unpleasant. "The camel," says an Oriental proverb, "curses its parents when it has to go up hill, and its Maker when it goes down."

Some of the camel's best known traits have been voiced by Rudyard Kipling:

This is our marching song:
Can't! Don't! Shan't! Won't!
Pass it along the line!
Somebody's load has slid off in the road,
Wish it were only mine.

The camel, say men of Eastern experience, is the most disconcerting mount in the world until you are used to him. You think you will direct him, say, to the right by pulling a rein that way. But the consequence is that a great face with large eyes and larger lips turns back over its own neck and looks you in the eyes. But the direction of the camel's progress meanwhile continues unaltered.

Never a companionable beast, he has at least one human weakness—an insatiable love for tobacco. One of the methods used by Arabs in taming wild camels is to fix a kind of cigarholder in the animal's mouth and insert a huge, loosely rolled cigar. As soon as the camel starts to draw, it becomes remarkably docile, and quickly learns to inhale the smoke and emit it through the nostrils. The one drawback of the system is that the knowing brute becomes a confirmed smoker and refuses to budge without his cigar.

The Hawaiian government has decided to banish ex-Queen Liliuokalani, who was arrested in connection with the recent royalist revolution, and she may arrive in the United States on the next steamer.

J. C. Moore of Mankato was in West Duluth today to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. George L. Wilkins, who died of consumption. The remains were taken to the old home at Faribault for interment.

The First Norwegian-Danish Evangelical Lutheran church on the corner of First avenue east and Third street, caught fire in the basement, probably from the furnace, yesterday afternoon and in a few hours nothing stood but the blackened walls. The church was worth about $10,000 and the loss is well covered by insurance. It will be reconstructed as soon as possible.

The eighty-third birthday of Mrs. Betsy Eaton will be celebrated this evening at the First Methodist church by the members. Mrs. Eaton is the oldest member of the church.

Duluth's municipal election will take place tomorrow. Treasurer Fred J. Voss and Comptroller W. G. Ten Brook are candidates for re-election, and it is generally predicted they will win.

On Feb. 7 Miss Adelaide Sawyer will give a dramatic reading and Delsartean entertainment at the Odd Fellows hall under the auspices of Mystic lodge. Mrs. Emil Olund will sing several selections.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 22 deg. below zero; minimum yesterday, 20 deg. below zero; maximum yesterday, 2 deg. above zero.

If a subscription list large enough be raised, Duluth will have an opportunity of hearing two singers of the first magnitude. They are Anton Schott, the German tenor, and Madame Francesco Guthrie Moyer, a dramatic soprano. Ernest Lachmund is managing the proposed concert here.

George T. McArthur, driver of Hose Company No. 5, has resigned. Charles Warren has been made driver of the salvage wagon.

At a meeting of the board of education, Supt. R. E. Denfeld and Trustee A. R. McDonald were selected to go to St. Paul and lobby for the establishment of a state normal school at Duluth.

Lillian Lewis will be the attraction at the Temple opera house tomorrow night in her latest success, "Cleopatra."

William F. Hatley has arrived from Chicago to take charge of the St. Louis hotel billiard room.

The law firm of Lardner & Middlecoff, composed of Henry Lardner, Jr., and J. B. Middlecoff, has been dissolved.

Scouts Make Icy Streets Safe.

Pittsburg Dispatch: There will be a lot of people who may have had but a superficial interest in the Boy Scout movement who will take a quite different view of the movement when they hear that the scouts out in Sheraden have assigned themselves the work of scattering sawdust on ice-covered sidewalks and streets. Yet this is but one example of the practical and useful things that have been done by members of this organization in many places. It is characteristic of the motives and aims of the movement.

It is just in little things like this, showing thoughtfulness and consideration for others, creating an habitual readiness to put one's self about for the comfort and convenience of the community, that the great value of the Scout movement lies. It instills into the boys the spirit of service, of neighborliness, of mutual good will and responsibility which goes to the making of good citizens.

Long Life and Buttermilk.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Uncle Johnny Vickers of Chapel Hill, N. C., is an illustration of Metchnikoff's theory that buttermilk—or, to be more precise, lactic acid—makes for long life. Uncle Johnny is 110 years old and drinks a half gallon of buttermilk a day. He takes other nourishment, too, at all events, he eats red peppers, if those count as nourishment. A hygienic principle of Uncle Johnny is to shun fresh air.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

POULTRY BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would like to know why they don't have poultry books down in the West end library? The people down in this end of the city are just as interested in poultry as those in the other end.

Thanking you for space in the Open Court, I remain,

ERNEST ANDERSON,
One Who is Interested in Poultry.
Duluth, Feb. 3.

With the limited funds available the city cannot maintain branch libraries up to the standard of the Central library. The growth of the branches has been amazing, and none of the branches is any better equipped or better patronized than those in the West end and West Duluth. We have no doubt that if Mr. Anderson will present his request to the librarian, she will grant it if it is possible to do so, and do it without any red tape or unnecessary delay.—The Editor.

FIRING BIG GUNS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Permit me to ask a few questions to be answered in your Open Court column.

1. Who sights the guns on a battleship?
2. If the guns are shooting high or low, who notifies the gunner?
3. Has the gunner full control of the gun in his charge?

Yours truly,
JOSEPH CURRIER.
Butternut, Wis., Feb. 2.

The answers to your questions are:

1. The pointer. On the larger guns, two pointers are employed, one to get the elevation and other to secure right and left positions.
2. Either the officer in charge of the gun or the spotter who is stationed in the fighting top, and who is in direct telephonic communication with the gunner and the officer in charge.
3. No. Control of the gun rests with the officer in charge of the gun, generally a commissioned officer. He may direct the gunners to fire as rapidly as they can reload.—The Editor.

OBJECTS TO CLOSING OF LAKESIDE AVENUES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly allow me space in your paper to make an objection to the proposed deal with the Duluth & Iron Range railroad of closing certain avenues and streets, in order to get in return fifteen feet off the right-of-way, to add to Superior street. This, no doubt, would be a very good deal for the railroad people, but a very disastrous one for the city, especially for the residents of that part of Lakeside. We certainly haven't any too many streets and avenues now as it is. As a residence section they are all needed. Simply because some of them are not improved is no reasonable argument that they are not needed. This, to my mind, is the poorest kind of an excuse. What is required, and very badly, is to improve those same avenues and streets, so they can be used, not closed. The widening of Superior street is not required one-half as badly as the opening and improving of those avenues and streets. I, for one, don't propose to be put in a pocket with my property there, just to satisfy a few joy riders who want Superior street widened for their benefit. More of this later.

LARGEST COPPER MINE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would you please give through The Herald the name of the copper mine which has the most valuable output in the United States, which I think is in Montana.

A. T.
Kenton, Mich., Jan. 31.

The question of which is the greatest copper mine in the world might be answered off hand, the Anaconda at Butte, Mont., judging by its output in dollars. The Copper Queen mine in Arizona is also considered one of the world's greatest mines, while of course the Calumet & Hecla group in Michigan ranks among the leaders. Then there is the United Verde in Arizona and a host of others, mostly group mines. Judged by actual output probably no single copper mine in the world has equaled the Anaconda in production or is equaling it today. It was first developed as a silver mine, but at a depth of about 200 feet proved to be a copper bonanza, carrying also much gold and silver. Marcus Daly bought it from the original discoverer for $30,000 and when the Amalgamated Copper company took it over its value was variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000. As it is the veritable key to nearly all copper mines in Butte, the leads of which seem to apex or come nearer to the surface in the Anaconda ground, it is doubtful if the Amalgamated Copper company today would sell the property for $20,000,000. Its production for 1912 was 294,474,161 pounds of copper, or more than three times that of its nearest competitor.—The Editor.

FOR MEDICAL RESEARCH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would like to know if Mr. Rockefeller has a medical institution in New York? If so for what purpose, and what would the address be?

A SUBSCRIBER.
Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 2.

Mr. Rockefeller finances an institution known as the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. It is so well known that "New York City" is sufficient as an address. Its name indicates the purpose for which it was established.—The Editor.

A NUT FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO CRACK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have a problem which has caused considerable discussion and wish to submit it to the Open Court readers. A number of business men have given different answers to the problem.

A man in business buys an article for $1 and it cost him 22 per cent of his sales to do business. He wishes to make a profit of 10 per cent. What will he sell the article for?

Yours truly,
H. S.
Duluth, Feb. 2.

Several months ago the Open Courters "ran amuck" on problems and deluged the paper with them, until The Editor had to call a halt. He hopes this harmless little brain twister won't "start anything."—The Editor.

THE RICHEST AND THE DEEPEST IRON MINES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please inform me where the deepest iron ore mine in the world is located, and what depth it is; also where is the richest iron ore located?

A SUBSCRIBER.
Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 2.

The richest iron ore mine, according to statistics, is the Kiirunavarra deposit in Lapland, Sweden, which is estimated to contain 750,000,000 tons of ore. It is a surface mine on the side of a mountain.

The iron ore mine containing the deepest shaft is the Champion mine at Beacon, Mich., owned by the Oliver Mining company. The shaft is 2,314 feet deep.

There are many new mines being developed, some of which may prove to be richer than any opened so far, according to mining experts.—The Editor.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

Requests have been received for the following poems:

"The Butcher Boy," from Mrs. J. P. M. of Palmer, Mich.

"Benedict Arnold," "Polish Boy" and "Vengeance and a Woman," from F. W. Busse of Warroad, Minn.

"Say Au Revoir, But Not Good-By," from A. T. of Kenton, Mich.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following: "When the Sunset Turns the Ocean's Blue to Gold," from Ruth L. Schoch of Gilbert.

"When the Sunset Turns the Ocean's Blue to Gold."

When the busy day is o'er,
And the sun is sinking low'r,
Then I seem to see a dear old Southern home,
And the long years roll away.
Just a child again I play,
With my playmates in the woods we used to roam;
And at eve, my mother there,
Listens to me say my prayer,
And I feel her kiss as in the days of old,
But now mother's old and gray,
Waiting for me far away,
Where the sunset turns the ocean's blue to gold.

Chorus.

Oh, the old church bells are ringing,
And the mocking birds are singing,
As they sang around the place in days of old;
And tho' I am far away,
All my heart has been today
Where the sunset turns the ocean's blue to gold.

When a lad to manhood grown,
With my sweetheart I did roam,
Just a country lass, with heart as pure as snow;
And again I see the dell
And the nook we loved so well,
When I told life's old, sweet story long ago.
But beyond's a grassy knoll,
I hear the church bell toll,
As it sends a message far along the surf,
For they gathered far and near,
And their hearts were sad and drear,
When today they laid my sweetheart 'neath the turf.

MALE QUARTET WELL RECEIVED

Large Audience Hears Fine Program Given in Extension Course.

The Chicago Male quartet, presenting the fifth number in the lecture program of the University of Minnesota Extension course, was well received by a large audience at the Central high school auditorium last night.

The songs of the quartet, particularly those in dialect, brought demands for encores, the program being one of the strongest presented so far in this lecture course. The singers were: T. A. Fanneil, tenor; John G. Hedgcoxe, tenor; Frank H. Collins, baritone; W. O. Smith, basso.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

"Passing Regiment".....Masey
Quartet.
"Don' Yo Cry Ma' Honey".....Noel
Quartet.
"Then You'll Remember Me"....Balfe
"Bachelor and the Maid".....
Mr. Fannell.
"Summer Lullaby".....Gibson

"Bedouin Love Song".....Pinsiuty
"Big Bass Viol".....Bohannon
Mr. Smith.
Sextet from "Lucia".....Donizetti
Quartet.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS.

Guard Around Parliament Building at Ottawa Increased.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 4.—The dynamiting of the international bridge over the St. Croix river at Vanceboro, Me., has led the authorities to take extra precautions to prevent any possible attack on the Canadian parliament building at the opening of the sessions of the legislative body today.

The guard stationed in the parliament buildings will be more numerous than usual and will be provided with ball cartridges. Strict scrutiny has been applied to the issuance of tickets of admission to the opening functions.

The chief business of the session will be the voting of funds for the maintenance of the Canadian troops in the fields and those who are now being raised and trained.

Albert Lea Pioneer Dies.

Albert Lea, Minn., Feb. 4.—Christian P. Peterson, a pioneer settler of this city, received an injury Saturday afternoon which resulted in his death at a hospital.

J. A. M'LENNAN DIES IN SOUTH

Popular Young Duluthian Succumbs to Operation for Peritonitis.

Native of Duluth—Resided Here Until Six Months Ago.

James A. McLennan is dead. He passed away yesterday afternoon at 12:50 at Alexandria, La., where he has been residing since he left Duluth about six months ago.

For some time he has been suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, which was followed by peritonitis. An operation for the latter was considered the only thing that might cause recovery and on Tuesday it was performed but proved futile.

When Mr. McLennan died, his mother, Mrs. Julia McLennan, and his brother, Charles, both of Duluth, were on their way to his bedside. In Chicago today they met the body, which is in charge of J. W. Alexander, member of the Alexander, Bolton & Lewis Insurance Agency of Alexandria, with which Mr. McLennan was connected, and will return to Duluth tomorrow. No funeral arrangements have yet been made.

JAMES A. M'LENNAN.

Mr. McLennan was born in Duluth on Oct. 28, 1881, and up to the time he went South, had resided here all of his life. He was, until that time, vice president of the Manley-McLennan Insurance Agency of this city and, without question, was one of the best known and best liked young men in the city.

The news of his death was received here by his hundreds of friends as a severe shock, and grief over it is widespread.

Mr. McLennan was unmarried, and is survived by his mother, a sister, Mrs. George W. Welles of Duluth, and two brothers, Donald R. and Charles, the former of Chicago and the latter of Duluth.

WILL PROTECT FISHERMEN

Lights Will Be Kept Burning as Long as Trips Are Made.

Other Improvements in Lake Service Are Being Considered.

Fishermen operating in upper Lake Superior after the close of navigation, will, in the future, have the use of lighthouse service at this harbor as long as they can make trips.

After a long campaign for better protection, fishermen have been promised by officials of the lighthouse board that beacons will be kept going here and at Two Harbors as long as there are any fishing boats on the lake, according to Capt. D. T. Sullivan, 4830 West Fifth street, who returned yesterday from Washington, D. C.

Capt. Sullivan has been East about ten days, as delegate from Duluth and Superior to the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Shipmasters' lodge. Many recommendations for the betterment of the service given mariners on the lakes were considered by the shipmasters and referred to the board of supervising inspectors of the government.

"Another important matter to be settled," said Capt. Sullivan, "was that of providing crew members with message cases, to be thrown overboard in case of a wreck, so that the men and ship may be identified. The pattern adopted consists of a round metallic case, with a keel along one side, so that it will float right side up. The message can be scribbled and thrust into the case, a half turn of the cap making it airtight. When every man has one of these, there is more chance of having messages from the lost men delivered.

Oil Tanks.

"Lake vessels also must carry oil tanks in the future," he said, "and be provided with oil to use in case of storms. Hose contrivances will make it possible to spray the oil either forward or aft.

"Among the recommendations to the supervisors was one providing for the establishment of a life saving station and a wireless station at the northeast end of Isle Royale. This was very favorably considered," he said, "and is quite likely to pass.

Provisions also have been made for the erection of a fog signal at the northeast end of Michigan island, according to the captain. Michigan island is in the Apostles group, being the one nearest Ashland, Wis. Present signals on this point are considered inadequate by mariners operating at the head of Lake Superior, it is said.

A. C. Smith of St. Clair, Mich., was elected captain of the Shipmasters' association for the coming year and vice captain, Charles Autterson of Detroit, Mich.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: FEB. 7.

Ruth 1, 6-18, Ruth Chooses the True God.

FOREWORD.

This was "In the days of the judges" and as Ruth became the grandmother of David, it was in the latter part of that period, probably while Eli or Samuel was judge. It was during one of those dread famines from which Palestine sometimes suffered. Moab on the east was inviting and this family of four, Alimelech and his wife Naomi and their two boys, Mahlon and Chilion, went over into Moab, where the boys married and they and their father died leaving three widows. Those Moabites were descended from Lot and were numerous and prosperous, worshipers of the god Chemosh. They were on peaceful terms with Israel. Many well disposed people were among them. This is one of the most beautiful stories ever written, a true story. I read the statement that Benjamin Franklin once read it to a group of cultured men in Paris, who were skeptics, as his contribution to the enjoyment of the evening, without telling them where he got it, and they were surprised at finding such a new story they had never seen nor heard of before. The story shows that there were high minded people and pure domestic virtues in Israel in spite of the widespread corruption.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Impulsive Movement Homeward. 6, 7.

"Then she arose with her daughters-in-law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that Jehovah had visited His people in giving them bread. And she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters-in-law with her; and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah."

1. MOTHER.—Three things would draw Naomi homeward—unsleeping love of native land, loss of loved ones who made Moab endurable and the news that the long famine was over and there was plenty. After ten years it was natural that she would long for home. It was really a short distance, but a rough road and sharp lines of separation.

2. DAUGHTERS.—They seem to have talked it over for some time, so that the final announcement by Naomi that she should go was not a surprise. It seems that they had expressed the purpose to go and there was an understanding that they would go, too. Whatever Namoi thought or purposed in the matter she seems to have said nothing. They went out with her, as Oriental people always went a ways with their guests. Perhaps both of them expected to go. I rather think so. The wife was always classified with her husband's family. For that reason they would decide to go. Besides Naomi had completely won their confidence, respect and love, so that they really wanted to be with her rather than with their own people. A person with the true Christian spirit is always more attractive, other things being equal, than without it.

II.

Naomi's Advice to Them. 8-13.

"And Naomi said unto her two daughters-in-law, Go, return each of you to her mother's house: Jehovah deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me. Jehovah grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them, and they lifted up their voice, and wept. And they said unto her, Nay, but we will return with thee unto thy people. And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with me? have I yet sons in my womb, that they may be your husbands? Turn again, my daughters, go your way; for I am too old to have a husband. If I should say, I have hope, if I should even have a husband tonight, and should also bear sons; would ye therefore tarry till they were grown? would ye therefore stay from having husbands? nay, my daughters; for it grieveth me much for your sakes, for the hand of Jehovah is gone forth against me."

1. APPRECIATION.—She appreciated these two women. They deserved it. She was not merely polite in saying they had treated her and her sons and husband kindly, for they had. She knew it, felt it. Ten years had tested their fidelity. Therefore she wished for them the very best. For one thing, she wished them to be free from the embarrassment and loneliness she had felt. She knew that over in her own land they would be among strangers, and they would not have husbands or children to fall back on for company, as Naomi had when she first went to Moab. She was sincere in feeling it would be better for them to return.

2. DUTY.—She urged it on them as a duty. In those rough days, when a man died childless, his brother must marry the widow, and if children were born they would be counted the dead man's, because it was a discredit to be childless. So we can understand the argument of Naomi that there was no possibility that she, Naomi, would ever bear sons for them; and if that were possible, these two young widows could not be expected to wait for them. It was the crude argument of the times, expressed in their own frank way. But there was another duty, and that was to their parents. Naomi also seems to have grown rather liberal religiously, as she told these women to go on with their god, somewhat as we should say to one belonging to a different church from ours, "Stand by your church." But her heart was mellow, full of love. In spite of the prospect of seeing her old home soon and such of her friends as were still living, she was full of sorrow, even bitterness. "The hand of the Lord is gone out against me," she said; but I think it more of an expression than a deep feeling, though they attributed all things to God. The Lord had been merciful and given them crops again, and He had taken her loved ones.

III.

Two Different Decisions. 15-18.

"And they lifted up their voice and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law; but Ruth clave unto her. And she said, Behold, thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her god: return thou after thy sister-in-law. And Ruth said, Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God: where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: Jehovah do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me. And when she saw that she was steadfastly minded to go with her, she left off speaking unto her."

1. ORPAH.—These names are instructive. Elimalech means God is King; Naomi, Sweet; Mahlon, Sickly; Chilion, Clinging One; Orpah, Fawn; Ruth, Rose of Moab. Orpah showed genuine love, felt it deeply, showed it in her characteristic way by kissing her. That suggests parting, or the consciousness of parting near at hand. So, while Orpah would have been willing to go, it would be by drifting, following an impulse created by the strong character of Naomi, not because of any reasoned and definite conviction. The kiss was for greeting or parting, and she returned.

2. RUTH.—I suspect that Naomi would have been glad to have them both go; I think she was sincere in asking them both to go back, and that she knew she would test them both. Perhaps she thought Ruth would stick to her, and wished it. If so, she had her reward. She seems to have tried to persuade her to return after Orpah turned back, with even stronger arguments. But there is a tone of loneliness as she says, "Your sister didn't hold to me, and I guess you won't either." A little disappointment? Two things help Ruth, love and religion. Into them both she put a tremendous earnestness, a constancy that the other woman was incapable of. A great future rewarded her sacrifice.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Some ten years ago, a young girl in a city of India found the only Savior. Her family treated her cruelly, demanding the renunciation of her faith. Finding her steadfast, she was driven from home. A young girl, alone in a heathen city! We cannot realize the terrible possibilities that lurk in the situation. But God guided her to the mission compound, where she found teaching, shelter and employment. So bitter were her people that the entire street was absolutely closed to all missionary effort; they would not tolerate any form of Christian influence. But the young exile "continued in prayer" for her family and neighbors, and, at last, God has opened a door.—Hewett.

Ruth's love was religious. She had seen in Naomi a higher life than she had known in Moab. She chose to take refuge under the shelter of the wings of the God of Israel (ii:12). What a reward came to Naomi for being faithful to her God! The bereaved and disappointed exile called herself unfortunate. Yet she had won another to Him. Who knows what fruit the faithful life may bear which seems to have become barren?—Dunning.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. When is it unwise for a Christian to live entirely with non-Christians?
2. Why do the scenes of our youth pull at us more strongly as we grow older?
3. How is the home life the test of our characters and worth?
4. To what extent is religion involved in our marriages?

Why is POSTUM Replacing Coffee?

People are waking up to the harmful effects of the powerful drug—caffeine—in coffee, which poisons the system, often resulting in nervousness, heart flutter, headache, biliousness and many other ills and discomforts.

The pure food-drink, Postum, is absolutely drug-free—made only of the choicest wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses. It contains no caffeine or other harmful elements.

If you doubt that coffee hurts you, a sure test is to leave it off for 10 days and use Postum. It's an easy change, too, for Postum tastes much like the mild, high-grade Javas. As the coffee-drug is eliminated from your system, your own feelings will suggest Postum and better health.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum —must be boiled, 15c and 25c packages; Instant Postum—soluble form, made in the cup with hot water instantly, 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious, and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

"When All the Bills Are Paid"

—Then we'll start a savings account," that is the promise that many a young couple make themselves. But the bills are never "all cleaned up," because before one batch is paid, the next one arrives.

The only way to do is to start your savings account anyway and put something into it every week, rain or shine. In time, interest on your savings, and from investments springing from them, will so add to your income that your monthly bills will lose much of their terror.

AN AGGRAVATING BOY.

Chicago Herald: "I'm taking him to the 'orspital," announced the lady to the inside passengers of the Royal Oak bus, as she gave a frightened-looking boy by her side a vigorous shake.

"Dunno wot boys are coming to nowadays. I'm sure I can't trust 'em nowhere. Nobody needn't shrink away as if they was afraid o' getting the black plague," she continued, glaring at a timid-looking man who had shifted his seat. "I never heard as how swallerin' dominoes was ketching."

"Swallowing dominoes!" came in a chorus from the passengers.

"Set 'im to mind the baby for ten minutes," explained the lady, "and he must needs git doin' some conjurin' tricks with the dominoes and boils the double five by accident."

The timid gentleman expressed an opinion that the consequences were likely to be serious.

"An' so they ought to be," snapped the lady. "It'll learn him a lesson, p'raps."

And, noticing that the boy had stopped crying, she started him off again with another shake.

"Wot makes me so wild, though," she added, "is that we 'appened to be givin' a party tonight, an' my 'usband 'ad mapped out that we was going to get the expenses back at fives an' threes at thrippence a time, an' now if this 'ere little plague ain't been and broke up the only set wot we know the backs of."

Colorado Couple Is Happy Now

In a little town in Colorado there has happened a "near" miracle. A man cured his wife of a running varicose ulcer and they are the happiest couple in the state. Four boxes of Allen's Ulcerine Salve did it. (Name and address on application).

Allen's Ulcerine Salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 has been known as the only salve powerful enough to reach chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing. Because it is so powerful it often heals burns and scalds without a scar in a remarkably short time.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve heals from the bottom up and draws out the poisons. If applied on new cuts and sores it heals in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. Sold by The Spencer Pharmacy Co., and other leading druggists.

VILLA TAKES OVER THE PRESIDENCY

General Proclaims Himself in Charge of Republic of Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 4.—Francisco Villa has proclaimed himself in charge of the presidency of Mexico. This was announced in a telegram from Gen. Villa received last night by his agents here. Villa appointed three agents to take charge of the civil government.

Villa gave as his reason for assuming the office that his forces had been separated from the convention government headed by Roque Gonzales Garza as provisional president, who left with the Zapata forces, when they departed south from Mexico City at its occupation recently by Obregon's Carranza troops. Villa telegraphed from Aguas Calientes under date of yesterday the following:

"On account of communications having been cut off between the convention government and the division under my command and as public service cannot be interrupted on the extensive zone which I control, I have found myself compelled to assume the political authority, creating three political administrative departments: The foreign affairs and justice department, in charge of Attorney M. Diaz Lombardo; state and communications, Gen. Luis De La Garza Cardenas; treasury and industry, Attorney Francisco Escudero."

QUEEN OF DENMARK AND SONS.

This picture just received from Copenhagen is of the queen of Denmark and her two sons—her only children. One of them, Prince Christian Frederick, will be 16 years old in March. The other, Knud, will be 15 in July. The queen was Princess Alexandrine of Mecklenburg.

OPEN WINDOWS AND WEATHER

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

Does your bedroom window drop with the mercury? Do the window openings that cannot be too wide in the summer time gradually narrow down to an inch or two at this season of the year? Do you think that your need for fresh air diminishes with the arrival of the first cold wave? If so, you are greatly mistaken.

If the thought of wide open windows in zero weather is appalling, pluck up courage and try a small dose first. You will find that it is far better to spend more money for blankets and comfortables than for doctor bills and medicine, and eight hours' sleep in cool, fresh, invigorating air is a far better stimulant than anything that comes in bottles, no matter what the claims on the label.

It may be that your daily business demands your presence in stuffy, overheated workrooms or offices where the regulation of the temperature is not within your individual control. It may be that your fellow workers or employers are not wise enough to appreciate the value from a business standpoint of good ventilation in the workrooms. If it is your misfortune to be so confined try and make up for it by giving yourself the maximum amount of ventilation during the hours of sleep.

Night is the time for mental and physical building up. This demands fresh air. It is impossible to properly purify the blood with used air. It is just as necessary to bathe the blood while it is passing through the lungs with clean air as to bathe your body with clean water.

Sleeping with your windows wide open the year around is a matter of habit and of bed clothes. Nature intended us to have fresh air to breathe both day and night. If you have any lingering memories of the old wives' tale that night air is injurious, put it aside. This, like many another old saying, has no foundation in fact.

RELIC OF NAPOLEON DAYS.

Chicago Tribune: Hedwig Stavne, who can prove by official papers that she was 120 years old on Oct. 15 of last year, is believed to be the only person in Germany who saw Napoleon's army marching on Moscow. Today she sees the armies of the czar and of the French republic fighting against her fatherland.

Frau Stavne, known in the village of Dormarwo, in the district of Meseritz, as "babusia," or grandmother, was born in Pleschen, on the Russian frontier. Her father was an innkeeper, and what she remembers best about the French soldiers is what they ate at her father's inn. She saw the soldiers of Jerome, the right wing of the grand army, pass, and although they behaved well, she says of them: "The beggars wouldn't eat black bread," and so her mother had to kill the ducks and geese for them.

Later the Cossacks drove the French back across the border, and these were less pleasant invaders. Her father was forced to flee for his life to a neighboring forest, and there he hid for days while his daughter found means to carry food to him.

EQUALITY OF SEX.

Youth's Companion: There is a little girl in Springfield, Mass., who, like many of her sex, resents the imputation that the feminine mind is not so strong as the masculine.

One day her mother remarked on the apparent lack of intelligence in a hen.

"You can't teach a hen anything," she said. "They have done more harm to the garden than a drove of cattle would. You teach a cat, a dog or a pig something, but a hen—never!"

"H'm!" exclaimed the child, indignantly. "I think they know as much as the roosters!"

A Never Failing Way to Banish Ugly Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

No woman is immune to superfluous growths, and because these are likely to appear at any time, it is advisable to always have some delatone powder handy to use when the occasion arises. A paste is made with some of the powder and water and spread upon the hairy surface; in about 2 minutes this is carefully removed and the skin washed. You will then find that your skin is entirely free from hair or fuzz. Be sure, however, to get real delatone. —Advertisement.

ATTRACTIVE DISHES EASILY PREPARED

By MARY JANE McCLURE.

Casserole of Rice and Beef.—One tin of roast beef, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, one egg, one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one-fourth cup of bread crumbs and three cups of cooked rice. Season the meat and mix with crumbs and egg. Add just enough stock to bind. Line a mold with half the rice. Fill with the seasoned meat and cover with the remainder of the rice. Cover tightly and steam thirty minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Jellied Veal.—Make a rich gravy by browning one tablespoon of flour in one tablespoon of butter, and add one large onion cut fine, one fresh tomato or tomato pulp. Season with salt or pepper and let the gravy simmer until it thickens, then add one can of veal loaf and mix thoroughly in the gravy. Dissolve a package of gelatine in boiling water and mix thoroughly with the veal and gravy. Put aside to cool, then set it in the refrigerator for a few hours. Slice and garnish with parsley and a few slices of lemon.

Macaroni Milanaise.—Cook one-half package of macaroni in three quarts of salted water (boiling) until tender. Drain well and cover with cold water for ten minutes or more. Cook one can of tomatoes for fifteen minutes with a bay leaf, a bit of mace, onion, cloves, parsley, salt and pepper. Strain and thicken with one-fourth cup each of butter and flour blended together. Drain macaroni again and mix with the sauce. Add one cup of chopped green peppers parboiled, one can of tongue chopped, and put into baking dish. Sprinkle top with grated cheese or buttered cracker crumbs and bake one-half hour.

Italian Tongue.—Slice one can of tongue and pour over it the following sauce: Put one-half cup of olive oil in saucepan, and when hot add one pint of tomatoes, a teaspoon of salt, twelve olives pitted and cut in two, one bay leaf, two cloves, one-fourth cup of chopped raisins. Let boil, then simmer forty-five minutes.

Luncheon Dish.—Split and broil Vienna style sausage, and place between hot buttered toast. Add a crisp dry lettuce leaf and a thin spread of mayonnaise. Serve in folded napkin with olives and sweet pickles.

Beef Balls.—Two cans of potted meat, one onion minced very fine, three cups of mashed potatoes, salt and pepper to season, and one egg. Beat well and form into balls. Roll them in flour and fry in deep hot pure leaf lard. Garnish with parsley or lettuce leaves and serve hot.

Hash With Spanish Sauce.—With one can of corned beef hash mix one cup of boiled potatoes chopped fine. Season to taste and saute in pure leaf lard until brown, and over it pour the following sauce: Boil together for ten minutes one can of tomato soup, one-half can of shredded pimentoes, one-half can of button mushrooms; season with salt, paprika, butter and a small amount of onion juice.

Luncheon Beans.—Empty the contents of one can of pork and beans into casserole or granite baking pan, and spread over the top very thin slices of bacon. Put in hot oven about fifteen minutes and serve at once.

Tasty Sausage.—One-third pound of lean fresh pork and one can of roast beef put through food chopper. Place meat with seasoning of salt, pepper, sage and summer savory in mixing bowl and add one egg and a cup of cracker crumbs. Mix well together and form in small rolls. Sprinkle with flour and saute in hot fat.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Washington Star: In hot weather place your butter in a dish and add cold water to within an inch of the top. Add a piece of rock salt the size of a hazelnut. It will remain firm and fresh for days.

Begin at the root end of the onion and peel upward and the eyes will scarcely be affected to tears.

Use kerosene instead of soap for cleaning windows. It will repel flies and also mosquitoes.

To prevent salt from becoming damp or hardening in the shaker, place a few grains of rice in shaker when filling.

Five cents' worth of orris root put in the ordinary wash water will impart a delicate perfume to the clothes.

Piano keys can be cleaned, as can any old ivory, by being rubbed with muslin dipped in alcohol. If very yellow, use a piece of flannel moistened with cologne water.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Farm and Fireside: Before using new enameled cooking utensils grease the inside with butter. This will prevent the enamel from cracking and chipping afterward.

To stop cracks and holes in stoves, make a cement of equal parts of ashes and salt, adding enough water to form a soft paste. Use on stove when stove is cold.

To make the old lids of fruit jars look like new, boil them in weak vinegar twenty minutes, and then scrub with soapsuds and a brush.

Mending leaky pans—Take small brads and washers. Cut a piece of leather, punch a hole in it the size of the brad, insert the brad through the hole in pan, slip washer and leather on brad, and pan will not leak.

To clean food chopper—After using your food or meat chopper, run a crust of bread through the machine, and it will be much more easily cleaned.

Dip one and one-half yards of cheesecloth in water, wring, then sprinkle with water and kerosene, and hang in air a short time. It takes up all dust after sweeping and keeps floor shiny and bright.

Wild animals work great havoc in India's wheat fields.

Feel Blue—or Just Stupid?

Sluggish bowels and torpid liver usually go together, and it does not take long for constipation to produce a bad condition—a feeling of langor or laziness—the "blues," headaches, palpitation or other malady. Indeed, when in this condition the system invites more serious illness and is not able to throw off disease. Foley Cathartic Tablets are a wholesome laxative and cleansing cathartic. They act without inconvenience, griping or sickening. Sold everywhere.

ACCUSED OF SLAYING TWO

Ercole Zaccardi Alleged to Have Murdered Pair at Iron Mountain.

Double Killing Done With Shotgun During Fight in Candy Store.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Feb. 4.—Arrested in bed at his boarding house and lodged in jail, Ercole Zaccardi, 19 years old, is facing charges of having murdered Eugene Gianunzio and Palo Giunto here Monday night as the result of a fight in a candy store conducted by Vittorio Giansante.

The weapon employed was a double-barreled shotgun. Gianunzio was shot through the heart. The three men and a number of their friends had congregated at the store when finally an altercation arose over some question.

It is said that Giunto and Gianunzio attacked Zaccardi and beat him severely. During the struggle all the principals received cuts and bruises.

Store Proprietor Is Cut.

Giansante, proprietor of the store, was cut about the head by a man who used steel knuckles.

After the fight had been stopped by onlookers, Gianunzio and Giunto walked to the rear of the store and went out the back door. Zaccardi, it is charged, secured a shotgun in the store and opened fire, killing both men.

Officers went to Zaccardi's boarding house and he was taken into custody along with the proprietor of the store and placed in jail.

GRAND FORKS FAIR.

Annual Corn and Clover Convention Is Well Attended.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 4.—This, the fourth day, showed continued interest in the proceedings of the annual corn and clover convention and midwinter fair. Subjects pertaining to culture of corn and other cereals continue to be interestingly discussed. J. G. Haney, speaking of corn culture, was asked which corn was the best for North Dakota, and he said that none of them had proved to be the best, but Minnesota 13 was satisfactory. He said that Northwestern Dent was widely grown and was a good corn, but there were others better.

When asked whether a disk or shoe planter was best, he said that he had not used a disk, so was not in a position to say.

G. R. Jacobi of the First National bank of East Grand Forks presented the winners of the corn contest conducted in the East side schools during the past summer and he spoke briefly on what had been done in the way of organizing the boys into clubs and the success of the venture. A check

Corn-Mad? Use "GETS-IT," It's Sure

Makes Corns Vanish Like Magic!

A hard cap of skin makes up every corn. When you put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on it, it shrivels up and comes right off—and there's your corn—gone by thunder! Simple as taking off your hat! That's why corn-millions have gone wild over "GETS-IT"—nothing like it ever known. Some folks, to this day, putter around with bandages, sticky tape, thick plasters, corn "pulling" salves, gouge corns out with knives, snip them with scissors, make them bleed and then howl because they can't get rid of sore corns. Use "GETS-IT." There's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. The work is done, "GETS-IT" does the rest. No pain, no fussing, no changing shoes, no limping. It never fails. Try it tonight for any corn, callus, wart or bunion. Be sure that you get "GETS-IT" and nothing else.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

FINLAYSON CREAMERY PROSPERED IN 1914

Pine County Institution That Furnishes Duluth Butter Had Good Year.

Finlayson, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Finlayson Co-operative Creamery association reported a prosperous year at the annual meeting just held, officers showing the year was the best in the history of the Pine county association. The average price paid for butterfat was 29.14 cents. The product of the creamery is sold in Duluth and on the iron ranges. Officers were elected as follows: President, Henry Petry; vice president, Herman Mack; directors, Fred Anderson, H. W. Stockamp, E. Koivisto; secretary, manager and treasurer, H. E. Shafer.

CROSBY YOUNG MATRON BURIED AT DEERWOOD.

Crosby, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. James C. Anderson was held Tuesday afternoon at the Swedish Lutheran church. Mrs. Anderson had been married a short time over a year and recently underwent a number of operations. She died in a Brainerd hospital Saturday forenoon. She leaves her husband, James C. Anderson, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sjodin, brother and sisters, Rolland, Edith, Mildred and Mrs. J. C. Pleast of Riverton.

Mr. Anderson being a member of the Moose lodge, that order attended the services in a body and escorted the remains through the village limits on its way to Deerwood for interment.

CLOQUET WOODMAN CAMPAIGN IS ON.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The famous pictures of Woodcraft in three reels, which were shown here four times, Tuesday renewed old-time enthusiasm and convinced 2,500 people of the merits of the order.

At the evening programs the high school glee club and instructors' feminine quartet sang and Miss Amelia Olson contributed violin selections. State Deputy J. L. Sundean gave short talks on woodcraft.

It is proposed to secure 100 new members in the new future and have a big class for adoption.

Complete harmony prevails here now among Modern Woodman.

BAYFIELD MAN HEADS BADGER FAIR BOARD.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—The state board of agriculture elected the following officers: President, A. H. Wilkinson, Bayfield; vice president, Dr. G. A. Kletzsch, Milwaukee; secretary, O. E. Remey, Milwaukee.

Sept. 13-17 was fixed as the date for the next state fair.

HAMMOND ON HIGHWAYS.

Governor Talks at Annual Banquet of State Auto Club.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 4.—Governor W. S. Hammond spoke on "Highways" at the annual banquet of the State Auto club held at the Radisson hotel last night. Mayors Nye of Minneapolis and Winn Powers of St. Paul also spoke. The club elected officers as follows: President, John H. Hohmann, Mankato; first vice president, G. A. Kortsch, Alexandria; second vice president, Dr. D. C. Darrow, Moorhead; third vice president, Dr. A. B. Stewart, Owatonna; treasurer, J. K. Martin, Little Falls; secretary, G. Roy Hill, Minneapolis. The executive board will be composed of Mr. Hohmann, E. L. Thornton of Benson, J. E. Jenks, St. Cloud; J. L. Sullwold, St. Paul; George K. Belden, Minneapolis.

KARLSTAD FORGES AHEAD.

New Bank Being Organized and Lighting Plant Installed.

Karlstad, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' State bank of Karlstad is being organized. It will be incorporated for $10,000 with a surplus of $2,500. The shareholders are mostly farmers of this vicinity, but the chief stockholders are: J. W. Wheeler of the Capitol National bank, St. Paul; C. J. Backhus of the Capitol Trust company, St. Paul, and C. R. Gillespie, cashier of the State bank of Stephen. The concern will be ready for business about March 1. D. S. Andreason of Karlstad will be in charge.

An electric light plant is being installed here by A. C. Lofgren; John Ostlund will open a jewelry and clock repairing shop in a couple of weeks, and a new lumber yard is to be built this spring with E. A. Olson in charge.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Ellen Ward, aged 84, a resident of Milwaukee since 1848, was burned to death in her home here. It is believed her dress caught fire from a kitchen stove.

Mrs. Ward had lived alone since the death of her husband, a Civil war veteran, seven years ago. She was born in Ireland in 1830 and came to America with her family in 1847, settling in Milwaukee the following year.

FINDS FREIGHT CAR IN HIS DOORYARD.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Feb. 4.—When William Pfeiffer awoke this morning he discovered a freight car of flour lying almost at his door at his residence just south of the Worthington street crossing. The car, which had a broken wheel, had become detached from a passing night freight and rolled from the tracks into Mr. Pfeiffer's yard.

DAVIDSON'S TITLE TO JOB MADE GOOD.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—The senate yesterday confirmed, 24 to 6, the appointment of Former Governor James O. Davidson, as president of the state board of control.

A joint resolution by Senator Ackley calling for reports from different state officers of institutions and departments as to their finances, was defeated 16 to 13. The result was caused by statements that the state board of public affairs would have a statement covering the ground of Ackley's resolution, on the desks of senators next week.

Motley Man Dies.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 4.—Gust Johnson, aged 70, of Motley died at a local hospital, death being due to a complication of diseases. He was a widower. Daughters reside in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Devils Lake, N. D. He had made his home in Motley since 1883 and for some time was engaged in the stone-cutting business there.

Nineteenth Child Born.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Wallace of the town of Corliss, Otter Tail county, report the arrival of a son at their home. This is their nineteenth child.

South Dakota's Belgium Aid.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 4.—W. H. Stokes of Watertown, chairman of the state committee appointed by Governor F. W. Byrne to take charge of Belgian relief work, has filed a report showing that the donations as expressed in dollars and cents amount to $14,316.05, all of which was used in buying flour.

Noyes Reads Own Poetry.

Northfield, Minn., Feb. 4.—An audience of 600 persons heard Alfred Noyes, the English poet, read from his own works at the Congregational church here Tuesday night. "The Lord of Misrule," Mr. Noyes' latest poem and one which has not been published, made a decidedly favorable impression.

Pair Accused of Arson.

Pierre, S. D., Feb. 4.—The insurance commissioner's office reports the arrest of Arthur Brown and Jessie Brown, his wife, charged with being responsible for the fire at Wasta July 4, in which one block of the town was destroyed at a time when nearly all the residents were absent at a picnic.

Galloway — While working in the woods near Galloway, Ferdinand Hofferle was killed by a falling tree. His skull was crushed.

Oshkosh—Governor E. L. Philipp has accepted an invitation to address the convention of industrial school teachers to be held here May 17 to 19.

Marinette—Marinette and Menominee authorities have been asked to be on the lookout for George Peters, a Menominee Indian, who escaped handcuffed from a jail at Kenosha, Wis.

Oshkosh—Paul Leitz, a North-Western railroad engineer living at Antigo, was slightly injured on the Hortonville branch out of here on Tuesday. He was shoving a snowplow through when the plow struck a pack. The engine cab was crushed in and Leitz was knocked senseless for a few minutes.

Milwaukee — Immediate efforts, according to United States District Attorney G. D. Goff, will be made to apprehend Mrs. Clara Holte, the woman indicted jointly with Chester C. Loudenschleger for a violation of the white slave law. The woman was released on her own bond and her whereabouts are apparently unknown.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—The primary election that will be held Saturday, March 3, to nominate candidates for county commissioner of schools will cost over $500 for the city of Ishpeming. This amount will include the pay of ten election boards and a day's salary for each of the ten supervisors, together with mileage, when they go to Marquette prior to the election to receive the ballots.

Negaunee—Thomas Wallace of Duluth, former postmaster at Champion, is in the city on a few days' business visit.

Negaunee—T. C. Yates, cashier of the First National bank, was a business visitor the last few days at Duluth.

Houghton—Nelson Guilbault, charged with the murder of his uncle, Charles Guilbault, at Lake Linden, Jan. 19, was in the circuit court pronounced insane by a commission consisting of Dr. Alfred La Bine, county physician; Dr. A. F. Fischer, surgeon-in-chief of the Quincy Mining company, and Dr. P. D. Bourland of Lake Linden. Guilbault was committed to the Ionia asylum for the criminal insane and will be taken there at once.

Calumet—The report of Overseer of Highways James B. Burrill to the township board shows that approximately $1,000 was expended on labor and teams in the removal of snow in the township during the past month.

L'Anse—William Barbano, aged 60, a resident of the Catholic Mission at Assinins, was instantly killed Feb. 2, when he was struck by a north-bound Northwestern train on the South Shore tracks. Barbano was partly deaf and did not hear the approaching train, which struck and horribly mangled him.

Houghton—Advices were received in Houghton that John Pinto, a Kearsarge resident, will be deported. Immigration Inspector David Povey of Sault Ste. Marie wired Sheriff Cruse for information pertaining to the health and physical condition of Pinto and his son, John. Pinto is charged with attempting to desert his 14-year-old son, and with advising the person in whose keeping he left the boy to "cut him up for sausage meat."

Hancock—The popularity of Suomi college is increasing to such an extent that an addition to the business department and a larger dormitory have become necessary. These improvements will be considered at the meeting of the board of directors on March 9.

Calumet—A Portage Lake pastor says that the Copper country may furnish the superintendent for a Lower Michigan district of the M. E. church. The clergyman to whom this berth may fall is Rev. C. L. Adams of the Calumet M. E. church, the pastorate of which he has held for the last five years.

Marquette—One case of typhoid fever has been reported to Health Officer Main. The patient is Hjalmer Koskala, an engineer on the Big Bay run of the M. M. & S. E. railroad. Dr. Main, who has investigated the case to determine if possible where the disease was contracted, says that he believes the man got it in Big Bay, where there have been several cases of typhoid recently.

Ishpeming—William Argall, a resident of Ishpeming for more than thirty years, died Feb. 2 at the Cleveland location, following an extended illness with bronchial trouble. Mr. Argall was 55 years old and was born in Cornwall, England, and came to this country when he was 24 years old. He worked at the Lake Angeline mine for many years.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Lesterville, S. D.—Consternation has been created among young people here by the action of the town authorities in placing a ban on the tango, bearcat, lameduck and other ragtime dances.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Dr. Charles Medbury of University Place church, Des Moines, will deliver the commencement address to the class of 1915 of the Aberdeen high school.

Minot, N. D.—Thieves broke into the armory and carried off two first prize thoroughbred Leghorn roosters owned by E. Nordquist, a chicken coop, about $3 worth of grain feed and $4 worth of stock food.

Pekin, N. D.—Mrs. O. O. Forde, aged 60, a pioneer resident of this section, died suddenly. She is survived by two married daughters, Mrs. Lee of Pekin and Mrs. Carl Brakken near there, and Miss Clara Forde. She died of heart failure.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The monthly report of Jacob Welsh, city treasurer, shows that the cash balance of the city on Feb. 1 was $56,532.23. The receipts for the month were $16,690.16, and the disbursements $11,775.49.

Fargo, N. D.—Frank S. Henry, state land commissioner, announces the sale of school and university lands in Cass county will take place at the courthouse in this city, beginning at 10 a. m. on the morning of April 7. On that date there will be thirteen parcels of land offered, all, with the exception of two, being 160 acres each.

Grand Forks, N. D.—C. P. Collins was elected president of the Grand Forks Laundry company at the annual meeting held last night. Other officers chosen were: W. A. Crary, vice president; W. A. Collins, secretary, and W. T. Lee, treasurer.

Fargo, N. D.—The body of Mrs. Anna Gertrude Hendrickson, the woman who was murdered by her husband in this city a week ago last Thursday, has been interred in the family lot at Minot.

Grand Forks, N. D.—E. I. Pyes was elected president of the local Chaura Kadish, or Jewish burial society, at the annual meeting of that organization. Other officers chosen were H. Solow, vice president; Rev. B. M. Papermaister, secretary, and S. Panovitz, treasurer.

Valley City, N. D.—Mrs. Henning Walters of this city and her young child were burned to death. It will probably never be known just how the accident occurred, but the evidences point to a gasoline explosion, and that with her clothing afire the mother rushed into the room where the child was at play with the intention of saving it, and was overcome by smoke and flames.

Lakota, N. D.—Sheriff Smart and State's Attorney Roberts, with a corps of deputy sheriffs, quietly walked in and served injunctions and search warrants on the two Lakota drug stores. After taking out a quantity of intoxicants and removing them for safe keeping to the sheriff's office, the stores were locked up until further orders.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Miss Florence Gervais, one of the nurses in training at the Mercy hospital, is engaged as special nurse in the home of Banker Blackerby at Egeland, where she has charge of Mrs. Blackerby.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

International Falls—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greengard of Williston, N. D., have been visiting relatives here and have been guests at several parties given in their honor.

Moorhead—A homecoming party was held at the O. C. Berglund farm on the Buffalo river and over fifty relatives and neighbors assembled to welcome Milton O. Berglund, who had returned with his bride, formerly Miss Anne Sannes of Houston, who were married Christmas.

Little Falls—Albert Bell and Joseph Jeskinski have signified to County Attorney Rosenmeier their willingness to plead guilty to the charges against them. Judge Roeser expects to return to St. Cloud Saturday, and if he does, will stop off here to sentence them. Bell is charged with burglary and Jeskinski with forgery. Bell was recently captured after breaking jail.

Stillwater—The contract of the city of Stillwater with the Consumers' Power company expires April 1. The subject of a new system of lighting the city will be considered by the council at the next meeting.

Sauk Rapids—Miss Belle Miller, for several years a successful teacher, is dead. Surviving are her parents, one sister, Mrs. George Bloxam of Spokane, and three brothers, Fred C., Edward and Harry B., all of Sauk Rapids.

Crookston—The 1915 "Red River Aggie" is the annual which the seniors of the Northwest school of agriculture are publishing this year. The officers are: Editor-in-chief, John Hest, Perley; managing editor, Elizabeth Strandness, Glenwood; assistant managing editor, Lenora Garceau, Red Lake Falls; artist, Harold Grandy, Crookston; business manager, Conrad Clementson, Erskine; treasurer, Robert Billings, Audubon.

Bemidji—George Dyer, 9 years old, son of Supt. and Mrs. W. P. Dyer, died Feb. 2, following an appendicitis operation. The funeral services were held from the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Charles Gilman having charge of the service.

Rochester—Monday night, at the meeting of the city council, a petition was presented, praying that the city prohibit saloons from running restaurants or free lunch counters in their places of business. The matter was tabled for the time being.

St. Cloud—A committee consisting of C. F. Macdonald, Fred Reed and John Kaufman was appointed at a meeting of the McKelvy post, G. A. R., to arrange for a banquet to be given the veterans and their wives on Washington's birthday.

Crookston—A. D. Stephens has been notified that at the annual meeting of the Scandinavian American National Bank of Minneapolis he was elected one of the directors.

Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A Free Prescription

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing, say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona. Fill a two ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Nut Cake

Simply Delicious

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

In giving this recipe, Mrs. Hill believes it to be one of the best all-around cake recipes it has been her good fortune to make. The simplicity and uniformly good results will appeal to every housewife

K C Nut Cake

One-half cup butter; 1½ cups granulated sugar; ¾ cup milk; 2 cups flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 cup of nut meats chopped fine; whites of 4 eggs, beaten dry.

Sift flour and baking powder together, three times. Cream the butter, add the sugar; then alternately, the milk and the flour mixture; lastly the whites of eggs and the nut meats. Bake in a sheet in a shallow pan thirty or forty minutes. When cold cover with the icing and decorate with whole nut meats.

This is also an excellent white cake recipe when nuts are omitted.

Chocolate Icing

One cup granulated sugar; ½ ounce chocolate; white of 1 egg, beaten dry; ½ teaspoonful vanilla extract; ¼ cup water.

Stir the sugar, chocolate and water until the mixture boils; cover and let boil three minutes. Uncover and let boil till when tested in cold water a soft ball may be formed; beat into the white of egg, then beat until cold, add vanilla.

The nut caramel frosting given on page forty of the K C Cook's Book may be used in place of the chocolate frosting, if desired. A copy of the Cook's Book, handsomely illustrated in 9 colors, will be mailed free, if you will send the colored certificate packed in 25-cent cans of K C Baking Powder to the Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago. 85

CHINA WILL PAY BIG COMPENSATION

Heirs of Wisconsin Man Who Was Killed Get $25,000.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Pekin, Jan. 10.—The Chinese government has granted the sum of $50,000 to the heirs of Bert R. Hicks of Oshkosh, Wis., and to Albert N. Sheldon and Philip Hofman. These Americans were teachers in the Chinese college at Chentu in the interior province of Szechwan, and while on a journey down the Yangtze Kiang were attacked by river pirates. Hicks was killed, Sheldon permanently and Hofman slightly injured. The sum of $25,000 goes to the heirs of Hicks, $20,000 to Sheldon, and $5,000 to Hofman, who is now back again teaching in Chentu. The Chinese government has paid this compensation in order to demonstrate its intention to protect foreigners who accept positions under it and come to China.

THREE EXECUTED.

Three Conspirators in Assassination of Archduke Ferdinand Are Dead.

Amsterdam, via London, Feb. 4.—A Berlin dispatch received here says the execution of three conspirators in the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the Austrian throne, took place Wednesday in the prison of the court fortress at Sarajevo, Bosnia. The men put to death were Veljko Cubrilovic, Mieko Jovanovic and Danelo Ilic. Two others who had been found guilty of high treason and sentenced to death, were Jakov Kilovic and Nedjo Kerovic. Their sentences later were commuted to imprisonment for life and for twenty years respectively.

Gavrio Prinzip, the Bosnian student who actually slew the archduke and his morganatic wife, while they were visiting Sarajevo, is undergoing a sentence of twenty years' imprisonment, it having been impossible on account of his youth, to sentence him to death.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

C. F. Hall, Said to Be of St. Paul, Under Arrest at Marshall, Texas.

Marshall, Tex., Feb. 4.—C. F. Hall, 33, who gave his home as St. Paul, was charged with murder and released under $10,000 bond, following a shooting affray here last night that ended in the death of William Black, traveling lecturer of Bellaire, Ohio, and John Rogers, a contractor, and the probable fatal wounding of John Copeland, cashier of a local bank.

Black was to have delivered a lecture here last night, which he had advertised as an attack on the Catholic church. The three local men visited him with the request that he refrain from delivering the lecture, and the shooting followed. Miss Sadie Black, 18, said to be an adopted daughter of Black, told the officers she had left the room when the men entered.

Three Burned to Death.

Elkins, W. V., Feb. 4.—Mrs. George W. Doyle and two of her children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home at Cass, Pocahontas county, yesterday. The husband and father rescued two other children and sustained serious burns and a broken arm in a futile attempt to rescue his wife.

Viscount Dies of Wounds.

London, Feb. 4.—Viscount Northland, a descendant of William Penn, has died from wounds sustained at La Bassee. Viscount Northland was born in 1882.

German Auxiliary Sunk.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 4.—The Buenos Aires newspapers announce that a German auxiliary cruiser, formerly of the Woermann line, was sunk on Jan. 7 of the Patagonian coast by the British cruiser Australia. The crew was taken to the Falkland islands.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

25-Cent Bottle of "Danderine" Makes Hair Thick, Glossy and Wavy.

Removes All Dandruff, Stops Itching Scalp and Falling Hair.

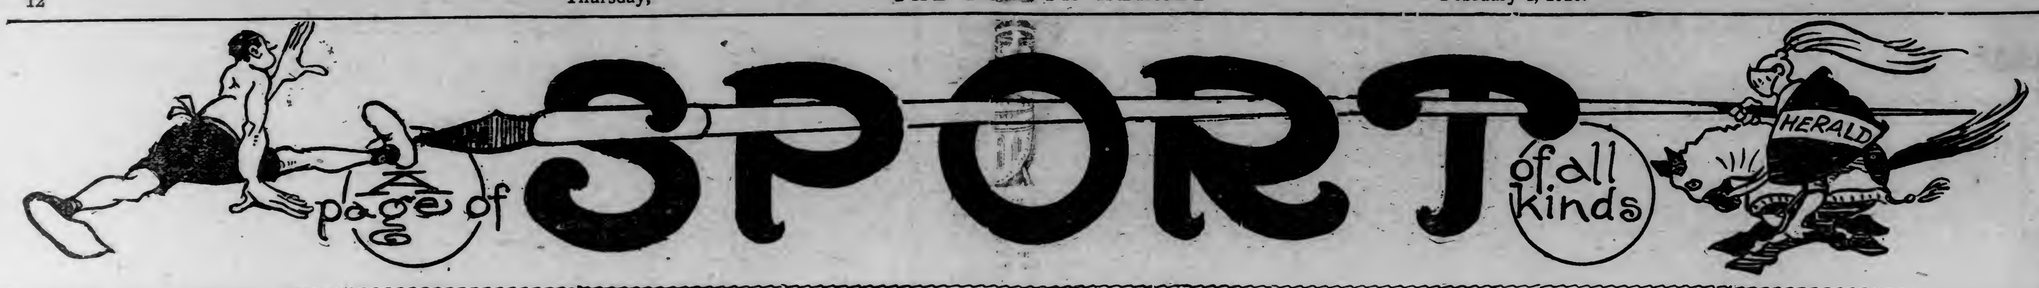

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

THE DAILY ROLL CALL; A COLUMN OF SPORTS

(By Bruce.)

MIKE COLLINS had the largest house Tuesday evening that ever witnessed a pugilistic evangelistic meeting in this section of the country. Good and reliable reports state that the cash passed from the palms of the enthusiastic to the men at the little windows, approximated $14,000. Mike is a genial Turk, a royal companion, and as square as a dull rainy afternoon on the farm is long. After some of the hard luck encountered by Michael it is well to record that the kale called and chatted for a while.

The Rare Enthusiasm.

TILTON LEWIS, sometimes known as Col. Lewis, premier promoter and impressive impresario, was among those seated at the ringside during the glove festivities between Tommy Gibbons and Billy Murray. After the mix, Tilton rushed madly for one of the returning specials. When the train passed East Seventh street, St. Paul, on the gallop, our Tilton wildly leaped and was carried with mad momentum into a snow bank. Col. Lewis was so anxious to get back to Duluth that he took chances on leaping from the St. Paul train to intercept the passing choo choo bound for Duluth. Here is another talking point for the town.

Going Up the Scale.

CHARLEY WHITE says he can lick Freddy Welsh. Freddy Welsh declares that he can take the measure of Packey McFarland. Packey McFarland declares that he can lick Mike Gibbons. Mike Gibbons is on record as stating that he can lick Gunboat Smith. Sam Langford is about the only fellow who is not picked on.

Times Have Changed.

YEARS ago a man used to apologize if he played golf; now lots of men make excuses if they don't play. The new spring styles call for sweater coats.

Depending on How You Feel.

HARRY STOUT, a referee of Milwaukee, judges pugilistic contests in a silk shirt. Hugh Black, an evangelist of Pennsylvania, attempts to save souls in a red flannel shirt. Lots of persons don't eat any breakfast.

Cheering for McFarland.

ASSURANCE flops her wings and upon the fragrant atmosphere of the morning's news declares that Packey McFarland, the handsome brewer, is to return to the ring. First Welsh and then Gibbons. Packey is a model pugilist; he has his manicure every day, shaves regularly, wears clean collars and cuffs, doesn't use tobacco—and seldom fights. He is bound to be successful.

The Way You Look at It.

JOHN BERG, a wrestler, has so large a neck that he can slide his collar off without unfastening it. John's friends are bestowing praises on the size of his neck. Some of John's enemies may sometime cast invidious insinuations regarding the size of his head.

Tom Sharkey Is Wroth.

TOM SHARKEY has arrived in the Golden West with curses upon his lips for Broadway. Sharkey could never get over the fact that he was thrown in the tombs and compelled to labor. One of the greatest insults to the pride of a pugilist is to be compelled to labor. It hurts one standing among the fighters.

LET a tobacco chewer use up half a pouch of "Right-Cut," and he begins telling his friends about the Real Tobacco Chew.

Nearly all seem to like the small chew that satisfies.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

ROTARIANS ARE BEATEN BY THE OSWEGO QUINT

Visitors From Home of Corn Starch Defeat Duluth 39 to 30.

Contest Is Greatest Exhibition of Basket Ball Ever Seen Here.

The crack Oswego basket ball team last evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium defeated the crack Duluth Rotary quint by the score of 39 to 30. In administering defeat to the Rotarians, the visitors from the corn starch belt gave the most marvelous exhibition of the floor pastime that has ever been witnessed in this city.

Followers of the game in these parts were astounded by the passing of the visitors, the remarkable floor-covering ability and the efficient manner in which the members of the opposing team were able to cover the members of the Duluth quint and prevent frequent free shots at the basket.

"Swede" Grimsted was declared in advance notices to be the greatest basket ball player in the world. Last evening the gigantic Scandinavian lived thoroughly up to the glow of the dope. The floor covering of the big fellow was a revelation, his passing mystifying, and he was a pivot around which both the defense and offense of the visitors swung.

First Half Is Close.

During the first half it appeared as if Duluth was going to hold the visitors to a very even score. This belief was speedily dispelled in the second half when the Oswegoites ran away with the game in the first few minutes of work.

Failure of Duluth men to guard their opponents, or their inability to do so, left the Oswego men a number of free and comparatively easy shots at the basket, and the visitors seldom failed to take ready advantage of these openings.

One of the remarkable points about the playing of the visitors was the strong basket shooting proclivities of the guards. Both Roberts and Alberding came clear up the floor times innumerable with the ball and made sterling shots for points.

Back passing, feinting and speedy dribbling of the ball were conspicuous features of the play of the visitors. At times so speedy and accurate was the passing of the Oswego men, and so perfectly adjusted was the team play, that it appeared as if the visitors were enjoying a little game among themselves.

Duluth Showing Strong.

Against the veteran team, the members of which have played together for the last five years, Duluth made more than a creditable showing. The spurts of the Rotary men at times brought the spectators to their feet. Duluth fought all the way, but the visitors had the class and finish and won because they knew too much about the fine points of the game.

At the end of the first half the score stood 16 to 14 in favor of Oswego. Right after the call of time for the second half the Oswego aggregation let out a link and played Duluth off its feet. Later the locals rallied and threw some beautiful baskets.

The floor covering and passing of Harris was one of the decided features of the game. Dick Bradley was another of the stars. But no player of the locals stood out clearly above his mates. All played lustily against a finished aggregation.

Oswego, outside of the towering ability of the huge Grimsted, presented a bunch of players who played with machine-like evenness and uncorked sensational features as a team rather than as individuals.

It was the greatest game by far that has ever been played on a local floor and was witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a game here.

The lineup and score:

Oswego—		Rotary—
Murnane (capt.)	f	(capt.) Harris
Nolls, Murphy	f	D. Bradley
Grimsted	c	Johnson and J. Bradley
Roberts	g	Zeeman, Solheim
Alberding	g	W. Bradley

Goals—Harris, 2; D. Bradley, 3; Johnson, 2; Solheim, 1; W. Bradley, 1; Zeeman, 2; J. Bradley, 1; Murnane, 2; Nolls, 8; Grimsted, 4; Roberts, 2; Alberding, 3.

WHYTE AGAINST BADGER ALL-STARS

Duluth Rink Meeting Stiff Opposition in Portage, Wis., Bonspiel.

Portage, Wis., Feb. 4.—Elmer Whyte of Duluth is meeting the all-star rinks of Wisconsin at the Portage bonspiel this week. He won the first game in the fourth event by defeating Jones of Portage, 16 to 6. In the opening round of the first event (the Phillips trophy) Whyte won from Illinger, Portage, 13 to 10.

Whyte lost the opening game of the second event (the Conkle trophy) to J. A. Raup, Portage, 18 to 5.

Slowey of Portage also defeated Whyte in the preliminaries of the third event (the Portage hotel trophy) by a score of 13 to 9.

Thirty-six rinks are competing. Last night the visitors were entertained at a smoker at the Elks' club.

The Reedal and Bloomfield rinks of Phillips are curling in great shape and will be pitted against Whyte in the first and fourth events today.

BILLIARDS

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 4.—Calvin Demarest defeated Marcus Catton 300 to 133 in a National Billiard Players' league match last night. High runs and averages: Demarest, 67, 12; Catton, 25, 8⅝.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 4.—John Kling of Kansas City defeated Martin Maley of Detroit 0 to 41 in a 104-inning interstate three-cushion billiard match last night.

CORRI FOR REFEREE.

Official of English Sporting Club Asked to Act for Johnson and Willard

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 4.—Eugene Corri, official referee of the Sporting club of London, Eng., has been agreed upon as referee for the fight between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard at Juarez, Mex., March 6, according to an announcement made here yesterday by the promotor of the fight.

A cablegram was sent to Corri asking his acceptance.

DULUTH SKI TOURNEY MAY BREAK ALL RECORDS

Greatest Meet Ever Held in America Is Prediction for Contests on Chester Hill—Glenwood Club Favors Duluth as Permanent Home of National Tournament—World's Distance Mark of 169 Feet May Be Shattered.

From the list of entries on hand it appears certain that the eleventh National Ski association meet of Saturday and Sunday will be without a doubt the greatest ski meet ever held in America.

A special train will bring the Glenwood, Minn., riders in tomorrow evening. The famous ski band will be one of the distinct attractions of the big meet.

All doubt as to the attitude of the Glenwood people regarding the attempt that is to be made to have Duluth voted the permanent home of the National Ski tourney were removed today with the receipt of a letter from Secretary G. C. Torguson, secretary of the Glenwood club, which stated in unequivocal terms that Glenwood was not after the national tournament for 1916, but was heart and soul with Duluth on the matter of making this city the future home of all the national meets.

Business Meeting Saturday.

The business meeting of the national association delegates will be held in the rooms of the Commercial club on Saturday evening. Officials and directors of the Duluth Ski association are sanguine that the result of this meeting will be that Duluth is to become the ski center of America, just as this old town is now looked upon as the curling center of America.

Interest in the tournament that promises to eclipse all former records set up here—and possibly produce a new world's distance mark—is very great. A young woman visiting Duluth who is from Honolulu, has been remaining over in the city for a week in order that she may be able to witness the big spectacle.

The mist of today is just what the officials of the local club have been hoping for. If the weather grows colder the going on the high hill of Chester will become as smooth as ice and will aid greatly in the assaults that will be made on the present distance mark of 169 feet, hung up at Ironwood, Mich., two years ago.

Ragnar Omtvedt, holder of the present record, will be here to assist in the efforts to increase the mark. All of the greatest amateurs and professionals in the land will also be present to make the meet a glittering and glowing success.

Some of the finest trophies ever competed for at a national meet have been donated and are on display in various Duluth stores at the present time.

With the roadways cleared from the lower streets of Duluth to the very base of the big slide, access to the grounds will be a very simple matter. It is believed that society will be out in force. A glittering string of automobiles is expected to add a unique aspect to one of the most picturesque gatherings that can be found at any athletic meet throughout the length and breadth of the land.

AMERICAN OWNERS DO VERY LITTLE

Removal of Draft Rule Left in Ban Johnson's Hands.

New York, Feb. 4.—For five hours yesterday, President Ban Johnson and the baseball club owners of the American league were in executive session here at the league's annual schedule meeting. At the close of the meeting the only affirmative action announced was the adoption of the playing schedule for 1915, which was made public.

It was expected that some definite action would be taken by the major league yesterday in reference to the removal of the draft rule from the class AA league clubs of the national association.

President Johnson's secretary announced that this matter had been discussed and that it was unanimously voted to leave the question in President Johnson's hands. No change was made in the player limit of twenty-five now in force in the American league, although at the December

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The American league will open its 1915 campaign on Wednesday, April 14, with Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Detroit, New York at Washington and Boston at Philadelphia, according to the schedule announced today. The chart provides 154 games by each club as usual and the season will end Oct. 7, with Boston at New York, though the other teams will have wound up their quota before that date.

Since May 30 and July 4 fall this year on Sunday, the holiday doubleheaders are appointed for the following Mondays. On May 31 St. Louis plays at Cleveland, Detroit at Chicago, New York at Washington and Boston at Philadelphia. The July 5 doubleheaders find Chicago at St. Louis, Cleveland at Detroit, Philadelphia at New York and Washington at Boston. The Labor day games are Cleveland at Chicago, St. Louis at Detroit, Washington at Philadelphia and New York at Boston. St. Louis gets the June 17 holiday at Boston.

As was the case last year, the conflicts have been reduced to four, so far as the National league is concerned, and again they are all in Chicago, on Sundays. Chicago leads in Sundays at home, with fourteen, and is tied with the four Eastern clubs with thirteen Saturdays at home.

EUROPEANS WIN SIX-DAY RACE

Egg and Verri Make New World's Record in Chicago Contest.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Oscar Egg, Switzerland, and Francesco Verri, Italy, won the six-day bicycle race ending here last night, with 65 points, covering a distance of 2,804 miles and 8 laps and beating the world's record set in New York last year of 2,791 miles and 9 laps.

Jimmy Moran of Boston and Reggie McNamara of Australia were second, with 58 points, and Clarence Carman, Jamaica, and Frank Corry, Australia, third, with 54.

MINNESOTA GRIDIRON SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 4.—Seven games will be played by the University of Minnesota football team next season, according to the following schedule approved by the university authorities:

Oct. 2, North Dakota university at Minneapolis; Oct. 9, Ames, Iowa, agricultural college at Minneapolis; Oct. 16, South Dakota at Minneapolis; Oct. 23, Iowa at Minneapolis; Oct. 30, Illinois at Urbana, Ill.; Nov. 13, Chicago at Minneapolis; Nov. 20, Wisconsin at Madison.

SCOTTISH RITE MEN CONTINUE TO WIN.

The Scottish Rite indoor baseball team continued its winning streak by defeating the Ionic nine last evening at the Masonic temple. The score was 18 to 10 and the game was one of the best played in several weeks. Anderson and Frederickson were the batteries for the winning nine, while Grochau and Butchart worked for the Ionic lodgers.

The next game in the Temple league will be played between the Trinity and Palestine teams next Tuesday evening.

After Championship Regatta.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 4.—The New England Amateur Rowing association at its meeting last night voted to send a committee to the meeting of the national association to request that the annual championship regatta be held in the Charles river basin here.

READY FOR HIBBING TEAM

Central High Basket Ball Team Will Meet Range Five Friday.

Hard Game Expected—Locals Show Great Improvement.

Spurred on by their easy victory over the Denfeld five last Friday evening the Central high school basket ball squad has been working hard all week in preparation for the big Hibbing contest of tomorrow night. The range town has always turned out an exceptionally fast team and this year's bunch is no exception. Last year the locals won from Hibbing in a sensational contest by the disputed score of 30 to 29. This time, however, the range men are confident of going home on the long end of the score.

Judging from the form shown by the locals in practice this week the invaders will have to travel to win. Coach Glyer has been working hard and has perfected a new combination which, it is thought, will work wonders. While the personnel of the team is the same and they remain at their old positions, a shift to considerable advantage is made as soon as the ball is put in progress. Scrivens has just about recovered from his injury and will be in his same wonderful form again tomorrow evening; Karon has improved greatly and is expected to put up his usual classy exhibition; Moore, while still at center, figures in the new shift and plays considerably better as a result; Taylor puts up his usual scrappy and fast game and, last but not least, Capt. Solheim has been playing in grand form. "Sollie" also figures in the new shift and the 26 points he made in the Denfeld game show the result.

In a practice game with the Rotaries early in the week the high school men held their opponents to an uncomfortably close score and played in surprising form. That they have made a marked improvement since the Cathedral game is certainly evident and they should make a good showing during the remainder of their hard schedule.

Coach Walter McMillan of the Hibbing team has developed a crack aggregation and is making a strong bid for the range championship. On the range trip of Central, beginning Feb 19, the return game will be played. The St. Paul game has been called off because the local schedule will not admit of a return game, and the Saints will not play at all unless there are two games. It was to have been played on the evening of next Saturday, Feb. 6. The announced line-ups for tomorrow follow:

Central—		Hibbing—
Scrivens	f	Murphy
Karon	f	Kaiser
Moore	c	Porteus
Taylor	g	Williams
Solheim	g	Quayle

Stuffing and Snuffling

EVERYONE who has ever had an acute attack of the great indoor plague, coryza or "common cold," knows that an active cathartic is great medicine to clear the head. A dose of salts, next to an adequate supply of moving, cold, night air in the shape of a draft blowing steadily over the bed, is among the most essential remedies for acute coryza. It works by depleting the portal blood vessels and emptying the liver. And since these veins directly communicate with the veins of the stomach, esophagus, throat and nose, it follows that engorgement or congestion of the nasal lining is relieved by the action of the salts.

Now if it helps an acute congestion of the nasal lining to take a saline laxative, it also helps a chronic congestion or inflammation, or catarrh. And if depleting an engorgement of the liver is good for catarrh, preventing the engorgement or congestion of the liver should be even better for the chronic nasal trouble.

To prevent congestion of the liver you must reduce the amount of protein food you are consuming, cut down on meat particularly, but on other hearty foods as well. The full-blooded individual with chronic nasal trouble can do nothing better for his "catarrh" than to adopt the fruit breakfast plan with a more or less rigid vegetarianism for his other meals.

It goes without saying that alcohol in any form must be interdicted before a chronic catarrhal trouble in the head can possibly be cured. Likewise tobacco. These narcotics are contributing causes of chronic inflammation of the mucosa, and permanent relief cannot be obtained while their use is continued.

Over-eating is very obviously one of the chief predisposing factors of chronic "catarrh" of the head. Stuffing and snuffling are simply cause and effect.

Questions and Answers.

B. G. writes: Please explain what mastoiditis is, and what are the dangers involved in an attack.

REPLY.

Bony air-spaces in the temporal bone behind the ear canal communicate with the "middle ear"—the ear inside the drum. Inflammation of the middle ear—a gathering—sometimes extends into these bony air-spaces. This is mastoiditis. The danger is involvement of the brain, from which the mastoid bony air spaces are separated by a paper-thin wall of bone. If this wall becomes eaten away by inflammation or pus, then very serious results ensue and life is endangered. Operation is the only safe treatment for mastoiditis.

A. H. B. writes: What is a good lithia water for rheumatism? Is lithia advisable for all forms of rheumatism?

REPLY.

Lithia has no particular influence on joint disease. Water drinking may do much good.

* * *

M. W. writes: How soon is scarlet fever communicable? And how soon does it become safe for the patient to mingle with other people?

REPLY.

Scarlet fever is communicable from the moment of first exposure. The present belief is that it becomes safe to remove quarantine only when all nasal or throat discharge has ceased, and all ear discharges or other discharging complications are healed. As a rule six weeks is the period of isolation.

* * *

Mr. C. V. A. writes: Is it advisable to have children's temporary teeth treated by the dentist if they decay?

REPLY.

By all means have the children's teeth properly treated. One little cavity in a child's mouth may be the port of entry for tuberculosis. And the first cavity encourages further decay, just as a rotten apple in a barrel is apt to spoil others. If the primary teeth are kept sound the permanent teeth will come in even and give little trouble in after life.

Richard M. Dudley asks: Is there any special precaution we can take to escape typhoid fever? Our water supply is under suspicion and our city has a high typhoid rate always.

REPLY.

First, you can boil all your drinking water. Second, you can fight flies all the year round. And finally, if you wish to make it certain, you may be vaccinated against typhoid by your family doctor.

Last evening the French rink was the scene of a hockey carnage. The poor little Bagleys were charged by the Universals and driven scattering from the trenches. The final count in the one-sided contest was 10 to 1. At half time the count was 7 to 0. By Herculean efforts the watchmenders managed to make one lonely score in the closing period of play.

Phil Wood was one of the stars of the winners. The puck carrying of this boy was one of the features of the game, and he worked nicely with combination passes. Curly Harris was another of the stars of the flour men, with "Beany" Brown figuring in the thick of the offensive drift.

Bagleys Outclassed.

In the matter of team work and offensive and defensive work, the losing team was simply outclassed. Borgeson at rover and Anderson at center did some stellar work for the jewelry men, but the team work of the Bagleys was weak and the effort at combination was speedily broken up by the superior checking of the winning team.

Donald was tried out in the second half by the Universals. The lad went in at right wing and played a bangup article of hockey. This is his first trial in fast company, and he holds the promise of developing into one of the stars of the team.

Wood started the scoring early for the Universals, and from the two-and-a-half-minute mark of scoring progress the shots were bombarded at the opposing goal.

DUBY MAKES REPLY TO BASKET BALL CHARGE.

"Some effort has been made to belittle the Oswego basket ball teams. The statement has been made that St. Paul defeated Oswego twice and that Red Wing also defeated Oswego. The Oswego team did not play in St. Paul. The Ascensions of Minneapolis defeated the Oswego boys and at Red Wing the Eastern quint won two games and lost one. Duluth lost to one of the greatest teams in America, as any one witnessing the game will admit."

Statement by Lawrence Duby, manager of the Duluth Rotary basket ball team.

MIKE YOKEL EXPECTED

Mormon May Witness the Battle Between Miller and Ketonen.

The Little Finn Is Practicing on a Wicked Old Headlock.

BY BRUCE.

"Old" Mike Yokel promises to trek half way across the continent to witness the "battle of a season." Word received from the Rocky Mountain Lion yesterday was to the effect that the pride of the Mormons would occupy a front row ringside seat and take in some of the effective wrestling points of Miller and the sensational little Finn, Waino Ketonen.

Either Walter Miller's long-cherished dream of attaining to the proud eminence of the world's middleweight title will be rudely shattered on Tuesday evening, or the lavish claims that have been set up for little Waino will go whistling down the caverns of time.

This coming contest is not for the middleweight championship of the world. The winner of the combat of Tuesday evening, however, will hook up with Mike Yokel, and this is the reason why Mike has made arrangements to take in the battle from a point of vantage.

Finn Is Sure Right.

If ever a wrestler is in the pink for a crucial contest, the name of that person is Ketonen.

For several hours each day of the present week the little Finn has been grilling away and doing a prodigious amount of work. A stretch of two hours on the mat is not considered by Ketonen to be a vast amount of labor.

Big wrestling partners, little wrestling partners and partners of all sizes are being used by the Finn. Heinie Nolte, the former central football star, who was wrestling instructor at the University of Wisconsin, is going to take a mat whirl with Ketonen, and Billy Trepanier, athletic instructor of the Kitchi Gammi club, has promised to bring over some more huskies to round out the strenuous work.

Miller Performing Labor.

The diminutive Pole poured forth some utterance today in a letter to the narsils of Col. Lewis, impressario. Walter says he is boxing daily with Eddie McGoorty as part of his conditioning, and also working with the huge Charles Cutler and the speedy Earl Caddock, without a doubt the greatest amateur wrestler in the world.

Walter is laboring in Berstein's big gymnasium in Chicago and is enjoying the advantage of every facility for training. The Pole has some of the greatest wrestlers in the land to work with and has also baths and massages to put him in the very prime of physical condition.

When Walter crawls through the ropes on next Tuesday evening and throws off his bathrobe, he should be in the shape of his life to make the effort of his career to convince local followers of the game that he has not a peer in the world at 158 pounds ringside weight.

Ketonen Rules Favorite.

The little Finn continues to rule favorite with the Duluth followers of the game. However, Miller has a host of followers who refuse to concede where the Finn should be accorded any advantage.

Miller's speed and endurance qualities are expected by some to offset the remarkable power of leverage execution possessed by the Finn.

From the practice in headlocking indulged in by Ketonen during his daily workouts here, it may be expected that Miller will be severely throttled across the face with some of these tearing holds. Big Lahti, a 135-pound blacksmith, possessed with a huge chest and remarkable neck, was viciously headlocked the other afternoon by Waino. The big fellow's head was pulled back almost to his shoulder blades and to the side in ugly and agonizing positions.

It is true that many feats are pulled in a training camp that fail of execution in the actual battle; but Ketonen is pulling a sensational line of wrestling wares in his training work, and if he uncorks this brand of wrestling against Miller, some lovely party is going to be enjoyed by the fans.

Sailor Jack has asked for another chance before the Duluth fans and has promised to give Pete Petkoff, the Bulgarian, a touch of high life.

Jack declares that he can and will stake the stocky and thick-chested string boy to one real licking. As an appetizer to the "battle of a season," this preliminary is filled with racy promise.

ECZEMA ON HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

Especially the Finger Joints. Would Crack and Bleed. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Healed.

Hotel Summers, Minneapolis, Minn.—"My eczema troubled me most in my hands, especially the finger joints. I felt at times like tearing the flesh off. It first appeared as a rash and it itched and burned. The joints would crack open and bleed at times. I could pull small pieces of scaly skin off and then the part would be very tender. Several of my finger nails came off. Cold water seemed to make the eczema worse.

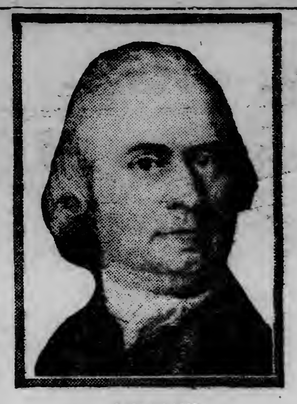

"An old friend told me to use Cuticura Soap to wash with and Cuticura Ointment on retiring at night. I did and now I have not the slightest itchy feeling, not a mark or scar. Cuticura Soap and Ointment healed me." (Signed) George Lowther, Oct. 8, 1914.

Retain your good looks, keep your skin clear, scalp clean and free from dandruff, and hair live and glossy. Cuticura Soap, with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will promote these coveted conditions.

Sample Each Free by Mail

With 32-p. Skin Book on request. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.

SAM ADAMS

The most resolute and forceful champion of American Independence. Second cousin of Pres. John Adams. Precipitated the war with England by leading "The Boston Tea Party."

Sam Adams, Father of the American Revolution Was a Boston Brewer.

Elbert Hubbard says that when King George sent Gen. Gage to make peace with the Colonists who had figured in the Boston uprising, there were two deemed too indomitable and dangerous to be safely pardoned. "The two men thus honored were John Hancock and 'one S. Adams'." "Samuel," says Hubbard, "was stern, serious, very much in earnest, seldom smiled, never laughed. He was uncompromisingly religious, conscientious and morally unbending." He conducted his father's, and later, his own brewery. More than any man, not excepting Hancock, Hubbard thinks, was he responsible for the Revolution.

Massachusetts has honored Sam Adams, the brewer, as her foremost citizen by erecting his statute at the capitol in Washington. Such are the men who have been fed by the wholesome juice of the malt.

THE DELIGHT OF "A DRAUGHT BEER IN BOTTLES"

The best draught beer is better than the beer heretofore sold in bottles.

The best draught beer has a delightful flavor and aroma and a rich wholesomeness utterly lacking in beer heretofore sold in bottles.

You, sir reader, must have noted and deplored this.

By the invention of the Kieselguhr filter (first of its kind in America), you now have Fitger Natural Beer in bottles, identical in taste, aroma and character with the finest natural draught beer.

The bottle beer commonly in use* is unfiltered. In Fitger Natural Beer you have our finest natural draught beer in bottles, filtered by Kieselguhr filtration to a purity and brilliancy *heretofore unknown.

FITGER Natural Beer

"A Draught Beer in Bottles"

In brewing Fitger Natural Beer only a small part of the nourishing ingredients of barley malt is transformed into alcohol, the larger part remaining a liquid food par excellence. The small proportion of alcohol, very much less than in cider, acts as a healthful stimulant to digestion. A meal, and the digestion of it, is much improved by

SENIORS WIN CLASS TITLE

Juniors Are Defeated at Hockey By 5 to 1 Score.

The seniors of Central high school yesterday defeated the juniors at hockey by the score of 5 to 1. The result of the contest gives the class title to the fourth year men. The seniors displayed superior team work and better combinations. While the juniors showed up some strong individual playing, the team work of the seniors and the sterling work in speedily breaking up combinations, saved the day and prevented any real damage being done by the juniors.

The game was fast and well played and brought out some fine work in both halves.

The lineup and summary:

Seniors—		Juniors—
Gates	g	Richards
Bartlett	p	Walsh
Collins, Westover	cp	Alexander
Parsons	c	Jenswold
Hegardt	r	Wharton
Gunderson	lw	McIntyre

CURLING

Play in three events is drawing near to the semi-finals. The events are the Herald, Bagley and Universal. The games committee is rushing the games through and it is expected that the finals in The Herald and Bagley will be played off during the coming week. Speculation as to the winning rinks is beginning to take enthusiastic form.

Play in the Manley-McLennan event will begin at the Duluth Curling club tonight.

Clough and Joel Gates, Jennings and Stevens are the Superior skips expected to attempt to defeat the four rinks skipped by Bradley, Whyte, McLeod and Dinham. Some great games are expected and a large gallery is expected to be on hand.

Following is the result of the games of last evening and the draw for this evening:

WINS SUIT FROM SURETY COMPANY

Jury Finds in Favor of Virginia Man in Building Contract.

In Judge Cant's division of the district court late yesterday afternoon, a verdict for $1,738.15 was returned in favor of Frank J. Hughes and against the Equitable Surety company, on a surety furnished Hughes by Peter Grande, a contractor, who was engaged to alter and repair a building in Virginia two years ago last October. Hughes claimed that the contractor failed to comply with the terms of the agreement and that when the work was completed he had to pay a number of claims to material men.

He brought suit against the surety company on the bond demanding $3,474.50. The contract price was $6,650 and the amount of the bond furnished was $4,000. The case was tried at the last term of court but the jury disagreed. John Jenswold, Jr., appeared for the plaintiff and the company was represented by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell.

ON THE IRON RANGES

GRAND JURY ENDS PROBE

Number of Indictments Returned, Some of Which Are Made Public.

Town of White Man Indicted for Driving Wife Out Into Cold.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The grand jury which began looking into pending cases on Monday finished its work today. A number of indictments were found but only four were made public.

It has been rumored that the grand jury would make wholesale indictments of blind piggers and keepers of bawdy houses on the range, but these did not develop up to noon.

There are two indictments against William Matilla, a homesteader of the town of White, said to have chased his wife from their house in scant clothing in below zero weather Dec. 24 last at the point of a loaded revolver. Assault and carrying concealed weapons were the allegations preferred against Matilla.

Chisholm Man Indicted.

Allen Lloyd is indicted on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. He is accused of stealing a suit case from Edward Hubert at Chisholm Jan. 21. Paul Raitai is also indicted, charged with grand larceny in the second degree. He is said to have stolen five quarters of beef, valued at $60, from Oscar Ferra Dec. 7, at Mesaba.

DAMAGE ACTION STILL ON TRIAL

Suit to Recover From Sheriff Holds Boards in District Court.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of M. J. Helmer of Chisholm vs. the Merchants Warehouse company of Hibbing and Sheriff John Meining to recover $1,000 damages for a team of horses, wagon and harness taken by the sheriff last February, which began in district court yesterday, is still on today, having been delayed by the illness of John Curran, one of the defendants.

V. L. Power, who represents Sheriff Meining and the warehouse company, alleges that several offers were made by his clients to return the team, but that these were refused by the plaintiff. He also alleges that when the team was taken, Helmer agreed to it, as it was given as settlement on an account.

Helmer denies that he agreed to the taking of the team by Deputy Sheriff Little, and that he said, "You can't take the last team that a man has," when the sheriff took the horses. The property is exempt from attachment, and it is on this basis the plaintiff is placing his plea that the team was illegally taken.

Settle Keewatin Suit.

C. A. Kilander & Co. have settled out of court with C. A. Remington of this village for material used in the construction of the Keewatin school for $2,676.86, the full amount of the claim held against them.

The case was one of several cases settled by opposing attorneys yesterday afternoon.

V. L. Power, representing C. A. Remington, convinced Courtenay & Courtenay, attorneys of Duluth, that Remington was entitled to pay for the material which was used in the school building construction. He also showed that the National Surety company, who had released $1,500 on a bond furnished for the contractors, C. A. Kilander & Co., acknowledged the indebtedness, despite denials of the contractors.

BLIND PIGS FLOURISH.

Easy to Get Served in North Side, Virginia, Says Alderman.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—Alderman Murray, chairman of the license committee of the city council, reports that the blind-pig conditions on the North Side are deplorable, probably as bad as ever in the history of the city, and is urging that some stringent action be taken to remedy this matter at once.

Mr. Murray says that it is possible for all parties who know the proprietors of the blind pigs to go into these places at any time of the day or night and purchase liquor of all kinds in any quantity wanted. He states that the saloon men here are compelled to pay a license fee of a considerable amount, and therefore should be protected from the blind pigs.

MOUNTAIN IRON IS TO HAVE NEWSPAPER.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Feb. 4.—The village council met Tuesday evening and routine matters were disposed of, including the payment of bills against the village. A building on the present site of the proposed new city hall was sold at auction to Charles Murphy for $55. It was decided to have the old water tank torn down and disposed of. It was decided to encourage the establishment of a newspaper in the village by authorizing the publication of the proceedings of the various meetings of the village council in it. This paper will be started by Mr. Doyle of Buhl, who has been publishing a paper there for several months. The first issue will appear Feb. 13.

If You Are Ten Pounds Or More Under Weight

And Want to Put on Flesh.

If you are thin, undeveloped and under weight and would like to quickly put on ten or more pounds of sound healthy flesh between your skin and bones, walk right into Boyce drug store today, step on his penny weighing scales and see exactly what your weight is now. Then step right over to the drug counter and tell the clerk you want six boxes of Sargol the Flesh Builder—a full sixty day treatment—and begin taking the tablets right away. When the tablets are all gone, go back to Boyce drug store, step on his scales again, weigh yourself once more and if you haven't gained at least ten pounds of good solid, healthy flesh, step right over to the drug counter and tell the clerk you want your money back and he will give it to you cheerfully and promptly. Many thin people say, "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when some one suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance, nothing will make me plump, I'm built to stay thin." Until you have tried Sargol the Flesh Builder, you do not and cannot know this is true. Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted and in spite of their doubts and we think it will put flesh on you but the only way you or we can ever know is for you to try it. If you gain the weight its money well spent and if you don't it costs you nothing for Boyce Drug store or for that matter any druggist in Duluth and vicinity is authorized to return every cent you paid if the results do not satisfy you.

FATALLY INJURED ON WAY TO DULUTH

Man Run Over While Going to Collect Legacy of $2,000.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—While on his way to Duluth to collect a legacy of $2,000 left by a relative in Oregon, Leo Durban, a young man said to have wealthy connections in the Webfoot state, was run over by a Great Northern passenger train near Swan River yesterday, while it is said he was trying to steal a ride, both legs being taken off and his right arm crushed.

He was brought to a local hospital in a dying condition and there is little hope for him. Before lapsing into unconsciousness he said his father was a well-to-do resident of Oregon. In his pocket was a telegraphic money order from his father.

WOODSMAN KILLED BY MISSABE TRAIN

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Archer Maki, employed at the Oreckla lumber camp near here, was killed last night at Mitchel, one mile from Hibbing, by the 11 o'clock Missabe train from Duluth. His brother, Otto, is here. The body was taken to Barrett's undertaking rooms.

PRAISES HIBBING SCHOOLS.

Rev. Mr. Coolbaugh Tells Cloquet High Students About Range Village.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Mr. Coolbaugh of the Episcopal church of Hibbing, formerly of this city, spoke to the students of the high school and gave a very favorable opinion of Hibbing and the Hibbing schools.

"The Hibbing school buildings are among the best in the Northwest," said Dr. Coolbaugh, "but are only a symbol of the enormous wealth of the adjacent country." He expressed the opinion that Hibbing would some time be one of the richest cities in the world, as it has property valued at $82,000,000.

SUSPECT EVELETH BOYS OF STEALING FLOUR.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A warehouse near the Missabe depot, owned by the Kovanlenl company, was entered and two sacks of flour stolen. It was found where one sack had been sold and the names of several boys were learned as the guilty ones. Some action may be taken today in the matter.

EVELETHIANS WILL ASSIST BELGIANS.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ladies' societies of the different Eveleth churches have united to raise a fund for the purchase of milk for the starving babies of Belgium. A committee of five will be named by each society and it is planned to give a big supper, the proceeds to be spent for milk.

VIRGINIA BALL TO FURTHER CHARITY WORK

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—On Friday night the city band will be host at a charity ball in the Moose hall. All of the printing, the hall, music and advertising for the event is being furnished free of charge and every cent which is taken in at the doors will be turned over by the committee in charge, to Mayor Michael Boylan, who is to spend the money in any manner he deems fit, for the benefit of the poor people of Virginia.

DULUTHIAN WILL PREACH AT EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Lillicoe of the First Methodist church of Duluth will preach Sunday morning at the Methodist church in this city. In the evening services will be conducted by Rev. Hovis of Endion Methodist church of Duluth.

HIBBING MOOSE ARE FOR STATE SANATORIUM

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Loyal Order of Moose will give a dance at the armory Friday night. At a meeting last night several new members were initiated. The membership of the local lodge is now near the 400 mark.

According to sentiment expressed by members it is possible that the local organization will co-operate with the Duluth lodges to get the $500,000 sanatorium to be built by the order, constructed in Minnesota.

DULUTHIAN SHOT WHILE CLEANING GUN.

Iron Junction, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Holmberg of Duluth, age 21, accidentally shot himself through the knee Sunday while camping at the west end of Elbow lake with John Sanberg of Iron Junction. He had cleaned a 32-caliber revolver and was reloading it when a cartridge in the chamber exploded. With the aid of his companion he walked to Iron Junction and caught a train to Duluth, where he had the wound treated.

LUMBER OPERATOR IS BURIED AT HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John Banks, aged 43, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Johnson of Brooklyn, who died Monday in a Chisholm hospital of cancer, was held this afternoon from the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. J. B. Idstrom officiating. Mr. Banks had lived here many years and operated extensively in the woods. He died on the day preceding his birthday.

Eveleth Club Smoker.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club will meet Monday at the Auditorium to enjoy a smoker and lunch and hear talks on topics pertaining to the work which should be accomplished. The Duluth Commercial club will furnish a speaker and there will also be visitors from the Virginia club.

TWO DAMAGE CASES HAVE BEEN SETTLED

Actions Against Chisholm Saloon Keepers for Lives Lost Dismissed.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two rather unusual damage cases were dismissed in district court today, having been settled, but on what basis is not known. Both were against John Pavsha and Frank Meddid, Chisholm saloonkeepers, for the deaths of two men drowned in Longyear lake about two years ago, who are alleged to have become intoxicated on liquor sold by the defendants. There were three drowned.

Kate Champa sued for $5,000 for the death of her husband who was one of the drowning victims, claiming he got full in the defendant's saloon and going on the lake with others, also intoxicated and acting recklessly, was drowned. Frank Gorse and Mary Gallnar were the other plaintiffs who sought a similar sum for the death of John Gorse, who was also drowned.

GOES TO MOUNTAINS.

Biwabik Tuberculosis Patient Sent to Colorado Sanatorium.

Biwabik, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Tuesday Gunder Nelson, a brother of Bert Nelson, who has been afflicted with tuberculosis, was sent to a tuberculosis sanatorium in Colorado. Mr. Nelson is a member of the Modern Woodmen and that organization has taken his case in hand and arranged to have him receive the benefits of the sanatorium which is kept up by the Woodmen.

Mr. Nelson has been a long and patient sufferer.

VIRGINIA SALOON MAN IS SUED FOR DAMAGE.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacob Saika, a local laborer, and his wife, Ludvika, today began a damage suit in district court here against George E. Hamilton, the man asking for $1,060 and the woman for $1,500. They allege that Saika, while in the European bar here, on Dec. 31 last, run by the defendant, was set upon by a drunken customer and beaten so severely that his leg was broken in two places. He wants damages for loss of time, doctor's bills, etc. The wife seeks damages for loss of her husband's company, mental anguish, etc.

CHISHOLM-VIRGINIA DEBATE ON SATURDAY.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia-Chisholm high school debate, which was to have been held in the high school here last night, has been postponed until Saturday evening. The local team, Burton Freedy, John Lipovetz and Wilbur Hayes, will take the affirmative of the government ownership question. A musical program will be given.

BLIND LUMBERJACK TO COUNTY POOR FARM.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ryan, aged 65, well known lumberjack of this section, who, forty years ago, was known in Upper Michigan as one of the best toploaders, has gone blind and today he was taken to the county poor farm at Duluth. He says there is little chance for the old-time lumberjack in the woods nowadays, as the lumber outfits hire mostly "kids" and green hands.

POPULAR HIBBING BOY PNEUMONIA VICTIM.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Wenning, age 14, a popular Hibbing lad, died last night from pneumonia following six days' illness. The funeral will be held Saturday.

CHISHOLM BRIEFS.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many music lovers heard the Chicago quartet Tuesday evening at the auditorium of the high school. A highly enjoyable program was rendered.

The local Moose members will attend a monster iniatation and social at Virginia next Tuesday evening, instead of their regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Sapero announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Esther Sapero, to Max Wain, one of Chisholm's well known business men.

J. J. Stukkel has received an order for seed potatoes from L. B. Arnold of the Iron Range railroad demonstration farm. Mr. Stukkel won a large number of prizes at the last St. Louis county fair.

Virginia Moose to Entertain.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—Virginia Moose members will entertain brothers on the range at a social evening, Feb. 9 at the Moose hall. On that evening thirty-five candidates will be initiated. A committee was appointed to prepare entertainment for the visiting Moose. A class of three candidates from Cussons was taken into the lodge Tuesday evening.

Sues Casualty Concern.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 4.—Sam Divjah has started suit for $240 against Duluth Casualty association. The plaintiff alleges that he had an accident

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

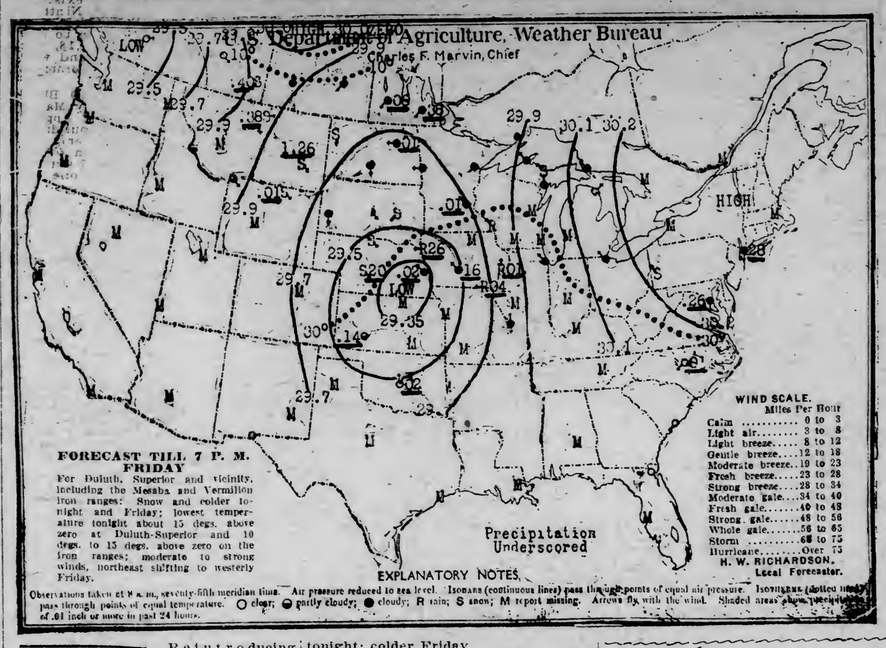

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10 and 25c per box. All druggists.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

Introducing Mr. C. Naughton Dawg, in his various impish attitudes. Something like early spring today—or like April with snow still on the ground and April showers threatened. Melting has been going on fast and lasted most of last night. While the air bears a feeling of dampness, it is not unpleasant and the mildness is more than welcome.

A year ago today was cold. The sun rose this morning at 7:29 o'clock and will set this evening at 5:15, giving nine hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Moderate to mild temperature prevails generally, but the weather has begun to turn colder over portions of the Northwest. Much colder weather is probable in St. Louis and Douglas counties during Friday and Friday night. During the last twenty-four hours snow or rain fell throughout the Northwest, Central and Eastern states. Many reports are missing on account of inadequate telegraph service."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Minnesota—Snow tonight and Friday; much colder.

Wisconsin—Rain or snow tonight and Friday; warmer in east portion tonight; colder Friday.

Iowa—Rain or snow tonight; colder in west and central portions; Friday threatening and colder with rain or snow in east and central portions.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; colder tonight.

South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; snow in east portion tonight; colder tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight.

Lower Michigan—Rain or snow tonight and Friday; warmer tonight and in southeast portion Friday.

Upper Michigan—Snow tonight and probably Friday; warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

ELEVATOR PLAN IS KILLED BY LOFTUS

Threatens to Blacklist Legislators Who Oppose the Project.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 4.—The blacklisting of every member of the legislature who opposes the plan for a state-owned terminal elevator was threatened by George S. Loftus, of the Equity Co-operative Exchange, at the state convention here. The motives of the legislators opposing the terminal were impugned, while others were maligned and abused because of their stand on the question.

That Loftus by his drastic plan of campaign has killed any chance the elevator forces had before the session of the legislature, is the opinion of many. That many who were undecided upon whom Loftus and others heaped ridicule, have been swung into line against the proposition, is generally conceded.

During the course of the meeting, the entire roll of the legislative assembly was called, and members were marked as "right" or "wrong." Attacks of a personal nature were made on several who oppose the movement.

Political death for every opponent of the plan was the club which Loftus sought to swing over the legislators, and it was long after midnight before policy in the defendant insurance company and that it was specified that he should be paid $5 per week when disabled. During the latter part of January, 1914, the plaintiff, who lives here, suffered a broken leg and for that reason had been unable to work until the present time, he claims. He is suing for damages for the forty-eight weeks which he was laid up.

the lobbies of the downtown hotels, filled with delegates and legislators, quieted down. Remarkable bitterness has been engendered and there is no question but that the terminal plan has been set back.

The meeting was preceded by a turbulent session in the chamber of the house of representatives which was used by the Equity society part of the afternoon. Representative Treadwell Twichell, facing galleries that were filled with Equity delegates, all of whom favored the terminal plan, asserted that the terminal would not bring the relief that the farmers of North Dakota are seeking.

Bitter personal passages between Twichell and Loftus featured Twichell's argument.

BAD NIGHT FOR "JOHNS" OF DULUTH

Seven Out of Ten Prisoners Bear This Common Monaker.

After several days of good behavior, John was unable to stand it any longer and went on a spree yesterday, judging from police court records this morning, which showed seven "Johns" out of ten arrests for the day.

At 2 o'clock John Milton Branch, alias John Bradford, alias John Harris, was brought in on a charge of begging. Fifteen minutes later John Strand appeared and was charged with drunkenness.

From then on until 11 o'clock the Johns came, singly and once in pairs, led by the strong arm of the law.

This is the way the police blotter looked: John Branch, aged 22; John Strand, aged 28; John Peter Erickson, aged 50, drunkenness; John Hanson, aged 27, drunkenness; John A. Gustafson, aged 32, drunkenness; John Hayes, aged 49, drunkenness, and John Martin Gardner, aged 26, drunkenness. All but Hayes pleaded guilty to the respective charges in municipal court this morning. Hayes' trial was set for tomorrow.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

NEW DRUG ACT DRASTIC

Handlers of "Dope" Will in Future Undergo Strict Regulation.

Records of All Sales Must Be Kept; Law Is Revenue Producer.

Users of habit-forming drugs will have hard sledding after the new drug law goes into effect March 1 and dealers in such drugs will be severely dealt with if they violate the law. The new act is primarily a revenue-producing measure, but will perform a dual purpose.

The new law provides that records must be kept of every drug sale, every druggist must register, vicious patent medicines are prohibited and a druggist caught with drugs that have been placed under the ban may be fined $2,000 or imprisoned for five years.

The measure has been given little publicity up to this time, although it is said that it is more drastic in checking the sale of bad drugs than the state law of 1913 against the sale of narcotics.

Revenue Producer.

The measure is a revenue-producing act and blanks will be forwarded to Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Ira Coburn by the middle of February. Up to this time Mr. Coburn has received no instructions regarding his duties in regard to the act.

It is said that the Federal law provides that any person handling such drugs as cocaine, morphine, etc., must register and pay a yearly tax of $1. Every time the drugs pass from one firm to another a special blank must be filed and kept for two years as part of the record. Physicians, dentists and veterinarians are exempt from this provision, but they must keep a record showing the amount of drugs dispensed, the date of the sale and the person making the purchase.

Blanks must be filled out by every person who produces, imports or manufactures, compounds, deals in, dispenses, sells, distributes or gives away opium or cocoa leaves or any compound, manufacture, salt, derivative or preparation thereof.

CAMPAIGN FOR INTER-CITY ROAD

Auto Men Pledge Support to Duluth-Twin City Project.

A general campaign for the proposed Duluth-Twin Cities highway was started at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Automobile association held in Minneapolis Tuesday evening, according to Dr. J. D. Park, president of the Duluth Auto club, who represented the local organization at the gathering.

Dr. Park, who returned yesterday, said that all the delegates present pledged themselves to work for the highway and that an effort is to be made during the present session of the legislature to secure some state action in behalf of the roadway.

Dr. Park delivered an address on "Convict Labor for Roads," at the banquet Tuesday evening.

NORTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE

Bill to Abolish Publicity Pamphlet Killed By the Senate.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bratton bill, proposing the abolishment of the publicity pamphlet, failed to carry in the senate, which indefinitely postponed it. The bill was designed to do away with the publicity pamphlet as published during the last two elections and which has been a financial failure to the state.

There still is a chance that four-year term legislation will be enacted, the senate having before it, on favorable report from its committee, three such bills. One of these bills increases the terms of state officials to four years; another provides for the extension of the term of the governor to four years, and another provides for sessions every four years of the legislature.

The house received yesterday the rules of procedure to be employed in connection with the investigation of the board of control. These rules give the board an opportunity to make a written reply to all charges made

YOUR HEAD AND STOMACH

Headache caused by a disturbed digestion is nearly always accompanied by pain in the stomach, belching of gas, vomiting and often by constipation. This sort of headache is generally located in the forehead and is not constant but comes and goes.

It does not come on immediately after eating but after the food has had time to ferment which it does because the digestive fluids that should take care of it are insufficient, because the glands that secret these fluids are weak, because the blood is failing to nourish these glands properly.

Rich, red blood is the first essential to proper digestion and the digestive process cannot go on without it. When lack of nourishing blood causes fermentation and poisons are absorbed from the digestive tact, the pain in your head advises you of the fact. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give the blood just the elements they need to correct this condition and, with a laxative, when required, form a perfect treatment for the headaches of indigestion.

Mention this paper and we will send you two little books on the diet and the proper use of a laxative. Address: Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

against it. After that time an open hearing will be held.

The Lathrop finance committee of the legislature has completed its study of the financial conditions of the institutions of the state and is now concluding its' work by giving attention to the other state departments.

DR. SIRKIN COMING.

Noted Hebrew Lecturer Will Speak in Duluth Feb. 15.

Dr. N. Sirkin, Zionist and lecturer, will speak in Duluth under the auspices of the Duluth branch 353 of the Workmen's Circle at the Odd Fellows' hall, 18 Lake avenue north, Monday evening, Feb. 15.

Very seldom Duluth Jews have a chance to hear a good lecturer in their own language, being far away from Jewish centers.

Dr. Sirkin has been a delegate to Zionist conventions a number of times. Lately he has devoted some of his time to Socialism and is a strong advocate of it.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT ON CROOKSTON JOB.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 4.—T. B. Degnen, the newly-appointed superintendent of the northern division of the Great Northern, arrived from Seattle yesterday and assumed his new duties as the successor of Supt. R. S. Knebel, who left today for his new post at Minot, N. D.

Dining Car Waiter Dies.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 4.—Andrew Gibson, colored waiter on a dining car of the Northern Pacific railway, died at a local hospital and the remains were sent to St. Paul, from which point the union he belonged to will send the remains to his former home in Philadelphia. Mr. Gibson was a widower, 41 years old.

"HEALTH PREVENTION DAY."

Indianapolis News: He was a Muncie boy of 16 years who was "serving" his first term in school. The honor was thrust on him to ride in a gaily decorated float in the Disease Prevention day parade, given under the auspices of the Muncie city officials.

As he was hurrying away from home after his noon meal, anxious to be early on the school grounds in order that he might not miss anything, a playmate shouted at him: "Hi, Willie —what's your hurry?"

Willie, his chest inflated, strutted up to the other with all possible dignity and replied: "Why, don't you know the teacher pointed me t' be the health prevention parade?"

KEEP LIVER AND BOWELS REGULAR WITH CASCARETS

No More Headache, Bad Colds, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All druggists sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

WEST END IMPROVEMENT CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

P. J. Borgstrom Heads Oneota Organization—More School Room.

Peter J. Borgstrom was elected president of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at its annual meeting last night. The other officers chosen are: Joseph B. Gibson, vice president; O. A. Wicklund, secretary; E. D. Kirbs, treasurer; and Conrad Wicklund, O. M. Holmes and J. P. Daly, trustees.

The chairmen of committees were elected as follows: P. J. Borgstrom, public works; J. B. Gibson, utilities and new industries; O. A. Wicklund, safety; E. D. Kirbs, finance; Conrad Wicklund, schools and parks; O. M. Holmes, social; and J. P. Daly, economy.

PETER J. BORGSTROM.

A resolution was adopted asking the school board to take immediate action in building the proposed addition to the Merritt school. The building is said to be inadequate for handling the school population. Members of the club said that the rooms of the building were, in some cases, crowded beyond their capacity. The matter is to be taken up at the meeting of the school board on Friday evening.

The club also went on record as favoring the opening of Superior street through, giving Third street, west of Thirty-fourth avenue, to the western end of the city for traffic. The proposed route would go under the Northern Pacific railroad tracks in the vicinity of Thirty-seventh avenue west and follow Halifax street to Forty-ninth avenue and then connect with Ramsey street by way of Fifty-second avenue west. No action was taken regarding the paving of either Third or Oneota streets.

OREDSON TELLS WAR EXPERIENCES

Duluth Doctor Writes for Medical Journal Concerning Wounds He Treated.

"Work of a European War Surgeon" is the title of an article appearing in the Feb. 1 issue of the Journal-Lancet, a journal of the Minnesota State Medical association, and written by Dr. O. A. Oredson of the West end. The article relates some of the experiences of the local surgeon in treating wounds while in Europe during the early part of the war and is illustrated with X-ray photos of fractures caused by bullets.

Dr. Oredson describes some of the wounds and how they were received and tells of some wonderful escapes. He says in part:

"The favorite position of the German soldiers when attacked by the opposing force is to lie on their stomachs. In this position they can raise themselves from their elbows and look over a breastwork thrown up in front of them for protection. One of these men was shot from the side. A bullet pierced the arm on a level of about two-thirds the upper part of the humerus, going into the chest slightly above the nipple-line, but only in the muscular part. The man had a somewhat hollow chest, hence the bullet skipped the width of the sternum, again entering the fleshy part of the chest on the other side, passing out, and again entering the arm without doing injury to any of the bony parts, blood-vessels or nerves. It was a most remarkable escape. In fourteen days' time the man was well, and quite willing to go to the front once more."

Dr. Oredson also describes injuries to the eyes and face as well as fractures caused by bullets and tells what methods the surgeons on the field are taking in caring for these injuries. He said that every seriously injured eye is removed.

Alumni Will Meet.

The Adams Alumni association will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at the Adams school, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street. Following the business meeting a social program will be given. The program includes a piano solo by Miss Mary Lynch, song by the Alpha Omega club, reading by Miss Myra Willesen, and songs by the Second Presbyterian church quartet.

Will Elect Officers.

The West End Commercial club will hold its annual election of officers this evening at the Simonson hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street. The members will outline the work to be taken up during the year. A large attendance is expected.

West End Briefs.

Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, will speak on "The Religious Consequences of Friendship" at the midweek services this evening.

The Danish Sisterhood lodge of the West end will entertain at a dancing party at the Woodman hall Feb. 11. Mrs. C. J. Johnson is at the head of the committee of arrangements.

The Brotherhood Club of the Central Baptist church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the St. Peter's Episcopal church, returned this morning from Cloquet, where he has been attending the annual pre-Lenten convocation of the Duluth deanery.

APPEALS FROM JUDGMENT.

Lakeside Resident Has Misunderstanding as to Freight Charges.

When John Slavik, Lakeside resident, picked his dwelling house from a catalogue and later had the materials shipped from Chicago to Duluth, he failed to have an understanding as to who should pay the freight charges. Sears, Roebuck & Co., the Chicago mail order house from whom Slavik purchased his home last October, obtained a judgment against Slavik for $199.65 in municipal court to cover the transportation charges.

Slavik, in district court yesterday afternoon, entered an appeal from the judgment of Judge Windom of the lower court.

LITTLEFORK BRIDGE CONTRACT AWARDED.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 4.—The county commissioners Tuesday let the contract for a steel and concrete bridge across the Littlefork river in the Harrigan district, 63-22, for $5,990, the Illinois Steel company being the successful bidder. Eight concerns bid on the job, thus making the competition keen, the high and low bids varying about $3,000.

MARKET HAS NEW UPTURN

Wheat Reacts Sharply on Continued Heavy Call From Exporters.

Flaxseed Turns Firm With Buying in Small Lots By Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 4.—The market turned easier at the close on realizing sales and some liquidation.

May wheat closed 3½c up and July 3½up. May durum closed 1½c up and July 1½c up.

Oats closed 1¼c up at 57⅝c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.27; barley 6c up at from 78 to 87c and corn ¾c up at 75¼c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ⅛c off at 67⅝.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.46¼ and calls at $1.60.

With a steadily ascending market, wheat holders had reason to feel cheerful today. After opening 1½c off, as a result of some further overnight liquidation, the wheat market turned strong on persistent buying, and yesterday's break was largely recovered. May wheat opened 1½c off at $1.50½ and advanced 5½c to $1.56 at the noon hour. July opened ⅛c off at $1.48 and moved up 4⅜c. Durum also turned strong, but there were no fireworks in it. Good calls from exporters was reported during the session, and anything offering was readily picked up. May durum opened 1c off at $1.58 and advanced 2½c. There was no trading in the July future.

Duluth operators reported persistent export inquiry at the seaboard, but owing largely to the disarrangement of the wire service, no business was worked locally. Minneapolis reported sales today aggregating 1,500,000 bu of No. 1 northern wheat to go forward all-rail to the seaboard. Over 750,000 bu were disposed of at Chicago for foreign shipment, and Omaha advised the working of substantial business in hard winter wheat. Urgent inquiry was also noted at Kansas City, resulting in advancing the cash market there 3@4c.

With a view to checking public speculation and in a great measure eliminating the wide fluctuations in the grain markets, operators at the leading markets are reported to be taking a stand in imposing higher margins on trades.

At Minneapolis, dealers are said to be asking 20c margin on wheat, but trades in corn and oats are still being accepted at 5c a bu margin. Some of the leading Chicago operators are now said to be asking customers to put up 25c a bu margin on wheat. The call for additional margins down there is averred to have helped to precipitate the heavy break yesterday morning.

Receipts of all grains on the Duluth market are showing large gains over last year at present, as a result of a tendency on the part of farmers to realize at the high prices now prevailing.

Flaxseed Turns Firm.

There was fair trading in flaxseed in small lots and after showing some weakness at the start, the market firmed up. Crushers showed more of a disposition to pick up supplies and offerings were light.

May flax opened 1c off at $1.58, and closed ¾c up at $1.90¼ bid. September opened ½c off at $1.89½ and closed ⅝c up at $1.90¾ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ¼c off at $1.68¼ and July 1¼c off at $1.69.

MARKET GOSSIP.

J. S. Weidman of Mount Pleasant, Mich., was a visitor on the floor of the Duluth board of trade, the guest of his brother-in-law, W. C. Mitchell, president of the board. He said that business through Southern Michigan has picked up very materially of late and that general confidence is felt regarding the outlook for the year. Farmers down that way harvested good crops and with the high prices realized they are in splendid shape financially. Beans are selling at $3 a bu down there for example. Preparations are being made for placing a large acreage under crop next spring. Mr. Weidman is interested in the lumber trade and is hopeful regarding future prospects. The call for lumber has shown improvement recently with the better building outlook.

Receipts of grain at Duluth so far this crop year are making a close comparison with a year ago. Arrivals of all grains from Aug. 1 last to Feb. 3 were reported at 77,893,597 bu, compared with 77,545,939 bu during the same period last year. Wheat receipts come to 51,397,928 bu against 54,242,623 bu a year ago; corn, 1,845,631 bu against 367,380 bu; oats, 6,278,629 bu against 4,560,515 bu; barley, 9,648,233 bu against 9,474,470 bu; rye, 4,053,640 bu against 968,569 bu; and flax, 4,469,536 bu against 7,942,382 bu.

Shipments of all grains from here from Aug. 1 last to date have aggregate 63,785,859 bu against 67,890,917 bu last year.

C. E. Lewis received a letter from a friend in Chicago whose brother-in-law is on the general staff of the French army as an interpreter, which reads as follows:

"I have received a letter from the same person who told me that Italy would go to war and they insist that Italy will go before the end of the war. The party is very well informed for reasons which I told you verbally. Being on the staff of a French general and having much to do with correspondence, he should know. In his last letter he stated that they did not believe that war would be finished in eighteen months from now, stating that the English staff thought war would last at least from 24 to 28 months, and this was a very conservative estimate."

Flour business at Minneapolis was reported in a week or ten days. There were fair export sales and better domestic bookings. Wire service handicapped millers on their Eastern business. Cash market was slow on account of the unsettled condition of the market. There was some buying on flat basis of $1.54 to $1.55 for No. 1 northern blue stem. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.52 to $1.56½ and No. 2 northern at from $1.49 to $1.54.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Bulls Take Advantage of President's Speech and Send Wheat Prices Up.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Bulls in the wheat market were quick today to utilize President Wilson's speech as a help to overcome yesterday's big drop in prices. It was urged by bull leaders that the address was of high significance as an official appreciation of the food grain shortage in the world and as implying that the president was not in sympathy with a grain embargo. The market was also assisted by signs of fresh purchasing here for European account. After opening 1¼c off to ⅝c higher, the market advanced to a point 2—@3⅜c above last night. Big margins failed to check very much today the activity of the market.

Subsequently export buying of flour as well as wheat brought about a further advance, especially in May wheat. The close was unsettled at 3⅛c to 4⅞c above last night.

Corn showed some heaviness at the start, but rallied sharply when wheat started upward in earnest. Country offerings to arrive were small. The opening, which varied from ¼c off to a like advance, was followed by a material rise all around.

Profit-taking by longs and the slowness of Eastern demand caused someness of Eastern demand caused somewhat of a setback later. The close was nervous, 1⅛@1⅜c to 1⅞c net higher.

Oats took the same path as corn. Cash houses led the buying.

Outside investors gave unusual support to provisions. The best call was for pork.

Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.60½@1.66; No. 2 hard, $1.61@1.66½. Corn—No. 4 yellow, 74@75½c; No. 4 white, 74½@76½c. Oats—No. 3 white, 59@59¾c; No. 4 white, 58@59c. Rye, No. 2, $1.30; barley, 81@89c; timothy, $5.50@7; clover, $12.25@15.

Pork, $17@19.10; lard, $11.02; ribs, $9.37@10.12.

HIGHER MARKET IN COPPER METAL

Calumet & Hecla Raises Its Price to 15 1-8 Cents; Coppers Strong.

Mining stocks were strong at Boston today with good investment buying reported. Outside business was estimated through the continued disarrangement of the wire service. Butte & Superior was the feature, selling up 75 cents to $48; Copper Range was traded in $1 higher at $34.50; Granby up $1.25 at $63.25; Mohawk $4 up at $60; North Butte $1 at $23.75; Shattuck 50 cents up at 23.

In the curb list there, Calumet & Corbin sold at from 17 to 21 cents, and Jumbo Extension at from 95 down to 85 cents.

At New York Amalgamated Copper sold at from $54.50 to $51; Anaconda unchanged at $27.25, and Utah Copper 25 cents off at $53.50.

An interesting feature in today's mining stock market was the intimation that Calumet & Hecla is asking 15⅛c for its copper.

* * *

The bulge of $8.50 a share in Mohawk to $60 during the last two days has been brought about through the strike of a body of ore at the property running twenty pounds of copper to the ton. The company has been paying its present dividends on an average of 14-pound copper ore.

STEEL TRADE BETTER.

Orders Increase Rapidly; Pig Iron Supply Is Being Reduced.

Authorities in the Pittsburg, Sharon and Chicago districts aver that improvement in iron and steel trade conditions is apparent this week. Steel mills are estimated to be now operating on a basis of 50 per cent of capacity as compared with around 35 per cent early in January.

Orders and specifications for practically all descriptions of finished steel products are said to be increasing, and plant operations are improving accordingly. An interesting feature commented upon is that stocks of pig iron, which had been increasing steadily for months, are now being reduced. In that connection it is mentioned that the Carnegie Steel company reduced its pig iron supplies to the extent of 21,000 tons in the course of ten days' operations, and has just placed in commission five additional blast furnaces, giving it twenty-eight furnaces in operation out of its total of fifty-nine.

Steel prices, while not being advanced rapidly, are stiffening at points, with no recessions being reported in any direction. Advances in prices in plates and shapes are expected to follow the Republic Iron & Steel company's recent advance of $1 a ton on steel bars. A second advance in nails and wire is foreshadowed to go into effect within a few days.

MOVEMENT DOWNWARD

Stocks Open Firm But Soon Decline Under Heavy Liquidation.

Extreme Dull Prevails in Afternoon and Closing Is Irregular.

New York, Feb. 4.—Stocks displayed general firmness at today's opening, despite the lower range reported by London. All the leaders opened at slight advances, which were soon increased. The feature was Bethlehem Steel, which rose 1⅝, with gains of almost as much in the special group. High grade railway shares seemed to be in moderate demand and United States Steel moved up almost a point. National Biscuit and American Sugar were exceptions to the higher trend, and United States Realty, which had been conspicuously weak, declined 7 points to 41, a point over its minimum.

The market received a decided setback in the first hour on offerings of Canadian Pacific and Southern Pacific, causing recessions of 1 to 2 points. Selling of Canadian Pacific was assumed to be for foreign account, while Southern Pacific was sold by a prominent brokerage house which usually represents important interests. Temporary cessation of this movement partially restored the price level, with further gains in motor shares and other specialties. Toward midday, however, more liquidation and lower prices were encountered. American Sugar was weakest of the industrials, selling off 3½ points to 103½.

Bonds were steady.

The extreme dullness of the afternoon was followed by further selling in the final dealings. The closing was irregular.

SOUTH MORE HOPEFUL.

Cotton Exports to Europe Are Now Large and Growing.

Advices are being received by Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers with business connections in the South, to the effect that more hopeful sentiment is developing down that way. While merchants and other interests in the southern states are being compelled to go slow at present, owing to the tie-up in the cotton trade, strong hopes are entertained that the congestion will be cleared up much sooner than had been expected.

Cotton exports to Europe are now large, and promise to be heavy during the next few weeks. Expectations now are that the season's exports to March 1 will aggregate 5,000,000 bales, while early predictions had been that exports would amount to only 6,000,000 bales for the entire season, owing to the European war. Last year up to March 1, cotton exports were 6,916,000 bales, and two years ago they were 6,745,000 bales.

Speculators are averred to be persistent in their predictions that cotton will sell up to 10 cents a pound shortly. Spot holders of cotton at New Orleans are reported to have become indifferent about selling at present figures of around 8¼ cents a pound, affording the suggestion that there is no more distress cotton now in the interior.

PROUD OF THEIR CAPACITY.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Apropos of West Virginia's dryness, Mayor Rockwell of Pleasant Farms said:

"On account of its high summer temperature the consumption of beer in this state from June to September used to be remarkable. There were some ill-advised West Virginians who were even proud of it.

"Two such men, residents of Grafton, spent their summer vacation in New York. Their first evening in New York was devoted to roof gardening. On a cool roof garden, under the shining stars, they saw on every side well-dressed people drinking iced drinks through straws.

"This sight amused them, and, when the waiter came for their order, the older Graftonian said:

"'We're from Grofton. Brink us two buckets of beer and two gas pipes.'"

HISTORY IN A SHOE STORE.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: There recently came to a fashionable shop a daughter of a man whose wealth has been acquired within very recent years. The young woman was disposed to patronize the clerk and rejected a number of classy slippers he produced for her approval.

Finally she said: "I think, perhaps, I shall take these two pairs. But XV heels are too high for me. Give me a size lower—or, say, perhaps Louis XIII will be high enough."

CRUSHERS ARE BUYING SEED

No Longer Banking on Argentine Crop to Break Market.

Take Domestic and Canadian Flax for Storage Profit-Taking.

Crushers have been geting into the market during the last six trading days and the result is that, up to yesterday, the seed has been advancing steadily. Yesterday a slump came, a case of profit taking, for speculators have been getting into the market strongly since it became evident that the interest of crushers in domestic seed has been renewed.

As was mentioned a week ago, crushers have been importing Canadian seed into this country and storing it at Minneapolis. They have been buying the domestic seed also for the same purpose, it is claimed. Only recently they were announcing arrangements for the chartering of bottoms to bring up Argentine seed, and that story caused a slump in the domestic market; but now there seems to be a contrary condition. It is now claimed that many of the ships which it was supposed could be chartered to bring up the South American flax, have been withdrawn from the grain trade and have been diverted to other branches of transportation, where more money for services could be obtained. That has left the matter of securing vessels for the Argentine seed in rather a precarious position for at once rates again assumed a prohibitive level and the idea of importing the Southern seed was at once abandoned until more favorable conditions arise, if they do this year.

The crushers, knowing that they will soon have to have seed, as the manufacturing demand is increasing, have turned their attention to getting enough American and Canadian seed in storage so that they will not be caught napping.

The slump yesterday came with a general crash in the market in all directions. The profit-taking idea seemed to have become epidemic in all lines, and flax went with the rest.

The receipts of domestic flax remain about on the same level as last week, being much less than last year, while the receipts of bonded are away beyond those of last year. Shipments are nil; and stocks are piling up.

DELAY ON SUBWAY CAUSES COMPLAINT

Residents Want Traffic Swung Back to Main Highway.

Delay in the construction of the subway under the Northern Pacific railroad tracks at Smithville is causing considerable unfavorable comment in the suburbs. The residents are complaining most because the delay is putting off so much further the time when the traffic between the suburbs and West Duluth can again be swung back on the principal highway.

At present team traffic has been diverted to a route that makes the distance about a half mile longer and is in some places dangerous to travel. One steep hill, at the bottom of which is a sharp curve, is said to be very dangerous. The road is also said to be in bad shape for traffic.

Work on the building of the subway was begun shortly after the first of the year. After work had gone on about two weeks, it suddenly ceased. During the last week nothing has been done, say residents of Smithville. This delay will, they believe, set back considerably the reopening of the thoroughfare for traffic and may mean that traffic will have to be suspended almost entirely during the spring thaws.

SUBURB SEWER SYSTEM RUSHED

Good Progress Made at Gary and New Duluth; Ice Being Stored.

Construction work on the sewer system at New Duluth and Gary is being rapidly pushed. The city has at present 155 men employed on the job. It is estimated that fully one-half of the men who were idle before Christmas, are now working. Many of these have found employment with the ice companies, which are putting up the summer's supply at New Duluth and at Spirit Lake.

R. Murchison, commissioner of public works, inspected the work so far done at New Duluth yesterday afternoon. This morning he said that about 2,000 feet of sewers had already been laid.

GET READY FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

Commercial Club Appoints Its General and Sub-Committees.

Reports of committees will be the principal feature of the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club to be held tomorrow evening. The banquet committee has chosen its various subcommittees and at a meeting to be held in the near future the date of the big annual affair will be decided upon. The members of the general banquet committee are:

W. B. Getchell, chairman; M. J. Murray, L. A. Barnes, Emil J. Zauft, J. E. Foubister, David Sang, Angus G. Macauley, John A. Eklund, P. H. Martin, Thomas Olafson, M. J. Filiatrault, J. L. Keehan, and C. M. Brooks. To this committee were added five more members at the meeting held Saturday. They are Leon Pond, Peter McCormack, Dr. M. R. Zack, Stanley Strand and George P. Miller.

The following sub-committees have been selected:

Speakers—L. A. Barnes, Mason M. Forbes, W. B. Getchell, P. H. Martin and Andrew Myles.

Supper—David Sang, A. G. Macauley, John A. Eklund, Peter McCormack and M. J. Filiatrault.

Hall—E. J. Zauft, J. L. Keehan, G. P. Miller, Leon Pond and C. M. Brooks.

Tickets—Thomas Olafson, M. J. Murray, Stanley Strand, J. E. Foubister and Dr. M. R. Zack.

MANY WANT PAVING TO FULL WIDTH

Difference of Opinion as to Third Street's Roadway.

Certain property owners on Third street between Vernon street and Fifty-fourth avenue, which was recently ordered paved with a 46-foot roadway by an initiative resolution of the city commission, propose to do their utmost to have this work done this year in spite of the movement of some of the property owners, who already have a petition out asking for the annulment of the resolution. A counter petition may be started within a few days demanding that the work be carried out as ordered.

It is understood that the petition asking that the resolution be revoked is being circulated by certain property owners who own extensive tracts of vacant property located just west of the ore docks. The petition is said to be based on the assertion that Third street is a residence street and, therefore, the city should not ask the property owners to pay for more than a 30-foot width pavement.

The resolution passed by the council calls for a pavement forty-six feet wide. This is not considered too wide, according to expressions made by many property owners recently, as the street railway tracks take up a good deal of the space and several stores have already located on the street.

"There are any number of property owners on the street who would be glad to have the street paved to the full width ordered by the city commissioners," said Otto Swanstrom, general manager of the Diamond Calk & Horse Shoe company, today. "If a petition adverse to the resolution of the council is presented, the property owners interested in having the work done, I am sure, will immediately start a petition and easily secure the required number of signatures to have the work ordered. It would be a shame to allow this thoroughfare go another year without having it properly paved."

With the Curlers.

Two games were played last night at the Western curling rink. In the Esterly event, Quinn won from Donald by a score of 10 to 7, and in the Universal event, McDonald defeated Evered, 13 to 10.

Three games will be played this evening. Olson and R. F. Wade will play in the Henricksen event, and Iltis and F. H. Wade and Judson and Kriedler will play in the Universal.

West Duluth Briefs.

The Ladies' Auxiliary division, No. 2, A. O. H., will meet this evening at Gilley's hall. Initiation of a class will feature the work of the evening. Committees for the year will be appointed by Mrs. E. W. Funk, president of the society.

Mrs. H. Hambly, 507 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, entertained yesterday afternoon for the Ladies' Guild of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church.

The funeral service for Mrs. Anna Erickson, who died yesterday morning, was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Richter's undertaking rooms. The body will be taken this evening to Wallace, Mich., for interment.

Harry D. Croseman of Belle Plain, Minn., is spending a few days visiting West Duluth relatives.

R. Granquist, electrician, 304 Central.

West Duluth and Pocahontas councils, Royal League, will hold their meetings Tuesday evening at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. A social session will follow. The committee in charge of the latter consists of Mrs. Elliott J. Aman, Mrs. Frank M. Ashley and Mrs. E. G. Kreidler.

For rent—Six-room house, newly papered. 101 Sixtieth North and Green street.

Watch repairing, Hurst, West Duluth.

P. C. Johnson, wood dealer in West Duluth, has formed a partnership with Carl Larson in the coal business. When you want service, call us. Cole 483-A. Cole 229, Calumet 257.

The partnership hitherto existing between Carl Larson and Tiff Stickney, doing business as Larson & Stickney, has been dissolved. The coal and wood business will be conducted by Carl Larson, and all outstanding accounts are payable to him and he has assumed all liabilities of the firm.

CLOQUET BOY BURIED; MANY ATTEND RITES

Arvid Boquist, Who Died in Duluth Hospital, Borne to Grave.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arvid Boquist, a graduate of the Cloquet high school and a very popular young man, died at the St. Luke's hospital, Duluth, Tuesday morning. His death was due to an accident when he fell from a tree on Dec. 11, while working for the Cloquet Light & Electric company. From the first there was little hope of his recovery. The body was brought here

ARVID BOQUIST.

Tuesday evening and the funeral was held this afternoon from the M. E. church.

Popular Among Students.

He was a son of Mrs. Lewis Larson of this city and was well and favorably known especially among the high school students where he was extremely popular. He was president of the senior class of 1914, a member of the basket ball team last year, and in fact every school activity seemed to be open to him and he took part in nearly everything. A large number of the students attended the funeral.

PACKAGE FREIGHT LINE WILL QUIT

Rutland Company Sells Two Steamers and Would Sell Others.

The steel package freight steamers Brandon and Arlington of the Rutland Transit company of Ogdensburg, N. Y., have been sold to the New England Coal & Coke company of Boston, Mass., and they will leave the lakes at the opening of navigation next spring. The steamers will be operated in the coal trade between Norfolk and New England ports. The deal was closed at Ogdensburg Monday. Charles Skettleman, superintendent of the Boston company, inspected the Brandon at Ogdensburg, where she is laid up, and left for Chicago to look over the Arlington.

The ships will be changed for the coast trade, and they will have a capacity of 3,060 tons. They are 244 feet keel and 43 feet beam. The steamers were built by the Detroit Shipbuilding company at Wyandotte in 1910 and cost about $150,000 each.

Negotiations are on far the sale of the other four steel steamers and two wooden steamers of the fleet, and C. W. Kelly, superintendent of the company, says if two more of the steel steamers are sold, the line will be discontinued. Mr. Kelly states it is the intention of the company to replace the boats with steamers of 5,000 or 6,000 tons capacity upon the completion of the enlarged Welland canal, provided necessary river and harbor improvements are made at Ogdensburg in the meantime.

The steamers of the Rutland line have been operated between Ogdensburg and Lake Michigan ports for a number of years, and they formerly stopped at Cleveland. The other steamers of the fleet are the Ogdensburg, Rutland, Bennington, Burlington, Averell and Haskell. The last two are wooden ships.

DULUTH ROCK FOR ARMORY

Contractor Buys 300 Cords From City; Work for Thirty Men.

George H. Lounsberry, contractor, who was the lowest bidder for the erection of the new armory, made a contract with the city this morning to purchase 300 cords of rock to be used in building the foundation for the structure. This contract will afford employment to about thirty more men at the Point of Rocks.

Commissioner Murchison, head of the public works division, represented the city in the transaction and he announced after the contract was made that work at the rock pile would begin at once and that an additional crew of men would be put on the job. The city has agreed to deliver the stone to the armory site at Thirteenth avenue east and Jefferson street, for which Mr. Lounsberry will pay about $5 a cord.

The city will not make any money on the transaction, Commissioner Murchison said, but it will be another step toward opening Superior street through the Point of Rocks, and the city will realize enough money out of the deal to pay the necessary expenses involved. James Lawson will have charge of the crew at the rock pile.

The stones, which will be prepared in what is known as a one and two-man size, will be delivered to Thirteenth avenue east and Superior street by the Duluth Street Railway company and from that point to the armory site with teams.

The largest order yet filled by the city was for the government, when about 600 tons of rock was sold. The armory contract will require about 1,000 tons.

Mr. Lounsberry also announced that he will give the city an opportunity to bid for the crushed rock needed for the building after the foundation is laid. He announced this morning that active construction would begin at once.

REPAIRING WIRE SERVICE IS SLOW

Commercial Companies Have No Clear Lines to East Yet.

Duluth still is cut off from Chicago and eastern cities as a result of the terrific snow and sleet storm which struck Wisconsin and Northern Illinois late Sunday and early Monday.

Although large crews have been working day and night since the blizzard, repairing the broken wires and replacing fallen poles, progress has been slow because of the immense snowdrifts, according to local telegraph men. In parts of Wisconsin the white blanket reaches to the heads of horses, and travelers have to dig their way through the drifts.

"It will be some time before telegraph and telephone service will be normal," said E. F. Kelley, district commercial manager for the Western Union company, today. "We have a duplex wire from here to Chicago via Detroit, Mich., and we are handling considerable business, but it is all taken subject to delay."

"Reports I have received from Central and Southern Wisconsin indicate that traffic still is paralyzed throughout that region," he said.

The North American officials reported no material change in the situation.

After a strenuous night's work the Associated Press succeeded in opening the wire from Chicago via Oshkosh, Wis., which serves the Head of the Lakes; so that no further delays are expected in this branch of the service.

Predictions of a storm at the Head of the Lakes, with sleet and snow, have caused considerable anxiety in local telegraph and telephone circles this morning. If the Twin City connections are interrupted, as they will be by a storm of any violence, Duluth will be shut off from the rest of the world temporarily.

COUNCIL HOLDS SPECIAL MEETING

Passes on January Payroll and Reads Several Ordinances.

Besides passing the January payroll at a special meeting of the council this morning, the commissioners considered several routine matters and advanced the reading of a half dozen ordinances.

Commissioners Merritt and Hicken were absent from the meeting, as they are both out of the city and are not expected back until tomorrow morning. Mayor Prince and Commissioners Voss and Murchison constituted a quorum and conducted the business of the special session.

The ordinance appropriating $9,000 for the purchase of road oil was passed and Commissioner Murchison will now advertise for bids on oils to be used on city streets during the coming summer.

The ordinance by Commissioner Hicken appropriating $8,500 for the purchase of fire equipment and the one by Mayor Prince appropriating $175 for the purchase of a floor-cleaning machine for the library were given their second readings. Mayor Prince also introduced an ordinance to appropriate $125 to pay for the printing of the park bonds recently authorized.

A sanitary sewer was ordered constructed in Dodge alley, between Forty-third avenue east and Superior street.

Action of Single Spoonful Surprises Many

Duluth people who bought the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, are surprised at the INSTANT effect of a SINGLE SPOONFUL. This remedy is so complete a bowel cleanser that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. W. A. Abbett, druggist, 205 West Superior street.

OBITUARY

William Lewis Grey, founder of the Hide and Leather bank, which afterward merged into the First National bank, died in Chicago, Feb. 2, aged 81. He was one of the pioneers in the wholesale leather business.

Fritz Ulrich, one of the best known of the early musicians in Minneapolis, is dead. Mr. Ulrich came to Minneapolis from Germany in 1861 and was master musician at Fort Snelling some years. In 1871 he moved to Winona and for several years was leader of Roweather's band in that city. In 1879 he returned to Minneapolis and since then has played with nearly all the leading musical organizations of the state, being at one time leader of Danz' band. He was 81 years old.

RETURN OF EFFICIENCY BILL TO THE HOUSE BY MARCH 2 IS ORDERED

Bill for Party Conventions Preceding Primary Elections Offered.

Commission on Consolidation of St. Paul and Minneapolis Asked.

Charges Against School for the Deaf to Be Investigated.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Elmer E. Adams of Fergus Falls this morning called up his resolution calling for the return of the efficiency and economy bill from the special committee. It was adopted after considerable debate, and after it had been amended to make the date of return March 2. In moving the adoption of the resolution Mr. Adams offered to change the date from Feb. 10 to Feb. 15, but Representative Warner's motion to make it March 2, which was accepted by Chairman Spooner of the efficiency committee, was adopted.

Representative Spooner said Feb. 15 was too soon, because the committee was holding hearings that are scheduled until about that date.

Representative Adams said the committee could keep on with its hearings while the house considered the bill.

Representative Wefald declared he was tired of "all this boy's play and of resolutions intended for home consumption and to get their authors in the limelight."

Representative John M. Harrison of Minneapolis, referring to the Gordon resolution said he had not been notified that his name was to appear as a member of the proposed committee, and that he would ask that it be stricken from the resolution.

Representative Girling said that out of courtesy at least the house should thoroughly consider the report of the efficiency commission and that this consideration should not be curtailed.

New Election Bill.

Representative Sam Y. Gordon in the house and Senators Edward Rustad and A. J. Rockne in the senate introduced a new election bill proposing party conventions preceding and supplementing the primary system, and virtually legalizing the elimination convention idea. Party conventions are to select one candidate for each place, leaving the primary lists open to others who may wish to file. The state conventions are to be held the sixth Tuesday before the primary, the congressional conventions on the seventh Saturday before the primary and the county con-

HARD FIGHT IN PROSPECT

Vote on County Option in the House Conceded Very Close.

Lively Debate Previous to Bill's Passage By the Senate.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The passage of the county option bill by the senate yesterday afternoon, with two votes to spare, means that this long-debated and hotly fought bill goes to the house to become the subject of one of the hardest fights ever witnessed in that body.

The issue is close in the house—exceedingly close. It has been figured that the "wets" had a vote or two to spare there, but the circumstances surrounding the "dry" victory in the senate have given the bill, on its appearance in the house, a prestige that will compel the "wet" side to fight for every inch of ground they gain. There are always doubtful and vacillating ones, and such are more doubtful and vacillating than usual when the issue is so finely drawn as it will be on this bill when it comes up for consideration in the house.

That the action of the senate has given the bill additional impetus in its propulsion from the senate to the house is not to be gainsaid.

The issue in the house is more in doubt today than it was yesterday, and while the chances still favor the defeat of county option in the house, he is a hazardous prophet indeed that will venture a positive prediction that this is not the year when the long fight to expand the unit of control of

GOVERNOR'S ATTITUDE

Gives Out Statement Reaffirming Position on County Option.

Hopes Bill Will Be Acted Upon Promptly in House.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—To answer all inquiries prompted by an article in a morning paper concerning Governor Hammond's attitude toward county option legislation, the governor gave out the following statement this morning:

"Any one who has read or heard my campaign speeches ought to entertain no doubt as to my action if the county option legislation reaches me. Repeated questionings would indicate either a lack of understanding on the part of the inquirers or a doubt of the sincerity of my campaign utterances.

"I think county option will not solve the liquor question, and that its importance is greatly over-estimated. Its advocates claim it is a step in the right direction.

"In my speech at Red Wing, I said that in my judgment the people of well-policed and well-ordered towns were capable of determining for themselves without outside interference whether or not liquor licenses should be issued in such towns.

"I hope the county option bill, which has passed the senate, will be acted upon promptly in the house."

RESCUE MEASURES CLOTHED IN SECRECY

No Information Given Out About Wrecked Jap Cruiser.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Rescue measures for the Japanese cruiser Asama, ashore and breaking up on the Lower California coast, were cloaked in secrecy here today to protect the neutrality of the United States.

On the theory that information of the disabled Japanese ship might become of value to German men of war in the Pacific, the navy department kept secret its latest dispatches from Rear Admiral Howard, commander of the Pacific fleet, and refused information of American men of war going to the Asama's aid.

FURIOUS BATTLE NOW AT ITS HEIGHT TO WEST OF WARSAW

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES

Large Bodies of Troops Rushed to Aid of Von Hindenburg.

Germans Hurl 84,000 Men and 100 Batteries at Russ Forces.

Russian Troops Claim to Have Captured German Trenches.

One of the most furious battles of the war is now at its height along the Russo-German front west of Warsaw. Large bodies of German troops have been brought up for Field Marshal von Hindenburg's third desperate effort to batter a way through the Russian line. The losses must be enormous.

A Petrograd official communication says that along a section of the front six miles long the Germans hurled 84,000 men supported by 100 batteries of artillery against the Russian positions, but that these attacks were broken up and the Russians, assuming the offensive, captured German trenches and occupied two villages.

In the Carpathians the Petrograd war office admits that the Russians retreated in one section, but elsewhere Russian successes are claimed.

The German official announcement today does not support Russian claims of successes on the Warsaw front.

There were no engagements of importance along the western front yesterday.

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Feb. 5.—The official report of the Russian general staff, given out here today, relates that the forces of Emperor Nicholas have relinquished some of their mountain positions in the Carpathians. The troops opposed to the Russians in these positions are strong numerically and they are fighting with energy.

Near Borjimow, in Russian Poland, the desperate and stubborn fighting which has been going on for several days past is not yet at an end. The Russians claim progress but mention no decisive outcome. The Germans, according to the Russian report

GERMAN DECLARATION REGARDED AS SERIOUS BY THE UNITED STATES

No Precedent for Situation Owing to Advent of Submarines.

American Mariners Must Enter War Zone at Their Own Risk.

No Ground at Present Time for Any Protest By Washington.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Germany's declaration of a naval war zone around Great Britain and Ireland, including the English channel and the northern passage by the Shetland islands, is regarded here as one of the most serious developments of the war.

It was regarded as highly possible, for one thing, that it would hasten the movement begun by the Latin-American countries for a speedy conference of neutral states to devise means to reduce losses to neutral commerce to a minimum. This movement, it is expected, will have the support of the European neutrals.

No Ground for Protest.

At first there were some intimation in administration circles that the declaration might be the subject of a protest by the United States, but the official view developed that there was little or no ground for that.

Counselor Lansing of the state department took Secretary Bryan's chair at the cabinet meeting today, in the latter's absence.

Neither the state department nor the German embassy had received the latest Berlin admiralty statement today and it was said at the German embassy that the Berlin foreign office probably would deliver copies to diplomatic representatives in Germany and regard that notice as sufficient.

Yesterday's proclamation is an extension of a former one delivered by

Madison, Wis, Feb. 5.—No educational institution of any kind which is supported in whole or in part by public money shall employ a teacher or professor who smokes cigarettes, nor shall any institute grant a diploma or certificate of education to anyone who smokes cigarettes, according to a bill introduced in the assembly today by Assemblyman McGovan.

A bill in the senate would place the state income tax exemption at about $3,000 in place of $1,200.

BLOCKADE BECOMES EFFECTIVE FEB. 18

Every Enemy Ship Found in War Zone Will Be Destroyed, Says Teuton Declaration.

British Authorities Take German Threat As One Requiring Delivery of Counter-Stroke at Once.

GERMAN PROCLAMATION

Berlin, Feb. 5, by wireless telegraphy to Sayville, N. Y.—The German admiralty has issued the following communication:

"The waters around Great Britain and Ireland, including the whole English channel, are declared a war zone from and after Feb. 18, 1915.

"Every enemy ship found in this war zone will be destroyed, even if it is impossible to avert dangers which threaten the crew and passengers.

"Also neutral ships in the war zone are in danger as in consequence of the misuse of neutral flags ordered by the British government on Jan. 31 and in view of the hazards of naval warfare, it cannot always be avoided that attacks meant for enemy ships endanger neutral ships.

"Shipping northward around the Shetland islands in the eastern basin of the North sea, and in a strip of at least thirty nautical miles in breadth along the Dutch coast is endangered in the same way."

England Stirred.

London, Feb. 5.—Although referring sarcastically to Germany's threat to bottle up the British isles by means of submarines, as a "paper blockade," England is stirred today by this latest development as she seldom has been since the outbreak of hostilities.

The press unanimously subordinates all other war news not excepting the Turkish attempt to cross the Suez canal, to give prominence to the dispatches from Berlin, while the foreign office statement following quickly the publication of the German decree, indicates that the government authorities take the German threat as one requiring a prompt counter stroke. As the statement says, the authorities are considering "more stringent measures against the German trade."

The German press in the meantime hails this newly announced policy of the navy with great satisfaction.

Some English newspapers declare today that the German announcement should in the end benefit England in that it rightfully entitles the British government to declare contraband all foodstuffs destined for Germany.

Germans Pleased.

Berlin, via London, Feb. 5.—The entire German press greets with satisfaction the admiralty's declaration that the waters surrounding England, Scotland and Ireland have been included in the war zone. The headlines of several papers speak of the announcement as a blockade. The Post declares it is a blockade and must be so considered.

"Neutral shipping," says the Post, "is given time to take refuge in safe harbors. Only after a measured period do all merchantmen going to and from the British isles run into danger. Then, to be sure, men and freight not only on British ships, but under a neutral flag, are doomed to sink."

The Taglische Rundschau says:

"We have accepted England's battle conditions. * * * We let England play its role and assume ours with all its rights and obligations. Let him guard himself who feels like coming between us."

The Lokal Anzeiger declares England's own weapons are being turned against herself and when Germany destroys the "English yoke under which the world has suffered for centuries," it will have accomplished a high historical mission and freed the world from one of its most dangerous enemies.

The Tageblatt says England's conduct to which the new decree is an answer, has been an admission it could not defeat Germany with weapons which Germany realizes are not inconsiderable. The paper expresses the opinion that neutral powers will suffer losses from the new declaration, but declares these losses will be small compared with those which England imposes upon them.

BURDENED BY CORPORATIONS

Congressman Lindbergh Discusses the Rule of "Reasonable Profit."

Makes Another Attack on Monopoly of Money and Credit.

New York, Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Thirty million people bear the burden of earning $10,000,000,000 annually for the corporations, in order that they may earn the dividends they are entitled to under the rule of 'reasonable profit' established under present conditions."

This was the assertion of Representative Charles A. Lindbergh of Minnesota, who testified before the Federal commission on industrial relations here today.

"There are over $100,000,000,000, including all kinds of property and debts owed by corporations and others," continued Mr. Lindbergh, "upon which the public is forced to pay interest and dividends, on what may be termed income property. We have helpless humanity to meet the payment of the 'reasonable profit' upon this large sum. It is understating rather than overstating the fact to say that the profit

GENERAL DIED IN HIS ARMS

French Surgeon Tells of Death of Bridoux at the Front.

Soldier Passes Away While Battle Rages All Around.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris, Jan. 21.—The Temps publishes the following story of the death of Gen. Bridoux, taken from the note book of an army surgeon just returned from captivity in Germany:

"I passed yesterday through one of the most touching experiences of my life," the surgeon writes. "Gen. Bridoux, in command of our cavalry corps, died in my arms. I have seen many deaths in twenty years and I have read of the deaths of Plutarch and of the generals of the empire, but I am convinced that so noble a soul as that of Gen. Bridoux has rarely animated a mortal.

"The battle was raging in a fog so thick that one could see no farther than 200 yards. In order to better watch the operations the general and his staff were approaching the lines in their automobiles. Coming into a clearing the party sustained a heavy

CLEVELAND HAS A VISION

Sees Rosy Picture of Proposed Bathing Beach for Duluth.

Boats, Bathhouses, Children's Pool and Cafe in Fairmont Park.

Facilities for 1,500 bathers, a pool for children, boats and canoes, a large cafe and dining room and bathing instructors are among the plans for the new bathing beach and pavilion to be constructed at Fairmont park this coming spring, according to a statement issued this morning by Henry Cleveland, manager of the city's park department.

The new bathing beach will be located in the Fairmont park addition, which was recently purchased by the city for $38,000. It is now planned to drain this land as soon as warm weather sets in and to begin immediate construction of a pavilion.

Mr. Cleveland's outline of the plans for the operation of the beach, pavilion and park follows:

"The proposed bathing beach at Seventy-second avenue west and St. Louis river, at the mouth of Kingsbury creek, is intended, when fully completed, to furnish facilities for 1,000 to 1,500 bathers at one time.

"The natural advantages are many, and with moderate outlay can be so improved that it will rank second to no other still water bathing place in this country.

"Ample bathing, boating and picnic conveniences are contemplated, with dressing rooms with lockers, docks, launch stalls, boat and canoe storage, cafe, etc.

"Boat and canoe livery will be made a feature. The bathing area will be so divided that families, young women, young men, and juniors can have the use of their portions of the beach, safe, untrammeled and care free.

"'Safety first' will be the word, and sanitary, reasonable enjoyment the rule. Cafe privileges will be provided with a menu ranging from a cracker up to the special order service, and attached to the same service will be an open air department, easily accessible from the various beaches and boat landing.

"Connected to the main location by an archway, under the Northern Pacific, will be arranged a wading pool of ample dimensions, where the tots can wade and romp and splash to their hearts' content, under the watchful care of parents, for whom comfortable arrangements will be made.

"The terminal of the Grand avenue car line adjoins this pool, and is readily reached by stairways. All necessary accessories will be provided for convenience and comfort, as well as a competent teacher of the 'how to swim' and the care of self in water emergencies. This instructor will divide his attentions at stated times with all the bathing beaches at this location. Proper instruction and care will also supervise boat and canoe liveries. It is hoped that the department will be able to construct a suitable pavilion and outlook of sufficient capacity to meet the requirements of a bathing beach of this character and scope. The plans have been carefully revised from time to time and are brought up to the minute for safe, sanitary comfort and use by the many.

WILL OBSERVE MOODY SUNDAY

Y. M. C. A. Will Hear Address on Great Evangelist By Dr. Villars.

Throughout the United States what is known as D. L. Moody Sunday will be observed next Sunday in all of the Young Men's Christian associations. That day is the anniversary of the birth of the great evangelist, who was for several years a faithful secretary of the association. Probably no man during the last part of the Nineteenth century influenced so many people by his straightforward gospel as Dwight L. Moody, reaching people on both sides of the Atlantic, for he was as popular in the British Isles as he was in America.

Moody, it is said got his impressions of Christian life from his rigid uncle, who employed him in Boston on condition that he attend church and Sunday school every Sunday, an agreement which he faithfully filled and later, when left alone in Chicago, he still kept up the habit and he soon became vitally interested in Sunday school work, went down in the slum district of the city and there organized and developed for a number of years the largest Sunday school in that great city. His original and unique methods of conducting the school have proved intensely successful in all Sunday schools. Because of his methods and his successful work he was in great demand in all sorts of religious conventions and soon his fame spread as a great religious teacher from Chicago to New York.

It was in 1870 to 1875 that he visited England. After his trip to England he settled down in his old home town in Northfield, Mass., where he began the great work of establishing the Northfield Training school, where you men and women could be trained in all forms of Christian work, city, home and foreign missions, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., city slum work, rural work and for those who wished to get a general Bible education. Ten buildings at the present time stand on the campus of this great institution. On one side of the Connecticut is the training school for young men and on the other the school for young women.

In 1889 the Moody Bible school of Chicago was opened, which now has enrolled, nearly 1,000 students. Since the school has been opened 13,000 young men and young women have been enrolled as students in its various departments.

The local association will observe "Moody Sunday" by an address in the lobby at 5 o'clock when Dr. U. S. Villars, who knew Mr. Moody personally, will give a character sketch of the great organizer and gospel teacher.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "Mary Jane's Pa."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
REX—Photoplay.

Like "Mary Jane's Pa."

The picturesque philosophy of Hiram Perkins, printer and wanderer, the wholesome practicality of Mrs. Perkins, the deserted but not downcast wife, the waywardness and ambition of the daughter, Lucile, and the charm of little Mary Jane, seem to have made a deep impression on Lyceum theater audiences this week, and "Mary Jane's Pa" will undoubtedly be the banner attraction of the Baldwin Players to date.

Perkins grows weary of his wife because she is "too maternal" and runs away. He indignantly protests that he did not "skip out," saying the expression is most distasteful to him, but he admits he departed. He returns after ten years, broke but satiated with travel to find his wife self-supporting and making an excellent living as a newspaper publisher and printer. The manner in which he re-establishes himself in his home, first as a cook, and later as husband, forms the basis of a very charming story, and Lyceum audiences have been more enthusiastic over it than any other play presented during the winter engagement of the company. It will come to a close Saturday night, performances also being given this evening and tomorrow afternoon. The play chosen for next week is "The Lion and the Mouse," a drama of love and "big business," which was seen here several years ago, but which has never been presented here at popular prices.

The orchestra has been scoring a hit at every performance this week with their burlesque on the playing of the Bangtown orchestra.

Hypnotism as Entertainment.

Pauline, he of the magnetic personality, who demonstrates hypnotic suggestions in a manner that causes hilarious laughter one moment and profound thought the next, at the Orpheum this week, in a neat little lecture during his performance, states that while hypnotism or catalepsy has been known and practiced in a manner for ages, it is only in its infancy as a useful science. He claims his work is a scientific study, and not really a comedy entertainment, but as the theater going public comes to a vaudeville theater for the purpose of being amused and entertained, and a great many are not interested in science or its possibilities, he must necessarily add comedy to his act, which he does in a manner that meets all requirements of a fun-loving audience. Still there is a scientific mystery about several of the feats he performs that stamps the man as a scientist, a student and a psychologist. The subjects which Pauline uses are placed by him in a state of catalepsy, he states. His particular power to exercise such effect is not derived from a master mind or an uncanny source, but from a mind trained to this end.

But after all, giving Pauline credit for being a hypnotist, or scientist, or as he states it, "anything you want to call me," there is one thing that stands out above all the rest, and that is, he is a remarkable entertainer, and as that is what the theater-going public requires from a vaudeville artist, Pauline certainly fills all requirements.

New Show at Grand.

Music continues to be the leading feature at the New Grand theater, and the bill that opened yesterday is a treat to music lovers. Plenty of comedy, some good dancing, and photoplays of marked excellence help make up a bill that would be hard to beat at popular prices.

Maleti Balconi, a European violin virtuoso, is an artist of real talent, possessing both technical skill and temperament adaptable to a varied program. Her repertoire of selections is so made up that there is something of particular interest to all. Talent combined with an attractive personality will no doubt make her a popular favorite during her engagement here.

Some really clever dancing was done by Dawson, Lanigan and Covert. Original songs and bright chatter are other entertaining features of this act.

The Three Millards in a corking good skit entitled "Week in Society," draw the major portion of the laughs. All three players are laugh-makers of merit and their skit forms ample opportunity for them to display their talents.

The Four Prevosts present a novelty entitled "Fun in a Turkish Bath." Comedy holds sway throughout this clever act.

Helen Holmes, the heroine of the thrilling railway film episodes, is at the Grand again, appearing this time in "The Broken Circuit," one of the "Hazards of Helen" series. Each week the audience is thrilled by the dare-devil acts of the heroine, and she seems to bear a charmed life. Some current happenings of special interest are shown in the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial, such as the opening of the Panama exposition at 'Frisco, saving the victims of the New York subway, and war pictures showing the Germans in their trenches. A comedy film, "Snakeville and the Corset Demonstrator," closes the bill, leaving the audience in the best of humor.

Arbuckle at Rex.

"Doctor of Happiness" is the new title given to Maclyn Arbuckle in his part of Hi Judd, postmaster of a little country village in "It's No Laughing Matter," playing at the Rex today and tomorrow.

"It's No Laughing Matter" wins laughs in every situation and often sympathetic tears. Cora Drew plays Mrs. Judd, the despairing wife of poetical and a wee bit lazy Hi Judd. Myrtle Stedman, Bosworth's beautiful star, is Bess, the daughter, who has faith in her father even when he writes such jingles as:

"A city chap once bought a hen
He set her on some eggs, and then
To see how many chicks she had
He broke the eggs and found them bad."

The amusing and pathetic characters of the little village make this a rare and rural treat, something out of the ordinary run of stories.

CLOQUET BOND ELECTION.

Question of Bonding for Building Fire Hall Comes Up.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has decided to have a special election March 8 to learn the people's wishes upon the proposition of issuing $12,000 in bonds to build a new firehall.

The bonds are to bear 5 per cent interest payable semi-annually on July 1 and Jan. 1 of each year; the principal being payable $3,000 July 1, 1916, and a like amount on July 1 of the three succeeding years.

This election will be conducted in the same manner as any other city election; the qualifications of voters, the hours of voting and the polling places are identical with those of a general or regular city election.

The advisability of building a new firehall is not a new question in the city. It has been talked of for a number of years and is a matter familiar to most citizens. It has been discussed recently by the Commercial club and will no doubt be on the club program again before election.

There Is No Question but that indigestion and the distressed feeling which always goes with it can be promptly relieved by taking a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal. 25c a box.

MAY ASK ADVANCE IN LAKE AND RAIL

Rumored That Lines Will Make Non-Compensatory Plea to Commission.

A story has reached Duluth to the effect that the rail-and-lake roads are about to file an application with the interstate commerce commission asking to have their rates advanced. The ground upon which the rumored application is to be made is that the present rates are not compensatory.

M. E. Mead, local agent of the Anchor line, said this morning that if such is the case he has been given no inkling of it, and he does not believe it to be true.

"It is only very recently," said Mr. Mead, "that the rail-and-lake lines made application for an advance, and were turned down by the commission. As I understand it, the only basis on which they could ask a rehearing is on new evidence to be introduced, and I have heard nothing as to new evidence having been discovered or being prepared for submission.

"I very seriously doubt the truth of the rumor. At any rate the news in connection with such a move would 'break' only at headquarters, and we—agents at this point—would be among the last to hear of it."

musketry fire from a party of Germans concealed fifty yards away in a thicket. Two chauffeurs and two ordnance officers were killed outright, before the cavalry escort could intervene and drive the Germans away. Gen. Bridoux fell back in his seat with his hand to his breast. A bullet had shattered his shoulder, penetrated the body and pierced a lung.

Taken Into Log Hut.

"We carried him into a log hut in the thicket. 'I suffer!' he exclaimed. 'I feel very ill!' Then he talked of his wife and children to the chaplain, but to us he spoke only of the army, of his soldiers, of his 'corps of cavalry that marches without horses and of which all the men are heroes.'

"Gen. Buisson, who commanded a division under Bridoux, arrived. 'My dear Buisson,' said the dying general 'I am about to die for my country and I am almost happy, since that will give you a command of which you are so worthy. Don't forget that our role is to advance, always advance, and that we should do all the harm possible to the invaders who seek to annihilate our beautiful France. I have confidence in the final victory and I regret to have contributed so little to it.

"'I die joyfully for my country,' he resumed after a paroxysm. 'Tell the cavalry corps that the sacrifice of my life should serve as an example.'

"Another paroxysm; another lucid interval,' and the general expired with these words on his lips: 'I die—I am happy—my country will triumph!'"

averages not less than 7 per cent above expenses, and 3 per cent more may safely be added as cost and expenses, including upkeep, or a total of not less than 10 per cent. That is an annual charge of $10,000,000,000 upon the toilers.

Owned By Few Persons.

"This vast sum on which $10,000,000,000 in interest and dividends is paid annually is owned by a few persons. There are not to exceed 30,000,000 people who do the work, and the whole burden rests upon them. It is equivalent to $333 for each of them. Thus a man who is paid $600 annually for his labor or his farm products, and his wife who does the work at home, have had their wages or income for farm produce and the prices of the things they must buy increased, in order to provide the $666 they contribute for the 'reasonable return' for the use of the capital.

"I will have to admit that under the present conditions some charge for the use of capital is necessary in order to secure its employment. I believe that a reasonable charge would be from 2 to 3 per cent, which is the charge the government makes to the banks. For good measure we could calculate on a basis of 4 per cent. On that basis the husband and wife depending upon their present income of $600 would have that increased six-tenths, in additional wages and a decrease in the cost of supplies.

What Causes Trouble.

"A case in point would be a workman in a plow factory capitalized at $500,000, upon which the stockholders get 7 per cent dividend. The factory has a bonded debt of $200,000 with an interest charge of 6 per cent. To meet the interest and dividend charge the factory must earn $47,000 annually above the cost of production and upkeep. A surplus must also be accumulated. This is exactly the situation that causes the trouble. It means low wages to the employes and high prices to purchasers of plows.

"Distributing the burden upon the whole people of the United States, we find that each person must pay 10 per cent interest upon $1,000. This is $100 for each man, woman and child in the country, or $500 upon the average family of five persons. The charge is increasing annually under the rule of reasonable profit and the accumulation of wealth, and in generations to come it will have doubled and trebled."

Monopoly of Money.

Mr. Lindbergh then discussed "the monopoly of money and credit."

"The people have on deposit in banks $19,100,000,000, on about half of which they draw interest of from 2 to 4 per cent," he said. "This is approximately $285,000,000. Actually the banks get $1,285,000,000 from borrowers, a balance of $1,000,000,000 in their favor. It is added to the price of goods and services the people must buy. Banks can loan or withhold loans as they please and can loan to whom they please. Because of this advantage, they loan to the largest borrowers, who usually control the banks. This shows that bankers have a monopoly of money and credit, which is tending to give the absolute control of all property for the benefit of capitalists."

Two Remedies.

Mr. Lindbergh told the commission there were two remedies for the conditions he outlined.

"One remedy is pure Socialism," he said. "The other is to take from the banks the exclusive privilege of control of money and credit, which has been extended to them by the Federal government. The interest to borrowers must be reduced to at least as low a rate as that now paid by banks to the government. The government must collect the interest in lieu of taxes. There must be organization of all useful industries, which can be accomplished as well as the organization of the banks was. To facilitate this great work, and aid in securing the means, the postal savings banks must be opened to all depositors for the acceptance of checks, money and evidences of credit, to aid in financing, not the banks exclusively, but all useful enterprises which under the present system are burdened with the shackles of usury."

GERMAN DECLARATION REGARDED AS SERIOUS BY THE UNITED STATES

Ambassador Gerard, applying to the north and west coasts of France.

No Precedent.

There is no precedent in dealing with the question, because heretofore submarines have played no important part in warfare and all of the rules of international law are framed with special reference to ordinary ships. The ordinary practices in taking prisoners and dealing with the merchant ships of an enemy, which it is not feasible to take as prizes, are clearly set out and established by long usage. The merchantmen must be halted, boarded and either made prize or sunk. But in the latter case, crew and passengers must be taken off.

While it was noted that the proclamation was directed against "enemy ships" and applies to neutral ships only when the attacks "were meant for enemy ships," through suspicion of misuse of neutral flags, officials expressed grave concern over the implied threat to sink merchant vessels, probably without warning or taking off non-combatant passengers and crews.

Expected to Heed Warning.

During consideration of the subject by the state department, American mariners probably will be expected to heed the German warning and enter forbidden waters only at their own risk, precisely what they have been doing in the North sea since notices several months ago from both the British and German governments, that owing to the planting of mines it would be regarded as within the war zone.

The notice from the British government that it is contemplating retaliation against German trade, though not formally before the state department today, has given rise to much speculation on the part of officials as to what the British have in mind. Although it has been denied that any official declaration that food supplies are contraband has been issued, it is believed that the British notice forecasts the speedy issue of some such declaration. And in addition to thus trying to cut off Germany's food supply by water, it is believed to be possible that the British may make the blow more severe by prohibiting the transportation of cotton to Germany. Cotton is a base of some forms of smokeless powder, as well as the high explosive gun cotton used in the war-heads of torpedoes and submarine mines.

Would Be Heavy Blow.

Aside from depriving Germany of that necessary article, the British enforcement of such an order would deal a heavy blow to the German textile factories which are now just beginning to receive almost normal supplies from the United States.

State department officials indicated that the German proclamation was analogous in their minds to the strewing of mines in the North Sea and a similar announcement by Great Britain that neutral shipping might be imperiled there.

Officials did not view the German proclamation as a threat to destroy neutral ships if found in the war zone, but as a warning that all ships entered there at their own risk.

The statement in the German proclamation that there is in existence a British order to its fleet permitting them to use neutral flags, may draw forth an inquiry from the United States.

Effect on American Ships.

Officials manifested much interest as to the probable effect of the announcement on the movement of American ships bearing munitions and contraband of war to the allies. While such vessels probably will be convoyed into French or English ports by warships of the allies, the rules of international law provide that a neutral vessel cannot be destroyed until taken to a prize court and duly condemned.

Under the Declaration of London, however, a neutral vessel which is certain to be condemned as a prize may be destroyed by a belligerent warship if taking her into a port would impair the success of the warship's operations. Before the vessel is destroyed, all the persons on board must be placed in safety and the captor must later establish that he acted in the face of necessity. Otherwise compensation to the injured shipper follows.

Until a specific case of destruction of an American ship in the new war zone develops, it was regarded as most unlikely that any protest would be made by the United States.

TWIN PORTS AUTOMOBILE SHOW

OF DULUTH, MINN.
AUDITORIUM, WEEK FEB. 22-27, INCLUSIVE.

Brainerd Woman Hurt.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, county superintendent of schools, while driving to Bay Lake to attend a school meeting, was thrown from the sleigh when the horses ran away and had her arm broken at the elbow. She is at present at the Sisters' hospital.

LOCAL MAN HONORED BY BROTHER WORKMEN

More than 200 local workmen assembled last night at a testimonial meeting held at the Maccabee hall in honor of J. A. Schumacher, retiring grand master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Minnesota.

The meeting was the culmination of a long desire of local Workmen to show their appreciation of the consistent workmanship of the esteemed brother. They also seemed to have been inspired by the fact that the local man is the only Duluthian in the last fifteen years to hold the chief executive office of the organization.

Mr. Schumacher was presented with a beautiful ring. The emblems of the order were engraved upon it, inset with two large diamonds. The presentation speech was made by Frank E. Randall, a local attorney. In responding Mr. Schumacher seemed deeply touched.

The out-of-town speakers were Grand Recorder Charles A. Larson and and Grand Receiver J. F. McGuire, both of St. Paul. They spoke of the delightful association that they had experienced with Mr. Schumacher in their official and social circles, of what he had accomplished and of what he had made possible.

The honor meeting, "Schumacher night," was given jointly by the four local lodges: West Duluth, No. 145; Rice's Point, No. 80; Duluth, No. 10, and Fidelity, No. 105. The committee in charge consisted of J. A. Lubansky, chairman, R. G. Foote, A. C. Baumgartner and William Hay. At the close of the meeting supper was served, followed by a smoker.

SIMONSON HEADS WEST END CLUB

Commercial Club Members Elect Officers and Take Action on Important Matters Pertaining to St. Louis County-Oppose Salary Raise and Division of County.

L. A. SIMONSON, President.

A. B. WIDTH, Vice President.

At its annual meeting at Simonson's hall, last night, the West End Commercial club went on record as being opposed to county division; as believing that an increase of county commissioners' salaries was unwarranted, and against the proposed taking of the feeding of county prisoners from the sheriff. The club also elected its officers for the year.

L. A. Simonson was elected president; A. B. Width, vice president; George M. Jensen, corresponding secretary; John Moir, financial secretary; C. E. Lonegren, treasurer; S. W. Hill, James W. Preston, James Maghan, Victor Juten and John J. Moe, trustees.

The legislative questions were brought up as being of vital importance to the county. Following the discussion, resolutions were adopted stating the position of the club on these matters, and they will be forwarded to the St. Louis county delegation at the state legislature. In the opinion of the members of the club, the proposed division of the county is unwise and would result only in an increased rate of taxes. The members were of the opinion that the salary now paid county commissioners is sufficient for the work that they are called upon to perform. In the matter of taking the feeding of prisoners from the sheriff, the members said that if this expense was transferred to the county without direct supervision of the sheriff, it would have a tendency to cause extravagance in that department.

The club decided to hold its annual banquet this coming spring at a date to be decided upon by a committee, the members of which are: Capt. K. A. Franklin, Hartvig O. Hanson and Dr. O. A. Oredson, who will also make all arrangements.

John J. Moe, chairman of the library committee, reported that the committee had decided that the most desirable place for the location of a public library would be at the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Second street. This site, he said, could now be secured at a reasonable price. Information to that effect is to be forwarded to Mayor W. I. Prince. The club had been asked some time ago to select a site that was desirable to the community. Mayor Prince stated in his communication to the club that the public library department expected to build an institution in this end of the city in the near future.

The West end will not get much street improvement this year, according to a report made by George M. Jensen, given as the result of an interview with R. Murchison, commissioner of public works. Mr. Jensen stated that the commissioner would promise nothing further than the paving of First street, which work has been petitioned for by the property owners.

WILL BUILD NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

Structure Will Cost $35,000; Space Is Already Leased.

The West end will have another new business block on Superior street this spring. A building costing about $35,000 will be erected by the P. G. Hanson & Son realty firm for an Eastern man on the lots at 1917-19 West Superior street, which will be two stories high.

The building will have a frontage of 50 feet on Superior street and will be 140 feet deep. It will have a full basement arranged for commercial purposes. The realty firm reports that deals have been closed for the lease of almost the entire building to West end firms, who will move into it as soon as the building is ready.

The property is at present occupied by two one-story frame buildings, both of which will be razed. H. O. Hanson, of the realty firm stated this morning that the plans for the building were already made and that the contract for its erection would be let within a short time.

EFFICIENCY MEN WILL MEET HERE

Meetings Will Be Held in West End Baptist Churches.

The state efficiency commission of the Baptist churches of Minnesota will hold a meeting in West end churches on Wednesday and Thursday next week. Several prominent speakers of the denomination will be present and address the gatherings.

Among those on the program are Dr. E. E. Pope of Minneapolis, Dr. Frank Peterson of Minneapolis, Dr. Petzolf of Helena, Mont., Mrs. Stewart of Boston, Mass., and Rev. E. W. Risinger of St. Paul.

The meetings will be held on Wednesday at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, and on Thursday at the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

DULUTH PASTOR RETURNS.

Rev. Swaney Nelson Aids Moline Minister at Revivals.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, who has been at Moline, Ill., assisting Rev. E. A. Lagerstrom in conducting a series of revival meetings, returned home yesterday. The pastor has been away for about two weeks. He will conduct services at the local church as usual on Sunday.

While in Moline, Rev. Mr. Nelson visited at the home of Rev. J. Johanson, former pastor of the Swedish Mission church of the West end. Rev. Mr. Johanson left here about ten years ago and has been in Moline for some time.

West End Briefs.

The Sunshine Society of the Trinity English Lutheran church, will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. F. Brightfelt, 1805 West Second street.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church will hold rehearsal in the church this evening, for special song service to be held in the church on Sunday evening.

The Adams Alumni association will hold its monthly business meeting this evening at the Adams school. Following the business meeting a short musical and literary program will be given.

The Brotherhood Club of the Central Baptist church will meet this evening in the parlors of the church.

Albert O. Sveness of Minneapolis, who has been visiting West end relatives for the past week, left for his home last night.

The Hazelwood branch of the Swedish Mission church will hold services this evening at the home of Emil Nyberg, of Thirty-ninth avenue west and Third street.

DENIES OWNING GRIP WHICH CONTAINED LIQUOR.

Park Rapids, Minn., Feb. 5.—Billy Minkie jumped off a moving train near the city limits and he broke his shoulder blade and became unconscious. A grip that appeared to have jumped with him was turned over to the village marshal, who found therein three gallon jugs of whisky. Minkie, on his return to consciousness, declared the grip was not his. It is said the government will interview Minkie and may close the saloons at Wadena for shipping liquor into "dry" territory.

30,000 ACRES ARE BEING CLEARED OFF

T. B. Walker Interests Are Carrying on Big Woods Enterprise This Winter.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A small army of men can find employment with the T. B. Walker interests having headquarters here, to help remove the timber from 30,000 acres, so that the land may be leased for agricultural purposes in five-acre tracts to miners and other persons.

These 30,000 acres are located on the Mesaba range, extending from Calumet in St. Louis county through Itasca county, surrounding Grand Rapids and extending west to Remer on the Soo. So far there is a scarcity of men.

"We received wire and written authority this week," said J. J. Opeahl, representing the Walker interests, which now has eight logging camps in operation under his direction, "to proceed to clear 30,000 acres of the timber. I have just returned from Grand Rapids, where I completed preliminary arrangements. At this time we can use thirty farmers' teams and seventy-five men. We are unable to get either, so far. We attempted to get men at the Bemidji employment office and failed."

The plan is to get rid of the timber while the snow is on the ground, and to then divide the land into five-acre tracts, leasing to the iron ore miners so that they may have garden patches and small farms of their own, something along the plan being urged upon the state legislature by State Auditor J. A. O. Preus, who wishes authority to lease the state land, thus offering needed assistance to the deserving citizen and incidentally adding an estimated revenue to the state of $20,000.

If the country at large has felt anything resembling a financial depression, it apparently has not extended to the Walker interests in this territory.

Recently these interests closed a deal for the sale of its timber holdings of pine, spruce and tamarack on Willow river to Frank Blase, who now has three camps in operation.

Sell to Remer Man.

Another recent sale was 400 acres of stumpage of the same kind of timber to Frank Chambers of Remer, who is operating one large camp. Last week a deal was consummated with the M. Erskine Lumber company of Grand Rapids, Minn., for timber around Prairie Lake, located seven miles north of Grand Rapids and the Erskine company has established a large camp that will operate the remainder of this winter and all of next.

Another deal is pending for stumpage on 20,000 acres tributary to Grand Rapids, the timber being mixed hardwood as well as pine, tamarack and spruce. This track would call for several camps and two sawmills will be kept in operation.

The biggest single project now facing the Walker campaign is to obtain men and teams to man their proposed camp at Grand Rapids. Weather and snow conditions are ideal and every effort will be made to rush the work.

Coincident with the knowledge that men are not as plentiful as believed comes the information that thre is renewed activity on the railroads. The Minnesota & International, which works in harmony with the Northern Pacific, has all its men busy and for the care of pulpwood, cordwood and local shipments finds itself short several hundred cars, although by special efforts the freight is being kept moving on schedule.

CROOKSTON'S CORN PALACE BEING BUILT

First Structure of Kind Ever Erected in Minnesota Red River Valley.

Crookston, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Corn will receive its due at the forthcoming Farm Crops show to be held here this month, and all the exhibits and discussions will tend to stamp that cereal as one of the permanent and most important crops of this section.

The premium lists and programs have just been issued and will attract the largest crowd Crookston has ever entertained.

Work upon the corn palace, which will be one of the features, is well under way. It is the first structure of the kind in the Minnesota Red river valley.

Entries Are Pouring In.

Entries are pouring in from all the ten counties in the association, and the new Armory, with an exhibit hall 56 by 90 feet, will not be large enough to hold all the exhibits. The small grain exhibits will not be much larger than last year, as small grain crops were not up to the standard, last fall, but the corn exhibit will be ten times as great.

Owatonna's New Postoffice.

Owatonna, Minn., Feb. 5.—Owatonna's new Federal building was opened for business Wednesday when Postmaster John Devlny ran up a large United Sates flag to the top of the tall mast near the building. The mail is being taken care of as if no change had been made. The building cost $54,000.

Greatest Event in Woman's Life

All human experience looks back to motherhood as the wonder of wonders.

The patience, the fortitude, the sublime faith during the period of expectancy are second only to the mother love bestowed upon the most helpless but most marvelous creation—a baby.

Women are quick to learn from each other those helpful agencies that aid to comfort, and yet are perfectly safe to use and among these they recommend "Mother's Friend."

It is entirely an external application designed to lubricate the broad, flat muscles and skin that protect the abdomen. It has been in favorable use for nearly half a century and is known to mothers in almost every settled community in the United States who highly recommend it. You will find it on sale in drug stores. "Mother's Friend" is utterly harmless, contains no deadening drugs, very beneficial, very soothing and a wonderful help.

Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today at any drug store and write to us for our instructive little book to mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 314 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS IN THE WAR TRENCHES

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Dunkirk, France, Jan. 20.—Almost every long stretch of trench has its weekly newspaper, which combines sober official orders and reports of the week's fighting with humorous sallies and personal jottings of the most intimate character. A recent review of the "Trench Press" shows a list of nearly a score of periodicals which have been published with sufficient continuity to justify their mention as "established papers."

URGES BETTER GAME LAWS

Kelsey Farmer Suggests Changes to Legislative Committee.

Believes Proposed French River Hatchery Should Be Established.

John Mattson, a farmer who lives near Kelsey, Minn., and who was formerly a deputy game warden, has just returned to Duluth from St. Paul, where he was urging what he considers better game law legislation before the game and fish committee of the state house of representatives. Mr. Mattson believes that there are many of the features of the game laws as they stand at present that are all wrong, and also believes that a more sensible and more businesslike basis for obtaining the money with which to run the department can be arranged.

At present the funds for the department have run so low that a great many of the deputy wardens have had to be let out, and those remaining have had to submit to a reduction in salary. This condition, Mr. Mattson believes, can be avoided if the law would prescribe that the license fees be turned into the fund and not diverted elsewhere. He also names conditions for the collecting of licenses.

Mr. Mattson said today that he expects that the legislature will make an appropriation in a short time for the temporary help of the department so that the full force of wardens may again be put to work.

Among other things that he advocated was the carrying out of the plan embodied in a bill by the legislature two years ago establishing the Lake Superior hatchery at French river. One thousands dollars has already been paid for a tract of land there, and he believes that although a high price is demanded for it, the state could get it for a reasonable sum by instituting condemnation proceedings. That bill required the citizens of Northeastern Minnesota to subscribe the balance of the money needed to get the land.

A movement is on foot to establish a hatchery in a remote location in Northwestern Minnesota, but Mr. Mattson declares that this would be of no practical value, that something must be done to preserve the whitefish and lake trout, and that steps should be taken at once to do this at French river, as well as developing other lines of fisheries.

Suggestions to Legislature.

Mr. Mattson was asked for suggestions as to what he thought should be embodied in the fish and game laws, and he submitted the following list:

"I would recommend strongly a universal gun or hunting license, and that no aliens be allowed to hunt, or obtain license to hunt.

"I would recommend a fishing license, as other states now have.

"I would recommend that all monies derived from licenses and fees should be turned into the game and fish department fund, but that all fines for violations of the game and fish laws should go into the treasury of the county where the offense is committed.

"Possession of game birds and animals should be limited to thirty days after the close of the season. At present, the birds or animals can be kept in cold storage the year round, which I think is radically wrong.

"I believe the limit on birds should not be over thirty in possession at one time; one deer and one antlered moose should be the season limit.

"Non-resident hunters should be allowed to take deer and moose which they have legally killed with them out of the state.

"The fine for killing moose illegally is too small. It should be at least $200 for the first offense, and $500 for the second, and ninety days to six months in jail for the third. As it is now, some lumber companies will kill moose and can afford to pay fines once a week and have cheap meat at that, and I know from actual facts that some of them are doing it.

"The age limit should also be set, and American-born citizens should be allowed to procure hunting licenses at the age of 18 years.

"I believe the reward system for convictions of violations should be abolished.

"The state should build a fish hatchery at French River, with the purpose of hatching lake trout and whitefish, which are fast decreasing and disappearing from the lake. Lake Superior still affords an opportunity for a great fishing industry, and it matters greatly to the people of the state of Minnesota. It would be a shame to allow such a tremendous industry to be entirely annihilated, but we should start soon, if we are going to get any spawn at all, to propagate the fish."

SHARPSHOOTERS ARE VERY ACTIVE

More Men Lost By Snipers Than in Three Engagements.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Dunkirk, France, Jan. 20.—The activities of the highly efficient German sharpshooters have been responsible for a large proportion of the casualties in the French and British armies during the past two months. Lieut. H. G. Vouzier of the French army writes of these sharpshooters:

"During the past three weeks I have lost more men by the sniper than I did in three stiff engagements. Our position is not unlike a golf link—half a mile from the clubhouse we are bunkered and nicely under cover, but immediately one of us shows a head a bullet whizzes past. In one day ten were hit and for the life of us we could not locate the place where the snipers were concealed. At last we found it. Four hundred yards in front of us in the open were several prominent tufts of grass; one of my men fired into one of these tufts, and a sniper fell into view, mortally wounded. A hundred yards to the right was another tuft, which we demolished with a fusillade of shots. When it was dark we found there two dead Germans, who were warmly clad and wrapped in rugs.

"We decided to imitate the tactics of the Germans. Two of our men volunteered to become water rats, just as the Germans had become field mice. Under cover of darkness they wormed themselves into the bank at the water edge of a stagnant pond, and the next day they picked off many Germans before they were discovered."

DYESTUFF PRODUCED FOR KHAKI CLOTH.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Leeds, Eng., Jan. 25.—It is announced that the chemical department at Leeds university has succeeded in manufacturing a cheap dyestuff for use in dyeing khaki for soldiers' uniforms. Hitherto England had been compelled to use dyestuffs of German manufacture on all khaki cloth.

ITALIANS TO GIVE RELIEF

Funds and Supplies for Quake Sufferers Will Be Collected.

Duluth Colony Will Meet and Organize Its Forces.

Italians living in Northern Minnesota are making preparations to do their share in providing relief for the many thousands of their countrymen who are destitute as a result of the recent earthquake in their mother country.

Members of Duluth's Italian colony will meet at St. Peter's Catholic church (Italian), corner of Eleventh avenue west and Superior street, tomorrow night, to perfect an organization and appoint committees to take charge of the work of collecting funds and supplies for the many sufferers.

The meeting will be in charge of Attilio Castigliano, Italian consul for the Head of the Lakes district, and will be limited to the Italians of Duluth and the immediate vicinity. No subscriptions will be made at the time, the business of the session being to organize for a several days campaign among their countrymen.

Circulars have been sent out by the consul, who expects a large attendance, as many of Duluth's prominent Italians had acquaintances or relatives who lived in the stricken district.

During the last week or ten days relief funds have been started in four of the larger range towns, Virginia, Hibbing, Chisholm and Eveleth, under the direction of Mr. Castigliano. In each case members of the Italian colony in the respective towns have done excellent work and made considerable progress. This collection work will be hurried, according to Mr. Castigliano, so that the fund will be available as soon as possible.

Practically every large city in the United States, through its prominent Italians, is doing its share in the work of providing for the thousands of homeless and injured, and local Italians expect their showing to compare favorably.

PROSPERITY IN THE NEAR FUTURE

Complete Revulsion of Sentiment in Eastern Business Circles.

New York, Feb. 5.—There is here a decidedly optimistic feeling as to present and future business in the United States and all the classes engaged in trade will accept no other view of the situation.

Not for many years has there been witnessed such a complete revulsion of thought and sentiment as to the country's business.

During September and October every one was gloomy and in the depths, now every one is hopeful and buoyant and refuses to see anything but prosperous times ahead of the people of the United States.

Money is very easy and promises to be so for months to come, and builders throughout the city are preparing for a greater activity in construction than has been witnessed for the past three years.

Building material men report more inquiry for their materials than in any year since 1911, and they concur in the view that spring will witness a widely extended revival of building operations.

This line of trade is usually the first to indicate depression and the first to show the advent of prosperity, and not for many years has there been such confidence displayed by those engaged in it as at this writing.

This same strain of business security and confidence goes all down the lines in all classes of trade, however, and every one has made up his mind that 1915 is to be a record-breaker in every important department of the trade of the United States.

A seat on the New York Stock exchange, sold last week, brought $40,000, an advance of $2,000 over the last sale of a seat on the exchange.

FRUIT MORE PLENTIFUL

Warmer Weather Averts the Threatened Shortage of Supplies.

Drop in Egg Prices, While Butter Is Unchanged.

As a result of warmer weather, the threatened stringency in Florida and California fruit and vegetable supplies was relieved. Produce began to move this way freely at the beginning of the week, much to the relief of dealers in this city and through the district.

Apples and oranges are still the "big noise" in fruit, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Culbertson Bros.' company. While prices in apples are unchanged, advances are expected within the next two weeks, for the reason that supplies are being rapidly cleaned up in some lines. Holdings here were not as large as had been originally estimated.

The general tone of the orange market is stronger, but offerings of cheaper grade fruit and supplies that had been slightly frosted in transit during the cold period, are tending to hold quotations down for the present.

Cranberries are easier and their present figures are said to be the lowest in years at this season. That is attributed to heavy stocks taken in during the early winter and the slow movement at that time. It is expected that the present low figures will lead to increased sales. California pears have been selling well and stocks are expected to be cleaned up in about a week. Grapefruit is cheaper, but it is thought that an advance may be looked for shortly.

Vegetables Are Plentiful.

Green vegetables are reported to be plentiful with a good range available in all lines. Prices show few changes through the list. Celery is the feature in that line at present, a substantial increase in its consumption being reported, as a result of the exceptionally good quality offering.

Choice Minnesota potatoes are slightly higher at 47½ cents a bushel, with extra fancy stock at 50 cents. Higher prices are expected at any time as local stocks are becoming cleaned and difficulty is being experienced in handling supplies from outside points owing to the unsettled weather.

Drop in Egg Market.

Consumers will appreciate a drop of 4 cents a dozen in fresh eggs down to 32@34 cents today. That has been brought about through the better receipts following the warmer weather. The egg market is, however, considered by the Bridgeman-Russell company to be a weather proposition at present. As dealers have only a couple of day's supply in hand, any holding back in receipts through bad roads or other reasons would immediately result in advancing prices. Continued mild temperatures must, on the other hand, the trade considers, lead to a further drop in the market. Figures in storage eggs remain at 27@29 cents a dozen. Western stocks of them are light, so that their market is firm.

Butter Prices Unchanged.

The butter market is unchanged at 31@33 cents a pound for the best creamery. Prices in Duluth are relatively lower than in New York, where the quotation in 60-pound tubs is 35½ cents. Provided the Eastern market remains as strong as it is, an advance within the next few days is regarded as only natural. While the make of butter has increased, the demand is keeping stocks closely cleaned up, owing to the comparatively small storage supplies being carried.

There have been no material price changes in meats. Beef and pork are slightly easier, but veal, lamb and mutton are up a trifle. Receipts of cattle and hogs at packing points are more liberal and a better movement still is expected early next month.

SNOW AND ICE COVER NORTH HALF OF COUNTRY

During the last ten days snow and ice covered the entire northern part of the United States, the mantle extending to sections in Virginia, Arkansas and the state of Washington.

The bulletin on snow and ice conditions published weekly by the United States department of agriculture during the winter months gives a review of the heavy snowfall and storms during the last ten days, especially in the Ohio valley and Gulf states.

P. C. Day, chief of the division in the weather bureau at Washington, comments in part as follows on the snow and ice conditions of the nation during the last week:

"During the week there was a general increase in the depth of the snow cover over the northern districts from the Mississippi valley eastward, except in portions of the lake region; and in the mountains of the Southwest there were probably some heavy falls.

"In the Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys and portions of the lower lake region the considerable body of snow on the ground at the beginning of the week melted rapidly under the influence of the heavy rains of the past few days, and the rivers of that section are now rising rapidly, with prospects of serious floods, especially in the Ohio and some of its northern tributaries.

"Large portions of the winter grain-growing regions continued snow covered during the cold weather of the early part of the week.

"Due to the cold of the early part of the week moderate increases in ice thickness occurred over nearly all northern lakes and rivers.

"In the Missouri the river is gorged at St. Joseph and heavily ice-covered from thence to its source; likewise in the Mississippi ice is reported as far south as Cairo, and the upper portions of the river continue ice-bound.

"Practically no ice is reported in the Ohio, and no additional ice has formed on the main streams of the Atlantic coast south of the Hudson. Slight increases occurred in the ice thickness on the rivers and lakes of New England, and similar conditions are reported from the Great Lakes, the harbors of which continue closed."

JEWISH REFUGEES SERIOUS PROBLEM.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Alexandria, Egypt, Jan. 20.—The large number of Jewish refugees who are reaching this city from Palestine are becoming a serious problem here. They are brought without charge by the American cruiser Tennessee from Jaffa, and available accommodations here are already strained to the uttermost.

The refugees report that a pronounced anti-Semitic persecution has been started around Jaffa, owing to the charge that the Jews favor the allies.

TO MEET AT BALTIMORE

National Conference of Charities and Corrections in May.

Will Be Most Important Gathering in Its History.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The unusual conditions which social and charity workers face as a result of the European war have prompted the early announcement of arrangements for the national conference of Charities and Corrections, although the meeting is still more than three months off. The conference will be held in Baltimore May 12 to 19.

The preliminary program points out that this meeting will be the most important in the forty-two years' history of the organization, and probably one of the largest and most important conferences of the kind ever held in America, owing to the fact that social and charity workers throughout the entire United States are having to face this winter more serious questions in relation to the relief of destitution, unemployment, care of children, public sanitation and kindred problems, many of which are incident to industrial conditions caused by the European war. "These workers," says Secretary William T. Cross, "as well as public officials and those private citizens who contribute money and time to the support of charitable and social agencies, are feeling the necessity of getting together to discuss ways and means that the resources of the country may be made to go as far as possible in the alleviation and prevention of suffering at home."

Causes of Unemployment.

The conference will endeavor to determine some of the causes and remedies of unemployment as they have appeared throughout the United States during the present winter. The function of free public employment offices will also be gone into, as will the "need and practicability of illness insurance in the United States."

One of the most important discussions will be opened by Prof. Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago, who will present a report on "Outdoor Relief in the United States, With the Consideration of Some of the Lessons to be Drawn From European Experiences." The same subject, with especial reference to the rural sections of the country, will be discussed by Amos W. Butler of Indianapolis, Ind.

Dr. Edward T. Devine, professor of social economy of Columbia university, will discuss "The Policy of Granting State Subsidies to Private Charities," and Robert W. Kelso of Boston, "The Policy of Granting State Charters to Private Charities."

Public Charity Work.

This section of the conference will lay stress upon the increasing magnitude and importance of public charity work, and the need for effective cooperation between public and private charities.

In view of the extraordinary disarrangement of social relations all over the world during the year 1915, the section of the conference on the famine and the community assumed immediate importance, and the topic, "Maintaining Standards of Work in Times of Stress," is proposed by the American Association of Societies for Organizing Charity, which will hold its annual sessions jointly with the national conference. Miss Mary E. Richmond of the Russell Sage Foundation will open the question of "Case Work Fundamental in Social Effort."

The fact that large numbers of immigrant women have come to America following every recent war has prompted the section on social hygiene to choose the general topic "How Shall We Prevent Prostitution?" Among the speakers will be Dr. Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of correction in New York city, and C. C. Carstens, secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children of Boston.

The Parole Law.

The section on corrections will discuss the Toronto plan and the parole law affecting prisoners sentenced to county jails. These subjects will be discussed by Warden J. T. Gilmour of the Central prison of Toronto and Judge J. C. Backus of Milwaukee. "The Payment of Funds to Prisoners" is to be discussed by K. L. Schreiver of Kansas City; "The Treatment of Inebriety in a State Institution," by Dr. Erwin H. Neff, superintendent of the Foxborough state hospital of Massachusetts, and "Inebriety and Crime," by Dr. G. Milton Linthicum of Baltimore.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant wtih a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Weyth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply damped a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

ALBANIAN MISSION PLANS THWARTED

Glimpses of the Swift Interruption of Mission Plans.

New York, Feb. 5.—When the war broke out the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was on the point of reopening and greatly enlarging its institutions in Albania. Rev. C. T. Erickson, the head of the mission, was already in Switzerland on his way to his field. His entrance into Albania was impossible for a time and has been impracticable since. A letter from him gives side glimpses of the havoc he is seeing and of the swift interruption of mission plans. Mr. Erickson writes from Rome. He says:

"A few days ago I met a German friend who has been all his life in business in Calcutta. His business is ruined; his brother whom he left in charge while he took a vacation is in a concentration camp at Ahmednagar. Our English nurse, who is to be head of our training school for nurses in Albania, writes us that her family's business is completely ruined, being exclusively concerned with Germany and Austria. Here in Rome is a typical family: Mother, English; father, German; of three daughters, two are married to Germans and one to a Belgian, and all three husbands have been called to their colors. While I was in Geneva there was at the Y. M. C. A. a prayer meeting attended by English, German, Austrian and French. They knelt together, prayed together and wept together, shook hands, commended each other to God's keeping and went out to fight each other with bullets and bayonets.

"At a quiet retreat up in the Carpathian mountains, close to the boundary lines of Germany, Austria and Russia, I attended a student conference during the second week of August. One young man, son of a Jewish mother and infidel father, went out from the morning meeting into the woods and didn't return until evening, when he came home with radiant face. That evening, at the close of the address, I invited to my room any who wished to dedicate themselves to foreign mission work. Nine of the choicest young people responded. It was a never-to-be-forgotten hour that we spent together.

"I saw visions of a new era for the student life and the Protestant Christian life of Austria-Hungary and of our Albanian mission. For the Protestant leaders in Vienna a few days before had formally adopted Albania as their mission field, to be worked jointly with our American board and under its direction and control; and here were the recruits already offering themselves for the field. Teachers, preachers and evangelists, nurses, kindergartner—a complete working outfit for a strong, aggressive mission presented itself that night.

"Two weeks later almost every one of the young men in the group and of the conference at large, twenty-seven altogether, were called to sacrifice themselves to this 'God of war' instead."

IT RUINS HAIR TO WASH IT WITH SOAP

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

INHERITANCE TAX IS VALID

Covers All Property Within the State or Its Jurisdiction.

Supreme Court Sustains the Ruling of Probate Judge Gilpin.

Upholding the constitutionality of the Minnesota inheritance tax law of 1911, the state supreme court at St. Paul today rendered a sweeping decision as to its construction and interpretation. The high tribunal overruled contentions made by counsel for Mrs. Melvina W. Graff, widow of the late Edmund D. Graff of Pennsylvania, who died leaving an estate in Duluth worth $490,000. In so doing, the court gave the law a very broad interpretation and held that the statute was intended to cover the transfer of all property of whatever kind within the state or its jurisdiction, whether or not it was held by a resident or non-resident decedent.

The case at bar came before the supreme court on a writ of certiorari from the St. Louis county probate court, where Judge S. W. Gilpin held that the provisions of the Minnesota inheritance tax law, which were attacked, were constitutional. Judge Gilpin was not only upheld upon the point of the constitutionality of the act, but he was also sustained on the interpretation that he gave to the statute. The supreme court ordered the writ of certiorari quashed which will mean that the tax must be paid as assessed in the lower court. William J. Stevenson of St. Paul, assistant attorney general in charge of inheritance tax matters, appeared in the matter as counsel for the state and defended the constitutionality of the statute.

Must Pay Tax.

As a result of the decision, Mrs. Graff, widow, and sole heir, will be called upon to pay a tax of $13,565.22 on her inheritance. She will also be obliged to pay interest at 7 per cent since June 3, 1912, which now amounts to more than $1,580. Had the court upheld the contentions of the widow, she would have been obliged to pay a tax of only $1,502.62, which was assessed against real estate in Minnesota left by her late husband. No dispute arose as to the payment of the tax on the real estate.

At the time of his death at Pittsburg, Pa., June 3, 1912, Mr. Graff was president of the Scott-Graff Lumber company, a Minnesota corporation having its principal place of business in this city. He was also heavily interested in local securities and stocks and owned considerable real estate here. At all times, however, he maintained his residence in Pennsylvania. He left a will in which is widow was named as sole legatee and devisee.

In November, 1912, ancillary administration of the estate was had in this county before Judge Gilpin. An inventory which was filed with the court showed that Mr. Graff left real property in Minnesota worth $84,825 and that he owned Minnesota stock and other securities worth $404,182.46, or in all $489,007.46. An $11,000 exemption claimed by the widow was recognized by the probate court and was deducted from the $489,007.46 in determining the tax, leaving the amount on which the levy was made as $478,007.46.

Property in Pennsylvania.

Attorney Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Graff, claimed that stocks and other personal property listed in the inventory were not subject to an inheritance tax on the ground that the property was located in Pennsylvania and was not within the jurisdiction of the Minnesota courts. It appeared that at the time of Mr. Graff's death, it was located within the state of Pennsylvania and it was therefore contended that the state of Pennsylvania had assumed jurisdiction over the property and that it was not taxable here.

Mr. Sullivan also contended that a section of the 1911 inheritance tax law, since repealed but in effect at the time of Mr. Graff's death, contained a reciprocal provision by which the state of Minnesota bound itself not to assess personal property for inheritance taxes in the event that the owner was resident of another state in which a similar law was effective. Or, in other words, the clause provided that where any other state did not levy any tax on the property of a resident of Minnesota, then Minnesota would reciprocate by not levying any tax on the property of the resident of that state having its situs within the state of Minnesota.

Counsel for the widow asserted that in view of the fact that Pennsylvania laws exempted the widow and lineal heirs from the payment of any inheritance tax, Minnesota should recognize the provision of the reciprocal clause then in effect and not levy any tax against Mr. Graff's widow in this state. The probate court, on this point, held that the Minnesota and Pennsylvania inehritance tax laws were not similar enough in respect to exemptions as to warrant the application of the reciprocal clause for the reason that the Pennsylvania statute did not exempt collateral as well as lineal or direct heirs where the decedent was a resident of another state.

Court's Opinion.

On this point the supreme court in an opinion written by Commissioner Taylor said:

"The reciprocal exemption amendment to our inheritance tax law, made in 1911, applies only where the laws of another state impose an inheritance tax upon 'transfers of personal property by decedents' but 'exempt or do not impose a tax upon transfers of personal property of residents of Minnesota having its situs in such state'; and the laws of another, which impose such tax only where the property passes to collateral relatives or strangers, but do not impose such tax where personal property within such state, belonging to residents of Minnesota, passes by will to such collateral relatives or strangers, do not bring the property of residents of that state within such exemption.

The probate court also held that several shares of stock in the First National bank of this city and in other Minnesota corporations, notes of residents of Minnesota and unpaid book accounts of the Scott-Graff Lumber company were property within the state of Minnesota, or at least within its jurisdiction for the purpose of levying an inheritance tax, even though most of the tangible property itself was actually located in Pennsylvania at the time of Mr. Graff's death.

The supreme court, upholding this contention, said:

"The devolution of debts owed by residents of this state, whether evidenced by promissory notes or not, and of stock of corporations of this state, and of the stock of national banks located in this state, is subject to a succession tax in this state, although the debts were owing to and the stock was held by non-resident decedents."

Law Is Sweeping.

The high tribunal in its decision also airs its views as to how sweeping the law should be in covering property taxable under the law. The court says:

"The language of our statute indicates an intention on the part of the legislature to impose a succession tax in all cases in which it has the power to impose such tax and the statute cannot be construed as applying only where the devolution of the property is governed by our laws.

"A non-resident decedent's personal property, having a situs in this state, is subject to the succession tax of this state, although the devolution of such property is governed by the law of the decedent's domicile."

The constitutionality of the law as a whole, which was attacked by Attorney Sullivan, was upheld, the court using the following language:

"The inheritance tax statute, as amended, does not infringe the constitutional provision that, 'no law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title nor the equality provisions of the state or Federal Constitution, nor the provision against impairing the obligation of contracts."

Judge Gilpin stated today that the decision was a most important one. It decides a point which has been in dispute for the last three or four years. It will not, however, change the practice of the local court, as inheritance taxes have been collected in such instances, but heretofore without any protest.

JURY DECIDES ONE APPEAL

W. A. McKay Gets Boulevard Right-of-Way Award Increased.

A district court jury this morning returned a verdict in the first of the appeal cases growing out of condemnation proceedings instituted by the city of Duluth to acquire a right-of-way for the north shore boulevard drive from Lester Park to the Lake county line, when William A. McKay was awarded $850 damages for the strip of property taken from his land. It consisted of 2.97 acres on the shore line of a fifteen-acre tract, about a half mile east of the Lakewood pumping station.

Appraisers appointed by the court, in a report filed Nov. 13, 1914, allowed Mr. McKay $594. He appealed from this award on the ground that it was much less than the market value. The city also appealed. As a witness in his own behalf yesterday, Mr. McKay testified that the amount of damages to be awarded him should, in his opinion, be $3,900. W. C. Sargent, George H. Claypool and G. A. Bush, testifying as land value experts, fixed the damage from $3,000 to $4,200. The jury made a personal inspection of the property.

H. B. Fryberger appeared for Mr. McKay and Harvey Clapp, William P. Harrison and Frank Crassweller represented the city's interest. The jury retired about 5 o'clock last evening and reached an agreement an hour later. The verdict was sealed and opened when Judge Dancer convened court this morning.

Today, another appeal in the same matter was taken up and another jury drawn, ten of the same jurymen being selected on the panel to try the case. The appeal is that of E. Z. Williams, whose land, a 100-acre tract, is located on the north shore of Lake Superior, about one and one-half miles east of the Lakewood pumping station. Mr. Sargent, who appeared again as an expert witness, placed the value of the land to be condemned at $13,200. Warren McComber fixed the damages at $600 an acre. A strip of eight acres will be taken.

This afternoon the jury will be taken to Lakewood and will be shown the property. The jurors will be in charge of a deputy sheriff.

LIKE A BOMB, SAYS BARTON

Duluth Actor Cannot Believe Report of His Wife's Action.

Says Marriage Is Legal—Heartbroken By Annulment Suit.

"I know nothing at all about any legal action contemplated by Mrs. Barton, nor did I ever dream of such a thing. The news has broken me all up, even though I am unable to reconcile myself to believing the report. I have resigned from the Baldwin Stock company, to take effect the week after next, because life was lonely for me here in Duluth without my wife, and it was my plan to be nearer Lola in the future."

This was the statement made this morning by Homer Barton, leading man of the Baldwin Players, with regard to the report received here from New York last evening to the effect that Lola May, the name Mrs. Barton uses on the stage, had brought suit for divorce against him in the New York courts. The complaint, the report states, alleges that a divorce obtained by Mr. Barton six years ago in Kansas City, Mo., is illegal in New York state, since only one ground for divorce is recognized in New York, that as a result she is entitled to an annulment of the marriage to the local actor in Duluth last fall.

Like a Bomb.

"This report is like a bomb out of a clear sky," added Mr. Barton while dressing for rehearsal in his room at the Holland this morning. "Only a week ago I received several letters and cards from Mrs. Barton and Vernay Barrett, her sister, who is with her in Atlanta. Here they are. This all seems so impossible to me, that I simply can't believe it. I am heartbroken over it all and all last night was unable to sleep.

"About six years ago I was married in New York, but shortly after my wife, who was an actress, left me. As my home was in Kansas City, I returned there shortly after and later obtained a divorce on a charge of desertion. My divorce is legal in every state in the Union, except New York, where the law states that a divorce can be obtained only on a charge of adultery. However, my home was in Missouri and lawyers have declared that the divorce was valid.

Marriage Legal.

"Before marrying Lola May in Duluth, I made further investigations and learned that the marriage here would be absolutely legal. Lola's father opposed our marriage at the time, and I am afraid, if there is any truth in the report, that he has influenced my wife against me. I have wired three times to Lola, but so far have failed to receive an answer."

Mr. Barton is of the opinion that, if any action has been taken by Mrs. Barton, she will be denied an annulment of the marriage. He said he had planned to come back to Duluth next summer, bringing Mrs. Barton with him to spend the summer here.

"Life has been bitter to me this last year," Mr. Barton continued. "First my father passed away, and now this must come. And worse than all, I must go on the stage tonight, heartbroken as I am, and play. If the world came to an end, I would not be more surprised, nor could I feel as badly as I do right now."

The dispatch from New York follows:

"New York, Feb. 5.—Miss Lola May, who was a Duluth stock company star in 1914 and who gained fame as an actress in the dramatization of 'The Lure,' here, figured yesterday in a legal action against Homer Barton, now an actor in Duluth.

"Miss May alleges that she was married to Barton in Duluth Oct. 14 last. She asks for annulment of the marriage on the ground that the divorce Barton obtained from his former wife in Kansas City, Mo., six years ago had not legal basis for separation in New York state."

NO EMPTY CHAIRS FOR FIRST REUNION OF MILLENIAL CLASS

Sometime during the latter part of this month the Millenial class of the Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite Masons, will hold its first annual reunion and banquet, beginning a series of such yearly gatherings until but one member of the class survives.

Arrangements for the reunion were made at a special meeting of the class held at the Masonic temple last evening, following the exemplification of the fourteenth degree. The banquet will be held at one of the local hotels and it is expected that the entire membership of the class will be present. There has been no break in the ranks during this last year and the roll of twenty-nine will be complete when it is called on the night of the banquet.

A. B. Kapplin was elected chairman of the committee to arrange for the first annual reunion to be held this month. A. L. Kreitter and J. H. Franklin are the other members of the committee. The comittee will select the banquet place and the date at an informal meeting to be held next week.

In addition the class last evening elected C. F. How, Jr., as president of the organization for the ensuing year, while Fred G. Hanson, secretary, was re-elected. J. Q. Adams is the other member of the executive committee elected last night. L. B. Arnold was the first chairman of the class, having been elected at its organization a year ago.

A year ago last night the members of the class received the fourteenth degree and at the same time brought the membership of the Scottish Rite body of Duluth above the 1,000 mark. For this reason E. K. Coe, venerable master of the Lodge of Perfection, arranged for the organization of the Millenial class in observance of the passing of the millenial mark and also the silver anniversary of the organization of the Scottish Rite lodge in this city.

Following the organization of the class the members decided to hold annual reunions until but one member of the body survives. These gatherings are to be held about this time each year and the program will be followed out regardless of how many or how few attend.

Board of Education Will Advertise Bonds for Sale.

School Congestion to Be Relieved Without Additional Building.

The board of education will hold a regular meeting this evening, and the chief business for consideration is likely to be the matter of advertising for bids for a portion of the recently authorized bond issue for the building of more schools. Aside from that, it is the expectation of the school officers that the meeting will be decidedly routine.

C. F. Colman, chairman of the finance committee, says that he expects the board to advertise for the disposal of $100,000 worth of the bonds. The authorization was for $200,000, but all that will be issued will be enough for the construction of the proposed additions to the Lincoln school at the West end to provide for a junior high school there. This will cost just about $100,000.

There has been some demand for additional room at the Merritt school, but that is likely to be denied, and the congestion at that school relieved in another way. At the Oneota school, about eleven blocks away, there are several vacant rooms, and it will probably be determined to shift the school district lines so that enough pupils will be taken away from the Merritt to substantially relieve the congestion and at the same time occupy the vacant space at the Oneota. This plan will likely be adopted in the matter of congestion at several schools of the city where there is a clamor for more room. It is said that there are quite a number of instances where such conditions exist, and which can be remedied by the simple shifting of the district lines.

In this way the school directors expect to save money that otherwise would be wasted in building unnecessary new schools and additions to old ones.

CAMBRIDGE COUPLE WEDDED FIFTY YEARS.

Cambridge, Minn., Feb. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Olson of West Cambridge have just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. They were born and reared their family of eight children in Sweden. MAKE TERMS FOUR YEARS

North Dakota Senate Favors Lengthening Terms of Officials.

Bill to Delay Opening of Game Season to Sept. 15.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four-year terms for state and county officials received the approval of the senate, when constitutional amendments providing for the lengthening of the terms of officials were passed by that body. On the county officers' bill, the vote was 26 to 20, with three absent, giving the measure a bare constitutional majority.

In the house, Representative Treadwell Twichell's bill providing that counties may increase their bonded indebtedness limit 3 per cent for the purpose of building good roads, was passed by a vote of 65 to 40. This measure has been one of the hottest contested bills at the present session.

The educational committee of the house has about completed the preliminary draft of the proposed board of regency bill. It provides for the establishment of a commissioner of education as the expert of the board to make a study of the work the several institutions are conducting.

Bank Deposit Guarantee.

The proposal to establish a state guarantee of bank deposits, brought forward in Representative Johnson's bill, came back to the house yesterday on a divided report, with the majority for the indefinite postponement of the measure. This brings the fight on in the house today. The sponsor of the measure is himself a member of the banking committee, and he heads the minority report.

Another banking bill that came out with a divided report was that proposing that the minimum capitalization of banks be placed at $20,000, instead of $10,000, as at present. The majority was for passage.

Representative Montgomery's bill providing that mixed railroad trains shall be limited to twelve freight cars, in addition to the passenger service, was killed by the house yesterday.

New Game Laws Proposed.

The game and fish committee of the house yesterday introduced a bill proposing extensive amendments to the present game laws. The most important of these delays the opening of the season to Sept. 15. Another fixes the bag limit at fifteen birds. The deer season will be closed till 1920, while terms of members of the board of control of game and fish would be extended to six years.

The bill proposing an increase in the maintenance charge to counties for patients at the asylum for the insane, from $15 to $18, was killed by the house yesterday on the recommendation of the state affairs committee.

Another measure that was killed yesterday was Representative Purcell's bill for the creation of a state vice commission, such commision being proposed in Governor Hanna's message.

State Elevator Bill.

The bill providing for the establishment of a state owned terminal elevator in St. Paul will be introduced either today or tomorrow. It will carry an appropriation of $50,000, in addition to the income provided by the special fractional mill tax.

Representative Jahr's bill limiting the terms of county officials to three was killed by the house yesterday. This question, however, is likely to be revived when certain bills that have come from the senate are under consideration.

RANGE WILL PATRONIZE DULUTH AUTO SHOW.

Following his return yesterday from a trip on the range, W. H. Daly, manager of the Twin Ports automobile show, announced that many range residents will visit Duluth during automobile week, Feb. 22-27.

"The people on the range like the idea," said Mr. Daly. "Many told me that they will be glad to come to Duluth to see the show. They said that they did not feel that they could stand the expense of going to Minneapolis to see a show, but will be glad of an opportunity to se an exhibit in Duluth. I found many interested in automobiles and eager to see the latest models and the improvements that another year's experience in automobile manufacture has produced."

Mr. Daly left last night for Minneapolis, where he will visit the show in progress and also arrange for several exhibitions for the local show.

Decorators are now at work on the Auditorium, and next week workmen will start building the booths and stands for the various exhibits.

Traveler Kills Self.

Dickinson, N. D., Feb. 5.—W. H. Englund committed suicide here yesterday. He was 40, and was traveling from Unionstown, Wash., to Wheeling, W. Va. He cut his throat with a jack knife. It is thought he was crazed for liquor.

Woman's Realm

The cast for Lady Gregory's play, "The Work House Ward," that will be given by the Drama league next Thursday evening following the lecture by Lady Gregory on "Ireland and Worlds Unseen" will be:

Mike McInerney.....Francis Webb
Michael Miskell.....Robert Walker
Paupers.
Mrs. Donohoe....Mrs. George Morgan
A Country Woman.

The action takes place at Cloon workhouse.

In a note accompanying the play the author says: "It is better to be quarreling than lonesome." This one-act drama that requires about twenty minutes for presentation is full of humor and the members of the Drama league hope their production will have the added value of a rehearsal conducted by Lady Gregory.

NEW DRAMA CLASS.

Auxiliary to Drama Study Club Will Hold Evening Meetings.

A meeting will be held soon to organize an evening class auxiliary to the Duluth Drama Study club. Twenty-one young women have expressed their wish to enter this class that will study drama and anyone who is interested in the work may learn particulars from Mrs. J. C. H. Engel.

At the first meeting Mrs. Engel will talk on "The Relation of the Modern Drama to Contemporary Thought." Members of the Duluth Drama Study club will read an act of "Fanny's First Play," by Shaw, and musical numbers will be given.

Stevens-Sneve.

The wedding of Miss Willimina Clara Stevens of Minneapolis and Jack Stickney Sneve of this city will take place in Minneapolis next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. William P. Remington will read the service.

Mrs. Arthur D. Spring will be her sister's matron of honor and Miss Catherine Hall Welles, a cousin of the bridegroom, will be the maid of honor. Clarence Howard Johnson, Jr., of St. Paul will be Mr. Sneve's best man and the ushers will be Robert M. Gaylord, Ralph Clifford and Arthur D. Spring of Minneapolis and Chenoweth Gilman of St. Paul.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stevens of Lyndale avenue south.

Mrs. Holden Is Candidate.

Mrs. Stanley R. Holden, regent of the Daughters of Liberty chapter, is a candidate for the office of state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Samuel M. Dick of Minneapolis is the other important candidate.

Mrs. William Liggett of St. Paul has sent out nomination blanks. Officers will be nominated at the council meeting to be held in St. Paul Feb. 22. Nominations will be ratified at the D. A. R. convention to be held in Washington in April.

Duluth Drama Study Club.

At the meeting of the Duluth Drama Study club, held yesterday afternoon at the Holland hotel to complete the program that was arranged for the causerie, given last week, Tolstoi was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. J. M. Martin and Maeterlincy was the subject of talks made by Mrs. C. J. Knox, Mrs. O. A. Oredson and Mrs. Robert Spickel. Several selections from Maeterlinck were read by Mrs. Oredson. There was an informal discussion of the philosophy of the two writers.

Mrs. Nell B. Morrison sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," by Tate and as an encore "For You," by Montague. Miss Esther Gomberg was at the piano.

Kitchi Gammi Dance.

A Castle house supper was a feature of the weekly informal dancing party of the Kitchi Gammi club last evening. The Miller orchestra, featuring banjo-mandolins, played for the dancing.

Personal Mention.

Jack Stickney Sneve, whose wedding to Miss Willimina Clara Stevens of Minneapolis will take place Monday evening, is visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Haldor Sneve of St. Paul.

"Dog in Manger" Policy.

Editorial in the Litchfield, Minn., Independent: One of the biggest jokes of the period is the association of women to oppose extension of the ballot to females. This association claims a membership of 700 in Minneapolis and 1,300 in St. Paul, with some wives of prominent Twin City men as leading members. The movement seems to voice an aversion to having the responsibility of citizenship extended to them. We have not a word to say against the position taken by many women that they do not care to have the voting privilege, but to see them band together to maintain their sex in a class with imbeciles and criminals so far as the right to vote is concerned, seems an anomaly. If these women do not themselves wish to exercise the right of voting, cannot they remain away from the polls? Does it not seem like a "dog in the manger" policy to declare in effect that "we don't want to vote, and neither do we want any other women to vote." We take the position that women have the right to vote, and it should be given them, so that those who wish to exercise this right can do so.

DRINK HOT TEA
FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

WOMAN'S COUNCIL AWAITS ACTION OF SCHOOL BOARD

Visiting Housewife, School Lunches and Dental Clinics in Abeyance.

Women Want Better Fire Protection at Endion School.

Further discussion regarding a visiting housewife and lunches for school children arose at the meeting of the Woman's council this morning, but no definite action could be taken on either matter until after tonight's meeting of the board of education.

Action by the dental clinic committee also depends upon the school board.

Mrs. A. A. Kerr, reported for the committee on amusements, a petition asking for better fire protection at Endion school was indorsed by the council, and Mrs. F. L. Barrows gave details regarding the midwinter meeting of the state federation to be held in Minneapolis next week.

Report of Dr. Andres.

Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst, chairman of the committee composed of representatives of clubs that have agreed to help if school lunches are introduced, gave an account of the report prepared by Dr. J. H. Andres and the school nurses relative to the school children who are under-nourished. Children suffering from malnutrition were found in twenty-five schools. In these schools the number of families having poorly nourished children ranged from 1 at the Oneota school to 21 at the Jackson school. Ranking next to the Jackson was the Irving school, with 19 families with school children who were improperly nourished.

The investigation by Dr. Andres and the school nurses included questions regarding the weekly income of each family and the member of the family who is supporting it.

The total number of families represented by insufficiently nourished children at these 25 schools was found to be 221. Of this number 45 families, or 20 per cent, owed their cases of malnutrition to poverty and 126 families, or 57 per cent, to lack of knowledge. The remaining 23 per cent was due to various and indefinite causes, such as suspected cases of tuberculosis, lack of ventilation and lack of sanitation. The Irving school with 9, led in the greatest number of cases due to poverty and Adams school with 14, with the greatest number of cases due to lack of knowledge.

The committee of the Woman's council in charge of this phase of work recommended that the Woman's council suggest to the board of education the careful consideration of the situation as found in the report of the various schools and express its willingness to co-operate in doing what the board might think expedient to solve the problem of insufficient nourishment among school children. This recommendation will be presented to the board of education at its meeting tonight.

Visiting Housewife.

A letter written by the secretary of the Housewives' league, regarding a visiting housewife, was read to the members of the council. This letter also will be presented at the meeting of the board of education tonight.

Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, president of the Woman's council, reported that Mayor W. I. Prince expressed a wish that the organization wait several months before taking definite action in regard to a visiting housewife, as by that time the city would know better what it could do for the Associated Charities and the Welfare board. The motion was carried that the Woman's council favor having a visiting housewife as soon as possible.

Dental Clinics.

Mrs. C. J. Le Sure, chairman of the dental clinic committee, announced Mrs. E. L. Tuohy, Mrs. Arthur Barnes and Mrs. E. J. O'Donnell as additional members of that committee, the other members being the original educational committee, composed of Mrs. J. T. Watson, Mrs. C. E. Spring, Mrs. H. J. Grannis, Mrs. C. E. Lonegren and Mrs. H. H. Phelps.

Mrs. Le Sure said the dentists of the district who held a meeting last Monday night were enthusiastic over the proposed free dental clinic for school children and are forming a plan by which they will give their assistance if the clinic become a reality.

Motion Pictures.

Mrs. A. A. Kerr reported the motion pictures are, as in the past, both good and bad and that one film may have both its excellent and its objectionable points. She said there is a strong tendency to problem pictures dealing with vice and crime, and that recently her committee had received expressions from persons who bjected to some of the pictures shown here.

Mrs. Kerr explained there is no penalty, other than that of public opinion, attached to producing films that do not receive the sanction of the National Board of Censorship, and told of the bulletin sent out weekly by the board giving the list of pictures passed by it and describing the parts that are to be elliminated from other pictures. After making a careful study of the eliminations prescribed by the board Mrs Kerr visited a local moving picture house and saw the film presented without meeting all the requirements of the board regarding the parts to be eliminated. Some of the recommendations made by the board are indefinite, as she explained, giving as an example the weekly bulletin that said in regard to one scene, "Cut the number of policemen to one-half."

Mrs. Kerr explained the Federal bill known as the Smith-Hughes Motional Picture Censorship bill that had its fifth hearing last May. War business has crowded the bill out and it is doubtful if it is brought to light again.

She urged members of the Woman's council to write to their senators asking that they vote for the passage of the bill.

The Chicago board that censors films for presentation in that city rejects 15 per cent of the films passed by the National Board of Censorship.

Endion School.

Mrs. C. E. Spring read a petition to be presented to the board of education tonight asking that steps be taken for the safety of the pupils of Endion school in case of fire or other catastrophy. As the building is two stories high on one side and three on the other and as there is no assembly hall, meaning technically a room seating 100 or more, on the side that otherwise would require fire escapes, the case does not come under the fire ordinance but the parents of pupils in that building do not regard the spiral staircases sufficient.

Mrs. Barrows explained that any member of any club belonging to the state federation may attend the midwinter breakfast that will be held at the Hotel Leamington in Minneapolis, Friday, Feb. 12. The first event of this meeting of club women of the state will be the sociological tour Thursday, Feb. 11, followed by a tea at the Leamington for which the hostesses will be the members of the League of Catholic Women. In addition a council meeting at which important matters will be brought up by the committee on legislation of which Miss Josephine Schain is chairman, and a tea given for out-of-town women by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter at the Woman's clubhouse, the only clubhouse in Minnesota owned by women. Mrs. Clarence Atwood of St. Cloud, the state president, will entertain at dinner at the Leamington Thursday. Mrs. Barrows will be one of Mrs. Atwood's guests.

Mrs. Barrows explained the importance of this midwinter meeting as this a legislative year and the club women of Duluth are especially interested because they will be the hostesses for the members of the federation next September.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Anonymous Letters Are Despicable.

There are various and diverse ways of being mean, and anyone so disposed does not have to search long for a course of action. Perhaps the most cowardly method, next to stabbing a person in the back in the dark, is the advantage human nature takes of doing their worst through the medium of the anonymous letter, when spite, anger or jealousy gets the upper hand and must be appeased.

People write these unsigned, mysterious letters from every motive known to humanity and I do not doubt that many of them are written with certain good intentions to the party addressed but without the backing that an honest signature gives any document. When the letter contains defamatory reports with the intention that these will be circulated, we have a striking illustration of the depths to which some people will go.

You can usually bank on the truth of the statement that when anyone refuses to sign a letter slandering another that they have more than a passing interest in humiliating the party attacked in the eyes of the one to whom the letter is addressed.

An anonymous letter should, and usually is by people of sense, I am thankful to say, handled like so much paper infected with contagious disease, and as far as its contents has power to harm it is the same as though it was tossed into the flames, and consumed for all time.

That is the fate it deserves and is practically the only thing left for any straightforward person to do, no matter how much benefit an honest statement of the facts, coming from a known and respected source might be to the person singled out for the ignominious, anonymous letter.

Of course, one may try another mode of procedure, and that is investigation. One contemptible and wily enough to resort to this means to do harm to another or to get certain facts before certain people can be counted on to cover their tracks well, and seldom, if ever, are they detected in such shabby business. Although the investigation idea is probably the first thought that enters the mind of anyone who has been bothered by letters of a disagreeable nature lacking a signature, they find that the method is not prolific of any satisfactory results in the long run, and that the best way is to let slander and even truth in this guise severely alone.

ALFRED NOYES COMING HERE

Noted English Poet Gives Views on War—Predicts International Alliance—Aim to Prevent Great Wars in Future—New Literature Will Come.

Alfred Noyes, the famous English poet, will visit Duluth in the near future and give a reading from his poems.

The English poet landed in New York only recently, coming over on the liner Lusitania. Mr. Noyes was freely interviewed by the newspapers of the metropolis. He was naturally strongly pro British, and in the New York Evening Post, gave forth the following utterance on the war and his belief in the policy that should be strictly adhered to on the part of the United States:

Watchword Is "Never Again."

"'The watchword of even the most pronounced militarists among the allies,' said Mr. Noyes, 'is never again. When the settlement finally comes there will certainly be a grim attempt to establish some sort of collective responsibility between nations, so that treaties cannot again be torn up with impunity.

"'The whole thing reduces itself to whether we are going to have international wars in the future. We surely shall, unless treaties are enforced. A system of international police is rather a distant ideal, but I don't see why the principle of international alliances cannot be worked out. I think the development will be along the lines on which the allies are now working. There you have several large powers working together to uphold what they think is right. The United States is a perfect example of an alliance between big states on the same continent, and history shows that there is a steady development from smaller to larger groups.'

International Law Broken.

"'Mr. Noyes was asked what he thought of the German naval raid on the seaports and the more recent Zeppelin raid on Sandringham.

"'At the present time,' he replied, 'all international laws have been thrown over, and the world must accept such things.

"'I think that every nation which is a party to a solemn conclave should make some sort of a protest when the conclave is trampled under foot. I haven't the slightest doubt but that the United States could do a lot towards bringing about peace—even at the present time.

War Brings Awakening.

"'The war is bringing us right up against things that we have been ignoring, such as ethics and religion. It is going to put an end to the frivolous, non-moral literature—the sticky stuff—that has been flooding our bookstalls lately. It will tend to bring a more serious tone into literature.'

"Mr. Noyes was asked to comment on the American note to England, in regard to shipping, the sailing of the Dacia with cotton, and the sailing of the Wilhelmina with a cargo of foodstuffs for Germany.

"'I believe that all these movements,' he replied, 'have been fomented by the Germans in this country. Although they are not necessarily trying to involve the United States in war with England, they are trying to keep the two countries in a state of financial friction.'

"Mr. Noyes was reminded of 'The Wine Press,' his poem depicting the horrors of war. He was asked if this war had been started by a group of black-coated men, who sat in an office and pushed a button which started bloodshed miles away.

"Black-Coated Men Start War."

"'Yes, I do think so,' he replied. 'When "The Wine Press" was first published, many of my friends told me that I had exaggerated the horrors of war when I spoke of 300,000 dead. Already after only five months of this war there have been 2,000,000 casualties. Taking all of the warring nations into consideration, it will be lucky if we get out of this war with only 10,000,000 killed.'

"Mr. Noyes has come over here to fill an agreement which he made with Princeton university last year to lecture at the university during the second semester. He and Mrs. Noyes will stay at the Hotel Algonquin in this city for a few days, and then make a short trip to Chicago before they go to Princeton. Mr. Noyes said that he would probably give some lectures on the war. For the last few months he has been patrolling the roads along the coast of England on a bicycle as a member of the coast guard."

DULUTH'S IMPRESARIO IS PRAISED AT ELKS' RECEPTION

Mrs. Stephen H. Jones was given a glowing tribute at the Elks' club last night for her part in arranging the program for "ladies' night." She was also described as the moving spirit in discovering musical talent in Duluth and helping to develop it.

Rev. A. W. Ryan, who made the address in praise of Mrs. Jones, spoke at considerable length upon her work in the city in arranging artistic programs and of the excellent results she has obtained.

"Every city the size of Duluth needs an impresorio," said Dr. Ryan, "to bring about the best artistic results in music, art and literature. Mrs. Jones has proved such in Duluth, and she has occupied a unique position because of her peculiar ability along these lines."

The second annual "ladies' night" of the Elks' lodge attracted a large attendance. Exalted Ruler Neil B. Morrison made a short address of welcome, saying the Elks wanted to help of the women in the noble work that is the object of the order. Mr. Morrison's talk was followed by a program arranged by Mrs. Stephen H. Jones and Mrs. Neil B. Morrison who were in charge of the program given on "ladies' night" last year.

Rev. Ryan paid a tribue to the charity of the Elks, saying they had been of great assistance to him in work among the poor.

Mrs. Jane Everington Skully, with Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury as accompanist, gave a group of soprano solos. Miss Myrtle Hobbs in a comedy make-up sang "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl," made famous by Marie Dressler. Miss Hobbs' efforts to produce off notes were decidedly successful and she was rewarded by a bouquet of celery, followed by Killarney roses and violets.

The other part of the musical program of the evening was furnished by the Esther Gomberg orchestra that played popular selections during the first part of the evening, followed later in the evening by an orchestral selection.

Miss Berta Schmied explained the new dances that were given later by herself and her brother, Leo Schmied. Among dances studied recently in New York by Miss Schmied and illustrated last evening were the opera waltz, Brazilian polka, New York fox trot and one-step.

The members of the reception committee were Mrs. J. E. Samuelson, Mrs. G. V. Heatcote, Mrs. A. J. McCulloch, Mrs. W. J. North and Mrs. F. B. McTague.

PUPILS ARRANGE "LAB."

Students of the "Y" night school are having a rather unusual experience in the way of laboratory work. Some time ago it was decided to install a new electrical laboratory for demonstration work. Apparatus has been received, and the students are installing it and thereby gaining considerable knowledge of the various parts. A five-horse power motor, a 25-horse power generator and other important apparatus is being put in. It is expected that the "lab" will be in full working order in two weeks.

TRESPASSING ON RAILWAYS.

Some data of interest on the relations of people to the railway lines that cross the country was given in an article published recently on this page under the heading "The Deadly Toll of Trespass on Railways." The figures given there, and others from other sources, are especially interesting in this state in view of the introduction in the legislature by Senator Denegre of a bill to forbid trespassing on certain parts of railway property.

According to the Bulletin of the Railway Business association, there were from 1901 to 1910 no less than 33,000 persons under twenty-one years of age killed or injured while trespassing on the railways of the United States. The total number killed or injured in that time were 103,452. In this same period only 5,049 were killed or injured by railroads in the United Kingdom, the numbers in each case applying only to trespassers.

In 1913, according to an interstate commerce commission report, there were 5,558 trespassers killed and 9,310 injured by American railroads. In 1912 the figures were 5,434 and 8,687.

Of course the natural conclusion is that most of these victims were tramps who walked the tracks or tried to steal rides on trains. That conclusion is wrong, according to a card distributed by the Central Safety committee of the Chicago & North-Western Railway company. This shows that out of 225,266 trespassers killed or injured on railway property in the last twenty-four years, only 20 per cent, or 45,054 were "tramps and hoboes;" 14 per cent, or 31,049 were children under 18 years old, and 66 per cent, or 149,163, were citizens of the locality in which the accident occurred, and most of them wage earners.

What are we going to do about it? About the only thing that can be done is to pass and enforce drastic laws against trespass on railway property. That this plan works is indicated by the fact that only three of the ninety-four trespassers killed on the Wabash railroad in 1914 were killed in Canada, where trespassers are liable to be fined as high as fifty dollars and to be sent to prison for any time up to two months. Other countries have and enforce even more drastic laws, and have correspondingly low death rates among trespassers.

Minnesota at present has need of such a law, and this proposal by Senator Denegre is intended to remedy the defect. But there should be no mistake about the scope of the law. According to present reports, the bill includes only railway terminal property and yards. It would be well to extend its terms to include the right of way, and make it possible to keep careless persons off the tracks and trestles. Enforcement would cost something, but it would prevent many deaths and much public expense in the coroners' offices and in public hospitals.

"The war has stopped exploration," says Peary. Which effectually disposes of the rumor that the tariff was responsible.

IT IS COMING.

How many years ago would that suffrage vote in the New York legislature have been considered impossible? You notice that it was 113 to 0 in favor of the women's cause in the house, and in the senate, too, the vote was unanimous. The people of the state will now get a chance to pass on the question.

It doesn't mean that women are any more entitled to the right of suffrage today than they were a few years ago. It doesn't mean that they are generally more fitted for that privilege than they were then. All it means is that the country as a whole is waking up to the fact that the woman suffrage idea is not a passing fad or an absurd theory, but that it is a practical proposition that has been tried and found satisfactory in various parts of the country.

State legislatures have sometimes gone on record against the suffrage idea itself, and sometimes have declined to let the people vote on the question, but all such checks are only temporary. Woman suffrage is coming, and those who have followed its course may well be surprised at the rapidity of its progress in recent years. The Minnesota legislature now has another opportunity to place the question before the voters of Minnesota, and should take advantage of that opportunity.

No, Madeline, it is not called a blind pig because it can't see how to dodge.

AMERICAN IDEALS WIN.

The failure of the house to pass the immigration bill over the president's veto is a victory for American ideals. It means that the standard of admission to this country is to be what our forefathers planned it should be—an earnest desire for personal freedom and opportunity.

President Wilson's message returning the bill to congress on account of the literacy test gave complete expression to the most serious objections to that test, and he echoed the sentiment of a majority of the American people when he declared that fitness to enter the land of opportunity should not be based on the extent of opportunities already enjoyed.

But there were things in the immigration bill that were valuable, and it is too bad that the country should lose the benefit of these provisions just because they were originally coupled with undesirable ones. It would be a good plan for congress now to re-enact the bill, omitting the objectionable portions.

New York is to vote on suffrage. How will Tammany stand?

CITY FINANCES.

The New York World repeats its warning to that city to be careful of its financial affairs. It asserts that the city is "headed straight toward bankruptcy," and cites the increases in state taxes and still more emphatically "the efforts of the Mitchel administration to find new sources of taxation to meet the increased budget." Statistics show that New York's net public debt is now $757,705,833.

But statistics show some other things that may come home to Duluth with considerable significance. For instance, the tax rate in New York city for last year was $1.78 for every $100 of assessed valuation for all purposes, the valuation being at 100 per cent. Had the valuation been on a 50 per cent basis, as it is in Duluth, for example, the tax rate would have been $3.56 per $100. The Duluth rate last year was $3.63, with a 50 per cent valuation. Had the Duluth valuation been 100 per cent, as it is in New York, Duluth's tax rate would have been $1.865 as compared with the $1.78 which New York is finding excessive.

What becomes of a city that goes bankrupt? Something less than half a century ago Memphis, Tenn., was deeply in debt, and then suffered an epidemic of yellow fever. The result was bankruptcy, and the state dissolved the city government and established Memphis instead as a "taxable district." That is, the people there had to pay taxes, but could not govern themselves, until their public finances were once more in shape.

It is as well to call a halt on needless expenditures. Duluth's per capita debt today is approximately $80 as compared with $36.22 in Dallas, Tex.; $30.09 in Des Moines, Iowa; $59.25 in Forth Worth, Tex., and $57.98 in Kansas City, Kan., all of them cities approximately the same size as Duluth. Not that Duluth is on the verge of bankruptcy today, but Duluth doesn't want to be on the verge of bankruptcy, nor anywhere near that point. There are certain expenditures that are necessary, and others that are not necessary, and these latter should be limited at least until the city can make a better showing than it does at present.

No doubt the Londoners hope those Zeppelins will continue to maneuver over the German-Belgian frontier.

REVENUE FROM THE BIG DITCH.

Tolls collected from ships that passed through the Panama canal during December totaled $411,895.44, according to Associated Press reports, this amount being an increase of $24,653.04 over the November receipts. The total amount of tolls collected to January of this year was $1,547,100.45, and each of the five months of operation showed a gain over the previous month. Now it is said the receipts for January will be less than for December, as traffic is falling off for the time being.

No doubt the war and its effect on commerce have much to do with this, though there may be other factors. But the big point is that the canal is becoming a revenue-producer instead of a dead financial load. Also those who have used it praise its convenience and its operation, and it seems certain now that with the world's commerce once more on a peace basis, the big ditch will prove to be even more of a paying investment than many had expected it to be.

The World Getting Better

Editorial in The Kansas City Times.

Bern, Kan.—To the Times: Would you please answer the following question: Is the world growing better or worse? And give your reasons why.

EUGENIA HARRISON.

Better.

Consider the ancient world at the time of the birth of Christ. Half of it in slavery; the slaves regarded as so many cattle, often killed by their masters in the event of illness or old age, so as to avoid the expense of caring for them, hired for gladiatorial shows at $3 a head, crucified as a punishment for any crime.

Or come down a thousand years nearer our own time. Consider the degradation of the great mass of the people. The peasants are no longer slaves, but they are only a trifle higher in the scale as serfs. The whole earth is still the abode of cruelty. There is no such word as "progress" in its modern meaning; the word merely means a royal procession.

Or take the life of a century ago in Europe or America. In Europe the whole organization of society is for the privileged few. Those are the days of long, long hours of work for women and children in mines and factories. A person of the twentieth century transplanted to Europe of the early nineteenth would have felt the outlook hopeless. In the United States life was generally primitive. It had none of the richness of the present day. Good books and good pictures and good music were wholly out of the reach of the mass of the people. The existence of slavery failed to shock the moral sense of the nation.

It is harder to make comparisons of very recent times with the present, for the differences are less striking. But it is believed that there never has been a period when men have been more awake to the demands of human brotherhood—and that, in spite of the fact that the most terrible war of history is now in progress. Everywhere nations are awakening to their duties and their responsibilities to see that a larger measure of justice is done, and that the tremendous resources of modern life are brought more and more into the possession of the average family. Ideas that are called reactionary today would have been regarded as highly radical twenty years ago.

The Times admits that it is an optimist. But it believes that its optimism is founded on facts and that from decade to decade the world is progressing toward a nobler, fuller life for all the people.

A Sign of the Times

Life: We beg leave to pay our respects to the National Housewives' League, Inc., which has recently, let us hope for the benefit of mankind, started upon its career in New York. Expert butchers, meetings of housewives, bachelor girls and lessons in cooking are among the special features scheduled. Says Mrs. Julian Heath, the president:

> We want to teach women how to reduce the cost of living by careful and intelligent buying.

But can any organization, no matter how enthusiastic, teach women how to be intelligent buyers, how to become expert cooks and how to run their households skillfully if they are not interested in learning? Most women regard household work, not as an art from which the same pleasure can be obtained as from any art, but as a somewhat lower order of things than they are here for. They regard other things — woman suffrage, woman's clubs, the tango, trips abroad in summer and South in winter, bridge and auto riding—as more important than domestic economy.

They could become intelligent buyers and good cooks and expert housekeepers if they wanted to be. But they don't want to be. If they were interested enough in these things they would require no organization to teach them. They would learn in the only way that counts when real results are to be achieved: they would soon teach themselves. The creation of the housewives' league, and of many other similar "helpful" organizations, is only concrete evidence that the number of women who don't want to know how to keep house is on the increase.

The Law of the Stars.

University of Wisconsin Press Bulletin: While the most casual survey of the heavens is enough to show that the stars are not evenly sprinkled upon it, yet the arrangement of the stars is not altogether lawless and chaotic. There are traces of order and system, and among these the milky way is the dominant feature.

Telescope and photographic plates alike show that it is made up of stars, which, although quite irregularly scattered along its course, are on the average some twenty times as numerous in the galaxy as at its poles, and which thin out as we recede from it on either side—at first rapidly and then more slowly. This tendency to cluster along the milky way is much more pronounced among the very faint telescopic stars than among the brighter ones. It is also remarkable, as showing the condensation of the brightest stars, that one-half of all the stars in the sky which are brighter than the second magnitude are included within a belt extending twelve degrees on either side of the center line of the galaxy.

In addition to this general condensation of stars toward the milky way, there are peculiarities in the distribution of certain classes of stars which are worth attention. Planetary nebulae and new stars are seldom, if ever, found far from the milky way. And resolvable star clusters are so much more numerous in the galaxy than elsewhere that its course across the sky would be plainly indicated by their grouping upon a map showing nothing but clusters of this kind. On the other hand, nebulae as a class show a distinct aversion for the galaxy and are found most abundantly in those parts of the sky farthest from it.

The dimensions of the stellar system are wholly unknown, but there can be no doubt that it has a limit and that it extends farther in the plane of the milky way than at right angles to that plane, for stars of the fifteenth and sixteenth magnitudes are common in the galaxy, and testify by their feeble light to their great distance from the earth, while near the poles of the milky way there seem so few stars fainter than the twelfth magnitude.

Each additional step into the depths of space brings us into a region of which less is known, and what lies beyond the milky way is largely a matter of conjecture. We shrink from thinking it an infinite void, endless emptiness, and, though there is little direct evidence that other stellar systems exist, our intellectual sympathies go out to Lambert's speculation of a universe filled with such systems, of which ours, bounded by the galaxy, is only one.

Making News.

Life: Reporter—Madam, you may recollect that we printed yesterday your denial of having retracted the contradiction of your original statement. Would you care to have us say that you were misquoted in regard to it?

British Writer's View of America's President

In an article in the London Chronicle discussing the attitude toward neutrality in Washington, Jerome K. Jerome gave the following account of an interview with President Wilson:

President Wilson, I was told, was seeing as few people as may be during these days, but was pleased to receive me at 10 o'clock the next morning. The last time I was there was nine years ago, when I called on President Roosevelt. It may be my fancy, but there seems to me to be a calmer atmosphere about it now.

With the virtuous pride of a man well on time, I present my card. The hallkeeper lays it gently aside without looking at it. He conveys the idea to me that between President Wilson and myself a card is surely an amusing formality. After a few words about the weather, he suggests I would be more comfortable in an easier chair. I am shown into a high, spacious, homelike room. On a large desk in front of a high window, looking out upon a quiet garden, stands a great bowl of fresh cut roses. A French clock, the sole ornament of the fine mantelpece, ticks slowly, softly sonorously. A log fire burns cheerfully in the large open grate, most of the heat going up the chimney, for the which one is grateful.

Occasionally the door opens. One or two gentlemen, smoking long cigars, will enter, talking and laughing in low tones. The whole atmosphere is that of after breakfast in some comfortable English country house. They linger to chat with me for a few moments. They talk of tennis, of books, of people I have met. We all seem to have known each other for years. They pass into adjoining rooms, their footsteps making no sound upon the thick carpets. A warm sunshine fills the room. Outside a lusty finch is caroling his changeless song.

Here, in this sunlit room, in this city of quiet avenues, from which the deep, slow rivers flow down into the sea, it becomes a little difficult to enter into the passions and the hatreds and the fears that, the other side of the great water, are hag riding half a world. It is all so far away. Distance substitutes itself for time. One has the idea that one is looking back on history: "The War of Nine Nations." This is the first volume one is reading. In the last, the pages of which are still uncut, we shall read of the long peace that followed, of the gradual coming together again of the peoples of the new Europe that arose out of the ashes of the old.

The gilt clock on the mantelpiece chimes ten. A smiling man enters with outstretched hand, and a friendly greeting. Will I please come this way. The president is waiting to see me. We pass through another soft carpeted room into a third. It is higher, more spacious than the one I have left, but otherwise almost a repetition of it. The brass bound writing table before the high Georgian window looking out upon the sunlit park. Again the great bowl of fragrant smelling roses. A spare, square shouldered, clean shaven man of medium height, immaculately dressed in a close fitting, tightly buttoned suit of gray is standing near the table. Without moving he holds out a hand to greet me, and the secretary, with a whispered reminder as to other appointments, leaves us alone together.

The Head Master. That is my first impression. The clear, steady eyes with their suggestion of looking through you to something; beyond the firm pressed mouth a trifle severe the deliberate words, evidently chosen swiftly and with care before uttered; the whole attitude a little stiff; the manner formal, precise; a man who could suddenly become stern. With Roosevelt one felt at home in the first few minutes. Between oneself and President Wilson one instinctively maintains a certain distance. The first impression grows. The Head Master.

President Roosevelt struck one as standing for all that is pushful, energetic, strenuous in American nationality. One feels that President Wilson stands for another side of American character, perhaps, after all, the more permanent, the more deeply rooted America—the old Puritan element working through less noticed channels, but moving with slow strength. America—this older, less obtrusive, more silent America, is not ashamed to offer up a humble prayer from this White House of theirs, that God in His good time may call a peace, may lay his silence upon the evil voice of hate.

He speaks—this stiff, reposeful, formal gentleman, as he stands, gazing out of the high window that looks towards the sea—of the many nations that America represents, of the Teutons, Saxons, Slavs and Latins, gathered here together in sympathy and understanding, of America's responsibility to all, of the need laid upon it to hold itself aloof from this ever-widening war that is sweeping the entire Old World into its vortex. Not from any callous indifference to the misery and wrong involved, not with any hope of snatching advantage from the ruin of the nations—God forbid that thought, not from any shortsighted idea that man or people can shirk reply to the question of their neighbors' welfare, can go their way heedless of their brothers' fate; but so that when the time may come one powerful nation may be left to speak for reason and humanity—to enter the council chamber uninfluenced by hate and passion.

For Washington is looking for the day when the waters will abate, when peace shall find rest for the sole of her feet. In Europe—there is excuse for us, living amid the cataclysm that has descended upon us—we have the feeling that the world is being swept away from under us, that a strange new earth will take the place of the old. The same vague vision haunted Europe at the time of the French Revolution. It runs through the memories of the time. America, from a longer perspective, sees only the ordered evolution of mankind—sees Russia by comradeship, brought more into touch with Western ideals; with Constantinople in its possession (or practically so) compelled towards commerce, with its attendant progress—sees the stumbling block of a dead Turkish empire finally buried; young and vigorous Slav nations taking its place—sees France awakened to new life—sees the British empire strengthened, drawn closer together—sees Germany cleansed of its foolish pride, its false ambitions; but still great, still with its part to play in the general purpose.

A "Book" Steak.

Kansas City Times: A butcher in a "nice part" of town tells of the curious whims of some of his well-to-do patrons.

One of them, it appears, rushed into his shop just about closing time and exclaimed:

"My husband desired that I should come in this afternoon and order some special English chops, and I have been so busy until now I haven't had the time. Now I shall be compelled to carry them. And couldn't you please have them wrapped so that they will look like a book?"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.) — Without mentioning any names, there is on the market a certain make of automobile concerning which a great many rude jokes are cracked, and to which owners of more expensive autos—the very ones who crack most of the jokes—owe a large debt of gratitude.

For if it is were not for this auto—one can easily find out the name by consulting the advertising columns or by asking somebody—all automobile owners would today be paying a big war tax. And those who ride in high horse-powered machines and crack the jokes about this lower-priced car would be paying more war tax than anybody else.

Two members of the senate subcommittee which had much to do with the war tax measure were John Sharp Williams and Benjamin Shively. Senator Williams' state of Mississippi uses fewer autos than any other in the Union, unless it is Nevada. And Shively comes from the well-known state of Indiana, which, besides books, produces more autos than any state except Michigan. Naturally Williams and Shively had a different point of view about the expediency of taxing automobiles.

Williams and Shively were discussing the proposition in a senate cloakroom one afternoon, and John Kern, also from Indiana, paused to make a comment which settled the controversy in Shively's favor.

"You dassent tax autos at all," declared Kern. "Because there's one kind of auto that's too numerous," and he mentioned the name of it. "If you tax autos you will make too many enemies for the Democratic party. You'd better tax things that are less common—like potatoes or eggs."

As Senator Dillingham of Vermont sat smoking thoughtfully in a senate lounging room another senator walked up to him and said:

"Dillingham, if I had your face I would be a millionaire by now, or I could be re-elected to the senate just as often as I desired without any bother at all. With such a face I could accomplish almost anything I set out to do. And it would be easy."

"What's the matter with my face, anyhow?" inquired Dillingham.

"Well, I should say that you have the most honest face in the senate chamber," declared Dillingham's associate. "No wonder you were re-elected last November. How could a voter go to the polls and vote against a face like yours? I don't suppose you're any more honest than some of the rest of us here, but your face looks more honest. I imagine I am just as honest as you are, but if we were running against each other people would take a look at your face and then at mine, and they would vote for you. How did you ever acquire such a face?"

Representative Alaifa Bill Murray of Oklahoma and Col. C. C. Harris of Alabama, formerly an officer in the Confederate army, sat discussing a bill pending in the house committee on pensions. Harris is strongly opposed to most of the pension bills, and Murray, on the other hand, is equally insistent that most of the bills should be passed. Some of Murray's arguments are unusual.

"There's a man who has a disease that I can't even pronounce," said Harris, running his finger along a dotted line leading to the name of the ailment. "How am I to know he contracted such a disease as that in the army? Or that it amounts to anything?"

"That's just the point," declared Murray. "It's a disease that you and I know nothing about. We can't even pronounce it. Who are we to say that it isn't a serious disease? The man may have been incapacitated for years."

"I never thought of it in that way," admitted the ex-Confederate army officer. "I suppose we'll have to allow the pension."

Women and Liquor Traffic

Chicago News: Persons opposing the liquor traffic have been enthusiastic supporters of the woman suffrage movement, believing that women, if given the ballot, would help to bring about the prohibition by law of the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. The liquor interests, on the other hand, have almost uniformly looked with disfavor upon the movement for the enfranchisement of women, assuming that giving women the ballot would increase the power of the foes of the saloon.

In North Dakota, which is a prohibition state, there is an "Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage," the president of which is Mrs. N. C. Young of Fargo, wife of a former judge of the North Dakota supreme court. This organization was active in the campaign preceding the election of last November, when the woman suffrage issue was submitted to the voters of the state—all men—and rejected by a rather small majority. Evidently it is the purpose of this association to keep up the fight against the movement to give women the ballot, for since the November election it has issued a pamphlet relating to the subject. This pamphlet is devoted mainly to the task of convincing its readers that woman suffrage in practice does not advance the cause of prohibition.

Up to the election of last November, to quote the argument of the pamphlet, the influence of women voters on the liquor question had been at least negative in character, for no woman suffrage state had adopted prohibition, although in three states—Utah, Wyoming and Colorado—women had had the ballot for twenty years. Colorado, with women voting, had once rejected prohibition. With men's votes alone, prohibition had been adopted in North Dakota, Maine, Kansas, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

At the election of last November four states in which women vote adopted prohibition—Arizona, Colorado, Oregon and Washington. At the same time, however, two states in which women do not vote also adopted prohibition—Virginia and West Virginia. California, a woman suffrage state, defeated prohibition, as did also Ohio, where women do not vote.

The facts and figures given in the North Dakota pamphlet will be studied with interest by both advocates and opponents of prohibition. The movement to give the ballot to women ought, of course, to be supported or opposed on broader grounds than the possible effect of woman suffrage upon the liquor traffic or upon any other single public question.

Table Syrup From Apples.

The Pathfinder: A scientist connected with the United States department of agriculture has invented a process for making table syrup from apple juice. The invention, it is believed, will be of great benefit to fruit growers in that it will enable them to utilize inferior apples that otherwise would be wasted. One gallon of the syrup may be made from seven gallons of ordinary cider. It is said to have a fine color and flavor and its keeping qualities are excellent.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Of Course It Will.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: If the proposed plan of the efficiency and economy commission for reorganizing the state departments goes through the legislature this winter it will be almost a miracle. It would mean an advance for Minnesota of gigantic magnitude, but every state board and commission is against it, and legislative action will be hampered in all possible ways.

Some Difference.

Le Sueur News: A constitutional convention for Minnesota politicians would be very satisfactory if the politicians were in a majority in the convention, but if the people should make up their minds to make the members representative business men who would give us a Constitution along the lines of the report of the efficiency and economy commission the howl of the same politicians would be worse than that of a wolf.

Remarkable!

Slayton Herald: Think of it! Hammond has been governor of this great state of Minnesota for twenty-five days and the wheels of industry are still turning, contrary to the predictions of the staunch Lee supporters.

Not Perfect But Good.

Bemidji Pioneer: While there is no denial to the complaint that the Elwell road law is far from perfect, the talk of its repeal should be dropped. It has already accomplished much good, is a step in the right direction, and until improved upon should be allowed to stand.

Advisers, But No Dictators.

Mahnomen Pioneer: One thing has been pretty thoroughly demonstrated since the new administration took the reins of state government—and that is that W. S. Hammond is governor of Minnesota. He may have advisers, but he has no dictators.

Charity Begins at Home.

Worthington Globe: When in doubt contribute to the Belgian fund.

St. Peter Free Press; Wrong. We would rather say, "When in doubt help your own poor first." We have thousands of them right in our midst and it would seem that they too are entitled to some consideration.

Recalling Ancient History.

Wadena Pioneer Journal: Editor Wells of the Battle Lake Review declares that Senator Clapp has always voted with the "plain peepul" and always been on the right side in matters of legislation. Mr. Wells may believe all this, and he may not believe it. Either way, it matters not. To get onto his own plane of argument he offers no proof which would be taken seriously in a court of law. Until he does we are justified in viewing his assertions with distrust, if not absolute unbelief. It is evident, nevertheless, from what he does say, that the Battle Lake editor is not very well posted on Minnesota politics of the past twenty years. If he was he would recall the famous Evans-Clapp contest which resulted in the first election of the Fergus Falls man. If Mr. Wells is thoroughly conversant with that event and still has the nerve to talk as he does, we give him up.

May Tell a Few Things.

Winona Leader: The Minnesota legislature has rebuked Governor Hammond because he urged that the appropriations at this session should not exceed the appropriations of 1911. The 1913 appropriations were a million and a half higher. The smarties in the legislature may find that Governor Hammond will show them a thing or two before he gets through with them. He is a man of the Wilson type and he is liable to tell the public a few things that will make some of them look infinitesimally small in the eyes of their constituents.

I girded thee though thou hast not known me.—Isa. xiv, 5.

No room for a discouraged or depressed feeling is left you. If your sphere is outwardly humble, if it even appears to be quite insignificant, God understands it better than you do, and it is a part of His wisdom to bring out great sentiments in humble conditions, great principles in works that are outwardly trivial, great characters under great adversities and heavy loads of encumbrance. Let it fill you with cheerfulness and exalted feeling, however deep in obscurity your lot may be, that God is leading you on, girding you for a work, preparing you for a good that is worthy of His divine magnificence. If God is really preparing us all to become that which is the very highest and best thing possible, there ought never to be a discouraged or uncheerful being in the world.

To Berlin on Furlough.

Edward Eyre Hunt in Collier's Weekly: Among the first to leap down from the train was a tall Prussian Uhlan on furlough. He had been fighting under Von Hindenburg in the East and Von Kluck in the West, he told me. "Such luck!" aa he expressed it. He bounded to the platform like an athlete, although I knew he was wounded; stood still for a moment; clicked his heels; saluted with that abrupt mechanical snap of the forearm which is the perfection of impersonal, unemotional recognition; then flung his arms out like a little boy about the shoulders of a splendid gray-bearded giant in general's uniform, and kissed him like a girl.

That 19-year-old boy wore over his heart the famous Iron Cross of 1914. The man he kissed wore the Iron Cross of 1870-71.

The Nest.

Glad is the grove with light,
And the glen is song-caressed,
But longing comes ere night
For the one, dear nest!

Far fields may seem more fair,
And distant hills more blue,—
Still claims that nest my care
In the dawn—in the dew;

For though the wild may woo
My wing to many a quest,
Sweet in the dawn and the dew
Are home and rest!

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1895.

A patent was issued today to Lewis E. Paddock of Duluth for a time recorder on ticket stamp.

In the trial at Minneapolis of Harry Hayward for the murder of Catherine Ging, the state this morning sprang a surprise by placing Claus A. Blixt, the self-confessed tool of Hayward, on the stand. He told how he shot Miss Ging at the direction of Hayward in order that the latter might get $10,000 from the woman.

E. W. McCormick, formerly in the real estate business at West Duluth and now living in Arkansas, was in the city yesterday.

Charles Fiske of West Duluth has been appointed general agent of the Manhattan Life Insurance company for Duluth, Superior and Northern Minnesota.

L. L. Aunne, who has been connected with the land department of A. E. Johnson & Co.'s business at West Duluth, leaves shortly for Minneapolis, where he will be employed in the home office of the firm.

A committee consisting of O. D. Kinney, D. H. Moon and W. P. Mars, appointed at a mass meeting of the citizens of Virginia to secure an abatement of real and personal taxes, appeared before county board yesterday and entered a decided kick. They said that this year's taxes amounted to practical confiscation. Taxes which were $160 last year were raised to $3,200 this year; lots taxed 6 cents last year were raised to $4 this year; lots were assessed at $100, which Mr. Kinney agreed to sell to anyone for $15 on five years' time.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 24 deg below zero; minimum yesterday, 23 deg. below zero; minimum yesterday, 10 deg. below zero; minimum last night, 21 deg. below zero.

Herman L. Mueller was appointed foreman of the grand jury which was charged by Judge Ensign this morning.

The Duluth club held its annual meeting last evening. James C. Hunter was re-elected president. The directors elected were Dr. M. B. Cullum, Joseph Dodge and L. R. Wilson. A committee was appointed to confer with the Boat club in regard to consolidating the two clubs.

Grateful to a Kind Young Woman.

A Card of Thanks signed by "Uncle Ira" in the Chanute Tribune: "I wish to express my thanks to a young lady who assisted me while I was attending the picture show the other evening. Being seated directly behind me, she read aloud all the announcements as they were thrown on the screen and described the scenes in a loud, clear voice, and I was much impressed. She, being near-sighted, conferred that favor upon me. She is my idea of what a young lady of 16 years ought to be. She is not one of your shy little things who is afraid to speak out loud. It was a vast help to me because I didn't have to look at the screen at all—could talk to my companion and look over the audience and 'hear' the pictures at the same time. A gentleman in front of me was bothered quite a bit because he kept turning around and finally he got up and left the theater. I noticed that it bothered the young lady who was befriending me, too, but I assured her he had no reference to her. In order to fully thank the young lady, and that there may be no misunderstanding, I will tell her name: She is Miss Chewgum Openface, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Gadabout Openface. She is to be commended."

To the Defense of Miss Arnold.

The Hutchinson, Kan., News has this to say, among other things, of the new textbook of Kansas history, of which Miss Anna E. Arnold of Cottonwood Falls is the author: "It is a splendid book as a history, as a text, as a story. Everyone who reads or studies it will gain a clear knowledge of the history of Kansas and will be proud of the high ideals, the great work and the triumphant progress that have marked the development of the Kansas spirit which has always seen the stars beyond the difficulties and has never wandered from the path forward toward these stars."

SYMPATHY GOES FARTHER THAN ABUSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

May I use the columns of the Open Court in behalf of the "lower classes of Duluth," such as met at the Union mission last Sunday night for the bowl of soup, warmth and incidentally to listen to Rev. F. E. Plumb's scathing address reported in Monday's Herald? As I noted his statement to them that he would "stand at the pearly gates and see them drop off into a hell of fire," I thought of Christ's parable, Luke xviii, 10-15, of the Pharisee and the publican who went up into the temple to pray, the Pharisee praying, "God, I thank Thee that I am not as other men," etc., and I wondered if these poor, degraded men have forfeited their rights as human beings and are only fit to be characterized as "yellow curs" with "hearts black as hell." I do not wish to criticize the mission, and perhaps Rev. Plumb meant well, but I believe

"One little act of kindness done
One little kind word spoken
Has power to make a thrill of joy
E'en in a heart that's broken."

For the welfare of the community these fallen ones need to be drawn into good citizenship and I think the hand of love and good fellowship is the best way. He who commanded "Love thy neighbor as thyself" understood men's hearts better than we, and I think sometimes if we knew their "struggles all in vain" we would have more sympathy for them and "pity where we blame." Thanking the Editor for the space, I am

AN EXPLANATION FROM OKLAHOMA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your query in the Open Court relative to the origin of the words "Here's looking at you," came to my notice today in far-off Oklahoma. Most familiar are they to the "Good Fellow" and I hasten to offer my version of their origin.

Some years ago they originated when the glass stein came into vogue. It was in this manner. While draining a glass stein some "wag" chanced to look through the bottom of the stein at his companion, drinking also. The effect so pleased him that he hastened to buy another drink, and while drinking, nonchalantly remarked, while draining the dregs, "Here's looking at you." He winked his left eye through the bottom of the stein. And so follows, "Here's looking at you." Most sincerely,

TRIES IT AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having attempted to express my opinion through your Open Court, in regards to hockey, on one occasion prior to this, I'm making another try at it again. I'm at a loss to know why my previous note was withheld unless it was a little too strong and to the point to warrant the editor in its going to press.

Thousands of people in Duluth and vicinity, and especially those in the Copper country of Michigan are of the impression the Portake Lake boys are to blame for the controversy between our Duluth boys and the league officials.

Now to be fair about this thing I'll ask it in open of the people that witnessed that game with Houghton if it isn't a fact that this player Haas, and our Captain Linder came together on two occasions not many minutes apart and both went to the ice each time, this happening in about the center of the extreme east side of the ice surface and in the first instance Mr. Crassweller kept mum, but when it occurred a second time he evidently thinking it an offense to collide on the ice, penalized Haas only, when as a matter of fact both should have taken the rest if it really meant a penalty, and when Haas skated away in a dissatisfied state of mind, "naturally," Mr. (C.) said take the count for loafing and he refused to go without our Joe.

Now to get to the point of it all, it really wasn't Haas at all, but it was those awe-inspiring words of the press thus: "Phew that forward line," and "Watch that Chapin, Exley, Sicotte and Haas." This is what put the spoil in that game. Duluth knew they had a mit full of hot coals and didn't know how to shake them. Hence the forfeit and our game.

Again I'll say as this, "Cleaner Hockey Fan" of last night's issue said if we are to have good clean hockey in Duluth as elsewhere, let's slide down our own cellar door first and then criticise as the case need be, after we practiced what we preach.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

The Herald acknowledges with thanks the receipt of the following poems:

"I've Grown Used to You," from Mrs. J. W. Milligan of Iron, Minn.

"Friendless and Sad, I Am Dreaming," from Mrs. Joseph Tardiff of Morningside Park, Duluth, and Mrs. E. C. Cayo, Duluth.

"Climbing Up the Golden Stairs," from Mrs. C. R. D. of Duluth.

"Back to the Old Home on the Hills," from Miss Lucy Robinson of West Duluth.

"The Tie That Binds" and "A Little Boy in Blue," from C. D. H. of Two Harbors. Both of these songs are copyrighted and cannot be published.

"Charles Catall," from A Reader.

Requests have been received for the following poems:

"'Twas the Letter That Came From Old Ireland," from Robert Towers of Brainerd.

"The Land of the Maple," from John Cahill of Duluth.

"The Bride's Lament," from Mrs. C. R. D. of Duluth.

"Just Behind the Scenes," from H. Hartzell of Ontonagon, Mich.

"The Wild Irishman," "Only a Brakeman" and "The Gambler's Wife," from Mrs. J. W. Milligan of Iron, Minn.

"Ay Bane Swede From Nort Dakota," from Arthur Johnson of Duluth.

"The Rime of the Ancient Mariner," from Eleanor Anderson of Duluth.

"The One Who Is Your Friend," from Hans Olsen of Swan River.

"The Flames of the Burning Mill," from Miss Lucy Robinson of West Duluth.

"Regent Blanche," from A. L. Richardson of Aitkin.

Climbing Up the Golden Stairs.

Come, all you little niggers,
Now watch your cues and figures,
Climbing up the golden stairs;
If they think you are a dude,
They will treat you rather rude,
While climbing up the golden stairs.

Chorus.

Then hear those bells a-ringing—
'Tis sweet, I do declare;
Oh, hear those darkies singing,
While climbing up the golden stairs.

Old Peter looked so wicked
When they asked him for a ticket,
Climbing up the golden stairs.
If you give him half a dollar,
He will grab you by the collar
And fire you up the golden stairs.

Old Satan is a dandy,
He will feed you on fixed candy
When climbing up the golden stairs.
Brimstone is good enough,
Tobacco, beer and snuff,
When climbing up the golden stairs.

They will lock you in a stable,
Make you fight for Cain and Abel,
When climbing up the golden stairs.
Old Adam and his wife
Will be there with drum and fife
To greet you up the golden stairs.

Friendless and Sad I am Dreaming.

Friendless and sad I am dreaming,
Dreaming of sorrow alone,
Craving a heartfelt devotion,
Sighing for mother and home;
Thoughts were tender and holy,
Joys were pervading the air,
And sweet love was the theme of my ballad;
Love was the light of my prayer.
Chorus.
Oh, for days yore,
Mother, love and home;
Friendless and sad I am dreaming,
Dreaming of sorrow alone.

Queen of the graces they call me;
Lovers were pleading to woo;
Then came the choice of an idol,
One that I thought would be true.
Old as the world is my story,
Leaving a haven of light,
How I suffered in shame and desertion,
Feeling my life is a blight.
Chorus.

Grief is my only companion,
Pleasures are of the past,
Shadows are looming before me;
Shadows, I fear, that will last;
They who would smile are now frowning,
Pointing with finger of scorn,
How I used to think earth was a heaven;
Now I say, "why was I born."

I've Grown so Used to You.

In an old old-fashioned homestead sat a couple old and gray,
They were on the way to threescore years and ten;
With the tide of life for many years they'd drifted side by side,
The dawn of youth they'll never see again;
The old man's thoughts were turning to a day that's long been dead,
He was dreaming of the wedding bells that rang when they were wed,
With the light of love still burning in the same old lovers' way,
Unto his wife these words I heard him say:

Chorus.

"When your eyes so bright have lost their light,
Your voice so dear no longer here,
When you're called home and I'm alone
I won't know what to do, if the Master knew how I'd miss you,
I wonder if he'd call me, too,
'Twould break my heart if we should part,
For I've grown so used to you."

"Do you still recall the days when we went to the village school
Boy and girl together playing on the way,
Then again as youth and maid we strolled upon the village green,
I loved you then, I love you more today,
To see your chair, at evening prayer, with you no longer here
Would bring to me a memory of many a by-gone year,
And because thro' all these years, old wife, your heart has been so true,
I'd miss you, for I've grown to used to you."

Chorus.

KILLED ROGERS AFTER HE ATTACKED FRIEND.

Marshall, Tex., Feb. 5.—At a preliminary inquiry here yesterday into the deaths of William Black, a lecturer of Bellaire, Ohio, and John Rogers, a local contractor, Clarence F. Hall of St. Paul testified he killed Rogers after the latter had attacked Black in the latter's room at a hotel. Miss Sadie Black, 17 years old, adopted daughter of the lecturer, testified that Black was shot and killed by a man they say is Mr. Copeland.

John Copeland is in a critical condition from three pistol-shot wounds.

Black claimed to be a former priest of the Roman Catholic church and in a lecture here Tuesday attacked that church. He was due to lecture again Wednesday night. The local men visited him shortly before the hour of his lecture. Hall accompanied Black to this city.

WAS INSANE: NOW SANE.

Jury Acquits Priest of Murder of Hillside, Ill., Postmaster.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The Rev. John J. Mullin, former pastor of the Holy Rosary church, was insane when he killed Thomas W. Patterson, a postmaster at Hillside, Ill., according to the verdict of the jury which reached an agreement last night.

The jury found that Mullin had since regained his sanity, and, according to the authorities, this will result in the immediate release of the priest.

Canadian Aviator Killed.

London, Feb. 5.—Lieut. Sharpe of the Canadian contingent of the Royal Flying corps was killed this afternoon while flying at Shoreham. He was returning from a trip when his biplane dived to the earth. The machine was smashed and Lieut. Sharpe died within a few minutes.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.
Subject to Tax.

State ex rel. Melvin W. Graff et al., relators, vs. Probate Court, St. Louis County et al., respondents—

1. The reciprocal exemption amendment to our inheritance tax law, made in 1911, applies only where the laws of another state impose an inheritance tax upon "transfers of personal property of decedents," but "exempt or do not impose a tax upon transfers of personal property of residents of Minnesota having its situs in such state;" and the laws of another state, which impose such tax only where the property passes to collateral relatives or strangers, but do impose such tax where personal property within such state, belonging to residents of Minnesota, passes by will to such collateral relatives or strangers, do not bring the property of residents of that state within such exemption.

2. A non-resident decedent's personal property, having a situs in this state, is subject to the succession tax of this state, although the devolution of such property is governed by the law of the decedent's domicil.

3. The language of our statute indicates an intention on the part of the legislature to impose a succession tax in all cases in which it has the power to impose such tax, and the statute cannot be construed as applying only where the devolution of the property is governed by our laws.

4. The devolution of debts owed by residents of this state, whether evidenced by promissory notes or not, and of the stock of corporations of this state, and of the stock of national banks located in this state, is subject to a succession tax in this state, although the debts were owing to, and the stock was held by, non-resident decedents.

5. The inheritance tax statute, as amended, does not infringe the constitutional provision that "no law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title," nor the equality provisions of the state or Federal Constitution, nor the provision against impairing the obligation of contracts.

Writ quashed. TAYLOR, C.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Agreement Sustained.

First National Bank of Hastings, respondent, vs. Corporation Securities company, appellant—

Finding that a written agreement, unilateral in form, to repurchase from plaintiff's assignor certain shares of stock assigned to him in the course of and pursuant to a general settlement between him, defendant, and its president, was a part of such settlement, and hence supported by valid consideration, held sustained by the evidence.

The evidence warranted a finding that the agreement was defendant's undertaking, notwithstanding the character of its president's signature thereto.

The agreement was assignable.

Plaintiff, to which the stock was also assigned, being authorized by the assignment to enforce the agreement, and to deliver it and the stock to defendant upon payment of the specified price, and to receive and receipt for the latter, had the right to continue the prosecution of its action to enforce the agreement, though the debt to secure which the assignment was paid after the action was brought.

The agreement to repurchase, being supported by the considerations involved in the general settlement, did not lack mutuality of obligation; nor was it wanting in mutuality of assent of parties.

Plaintiff having elected, within the time prescribed, to sell the stock back to defendant, and having made proper and sufficient tender of the stock and agreement, both before the bringing of the action and on the trial thereof, the fact that the agreement theretofore was lacking in mutuality of remedy did not deprive the court of the power to decree its specific performance.

Mutuality of remedy is not the sole test of specific enforcibility, and is not always essential thereto.

A contract for the purchase of shares of stock may be specifically enforced at the instance of the seller, where the difficulty in ascertaining the value of the stock is such that his remedy by action law to recover damages for breach of contract is inadequate.

The finding of the trial court that the stock in suit was of such uncertain value as to warrant specific enforcement of defendant's contract to purchase it, sustained.

Order affirmed. PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.
Sustained By Evidence.

State ex rel. Charles T. Splady, et al, relators, vs. District Court of Hennepin County, et al, respondents—

A finding that plaintiffs, the parents of a deceased workman, were "wholly dependent" upon him for support within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act, G. S. 1913, section 8208, subdivisions 1, 2 and 3, held sustained by the evidence.

Judgment affirmed. BUNN, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.
Classification Upheld.

State of Minnesota, ex rel. St. Paul City Railway Company, relator, vs. J. G. Armson, et al, as Minnesota Tax Commission, respondents—

1. Under general laws 1913, c. 483, classifying property for purposes of taxation, relator's street railway tracks, overhead feed and trolley wires, trolley poles, and underground conduits and cables are assessable under class 4, at 40 per cent of true value, this class including property not enumerated in the first three; and such property does not come within "tools, implements and machinery, whether fixtures or otherwise," included in class 3 and assessable at 33 1-3 per cent of true value.

2. Under the Constitution the classification for taxation purposes must be reasonable and such as is based on essential differences; and the differences between the relator's property and that included in class 3 are such as to justify the legislature in making the classification and it is not unconstitutional.

Writ quashed. DIBELL, C.

RAMSEY COUNTY.
Verdict Sustained.

John Stash, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway Company, appellant—

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that defendant was negligent in failing to furnish plaintiff, its servant, with a safe place in which to work, in that it did not cleat the lower end of a running board bridging an open space between a platform and a car and over which plaintiff was required to wheel a truck while unloading the car, whereby the board slipped as he was passing over it and he was injured.

Verdict for $7,000, reduced by the trial court to $6,000, for injuries to plaintiff's knee, sustained as reduced.

Order affirmed. PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.
Not Entitled to New Trial.

William F. Lundeen, administrator, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

Plaintiff's intestate was a common laborer, 23 years old when killed. He had remained with and assisted his parents until a few months previous to his death. Out of the first month's wages he sent $10 to his father because of the latter's need. The parents worked on a farm but did not own it. In this action under the Federal employer's liability act it is held that there was not such a failure of proof of pecuniary loss to the parents that defendant was entitled to either judgment notwithstanding the $2,000 verdict, or a new trial.

Order affirmed. HOLT, J.

LYON COUNTY.
Judgment Affirmed.

Davis & Michel, respondents (Haynes case), vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

1. By Section 4955 General Statute, 1913, an attorney is given a lien for his compensation upon the cause of action from the time of the service of the summons in the action. Where the action is settled by the parties before trial without notice to or consent of the attorney, the attorney may elect to proceed for the enforcement of his lien rights by an independent action against the defendant, or by intervention proceedings in the original action.

2. Such a settlement when made in good faith and without purpose to defraud the attorney is final and conclusive of the amount of recovery in the action, and is the basis from which the attorney's compensation, fixed by a percentage agreement with the plaintiff, must be determined.

3. The pendency of a former action for the same cause, brought by other attorneys, and which was not pleaded in defense to the second action, and of which the attorneys in the second action had no notice, held not a bar to the lien rights of the attorneys in the second action.

4. The lien given by the statute covers legitimate expenditures by the attorneys in the prosecution of the action, when included within the contract of employment, and it is not limited to such items of costs or disbursements as might be taxed as such against the defendant.

Judgment affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

LYON COUNTY.
Not Against Public Policy.

Christ Johnson, plaintiff; John I. Davis and Davis & Michel, respondents, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant.

1. It is not against public policy as champerty or maintenance, for an attorney to solicit business, or to advance money to a poor client for his living expenses during litigation, or to advise a client against the settlement of his case.

2. An agreement between attorney and client by which the former is to advance money for expenses and is permitted to deduct the amount thereof from the amount recovered is not against public policy where it does not appear that it was agreed that the client should not be liable for the expenses in case there was no recovery.

3. Defendant settled a personal injury case with the injured person, agreeing to pay him $4,500 and to reimburse him for any sum he should be compelled to pay his attorneys. Under a contract between the injured person and his attorneys he was to receive two-thirds and they one-third of any amount received in settlement. It is held that this amount was $4,500 plus the sum the attorneys would be entitled to under their contract, and that the attorneys were entitled to recover of defendant at least $2,000.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

LYON COUNTY.
Error to Exclude Testimony.

Anton Cherpeski, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant.

1. Where the plaintiff, a section foreman, was working with others in taking out rails from the main line of an interstate carrier and putting others in their place, loading those taken out onto a flat car near by, and was injured while so loading, it was at least a question for the jury whether he was employed in interstate commerce within the Federal employers liability act, 35 St. 65.

2. It was a question for the jury whether the plaintiff was injured by the negligence of his fellow-servants in raising one end of the rail while loading, without the customary signal, thereby causing the other end to hit him.

3. The testimony of physicians making an examination of the plaintiff to ascertain his physical ability to work on a railroad, their information not being obtained for the purpose of treating or acting for him, is not privileged, and it was error to exclude it.

Order reversed. DIBELL, C.

BROWN COUNTY.
Sustained By Evidence.

In re guardianship of Anna Prokosch, incompetent, Anna Prokosch, appellant, vs. William Brust et al, respondents.

1. In proceedings under the statute for the appointment of a guardian of the property interests of an alleged incompetent person, it is held that the findings of the trial court are sustained by the evidence.

2. The proceeding is not adversary in nature but rather one by the state in its character of parens patria, and the manner and method of determining the facts rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, controlled, in a general way, by the rules of ordinary judicial procedure.

3. The statutes providing for the cross-examination of an advance party have no application to the proceeding, yet the court may require the alleged incompetent to submit to an examination for the purpose of testing his or her mental condition.

4. The record presents no reversible error in rulings upon the admission or exclusion of evidence.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

MILLE LACS COUNTY.
Order Reversed.

A. C. Wilkes et al, respondents, vs. H. M. Holmes, appellant—

A written contract, made in duplicate, purporting to transfer an automobile from plaintiffs in consideration of a transfer by defendant to plaintiffs of certain shares of corporate stock, was not signed by one of the plaintiffs although he was named in the body of the contract; but the other plaintiff and defendant signed the duplicates and retained one each; thereafter the automobile was delivered to defendant by the plaintiff who had not signed. Held, in this an action of replevin, that the mere lack of the signature of one of plaintiffs is not sufficient proof of an understanding or agreement that the contract was not to take effect until signed by both plaintiffs.

Replevin does not lie against a joint owner, or tenant in common, of an article of personal property.

The contract here involved is not void for uncertainty or indefiniteness.

Order reversed. HOLT, J.

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTER OIL

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

The BIG DULUTH
WILLIAMSON & MENDENHALL

NO HOME TO GO TO NOW

Widow Cannot Use $500 Award to Return to Italy.

Native Village Destroyed By Earthquake; Continues Struggle Here.

Misfortunes have not come singly to Mrs. Maria d'Alimonti of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who refused $500 today, the compensation awarded her for the death of her husband.

Francesco d'Alimonti, the husband, was killed Aug. 6 last while at work on the new lock at the Soo, and since that time the widow has had a hard struggle to provide for herself and three small children.

A few days ago, through the aid of Attilio Castigliano, Italian consul for the Head of the Lakes district, she was awarded $500 as compensation for the loss of her husband, who was employed by MacArthur Bros., contractors.

The industrial accident board of the state of Michigan, in handing down its decision in the case, stated that Mrs. d'Alimonti was to use the $500 to pay her debts and provide passage to her old home in Italy for herself and three children.

After the ticket home had been purchased for her by the company's agent, the remainder of the $500 was to be forwarded to her in Italy, as an Italian draft.

A few days before the decision was handed down, Mrs. d'Alimonti learned through the consul that her native town, in the province of Aquila, had been destroyed by the earthquake, together with many of her relatives and friends. She cannot go to her old home, and so cannot avail herself of the compensation until the ruling is changed by the board.

Mrs. d'Alimonti has written Mr. Castigliano refusing the $500, and has resigned herself to a struggle for existence in this country, destitute, and without husband, friends or relatives. The Italian consul has taken steps to have the ruling of the board changed so that she can secure the original compensation.

Many Bodies From Ruins.

Avezzano, Feb. 5.—Over 300 bodies have been taken from the ruins of houses of Santa Natolia demolished in the recent earthquake. In addition, 67 of the 650 persons injured have died.

CLARK TO BE SPEAKER; KITCHIN, FLOOR LEADER

Washington, Feb. 5.—Democrats elected to the house in the sixty-fourth congress last night unanimously nominated Speaker Clark to succeed himself and chose Representative Claude Kitchin of North Carolina to become chairman of the ways and means committee and majority floor leader when Representative Underwood goes to the senate.

The caucus named all of the re-elected members of the ways and means committee and chose to fill the six vacancies by the usual plan of having the Democratic representation on the committee equally divided between the North and South.

Officers of the house were nominated for re-election without opposition.

PAIN GONE! RUB SORE, RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS

Rub Pain Away With a Small Trial Bottle of Old, Penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

LID IS ON LAKE WATER FOR BOATS

Passenger Carriers Forbidden to Take Supply Not Certified.

The secretary of the treasury has just issued an order by which all passenger steamers operating in interstate traffic are forbidden to promiscuously take up water from the lakes or streams to be used for drinking purposes until the Federal or state public health service shall have passed upon it as being fit for the purpose.

This has been agitated for some time, chiefly by sailors, who claimed that at times water was "picked up" out of the lakes without regard to the proximity to cities, and that great chances were taken in the matter of getting water that was contaminated by sewage. Last year a number of cases of typhoid broke out on different ships, among the sailors, chiefly, and the agitation was renewed.

It is possible that the order just issued, under date of Jan. 15, by the secretary of the treasury, may be the result of that stir, but there is nothing in the order which prevents the indiscriminate use of lake or stream water on freight steamers. The order reads as follows:

"Common carriers operating vessels in commerce between the several states and territories or the District of Columbia, for passengers in interstate traffic, shall not supply for the use of said passengers any water taken from a lake or stream over which the vessel is being navigated unless the same is certified by the United States public health service or the state or municipal health authority within whose jurisdiction it is obtained as conforming to the bacteriological standard for drinking water promulgated by the secretary of the treasury under date of Oct. 21, 1914: Provided, That water, in regard to the safety of which a reasonable doubt exists, may be used if the same has been treated in such manner as to render it incapable of conveying disease, and the fact of such treatment is certified by the aforesaid health authority or by the surgeon general of the United States public health service or his accredited representative."

the liquor traffic from the community to the county is to win its final victory in Minnesota.

* * *

St. Louis County Given Credit.

This is the first time county option ever passed the senate.

This is the first time county option ever received a vote in the senate from St. Louis county.

And this time it not only received a vote, but three votes—the exact number by which it passed.

So the element that is liberal on the liquor question is giving St. Louis county the credit for putting county option through the senate, and it is not at all amiable about it, either.

Indeed, following the vote on county option yesterday, when Senators Richard Jones, Charles E. Adams and O. H. Griggs of St. Louis county established a radically new precedent by giving the bill the support that spelled victory, the words "tonnage tax" were spoken above a whisper for the first time this season.

Moreover, there were more or less covert intimations that though no tonnage tax bill has yet been introduced, one would be introduced very shortly.

This is as it may be. There appears to be no sentiment for tonnage tax, either in the state at large or in the legislature. Those on the "dry" side of the liquor issue have laid stress upon this in their strenuous efforts to secure votes for county option from St. Louis county. As the tonnage tax votes of the past have come largely from this element, their testimony now is interesting. It will be still more interesting if a tonnage tax bill comes into the house.

How the Vote Stood.

The final vote on the bill, after four hours of debate over the measure and proposed amendments, was as follows:

For the bill—Adams, Alley, Andrews, Benson, Blomgren, W. A. Campbell, R. C. Dunn, Duxbury, Dwinnell, Grandrud, Gillan, Gjerset, Griggs, Hanson, Hegnes, Holmberg, Jackson, Jones, Lende, Lobeck, Nelson, O'Neill, Orr, Palmer, E. P. Peterson, F. H. Peterson, Potter, Putnam, Rustad, Rystrom, Sageng, Turnham, Vermilya, Vibert, Wallace, Ward—36.

Against—Baldwin, Bonniwell, Buckler, Callihan, A. S. Campbell, Carley, Collister, Denegre, W. W. Dunn, Gardner, Glotzbach, Grose, Handlan, Healy, Hilbert, Johnston, Knopp, McGarry, Millett, Nord, Pauly, George M. Peterson, Ries, Rockne, Steffens, J. D. Sullivan, G. H. Sullivan, Swenson, Van Hoven, Weis—31.

Two out of the six senators from Ramsey county voted for the bill; five out of the nine Hennepin county senators voted for it; and three out of the five senators from St. Louis county were recorded in the affirmative.

Though a number of amendments were offered, no material changes in the bill were permitted by its friends.

The announcement of the final vote was the signal for an outburst from the friends of the bill, who crowded the aisles, corridors and galleries to suffocation.

Lively Debate.

The debate on the bill was lively, and at times it took on a tinge of acridity, as when Senators Lende, Duxbury and George H. Sullivan were exchanging ideas.

There were plenty of opponents of the bill in the galleries, and the applause at the close of the first speech against it was so prolonged that Lieutenant Governor Burnquist threatened to order the galleries cleared if there was repetition of the offense.

Some of the amendments were the subjects of debates as lively as the bill itself. One by Senator W. W. Dunn proposed that county option elections should be held only on general election days, and not oftener than every four years. The official bill provides for special elections, and allows the issue to be voted upon every three years. This amendment was lost, 29 to 38. An amendment by Senator J. D. Sullivan, providing that when a county votes "wet" even the communities that have voted "dry" under local option shall become "wet" was also voted down, as was an amendment exempting cities from the provisions of the bill and leaving them to decide their own policies.

Two amendments by Senator George H. Sullivan were adopted. One allows county option elections to be held on Mondays instead of Tuesdays, and the other makes it compulsory upon communities in counties that go "dry" to return the license money for the unexpired term of saloon licenses.

Talks Against Bill.

Senator George H. Bonniwell of Hutchinson made the principal speech against the bill. He said the citizens of the state could derive no possible benefit from its enactment.

"I believe," he said, "in the present system of local option. I believe further than our present system leads to better order and better government and to a far higher respect for law than county option would.

"Will not this proposed system breed blind pig and dives of many sorts and tend generally to lower the moral atmosphere of the state? A law that cannot be enforced is worse than no law, and is an influence for evil, not for good."

Senator Olai A. Lende of Canby and Senator F. H. Peterson of Moorhead led the fight for the bill. Senator Lende spoke of the good effects said to have followed the abolition of the sale of liquor in Russia.

Senator Peterson said that the bill did not propose to take from any man his liberty. It merely places before the people of the counties the privilege of choosing whether or not they shall license saloons.

Dr. J. W. Andrews of Mankato spoke at length of the mental and physical effects of the excessive use of alcohol.

Senator Pierre A. Hilbert of Melrose said that it was teaching and not law that made people drunkards or prohibitionists.

Every member of the senate was in attendance and participated in the vote, and a good share of them took part in the debate.

The bill will reach the house late today or Monday, and will be referred to the committee on temperance, where it will take the place of the house bill introduced by Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin.

Representative Fred Bessette of Orr has prepared for early introduction a bill prohibiting railroads from dictating the surety company that shall furnish the bonds required by them. Railroads are also prohibited from rejecting any surety bond offered by an employe except on grounds of financial insufficiency.

Limiting Length of Trains.

Enactment of the proposed bill limiting the length of trains to half a mile would not insure greater safety to railroad men, but would increase railroad expenses and add to the hazard of handling trains, according to statements made by railroad representatives before the house committee on transportation yesterday afternoon. Railroad men opposing the bill, which was introduced by Representative T. J. McGrath of St. Paul, contended that the danger to trainmen would be virtually doubled because cutting down the length of trains meant increasing the number of trains to be handled.

Representative J. W. Woodfill of Two Harbors, a member of the committee and a railroad engineer, declared that he experienced no difficulty in handling long trains and that, in his opinion, the hazard was as great on a short train as on a long one.

"Considering present financial conditions," he said, "and the difficulties under which the railroads are operating, I think it would be an imposition to add a third to their operating expenses, and that is what the enactment of this law would mean."

The committee will hold another hearing before acting on the bill.

The house will have a chance to consider the A. V. Anderson bill repealing the Elwell road law, though the committee on roads and bridges at its meeting yesterday afternoon did not take action either for or against it. The committee voted to report the bill out without recommendation, which means that it will go on general orders and be considered just as though it came accompanied by a favorable recommendation; though it comes without the indorsement of the committee.

* * *

To Protect Shippers.

Representative S. J. Searls of Carlton has prepared a bill, which he will soon introduce, to protect shippers from the experience of having other people get away with the cars they have ordered.

The bill requires the railroads to put labels on such cars, bearing the name of the shipper that has ordered them, and makes it a misdemeanor to let anybody else use them.

Mr. Searls says that it often happens that when a car has been ordered by a farmer or a group of farmers, if they are not ready with their load when the car arrives a local merchant is allowed to use it. Thus the farmers miss their market, and may be compelled to sell to the merchant who got the car, and at his price.

Representative Edward E. Syverson of Ironton and Gunnar B. Bjornson of Minneota have prepared a bill creating a state emergency fund for use in great calamities, including such visitations as an epidemic of hog cholera. A state tax of one-twentieth of a mill, which would raise about $80,000, is proposed. The bill is similar to one introduced in the senate by Senator W. A. Campbell of Minneapolis.

* * *

Because of the interest taken in the county option fight in the senate yesterday, it was impossible to hold the hearing on the efficiency and economy bill that had been advertised. In order that the members of the senate committee might be present, it was decided to postpone it until Monday afternoon and evening. Monday afternoon the division of public domain will be taken up, and Monday evening will be devoted to the discussion of the division of public welfare. The division of education will be considered Thursday afternoon.

The house committee on immigration yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage the joint resolution asking congress to make it cheaper for aliens to secure naturalization papers.

Baths for Lumbermen.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman has discovered a poet who is making merry over the bill introduced by Senator Richard Jones of Duluth, requiring lumber camps to provide bathing facilities for lumberjacks. This is the way the lumbermen's poet looks at the bill:

Mr. Jones of Duluth, with beneficent mind,
And intent that is both philanthropic and kind,
Has presented a bill in the state legislature
For a law that would mean a protest against nature.

In a word, he has heard that the "poor" lumberjack,
Who goes into the woods with his clothes on his back,
Has been leaving them there without changing a thing
Until he comes out of the woods in the spring.

Now those who society's functions adorn
Are accustomed to taking a bath every morn;
And, to him, it seems hard that the lumber camp man
His ablutions must do in a shallow tin pan.

So Jones has prepared for the state to enact
A law which would make every logger, in fact,
Who employes half a score for at least thirty days,
Be ruled by this measure, which quite clearly says:

He must put in a bath for the use of his men
With hot and cold water, one tub for each ten;
But in framing this law, he's forgotten, I think,
About leading a horse and making him drink.

Of course, if a lumberjack's really inclined
To take a real bath, there are ways he can find,
Though facilities just as they are, are not fine;
Yet I've lived in a camp, and I always had mine.

But the threat of a bath makes him shudder with fear,
With thoughts of pneumonia lingering near;
Of course, water's all right if it's kept in its place,
But for washing, it stops with the hands and the face.

Yet, if to enact such a law it seems wise,
Why limit its scope? So we beg to advise
That massage parlors also be put on the list,
And a manicure lady and chiropodist.

To these we would add a barber shop, too,
With a man who can give a good raw egg shampoo.
And a bootblack! a Turkish bath, open all night;
While we're doing the thing, let us do it up right.

But you know, Mr. Jones, how the histories tell
To what depths Grecian glory and Rome's prestige fell,
When indulgence in luxuries caused the decay
Of the proud, virile manhood of that ancient day.

So we beg you be careful, dear sir, if you please,
And don't force on the lumberjack habits of ease
That will weaken his muscles and ruin his health
And teach him the ways of the slaves to great wealth.

Twin City Consolidation.

A bill proposing a commission to investigate the feasibility of consolidating St. Paul and Minneapolis was introduced in the senate this morning by Senator R. J. Westlake of Minneapolis and Senator Charles N. Orr of St. Paul. The commission is to consist of the mayors and city attorneys of the two cities, the president of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association, the president of the St. Paul Association of Commerce and a chairman selected by these six. The commission is to report a bill to the next legislature if it deems it feasible.

To Probe School for Deaf.

The house this morning after extended debate decided to authorize the speaker to appoint a special committee of three to investigate charges against the Faribault school for the deaf, pursuant to a resolution offered by Representative Spooner. An amendment by Representative Stevens eliminated the clerk and stenographer called for in the original resolution.

Representatives Searl of Carlton and others wanted to have the matter referred to the standing committee on state hospitals, but this was voted down.

Representative Muellef of New Ulm, who said he had attended some of the preliminary hearings, said that it was a nonsensical proceeding, that somebody was out to get somebody else, and that it was a question whether the house would support such a move.

Representative Bjornson said that he, too, had attended the hearings and had heard enough to convince him that the matter ought to be investigated, even if only half the charges were true.

Canal From Lake Superior.

Representatives Harrison and Halmberg introduced a bill authorizing the governor to appoint five members of a joint Minnesota-Wisconsin commission to investigate and report on the proposed canal from Lake Superior to the Mississippi.

* * *

Representative Claude E. Southwick introduced a bill appropriating $6,500 a year for state-wide work by the Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Cruelty.

* * *

The regulation, examination and licensing of chiropractors is provided for in a bill introduced by Representative Southwick.

Magnus Johnson offered a bill providing for the organization of co-operative business corporations.

The state university, under a bill by Representative Lattin, is authorized to accept Federal aid in agricultural extension work.

* * *

The state is authorized to lease state lands for the taking of sand, gravel and black dirt and for building garden sites by a bill introduced by Representatives Searls, Murphy and Bendixen.

* * *

Senator Swenson introduced a bill authorizing the board of control to take $52,000 from the prison revolving fund to build a women's prison and two barns at the state penitentiary.

Senator Ries offered a bill appropriating $125,000 a year for county fairs.

The house will have its first Saturday session tomorrow. The senate, however, adjourned until Monday.

FURIOUS BATTLE NOW AT ITS HEIGHT TO WEST OF WARSAW

brought seven divisions (84,000 men) into a front six miles wide.

The report reads as follows:

"In East Prussia we are making progress by fighting our way along both banks of the river Scheschuppe in the vicinity of Lasdehnen, to the east of Tilsit.

"On the left bank of the river Vistula the fighting between Borjimow and Wola Szydlowiecka has continued with extraordinary ferocity. The enemy has brought into the engagement compact masses of men. In the endeavor to penetrate our front the Germans have here introduced into a sector of ten versts (about six miles) no fewer than seven divisions, supported by 100 batteries of artillery. Certain divisions advanced on a front only one verst wide.

"Our counter-attack began the night of Feb. 3 and was immediately followed by a series of engagements at the point of the bayonet. We succeeded in compelling the enemy to assume the defensive. At a point near Borjimow we took possession of two lines of German trenches and we drove the enemy out of Goumine. After desperate fighting which has lasted two days, our troops entered Wola Szydlowiecka. The fighting here is still going on with desperate stubbornness, particularly around a neighboring distillery which was still in the possession of the enemy the night of Feb. 3.

"In the Carpathians, the fighting continues along the front which is between the Dukla Pass and Mount Wyszkow. We advanced at a point near Svidnik in the valley of the river Labortch, moving in the direction of Oujok. We took 2,000 prisoners and ten machine guns.

"At Mount Toukholka and at Mount Beskid our troops during the last few days have been confronting the enemy with a desperate resistance. They accepted no less than ten engagements at the point of the bayonet. On Feb. 3 we resolved to withdraw our soldiers from the mountain positions to other positions previously selected and organized by us. The offensive strength of the enemy in this vicinity is very considerable.

"Offensive operations of the enemy in the vicinity of Mount Wyszkow have been repulsed with the infliction of heavy losses."

French Statement.

Paris, Feb. 5, 2:55 p. m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following report on the progress of the fighting:

"In Belgium German aviators yesterday showed great activity.

"The announcement given out last night reported the occupation of a trench of the enemy to the west of the road from Arras to Lille. This trench annoyed our troops in positions won by us to the east of this road. Consequently we blew it up with a mine and installed ourselves securely in the conquered positions. All the Germans in the trench were either killed or taken prisoner.

"Our artillery silenced the batteries of the enemy at a point near Adinfer (to the south of Arras); near Pozieres (northeast of Albert); near Ham (northwest of Peronne), as well as in the sector of Pailly (south of Noyon).

"There is nothing new in the region of Perthes. In the Argonne there was yesterday one attack at Bagatelle which took from us about 100 yards of trenches. Two counter attacks resulted in our not only getting back this 100 yards but in gaining additional ground.

"In the Vosges, yesterday saw artillery exchanges."

German Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 5, by wireless to Sayville.—The German army headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:

"On the whole western front, except for an isolated French attack against the German position to the northwest of Perthes, which was unsuccessful, only artillery duels took place.

"On the East Prussian frontier renewed Russian attacks to the south of the Memel river were repulsed.

"Strong Russian attacks against the positions recently taken by the Germans to the east of Bolimow (east of Lowicz) were equally unsuccessful. We have taken prisoners in that vicinity since Feb. 1, twenty-six officers and about 6,000 men."

To Investigate Campaigns.

Washington, Feb. 5.—By unanimous vote the senate elections committee today recommended investigation of senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania and Illinois and in any other states where charges of corruption have been made.

THREAT OF GERMANS TO BOTTLE UP BRITISH ISLES WITH SUBMARINES

Gazette today, commenting on the announcement of the German admiralty which declares the seas around Great Britain to be a military area, said:

"From the military point of view, if the Germans turn from legitimate war to the threat of piracy, it is merely because in legitimate war they hitherto have had no success.

"The use of submarines against British merchantmen will no more induce the government to scatter the fleet for supposed security against these sea raiders, than did German mines and Zeppelins or the raids on undefended coast towns."

The Evening Standard characterizes the plan as a "fantastic blockade," and continues:

"What justification have submarines for supposing that they are competent to prevent the access of merchantmen to the French and British coasts? Did they manage to stop a single man of our expeditionary force from reaching the shores of France?"

The Pass Mall Gazette says:

"We so far have been loath to push our belligerent rights to the last extremity, but the advertised intention of the enemy to sink all merchant ships plying to and from our shores without making provision for the safety of the passengers and crews, justifies a more rigid application of pressure, in which we shall have the support of the conscience of the whole world."

After British Transports.

Berlin, Feb. 5, by wireless to Sayville.—The chief admiral of the staff of the German navy has issued the following official communication:

"England is on the eve of shipping numerous troops and large quantities of war material to France. Against these English transports we will proceed with all the means of warfare at our disposal.

"Neutral shipping is earnestly cautioned against approaching the northern or the western coasts of France as in these waters such vessels would run the serious danger of being confounded with ships whose purposes are warlike.

"The best route for the North sea is around Scotland."

GEORGE H. BONNIWELL, Senator From Hutchinson.

YOU OWE YOUR FACE A GOOD, CLEAR SKIN

And Stuart's Calcium Wafers In a Very Short Time Will Clear Up Your Complexion Naturally.

Just in a few days one may clear the skin of all manner of blemishes such as pimples, blotches, liver spots, etc., if one will use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

Don't use pasty lotions and creams to fill up the pores when they are working constantly with the blood to throw off the impurities of your system.

"Before I rid my face of pimples I was not thought to be pretty. But all the change I made was to clean my blood and skin."

Many a face is made with beautiful contour and artistically lined, but when the skin is discolored one cannot see the beauty of the face lines. One notices only the skin blemishes.

It's because pimples and eruptions come from the inside—from impure blood—and you can't cure them by rubbing stuff on the outside of the face. Purify the blood and the blemishes will disappear.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will often clear the complexion in a few days' time. That's the wonderful part of it—they act right off—in a hurry. That's because they're made of just the ingredients needed to drive all poisons and impurities from the blood. That's why doctors prescribe them so constantly.

You will speedily enjoy a beautiful complexion if you use these wonderful little Wafers. Your face will become as clear and pure as a rose. Nobody likes to have pimply-faced people around. With Stuart's Calcium Wafers you don't have to wait for months before getting results. Even boils have been cured in a few days' time with these remarkably effective blood cleansers. Your whole system will feel better in a marvelously short time, and my, what a difference in your looks!

You can get Stuart's Calcium Wafers of any druggist at 50 cents a box. A small sample package mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Appetite Follows Good Digestion

Nearly everyone indulges their appetite and the digestive organs are abused, resulting in a congestion of poisonous waste that clogs the bowels and causes much misery and distress.

The most effective remedy to correct this condition is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a natural, pleasant-tasting remedy, gentle yet positive in action, and quickly relieves indigestion, constipation, sick headache, belching, etc. Drug stores sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and in thousands of homes it is the indispensable family remedy. For a free trial bottle write Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

HORN TAKEN TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Bridge Dynamiter to Serve Thirty Days in Machias Bastile.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 5.—Werner Horn, who says he is a German officer and in that capacity tried to blow up the international railway bridge here, was removed from here today to serve a sentence of thirty days in the county jail at Machias for the damage the explosion caused on this side of the Canadian border. He is due at Machias at 6:20 o'clock this evening.

The departure of Horn attracted little attention. A small crowd gathered at the station.

The case is now ended, so far as the state is concerned. The next move, it is expected, will be by the Federal authorities, who are concerned with the application for the extradition of the dynamiter to Canada.

DULUTH WINS MOST HONORS

Five of Seven Silver Cups Won By Local Poultry Fanciers.

La Crosse Bird Makes High Score; Ribbon Prizes Announced.

"Queen Dot," a Buff Wyandotte hen owned by George K. McDonald of La Crosse, Wis., is the proudest chicken in the Northwest today.

Ranked as the highest scoring bird in the American class, this "biddie" won for her owner a 60-egg incubator, the highest honor to be given any individual bird entered at the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association at the Armory this week.

Winners of Cups Announced.

Upon the completion of judging, officials of the association this morning announced the winners of the various cups offered, finding that out of seven silver cups offered, five were won by Duluth fanciers.

The only two outside entries thus to be recognized were Mrs. John Wolff of Merrifield, N. D., who won the Gately Challenge cup for the best pen of birds in the Mediterranean class, and the Buhl Poultry farm, which won the Duluth & Iron Range Challenge cup for the best pen of White Leghorns.

E. H. Conkey & Son of Duluth won the Kelley Challenge cup, offered for the best pen of any breed or variety in the American class. This cup was won by August Tabor in 1913 and by T. H. Cornell in 1914.

S. B. Suydam of Duluth won the Commercial club Quartet cup, offered for the best cock, hen, cockerel and pullet, all one variety. This trophy was offered for the first time this year.

The Commercial club cup for the best display of poultry from St. Louis county went to Theodore Hollister, Duluth attorney, as did the Gately cup for the best display of bantams.

Dr. F. C. Lee, also of this city, won the Duluth & Iron Range Challenge cup for the best pen of Rhode Island Reds. Competition for this trophy was limited to entries from St. Louis county and was won by T. H. Cornell in 1914.

With the best pen in the Asiatic class, S. B. Suydan of this city, won a hover, offered by the Kelley Hardware company.

Permanent Possessor of Cup.

Having won the Commercial club cup for the best display of poultry from St. Louis county three times in succession, Theodore Hollister becomes the permanent possessor of the trophy. Other cups are challenge cups, not to be held permanently until won three times in succession by a single contestant.

Distribution of the many cash prizes has not been decided upon as yet, the judges not having finished their task of enumerating the points of the various pens.

Ribbon prizes in the various classes, as finally announced last night, are included in the following list, excepting those which appeared in The Herald yesterday. Errors in a list of awards published by the morning paper caused considerable confusion this morning, according to the judges, and many of the contestants did not learn of their success until they appeared at the show rooms.

The list:

R. C. Buff Leghorns—Cock, F. D. Thias, first; hen, F. D. W. Thias, first, second and third; cockerel, F. D. W. Thias, second; pullet, F. D. W. Thias, first, second and third; pen, F. D. W. Thias, first.

S. C. Buff Leghorns—Hen, Edward Steel, first, second and third; cockerel, Edward Steel, first.

R. C. Black Minorcas—Cock, Frank Nelson, first and second; hen, Frank Nelson, first, second and fourth; Robert Kuen, third; pullet, Frank Nelson, first, second and third, Robert Kuen, fourth; pen, Frank Nelson, first.

S. C. Black Minorcas—Cock, Frank Nelson, second; hen, Frank Nelson, first and second, Robert Kuen, third; cockerel, Frank Nelson, first, second, third and fourth; pullet, Frank Nelson, first, second and fourth, Robert Kuen, third; pen, Frank Nelson, first.

White Pekin Ducks—Drake, Theodore Hollister, first and second; duck, Theodore Hollister, first and second.

Indian Runner Ducks—Drake, L. A. Gunderson, first; duck, L. A. Gunderson, first and second.

Bronze Turkeys—Old tom, L. Gulden, first; young tom, L. Gulden, first, Theodore Hollister, second; hen, L. Gulen, first, Theodore Hollister, second; pullet, L. Gulen, first.

S. C. Black Leghorns—Cockerel, Robert H. Kuen, St. Cloud, Minn., first; pullets, R. H. Kuen, first and second.

Blue Orpingtons—Pullets, Fred D. W. Thias, Two Harbors, Minn., first, second and third.

R. C. Brown Leghorns—Pullets, R. H. Kuen, first and second.

Anconas—Cockerel, John Luxon, first; pullets, John Luxon, first, second and third.

JANUARY WORK AT COUNTY POOR FARM

During January, 293 persons were extended relief and medical attendance at the three institutions maintained by St. Louis county at its poor farm, according to the monthly report submitted this afternoon to the board of poor commissioners at their February meeting by Dr. C. J. Woolway, medical superintendent.

The total population at the poor farm at the beginning of the month was 225. The month ended with 240. At the county hospital, 101 patients were given treatment. Of this number 28 were discharged. Seven hospital cases were transferred to the almshouse to await milder weather before being discharged.

In the almshouse during January there were 116 patients. Five were discharged during the month and ten were transferred to the hospital section for treatment. The tuberculosis sanitorium had 46 patients during the month, 5 of whom were discharged.

In all there were six deaths at the farm, two at the almshouse, two in the county hospital and two in the tuberculosis department.

Contractors Sue Road.

A jury was drawn yesterday afternoon in Judge Fesler's division of the district court to try an action in which Victor Carlson, Ole Larson and Victor Larson, contractors, are suing the Great Northern Railway company for $3,105.37 for payment on a contract. The plaintiffs claim to have had a contract to grade the company's yard in Superior preparatory to the laying of a number of spur tracks. They were engaged at the work from Oct. 20 to Dec. 20, 1913. The total value of their services was $5,105.37. They have been paid but $2,000, they claim. Andrew Nelson and George B. Sjosehus are appearing for the plaintiff and Donald S. Holmes is in court for the railroad company.

STREET RAILWAY CASE SUBMITTED TO JURY.

The jury trying the case of Carl Jannett against the Duluth Street Railway company in Judge Ensign's branch of the district court was given the case at 10:30 o'clock this morning for deliberation. At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the jury was still out.

Jannett is asking $1,030 damages for an alleged beating which he claims was given by Bert Moore, a street car conductor, on Nov. 16. The affair took place on a Duluth-Superior car.

PLANS FOR STYLE SHOW

"Made in America" Goods Will Be Featured By Merchants.

A meeting of the committee on window trimming and interior decorating of stores for the Duluth Style Show, which will take place on March 25, 26 and 27, called by Chairman H. F. Williamson, was held today at the Commercial club and was largely attended. Judging from the enthusiasm displayed by those present, the style show is taking a strong hold on the merchants of the city and it is expected that the three days to be devoted to it will be very successful.

Three committees were appointed today to canvass the entire city and see every retail merchant, no matter in what line, to ask them to make a special window "trim" for the style show days; also to have their windows curtained until 5 o'clock on the first day at which time all window displays will be revealed. It is desired to impress on the merchants that they do not have to curtain their windows for a long period. If they can put their display in in an hour, so much the better, but it is hoped that they will keep the special display curtained until the time set for the exhibition.

A special effort will be made to feature all American-made goods, and all such will be marked that way.

STUDY COURSE FOR WINDOW TRIMMERS

J. E. Hopkins Will Be in Charge of Class at the Y. M. C. A.

The latest innovation to be instituted by the educational department of the Young Men's Christian association is a course of practical instruction in window-trimming, which will begin next Monday evening. J. E. Hopkins of the George A. Gray company, who is recognized as one of the best men of his class in Duluth, will have charge of the work.

J. E. HOPKINS.

What this course will mean to Duluth merchants is hard to estimate. There are only a very few schools of window-trimming in the United States, and as a result most of the trimmers this side of the water have worked their way up from the counter position. Instruction in this line of work is fast becoming popular, and the expert window-trimmer is in demand as never before. Local merchants are enthusiastic over the idea of establishing a class here.

That the instruction may be practical, a large window 8 by 12 feet will be constructed, and the students will have an opportunity to put their ideas into practice. A good advance enrollment has already been secured.

M'LENNAN FUNERAL WILL BE DELAYED

Storms Stop Trains and Make Arrival of Body Uncertain.

Funeral services for James A. McLennan, prominent Duluth young man, who died following an operation at Alexandria, La., on Wednesday, have been delayed because of the storms south and east, which have hindered train service. Announcement of the funeral will be made Saturday.

Mrs. Julia McLennan, his mother, and Charles McLennan, a brother, who were en route to Alexandria when they received news of the death, are returning with the body, which they met at Chicago. D. R. McLennan of Chicago, another brother, also is accompanying them from Chicago.

It was first announced that services would be held Saturday afternoon from the family residence, 2224 East First street.

DON'T TAKE CALOMEL

Instead of dangerous, salivating Calomel to liven your liver when bilious, headachy or constipated get a 10-cent box of Cascarets. They start the liver and bowels and straighten you up better than nasty Calomel, without griping or making you sick.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

OJA—Mrs. John Oja, aged 35, wife of John Oja of Wadena, Minn., died at 1427 East First street last night after a short illness. The husband will arrive here today from Wadena, and will accompany the remains to that city, where burial will take place. The body is at Crawford's undertaking rooms.

TROVICH—John Trovich, aged 40, died last night at St. Luke's hospital after a short illness. Nothing is known of his relatives. The body is at Crawford's undertaking rooms.

DEMAGOGUE A BACK NUMBER

Walker Tells of Direct Appeal of Railroads to People.

Climax of Unique Campaign Will Come Wednesday in Lansing.

W. W. Walker, vice president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, who is going to Lansing, Mich., to assist in the campaign of education that has been waged throughout the state, and that will be brought to a culmination before the solons of the Wolverine state Wednesday, believes the day of senseless persecution of corporations is passed.

The educational campaign of the South Shore and other railroads of Michigan is rather unique and vastly interesting, because it possibly presages similar campaigns upon the part of other railroads of the United States in the effort to secure an increase in passenger and freight rates.

"We have taken our case directly to the people," said Mr. Walker today. "The newspapers have been appealed to, and matter prepared by the road has been sent to the people of the state. The campaign of education consists in an effort upon the part of the railroads to convince the people that the general prosperity of the country is most radically affected by the financial well being of the railroads.

"I am of the opinion that we are emerging from the period when the demagogue and the wild-eyed individual harangued against every corporation and declared every man and every industry making money to be dishonest.

"The fact is beginning to be realized by the people of the country that the railroads absolutely are not making large profits; that in some cases the railroads are not meeting the expense of operation,"

One Road's Deficit.

At this point Mr. Walker took from his desk an exhaustive mass of figures compiled by the experts of the Pierre Marquette railroad. The figures tended to show that the deficit of the road last year was somewhat over $7,000,000. These figures will be placed before the members of the Michigan legislature; but Mr. Walker is firmly of the belief that the campaign among the people, not with legal talent and a mass of figures that will be read by few and digested by fewer, but on broader lines and with more practical examples, will in the end be more effective.

"It is such a campaign that the South Shore is waging," continued Mr. Walker. "The people of the United States, I believe, are getting back to a more sane basis of thought. We have petitions from shippers, business men, city boards and scores of other agencies, favoring the increase of rates. This is merely given to show the change of sentiment. I believe that many hundreds of people, possibly opposed to rate increases in the past, are convinced of the fact that some railroads at least need more revenue to operate and decidedly more revenue to become contributing agents to the prosperity of the country.

Big Buyers of Steel.

"The railroads are one of the greatest contributors to the prosperity of this country. Something like 40 per cent of the steel is purchased by the railroads. One of the real causes, in my opinion, of the present so-called 'quiet times,' is the undisputed fact that the railroads are not buying, for the simple reason that the railroads are unable to buy.

"I believe the day is coming when the demagogue is going to be ridiculed in his own district; driven to cover by facts furnished by far-sighted business men and citizens who have the best interests of the greatest number of the people at heart. Wise legislation, sane regulation and prudent supervision are measures that no railroad man need object to; but the frenzied cries for reforms that have resulted in the past in untold harm and legislative bills that have been introduced by men who were criminally ignorant of their subject, have played their part in the forced policy of retrenchment upon the part of the railroads of the country. It has come to the place where trains will have to be taken out of service, rather than be operated at a heavy loss.

"These facts are being presented to the people of Michigan, and the approval from press and various business agencies, as well as from many of the traveling public, tend to convince me that there has been a very marked change in sentiment toward the railroad."

DENIES CHARGE OF MALPRACTICE

Dr. W. H. Magie, defendant in a malpractice suit instituted by Peter Murphy, in which the latter asks damages for alleged unskillful treatment received at the hands of the surgeon, today filed an answer to the cause of action in district court.

Murphy claimed that he received an injury March 21, 1914, while working for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company on the range. His jaw was broken, he says, and Dr. Magie reset it, but in such a manner that it will have to be rebroken and reset.

Dr. Magie admits that Murphy received an injury, but claims that one Dr. Blacklock of Hibbing, a company physician, set the jaw at the Rood hospital of that city and that Murphy afterwards received subsequent treatment from the defendant at St. Mary's hospital.

The defendant also alleges that on May 26, 1914, Murphy settled all of his claims against the company and that in October of the same year he sued them, but a jury turned him down. Dr. Magie claims to have been working only as an agent or representative of the company while attending Murphy and therefore, asserts that he can in no way be held liable for damages, if Murphy is entitled to any.

The surgeon also claims that Murphy's jaw does not need to be rebroken and reset; that the trouble lies with his teeth and that it is a matter which requires the attention of a dentist, not a surgeon.

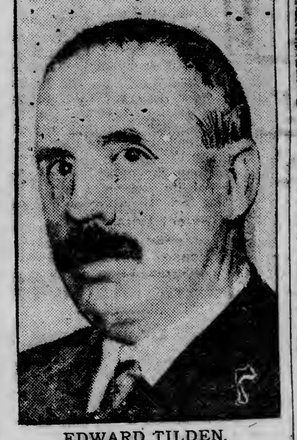

FOUND WITH OPIUM; GIVEN SIXTY DAYS.

Failure to pay her room rent netted Mamie Wilson, alias Annie Smith, aged 24, a negress, sixty days in the county jail, when she appeared in municipal court this morning on a charge of having opium in her possession.

When Sergeant John Roberg and Patrolman Fred Harling went to investigate the non-payment charge last night, they found the Wilson woman sitting in her room, with opium and a smoking outfit on the table. She is an old offender, having been brought into court before on various charges.

TILDEN DIES OF BLOOD POISONING

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Edward Tilden, packer and banker, died suddenly last night of throat trouble. His death was unexpected. He had been ill but a few days. Mr. Tilden has been president and treasurer of Libby, McNeill & Libby since 1897 and has been well known in packing affairs here. He was born in Utica, N. Y., June 17, 1858 and educated at Delavan, Wis. His business career began in a general store at Delavan whence he came to Chicago as bookkeeper. His banking career began when he became assistant cashier of the Drovers' National bank in 1883, remaining with that institution until he became treasurer of the Libby, McNeill & Libby company. He became president in 1892.

EDWARD TILDEN.

Death was due to blood poisoning, caused by bridge work in his teeth, according to Charles P. Caldwell, his physician. The dentistry irritated Mr. Tilden and developed a sore tongue and the ensuing poison was the reason of the unexpected death, it was said.

AMENDMENT MAY SAVE SHIP BILL

Washington, Feb. 5.—A technical parliamentary situation on the ship purchase bill developed today when Senator Gore, who yesterday introduced a substitute, referred to the commerce committee, moved that the committee be discharged from its consideration. The Gore bill is the same as the original bill, as perfected in caucus and has amendments to meet views of Progressive Republicans. It is virtually the measure the administration Democrats want to submit for final action. The motion went over without action for a day.

On Senator Gore's motion some of the Democratic leaders believe they can muster enough votes to get the amended bill before the senate. It would eliminate action on Senator Clarke's motion to recommit. Republican leaders insisted they would resume their fight.

Notwithstanding the determined attitude of some of the administration senators, some Democrats, it is said, had told President Wilson that should the bill be amended to meet the views of Progressive Republicans, it would lose the support of more Democrats.

ROCKEFELLER, SR., AND CARNEGIE TESTIFY

New York, Feb. 5.—Andrew Carnegie went on the witness stand today before the Federal industrial relations committee and testified that up to the close of 1914, his benefactions totalled $324,657,399.

"The work still goes bravely on," said the ironmaster. "I am indeed a most fortunate man and think myself in nothing else so happy as in a soul remembering my dear friends, to whom I owe so much."

At the conclusion of Mr. Carnegie's testimony, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., entered the room and demanded to be heard as a witness. He was placed on the stand.

LAKE BOATS ORDERED NOT TO BUCK THE ICE.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The liners Alabama and Arizona of the Goodrich Transit company, sister ships of the Iowa, which sank off Chicago harbor, were in open water four miles out in Lake Michigan today, but were under orders not to take a chance with the heavy floes such as crushed the Iowa yesterday.

The Arizona has been stalled since yesterday. The Alabama arrived from Grand Haven, Mich., and is said to carry passengers. Each ship has a crew of seventy.

FAMOUS OPERA SINGER SELLS TICKETS TO AID WAR VICTIMS

ALMA GLUCK.

—Copyright by the Bain News Service.

When Mme. Marcella Sembrich gave a concert for the benefit of her Polish countrymen impoverished by the war, one of the program sellers was Alma Gluck, the soprano, who was for several years a member of the Metropolitan Opera company. Miss Gluck has been a pupil of Mme. Sembrich at her home in Europe for some time. The man who is taking the first program from the charming Miss Gluck is Richard Copley, the manager of the Wolfsohn Concert Bureau of New York.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mollie Steele Voliva, wife of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer of the church founded by John Alexander Dowie, died Feb. 4 at her home in Zion City, after an illness of six weeks' duration. Her ailment was diagnosed as lymphangitis.

Mary Elizabeth Bradden, the English novelist, died Feb. 4 at her residence at Richmond-on-Thames, after a fortnight's illness. She was born in London in 1837.

CHARGE IS DIMINISHED.

An alleged daylight assault and attempted robbery subsided into a vagrancy charge in municipal court this morning, when Otto Tarkko, aged 22, was arraigned on complaint of William Schmitt.

Schmitt, in his story to the police, alleged that after a sociable afternoon with Tarkko, he left the Liberty hotel, West Superior street, and was followed by Tarkko and some of the latter's friends, who attacked him.

Tarkko was captured by Patrolman Fred Harling, who saw the struggle, after a sprint of several blocks. The other two men escaped. Tarkko pleaded guilty to vagrancy and was sentenced to thirty days on the work farm.

THE DAILY ROLL CALL; A COLUMN OF SPORTS

BY BRUCE.

IT is most hard to keep a good man down. There was Jonah and the whale, for instance. There is also Jack Herman, one of the shrewdest and smartest athletic promoters in the long length and spacious width of this roving country of ours. Herman has succeeded apparently in luring Frank Gotch from retirement—for "just one more match."

Gotch has always been up to date. Herman has locked stepped with the forward march of events. Let it be stated that Gotch is to wrestle before the moving picture film and that he is to wrestle for J. H. Herman, who has often walked the streets of this noble town.

When the huge Stanislaus Zbyszko was left on the warring side of the deep blue Atlantic Jack Herman was not left without resources. More than a year ago we sat one pleasant evening in the lobby of the Spalding and talked with Herman. He told of his connection with the moving picture game and of how he was going to have some of the greatest wrestlers in the world appear in finish contests before the movies.

Now it is announced that Frank A. Gotch will wrestle one more contest and that his opponent will be chosen from such grapplers as Charlie Cutler, Hussane, the Turk, or "The Mystery," a wrestler who has been causing a sensation in the East by meeting and defeating all opponents while wearing a mask that completely hides his identity.

Herman is with the Selig Polyscope company and it is this concern that is hanging up one of the largest purses ever wrestled for, $25,000.

While in Duluth, Herman made the prediction that his moving picture scheme would revolutionize athletics; that he would stage big athletic events before the camera, that would be witnessed in the "flesh" by only perhaps a half hundred spectators, but that would be viewed on the screen by millions of people.

The largest house that ever witnessed any athletic event in the country, speaking purely from the number of spectators present, was the Gotch-Hackenschmidt match. Jeffries and Johnson fought before the largest gate in this country or in the world. If Gotch wrestles before the Selig people and the pictures are sent broadcast throughout the world, it can be conservatively stated that millions of fans will have witnessed the contest.

If the moving picture people can offer Gotch a purse of $25,000 to wrestle, the query comes to mind concerning how much emolument the movies can pay to a pair of great pugilists to battle in private before the films.

The movies have revolutionized the drama, some of the most profound critics are willing to admit; in contemplating the onward sweep of the activities of other lines of the moving picture world, one is struck with wonder as to the ultimate effect the entrance the moving picture will have upon all branches of professional athletics.

It is stated that Gotch has purchased a complete training outfit in Chicago and has announced his intention of going into hard preparation for the "last big match."

The National Tourney.

FROM the sensing of advance dope it looks as if the National Ski association tourney is going to be the greatest event of its kind ever held in this section of the country. The long list of entries published in The Herald of yesterday is but mild indication of the number of riders that are expected to compete.

Features are announced galore. Axel Hendrickson, the brave bucko who daringly does the somersault, the Glenwood ski band, the Nore club persons with all sorts of decorations—and ladies and gentlemen, Ragnar Omtvedt, the world's champion, and a host of other celebrities will be on hand to lend eclat to the occasion.

It looks like the largest and most luscious effort made in years upon the part of the directors of the Duluth club and the officers of the National Ski association. Aksel Holter is expected to arrive today and check things up in general. It is also expected that every one of the thirty-two clubs of the national association will be represented at the tourney that starts tomorrow and comes to a big head on Sunday.

Eddie Wheeler Is Out.

NEWS coming down from the snow-capped country of Grand Forks carries in the burden of its song the information that Eddie Wheeler, the sartorial shrick, will not be with the Flickers the coming season.

Eddie, the nicest and neatest dresser of the league, is to go gayly to Flint, Mich., and wrap himself up with the baseball destinies of that city.

In the same news story comes the tale of a reduction of salaries on the Grand Forks club.

"The high cost of baseball will not be tolerated any further in Grand Forks and the general movement to reduce salaries will find favor here," said the news item.

Pat Flaherty is to lead the gallant to battle. Flaherty played with Grand Forks last season and was sold to the St. Paul team on an optional agreement at the end of the season.

The Oswego Contest.

LAWRENCE DUBY gave the followers of basket ball a fine menu card the other evening. The Oswego quint lived up to all the fine things that were said of it in advance of the glittering contest. Considering the hard shell fact that Duluth was up against one of the strongest teams in the country, its showing was more than the most blissful expectations of its followers laid the stage setting for. Bring some more of the star teams up, Lawrence.

DULUTH CURLERS SCORE WIN IN MANLEY-M'LENNAN

Superior Rinks Are Defeated in Initial Contest 50 to 37.

Whyte's Rink Is Only Local One to Lose Contest to Visitors.

First blood was scored by Duluth in the Manley-McLennan curling contest with Superior. The four Duluth rinks defeated the four Superior rinks last evening on the local ice by the aggregate score of 50 to 37.

Duluth won three out of the four individual contests, Whyte's rink losing to A. K. Smith, while Clough Gates was defeated by Ralph Bradley, S. Stephenson was defeated by Ron McLeod and Billy Dinham's rink took Joel Gates down the line.

As the score indicates, all of the games were one-sided. Duluth rinks, with the exception of the Brewer-Whyte rink, which was skipped by Elmer Whyte, showed up the Superior rinks in rather bad light.

The second series of games will be played this evening on the ice of the Superior rink. If a third contest is necessary to decide the cup possessor, it will be played on the local ice Friday evening.

The score of the games by ends:

Whyte, Dul.	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	1	0	2	0 — 6
Smith, Sup.	3	1	0	2	0	1	1	1	0	2	0 — 15
R. Bradley, Dul.	0	1	1	0	0	2	3	1	0	3	4	0 — 15

MIKE GIBBONS.

UNIVERSALS TO PLAY TWO HARBORS TEAM.

The hockey menu of the season will be offered Monday evening at the French rink. The long-awaited contest between the Universals and Two Harbors teams will be played before the regular scheduled game between the Bagleys and Big Duluths.

The regular scheduled game between the millers and railroaders was postponed. The meeting Monday therefore will be the first test of strength of the year.

At the present time these two teams are rated as among the strongest in the league.

BASKETBALL

PLAYING TWO LEAGUE GAMES

Lakes and Fenton-Dubys and Northerns and Big Duluths Clash.

Schedule to Be Changed From Fridays to Tuesdays.

Standing of the Teams.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Kelleys	2	1	.667
Lakes	2	1	.667
Fenton-Dubys	1	1	.500
Northerns	1	1	.500
Big Duluths	0	2	.000

The fourth set of games in the Commercial league basket ball schedule will be played tonight at the Y. M. C. A. The fast-going Lake Hardware will take on the crack Fenton-Dubys, and the strong Northern Hardware quintet will tackle the scrappy Big Duluth aggregation. All of the five teams of the league appear to be evenly matched and as a result some great games have been pulled off. Those of tonight promise to be especially fast and interesting, as all of the teams are out to win.

The Kelleys, although not participating in tonight's games, have fought their way to a tie at the top of the league with the Lakes. They have a great team, which it will take a lot o fwork to win the pennant from. The Lakes, by winning tonight's contest, would have a fairly good hold on first place. They will have to go some, however to win, for the Fenton-Duby team will be there "with bells on" and are confident of winning. Hallenbeck is playing a great game for the Lakes, while the rest of his teammates are not far behind. The whole Fenton-Duby team is exceptionally strong. The "old reliable" Ray Fenton plays a great game, as do also Duby and Burnett.

In the second contest of the evening some fine playing will doubtless be seen. The Northerns got a bad start and lost their first game by a close score. In their second contest, however, they came back strong and defeated the strong Lakes by the score of 19 to 13. This is almost the same team which won the league championship last year. "Doc" Boerner is an appreciated star and a wonderful player, Smith is a crack and the two Nelsons, Bussellman and Grant are just as good. In the Big Duluth aggregation the Northerns will run up against a strong team. Although they have not as yet won any games, they have lost only by close scores and are bound to make trouble for the teams higher up very soon.

The results of the games to date and the remainder of the schedule are given below:

Jan. 15—Lakes, 15; Big Duluths, 13. Kelleys, 12; Northerns, 11.
Jan. 26—Fenton-Dubys, 23; Big Duluths, 7. Lakes, 18; Kelleys, 11.
Jan. 29—Northerns, 19; Lakes, 11, Kelleys, 13; Fenton-Dubys, 7.
Feb. 5—Lakes vs. Fenton-Dubys, Northerns vs. Big Duluths.
Feb. 9—Kelleys vs. Big Duluths, Northerns vs. Fenton-Dubys.

The league executive committee has decided to play the games on Tuesdays instead of Fridays after tonight. It was agreed that the general interest and, therefore, attendance would be much greater as a result, because there are so many athletic contests played in the city on Friday nights.

BOTH WILL PLAY TO CLEAR DOUBT

Central High and Hibbing Basket Ball Teams Have Last Year in Mind.

All is in readiness in the Central high school camp for the big basket ball game with the crack Hibbing aggregation tonight. That the game will be a hummer goes without saying, for both teams are determined to "do or die." The range men are confident that they will avenge last year's close and disputed defeat, while the local warriors are just as confident that they will not. Last season Duluth won by

CUTLER COACHING MILLER FOR THE KETONEN BATTLE

By FRANK A. M'NERNY.
Chicago Evening Post.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Aware that his coming match, on Feb. 9, with Ketonen is the toughest contest he ever has had, with the possible exception of the Yokel match, Walter Miller of St. Paul, one of the world's greatest middleweight wrestlers, is preparing here, that he may step upon the Duluth Auditorium mat in the very best of condition.

Miller expects to win over the Duluth wrestling marvel next Tuesday night, but he is not so egotistical as to expect a victory without a fight. He will enter the fray in the best possible condition and with Charley Cutler, American champion wrestler tutoring him, Miller will leave here Sunday night a finished product.

Besides Cutler's assistance, Miller has been enjoying the help of Caddock, Hokuf, Ad Wolgast and Eddie McGoorty and every afternoon at Forbes' Clark street gymnasium, a large gathering is registered, for Miller's appearance in a Chicago gymnasium is always the signal for a big turnout. Last Saturday night the St. Paul wrestling king worked before the members of the Illinois A. C. and his performance before those "Four Hundred" society men was one of the best he has ever shown.

Wolgast There, Also.

Eddie McGoorty and Ad Wolgast are strong Miller followers and according to McGoorty, who may accompany Walter to Duluth, the St. Paul marvel is to the wrestling game what Mike Gibbons is among the boxers. McGoorty has been boxing three rounds with Miller every afternoon and Wolgast, too, takes on the wrestler for a setto each afternoon. McGoorty was absent from the city for three days, having gone to St. Paul to attempt to force Mike Gibbons into a fight, but he is back on the job, grappling and boxing with Miller.

Charley Cutler is loud in his praise of the St. Paul wrestler. According to the American heavyweight champion, Walter is stronger now than ever and Charley says that as Ketonen also is a veritable little Hercules the Duluth contest should be productive of great happenings.

Miller will wind up his training work here Sunday afternoon and will leave Sunday night for Duluth.

FLAHERTY SIGNS WITH THE FLICKERS

Former Grand Forks Outfielder Has Been Made Manager.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 5.—The retirement of Eddie Wheeler, former St. Paul star infielder and last season's manager of the Grand Forks team in the Northern league, from the management of the Flickertails, and the announcement that the club directors favor Pat Flaherty for the managerial job, opens the way for active work on the part of the Grand Forks club in the organization of the team for the coming campaign.

Grand Forks, which finished third in the race last season, will appear on the field this year with practically a new line-up, because of sales made to other leagues at the close of last season.

Was a Near Saint.

Flaherty, to whom the Grand Forks club has tendered the berth of manager, was sold under an optional agreement to the St. Paul team of the American association at the close of last season, being one of the bunch of players that was sent to that club, but he failed to report to the Saints at that time.

Flaherty as right fielder of the Forks last season led the outfielders of the league. He is an all-round, heady ball player and in the berth of manager the Grand Forks fans are confident he would make good.

Salaries to Drop.

The "high cost of baseball" will not be tolerated any further in Grand Forks and the general movement to reduce salaries will find favor here.

Wheeler has purchased an interest in the Flint, Mich., team.

NO RADICAL RULES.

Football Rules Committee Meeting But Expected to Be Reasonable.

New York, Feb. 5.—The annual meeting of the intercollegiate football rules committee will be held in this city today. The fourteen members representing a majority of the colleges and universities of the country are not expected to advocate any radical amendments or new rules, but there will be a number of changes in the phraseology of the code in order to obtain a clear interpretation. Dr. H. L. Williams of Minnesota is a member of the committee.

OUTDOOR SKATING RACES.

Many See Championships at Syracuse Lake Course.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Several thousand persons witnessed yesterday's events in the international outdoor skating championships here.

The 444-yard race was won by R. L. Wheeler of the Montreal A. A. A., time 41 2-5 seconds.

In the 200-yard hurdles, the final heat was taken by Edmund Horton of Saranac Lake, time 23 2-5 seconds.

The mile event was won by H. Cody of Toronto, time 2:58 1-5.

The two-mile race was won by R. L. Wheeler of Montreal, time 6:10.

ALL SET FOR BIG TOURNEY

Amateur Riders Will Compete on First Day of Meet.

Duluth Certain of Being Named as Permanent Ski Center.

All is in readiness for the opening day of the National Ski tournament tomorrow. All of the amateur entrants will start tomorrow and compete for the finest array of prizes that have ever been hung up at a ski tournament in the United States.

On Sunday come the professionals. Both days of the tournament are expected to be prolific in the matter of providing sensations for the spectators. With the snow on the slide damp enough to provide slippery going, directors of the Duluth Ski association are sanguine in the belief that a new world's record will be established before the close of the meet.

The belief is expressed here that some of the amateurs will hang up a new world's record tomrorow. In the list of riders that will compete on the first day of the tournament are some of the cracks of the United States, some riders that have this season been establishing long distance jumps at all of the meets of the association.

Duluth After Big Honors.

Not only are Duluth riders going to strive to make the greatest showing of the meet, but the Duluth Ski club is also going to endeavor to have this city named as the ski center of America.

Aksel Holter, national secretary, is said to favor Duluth as the future home of all the national tournaments. Glenwood has cast its votes with the local club. Speaking from the political side of the association, it looks as if Duluth has succeeded in lining up enough votes to assure its being named as the permanent home of the greatest annual ski event in the country.

The program of tomorrow will start at 2:30. Judges of the contest will be selected after the arrival of all of the ski riders. Some of the early arrivals are expected this afternoon. The Glenwood, Minn., riders will come in this evening in a special train.

Officials of the Duluth club stated today that the roads to the meet will be kept ploughed clear of deep snow, so that access to the club grounds will be easy. The club house will be open during both days of the tournament.

Secretary Peter Wright today made the prediction that the tournament that starts tomorrow will be the greatest ever held under the auspices of the national association and also the greatest ever held in this country. With practically every one of the thirty-two clubs of the National Ski association represented, and a keen rivalry existing among the riders for club honors, competition promises to bring out some of the best jumping that has ever been witnessed on the famous old Chester hill.

M'GOORTY TO BOX GIBBONS

Star Middleweights Sign Articles for Meeting at Hudson.

Jack Kearns Attempting to Match Red Watson With Brown.

Mike Gibbons and Eddie McGoorty yesterday afternoon signed articles to fight ten rounds in the Hudson, Wis., arena on the evening of March 21. Each boxer deposited a forfeit of $500 with Eddie Hosking, sporting editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, to bind the articles of agreement.

Over the long distance wire last evening Mike Collins, the Hudson promoter, informed The Herald sporting editor that he had secured the contest only after outbidding a Milwaukee club and several Eastern clubs. While Mike refrained from naming the exact inducements the articles of agreement call for, he stated that the two crack middleweights will battle for the best financial returns that have ever been offered any boxers in this section of the Northwest.

Jack Kearns Active.

Jack Kearns, manager of Billy Murray, and Red Watson, the sensational California lightweight, are in St. Paul as yet. Kearns is lustily endeavoring to secure an engagement for his lightweight with Pal Brown.

Efforts were made yesterday and last evening to close a meeting between Watson, said to be one of the greatest hitters among the lightweights, and the range battler.

It was rumored from Minneapolis that the original date set for the meeting between Brown and Mandot would be shifted. Tommy Walsh, manager of Mandot, was also in the Twin Cities up to last evening, hopping the rattler for Chi at a late hour last night.

Eddie Kane was another of the pugilistic pilots busily engaged in endeavoring to line up some bout. Eddie has Willie Scheafer in tow. Collins, Kearns and Red Watson will come up for the Miller-Ketonen match, it was announced last evening, and at that time Kearns will try to make some arrangement with Sig Abrams.

the score of 30 to 29, but the game was protested by the losers. This year there will be no doubt; one team or the other is going to win.

Great improvement has been shown by the locals in practice this week and they are expected to put up a much better exhibition than they did in their last big contest—with the Cathedrals. The new shift developed by Coach Glyer has worked wonders, adding materially to both the offensive and defensive strength of the team. Team work is becoming more and more conspicuous and it is thought that the boys will make a great showing in the remaining games of the schedule.

Coach Walter McMillan of the Hibbing quintet has developed a fast and strong team. Although defeated by Virginia, the coach has been putting his men through a strenuous drill, especially for the Duluth game. The Virginia defeat was a close one, and as that team is the strongest on the range and one of the best in the state, there is no stigma attached. Cathedral won by a score of 20 to 13 over Central; Superior Central defeated Cathedral; and Virginia walloped Superior Central by a score of 63 to 7.

A compilation of the scores made by Central to date shows that the Red and White men have made a total of 118 points to their opponents 63. Their worst defeat was by a score of 20 to 13 by Cathedral, and their easiest victory by a score of 68 to 7 over Denfeld. The results of the interscholastic games to date and the schedule for the remainder of the season follow:

Jan. 8—Central, 23; Northland College, 26.
Jan. 15—Central, 14; Cloquet, 10.
Jan. 22—Central, 13; Cathedral, 20.
Jan. 29—Central, 68; Denfeld, 7.
Feb. 5—Central vs. Hibbing, at Duluth.
Feb. 12—Central vs. Superior Central, at Duluth.
Feb. 19—Central vs. Virginia, at Virginia.
Feb. 20—Central vs. Hibbing, at Hibbing.
Feb. 22—Central vs. Denfeld, at West Duluth.
Feb. 26—Central vs. Cathedral, at Cathedral.
March 5—Central vs. Cloquet at Cloquet.
March 12—Central vs. Superior at Superior.

The line-ups for tonight's game are as follows:

GYM QUINT GIVES EMERALDS QUIETUS

Junior High School Team Strengthens Intermediate Championship Claims.

The Emerald basket ball team, heralded as city intermediate champions, received a severe set-back to their high aspirations last evening when they were defeated by the Central high school "gym" class basket ball quintet in a rough, but fast and exciting contest by the score of 29 to 23. As the score indicates, the game was close and some exceptionally fine playing was exhibited on both sides. The first half concluded in a tie, 15 to 15, but in the final period the high school boys came back strong and by classy team work and accuracy in shooting they won the game.

Seeing that they were being beaten the Emeralds tried to rough it considerably in the second half and thus throw a scare into their lighter opponents, but it didn't work and the "gym" came out ahead at the end.

By their victory last night the high school "gym" boys considerably strengthened their claim to the city intermediate title. They have been playing a great many games this season and have not been defeated this year. The closest game that they have been in was with the Proctor Y. M. C. A. when the railroad men held them to a tie, 21 to 21. This game was out of the city and has no bearing on the city championship. The "gym" men believe that they could defeat Proctor on the local floor and a game may be arranged. The "gym" team has defeated such strong aggregations as the Conemaugh club and Spaa quintets besides many other decisive victories. An exhibition game may be played with the high school "varsity" team later in the season. In practically all of their games the gymnasium boys have been greatly outweighed. The line-up and summary of last night's contest follow:

"Gym"—		—Emeralds
Pedrizetti	f	Callan
Mason	f	Benda
Gogins	c	Summers
Rosenberg	g	Ryan
Shaw	g	Risetti

Summary: Field goals—Callan, 1; Benda, 6; Summers, 2; Risetti, 1; Pedrizetti, 1; Mason, 2; Gogins, 3; Rosenberg, 2; Shaw, 5. Free throws—Summers, 3; Gogins, 3.

ROSTRUMS DEFEAT THE FAST NORTHERN QUINT.

The Rostrum basket ball team yesterday defeated the junior five of the Northern Hardware store by the score of 8 to 7. The Rostrum team is recruited from boys of the First M. E. church. C. Burntside played a strong game for the winners. Boerner was one of the stars of the Northerns.

NEW RECORD IS SET.

Berkleman Sets Two-Jump Mark at Y. M. C. A. Meet.

Berkleman shattered the Y. M. C. A. two-jump record last evening at the Y. M. C. A., making 18 feet 10 inches in two leaps. The former record was established by Martin and was set at 17 feet 9 inches.

Martin was second in the contest of last evening, 18-8; Shannon, 18-5, and Olson fourth with a mark of 16-10.

Would Change Base.

New York, Feb. 5.—Racquet wielders from all parts of the United States are here for the opening of the United States National Lawn Tennis association convention today. A hard effort will be made, it was said, to take the national tournament away from Newport, R. I., where it has been held for thirty-four years.

NORTHERNS AND STUDES

Hardware Hockey Team Will Play the Hilltop Boys.

Oscar Roswald Is Awarded to the Northern Team.

The Central High School hockey team will have an opportunity this evening to show the result of a lot of practice and some strengthening, when the students stack up against the strong Northerns at the French rink in the West end.

While the hilltop boys have been reposing in the cellar position, some strenuous efforts have been expended during the past week to strengthen the team and increase the formation work and speed up the offense. It is believed that the work of the high school septet will show a marked improvement in this play of this evening.

Material on the pile of masonry team is good and the nucleus is there for a corking team. Johnny Richards quit, but young Paine at goal is playing a strong game. With several more games under their jerseys it is belief that the studes will come strong.

Northerns Get Roswald.

A meeting of the Duluth Amateur league was held at the Northern Hardware store yesterday afternoon. The controversy over the services of Oscar Roswald was threshed out. Both the Big Duluths and Northerns put in claims for the services of this star. The claims of the hardware men obtained and Roswald will be seen in the line-up of the Northerns in the game of this evening.

Andy Grenner has been coaching the Northerns and declares that his team will go to the top of the league. The hardware boys showed well in the last game and are expected to go strong against Central.

DAVIDSON TO MEET BRYANT

Crack Roller Skaters Will Contest at Auditorium Rink.

Harley Davidson and Frank Bryant will skate out the question of roller rivalry on the Auditorium rink the last three evenings of next week. Articles were signed by the two skaters yesterday.

Davidson is perhaps the most formidable roller skater in the world. He won the big London derby, several years ago, at that time defeating the greatest skaters from all of the countries of the world.

Friends of Bryant state that he is going his fastest right now and predict that he will take the measure of the great Harley.

CHAMPION AND "EX" TO BATTLE

Ritchie Will Have Another Chance at Welsh in Ten Rounds.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, signed articles here yesterday to meet Freddie Welsh, present title holder, in a ten-round boxing bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, on March 11.

The men are to weigh 135 pounds at 2 o'clock. Ritchie agreed to post $1,000 for weight and appearance. He will go into training at New York about two weeks before the date of the fight.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Freddie Welsh, champion lightweight, and Jimmy Anderson of Indianapolis were matched yesterday to box six rounds at Grand Rapids, Mich., on Feb. 15.

CANADIAN CONTINGENT DYING FAST IN ENGLAND

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 27.—Members of the Canadian contingent training at Salisbury Plain have suffered most severely as a result of exposure and change of climate, and the men, according to reports, are dying at an alarming rate.

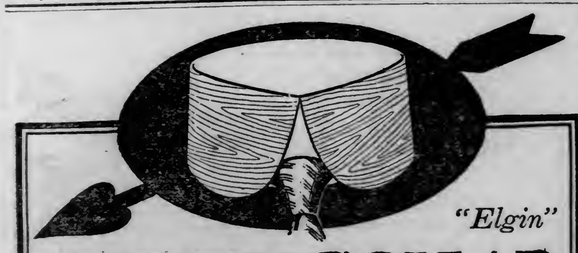

"Of 30,000 men," says the World, a London weekly publication, "it is said the Canadian contingent have lost 500, who have died in consequence of their wicked exposure to the weather.

"A whole battalion is suffering from meningitis. Seventy per cent of the horses have mud fever and the artillery column when ordered to go to Lavington, for maneuver, had to send word that they had no horses for the ammunition wagons."

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL BACK IN SENATE

Washington, Feb. 5.—With an increase of $4,484,300 over the bill as it passed the house, the senate commerce committee reported the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, carrying a total of $38,627,880.

Senator Burton proposes to fight the bill as he did at the last session if it is reached before adjournment.

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

Local Conditions In Nasal Catarrh

THE first essential in the treatment of any case of "catarrh" of the nose is a local examination by means of the head-mirror and nasal speculum, whereby the physician may see just what he has to deal with. Any treatment which is prescribed without such examination is necessarily a good guess, and nothing more.

Looking into the nostril the physician or specialist sees the condition of the mucous membrane, notes whether it is thickened, ulcerated or atrophied (wasted). He observes the relative size and consistence of the turbinate bodies, the "steam radiators of the nose," and whether they are so overgrown or hypertrophied as to demand local applications to reduce them or possibly surgical operation for the same purpose. When the doctor "removes a bone from the nose" he simply removes a portion of a thickened physiological part, and not a new growth, as is often imagined.

Next the doctor uses a throat mirror and looks at the back door of the nasal cavity, where, as a rule, the worst of the trouble shows itself. Here he sees whether the rear end of the turbinate body impinges upon the opening of the eustachian tube to a degree sufficient to interfere with normal ventilation of the ear and causes deafness. Also he observes in the mirror the appearance of the adenoid tissue on the back wall and roof of the throat, whether it is involved in the inflammatory process.

Besides this, he will give the patient a general examination to determine whether any disturbance of health is contributing toward the nasal trouble.

Armed with definite knowledge he is now prepared to treat the conditions intelligently, by applying precisely the remedy required, be it medicinal, dietetic, hygienic or surgical. Thus is "catarrh" to be satisfactorily treated.

You see, it is not a definite disease, but only an indication of some general or local derangement, which must be discovered and suitably treated if permanent relief is expected.

Questions and Answers.

A. J. W. writes: Is it possible for butter to convey tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Yes. But probably this very rarely, if ever, occurs. However, tubercle bacilli have often been found in butter—good, fresh country butter of the highest food value, at that. If the cows are tuberculous it is easily possible for the germs to be present in butter. Butter made from certified milk never contains tubercle bacilli.

* * *

Mrs. Herbert Jayne asks: What causes adenoids in young children? And is there any cure other than an operation?

REPLY.

All babies have a "third tonsil" in the roof of the pharynx or throat behind the soft palate. From repeated infections, such as "simple head colds" and sore throats, this tonsil-like tissue becomes permanently thickened so that eventually it obstructs natural nose breathing. Then we say the child has adenoids. Surgery offers the only cure. Sometimes mild cases may be treated by the family doctor without operation.

* * *

Mrs. J. O'L. asks: (1) When is it safest to have an ulcerated tooth drawn? (2) Does calomel injure the teeth? (3) Is muriatic acid good to clean tartar from the teeth?

REPLY.

(1) At once; just as you would extract a sliver from a festering wound. (2) No, not with doses used today. (3) No, never apply acid to the teeth on your own responsibility.

* * *

Policeman writes: I am very fond of what is called "cannibal" sandwich, which, as you probably know, contains raw meat. Is there any danger of tapeworm infection?

REPLY.

Man acquires one species of tapeworm by eating raw or insufficiently cooked pork which is infected with the larvae or "cysticerci" called bladder worms—the tapeworm growing in man being called taenia solium. Another kind of tapeworm comes from eating raw or insufficiently cooked beef which is infected with the larvae of taenia saginata. Although ment inspection usually eliminates the infected carcass, you do take chances with raw meat.

PRESIDENT SUSTAINED

House Fails to Repass Immigration Bill Over Veto.

Opposition Vote Lacks Five of the Necessary Two-Thirds.

Washington, Feb. 5.—An attempt to pass the immigration bill, prescribing a literacy test for the admission of aliens, over President Wilson's veto failed in the house yesterday, the affirmative vote lacking just five of the necessary two-thirds. Of 399 members present, 261 voted to override the veto, 136 voted to sustain the president, and two answered "present."

The final test came at the close of a day of earnest debate in which party lines temporarily were obliterated. Majority Leader Underwood made a vigorous speech criticising the president's reasons for vetoing the bill and urging the house to override executive disapproval. Mr. Underwood told the house that the public had in several elections returned majorities in congress favoring the restriction of immigration, and that the president's contention that no political platform had placed the issue before the people, was futile.

"The question is," he said, "whether you stand for the American standard of living and the American standard of wages."

Fight Will Continue.

Representative Burnett of Alabama, chairman of the house immigration committee and author of the bill declared that the fight for restrictive immigration legislation would continue.

The vetoed bill passed the house just a year ago yesterday by a vote of 239 to 140. Yesterday's vote showed a gain of twenty-two votes for it and a loss of four votes from the opposition strength.

The 261 votes for passing the bill over the veto were cast as follows: Democrats, 166; Republicans, 78; Progressives and Progressive Republicans, 16; independent, 1.

Against the bill the vote was: Democrats, 101; "insurgent" Democrats, 1; Republicans, 32; Progressives and Progressive Republicans, 2.

Presidents Taft and Cleveland vetoed similar measures and attempts to override them have failed.

Representative Halvor Steenerson of Crookston, Minn., who voted against the bill, voted "present".

Representative Andrew J. Volstead of Granite Falls, Minn., who was paired against the bill when it passed, voted to override the president's veto.

CANAL SERVICE MEDALS AWARDED

Seven Hundred Employes at Panama Canal Entitled to Them.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Panama, Jan. 20.—Canal service medals are to be awarded Panama canal employes in the course of the next few weeks. Orders have just been received from the war office that the list of those who are entitled to medals and service bars must be in Washington not later than Feb. 8.

It is estimated that this year 700 employes will be entitled to medals, while more than 1,000 service bars will be given to those who have received medals already. Up to December, 1913, more than 7,000 service medals had been given canal employes.

The medal is popularly known as the Panama canal service medal, but is also called the Roosevelt canal medal, as it was at President Roosevelt's suggestion, made in 1908, while on a visit to the isthmus, that the idea of a medal was adopted. The medal is given at the end of two years' service, after which a service bar is attached for every additional two years.

WILL ATTEND BANQUET.

Duluth-Harvard Alumni Will Be Present at Minneapolis Reunion.

It is understood that a number of the Duluth alumni of Harvard will attend the annual banquet of the Harvard club of Minnesota, which will be held a week from tomorrow evening at the Minneapolis Athletic club. So far, the only one who has announced it as his intention of attending is Frank Tenney, but he says a number of other alumni will undoubtedly be on hand.

Those who will be on the toast list will be the following: Prof. L. J. Henderson, representing the university faculty; Robert F. Herrick, who may explain pictures of the Henley races and the victory of the Harvard crew; Prof. H. Wigmore, dean of Northwestern University Law school, and president of the Chicago Harvard club; and Morton Barrows, Maj. John Bigelow and Joseph Breck of Minneapolis. Moving pictures of the Harvard-Yale game will also be shown and there will be a one-act play by Herbert Maynard, Jr., '08, and his troupe; also selection by the Harvard Minnesota Glee club and the Harvard quartet.

MOTOR CARS ARE NOW BEING USED IN PEKIN.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Pekin, Jan. 10.—The motor car has at last come to Pekin; taking the place with Chinese officials of the old Pekin cart. Only a few poorer Manchu families now ride in the cart, without which no government official of the late regime dared to be. Picturesqueness has gone, for the modern motor car does not permit the retinue of robed outriders on little long-maned Mongol ponies. Only the president's motor car is now escorted by mounted men, and they wear modern military uniforms. The escorts of other officials ride on the footboards of the motor cars. On the occasion of the recent visit of a prominent general to Pekin these escorts carried revolvers in their hands.

Has Fine Action in the Blood

Does Real Work in Cleaning Body of Impurities.

It is to the skin that blood impurities are driven by Nature. And it is in the skin that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, has its most pronounced influence. For it is here that you see the results. S. S. S. is none the less effective in the joints, glands and mucous surfaces in driving out rheumatism, overcoming boils and ridding the system of catarrh.

The purely vegetable ingredients in S. S. S. are naturally assimilated but they enter the blood as an active medicine and are not destroyed or converted while at work. It is this peculiar feature of S. S. S. that makes it so effective. It stirs into action all the forces of the body, arouses digestive secretions, stimulates the blood circulation to destroy disease breeding germs.

Upon entering the blood S. S. S. is carried throughout your body in about three minutes. And in a brief time it has any blood trouble so under control that it no longer can multiply. Gradually new flesh is formed in all broken-down tissues and the skin takes on the ruddy glow of health. Be sure and get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist, but avoid all substitutes.

Around the bottle is an illustrated circular that tells you how to obtain special free advice in quickly overcoming serious blood disorders. S. S. S. is prepared only by The Swift Specific Co., 59 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

NO TROUBLE IN VIENNA

English People Have Returned From Visit to Austrian Capital.

Has Begun to Feel Pressure of War Very Severely.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 25.—That it is not impossible for English people to make their way through Germany and Austria is shown by the return to London of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lantay after a business trip to Vienna. Mr. Lantay had important business interests in Austria, which, two months after the war began, demanded his presence in Vienna. He had made the trip so often in times of peace that he scoffed at his friends' warnings of the likelihood of imprisonment and possible death as a spy. He took his wife with him, and proceeded in his accustomed manner across Germany. They were not molested, and remained in Vienna nearly three months, making no particular effort to conceal themselves. Their return was made by another route, but was accomplished without accident. Mrs. Lantay thus described her adventure:

Did Not Report.

"Of course we did not report ourselves, but simply lived in Vienna. We would have got into trouble, no doubt, if the authorities had known the circumstances, but my husband, being of Austrian parentage, although a naturalized Englishman, was able to carry things through.

"It is really remarkable the kindliness with which English people are treated in Vienna. In the shops, I found it possible to do my trading in English, which almost all the attendants speak fluently. The feeling among the people whom I met seemed to be friendly toward the English, and an English lady who is teaching in the schools told me that she notices no diminution in the number of pupils studying the English language.

"Within the past two or three weeks the military authorities in Vienna have begun to tighten the restrictions surrounding aliens. At present, I believe, no alien enemy is allowed to go out after 8 o'clock in the evening; they are not allowed to enter theaters and coffee houses, and violations of the alien enemy resolutions are punishable with a fine of $400.

Feeling War's Pressure.

"Vienna has begun to feel the pressure of the war very severely. The city is one huge hospital, and in many sections the children cannot go to school because the buildings are required for hospital purposes. The university buildings and the parliament house are also being used for hospitals. In the streets one sees hardly anything but wounded soldiers and civilians in mourning.

"The price of everyday commodities are rising rapidly, and the supply is being so safeguarded that it is impossible to obtain any more than a supply for a day or two. The big loaf of bread which used to be sold for a cent or two has dwindled in size until it is barely three inches around, and the price is 4 cents. Meat is very expensive and petroleum is 6 cents for a half pint. Dress materials, which Vienna used to obtain mostly from London, are scarcely obtainable at any price.

Full of Smallpox.

"The town is full of smallpox, and long lines of people are seen waiting outside the public physicians' offices for vaccination. The scarcity of men laborers is being met by the use of women and cripples for such work as street cleaning and housebuilding. A short time ago there was a heavy fall of snow which blocked the streets; a large force of women was employed to pile it up and clear a path for wagons along the principal thoroughfares. There are many women earning good wages as carpenters.

"I think the Austrians are generally very loyal to Germany. They look upon the kaiser as the greatest leader of a century, and they are entirely confident that he will carry the war to a triumphant conclusion."

TEN-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT

Features of New Law Passed By the Chinese Conference.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Pekin, Jan. 10.—A ten-year term of office for the president of China, with eligibility to further terms, is the principal feature of the new election law passed by the Provisional Constitution conference. In a covering note published with the law the conference declares that China cannot be subjected to the dangers and alarms of frequent presidential elections.

Other features of the law are:

That the president shall be a male citizen of the republic, (therefore not necessarily a Chinese) at least 40 years of age; and that he shall have resided in China for a period of twenty years.

That at the time of the presidential election the president shall carefully and reverently nominate three persons from whom his successor must be chosen.

That the electoral college shall be composed of fifty members of each house, the Li Fa Yuan and the Tsan Cheng Yuan, the members being elected by ballot amongst themselves.

That the election shall take place in Pekin.

That the electoral college may vote for the re-election of the president as well as for the candidates he nominates.

That there shall be an attendance of three-fourths of the membership and a vote of two-thirds of those present in order to elect.

That "when the year of election arrives, should the members of the Tsan Cheng Yuan (the senate) consider it a political necessity the then president may be re-elected for another term by a two-thirds majority of the Tsan Cheng Yuan without a formal election."

The Pekin Daily News says: "Frankly, the law is not republican, as the term is understood abroad, but it is Chinese. And the Chinese who legislate for China may be trusted to know what is best for the country during its transition stage. Whatever may be its (the law's) defect it has to be conceded that it has been designed to meet the peculiar needs of China."

Mob Justified.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 5.—A coroner's jury last night returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case of Dr. A. N. Culberson, 55, killed here yesterday by a citizens' posse seeking him on charges of attacking a young married woman. Witnesses testified he had drawn a revolver and attempted to flee before he was shot.

M. & R. R. PLANNING IMPROVED SERVICE

Officials Deny Report of Removing Tracks in Itasca County.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis & Rainy River Railway company has no intention of abandoning its lines in Itasca county despite reports to the contrary, following the order of the court that it must continue to give service.

The officials of the company not only emphatically deny the tracks will be pulled up, but say that the company intends to improve its service and that during the present year a large amount of money will be spent toward this end.

Some track will be removed, but none of it is a part of the M. & R. R. system. It is some that has been used by the Itasca Lumber company for logging purposes and had been leased by that company. In all, less than twenty miles of track will be removed, all of which is branch lines that have been used exclusively for logging purposes. This track was constructed solely for that purpose and now that the logging industry is practically a thing of the past, the only logical thing to do is to remove the tracks.

Branches to Be Taken Up.

The branch lines that will be taken up are the Fox Lake branch, four miles long; the Round Lake branch, five miles in length; the Clear Lake branch, six miles; the Dora Lake branch, five miles long. Along the Round Lake and Clear Lake branches there are no settlers whatever and the few settlers living along the other branches will experience no inconvenience because of the tracks being removed.

The service of the M. & R. R. will be improved as fast as conditions warrant, and already considerable has been done along that line. On Jan. 4 the company started carrying mail to the stations along its line. Two of the latest designed passenger coaches have recently been put on and more will be added as soon as time will permit. It is the intention of the company to put on an all-passenger train in the near future instead of the mixed freight and passenger train that is used at the present time.

DAIRY MEETING IS HELD AT COHASSET

Superintendent Bergh and Others Give Farmers Some Advice.

Cohasset, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 100 persons, nearly all farmers, attended the meeting of the Farmers' club Tuesday evening in the local school, when the subject of successful dairying was discussed from all angles. The superintendent of the state experiment station at Grand Rapids, Otto I. Bergh, gave an excellent talk on the requirements for successful dairying and what a cow can produce when given the proper care and attention.

Supt. E. A. Freeman spoke on co-operation and L. A. Rossman of Grand Rapids followed Mr. Rossman, citing numerous instances of the success of co-operative institutions throughout the state.

W. J. Corwin spoke in a general way of the good that is being accomplished by the various farmers' clubs in Itasca county. Fred Hursh gave those present the benefit of his experience in the dairy business and much valuable information was gained from his talk.

Following the business session several musical selections were rendered by Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Stokes, Mrs. Stokes playing the piano and Mr. Stokes the violin. The ladies then served refreshments.

GATELY DENIES CHARGE.

Virginia Police Head Takes Issue With Alderman Murray.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Owen Gately takes issue with Alderman Murray's statement in Thursday's Herald that blind-pigs are flourishing here, especially on the North side. He declares conditions here were never better, so far as liquor law observance is concerned.

"Blind-pig conditions on the North side, in fact, general liquor conditions there and elsewhere in the city of Virginia, are better today than they have been for fifteen years," declared Gately. "No one knows that better than Alderman Murray, and it is only a few weeks ago that he said to me that conditions had improved 150 per cent in the last year.

"As to the statement that it is possible for almost any one to go into these places at any hour of the day or night and purchase liquor in any quantity, no complaints have come to me to that effect.

"If Alderman Murray knows any place where this condition exists, he has only to report it to me and the place will be closed and the people prosecuted in 'jig' time."

CHISHOLM PUPILS TO MOVIE THEATER.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pupils and teachers of the two eighth grades and four of the lower grades went to the Rex theater after school hours Wednesday afternoon to see the first of a series of educational picture programs being given under the auspices of the school. The service has been obtained through the extension division of the University of Wisconsin and a similar program will be given each week.

SALARY CHANGES ARE MADE BY COMMISSION.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 5.—The police and fire commission has made several changes in the salaries of the members of the police and fire departments. The drivers of the patrol in the police department were granted advances of $5 a month. Minor changes were made in the fire department salaries with the idea of equalizing them. W. T. McLean made application for a position in the police department. A gong was authorized installed at the home of Assistant Fire Chief Sy. The Mesaba Telephone company was asked to quote rates on telephones to be installed at the homes of all members of the police department. Chairman Poirier announced the appointment of Commissioners Coffey and Hanson to the applications committee. The finance committee is composed of all three members of the commission, with Commissioner Hanson as chairman.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

CHISHOLM MAN IS AWARDED VERDICT

Given Judgment Against Sheriff Meining and Merchants Warehouse.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—After five hours deliberation a district court jury at 11 o'clock last night returned a verdict of $400 in favor of H. J. Helmer, Chisholm, who sued Sheriff John Meining and the Merchants Warehouse company of this village for $1,000 for a team or horses, set of harness and a wagon, taken by the sheriff, on a writ of attachment Feb. 23, 1914, as a settlement of an account. Fifty dollars punitive damages were also allowed Helmer at the time the attachment of the team was indebted to the warehouse company according to accepted testimony. A settlement of all claims was made a month later between the plaintiff and the company. The defendants alleged that the team of horses was brought into the consideration while the plaintiff denies this allegation.

May Settle Suit.

The slander suit, Peppena Rodorige vs. John Botta, is next on the jury calendar but it may not be tried as an effort is being made through an interpreter to settle the case out of court.

No additional indictments had been made public up to noon today.

SIX BUYCK MEN HALED INTO DISTRICT COURT

Indicted By Hibbing Grand Jury on Blind Pigging Charges.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Testimony alleged to have been submitted to the late grand jury by public spirited citizens of Buyck, caused the indictment of six men residing at that place all charged both with keeping unlicensed drinking places and selling intoxicating liquors without licenses.

Arraigned in court yesterday afternoon all pleaded not guilty. They were turned over to the custody of the deputy sheriffs until they have perfected negotiations for bonds which were fixed at $300 in each case.

Those Indicted.

Joseph Brokaskey is charged in one indictment with operating an unlicensed drinking place from Dec. 1, 1914, to Feb. 1, this year. Two other indictments charge him with selling liquor without licenses. The identical charges are placed against James Mikus, Benjamen Christianson, John King, John Johnson, Camille De Colgney and Axel Westman.

The coup is credited to Deputy Sheriffs Peter Ring, Ed Lockhart and Arthur O'Day, who have been investigating reports of liquor law violations in the Buyck country.

TROUT FRY COMING.

Large Number to Be Placed in Stream Near Nashwauk.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Postmaster Oscar Johnston, one of Nashwauk's most ardent fishermen, has just received word from the state game and fish commission that his application for 1,000,000 brook trout fry has been received and that the fry will be sent early in the spring. The fry will be dumped into O'Brien brook, one of the new natural brook trout streams on the range. This stream has afforded fishermen much pleasure and trout measuring fifteen inches have been caught. Trout have been planted every year and the results of stocking this stream and Swan lake have been most satisfactory to the fishermen here and also the commission, which has contributed yearly.

NASHWAUK CASE UNDECIDED.

It Involved Breaking Show Case Window and Attracted Attention.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of Herman Sierna vs. John A. Koski and Gust Nylen was tried before Justice Johnston and a jury Wednesday afternoon before the largest crowd that ever attended a court case in the village. The arguments of the attorneys were concluded at 5:30 p. m. and a jury, after staying out for five hours, disagreed, resulting in a tie. Sierna contended that the defendants broke through a showcase in his jewelry store and damaged goods amounting to $40. The case will be tried at a later date.

TOWER FIRE HALTED BEFORE DOING DAMAGE

Tower, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire was discovered in the rooms over Hjalmer Hakkala's saloon early yesterday morning, but was under control before it had gained much headway. The firemen responded to the alarm quickly and soon had streams of water from the electric light plant and fire engine playing on the building. It is thought that the fire started from a defective chimney. The building was damaged very little.

SAND LAKE ROAD WORK IS STARTED.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 5.—The city has started ten men at work clearing the right-of-way for the new Sand Lake road. Three teams went on the job this morning and the work of filling will begin at once. The highway was authorized constructed at the last meeting of the city council.

Buhl Olde Tyme Ball.

Buhl, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything is in readiness for Ye Olde Tyme masquerade ball to begiven tonight in the village hall. The music, the program and every feature have been carefully selected to conform with the occasion.

Special music will be furnished by Chauncey Mills, who has received old selections.

DULUTH JOBBERS' AID IS SOLICITED

Virginia Commercial Club Asks Their County Division Support.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club last night took steps to urge the Duluth jobbers and wholesalers doing business on the Mesaba range not to oppose county division claiming that the creation of a new county up this way would stimulate business in this section and redound to the credit of the Duluth concerns in the long run. Resolutions to that effect will be sent to the Duluth concerns.

A committee was appointed to wait on County Commissioner Pentilla of Eveleth and urge him to seek to defer action on the proposition of building a new county jail at Duluth until the question of county division was decided. R. L. Griggs, T. C. Butler and Tom Moodie were named on a committee to formulate the club's stand on the question of the effort being made to repeal the Elwell road law. The question of sending delegates to other range club meetings to work up a sentiment favorable to county division was also considered.

FARMERS TO AID THE INSTRUCTORS

Grand Rapids School District to Give Practical Ideas to Pupils.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—An important addition to the agricultural department of the schools of district No. 1 is the appointment of an advisory committee, whose duties will be to meet with the heads of the department and offer suggestions for increasing the efficiency of that branch of school work.

This committee is composed of seven progressive farmers of the district, representing as many different communities as follows:

Nell McInnes, Blackberry, chairman; A. M. Sisler, La Prairie; W. M. West, Harris township; Frank Gran, Warba; Otto Gildemeister, Grand Rapids; J. E. R. Neeck, Cohasset; William Welte, Bigfork. W. J. Corwin is agricultural agent and supervisor of the department and Sherman Dickinson is assistant and instructor.

NASHWAUK ORDERS SCREECHING WHISTLE

Will Be Heard Four Miles and Warn People of Village Fires.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light commission ordered a new typhoon screecher whistle to be used as a fire signal. The whistle will cost between $300 and $400 and is blown by electricity at the new pumping station. A number of signal boxes will also be set up on various corners as soon as the new outfit arrives.

Nashwauk will have as good a fire equipment as any volunteer fire department. The only fire signal device in use now is the old fire bell stationed in a tower in the rear of the village hall, which was installed in the early days. The steam whistle system has been abandoned because of the commission not using the old power plant. New electrically-driven pumps at the pumping station have done away with all steam-driven machinery. The new whistle will be heard four miles very plainly.

CHISHOLM BOWLING LEAGUE'S STANDING.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following is the standing of the teams in the local bowling league to date:

Giants	20	34	.370

HIBBING READERS PATRONIZE LIBRARY.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eight thousand and eighteen books were loaned at the library during the month of January, the largest circulation for any one month in the history of the local institution. Four thousand one hundred and eighty-nine of these were loaned to adults while 3,829 were loaned to children.

People are beginning to prefer more substantial reading matter if the reports of Miss Stella Wiley, librarian, can be taken as a criterion. Sixty-seven per cent of the books loaned were non-fiction. The following number of foreign books were loaned: Two hundred and twenty-five Finnish, 120 Swedish, 105 Italian, 57 Croation, 36 Norwegian, 5 French, 3 German and 2 Slavonian. Each victrola concert given Sunday afternoons has been attended by more than 100 persons. Four hundred and thirty children attended the story hours at the library during the month.

More than 100 new books were placed in circulation at the library this week. New books on the war and some of the newest and best fiction are included in the list.

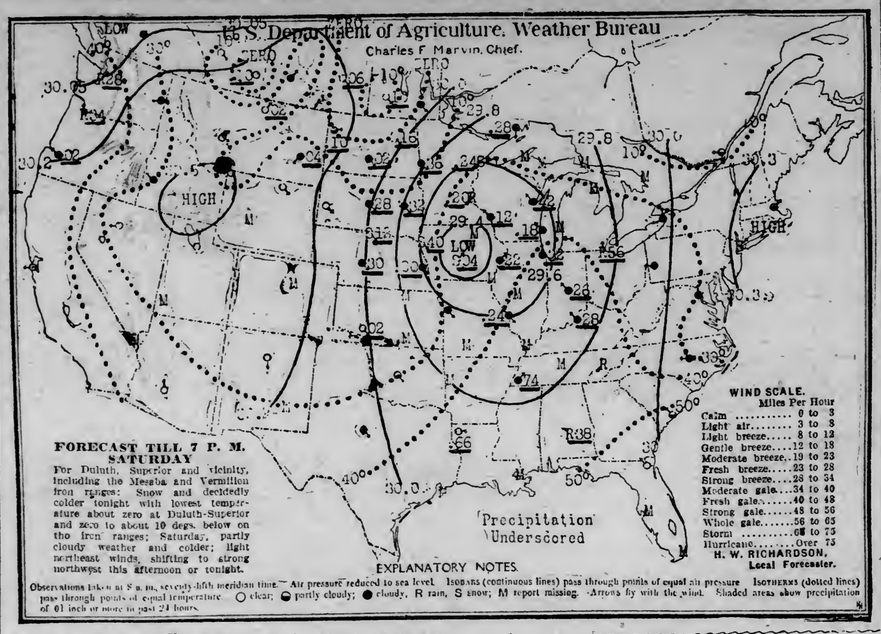

How to Destroy Catarrh Germs and End Catarrh Forever

A Specialist's Advice.

Catarrh is a germ disease and the only way to cure it so it will stay cured and never come back is to kill and drive out of your system the catarrhal germs which have found lodgement there. When the germs go the catarrh will stop. The trouble with most treatments, like sprays, salves, creams, greasy balms, lotions, etc., is that they give only temporary relief by opening up for a while the clogged head, throat and nostrils. In a little time the Catarrh comes back as bad as ever.

People who suffer continually from catarrh should drop such temporary makeshifts and get something that really gets at the root of the disease and stamps it out. There is nothing better for such cases than breathing into your nose and lungs the pleasant, soothing, healing, germ-destroying air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) made from purest oil of Eucalyptus and combined with other powerful healing, antiseptic and germ-destroying ingredients. Hyomei penetrates and heals the inflamed swollen membranes of your nose and throat, stops discharges, clears the passages and completely overcomes the disease by destroying its cause. For catarrh germs cannot live in your body after Hyomei reaches them. Boyce Drug store and many other good druggists in Duluth and vicinity have long sold Hyomei on a positive guarantee of successful results or money back and find this generous policy pays. Most druggists are now giving a pocket inhaler made from hard rubber with every complete treatment sold. This makes a very simple, easy and convenient as well as a thoroughly reliable means of treating by the best known method this dangerous and often disgusting disease.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER.

The snow came and is still coming for that matter. The weather man says that there will be colder weather, but at the time of writing the temperature is behaving very well for which there is silent but nevertheless sincere appause. It might be far worse. One would like to get a glimpse of the sun, however.

A year ago today was cold. The sun rose this morning at 7:28 and will set this evening at 5:17, giving nine hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much colder weather prevails from Southeastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba southward to Oklahoma, Northern Texas and New Mexico. Zero temperatures occurred this morning in Manitoba, Southeastern Saskatchwan and Northern North Dakota. Snow or rain fell during Thursday or last night over the Lake region and most of the Central and Northwestern states."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday.

TOWER AND ELY FIVES WILL PLAY.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Vermilion Opera house the Ely high school basket-ball team and the Tower high school team will meet in what promises to be a close and exciting game. Both teams have been defeated by Aurora this year and from the scores it is claimed that Tower has the stronger team having lost to Aurora by a score of 22 to 15, while Ely lost by a score of 49 to 11.

There will be a dance after the game and a large number of rooters are expected from Ely. The high school orchestra will furnish the music.

BRICK PLANT BUSY AT PENGILLY, MINN.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The brick plant at Pengilly is working twenty men and expects within a few weeks to double the force by working both day and night shifts. The plant is turning out brick at the rate of 40,000 per day and the demand for this quality of brick is good and with the opening of spring it is thought that the plant will be kept busy to fill incoming orders.

TWENTY-FIVE-MILE WALK IS RELISHED.

Keewatin, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Dad" Harrison, who is living on a homestead in the Crocket lake country, was in town Wednesday on his way to Stevenson to visit his son, G. A. Harrison. "Dad," in spite of his age, walked the entire distance, something over twenty-five miles, and stated that he enjoyed the hike.

THREE ACCUSED OF ATTACKING OFFICER.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Verl Vershek, Louis Bregger and John Alich are the names given by three men in custody on the charge of attacking Eli Doncolovich a few nights ago as he was on duty, cutting the officer in the arm and making threats with a pistol. The officer arrested all three, the wound not being discovered until he brought them to the police station. The injury is not serious.

Mesaba Bachelors Entertain.

Mesaba, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba Bachelor club, consisting of A. A. Hanson, Charles F. Gundry, Walter Nollmark, and C. A. Windle, entertained Misses Crosby, Shea, Freidheim, Muller, McDonald and Fred Hodgson. A delightful dinner was served. Mrs. Heath of Mesaba chaperoned the party.

Buhl to Play Nashwauk.

Buhl, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school basket ball players tonight will play with the fast Nashwauk five at that place.

The Buhl lineup tonight: forwards, Art Pietilla, Wilfred Grant; center, Ralph Hurd; guards, Carl Hendrickson, James Murphy; substitutes, Gordon Jewell.

Buhl Beats Mountain Iron.

Buhl, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—In their initial game of the season the Buhl village basket ball quint easily won from the Mountain Iron city team here in a fast game, 49 to 11.

RECALL PETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED

Virginia Meeting Starts Move After Scalps of Four Aldermen.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the unemployed and others held in the Finnish Socialist opera house last night was fairly well attended. John Pietala, who has been agitating the recall of Aldermen Harvey, McGhee, Coeffey and Matteson, for alleged unfairness to unemployed in the way of providing them with work, called the meeting to order, delivered a speech, and several others spoke. It was decided to start petitions for the recall of the four aldermen and a few signers were secured last night. The petitions were circulated today, but friends of the four aldermen predict they will not secure enough signers to bring about the recall election.

"I consider this matter something of a joke," declared a friend of the four aldermen, "and I predict the recall will never get as far as an election."

The city council will meet Sunday in committee of the whole to further consider plans for carrying on sewer work in Chestnut street alleys this winter and many predict the action will be favorable, which will put a quietus on the recall proceedings.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT OPENS PARLIAMENT

Governor General Says Over 30,000 Canadian Troops Are in England.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 5.—The parliament of Canada was opened yesterday afternoon by the governor general, the duke of Connaught. The speech from the throne, declared that since the outbreak of war, more than 30,000 Canadians have been dispatched across the Atlantic and are completing training, and "it is anticipated that the force will very shortly take its place in the field of action."

The government has given notice of its intention to ask parliament for a war vote of $100,000,000, to be raised by loan and applied upon naval and military operations and for insurance or indemnity against war risk if necessary.

The house adjourned until Monday.

TURKS HAD 12,000 TROOPS IN BATTLE

Make Definite Attack on Suez Canal But Are Driven Off.

Cairo, via London, Feb. 5.—Reports that 12,000 Turkish troops were engaged in yesterday's fighting are confirmed in an official statement issued here today. The troop ship Hardine was struck by two Turkish shells which wounded ten making the total British casualties for the day 15 killed and 92 wounded.

Turks Attack Canal.

London, Feb. 4.—The Turks at last have made a definite attack on the Suez canal, but after a sharp fight they were driven off with heavy losses. After a fruitless attempt made on Tuesday night to bridge the canal near Toussoum, they returned to the attack early yesterday morning with a force estimated at 12,000 and six batteries of artillery and essayed to get across the waterway on rafts. The British force, however, forced them back, taking about 800 prisoners. A considerable number of the Turks were killed and wounded. The British lost fifteen killed and fifty-eight wounded.

BRITAIN IS BUILDING ZEPPELIN DESTROYERS

New York, Feb. 5.—Five Zeppelin destroyers, airships constructed along new lines, are under construction near London for protection against threatened air raids along the British coast, according to Thomas MacMechen, president of the Aeronautical Society of America, who arrived here last night from Liverpool.

Mr. MacMechen said the destroyers would be faster than Zeppelins, smaller, easier to navigate, and would fire aerial torpedoes.

BERLIN DENIES THAT DESTROYER WAS SUNK

Berlin, Feb. 5, via Amsterdam and London.—Official denial was made here today of the announcement from Petrograd on Feb. 3 that a Russian submarine had sunk a German destroyer in the Baltic sea off Cape Moen, Denmark, on Jan. 29.

Mr. Wickersham and state grand officers will be tendered a reception and banquet at the Spalding on their arrival, by the committee consisting of Ernest E. Burns, Bentley P. Neff and George R. Reed.

A large class of initiates will have the degree conferred upon them.

RHEUMATISM A MYSTERY

Some diseases give immunity from another attack, but rheumatism works just the other way.

Every attack of rheumatism invites another. Worse than that, it reduces the body's power so that each attack is worse than the one before.

If any disease needs curing early it is rheumatism but there is almost no disease which physicians find more difficult to treat successfully. When a medicine does help rheumatism nobody knows how or why it does it.

All authorities agree that the blood becomes thin with alarming rapidity as rheumatism develops. Maintaining the quality of the blood therefore is a reasonable way of preventing and combating rheumatism. That it works out in fact is shown by the beneficial results in the treatment of rheumatism, acute, muscular and articular, with the blood tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

That hundreds who take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their rheumatism get well is a fact beyond dispute. That the rheumatism does not return as long as the blood is kept rich and red is equally true.

Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free pamphlet "Building Up the Blood" and kindly mention this paper. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

CARIBOU SEEN NEAR LAKE OF THE WOODS.

Baudette, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large herd of caribou have been seen at the Lake of the Woods this winter. As a rule they do not come that far south. There are large herds of deer and moose in the same vicinity.

WILL ENTERTAIN CLASS.

"Y" Students Will Be Welcomed at Association Building.

Members of the night school at the C. J. Johnson hall will be entertained at the Central Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening. They will attend the basket ball games early in the evening, and later will enjoy a social hour. A guide will show the visitors about the building, after which refreshments will be served.

The night school consists of about twenty-five foreigners who are taking courses in English and other subjects, E. R. Donalds, principal of the Fairmont school, is in charge. Most of the students are young men from 18 to 22 years of age.

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

EVERY HELP TO INDIANS

Will Be Offered By Indian Officials and Others at Washington.

Returning Chippewa Delegates Hopeful Redskins Will Get Their Rights.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward L. Rogers of Walker, one of the legislative committee chosen by the Minnesota Chippewa Indians at the last annual general conference at Bemidji, last summer, has returned from Washington and is very sanguine the Indians will get much that they seek. The balance of the committee, consisting of Henry Warren of Bena, Nate Head of Red Lake, B. L. Fairbanks and William Potter of White Earth will remain at the national capital until the Indian appropriation bill goes out of the senate committee.

Mr. Rogers says that the committee called upon the commissioner of Indian affairs, the secretary of interior, the senators and congressmen representing districts where Indians are located and also the committee upon Indian affairs, which was then in session. The Indians were most favorably received by all these men and the committee.

The one thing that impressed the Indians most was the desire and willingness upon the part of the officials and congress to give to the Indian his just dues. Congress will adjourn March 4 and it is not possible to get any new legislation through unless it be in the shape of a rider upon the Indian appropriation bill.

Want Accrued Interest.

The one big thing which the Indians will take up while there will be the matter of accrued interest due them. There seems to be a difference of opinion in the interpretation of the act of 1889 with reference to reimbursements out of the accrued interest. The department has held that the government be reimbursed for interest advanced to Indians out of this accrued interest while the Indians hold that the government should be reimbursed not out of the accrued interest, but out of the principal and that the interest should have been paid annually. This is of vital importance to the Indians this year. For with wages of labor in the woods less than half what it was last year and the impossibility of getting work even at these wages the Indians are in poor and in some cases destitute condition. The payment of this accrued interest at this time would be a God-send to them; it would tide them over the winter and not only that, but it would also help the communities within which the Indians live.

Under the interpretation of the act of 1889 as held by the Indians there should be paid to them some $966,224, which would amount to about $90 per capita.

Like Cato Sells.

Mr. Rogers says Cato Sells, Indian commissioner, is striving in every way to help the Redmen. "He is always on the job to make them better citizens, to give them what is their due, and will do all in his power to better their conditions," Mr. Rogers said. "The Indians have in him all the confidence in the world, and they feel satisfied that he will do the right thing. The Indians realize that he had done a good thing by keeping liquor away from them and they hope that he will agree with them in the interpretation of the 1889 act with reference to the accrued interest, and still further relieve their existing conditions.

"The Indian, in his simple nature, attributes the conditions as existing today to the change of administration, and he is not alone in this belief. If this interest can be paid, and there is no doubt but what it could and should be paid, this sentiment would change. Cato Sells is the big man in Washington today and the payment of this interest would not only enhance his popularity but would also do his party a great benefit."

GETS $10,200 FROM COMPANY FOR INJURY.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Jacob Herman is reported to have settled with the Northern Pacific Railway company through a claim agent for $10,200 to cover her claim for injuries received when she was run over by an engine here at the Thirteenth street railway crossing. She lost two legs and one arm. Two artificial limbs will also be supplied her by the company.

MUCH SMALLPOX IN MINNESOTA

State Board of Health Urges Compulsory Vaccination Law.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Smallpox is now very prevalent in Minnesota, according to the morbidity report for December just issued by the state board of health, and the board urges the necessity of vaccination. It cites that compulsory vaccination is forbidden by the present Minnesota statutes and asks the state efficiency and economy commission to take cognizance of this fact with a view to recommending a change.

With the report for December is given also the morbidity report for the full year, 1914. It states there were 1,828 cases of smallpox in the year, and 193 in December. Scarlet fever heads the list in number of cases reported in the year, the total being 6,074, diphtheria is second with 4,485 cases, tuberculosis third with 3,320, measles fourth with 2,512 and typhoid fever fifth with 1,633.

"No means other than compulsory vaccination can extend protection against smallpox," the report states, "to those who are too ignorant to recognize the value of vaccination and to those who, being feeble-minded, mentally unbalanced or merely misguided but intelligent persons, deny its value and refuse to protect themselves and their children."

SPOONER, WIS., MAN IS ST. PAUL GAS VICTIM.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—C. C. Larson, a lumber dealer of Spooner, Wis., was found dead in bed with the gas flowing from an open jet, at a rooming house here yesterday.

The body was discovered by Nick Dorando, clerk. Police Surgeon Schnacke said that Larson had been dead for more than three hours.

Whether Larson committed suicide or was accidentally asphyxiated probably will remain undecided.

Larson was president of the C. C. Larson Lumber company of Spooner, and, according to word received from there, he had been in the lumber trade for eight or ten years.

He was unmarried. A brother, J. J. Larson, whom he was planning to visit, lives in Beldenville. He is the only known relative.

AGED RECLUSE IS VICTIM OF COLD.

Iron River, Mich., Feb. 5.—Richard Ellis, 85 years old, a recluse who lived in a shack on the shore of Chicagoan lake, died from exposure a few days ago. He was found sitting on a stump in an open field by George Marquard, who lives in that neighborhood. Marquard's attention was attracted by the old man's cries for help. He ran to Ellis and attempted to assist him to walk to his cabin a quarter of a mile distant, but the shivering form crumpled and fell in the snow, dying soon after.

Maj. Hale Left $75,000.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 5.—William D. Hale, former postmaster, who died Jan. 15 on board ship bound for Honolulu, left an estate valued at $75,000, according to his will filed for probate.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING PLANNED

Boeck and Miss Anna Leonard, Aitkin; "Adult Bible Class," Rev. J. A. Forsberg, Fleming Lake, D. H. Wilcox, Aitkin, W. D. Dowd, Kimberly; "Teachers Training," Mrs. Hopkins, Rossburg, Mrs. O. Jevne, Ude; "Home and Missions," Rev. J. J. Wittrup, Mrs. E. J. Douglas, Tamarack, Mrs. Hill, Rossburg; "Finances," C. M. Turner, Kimberly, J. M. Tucer, Aitkin.

GROW SUGAR BEETS IN COPPER COUNTRY

Success Achieved at Chassell Last Year Prompts Larger Efforts.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 5.—Paul Muehrche, colonization agent for the Worcester Lumber company at Chassell, is notified that the Menominee River Sugar company will send a representative to Houghton county early this month to contract for sugar beet crops. This virtually will be the first direct step toward placing the Copper country on the map as a producer of sugar beets. The Worcester company, through its colonization agent, prevailed upon Chassell farmers last fall to grow sugar beets. Approximately fifty acres will be devoted to this product this year, and at an average yield of eighteen to twenty tons to the acre the output will be in the neighborhood of 1,000 tons.

Price $5.25 Per Ton.

The price already determined upon is $5.25, net, and under favorable weather conditions the farmer's income will be from $90 to $100 per acre. Mr. Muehrche has arranged for the arrival of at least thirty settlers in Chassell township in the spring. A majority of them are men who have spent their lives on farms in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Pennsylvania and the Worcester concern looks forward to their coming as a valuable acquisition to the farm population of the district. Four sections, 14, 15, 35 and 25, in Chassell township, have been purchased by the thirty men, who will arrive within the next sixty days.

SOO LINE SECURES FAVORABLE RULING.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 5.—City Attorney Dillon received notice that the state railroad commission has decided in its appeal to compel the Soo railway to maintain the trestle from Ellis avenue to the company's dock. Hearings were held May 20 and June 9.

In a lengthy opinion the commissioners, David Harlowe and John H. Roemmer, held that neither in the statutory provisions applicable to such cases nor in the general power of supervision and control vested in the commission by the law is there any authority by which the commission can order the railway company to leave the dock property open to the public use.

OTTERTAIL GETS LID.

Certain Saloons in That County Ordered Closed By Government.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 5.—The United States Indian officers have ordered the saloons at Vergas, Ottertail county, to close their doors by Feb. 10. This is the first time that the "lid" has been extended into Ottertail county. The saloons at Sebeka, across the Wadena line, were ordered to close today. There seems to be no further doubt but that the government intends to close up the saloons throughout the entire Indian treaty territory, which means that there will be only one or two "wet" villages—possibly only one—left in this county.

HOMESTEADS POPULAR AROUND CASS LAKE.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 5.—The 8,000 acres opened to homestead settlement north of and tributary to Cass Lake have been settled upon except three tracts, one of 160 acres and two of 120 acres each. There is no definite report here as to just how much of the lands tributary to Boy river and Deer river have been taken. The taking up of this land means an addition to the trade of Cass Lake of about 100 families.

GIRL IS ACCUSED OF KILLING INFANT.

Plainview, Minn., Feb. 5.—Madeline Wiermerskirch, 18 years old, has been bound over to the grand jury at Wabasha on a charge of causing the death of her babe by strangulation. Her mother died several years ago. A coroner's jury investigated the case and a post mortem examination was held.

TWO MEN PERISHED

When Building Being Built at Fargo Collapsed.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 5.—Two bodies have been recovered from the debris of the Ford Automobile company's branch plant, which collapsed from the weight of newly poured concrete. The accident occurring at the noon hour, probably saved many workmen from death.

The dead are John Nall and Nels Nelson, laborers. John E. Erickson, carpenter foreman, who was injured, will recover.

BAR LIQUOR DELIVERIES.

Express Companies Must Not Deliver in Turtle Mountain Country.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Lieut. N. A. Way, special officer in the Indian service, has returned from the vicinity of the Turtle mountains, where he served notice on the express agents to make no more deliveries of liquor to persons of Indian blood, regardless of whether they were wards of the government or not. Supt. Ziebach of Fort Totten is very much pleased with the closing of the reservation towns to the shipments of liquor by Officer Way, and says that it has reduced the liquor traffic among Indians at least 90 per cent.

Body of Aviator Found.

London, Feb. 5.—Fishermen have found in the Thames estuary the body of a German aviator with a shrapnel bullet in the lungs. It is supposed he dropped from an aeroplane which was driven off by British gun fire on Christmas day.

MILL CITY PARK OFFICIAL PASSES.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 5.—Jesse E. Northrup, for many years identified with the development of the Minneapolis park system and the advance of agriculture in Minnesota and the Northwest in general, died Feb. 4 at his home here. He was 57 years old. He was stricken with apoplexy two years ago and had never fully recovered.

SAWYER COUNTY DIVISION MEETING.

Couderay, Wis., Feb. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting just held at Winter by a number of taxpayers in the southern part of Sawyer county to discuss dividing the county, it was decided to call a mass meeting in each town in the new proposed county and let all the settlers present their views. The mass meetings will be held next Wednesday, Feb. 10.

Banker Chapman to Speak.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 5.—Joseph Chapman, vice president of the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis and one of the most prominent bankers of Minnesota will address the bankers of the Upper Peninsula at their district organization meeting, to be held in this city Feb. 18. His subject will be "Group Organization."

Bemidji—Fred Rhoda, clerk of court, and Miss Lucy La Fontisee, deputy, have completed compiling the court calendar for the February term which convenes here next Tuesday morning, Judge B. F. Wright of Park Rapids, presiding. Thirteen of these cases are personal property tax actions.

International Falls — Constable George Seamans of Mizpah brought two men here sentenced to serve twenty days in the county jail for failing to go to work in a camp after they had had their fares advanced.

Crookston—The suit which was started in the district court at the instance of Mr. Strehlow, who petitioned the court for the appointment of a receiver for the Palace hotel and an order dissolving the partnership of Strehlow & Hanson, the proprietors, was amicably settled between the partners, and the court action has been withdrawn.

Mankato—Gustav Johnson, a former resident of this city, died at his home in Minneapolis, aged 76 years, of tuberculosis from which he had suffered for some time. The remains were brought to this city and buried.

Winona—The Winona city council has approved plans for a new approach to the high wagon bridge here to be built at an estimated cost of close to $100,000, and has fixed March 1 as the time for opening bids for the work. The plans have been approved by the war department and also by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, which owns Latsch island, across which the approach will be constructed in part.

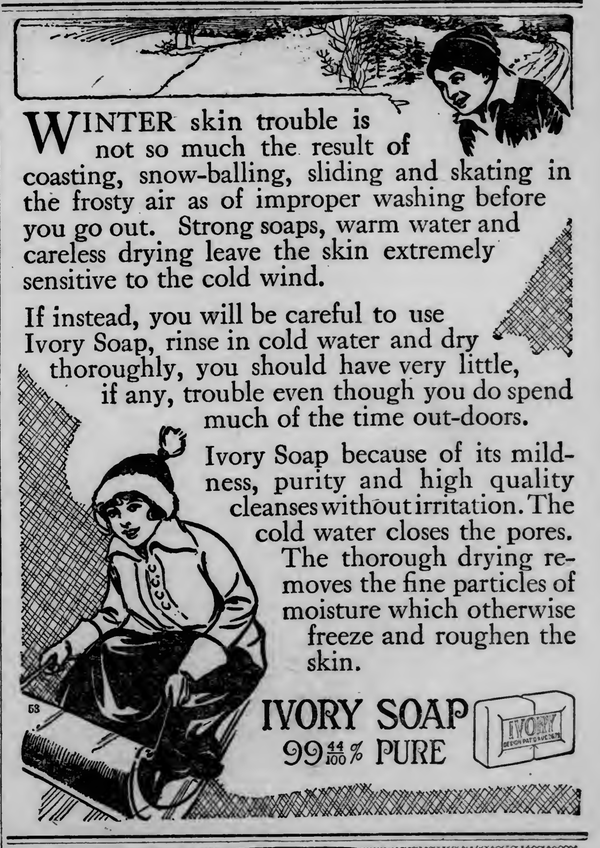

Ada—Congressman Steenerson has notified Mary Oakes Weatherhead, widow of the late Lewis Weatherhead, that she has been granted a pension of $12 per month by the government.

Stillwater—The body of Cornelius Buckley, 61 years old, who died Jan. 30, at the hunting cabin of William Powers of Duluth, was brought to this city and the funeral was held at St. Michael's church Thursday, Feb. 4, at 9 a. m., and the interment made in the parish cemetery at South Stillwater.

Moorhead—The petition nominating John C. Vincent as a candidate for mayor has been filed with City Clerk R. G. Pyce. Mr. Vincent says he has decided to make the run. Other nominations filed today are those of Peter Czizek, candidate for constable, and J. S. Erickson candidate for alderman from the Fourth ward.

Stillwater—John Whiteside died Feb. 3, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Lyman. Mr. Whiteside was born in Belfast, Ireland, March 7, 1829; came here in 1855. Surviving are the daughters, Mrs. Arthur Lyman of the town of Stillwater, and Mrs. Gustef Halmrast of this city, and a granddaughter, Mrs. N. J. Russell of this city.

Winona—Congressman Sydney Anderson, from the First Minnesota district, says in a letter to H. W. Libby, secretary of the Trades and Labor council of Winona, that he will vote to pass the immigration bill over the president's veto, which action he was requested by wire last week to take in a message sent to him by the labor body.

WINTER skin trouble is not so much the result of coasting, snow-balling, sliding and skating in the frosty air as of improper washing before you go out. Strong soaps, warm water and careless drying leave the skin extremely sensitive to the cold wind.

If instead, you will be careful to use Ivory Soap, rinse in cold water and dry thoroughly, you should have very little, if any, trouble even though you do spend much of the time out-doors.

Ivory Soap because of its mildness, purity and high quality cleanses without irritation. The cold water closes the pores. The thorough drying removes the fine particles of moisture which otherwise freeze and roughen the skin.

Flaxseed Easier on Realizing Sales and Light Inquiry From Crushers

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 5.—The market was strong at the close, with fresh burst of buying. May wheat closed 1c up and July ¾c up. May durum closed ½c up and July ½c up.

Oats closed ⅜c off at 57¼c for on the track; rye, 1c up at $1.28; barley, 3c off at from 75@86c, and corn, 1c off at 73¼c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ⅜c up at 68c, and July ½c up at 68⅞c.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.47⅞, and calls at $1.58¼.

Trading in wheat was a nervous proposition on all the American markets today. A good bulge materialized around the opening on reported working of good export business at the seaboard. Millers were also said to be urgently in the market. After some hesitancy at the start, the local market moved up after delayed wires from Chicago showed advances of over 2c, with $1.67 reported as the top in the May future. Chicago broke later on rumored reselling by exporters. With a spread of 10c between the Duluth and Chicago boards, traders here took advantage of the opportunity to put through some sales at Chicago. That promptly led to an easier position down there, and a narrowing up of the spread. Duluth operators comment on the fact that on the present differences between the markets, they are receiving inquiries from Illinois millers and are able to do some business. The new freight rail rate between Duluth and Chicago figures out at 6½c a bu, so that, at the range of prices at which the market has stood during the last few days, local operators have been in the running in Chicago territory.

As a result of the tie-up in the wire service with the East, grain operators were pretty much in the dark as to what is going on down there in the way of foreign demand. A leading Duluth grain house had advices, however, to the effect that a substantial trade is being worked right along, clearances were heavy, amounting to 1,319,000 bu of wheat and flour, with a substantial tonnage also of corn and oats.

May wheat opened ½c up at $1.56, and it stood at that figure at the noon hour after having sold 1c higher. The July future at that time was quoted ½c up at $1.52½.

An exporting house was steadily in the market for durum, picking up everything offering. May durum opened unchanged at $1.60½, and gained ¾c. July sold up 1c to $1.58½.

Flaxseed Again Easy.

Flaxseed eased off today on light trading with apparent apathy on the part of crushers for the time being. Sales of small lots were put through at recessions.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.60½ and closed ¾c off at $1.89½. The July future closed 1¼c off at $1.89¼.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed unchanged at $1.68¼ bid, and July ¾c up at $1.69⅝ bid.

A New York wire received near the close said: "It is intimated on good authority that there are offers of reselling of wheat for foreign account, and also for the re-letting of ocean freight room. It is intimated that the orders to re-sell aggregate a considerable quantity. While no statement is made as to the reasons for this, it is attributed to apprehension as to shipping conditions."

Minneapolis: Cash market was active with keen demand for spot wheat by outside interests. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 3c over May and velvet chaff at 1c under May. Scattered sales were reported. Cash No. 1 four northern wheat sold there at from $1.52½ to $1.57, and No. 2 northern at from $1.50 to $1.54½.

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Chicago: "Corn—Local sentiment continues bearish owing to the weight of supplies in sight and the heavy discounts on the cash property. Short sellers are aggressive when any temporary weakness in wheat occurs, but are generally good buyers on the rallies. The cash demand west of the river continues good both for the feeders and industries.

"Oats — The seaboard reported a cargo of oats worked late yesterday afternoon for export and 200,000 bu. were sold from Omaha to exporters. Local shipping sales to domestic buyers amounted to 185,000 bu. We continue to feel strong on the market and advocate purchases on all setbacks."

Russell's News, New York, says: The export business claimed in wheat yesterday amounted about 400,000 bu. at the seaboard and about 450,000 bu. at western points. There were rumors of orders in the market for the Dutch and Greek governments, but it was stated no business was effected. No charters were reported, although there was a moderate business in scattered boats. The minister of the interior has cabled to London that the arable area in Canada is estimated at 440,000,000 acres of which 10 per cent is under cultivation."

* * *

The Itasca Elevator company reported orders today for 20,000 bu. barley and 30,000 rye to go forward, all rail, to the seaboard for export.

* * *

A Chicago wire said: "I think May oats will sell up to within 15c of May corn before long. This new year reign wrinkle that the kaiser is threatening us wants to be watched very closely. Since Liverpool became excited and went up five to ten pence higher than at any time, it ought to be final for us to duck on long stuff, as it would indicate that England was seriously alarmed over the possibility of shutting off supplies, and it would also scare our shippers and perhaps forbid insurance."

The sale of a round lot of No. 1 northern wheat for all rail shipment to Chicago was reported by the Globe Elevator company this morning.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Active Buying Lifts Wheat Prices Right From Start.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Active buying lifted wheat prices today right from the start. Cable quotations showed a decided advance and there were advices at hand that sellers in Liverpool were scarce and that millers there were not well supplied. Most of the transactions here were in the July option. May, in which business was relatively small, touched a new high record war price, $1.67. The market as a whole, after opening 1⅛c to 1⅝c higher, rose to a level 1¾c to 2⅞c above last night before beginning to react.

Subsequently weakness in the corn market was effective as a means of bringing about a decided setback. Seaboard offerings to resell wheat to the west tended also to discourage the bull, and so, too, did reports of vessel room unfilled because of Germany's notice of marine war dangers on all sides of Great Britain. The close was unsettled at ½c lower to ½c advance compared with last night.

Corn suffered from a good deal of speculative selling pressure. Opening prices, which ranged from ¼@¼c off to a shade advance, were followed by a series of nervous changes both sides of last night's level.

Many resting orders to purchase were encountered when declines amounted to 1c, but weakness continued almost up to the close. The finish was nervous at 1@1⅛c to 1¼c under last night.

Oats followed wheat. Selling was scattered and mainly by longs.

Big receipts of hogs depressed provisions. The market, however, developed rallying powers.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The horse market remains about the same as it has been for the past four weeks, most of the clearance being in the draft and farm animal line. Dealers report that while the demand is not all that could be desired, it is fair for this time of the year. George Braley of Eau Claire, Wis., Tom Le Roy of Austin, Minn., and James Carney of St. Cloud, Minn., were on the market today. Several deliveries locally and a shipment to Clifford, N. D., make up the day's clearances. Receipts light. Prices rule about as follows:

Drafters, extra	$145@185
Drafters, choice	115@160
Drafters, common to good	105@135
Farm mares and horses, extra	140@190

COPPERS EASY ON REALIZING SALES

Stocks Sell Off Moderately on Appearance of Profit-Taking.

The market in mining stocks opened strong, and then closed off in the late trading on the appearance of some liquidation.

Butte & Superior sold off $1.25 to $47.25. Copper Range sold 75 cents off at $33.75; Calumet & Arizona 25 cents up at $53; Granby $1.75 up at $65; Mohawk 50 cents up at $60.50; North Butte 50 cents off at $23.25; Quincy 25 cents up at $55.75.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper sold 38 cents off to $53.62; Anaconda 75 cents off to $26.50, and Utah Copper 87 cents off at $52.63.

In the Boston curb list as reported to Paine, Webber & Co., Calumet & Corbin sold at 17 cents; Jumbo Extension at 88@93 cents; Stewart at $1.56, and Davis-Daly at $1.18.

Galvanized sheet prices continue to advance as a result of the excited spelter market. They have advanced close to $6.50 a ton from the low level. Producers will not accept orders for delivery very far in the future.

As an evidence of the benefits that are accruing to producers of zinc, the Butte & Superior Copper company, one of the largest zinc concerns in the country, is estimated to be able to show around $14 a share on the present price of spelter, compared with earnings of about $4.50 a share in 1914.

The quarterly report of the North Butte Mining company shows a surplus and reserve Dec. 31, 1914, of $3,141,771, compared with $3,283,142 on June 30, last. Production was 3,466,483 pounds of copper compared with 3,337,023 in Sept. 30 quarter.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Reactionary Tendency Is Continued and Closing Is Heavy.

Prices Recover Partially But Sag Again in Final Hour.

New York, Feb. 5.—The reactionary tendency shown by the stock market in yesterday's late session became more pronounced at the outset today. Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific and Reading were weakest, declines ranging from material fractions to a point. United States Steel was relatively steady, but Bethlehem Steel yielded a point of yesterday's gain. London once more reflected a heavy undertone for internationals.

Liquidation proceeded steadily in today's stock market during the morning. Southern Pacific lost 2½, declining to 81¼, ¼ point above its minimum, and Canadian Pacific fell 2 to 153¾, its minimum being 153, while New Haven touched its minimum at 49, with a loss of 1½. These stocks, with Reading, New York Central and some of the industrials, including American Sugar, constituted the bulk of the early trading. Steel was conspicuous for its firmness, but some of the specialties fell 1@2 points. Weakness was acute at midday. Bonds were heavy, Southern Pacific convertibles losing a point.

Recoveries of a point or more were a sustaining influence for a time, but prices sagged again in the final dealings. The closing was heavy.

DEMANDS $3,000 FOR BOY'S DEATH

Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Is Sued By Sippo Salmela.

Because a locomotive of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company ran over his 5-year-old son several months ago at West Duluth, Sippo Salmela is attempting to collect $3,000 from the railway company on a cause of action for alleged wrongful death. The father, as administrator of the estate of his son, Kaarlo August Salmela, filed suit against the company in district court yesterday.

The accident occurred at Sixty-sixth avenue west on June 5, 1914. It is claimed that the train that struck the boy was traveling at the speed of thirty miles an hour, and that near the point where the accident occurred, there is an open space which was generally used as a playground by children of the neighborhood.

NO PETITION FILED AGAINST PAVING

Third Street Property Owners Await Action of the City.

No petition against the paving of West Third street is being circulated, according to a statement made this morning by J. P. Daly, chairman of a committee of property owners of Third street, which recently attended a meeting of the city commission to file a verbal objection against the improvement. Mr. Daly said that the commissioners had promised to withdraw the resolution authorizing the paving of the street without the formality of the property owners circulating a petition.

"No petition is or will be circulated as the commissioners promised the delegation of West Third street property owners at a recent meeting with them that their wishes would be granted and the resolution ordering the paving would be withdrawn without this formality," said Mr. Daly. "The Wheeler estate has never urged the paving, nor has it urged the circulating of a remonstrance. At a meeting of the property owners with the commission, B. N. Wheeler stated that the estate was willing to pay its share of the cost, but that he knew that the property owners could not afford it.

"In replying to the statement in last evening's Herald, I would say that we had great difficulty in securing signatures to a petition calling for an assessment of $175 per lot for paving and am of the opinion that a mistake is made in the statement that a petition for the paving can be easily secured. Mr. Swanstrom is right when he says it is a shame that the street is not paved, but it is not just for resident property owners to pay for a business street paving which also contains street car tracks."

MORGAN PARK CURLERS.

Two Rinks Will Play West Duluth Representatives on Saturday Night.

At least two rinks from the Morgan Park club will play West Duluth curlers at the Western Curling rink tomorrow night. It is probable that more than two rinks will come, but at least that many will make their appearance, according to Dr. O. S. Olson, president of the club.

Rinks of the local club skipped by Charles Iltis and George J. Mallory will oppose the visitors. Another rink will be made up during the evening in case a larger delegation arrives.

Three games were played last night. All were played in the Universal event. F. H. Wade won from Iltis, Judson defeated Kreidler, and Donald won from Olson. No games are scheduled for this evening.

OVEREATING TOO COMMON

Causes More Deaths Than Drunkenness, Says Health Inspector.

Simple Rules of Hygiene Are Too Frequently Neglected.

Overeating is hastening more people to their death than over indulgence in alcoholic drinks, according to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of the health department, in an article on "The Extension of Human Life," which will appear in the monthly bulletin of the health department early next week. In the article Dr. Webster makes an earnest appeal to the public to eat more carefully and to occasionally undergo examinations by a physician.

The article follows in part:

"We have always been a one-sided people. We grow enthusiastic about the harmful effects of over-indulgence in alcoholics but entirely ignore the more universal over-indulgence in eating. It is true the immediate effect of the former is brought to our notice more forcibly in a number of ways more or less disgusting and offensive but the latter insidiously intoxicates the system and produces its ultimate disastrous effects with equal surety. There is a great deal of truth in the old saying that 'Man digs his grave with his teeth.'

Statistics show us that more people die from the diseases which are caused by overeating than those who die from the effects of alcoholic over-indulgence. This does not mean that alcoholic excess is less disastrous to the human system than table excess but is due to the less universality of the former than the latter. However, in view of the fact that so many more people hasten their death because of overeating than over-alcoholic indulgence, it is time that an educational campaign be inaugurated and some effort be made to curtail this increasing cause of mortality.

Ignore Hygiene.

"American statistics show that the death rate above 40 years of age is practically the same as it has been for years, while that below 40 is rapidly decreasing. This condition is due to the increase of degenerative diseases after 40 years of age. Now these diseases are under the control of the individual and are due to a failure to observe the very simple rules of personal hygiene, particularly that relating to food hygiene, although the others are also of great importance. It is not necessary to become a faddist in the matter of food. You have but to consider the ultimate end of food, that is, what it is intended to accomplish. The main essentials are to obtain a balanced diet in order that the body cells may get the necessary chemical ingredients for their proper nourishment and repair. After having decided what a balanced diet is, it is further necessary that it be properly cooked and masticated to make it easily assimilable. Regard for these simple matters will do much to ward off a number of degenerative diseases.

"It is of growing importance that periodic examinations be submitted to, in order that we may know we are not the victims of some form of an insidious disease. Insurance companies are awakening to the value of these examinations, financially to themselves, and to their policy holders by relieving them from any doubt as to their physical condition, correcting any functional disturbance which might lead to organic trouble and in a general way producing a happy mental attitude. Industrial concerns also are beginning to make it their business to inquire into the physical fitness of their employes. This because it means dividends. Each of us ought to do it because it makes life happier and more livable and insures to our dependents a freedom from the horrors of want and penury."

TEN CASES DEVELOPED

One Neglected Scarlet Fever Case Involved Five Families.

Little Girl With "Measles" Allowed to Attend Party.

How ten cases of scarlet fever, involving five families, developed from one case, because the parents of a child neglected to do their duty, is told in the report of the monthly activities in the health department by Dr. I. J. Murphy, assistant health director. The report will appear in the bulletin of the department early next week.

"During the Christmas vacation," states Dr. Murphy, "a child took sick with what the mother called measles. On New Year's eve this child, although still ailing, attended a party. Three days later the two children at whose home the party was given came down with severe scarlet fever; the same day another playmate who attended the party was likewise affected; another child who was immune to measles, but who was imprudent enough to call to share a box of candy with the 'measley child,' took sick with scarlet fever; four days after the date of her half-hour visit, another child who played with the 'measley child's' little brother came down with scarlet fever. A younger sister to the little girl who attended the party took sick with severe scarlet fever before the mild type of the older sister's affliction was recognized. In addition four other children in the 'measley' house came down with scarlet fever. In all, from this one wrong diagnosis, there developed ten cases of scarlet fever, involving five families.

"When the schools reopened, three cases of scarlet fever in the desquamating stage were sent home, however, not until they had exposed entire rooms. Besides during the vacation period they no doubt exposed their neighborhood.

Began in Vacation.

"All of this goes to show that communicable diseases among school children can be effectively controlled only by checking up all children absent from school. The present epidemic got its start during the Christmas vacation. Otherwise, for example, the home diagnosis of 'measles' would have at once aroused the suspicion of the school nurse. Then the family would have to call in the family physician or a medical inspector from the health department would have been sent. Now, because of the carelessness of a few mothers, the principals, the school nurses and the health department has to work overtime to keep other innocent people from a possible exposure.

"Scarlet fever increased from four cases the last month of 1914 to twenty-eight cases the first month of 1915. All the new cases have been uniformly severe; adults, as well as children, have been affected. With the exception of a well localized series of cases in the East end the epidemic has been widely scattered. Evidently there have been a number of mild, unrecognized cases of scarlet fever at liberty to infect anyone with whom they might come in contact. This was very apparent in the instance of the East end cases.

"Diphtheria increased from eight to twelve cases. This number is very favorable for a city of our size at this season of the year. Cultures have been taken from all school children associating with any of these cases before they were allowed to continue in school. Cultures are also taken from all children reported out of school with a sore throat.

"Chickenpox dropped from fourteen to three cases.

"Smallpox increased from five to eight cases."

"Typhoid fever increased from four to nine cases."

M'KERCHER HANDLES FIFTY-SIX CASES

Fifty-six cases were investigated by R. D. McKercher, agent of the Duluth Humane society, during January, according to his monthly report submitted to the directors of the organization at their February meeting yesterday afternoon at the courthouse. The cases investigated involved 92 human beings, of which 62 were children. The agent found 10 cases of destitution and 11 instances where it was necessary to provide for medical attendance. Five arrests were made, two of which were for abusing dumb animals. The animal welfare work was heavy, the report of J. G. Luxon, special agent in charge of this work, showing that 109 cases were handled.

DOUBLE OF BOARD OF TRADE MAN ON FLOOR.

Members of the board of trade this morning started going around with one eye shut so they "could see single" after trying to find William Grettum, a fellow member. Not a few of them approached a man whom they took to be Mr. Grettum and started to talk business. The man at first explained that he was not Mr. Grettum, but when so many did come up on business bent with this man named Grettum, the visitor began to think that he was being "kidded," until Mr. Grettum came on the floor, and the two were introduced.

The visitor, who is August W. Johnson of Glenfield, N. D., duplicates Mr. Grettum, even to the air of studied negligence about his front locks. When this was pointed out to the Duluth man, the latter repaired to his office and combed his hair, and for the rest of the morning refrained from running his fingers through it, a habit that marks him as a thoughtful man on the Duluth board.

The resemblance is really remarkable and was noticed by everybody.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Hannah Biebesheimer and F. C. Biebesheimer, her husband, mortgagors, to Caroline A. Yale, mortgagee, which said mortgage is dated July 7th, 1913, and registered in the office of the Registrar of Titles for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on August 11th, 1913, at 5:00 o'clock P. M., as Document No. 12524 as shown on Certificate of Title No. 17162, in Volume 56, on page 213, in said Registrar of Titles office, which said mortgage was thereafter assigned by the said Caroline A. Yale to the Howard Investment Company, by instrument in writing dated December 7th, 1914, and Registered in the office of the Registrar of Titles for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, on January 13th, 1915, at 2:15 o'clock P. M. as Document No. 17346, as shown on Certificate of Title No. 17162, in Volume 56, on page 213, in said Registrar of Titles office.

Said default consists in the non-payment of Fourteen dollars ($14.00), being the semi-annual installment of interest due July 1st, 1914, and in the non-payment of the sum of Fourteen dollars ($14.00), being the semi-annual installment of interest due January 1st, 1915, by reason whereof the assignee of mortgagee has elected to exercise the option given by the terms of said mortgage to declare and does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable.

There is claimed to be due and is actually due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, the sum of Four hundred twenty-nine and 71-100 dollars ($429.71), principal and interest, and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the property herein described, situated in the County of St. Louis, Minnesota, viz:

Lots two (2), three (3) and four (4) in Block six (6), Colman's Addition to Duluth, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, which said premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, at the office of the Sheriff in the Court House in the City of Duluth in said County and State on Monday, the first day of March, 1915, at ten o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and Twenty-five dollars ($25.00) attorneys' fees stipulated for, by and in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption within one year from date of sale as provided by law.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, January 15th, 1915.

COUNTY OPTION VOTES OF ST. LOUIS SENATORS CAUSE OF MUCH TALK

Liberal Element Indignant at Action and Threats Are Uttered.

Talk Tonnage Tax But No Bill Will Pass This Session.

Adams and Griggs Tell Why They Voted for County Option.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—That votes from St. Louis county, where county option votes in the past have been rare indeed, should have put county option through the senate, is still the talk of the capitol, and bids fair to be a nine-days' wonder at least.

The newspapers are full of it, and it was the main subject of talk about the legislative halls yesterday, both in senate and house.

Likewise, the air was full of threats, for the Liberal element was not only completely surprised, but indignant because of what it deemed an ungrateful return for the many occasions in the past when it had supported St. Louis county against the danger from the option-tonnage tax element.

However, these threats should not be taken too seriously, though they are not to be disregarded, either. The feeling engendered by Thursday's vote will last some time, and unquestionably it will complicate matters here. However, the stirring up of bitter resentment among the Liberal element is compensated to a considerable degree by the unmistakable existence of a feeling of gratitude among the "dry" element.

"Drys" Jubilant.

The "drys" were jubilant over the result, and are inclined to give full credit for it to the senators from St. Louis county whose votes constituted the difference between success and failure in the senate. If their gratitude proves as tangible when the pinch comes as it is unmistakable now, the inescapable defection from the Liberal side will be offset, partly if not wholly.

Moreover, the anti-option element is by no means out of the woods yet. County option is yet to come to a vote in the house, and when the vote is taken it will be the end of one of the hardest struggles ever witnessed in the legislature.

It is nip and tuck in the house. Nobody knows, surely, what the result will be. The county optionists claim they have a majority of two. The anti-

FRUSTRATE PLOT TO BLOW UP STEAMSHIP

Man Arrested on La Champaigne With Five Dynamite Bombs in Trunk.

Paris, Feb. 6.—A plot to blow up the French line steamer La Champaigne, which has arrived at Corunna, Spain, from Mexico, was frustrated by a wireless message received aboard the ship on Jan. 19, according to the Journal's Madrid correspondent. Reports made by officers of the vessel when it landed are said to have stated that the information given in the wireless message was that a man aboard, believed to be a German, intended to destroy the ship. Prompt measures were taken by the captain and the man was arrested. Five dynamite bombs, the correspondent says, were found in his trunk.

FOOD FISH INCREASING

Committee Takes No Action on Lake of the Woods Fishing.

Woman Suffrage Vote in the Senate Will Be Close.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committee on game and fish spent most of its last session informing itself on the question whether or not the food fish in the Lake of the Woods are being exterminated by commercial fishing, and after hearing both sides determined the question in the negative and decided to take no action.

C. R. Middleton of Baudette appeared before the committee to assert that commercial fishing is rapidly depleting the fish supply, while Representative Paul Marschalk of Warroad was there to say that the supply is holding out admirably.

Mr. Middleton declared that yellow perch, whitefish and sturgeon are being wiped out by pound nets licensed by the state at $25 each, and operated for the benefit of the Amstrong Trading company. He pointed out that while only thirty-four such nets are licensed on the Canadian side of the lake, Minnesota licenses a hundred.

Mr. Marschalk, himself a commercial fisherman on the Lake of the Woods since 1892, arose and declared that the fish, with additions fro... a Canadian

SESSION IS VERY QUIET

Little Done at First Saturday Meeting of the House.

Banking Bill Is Laid Over After an Extended Debate.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Save for another debate over the bill to put state bank reserve requirements on the same basis as those of national banks, the first Saturday session of the house was unusually quiet today and little was done. When the banking bill was reached on general orders, Representative Thompson offered an amendment, intended to meet the objections raised against the bill the other day, and providing that banks with $15,000 capital and $15,000 reserve may be reserve banks, with the superintendent of banks given power to deny this privilege where he believed it would be unwise to grant it. The bill originally limited the reserve privilege to banks of $25,000 capital.

Friends of the bill fought the amendment and Mr. Thompson himself said he believed it a mistake, though perhaps necessary to secure the passage of the measure.

Representative Bjornson contended that it would give the superintendent of banks a chance to play favorites and would emasculate the bill.

The amendment was rejected and the bill laid over to next week on the plea that it should not be considered while many country members were absent. The opposition arises in the fear that from the country banks to the city banks.

State Caucus Bill.

The house in committee of the whole also debated the Gordon bill appropriating $90,000, for a state census under the secretary of state. After an amendment by C. H. Warner cutting out the provision for paying the secretary of state $500 for his trouble had been adopted, Chairman Knutson sustained the point of order, raised

OHIO RIVER 5.4 FEET ABOVE FLOOD STAGE

Central Union Depot at Cincinnati Will Be Vacated.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 6.—The Ohio river reached 54.5 feet here this morning, 5.4 feet above flood stage, and continued to rise at the rate of two-tenths of a foot an hour. The greater part of the ground in the river section of the city is under water, although little actual suffering has taken place. This was made possible by the ample notice that was given to all those in the flooded district.

The river registered 54.7 feet at 9 o'clock and an anouncement was issued by the Central Union railroad depot officials that the station would be vacated early in the afternoon.

Government Weather Forecaster Devereaux stated that the river would reach a maximum here at fifty-six feet some time Sunday morning and begin to fall on Monday. He said that the crest of the flood had been reached at Portsmouth, Ohio, at 55.5 feet and the river was falling at all points above Portsmouth.

TRAINS ON NEW YORK "L" IN COLLISION.

New York, Feb. 6.—A local train and an express on the Ninth avenue elevated line collided at Fiftieth street during the rush hour this morning. Nine persons were injured. The forward car of one train and the rear car of the other were burned to the trucks.

DIPLOMATIC FRICTION AT MEXICO CITY

Foreign Ministers Having Trouble With Carranza Government.

Nations May Unite in Move to Abandon All Legations.

American Embassy Has Been Closed Since Huerta Regime.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Because, they assert, communication is growing more and more restricted, and because little respect is shown them by the Carranza authorities, some of the prominent diplomatic representatives of European countries have cabled their home governments that it might be advisable to unite with other nations in a movement to abandon all foreign legations in the Southern republic. Great friction has developed, they say, between the members of the diplomatic corps and the officials of the Carranza government.

State department officials declined to discuss this phase of the situation. As the American embassy has been closed since the rupture with the Huerta government, the action on the part of the other diplomatic missions is being considered without consulting the United States, so far as is known.

The plan of the diplomatic corps in Mexico City, which is understood to be acting as a unit, is to leave affairs in Mexico in charge of consular officers. This would mean practically a severance of diplomatic relations by all countries and present a unique status for Mexico in the family of nations.

The situation in the Mexican capital has been replete with diplomatic embarrassments since the rapid changes in executive authority ensued. When Carranza, in his capacity as first chief of the Constitutionalist army, first abandoned Mexico City and moved his capital to Vera Cruz, he invited the diplomatic corps to accompany him. The diplomats formally declined on the ground that such a step might be construed as a recognition of his government.

Since then the relations between Carranza and the foreign diplomats in Mexico City have not been cordial. The return of the Carranza authorities to Mexico City, where Gen. Obregon is in command, has developed into a menacing situation.

Details regarding the Mexican situation received at the state department were meager. As far as is known quiet prevails in Mexico City.

JAPANESE CRUISER IS COMPLETE WRECK.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 6.—According to information obtained here today, the Japanese cruiser Asama, which struck an uncharted rock off the western coast of Lower California, is a complete wreck. Two United States cruisers are reported to be standing by the vessel and two Japanese warships speeding to it to assist the crew.

The Asama's officers and crew, it is said, will not be brought into an American port, but will embark either aboard the Hisen or the Idzumo, Japanese warships.

FRED A. HINES.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 6.—Fred A. Hines of Los Angeles, Cal., past imperial potentate of the A. A. O. N. of Mystic Shriners of North America, died here yesterday after an illness of three weeks from a complication of diseases. He was 65 years old and held the imperial potentate chair from April 12, 1910, to July 12, 1911.

INQUIRY IS ABOUT ENDED

Industrial Commission Is Nearly Through in New York C...

New York, Feb. 6.—With Seth Low, former mayor of New York city as the final witness at the present hearing, the Federal commission on industrial relations today planned to hold its next session in Chicago, where transportation problems will be subject to inquiry.

After John D. Rockefeller left the witness stand yesterday he was handed by the sergeant-at-arms a check for $5, of which $2 was witness fee and $3 was mileage from Pocantico Hills. Mr. Rockefeller signed a receipt in a sprawling shaky hand.

Mr. Carnegie was so busy with photographers after he left the stand that he forgot his check for $2. It was mailed to him today.

The first witness today was Frederick A. Cleveland, director of the bureau of municipal research. Mr. Cleveland said he had requested to be allowed to testify for the purpose of refuting statements reflecting upon the integrity of the witness and his associates made during the investigation.

Embassy at Washington Issues Statement on Blockade Order.

Expresses Hope England Will Not Make Reconsideration Necessary.

Will Continue to Destroy Ships Belonging to the Enemy.

SOME NAVIGATION ROUTES NOT IN THE DANGER ZONES.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The official text of the German admiralty proclamation transmitted by Ambassador Gerard to the state department today reveals that navigation routes to the north of Shetland Islands and the eastern part of the North sea as well as a strip of thirty nautical miles along the Dutch coast are not in the danger zone, but that the waters directly around Great Britain and Ireland comprise the prohibited areas. This differs from the published report.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The German embassy declared in a statement issued today in regard to the decree placing the waters around the British isles in the war zone, that Germany "does not intend to molest or seize American vessels laden with foodstuffs for the civilian population of enemy countries."

The statement expresses the hope "that England will not make necessary a reconsideration of this attitude by seizing American ships like the Wilhelmina. The statement in full follows:

"The German ambassador has not received instructions regarding the decision of the German admiralty, but, according to the text of the decision, the following seems clear:

"There is nothing new in the communication made on Feb. 4 by the German admiralty with respect to the attitude of the German imperial navy toward ships of the enemy or toward neutral commerce. It is absurd to describe this as the proclamation of a Science in Killing Further Advanced Than That of Curing.

Paris, Feb. 6.—A deputation of British army surgeons who visited the American ambulance at Neuilly expressed themselves as deeply impressed with the perfection of the arrangements made for the care of wounded. After an inspection of the wards brief addresses were made by Sir Almroth Wright, Sir Berkeley Moynihan and Dr. Alexis Carrel.

A comparison between the progress being made in the sciences of killing and curing was drawn by Dr. Carrel, who declared the gun-makers and engineers had beaten the physicians.

which reads as follows:

"No infantry engagement has been reported as having occurred during the day of Feb. 5.

"From Arras to Reims there were artillery engagements with results satisfactory to us. There has been no change in the situation in the vicinity of Perthes and Massiges.

"In the Argonne and in the Woevre district French artillery yesterday dispersed convoys of the enemy and set fire to a convoy train of twenty-five wagons.

"There has been nothing to report from the rest of the front. We brought down a captive balloon behind the German lines at a point to the northeast of Somme."

German Statement.

Berlin, Feb. 6, by wireless to Sayville.—Army headquarters today issued the following statement:

"Two French attacks against positions taken by the Germans north of Massiges remained unsuccessful. A French attack in the Argonne also failed.

"Russians yesterday attacked on the East Prussian frontier and south of the Vistula against the German front from Humin to the Bzura river. All attacks were repulsed. The Germans made 1,000 prisoners and took six machine guns.

"Especially from the British, but also from the French side, the allegation is repeated continuously that the Germans to commemorate the emperor's birthday, made attacks on a large scale, which were attended throughout with heavy reverses for the Germans. All German official reports of events on the days in question prove that this allegation was invented, with perfidious intent. Of course, such fighting manners cannot touch the emperor's person, but the German army headquarters would not fail to expose their baseness to shame."

McADOO'S DAUGHTER ARRIVES IN LONDON.

London, Feb. 6.—Col. E. M. House of New York; Miss Nona McAdoo, daughter of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and Miss Katherine Britton of Washington, arrived here today from New York, having crossed on the Lusitania.

Col. House, accompanied by his wife, is going to travel in Europe. Miss McAdoo and Miss Britton are going to France to nurse French wounded.

Gen. Von Hindenburg Continues His Costly Plunge Toward Warsaw.

Russ Forces Cross the Bzura River Further to the North.

Important Struggle in the Carpathians Is Still Dragging on.

London, Feb. 6.—On his chosen ground to the west of Warsaw, Gen. von Hindenburg, the German commander, is continuing his costly lunges to break through to the Polish capital. At the same time the Russians, farther to the north, have pressed forward and, after crossing the Bzura river, they are seriously threatening the Germans with an outflanking movement.

Thus another great battle for Warsaw is on, involving perhaps a greater loss of life than any other conflict in the war. The issue is still undecided, but the Russians claim that the initiative has passed to them, although further furious German attacks are expected.

The more complex and strategically the more important struggle in the Carpathians is dragging on without any decisive turn. Broadly speaking, it appears that in the western half of the battle region the Russians are making progress, while in the eastern half they appear to have fallen back from the Lupkow and Beskid passes on prepared positions, where they are attempting to stem the rush of large Austro-German forces.

Russian Counter Blow.

The Russian counter-blow on the massed assaults of Gen. von Hindenburg's men, is, to British observers, the most interesting development of the struggle in the east. It overshadows for the moment the operations of the Russians in East Prussia and is taken in some quarters to indicate that they have ceased playing the role of merely holding Hindenburg to the west of Mlawa and determined on an effort to expel the invaders.

The western war zone has been virtually unchange during the week, but there are many reports of German preparations for renewed activity in Belgium. The German threat of a submarine blockade may be a factor in this situation the theory being advanced that the Germans expect the allies to attempt to force them back from the coast, with the idea of destroying their submarine base.

Dispatches from Cairo indicate that the Turks who attacked the Suez canal were merely the advance contingent of three columns which are struggling across the desert. The main bodies of the invading army should soon be heard.

ITALIAN VIEWS ON GERMANY'S ACTION

Does Not Take Into Account the Rights of Neutral Ships.

Rome, Feb. 6.—Commenting on German measures against neutral ships, the Tribuna declares Germany does not take into account the rights or even the dignity of neutrals, while Great Britain gave satisfaction to protests made by the United States and Italy, granting the latter the right to maintain the distinction between absolute and conditional contraband. Continuing, the paper says:

"Germany can be assured that some neutral powers will refuse to accept her ruling under which the established custom of the examination at sea of neutral vessels is abandoned and peaceful neutral ships are put in the same category as hostile vessels. This will evoke protest from some neutrals. If Germany finds that she has been damaged by certain British measures, she should answer with reprisals damaging to Great Britain, but not striking at neutral powers in the movements of their ships or the lives of their subjects."

JAP WARSHIPS SEIZE NORWEGIAN STEAMER.

Tokio, Feb. 6.—Japanese warships have seized the Norwegian steamer Christian Bors, on the allegation that they found some irregularity in her papers. She has been turned over to the prize court at Sasebo. The Christian Bors sailed from Shanghai Jan. 21 for San Francisco by way of Japanese ports.

Increase Suspended.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Proposed increases in rates on salt in carloads from Michigan fields to points in Oklahoma were suspended today by the interstate commerce commission pending investigation.

TWO'S COMPANY, THREE'S A CROWD.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The Austrian government announced today that the attacks of the Russians in the Carpathians had broken down and that they had suffered heavy losses. In certain sections of the front the Austrians are on the offensive, and the capture of 4,000 more Russians is reported. A statement from Petrograd yesterday contained the admission that the Russians had retreated in the region of one of the mountain passes.

Particular significance is attached by military strategists to the outcome of the campaign in the Carpathians, on the ground that it probably will decide the mastery of this region for the remainder of the war. Should Austria gain a definite victory her territory would be freed from the menace of invasion.

In Poland and West Galicia, the Vienna statement says, the situation is unchanged. Petrograd dispatches agree that a battle of almost unexampled fury is in progress along the Warsaw front, with the issue yet to be determined.

Desultory fighting is in progress in the Argonne and Alsace, but elsewhere in the western war zone activity is diminishing. The German attack in Flanders, although leading to several days of brisk fightings, has not developed into an important engagement, and apparently the onslaught has been abandoned.

NEW SEMESTER WORK BEGUN

Class and Club Activities at Central School Again Under Way.

Societies Elect Officers; Benefit Is Arranged for Lambs' Club.

The second semester of the school year began at Central high school Monday and will close June 11. The longest single vacation during this period will be the Easter vacation, which will last one week. There will be a few one-day vacations, but with the exception of the Easter week the second semester will be uninterrupted.

Next Friday, Feb. 12, there will be no school. This is Lincoln's birthday, and although it has not generally been a holiday at high school, the teachers' association will hold its annual meeting in Duluth on that day, and Principal Young has declared a holiday. Monday, Feb. 22, Washington's birthday, will also be a holiday. The teachers have been busy all week making out the semester reports, completing the first semester work, and preparing the final semester activities and courses of study.

The last week was featured by the reorganizations of many of the school clubs and societies. Some of them elected their officers for a whole year while many hold semi-annual elections. Three of the largest of them are in the latter class, the Agricultural club, the Stump and the Athenaeum. They held their election of officers for the second term last week.

The report cards were given out yesterday. They contained, in addition to the regular monthly marks, the averages and examination marks for the first semester work. The monthly and semester honor rolls are now being prepared and will be issued on Wednesday of next week.

The regular weekly meeting on Tuesday of the Agricultural club was combined with the semester election of officers. A novel idea was instituted in regard to the voting. The names were put up by nominations about two weeks before the election took place. A ballot box was kept in the agricultural laboratory and each member of the club was allowed one vote on each office. There was a surprisingly large vote cast and all of the contests were exceptionally close and exciting.

There were several nominations for president of the club, and the result was not decided until the final vote had been counted. Marc Troyer, one of the most popular members of the club, was finally returned the winner. Mr. Troyer succeeds Stuart Taylor, who was an able and enthusiastic leader.

The race for vice president was almost as exciting and Phil Seymore won only after a hard race. He also held this position last semester. Carlyle Burgess was re-elected treasurer, as his ability as a strong box keeper is very well known among the fellows. Ben McCabe succeeded himself as recording secretary, and Marc Troyer, in addition to being chosen president, was elected to the position of corresponding secretary. These officers began active preparations for an enthusiastic year in agricultural work and this department promises to be even more popular next semester than it was last—if such a thing is possible. Mr. Troyer will appoint the new chairmen of the various committees to have charge of the different branches of work. The committee reports will be read at the next meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 9.

The agricultural progress has been, as usual, very rapid during the last week. Noticeable strides have been taken in all departments and results are especially conspicuous. To date there have been eighty churnings made in the creamery department, aggregating 1,450 pounds of excellent butter. To replace the exhausted supply of cartons, the manual training department of printing is printing another supply. During the week the agricultural students of the school have been the guests at the poultry show, given by the Duluth Poultry association. The boys have exhibited unusual interest and have learned many valuable points about this work.

The Athenaeum Literary society billed its regular meeting at the close of school Tuesday. The feature of the event was the semi-annual election of officers and an exceptionally interesting talk by Prof. Rasey of the school English department. Practically all of the members were present, it being the largest attendance of the year.

The elections were all-lose and exciting and proved satisfactory to all. The contest for president resulted in the selection of John Ahlen, one of the biggest boosters of the club. He has been one of the more active members of the society all year and will undoubtedly prove to be an able executive head. Gordon McCabe was chosen to fill the office of vice president; Mandy Altman was awarded the position of secretary-treasurer, and Carl Gebauer will act in the capacity of program committee.

Mr. Rasey's talk proved extremely interesting. It was one of the best that has been given before the society this year and was well received. The big debate with the Stump has been temporarily postponed, but the subject will be taken up again in the near future. There is considerable rivalry between the two societies, and this event is looked forward to with considerable interest. The club has decided upon a sleigh ride to be held on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 20 Preparations for an active season are already under way. The Athenaeum members intend to make things "hum" around school this semester.

The semi-annual election of officers of the Stump Literary society took place Wednesday afternoon in Mr. Null's room. Irving Grover, one of the most popular of the club's members, was chosen to lead the club. He was also leader of the club last semester. Willard Thorp was elected vice president, Sam Litman will act as secretary-treasurer, and Julian Hagberg will arrange the programs.

Following the election an interesting program was held. Maurice Litman spoke on "Russia of Today." He explained the geographical position of that country and why it was such a valuable sea port. He showed how the population was divided into five different classes, how each lived, and why the peasant class was the most important.

Irving Grover delivered an exceptionally interesting address on the "Solar System."

Now that the Zenith board has definitely decided to have the annual printed in the school printing department, the work on it will be started immediately so that it will be out in time. With Mr. Rankin at the head of the department and with a large corps of students who have become expert printers under him, the new idea should meet with the greatest success. The book will be up to if not better than the standard set by former classes although Editor-in-Chief Coe and his board have a certain expense limit above which they must not go.

Practically all of the contributions have been called in, and the work of deciding the winners is now going on. Those who did not have their work ready last week received permission to wait until the early part of next week to arrange their contributions. Beginning with next week the "copy" will be prepared and the printing will start.

Editor Coe wishes to impress upon the students the necessity of having their pictures ordered very soon. Those for the Zenith are being prepared and the cuts made. Most of the senior pictures are now ready.

At a meeting of the salesmanship class Wednesday, Mr. Carey delivered an interesting address. The meetings will be held regularly this semester and all members are urged to attend. Some prominent citizens are on the program and it is expected that the course will again be popular.

Prizes for the junior section of this year's Zenith were given to the winners yesterday. It is mainly because of the spirit of Junior Editor Garon that the prizes are determined so soon after being called in, and the junior class has set a good example to the lower classes.

Irving Auld wrote the best story and was accordingly awarded the first prize of $3. Wallace Hankins took the second honor and received $1. The poem written by Katherine Birch was adjudged the best and its composer was awarded the first prize of $2. There was a merry struggle for prizes in the drawing department but Clinton Brookes, the class artist, did the best work in the opinion of the judges and he was the recipient of $2. Clinton Johnson came second and received $1. Harry Haines, the class joker, collected best list of "laughs" and took the prize of $1 for his trouble.

Orders for the senior class pins were taken during the last week by members of the committee and the order will be sent next week. For those who have not already given their order a chance will be given early next week. Stanley Laskey, Irving Grover and Horace Craig compose the senior class pin committee.

The newly-formed, yet extremely popular, Lambs Dramatic club held its regular weekly meeting following the close of school yesterday. There was no particular program billed for the afternoon, but several important business matters were decided upon. It was concluded that if a member remains away from one meeting without an excuse he would be suspended unless he paid his dues again. There was a large attendance at yesterday's meeting, which augurs well for the popularity of the club this year. The club, while only in the experimental stage as yet, has jumped into the limelight and occupies a position of considerable prominence. The membership, according to the constitution, is limited to thirty, but on account of the intense interest that has been manifested by outsiders who are anxious to be admitted, the limit may be raised somewhat and the membership strengthened. It is desirable to have only live and enthusiastic persons initiated into the organization. The officers elected at the beginning of the year are: Harry Haines, president; Jacob Garon, vice president; Donald Alexander, secretary-treasurer, and Irving Grover, publicity agent.

Mainly through the efforts of the energetic president of the club, Harry Haines, the Baldwin Players of the Lyceum will play for a benefit night, Feb. 15. The high school society is to receive all over a certain amount and this is to be divided with the Zenith board. The members of the club received tickets to sell at the meeting yesterday and the members of the Zenith board will receive tickets for selling next week. At the meeting yesterday it was decided to award prizes to those who sold the most tickets, the members of both the Lamb's club and the Zenith board being eligible to participate. There are 50-cent and 25-cent tickets, and they may be exchanged at the Lyceum box office for reserved seats.

The choice of a play to be given by the Baldwin Players was left to the Lamb's club. They chose the "Volunteer Organist," a half humorous play depicting the life of a small village. This play will be given by the Baldwin Players all week.

What promises to be just as popular as the main performance of the evening is the little one-act, black-face comedy to be presented by a picked cast from the Lamb's club members. This sketch, written by the "wizard," A. F. M. Custance, is certain to make a hit and will keep the house in laughter throughout. This will be a one-act sketch and will precede the main performance of the Baldwin Players. Several different members of the club have been assigned parts, and they are working hard on them. The first rehearsal will be held early next week and the boys will probably be coached by Mr. De Stefani of the Baldwin Players.

Tickets are going fast, which assures the fact that there will be a full house. The theater will be decorated in the high school colors and the school songs will be sung.

This evening the big senior closed party will be held in the school building. Preparations for the event have been going on for some time and an unusually large crowd is expected to turn out. The tickets were sold last week, and yesterday the decorating was started. The committee reports that about 200 tickets have been disposed of, thus assuring them of the fact that practically the whole class will be there. Last year, as juniors, the present senior class held one of the most successful "closed" parties that has ever been given in the high school. Practically every one in the class attended and they all enjoyed themselves very much. A big dinner was first on the program and after doing full justice to it, they enjoyed themselves dancing and playing games. There was plenty to do for the ones that could not dance. This year the same plan exactly will be followed out, and it is expectel that every one will spend a most enjoyable time.

An able and enthusiastic committee headed by Townsend Hoopes and Mary Middlecoff is responsible for the complete success of the affair. Robert Zagar, president of the senior class, will act as toastmaster and toasts will be given by the following: Margaret Johnson, Muriel Smith, Irving Grover, Robert Kerr, Mary McGonagle, Vina Walz, Albert Armstrong, Reginald Reed, Floyd Lawson, Willard Thorp, George Lawson, Frank Walsh, Mr. Rasey, Mr. Young, Mr. Denfeld, Miss Taylor, Miss Rockwood and Miss Wright.

The class is greatly indebted to Miss Taylor, the senior class advisor, for her untiring efforts in making the event a success. The music will be supplied by the Gomberg orchestra.

WEST END

WILL TAKE PART IN STYLE SHOW

Merchants Discuss Matter at Monthly Luncheon and Will Co-operate.

Merchants of the West end will participate in the "Duluth Style show," beginning on March 24, and continuing until March 27. At the monthly noon luncheon of the merchants held yesterday at the Rex hotel, the business men of the district decided that they would take part in the affair and conform with the rules set by the committee.

The "style show" week was the principal subject of discussion. The merchants decided to decorate their windows especially for the affair, close up at 5 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, March 25, and reopen for the display of goods at 7 o'clock and remain open until 9:30 o'clock. The stores will follow the same plan on Friday evening, March 26, except as to the closing. On the two evenings the goods will be on display only and the public will be invited to view them. No goods will be sold during these evenings.

Co-operation with the uptown committee in every particular will be given by the West end business men. American-made goods will be given precedence in all of the displays and "Made in the United States" is to be displayed in all windows.

The next meeting of the business men, scheduled during the first week in March, will be postponed until in April. This was done in view of the fact that the West End Commercial club has planned to hold its annual banquet that week. All of the business men of the district as well as their ladies expect to attend that affair.

POWELL WILL DELIVER WAR LECTURE HERE

Rev. John Walker Powell, former pastor of the Endion Methodist church, now pastor of a Minneapolis church, will lecture on Wednesday evening on "America and World's Peace" at the Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The lecture will be based on the present war situation in Europe following a study of the war as made by the pastor during the six months of the war.

Rev. Mr. Powell is probably one of the best pulpit orators in the state, and has an extensive acquaintance in this city gained while pastor of the Endion church. He left here about three years ago to take charge of the religious department of the state university, but later resigned to become pastor of the Lowry Hill Congregational church of Minneapolis. He will give the lecture next week under the auspices of the board of trustees of the Grace church.

READING MORE IN WEST END

The circulation of books at the West end library, 20 North Twentieth avenue west, has increased more than 1,000 during the last year, according to a comparison of the circulation of January, 1914, and that of last month. The acquisition of a large number of Scandinavian books by the institution probably had much to do with boosting the circulation of this branch.

During the month there were 3,286 books borrowed at the institution, as compared with 2,205 during January a year ago. The adult circulation increased from 802 to 1,512, while the increase in the juvenile circulation was less, being 1,403 a year ago, as compared with 1,774 of this year.

The institution has 3,827 cards in circulation and issued 94 during January. The daily average issue of books was 131 during last month.

Miss Maud Grogan, librarian, said yesterday afternoon that several new juvenile books had been received recently and that additional adult books were expected within a short time. She also expects an increase in the list of Scandinavian books this spring.

ACTIVE IN GOOD WORK.

Epworth League Makes Interesting Monthly Reports.

Reports for January and February were given at the monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church held last night. One of the features was that the league had provided a bouquet of flowers for the church every Sunday during the last two months, and that either on the Sunday evening or the Monday morning following these flowers had been taken to the family of some sick member. The reports also showed that during the holidays the league had provided food, clothing and fuel for seven needy families and had sent Christmas boxes to league members and friends who were confined at sanatoriums or other institutions.

HOSPITAL BILL IS REDRAFTED

Will Be Submitted to St. Louis County Delegation Tuesday.

Simply an Enabling Act—County Board Has Final Decision.

Plans for a county hospital in Duluth seem to be progressing favorably.

The hospital bill has just been redrafted by Oscar Mitchell of this city and next Tuesday evening it will be presented to the members of the St. Louis county delegation in the state legislature.

It is planned to have the members of the legislature from this county discuss the bill and arrange for its introduction in the near future.

The original hospital bill provided for two hospitals in St. Louis county, one in Duluth and the other on the range, but the redraft just completed by Mr. Mitchell authorizes the construction of but one in this county. The bill gives the county commissioners the power to order the building constructed in Duluth. It is planned to spend about $150,000 on a hospital building, according to those behind the bill.

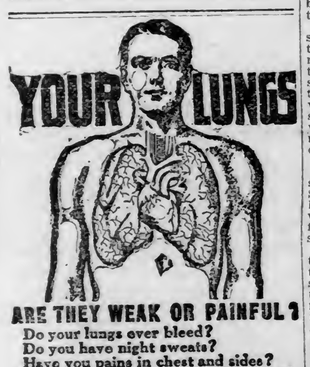

The hospital project has already received the indorsement of the Duluth Commercial club, the Woman's council, the Retail Merchants' association, the Ministerial association and all but two of the physicians in Duluth.

As provided for in the bill, the hospital will be operated under the direction of the county. The maximum price for a room will be $15 a week, while those unable to pay will receive medical attention and hospital beds free of charge.

The bill which the legislature will be asked to pass is simply an enabling act, and the county board will have to authorize the construction of the building, before work can be begun. It is expected that it will be at least two years before the hospital is completed, even if the bill passes without hitch.

To Fill Horses' Teeth.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Cement filling for the teeth of war horses is among the munitions of war being contracted for the warring nations, according to a cement concern here. Animals heretofore rejected at the St. Louis and Chicago markets because of diseased teeth, will be acceptable to army purchasers after treatment, it was said.

ROCKEFELLER AND CARNEGIE

Two Wealthiest Men in United States Before Commission.

Defend Foundations Which They Have Endowed With Wealth.

New York, Feb. 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and Andrew Carnegie testified yesterday before the Federal commission on industrial relations. They defended the foundations which they have endowed with their wealth, and neither would say he believed that the institutions constituted a menace to the religious, political or educational liberty or the people of the United States. A desire to promote the welfare of mankind, and that alone, they said, prompted them to establish the foundations which bear their names.

Widely different was the manner in which these two men faced the commission, and the audience, composed largely of representatives of labor, Socialists, individualists and members of the Industrial Workers of the World. Mr. Carnegie went to the witness stand from a seat in the audience. He declined to sit while reading answers to a list of questions submitted by the commission, or while he was being interrogated. He was in a jovial mood. The answers he gave to questions caused the audience and commissioners to roar with laughter more than once. Mr. Carnegie enjoyed that. When he left the stand he said he had not spent such a pleasant afternoon in many years.

Donations Total $324,657,390.

In his testimony, Mr. Carnegie revealed that up to the close of last year his donations totaled $324,657,390. His present business, he said, was to do all the good he could in this world. He sketched the growth of his steel business and said he "never had such a good time in his life" as when he was talking to his employes, he said. The men liked him, too.

"When they call you Andy instead of Andrew or Mr. Carnegie, you know the boys are your friends," said he.

Mr. Rockefeller's appearance as a witness was a surprise. It was learned after he left the stand, that Sergeant-at-Arms Egan went yesterday to Pocantico Hills, the Rockefeller country estate, and gave him the list of questions that had been prepared for him. He asked Mr. Rockefeller whether he would appear voluntarily as a witness. Mr. Rockefeller replied he would be very glad to do so. He promised to appear Saturday morning.

While Mr. Carnegie was on the stand, Mr. Rockefeller's private secretary presented to Chairman Walsh a note containing answers to the questions submitted to Mr. Rockefeller, and said that his employer was outside and that if the answers did not suffice he would like to be put on the witness stand immediately. He was asked to wait in a room being used by the commissioners until Mr. Carnegie had concluded.

Assisted to Stand.

Mr. Rockefeller was assisted to the stand by members of his personal staff. Seating himself with much difficulty, he started to read his answers, his voice being scarcely audible. Mr. Rockefeller appeared to have aged much since giving testimony in public last.

He declared that his sole motive was to devote a portion of his fortune to the services of his fellow men. He said he regarded the right to rescind the charters of the foundations as sufficient guarantee against abuse of the funds. He told about his meeting with J. F. Welborn of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and W. L. Mackenzie King at a time when there was labor trouble in Colorado.

He told how he directed his business enterprises and the part he played in the administration of the foundations. He said he would accord all men the right to organize, working men and business men as well, providing they kept within the proper limitations in respect to the law and to safeguarding general interests of the public.

Let Workers Have Voice.

Mr. Rockefeller said he would be "happy to surrender" his holdings, either in whole or in part, and let the workers have a voice in the board of directors just as all other stockholders do, thus giving them some of the profits of their labor. He would be very happy also, he said, to see the workers be his partners in business.

As for the $100,000,000 he had given to the Rockefeller foundation, reverting to himself or his heirs in the event of the legislature rescinding the charter of the foundation. Mr. Rockefeller said, "he had never allowed himself to worry about that." He declared that he had a great deal of confidence in the American people and their goodness. Integrity and common sense, said he, were sufficient security for the foundation. Mr. Rockefeller had never considered the grievances submitted to the Colorado Fuel & Iron company by its employes. He pointed out that he was a retired business man and had been for many years.

STRICT WATCH ON MILK SHIPMENTS

Inspector Hedman Wants Report on Cattle Tests First.

Gust Hedman, milk inspector, in his January report to Health Director Webster, urges the shutting off of outside shipments of milk until shippers report the results of cattle tests.

Mr. Hedman states that all outside dairymen have been instructed to send in the results of tuberculin tests ordered by the city health department, but that a majority of these so far have failed to send in any reports.

During January, according to the report, Inspector Hedman tested 131 cows for tuberculosis and condemned but one. The average butter fat for January was 3.9 per cent.

TWENTY-TWO INDICTED, CHARGED WITH MURDER

New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 6.—Twenty-two indictments charging murder were returned yesterday afternoon by the Middlesex county grand jury against twenty-six deputies in connection with the shooting of nineteen strikers at Roosevelt, N. J., Jan. 19. One of the twenty-six indicted men is still at large. Of twenty-seven in jail, two, John H. Nolan and Frank Coyle, were discharged from custody, no indictments having been found against them.

Winter Doubles Work.

In summer the work of eliminating poisons and acids from the blood is helped by perspiration. In cold weather, with little outdoor work or exercise to cause sweating, the kidneys have to do double work. Foley Kidney Pills help overworked, weak and diseased kidneys to filter and cast out of the blood the waste matter that causes pains in sides or back, rheumatism, lumbago, stiffness of joints, sore muscles and other ills resulting from improper elimination. Sold everywhere.

WOMEN URGE INNOVATION

Penny Lunches and Free Dental Clinics Proposed for Schools.

Board Will Sell $100,000 Worth of Bonds; Cadet Corps Approved.

According to action taken by the board of education at its meeting at the Central high school last night penny lunches and a free dental clinic for pupils may be permanently established here. The Woman's council and the Housewives league urged these innovations in written appeals to the board.

Would Try Out Plan.

In urging the establishment of penny lunches, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge and Mrs. J. T. Watson represented the Woman's council. They requested that the women be given the use of one building—preferably the Irving — in which to try out their plan. The proposition was turned over to the committee on schools with full power to act.

This committee will confer with the Woman's council Wednesday forenoon, and definite action will probaly be taken. At this conference the women will probably disclose their plans for the carrying out of their project. The financing of the work and preparation of meals are matters of vital importance to the board.

Idea Is Not New.

The penny lunch idea of not new in Duluth this year. It was tried on a small scale last year in one of the schools here, and pupils who were inadequately fed at home were found to improve in health and scholarship when properly nourished. At that time the teachers took an active part in the preparation and serving of lunches.

The dentists of Duluth have been in favor of a free dental clinic for some time, and the matter was discussed by the dentists last year. In a communication to the board of education the secretary of the Housewives' league declared that the dentists had taken favorable action at a meeting just held, and urged the board to establish such a clinic. The only things required, the communication stated, are a room and an attendant. The matter will be considered by the board.

Board Favors Cadet Corps.

Military drill as proposed for the students of the Central high school, came in for considerable discussion. A delegation of Duluth Socialists and another from Zenith lodge, International Association of Machinists, made protests against a cadet corps, basing their arguments on the grounds that military drill would tend to promote militarism. W. E. Towne, E. N. Eades, and J. Brown spoke for the Socialists. In support of a cadet corps a petition was sent in by 113 students of the Central school, stating that the corps was not intended as a military organization but simply to promote physical exercises of a manly nature. Supt. Denfeld and Principal Young had given their approval at the outset of the movement, the petition stated. The board indorsed the cadet corps proposition without dissent.

A large number of parents of pupils of the Endion school sent in a communication to the effect that the staircase of the school was unsafe and that the building lacked proper fire protection facilities. The matter was referred to the committee on schools with power to act.

Bond Sale Authorized.

A resolution presented by C. F. Colman, asking that the sale of $100,000 worth of bonds be authorized, was passed. Feb. 27 was set as the date for the opening of bids for the purchase of bonds.

Two communications from City Health Director Dr. H. E. Webster were read. One of these stated that the heating and ventilation of the Central school was inadequate and asked improvements, and the other stated that the conditions at the Smithville school were insanitary.

Some criticism of a rather informal kind was made by members of the board regarding the practical nature of the manual training and agricultural work done in the schools. This, however, was not of a very serious nature, but the suggestion that the pupils make some of the repairs about the buildings, was considered important, and the matter will probably come up again.

Traction "Y" Dangerous.

A communication from the principal of the Ensign school directed attention to a dangerous "Y" maintained near the building by the Duluth Street Railway company. The board was asked to take up the matter with the traction officials.

E. R. Cobb urged the board to consider a plan for purchasing a tract of land for the use of the agricultural students. Other members of the board were of the opinion that the pupils could work at the Northeastern demonstration farm.

REDMEN TO MEET FOR INITIATION

Members Will Gather From Duluth, Superior and Proctor.

We-Ke-Ma-Wup tribe, No. 17, I. O. R. M., will be hosts to Duluth and Superior Redmen on Tuesday evening at the Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, at a class initiation for twenty-five candidates. A large delegation from the various Redmen tribes of the two cities, West Duluth and Proctor are expected to be in attendance.

A special entertainment program is being arranged by a committee composed of A. M. Hill, Fred Mosher and John Schober. The degree work will be under the direction of Capt. H. H. Bartling.

At present the local tribe is holding a membership campaign and a contest is being waged the captains of the two sides, being Fred Mosher and C. B. McNeeley. The campaign has already produced nearly fifty new members to the order.

BODY REACHES DULUTH.

Funeral of Late J. A. McLennan From Mother's Residence.

The body of James A. McLennan, prominent Duluthian, who died at Alexandria, La., Wednesday, following an operation, reached Duluth this noon, accompanied by Mrs. Julia McLennan, the mother, and D. R. McLennan of Chicago, a brother. Charles McLennan, another brother, arrived on an earlier train.

Funeral services will take place at the home of the mother, 2224 East First street, at 4 o'clock today. The members of the family have requested that no flowers be sent.

NATION WIDE SEARCH MADE

Son-in-Law of Allan Ainslee of Duluth Has Disappeared.

Telegraphic reports from Boston today stated that a nation-wide search had been begun for Henry C. Coe, Jr., salesman for the Boston office of the Standard Oil company and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ainslee of Duluth. Mr. Ainslee, who is the manager of the St. Louis hotel, left for the East Thursday in response to a message from his wife.

Henry C. Coe, Sr., a prominent New York doctor, is certain that the boy has met with foul play, as he disappeared a week ago today and has not been heard from since. No motive for the sudden disappearance has been offered, as Coe, Jr., was happy and was in no way involved financially. A reward of $250 has been offered by Dr. Coe for the discovery of his son.

Foul play theories have been strengthened to some extent by Mrs. Ainslee, who was in New York at the time of the boy's disappearance. In her telegram to her husband in Duluth, she stated that her daughter was ill, and that she had been informed their son-in-law was dead or dying, it is said. The wife of the missing man is prostrated. The two were married June 3 last. At that time Mr. Ainslee owned the Hotel Lenox, Boston.

TWO DREADNOUGHTS ARE AUTHORIZED

House Retains Provision in Passing Naval Appropriation Bill.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Over a strenuous protest from Majority Leader Underwood, the house, in passing the naval appropriation bill last night, retained provision for the construction of two new dreadnoughts. Representative Underwood declared the nation was facing a probable treasury deficit next year of $35,000,000 and economy advocates led by him succeeded in striking out appropriations aggregating more than $6,000,000 for five submarines, a transport and a hospital ship.

The bill, as it goes to the senate, carries $144,648,902 and authorizes the following construction program:

"Two battleships of the largest and most powerful design, $7,800,000 each, exclusive of armor and armaments.

"Six torpedo boat destroyers, $925,000 each.

"One sea-going submarine torpedo boat, $1,400,000. Eleven submarines, $550,000 each.

"One oil fuel ship, $1,140,000."

All new legislation, including provisions for the creation of a naval reserve, for an aide for operations in the navy department to head a war board, and for creation of the rank of admiral and vice admiral, were stricken from the bill several days ago. An effort will be made to have them restored in the senate.

The fight for one battleship was warmly waged. When Representative Hobson moved that four ships be authorized, Representative Underwood offered an amendment to reduce the number to one. The Underwood amendment was carried, 142 to 129. Immediately afterward, however, the Hobson amendment as amended was defeated, 148 to 139, thus leaving the original provision for two ships unchanged. The bill itself finally was passed without a roll call.

Mr. Underwood pleaded earnestly for economy, declaring the house must decide between retrenchment and further expenses upon the people. He asserted the nation was in no more danger of war now than it was a year ago, and the danger would continue to grow smaller if the United States pursued its own way. On the other hand, he warned that if America entered into an armament race, it would "mean war at the end of the story."

JURY FROWNS ON JANNETT'S BILL

Passenger Assaulted on Street Car Loses Suit Against Traction Co.

Carl Jannett is entitled to nothing from the Duluth Street Railway company, or Bert Moorer, a conductor in its employ, because he received a trouncing at Moorer's hands while a passenger on a Duluth-Superior car on Nov. 16, last. At least this is the opinion of a district court jury as expressed late yesterday afternoon in a verdict returned for the defendants in the suit brought by Jannett against the conductor and the company to recover $1,030 damages.

Jannett claimed that while on a Duluth-bound interurban car the conductor stepped on his foot, shoved him about and then rapped him on the head with a steel punch, inflicting three ruts on his head. The conductor testified that Jannett was smoking and expectorating on the car floor and that when he cautioned him, Jannett got abusive and struck him. The conductor admitted the rest of Jannett's story as to the fighting.

Thomas S. Wood appeared in court as attorney for Moorer and the street railway company. The plaintiff was represented by G. A. E. Finlayson.

LEPER IN CHICAGO.

Watchman of Fashionable Club Develops Case of Dread Disease.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Half a dozen physicians in consultation yesterday diagnosed the case of Angelo Lunardi, a native of Italy and night watchman at the fashionable Exmoor Country club, as leprosy. Lunardi was isolated in the Highland Park jail, which happened to be the only vacant building available in the wealthy South side suburb. All the hospitals refused to take the patient under any circumstances.

According to Lunardi's story, he first detected blotches on his face about a month ago. Last Tuesday he consulted Dr. R. B. Jacks of Highwood. A number of physicians, including Dr. Lloyd M. Bergen, health commissioner of Highland Park, held a consultation and confirmed Dr. Jack's diagnosis. They said Lunardi had a well-developed case of leprosy.

Lunardi came to the United States June 1. His home is in Toforl, province of Lucca, where he has a wife and three children awaiting the letter which was to start them to America.

Dr. Percy L. Prentice, chief United States immigration inspector at Chicago, assumed charge of the case. Lunardi will be deported, he said.

BUSY MONTH FOR CHARITIES OFFICE

January Report of Secretary Shows an Increasing Volume of Business.

During January, 168 new cases were handled through the office of the Duluth Associated Charities as compared with 127 new cases for the corresponding month of the preceding year. This is shown by the monthly report of Miss Edna G. Meeker, secretary, which was completed yesterday afternoon.

The number of personal applications for aid was 119, as compared with 77 for January, 1914. The report also showes that 114 transient men applied to the society for aid last month as compared with 82 for the same period a year ago.

Thirty-eight new cases in the charities' files were referred by other societies or individuals, 169 visits were made to homes by representatives of the society; 228 reference and 38 business calls were made; 435 visitors called at the office; 884 telephone calls received; 322 pieces of old clothing, 107 articles of new apparel and 43 pairs of shoes distributed.

Eight women and five men were found employment.

FOURTEEN ALIENS ARE ADMITTED AS CITIZENS.

Fourteen persons were admitted to full citizenship last evening at a naturalization hearing conducted by Judge Bert Fesler of the district court. Four others had their applications continued for a month. Those who foreswore allegiance to foreign powers were: Oscar Anderson, Peter Andrew Peterson, Carl Edward Setterlund, Ignace Zabukovite, William Miska, Anders August Grip, Frank Joseph Blavet, Knute Oscar Peterson, Peter Andrew Sternal, Albert Isaac Wickstrom, Ole Thedor Rodberg, Charles Albert Leppa, Axel Wilhelm Rosen and John Cernivec.

Two Airmen Killed.

Amsterdam, Feb. 6, via London.—A military biplane fell today while flying over Potsdam, Germany, from a height of about 180 feet. The pilot of the machine and a passenger were killed.

MAN POISONS HIS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 6.—John W. Platt, a shoe salesman, aged 44 years, and his wife, Irene Platt, aged 25, are dead from poison believed to have been administered by Platt. Mrs. Platt's bulldog licked the face of his mistress while she was dying, and the dog's death ensued. Such is the coroner's verdict in a tragedy discovered yesterday. Platt had been out of employment for several weeks and was despondent. The police believe he administered the poison to his wife in the food at the evening meal.

Arrested in Baltimore.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6.—Isaac D. Mumby, indicted in 1912 in Minneapolis on a charge of embezziement, has been arrested in Baltimore, and Deputy Sheriff John P. Wall left last night to bring him back for trial. He is accused of failing to account for $859.51 belonging to his minor sister, Doris Mumby, whose guardian he was.

BONDING BILL NOT FAVORED

North Dakota Senate Judiciary Committee Reports Against It.

Prospects of Defeat of Terminal Elevator Plan Are Increasing.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bill to create a state bonding department will be recommended out of the house judiciary committee for indefinite postponement, with a slight possibility of a minority report. The contention that the bonding department would permit the creation of a state political machine, controlled absolutely by the officer in charge of the department, has had a telling effect in the fight on the measure. Final consideration will be given the question Monday.

Capitol removal fell by the wayside yesterday, the house indefinitely postponing the bill to remove the capitol to New Rockford, from Bismarck. This action was taken on a unanimous report of the house public buildings committee.

Board of Control Probe.

The board of control investigating committee met again this afternoon for the purpose of continuing its investigation of the administration of affairs by that body. The testimony of Governor Hanna, Secretary of State Thomas Hall and State Auditor Carl Jorgenson, with respect to the authority given by that commission to the board of control for the changes it made, was given to the investigators. The officials showed that they had made provision for the transfers of money as asked by the board of control, and that they considered an emergency condition existed.

Hendrickson's bill requiring a unanimous decision of the supreme court to declare unconstitutional a legislative enactment will come out of the senate judiciary committee on a divided report. The majority will be for the indefinite postponement of the measure. It has already been passed by the house.

Terminal Elevator Fight.

The terminal elevator fight still continues the absorbing topic of conversation around the legislature, with the prospects for the defeat of the measure gaining ground daily. The ill-advised effort of the Equity society forces to whip the legislature into line for the proposition has had the effect of turning support away from the proposition.

Representative Haroldson's resolution providing for an investigation of the state bank examiners' department passed the house, with Haroldson and Purcell being made the members. In the senate the bill was referred to the committee on banking. This investigation is based on charges made against the bank examiner by Grant S. Youmans of Minot.

Representative Blanchard has proposed a bill providing a penalty for discrimination in telephone rates in cities. The measure provides a series of classified cities, and control of the rate question by the state.

In the bill proposed today for the establishment of a state owned terminal elevator in St. Paul, provision is made for a direct appropriation of $75,000 to begin the work. The elevator construction and its conduct would be made the business of the state railroad commission.

For Immigration Work.

Senator Frank Hyland of Ramsey county, has introduced a bill providing an appropriation of $100,000 for immigration purposes. This measure is in line with the recommendations made at the recent immigration meeting in Bismarck, when the whole question was thoroughly covered.

Wasteful of Moneys.

State departments and educational institutions are wasteful of public moneys, in the opinion of the Lathrop Investigating committee reported to the house. The committee advises against any increase in the tax burden of the state, but it advocates the assessment of all property at its full money value, thus complying with the provision of the state Constitution that fixes the assessed valuation.

In discussing the state departments and educational institutions, the committee says money is expended needlessly in engaging help and assistants far beyond the actual need and that the state is paying more than is paid for like services in private business.

The legislature is blamed for some inequalities, the enactments having created certain offices, fixed the salaries, and then gone about prescribing duties that demand only a share of the time of the office thus created.

Salaries Too High.

With respect to educational institutions, the committee says the pay of faculty members, instructors, teachers and employes is entirely out of proportion with natural increase in salaries or that conditions in the state warrant. This is not made applicable to all institutions, the committee saying that better conditions prevail in some institutions than in others.

It is charged that the educational institutions, instead of being linked together, are on a comparative basis. The board of regents plan is advocated as the measure by which co-ordination may be obtained, useless expense eliminated, and duplication done away with.

The reduction to the minimum of the local control of institutions is urged as the only sure way of getting equitable treatment for all.

One Board Proposed.

The committee asks the abolishment of all local boards, as well as the normal board of control, proposing that all institutions be directed under the single board of regents.

No graft has been found in connection with the investigation, but the committee complains of the system as one of wasteful leaks and lack of business efficiency.

Abolishment of the mill tax system for supporting the institutions is urged at this time, it being contended that the continuation of that scheme means the necessity for another readjustment by the supreme court, a year hence, of the state finances.

Discussing requests that have been made by the institutions for the balance due them on the mill tax, and which was slashed by the board of equalization, the committee says it will be absolutely necessary to make grants to some institutions to fill the gap.

Will Not Increase Taxes.

In an analysis of the system of getting revenue, the committee declares it does not believe that the assessment of the property at its full value will in any way increase the tax burden. Under the present constitutional provision for a full value assessment, and under the actual assessment that is less than a third of the actual value, it is maintained that the state suffers unfavorable advertising, those outside the state having no actual knowledge of the assessment basis.

The committee advises that payments and commissions made to different officials be either abolished or modified.

Additional time is asked by the committee in which to introduce bills or resolutions which it may recommend. The committee still has a great deal of work to do.

GERMANS NOT TO SEIZE AMERICAN SHIPS WITH FOOD FOR CIVILIANS

paper blockade of the British Isles. The communication is simply a statement of what has been since the beginning of the war, the attitude of the navies of all of the belligerent powers towards ships of the enemy.

Closing North Sea.

"A few months ago, the English admiralty proclaimed the closing of the North sea, the waters of which are essentially neutral. Germany does not profess to close even the English channel to neutral commerce and she does not intend to molest or seize American vessels laden with foodstuffs for the civilian population of enemy countries; it is to be hoped that England will not make necessary a reconsideration of this attitude by seizing American ships like the Wilhelmina.

"Germany does, however, announce to the world that it proposes to continue to destroy ships belonging to the enemy, and it adds the notification to neutral powers that, on account of the fact that British ships are employing neutral flags, according to secret instructions now known to have been issued by the British government, bona fide neutral vessels may be actually endangered.

"Although, according to well-understood and universally-accepted usages of warfare, naval vessels are perfectly justified in destroying merchantmen of the enemy, the German government now sees fit to issue simply a general reminder to that effect, stating the actual radius of operations of the German submarines.

Answer to Prize Offer.

The warning may also be taken as in the nature of an answer to the offer of a prize of £500 made in England for the first British merchant ship that should succeed in ramming and sinking a German submarine, an offer calculated to revive the long-abandoned practice of privateering."

The state department today had received no reply from Ambassador Gerard to the inquiry sent to him yesterday by wireless, asking for the precise text and effect of the German order. Neither had the German embassy here received it officially.

Chevalier Van Rappard, minister from the Netherlands, conferred with Acting Secretary Lansing at the state department. He said he had no instructions from his government as yet, and was simply preparing himself to report, when called upon, the probable attitude of the United States government toward Germany's action.

It appeared that the minister's purpose was to ascertain, for his own government, the likelihood of a protest by the United States.

Unless the United States receives officially the information it is asking from Berlin there will be no announcement of its course.

FOOD FISH INCREASING

hatchery, are actually on the increase, and that Minnesota could afford to license even more nets because virtually all of the fishing is done in the shallow, open part of the lake which it controls, and that fishermen are doing business on so narrow a margin that a $25 license fee was all they could afford.

A bill by Chairman Edward Indrehus appropriating all fees paid for hunting licenses to the support of the state game and fish commission was laid over when Representative Paul W. Guilford of Minneapolis suggested that the committee had better see how it would fit in with possible plans for an emergency appropriation to relieve the present poverty of the commission, which has been compelled to lay off all but six of its game wardens.

A proposal to send a sub-committee of three to look over the fish hatcheries at Deerwood and Detroit was carried only by a majority of one. Representative Charles W. Bouck of Royalton was insistent that Deerwood, which is in his district, be visited, because it hasn't been used to hatch fish since it was built, and its custodian has not been paid for several years.

Semi-Monthly Pay Bill.

The senate committee on labor and labor legislation yesterday afternoon voted unanimously to recommend for passage the bill by Senator George H. Gardner of Brainerd, compelling railroads to pay their men semi-monthly instead of monthly.

Senator Gardner, who made this one of the principal issues of his campaign, is devoting much of his time to it here, and there is a good prospect that it will pass, though the railroads are opposing it strongly and always have succeeded in defeating it in the past.

* * *

The next big fight will be woman suffrage, which will be voted upon in the senate Wednesday afternoon. The proposed constitutional amendment by Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton has been made a special order for that day, and after the usual flood of oratory on both sides a vote will be taken upon it. The issue is close, with the prospects apparently favoring its passage by a narrow vote, though a number who voted for county option will vote against suffrage, and it may be that the influence of the women opposed to suffrage, who are working actively, may avail to defeat it.

Another Insane Hospital.

The house committee on hospitals for the insane yesterday afternoon considered the bill by Representative Spencer J. Searls of Carlton providing for a fourth hopsital for the insane to be located in Northern Minnesota. Charles E. Vasaly of the state board of control appeared before the committee and strongly urged the need of an additional hospital. He said that the board of control had recommended its establishment, and while it had recommended that it be located near the Twin Cities, it was not wedded to that idea and was chiefly interested in seeing that the institution is provided.

No action was taken by the committee.

Mr. Vasaly also urged the need of passing the pending bill which provides that wherever financial ability exists, $10 a month shall be paid toward the support of insane patients by the responsible relatives. This, he said, would not only lift a heavy financial burden from the state, but would lessen the population of the institutions for the insane. He said that many are now in the state's charge who would be cared for at home if it cost money to keep them in state institutions. There are many old people, technically insane, but harmless, who are put in asylums largely because it is cheap to do so and because they are nuisances around home.

The house yesterday passed the bill authorizing state banks to join the Federal reserve system.

The bill creating a board to supervise the issuance of state bank charters, with power to see that no community has more banks than it needs and can support well, was recommended to pass the house committee on banks and banking yesterday. The board would consist of the state superintendent of banks, the state auditor and the state treasurer.

Terms of Court Clerks.

The house committee on elections yesterday recommended for passage the bill to avert the election of thirty-four clerks of district court in 1916, when no other county officers will be elected. Two years ago the legislature put county officers on a four-year basis. The clerks already were on that basis, but only fifty-two of the eighty-six were elected at that time, the other thirty-four clerks having been elected two years before. This bill will give these thirty-four clerks two years more to serve, but it will save the expense of electing them, and will make it so all county officers will be elected in the same year hereafter.

There appears to be no opposition to the bill, and it is likely to become a law.

The elections committee arranged to begin hearings on the contest of C. P. Montgomery against G. C. Sudmeimer next Wednesday.

Board of Control's Budget.

The board of control's budget for the charitable, penal and correctional institutions, introduced yesterday, calls for an appropriation of $6,284,648.34, divided as follows: Anoka state asylum, $391,000; Hastings state asylum, $424,300; Fergus Falls state hospital, $628,000; Rochester state hospital, $538,000; St. Peter state hospital, $685,000; school for the blind at Faribault, $150,600; school for the deaf at Faribault, $262,400; school for the feeble-minded at Faribault, $874,983; state public school at Owatonna, $350,000; state training school, Red Wing, $237,500; home school for girls, Sauk Center, $285,100; state reformatory, St. Cloud, $552,800; state prison, Stillwater, $209,465.34; state sanatorium, Walker, $293,000; hospital for crippled children at St. Paul, $107,000; hospital for inebriates, Willmar, $163,500; miscellaneous, $232,000.

This amount is $836,648.34 in excess of the sum granted by the last legislature and is $239,351.66 less than the amount asked the legislature on that occasion.

COUNTY OPTION VOTES OF ST. LOUIS SENATORS CAUSE OF MUCH TALK

optionists assert with equal confidence that they have the fight won by a safe margin. The advocates of the county unit plan have sixty votes that are unquestioned. The antis have sixty-one. To win, the proponents of the measure must get six more votes. To save their cause, the antis must get five. The nine doubtful members will be center of attention from this time until the day the vote is taken in the house.

Adams and Griggs Talk.

Both Senator Charles E. Adams of Duluth and O. H. Griggs of Virginia gave statements to The Herald yesterday afternoon on their votes of Thursday.

"There is not much to be said in explanation of my vote on the county option bill," said Senator Adams. "I have always believed it a forward step in temperance legislation. I believe my district as a whole also favors it. I felt it my duty to honestly register the prevailing sentiment of my district as I understood it, unless by so doing I was likely to forfeit some greater benefits. Of this latter result I was not convinced. I know the sentiment of the senate, and I know it is unfriendly to tonnage tax legislation, and I am sure such a bill cannot be passed. On county division Senator Griggs and I start even, and I will take my chances on winning out on that measure.

"All I ask from friends and supporters in my district and in St. Louis county is that they suspend criticism, if any they feel, until the session ends, and the net results can be compared with those secured by different alliances. I am confident my people will be satisfied with my action on this important measure."

Said Senator Griggs: "It is my belief that one great fact is responsible for the passage by the state senate of the county option bill—that fact being the realization by a great majority of the people of the state that there must be some changes made in the conduct of the liquor business.

"It seems to be generally accepted that at present the laws controlling the liquor business are impractical and impossible to enforce—at least, are not enforced. County option appeals to me as a step toward solution of the problem, and while I am neither a Prohibitionist nor a crank on the subject, I do hope that county option may correct many of the evils which, unfortunately for the manufacturer and also the public, do at present exist.

"County option is not a prohibition measure, but merely enlarges the unit which shall decide the issue and which can better decide and enforce the public choice than can be done under present laws. It actually affects St. Louis county little, if at all."

Comments of Newspapers.

A reflection of the current discussion of the relation of St. Louis county to the county option bill may be gathered from the following extracts from local newspaper articles:

Minneapolis Journal (pro-option)—"All the venom engendered by defeat is being poured out by the 'wets' today on C. E. Adams of Duluth and O. H. Griggs of Virginia, who resisted all efforts of the anti-option men to swing them against the bill. For the first time the brewers failed to force the men from the iron country into an alliance with them, and it is announced that the 'wets' will introduce and shove through a tonnage tax bill to get revenge. This, of course, is brought up for its defection St. Louis county house members. County optionists believe the threat may be a boomerang and bring the whole St. Louis county delegation in line for county option. It is well known now that the tonnage tax has been stirred up by the liquor politicians every time they needed help from the iron counties, and many people at the head of the Lakes have made up their minds that it is time to dissolve the alliance."

Minneapolis Tribune (anti-option)—"Two St. Louis county senators, Adams of Duluth and Griggs of Virginia, put the result of the vote on county option beyond doubt. * * * To understand how the vote on county option might reach out to tonnage tax and division of St. Louis county, it must be recalled that in the many years in which tonnage tax has been fought by the St. Louis county delegations they have always been aided by the anti-county option faction. It is this faction which time and again defeated tonnage tax. But Saturday, so the story goes, the county optionists impressed upon Senators Adams and Griggs that if they would vote for county option the county optionists would defeat tonnage tax should a tonnage tax bill be introduced. Whether this story is true or not matters little. The fact remains that the 'wet' contingent got the story last night and believed it. And, furthermore, the fact remains that while the 'wets' have always stood loyally by the iron range people as against the tonnage taxers, the two St. Louis county senators failed the 'wets' yesterday.

"And the anti-county optionists declared last night that the range must pay the penalty. Incidentally they added that the county optionists would not be able to defeat tonnage tax if the anti-county optionists and the senators from pro-tonnage tax districts get together for tonnage tax. This same, it is cited, applies to the house.

"Up to last night tonnage tax was a term tabooed. The men from the range were mingling that they would get through the session without having to fight such a bill. Last night senators who voted against tonnage tax were prolific in their threats to introduce a tonnage tax bill and put it through."

The Tribune also added the information that as Senator Adams is blamed more than Senator Griggs, the same element would help put county division through.

St. Paul Pioneer-Press (anti-option)—"Whatever motive induced the St. Louis county senators to vote as they did, it seemed certain last night that they have stirred up the tonnage tax question as never before, and it was asserted that such a bill will be introduced. It is said that if a tax bill comes up in the house it will be supported not only by those opposed to county option, but many of the 'drys' will be compelled to vote for it or repudiate their past records. * * * If the reports picked up about the hotel lobbies can be taken as an index of the sentiment of the anti-optionists, Duluth, the iron range and the mining companies are in for a hard struggle as a result of yesterday's vote."

A Few Facts.

Now these are facts:

The votes that have been cast for the tonnage tax in 1907, 1909, 1911 and 1913 have come almost wholly from the county option element.

The votes that have been cast against the tonnage tax in these sessions, and that defeated it in all but that of 1909, have been largely from the anti-option element.

While the liberal element undoubtedly has found the presence of the tonnage tax bill helpful to them, and therefore have not discouraged its appearance, there is utterly no evidence that they ever connived at its introduction. County optionists have been behind it in every instance, not only as its authors but as its supporters.

The break by Adams and Griggs is an attempt to form a new alliance. It is an experiment. Upon its result depends the question whether St. Louis county ever can be a free agent in the legislature. Upon this depends the question whether Senators Adams and Griggs acted wisely. They believe they did act wisely. On their theory, there is some evidence that they may be right; but final results, not in this session alone but in the next, will be the only conclusive evidence as to that.

No Tonnage Tax.

As to tonnage tax:

No tonnage tax bill will be passed at this session.

If it comes in now, it will come stamped with two staring labels: "BREWERY" and "REVENGE." No measure thus stamped, surely, can get by the public sentiment of this state.

Moreover, whatever the "wets" may do in the house, where the bill must originate, under the Constitution, it is assured of defeat in the senate.

The liberal element is wise enough to know these things. For all its resentment and its feeling that it has been betrayed and treated with ingratitude, it knows that a tonnage tax bill coming but of such sentiments and heralded as their product cannot get far.

The talk now is, however, that the liberal element will make it an issue in the next campaign. They say that it is an easy matter to make a campaign issue of, that they can get votes on it, that they can get elected on it, and that they can bring in enough pledged votes in 1917 to put it through.

The senate, however, will not be reelected in 1916 like the house, but will have the same members. If these members have memories, even this plan may fail.

Yet there are other ways to annoy than through tonnage tax, and though the session up to Wednesday looked like a tame one from a St. Louis county viewpoint, it may turn out to be anything but tame.

by Representative Bjornson, that as the rules require that appropriation bills shall be considered by the appropriations committee, the bill was not properly before the house. It will therefore be considered by the appropriations committee. During the discussion Representative Harrison of Stillwater said he was against the bill anyway as he could see no need of a state census at all.

County Option Bill.

The county option bill reached the house this morning, but was not referred to the temperance committee because that order of business was not taken up. However, it will be so referred Monday, and Chairman Dwyer of the committee announced a meeting of the committee for Monday, thus indicating a determination to dispose of the matter speedily.

Representative H. J. Miner's bill setting aside 628 acres of state land near International Falls for a demonstration farm, recommended for indefinite postponement by the committee on agricultural schools, was rescued from defeat by the protest of the author that the bill had not been fully considered by the committee. On motion of Representative Carmichael, therefore, the bill was recommitted to the committee for further consideration.

NEW CHIEF DEPUTY GRAIN INSPECTOR

C. F. MAXFIELD,
Succeeds H. E. Emerson, Recently Appointed Chief Grain Inspector of State.

C. F. Maxfield is the newly appointed chief deputy grain inspector at Duluth, and succeeds, in that position, Horace E. Emerson, who was recently named chief grain inspector of the state to succeed the late F. W. Eva, also a former Duluthian.

Mr. Maxfield came here from Minneapolis, where he was assistant chief deputy, but he is by no means a new resident of Duluth. He resided here twice before. He started in the grain department Sept. 1, 1888, and broke into the work at Duluth. He remained here for only a brief period at that time, however, but he made the city his home for five years after that. He came here from 1906 to 1911, during which time he was sub-inspector. He moved to Minneapolis from here and has been there for the last three years.

However, he says, Duluth seems more like home to him. Mr. Maxfield is a native Minnesotan, and was born in Mankato. He has lived in the state almost all his life.

MURDER OR ACCIDENT

Section Hand Shot Through Head While Sitting By Window.

Murder or accident was the cause of the death of James Totopaulos, aged 36, a section hand, who was shot through the head Thursday night while sitting near a window in a section house at Tudor, Minn., fourteen miles south of Cloquet. Coroner C. F. McComb, following an autopsy at Crawford's undertaking rooms last night, announced that further probe of the affair would be made.

Totopaulos' brother, accompanied by a deputy sheriff from Virginia, Minn., brought the body here from Cloquet yesterday. The man died in a Cloquet hospital, where he was taken after the shooting.

Shortly before the shooting, the brother says, several shots had been fired in the vicinity of the section house, and it is believed that the bullet which killed his brother was a stray one. It passed through the sash of the storm window obliquely, without breaking the glass, and went through the glass of the inside window, striking Totopaulos above the ear.

Coroner McComb was unable to determine the caliber of the bullet, as it had been shattered badly and only a piece of it was recovered. Totopaulos had been working as a section hand for three months, and is survived by a widow now in Greece.

CITY LINKS SUGGESTED

Public Golf Course for Fairmont Park Being Considered.

Municipal golf links may be a feature of the new Fairmont park addition, where the public bathing beach and pavilion are to be located.

Mayor Prince, head of the welfare department, said this morning that he would very much favor municipal golf links, but that the proposition could not be taken up at this time. Plans are now being considered, he said, for the improvement of the park addition and the construction of the bathing beach, so that there would hardly be any funds with which to handle the proposed preparing of golf links.

Similar golf links are now being prepared in Toledo, Cleveland and Minneapolis, and it is the opinion of city hall officials that municipal links for the use of the public will eventually come in this city.

Municipal golf links, say those behind the proposal, will give the average man an opportunity to play the game, which is now open only to those able to afford large clubs and ground expenses.

In Toledo the golf links are to be opened this coming spring, arrangements having already been made by the city officials of the Ohio city. A large clubhouse has been built and membership is open to any one who pays $1 a year for the rent of a locker.

EFFECTS OF THE WAR ON BRITISH TRADE.

London, Feb. 6.—The effect of the war on British trade again is apparent in the figures given out by the board of trade for the month of January.

These show that in this month imports were decreased by $3,020,000 and that exports were decreased by $97,790,000. Food imports increased $36,250,000, but this was offset by the decline in manufactured articles and raw material, in which cotton showed a decrease of $17,500,000. In exports the decrease of coal amounted to $8,750,000 and in manufactured articles the decrease was $85,000,000. Of this last-mentioned amount $30,000,000 is found in cotton textiles.

Toast and Coffee "Piping" Hot all during breakfast, and at a COST of LESS THAN HALF A CENT if you use the Electric Toaster

It toasts the bread right on the table—toasts the second slice while you eat the first; toasts the third while you eat the second, and so on. Toasts two or three or four small slices at a time if you wish. Meanwhile, the coffee pot is kept hot by just setting it on top of the toaster.

The Electric Toaster can be attached anywhere that a light globe can be attached, and it uses 300 watts of electricity an hour. Under the new rate electricity costs you only 6 cents per 1,000 watts. You use the toaster only fifteen minutes at breakfast time, and in fifteen minutes it uses only 75 watts. So the cost for the breakfast would be less than half a cent.

Electric Toasters can be bought for $2.75 to $5.00

WILL CLOSE ITS DOORS

Lake Hardware Company Will Go Out of Business.

At 9:30 this evening the Lake Hardware company, which has maintained a store at 14-16 West Superior street, will close its doors and go out of business. The Lake Hardware company succeeded the Quayle-Larsen Hardware company, and under the two names has been in business for several years.

The company is the retail end, in Duluth, of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, and concerning the closing, A. H. Comstock, first vice president of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, said this morning:

"We are simply going out of the retail business and will devote all attention to the wholesale business hereafter. It is a nice thing to have a retail store in connection with the business, but, while I suppose we have been as successful with the Lake as other retail hardware dealers have, it has not been found satisfactory to run a retail business in connection with the wholesale business and we have decided to quit it.

"There will be no sale of goods. We will simply close and dispose of the goods in the store in other ways."

Also Blackheads. Itched, Scratched Till Burned Like Fire, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Not a Pimple or Blackhead on Face Now.

Armour, S. Dakota.—"About a year ago pimples and blackheads began to break out on my face. The pimples were large and red and would fester over night. Sometimes my face would itch so that I would scratch it till it burned like fire. Then the pimples would irritate and be sore. Many times during the night I would wake and my face would burn. Then I would have to get up and cool it off.

"I tried different tonics for my blood but nothing helped me. I tried cold creams, soaps and salves but everything was in vain. I then began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my face improved in two days. First I washed my face in hot water with Cuticura Soap and then I would apply the Ointment. There is not a pimple or blackhead to be seen on my face now." (Signed) Miss Matilda Kotrous, June 5, '14.

Keep your face young by daily use of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID DISEASE

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as well as pimples, boils and other eruptions. They affect all the organs and functions, membranes and tissues, and are directly responsible for the readiness with which some people contract disease.

For forty years Hood's Sarsaparilla has been more successful than any other medicine in expelling humors and removing their inward and outward effects. It is distinguished for its thoroughness in purifying the blood, which it enriches and invigorates. No other medicine acts like it, for no other medicine is like it.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Insist on having Hood's.

COUNTY ASKS FOR NEW BILL

Senator Charles E. Adams of this city was requested by a special resolution passed by the county board at the morning session of its February meeting to prepare and introduce a bill at the present session of the legislature which would delegate to St. Louis county authority to purchase additional land near the joint county and city work farm site for the purposes of establishing a woman's department of the correctional institution.

The board also asked Senator Adams to have the measure provide for an increase in the maximum amount which can be levied by St. Louis county for the support of the work farm from 1-20 to 1-10 of a mill on all taxable property. Under the present law, the county is hardly enabled to meet the demands made upon it.

The board received a communication from H. V. Eva, secretary of the Duluth Commercial club, stating that the agricultural committee of that organization suggested to the board that the right-of-way of highways throughout the county be cleared of brush and seeded with grass.

* * *

The board this morning appropriated $2,900 out of the special road fund for 1915 for the improvement of roads in the Fifth commissioner's district for work on the following roads: Nevalainla road from the Arkkola road to the township line, $1,800; and the Overton road, $1,100.

* * *

Favorable action was taken this morning by the board on the petition for the dissolution of School District No. 57, which comprises all of the property in township 57-15.

* * *

The board is in session this afternoon.

JUDGE'S SON ENLISTS.

Local Naval Recruiting Officer Takes Youth Into Service.

The bottom rung in the ladder of Uncle Sam's navy is good enough for a jurist's son. During the last week Joseph Aspinwall, a young man about 18 years old, son of Judge Aspinwall of Iron county, Mich., was accepted by Recruiting Officer Peter Coyle for the navy. The youth, being under age, was unable to enlist without the consent of his father, and the jurist's consent was obtained. As a result the boy was sent to Minneapolis, where he passed the required tests and was sent to Waukegan, Ill., and will later be given a berth in the lake service.

STORE HEADS AT DINNER.

Freimuth Managers and Buyers Eat and Talk Shop.

Twenty-four members of the Managers and Buyers' association of the I. Freimuth department store were entertained at a banquet at the Spalding hotel last evening. While the dinner and social intercourse were the important features of the spread, interesting talks were given by several of those present.

The important position of toastmaster was ably filled by F. P. Robinson, who injected considerable wit and humor into his numerous introductions of speakers. Short talks were given by I. Freimuth, A. Aune, F. Fleishman, Albert Mark, Miss Cargill and Miss Phillips and C. Freimuth.

Following the banquet the party was entertained at the Rex theater by D. Freimuth.

Directors Advise Changes.
At a meeting of the directors of the Twin Ports Social Service club, held yesterday afternoon at the courthouse, it was decided to recommend to the organization that present limitations as to membership qualifications be taken off, so as to admit any person engaged in social work to the club. The membership at the present time is limited only to salaried social workers. The directors will also recommend that the regular monthly meeting be held on the third Monday of each month, instead of the second Tuesday. At the next meeting in Superior Feb. 16, Fred Ward, county work farm superintendent, will give an address.

Former Duluthian Dies.
Word was received in Duluth today that W. H. Northmore, formerly assistant manager of the Booth company here, died yesterday morning at his home in Elkhorn, Wis. Mr. Northmore was 48 years of age and is survived by his wife. He left here about five years ago at the time the Booth company went into the hands of a receiver. Interment will be made in the cemetery at Rochester, Wis., tomorrow.

Demand County Printing.
Action of the Lake county board in letting a contract for county printing for 1915 to the Journal-News of Two Harbors has been questioned in injunctional proceedings which are pending before Judge Bert Fesler in district court. Charles Esse, publisher of the Two Harbors Socialist, who brought the suit alleges that his paper bid $1,000 less for the same work and that the county had no right to let the contract to a higher bidder. Judge Fesler has the case under advisement.

Payday on Gary Sewer.
City Treasurer Grant McLean and City Auditor B. J. Campbell motored to New Duluth this morning to pay off the laborers on the Gary sewer job. Owing to the fact that these two contracts are being done by day labor, the city is now compelled to pay each man, while in the past the money was turned over to the contractor in charge of the improvement.

ASK SHORT-TERM FIRE INSURANCE

A. K. Squier has just returned from Minneapolis, where he was attending the annual meeting of the Minnesota Retail Clothiers' association. He was re-elected president of the organization. The other officers of the association are: F. A. Vickman of Plainview and J. A. Anderson of Canby, vice presidents; John J. Ryan of St. Paul, secretary, and J. H. Schacht of Red Wing, treasurer.

"The convention," said Mr. Squier this morning, "was the strongest we have ever held. The clothiers of the state were well represented, and in that connection I was pleased to learn from them that the clothing business in Minnesota, as a whole, is very good. There seems to be some slowness in some of the cities, but not a country clothing merchant failed to report business excellent."

The chief business of the convention was the consideration of a bill that the association will have presented to both branches of the legislature, providing for a short term fire insurance and cancellation of policies. This is to cover the fall and spring periods when clothing stocks are the heaviest of the year. At present, clothiers take out additional insurance for one year and on cancelling the policies are returned 60 per cent of the premium. The bill that will be presented will provide for insurance for three months or more for which the regular premium for that period is to be paid, plus 5 per cent.

It is felt that this is a reasonable proposition, and has been heartily indorsed by J. A. O. Preus, present state auditor and past fire insurance commissioner. Mr. Preus says that its adoption would mean a saving to the clothing merchants of the state of $500,000 annually. The bill is being backed by eleven different organizations having a membership of 15,000 and it is believed that it will pass.

PICKPOCKETS GET $1,900 FROM ORPHEUM MANAGER

While coming out of a cafeteria at 224 West Superior street, shortly after 12:20 today, Ross Garver, manager for the Orpheum theater was jostled between two men and a wallet containing $1,900 in currency was taken from an inside pocket. No trace of the pickpockets has been found.

According to the story he told the police, Manager Garver had gone to the American Exchange National bank, corner of Third avenue west and Superior street, about 12 o'clock, and drawn the money, to be used in covering the theater's pay roll for the week.

On his way back to the office he stopped at the cafeteria nearby to get lunch. As he came out, two men started in through the narrow vestibule, without waiting for him to pass out. He was jostled between them, he says, and when he felt in his pocket a minute later the money was gone.

He returned to the cafeteria at once, but the men had disappeared. He was able to furnish the police with a description of them.

Garver came to Duluth as manager of the Orpheum here about six weeks ago, succeeding H. E. Billings. He formerly was with the Keith circuit playhouse at Tere Haute, Ind.

SATURDAY—Meeting of the Saturday club in the library clubroom at 2:30 p. m.; meeting of the Bishop's club in the Bishop's club room at 2:30 p. m.

The week of many musical events, club meetings and small social affairs that is drawing to a close promises to be followed by a week with even a greater number of attractions that will include two important lectures and an interesting concert.

Last Sunday evening Mrs. W. W. J. Crozo entertained at an informal musicale at which Miss Esther Osborne of Minneapolis, recently returned from study abroad, gave vocal numbers.

Monday afternoon the Matinee Musicale held its federation day program at which an address was given by Miss Adelaide Carman of Indianapolis, the special representative of Mrs. Julius Eugene Kinney, president of the National Federation of Musical clubs. That evening Miss Carman was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Miss Carlotta Simonds, the recording secretary of the national organization. The visitor was the guest of honor at an informal reception given by the Matinee Musicale at the Spalding hotel Tuesday morning.

Tuesday afternoon George Morgan and Abraham Holstead spoke on the housing ordinance at the meeting of the Duluth Woman's Suffrage association, and Mrs. Charles K. Dickerman entertained the members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity. That evening the third "ladies' night" was held at the Commercial club and there was a meeting of the Bishop's club.

Wednesday afternoon a large number of women attended the bridge party held in the ballroom of the Spalding for the benefit of the Red Cross work shop.

Thursday afternoon the Cecilian society studied Russian music at the home of Mrs. H. R. Elliott, and the members of the Duluth Drama Study class met at the Holland hotel to complete last week's program.

Elks' Reception.

Thursday evening the second annual "ladies' night" was held at the Elks' club rooms. The program arranged by Mrs. Stephen H. Jones and Mrs. Neil B. Morrison included selections by the Esther Gomberg orchestra, vocal numbers by Mrs. Jane Everington Skully and Miss Myrtle Hobbs and a demonstration of the new dances by Miss Berta Schmied and Leo Schmied. The unusual ability of the two dancers was shown in the opera walk that calls for perfect leading and following, the Brazilian polka and the Maurice fox trot, that Maurice has taught only to Miss Schmied. The regular weekly dancing party of the Kitchi Gammi club was also held that evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's council was held yesterday morning, and yesterday afternoon the members of the Twentieth Century club enjoyed a program of Irish readings and songs given at the home of Mrs. William Carlson by the department of literature.

This afternoon the Saturday club met in the library clubroom, the annual meeting of the Red, White and Blue society was held at the home of Mrs. Josef Lonegren, Mrs. Samuel Sheldon entertained at a bridge luncheon, and pupils of Mrs. E. D. Edson gave a piano recital at her home. This evening the seniors of Central high school will give a dance in the corridors of the high school building. The Esther Gomberg orchestra will play.

Tomorrow afternoon the Duluth Concert orchestra will present its third program in the auditorium of Central high school.

Monday afternoon the Association of Collegiate Alumnae will meet at the home of Mrs. Z. D. Scott and there will be meetings of the study class of the Matinee Musicale and the art history class of the Twentieth Century club. The Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club will meet in the evening.

Tuesday afternoon the West Duluth study class of the Twentieth Century club will meet at the West Duluth library, the department of education and home of that club will meet in the library clubroom. Mrs. E. E. Hunner will be the hostess for the meeting of the Ladies' Literature class and Mrs. H. G. Inman will be the hostess for the meeting of the Lester Park Literary club.

Bangs' Lecture.

Ernest Lachmund will address the members of the Piano Teachers' round table of the Matinee Musicale Wednesday morning, and that evening the third lecture of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae will be given at Pilgrim Congregational church by John Kendrick Bangs, whose subject will be "Salubrities I Have Met." A meeting will be held at the Holland hotel Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing an auxiliary class to the Duluth Drama Study club.

French drama will be studied at the meeting of the Duluth Drama Study club in the library clubroom Thursday morning.

Under the auspices of the drama league, Lady Gregory will lecture on "Ireland and Worlds Unseen" Thursday evening. The lecture will be followed by Lady Gregory's play, "The Workhouse Ward." If the sale of tickets exceeds the capacity of the Little theater, the lecture and play will be given in a larger house.

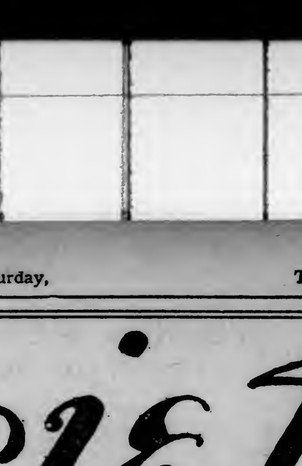

Under the auspices of the Svea Glee club, Albert Lindquest, a tenor of Chicago, will give a concert at Pilgrim Congregational church Friday evening. Piano numbers will be given by Mr. Lindquest's accompanist, and the members of the club will sing several selections. Friday evening the Duluth chapter of the American Institute of Banking will give a dancing party at Coffin's academy.

The Bishop's club will meet in the Bishop's clubroom Saturday afternoon, and the Saturday club will meet in the library clubroom.

CHICAGO TENOR WITH SVEA CLUB

ALBERT LINDQUEST, the popular Chicago tenor and soloist for the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, will appear for the first time in Duluth at the concert given by the Svea Glee club Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock at Pilgrim Congregational church.

Mr. Lindquest was one of the soloists at the sangarfest held in Minneapolis in June and made such a favorable impression on the members of the Svea Glee club they decided to have him on their course of concerts this year. He will sing in Minneapolis on the evenings of Feb. 11 and 13 under the auspices of the Apri club, an organization corresponding to the Svea of this city, both clubs being members of the American Union of Swedish Singers.

His accompanist, Mme. Christine Chindblom will give several piano solos and the Svea Glee club will sing "Herre," a number with which they

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Impulsive Kleptomania.

I suppose one must be attacked by the shoplifting mania to understand why it is that respectable women, with homes and families and means to procure the necessities, take the chances they do in stealing articles that have little intrinsic value.

The value of the articles that many women steal would not seem to be enough to make the risk, however slight, worth while to anyone. Yet it is with just this class of petty thieves that the management of the department stores have their greatest trouble. They are legion and the amount of the goods they make away with yearly, though most infinitesimal in value from the standpoint of individual theft, amounts to thousands of dollars in each large establishment yearly.

I saw three women arrested last week and they may and may not have been novices. One was arrested before she had been in a store five minutes and was caught right in the act of the theft. She had all the appearances of refinement but the store detectives must have had some inkling that something was wrong to effect the capture so quickly. The big retail establishments are zealous of their reputations in being sure of the culprit and the most glaring proof of theft is necessary before anyone is actually taken into custody.

A woman with an established business of her own once related a little experience to me which I have never forgotten. She was shopping in a store in a large city and in some unaccountable way was attracted to a cheap 25-cent pin displayed on the counter. It was something for which she had no possible use, and yet she was filled with the desire not only to possess it, but to steal it.

This woman caught herself casting furtive glances about at the salespeople and the customers in the store to see what her chances were of procuring it without being detected, and then she pulled herself together and fled from the store. This woman knows what the feeling is and believes that in this manner much of the shoplifting that makes life unbearable for storekeepers is effected and on the impulse of the moment.

MISS BRADSHAW AS SOLOIST AT THIRD ORCHESTRA CONCERT

MISS MARY BRADSHAW.
DULUTH CONCERT ORCHESTRA.

MUSIC lovers wil have an opportunity to hear Miss Mary Bradshaw in a group of soprano solos, Charles Helmer in a cornet solo and the Duluth Concert orchestra in a number of selections at the concert to be given by the orchestra tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the auditorium of Central high school. Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury will be the accompanist and Fred G. Bradbury will direct the orchestra.

Mr. Bradbury received the following letter from Miss Adelaide Carman of Indianapolis, who spoke at the federation day program of the Matinee Musicale Monday afternoon as the special representative of the president of the National Federation of Musical clubs and who is intimately associated with the work of the federation:

"St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.

"My Dear Mr. Bradbury:

"Allow me to say to you that one of the great pleasures in connection with my visit to Duluth is to find there an orchestra on the threshold of what I hope is a long and artistic career.

"I congratulate you upon being associated with a body of earnest, self-sacrificing musicians for the purpose of broadening the musical culture of your community and making of your city a vital center of artistic interests.

"I congratulate the citizens of Duluth upon having the privilege of supporting financially such an enterprise.

"I will add that the National Federation of Musical clubs has additional reason to be proud of your city. We have long since known you have a power in the Matinee Musicale, that large and enthusiastic body of women, but when one season brings out a prize-winning young composer such as Miss Faith Rogers, and organizes a concert orchestra, we indeed have every reason to point to Duluth as one of the coming music centers of America. Now if you could send a whole car load of people to the great biennial festival in Los Angeles next June to hear our $10,000 prize opera, it would be a fitting climax to this year of unusual development and give you the sustaining enthusiasm necessary to continued growth.

"Wishing you every success, I am, sincerely,

"ADELAIDE CARMAN."

Will Give Symphony.

Unfortunately Miss Carman was unable to hear the Duluth Concert orchestra that will increase its scope by giving a Haydn symphony at its next concert, Sunday, Feb. 21. A feature of tomorrow's program will be the full string accompaniment of Tschaikowsky's "To the Forest," that will be sung by Miss Bradbury.

The program is:

"La Odelisque," Turkish march.....
..... Kretchmar

Selections from "Tannhauser"..Wagner
"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delila".....
..... Saint-Saens
Trumpet solo by Charles Helmer.
"Menuetto All 'Anticop".....Karganoff
Quartet from "Rigoletto".....Verdi
"To the Forest".....Tschaikowsky
"Schnsucht" (Yearning) .....Costello
"In Arcady" .....Woodman
Miss Bradshaw.
Overture—"The King of Yvetot" .Adam
(Program Note No. 2).
"Woodland Whispers" .....Czibulka
"Berceuse" .....Jernefelt
"Crack Regiment," Patrol.....Tobani
"Temple Dance" .....Grieg

Program Notes.

The following notes descriptive of the program have been prepared by Mr. Bradbury:

"Tannhauser' was first produced in Dresden in 1845. Its first performance in Paris was in 1861; but it was a failure after three presentations and was made the butt of Parisian ridicule, even the great Berlioz joining in the tirade.

"The story of Tannhauser's love for Elizabeth, his yielding to the seductive influences of Venus and his chanting her praises in the singers' contest, his penitential pilgrimage to Rome and struggle with the sirens as he returns, and his final expiation and pardon by the side of Elizabeth's bier, is a familiar one to concert-goers.

"The selections given this afternoon were arranged by Charles W. Roberts and are given in the following order: 'Pilgrims' Chorus,' the pious chant of the pilgrims on their return from Rome, telling of sin absolved and pardon granted; followed by the well known song to the evening star, the solo in the selection being given by the trumpet; 'Processional March,' which, in the opera, is given out by the orchestra as the guests arrive for the song tournament; Wolfron's song, 'When for the Palm in Song We Were Contending;' prelude to act 2; song of welcome to Tannhauser on his return from Venusberg, and Tannhauser's song in praise of Venus."

(Program Note No. 2).

"Adolphe Charles Adam was born in Paris, in 1803 and died in that city in 1856. His success as a composer was largely due to Boildeau, of whom he was a pupil and close friend. Upon the advice of Boildeau he devoted himself to the composition of light operas. "The King of Yvetot," first produced in 1842, was one of his most successful works. In 1847 he built a theater in Paris which proved a disastrous undertaking. He recovered his losses, however, by composition and contributions to musical periodicals, for he was a ready and very attractive writer.

"His music, though not of the highest order, is always bright and gay, and some of his melodies have attained widespread popularity."

HUMORIST WAS FORCED TO LECTURE ON "SALUBRITIES"

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS, who will lecture under the auspices of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae Wednesday evening at Pilgrim Congregational church on "Salubrities I Have Met," insists that his discovery of the word "salubrity" was the result of an accident. Years ago, when "Celebrities I Have Met" was the title of one of his lectures, he was astonished to find when he arrived in a small town that the local managers had advertised him to speak on "Salubrities I Have Met." He tried to explain it was impossible for him to speak on such an absurd subject but his explanations were met by the statement that the people of that community insisted upon entertainers giving what they had been announced to give, provided the entertainers placed any value on their lives and liberty. The result of the conference was that Mr. Bangs prepared the framework of the lecture he has been giving ever since.

The dictionary defines a celebrity as "a person of distinction or renown" and salubrity as "the quality of being salubrious, favorableness to the preservation of health," and gives "wholesomeness" as a synonym of "salubriousness." According to John Kendrick Bangs a salubrity is a person of tact, sympathy and kindness, one who makes friends on the strength of what he is rather than because of what he has done.

Salubrities and Celebrities.

After disposing of the philology of the subject, Mr. Bangs tells why all celebrities are not salubrities and why salubrities are entitled to be ranked as celebrities because they are capable of making themselves loved by their fellow men. He gives example of celebrities whom it is impossible to put in the class of salubrities and of celebrities who are realy salubrities despite their reputations to the contrary. His lecture will deal with more or less celebrated persons and will include anecdotes of statesmen, poets, novelists, philanthropists and others.

A member of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae has a letter from Mr. Bangs in his own handwriting, a letter she prizes highly, in which he says:

"I can truthfully say that I have often cast longing glances in the direction of Duluth and wondered why my efficient Western representatives had not included it in my itinerary. Wherefore, with equal veracity I can say that to appear before the Collegiate Alumnae association would give me very great pleasure. The gentlemen in charge of that bureau have taken my time from Feb. 1 to Feb. 21 and I will ask them to take the matter up at once and see what can be done, adding an emphatic assurance that to go to Duluth would be a real pleasure to myself.

"My best lecture is 'Salubrities I Have Met;" indeed, it is the only one I would really care to give in a community where I wish to begin by putting my 'best foot forward.'"

"LADY GREGORY"

By B. L. T., In Chicago Tribune.

Among the places old and new
That I have wished to travel to
Is that compounded Tear and Smile
Which people call the Emerald Isle.
And of the prospect I shall find
I have a picture in my mind—
Of moor and meadow, glen and bog,
Of hill and wood, and sea and fog,
And all that fancy understands
By "hollow lands and hilly lands."

These Irish landscapes I can see
When Lady Gregory talks to me.
The quiet of the lakes and skies
Is in her deep and tranquil eyes;
The dreams of a poetic race
Are in her wise and kindly face;
And when she smiles I have the key
To Irish wit and jollity,
And music from the merry heart
In hedge and cabin, field and cart.

Dear lady, when upon a day
To Ireland's coast I take my way,
Familiar pictures I shall find—
Already they are stored in mind.
No need to journey oversea:
You bring the Irish land to me.

Matinee Musicale Study Class.

MRS. STELLA PRINCE STOCKER will conduct the meeting of the study class of the Matinee Musicale that will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. IRISH PROGRAM.

Twentieth Century Club Members Enjoy Dramatic Afternoon.

Members of the Twentieth Century club enjoyed an Irish program of unusual interest yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Carlson, 6005 London road. It was the regular dramatic afternoon of the club's literature department.

Two charming Irish plays were read by Miss Mary Shesgreen. Her part of the program was opened with the reading of an Irish poem, "Memories of Erin." This was followed by the delightful fairy story "The Land of Heart's Desire," by William Butler Yeats and "The Twisting of the Rope" by Douglas Hyde. Both plays won the hearty appreciation of the audience. They were interesting in themselves, and were delightfully given.

Mrs. Edward P. Kreimer sang a group of old Irish songs, which included "Killarney," by Balfe, "An Irish Folk Song," by Foote and "An Irish Love Song," by Margaret Ruthven Lang. She also delighted the guests with "Kathleen Mavourneen," by Crouch, and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Moore. Edward P. Kreimer and Mrs. A. Lyons were the accompanists.

Mrs. Harry C. Strong was unable to be present. Mrs. Stella P. Stocker and Miss Florence Williams gave a group of three piano duets by Greig.

Mrs. Carlson was assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. N. MacHarg, chairman of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club, Mrs. P. C. Smith, Mrs. Emma Gabrielson, Mrs. Clara A. Harris and Mrs. Edwin Ramstead. The young women at the punch bowl were Miss Olive Gunderson, Miss Agnes Elmquist and Miss Selena Carlson.

Bowls of tulips were placed about the reception hall and in the parlor daffodils gave an artistic effect. White and blue hyacinths were used in the dining room.

DRAMA LEAGUE LECTURE AND PLAY.

Rehearsals of Lady Augusta Gregory's play, "The Workhouse Ward" are being held for the presentation that will be given Thursday evening following Lady Gregory's lecture on "Ireland and Worlds Unseen" Members of the Drama league are hoping the author will conduct one rehearsal of this one-act drama that is brimfull of humor. The members of the cast are Francis Webb and Robert Walker, who play the parts of paupers, and Mrs. George Morgan, who will take the part of a country woman.

If the number of seats of the Little theater is exceeded by the number of tickets sold the Drama league will engage a larger house for that evening.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

On Friday afternoon the seniors held a skating party at the Twenty-fifth avenue east rink. Refreshments were served in the clubrooms of Washburn hall.

Mrs. Kline spoke to the girls of the school in the auditorium on Thursday morning, concerning the advantages of a college education, and how it may be obtained.

The girls were shown how health, happiness and the spirit of democracy can result from a higher education, and special attention was drawn to the quickened appreciation of art, literature and all that is beautiful, and to the increase in the breadth of vision given by a college course.

Mrs. Kline also told the girls of the many ways in which financial help may be gained during a college course, and mentioned the scholarship loan offered this year by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae to girls of the normal and high schools of Duluth.

MAN IN MOON IN SOBER MOOD

Will Not Be Full This Month; First Time Since 1846.

For the first time in sixty-nine years February will be without a full moon. February is the only month in which such a phenomena ever can happen, and the last moonless February was in 1846.

The explanation, according to astronomers, is as follows: Full moons follow each other at intervals of about twenty-nine and a half days. It happens occasionally that February's twenty-eight days come between two full moons.

To make up for this lack on the part of February this year there were two full moons in January and there will be two in March.

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling, and on all occasions, should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves, which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed, and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool, delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps or coin. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones street, New York.—Adv.

WAR WILL EXHAUST ALL BUT RUSSIA

Rabbi Believes Muscovites Will Emerge in Control of Balkans.

The European war will end as a result of sheer exhaustion, Russia alone remaining exempt, declared Rabbi Maurice Lefkovits in the lecture on "Russia, a Menace to Civilization," at Temple Emanuel last evening, while the end of the conflict will find the Muscovites with undisputed power over the entire Balkan peninsula with probably Constantinople in their possession. The lecture last evening was the fifth in the series on "Nations at War."

"This war will not end by any decisive victory or defeat of either the allies or their opponents," said Rabbi Lefkovits. "It will come to an end as the result of sheer exhaustion. But while exhaustion will overtake all other nations involved, Russia alone will remain exempt. She alone is self-supporting and does not depend on any other nation for the necessities of life. Her vast plains of rich fertility could support her through decades of warfare. She has treasures of gold stored up in churches and cathedrals, which, in case of extremity, she would appropriate. She is inexhaustible in men, for she can call into the field 38,000,000 able-bodied warriors.

Never Invaded.

"Russia has never been successfully invaded, and I doubt if this ever can be done. The end of the war probably will find her with undisputed power over the entire Balkan peninsula with probably Constantinople in her possession.

"It is sad and heartbreaking that the menace of Russia should be fostered by the co-operation of enlightened and liberty-loving people. These nations have been caught unawares in the adroit net woven by cunning Russian diplomacy.

"There are only two infiential political principles in Russia. These are the ax and the knout. Socially there are but two classes, the rulers and the ruled. The former spend their time in revelry in questionable parts of European capitals. The latter live from hand to mouth. They constitute nineteen-twentieths of the population.

"This is the sort of civilization Russian supremacy will mean. In Russia the sun moves and the earth does not."

PUPILS RAISE GARDEN TRUCK

Wax Beans, Lettuce and Cauliflower Produced at Greenhouse.

Central Students Becoming Practical Dairymen at School Creamery.

The work being done at the greenhouse, creamery and manual training department of the Duluth Central high school were highly praised by Supt. R. E. Denfeld at the meeting of the board of education last night. The butter making is progressing so favorably that the students are becoming almost as practical as farmers in their work, combining science and common sense.

In speaking of the greenhouse, Mr. Denfeld told of the good results being obtained in the winter.

"Now, in the dead of winter," he said, "we are selling wax beans and our second crop of lettuce. The tomatoes are coming into fruit heavily and we shall have ripe tomatoes by March 1. We have a succession of three young plantings of lettuce, a second planting of tomatoes and beans, and recent plantings of cucumbers, peppers and radishes, as well as some cauliflower that is about to head. Feb. 1 we made our first planting of outdoor varieties of tomatoes and celery, these to be developed for transplanting out of doors in spring.

"The greenhouse is serving its purpose very well in four ways: For practice in growing vegetables under glass; to teach in winter principles of gardening that may later be applied out of doors; for conducting experiments in agricultural botany, and to teach the principles of greenhouse management.

"I am more than pleased with the creamery. The boys have been working in groups of two or three per churning; have bought the cream and paid for all supplies; then churned, worked and packed the butter, and taken it home or sold it as well as the buttermilk. There has been remarkable interest in the butter making, and the schedule of churnings has been full regularly a week in advance. In sixty-three churnings the boys have made 1,988½ pounds of butter since Dec. 9, practically all of it being of a good creamery grade. As soon as it is possible to buy sufficient fresh milk, we shall separate our own cream, but the shortage of the local milk supply has prevented us doing this so far. We hope, however, to be able to inaugurate the full process in a few weeks. A number of the fellows, who also understand a gasoline or steam engine, will then be qualified for this work to operate a country creamery."

THE SATURDAY HERALD YOUR SUNDAY PAPER

ATTRACTIVE HOUSE FOR $2,500.00

The design we present to our readers this week should appeal to the man who wants a large, roomy house that he can add to from time to time and yet keep the first cost down. The exterior treatment is very attractive and the interior arrangement is good. The first floor is finished in Washington fir and the second floor in white pine. The building would cost to build in Duluth about $2,500.00.

BEGIN BUILDING EARLY

Optimism, coupled with reasonable business caution, seems to characterize the attitude towards business during the coming year, of those who contemplate building in the spring. It is very doubtful if conditions will ever be as favorable as they are this year, and material men representing all different branches of the building lines are stocking up to the full extent of their resources.

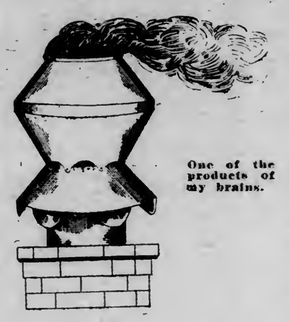

The main thing, however, to remember in this as well as former prosperous years, is to start early, as contractors and material men will figure very close on the first few jobs leaving the architects' boards. One might ask, "When do you mean, by starting early?" In answer to this the writer will say that the time to start is now—this week—as it takes from one to three weeks for the architect to make preliminary sketches. To rush him during a busy period is both disastrous to him and to you, also. If you start at once this will place your plans out on the market for figures during the early part of March—late enough, but not too late for good conservative figures on your work.

In a good many cases prospective owners delay the starting of their work until March and by so doing they lose a great deal of money and never receive as satisfactory a job as they would, had they started earlier. One visit to the office of an architect will convince you that the time to start your building operations is now.

DULUTH GIRL IS GIFTED IN MUSIC

Can Name Single or Groups of Notes When She Is Blindfolded.

Little Lucelia Williams, aged 11 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams of Duluth Heights and a pupil of the Lowell school, is creating considerable interest in her circle of colored and white friends for her talent in musical telepathy. She is said to possess the faculty of naming correctly any single or group of notes when played even though she may be blindfolded.

There are said to be many persons who can do this when a major chord has been played, but playing a major chord is not necessary in the case of Lucelia. She can name the notes almost as fast as they can be played except in the lower register. She is unable to explain her ability to do this, but says:

"I first noticed that I could name the notes by ear when I had taken a few lessons on the violin. Afterwards I began to practice this gift just for the fun of it. My sister can also name the notes, but she is too slow."

Lucelia is taking lessons from one of Duluth's well known musical instructors.

Last night at the boys' department was game night, and the gymnasium was filled with boys playing the game of battle ball. The team captained by Gilbert Hokenson won the deciding contest. In the game of volley ball the team captained by Joe Chafe, won by the close score of 21 to 18.

This afternoon the First Aid club will meet at 1:30 and take up the subject of "Clothing on Fire, What to Do and What Not to Do." After that the knot club will meet under the leadership of Willard Thorp.

At the Knights of Sir Galahad meeting tomorrow at 3 p. m., the tallest man in Duluth will speak. He is S. W. Harris of the employment department of the Central department.

At the Sunday club, Bert Wheeler will speak to the older boys on "What They Can Do for Civic Righteousness." Every older boy in the city is invited to attend.

The results of the Hustlers' club for January have just been posted and are as follows:

Team 1, 482 points.
Team 2, 529 points.
Team 3, 741 points.
Team 5, 749 points.
Team 6, 153 points.
Team 7, 201 points.
Team 8, 532 points.
Team 9, no report.
Team 10, no report.
Team 11, 170 points.

The highest points were as follows: Edward Evans, 141; Vernon Doll, 137; Howard Clark, 131.

Team No. 5 receives the January prize. The prize for February will be a gym emblem to each member of the team which reports the most points for the month.

Tonight the Knights of Sir Galahad will initiate several new members meeting for supper at 6:15.

STAGELAND

AMID the many pessimistic prophecies regarding the future of the stage that have been heard during the last years, comes the clear, optimistic note of Daniel Frohman.

Joseph, of Biblical fame, prophesied seven years of plenty for Egypt, to be followed by seven years of famine. This Joseph of the stage prophesied seven years of famine for the stage, to be followed by seven years of plenty. Like the careful business man he is, he prepared for what he foresaw. He gradually withdrew from the producing end of the theatrical business and took refuge in "the movies," disposing of all the property that he conveniently could. Now he emerges with the statement that the drama is about to come into its own again. He believes that the new combination effected by the Klaw & Erlanger and the Schubert interests will eliminate the oversupply of theaters from which the theatrical world has been suffering, and will give the producer, with something meritorious to offer, an opportunity to produce it at a profit. To keep the too numerous theaters open, the country has been flooded with countless patchwork, machine made dramas. Now Mr. Frohman believes the theatrical public has sickened of such stuff and is demanding good plays, well produced and well acted. He foresees, with the return of general business prosperity, a great opportunity for the playwright and the producer with real intelligence, brains and taste.

During the coming week Duluth will receive a visit from one of the most interesting figures in the theatrical world, in the person of Lady Gregory. Lady Gregory has done for Ireland what many idealists have long desired for America—established a national drama.

America's national drama to date has consisted of Western cowboy melodramas, freely punctuated with pistol shots, and reeking of poker, bad whiskey, and Western slang or profanity, and of the slangy, rather vulgar farces of more recent years, dealing with American business methods, or rather one type of "buisness" methods.

Lady Gregory's claim is that the national drama must spring from the people to be a true picture of the people. The American stage has long waited for the Great American Drama. Every new "Success" that survives long enough in New York to warrant a trip "on the road" is hailed as the Great American Drama, if it happens to have been the work of an American playwright. Lady Gregory and her Irish players have done more to present Ireland through the medium of the drama than any other movement of modern times. Late in life she became interested in the theater, and she was the practical business head of the Celtic renaissance. She and Synge, and Yeates and their coworkers have provided Ireland with a theater and a national drama.

Perhaps America is too big a country, with too widely varied interests and too widely differentiated types of citizens to be presented by one playwright or by one group of playwrights, but an American Lady Gregory might find in it material more truly representative of American life than Western melodrama or business farces.

At least it would be interesting to hear Lady Gregory's views on this subject next week.

Just as the theater is the first line of business to feel an approaching depression, so it is the first to feel a revival. Business in the theatrical world is improving. The Lenten season may offset the betterment, for that is always a dull period with amusement enterprises, but business locally at least, is good. Duluth continues to generously support the worthy efforts of the Baldwin Players to give good drama at popular prices, and the fact that Klaw & Erlanger have engaged Mr. Baldwin Sr. to organize and manage a string of stock companies for them in Southern and Eastern cities, shows that the Duluth company has made a name for itself even outside of the city. The Grand continues to enjoy excellent patronage among lovers of popular priced vaudeville and there is an improvement in the Orpheum patronage. The Empress will soon reopen with a musical stock company.

Few traveling attractions are booked for the spring months, but those few attractions are of an exceptional nature. Duluth, with rare exceptions, has given good support to really meritorious productions, and the few big attractions that are coming should enjoy first class business. The ideal arrangement for another season would be one theater playing exclusively the big traveling productions of the combined agencies; one theater offering a permanent stock company; one theater playing the full, higher priced vaudeville shows; one or perhaps two popular priced vaudeville houses, and some first-class motion picture theaters. It would not be surprising if matters should adjust themselves that way before September.

Emmanuel Reicher, the noted German actor and stage director, is planning to give America a new theatrical feature in what he calls "The Modern Stage." The purpose of the organization will be to produce great and unusual plays of all nations—plays which are little or not at all known to the American public. Among the plays chosen are Hauptmann's "Elga" and Ibsen's "John Gabriel Borkmann," as well as Bjornson's latest. The cast is to be known as the Reicher Players. Ruth Richmond has been engaged as one of the members.

Emma Bunting, the well known stock actress, has signed a contract with Jack Lait. She will make a Southern tour in "Help Wanted" this spring, and it is said that next fall she will be seen in a new one.

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE"

Baldwin Players Will Present Drama of Big Business.

From quaint, homely humor and philosophy, bucolic comedy and old-fashioned love story, to a stirring drama of love and big business will be the jump made by the Baldwin Players next week.

The closing performance of "Mary Jane's Pa" will be given this evening. It has proved the most popular play presented during the winter engagement by the Baldwin company, and the members of the company regret to drop it. They were almost tempted to offer it for a second week, so popular did it become.

Opening tomorrow, however, will be "The Lion and the Mouse," a drama of a widely different type, but one that is expected to be fully as popular as "Mary Jane's Pa." It was one of the first plays to be written with "big business" as its theme, and it came at a time when the trusts were agitating the public. There have been many imitations, but few successful ones, and "The Lion and the Mouse" is the only one of the plays of this class that has lived.

It has been seen in Duluth but once before, and then at the usual scale of prices for road attractions. It has never been presented here at popular prices, nor by a stock company. Miss Dorothy Shoemaker is expected to find a very congenial role in Shirley Rossmore, while Mr. Barton will be cast as Jefferson Rider and Louis Leon Hall as John Burkett Rider.

The story of "The Lion and the Mouse" is one of love and high finance, and in brief is as follows:

Judge Rossmore of the supreme bench is universally recognized as an enemy to the trusts and money kings. His daughter, a sweet young woman of decided literary attainments, is in perfect sympathy with her father's convictions, and has written a successful book, "The Octopus," in which she covertly attacks John Burkett Rider, a power in the financial world and a bitter enemy of her father.

The judge, while strictly honest in spirit, has committed the indiscretion of issuing certain correspondence relative to the purchase of securities, which in the strict letter of the law makes it appear that he has used his judicial position to advance his own personal fortunes. This correspondence falls into the hands of Rider, whose aim it is to have the old judge impeached, and put in his place a man whose sympathies and interests are identical with his own. It is at this interesting stage of the plot that Shirley Rossmore, the judge's daughter, returns from a trip abroad. On the voyage she has met Jefferson Rider, son of the great money king, and a sudden love affair has developed into an engagement, but of course the true identity of each is unknown to the other. On learning of her father's position and threatened disgrace, Shirley seeks a means of preventing it, and succeeds in engaging herself as private secretary to John Burkett Rider under the name of Miss Green. The rest of the story concerns itself with the way she worms herself into the good graces of her employer, and finally, with the aid of Jefferson Rider, she outwits the heretofore invincible and all-powerful king of finance. Not only does she outwit him, but she succeeds in winning him over completely to their side, and Rider proudly welcomes her as his future daughter-in-law.

Under the direction of the Academic Producing company, May Robson will come to the Lyceum theater Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, Feb. 19 and 20, in a particularly promising comedy vehicle, "Martha By-the-Day." In book form the "Martha" stories gave many hours of entertainment to American readers, and in the stage version, with the skilled interpretation of May Robson and an able supporting company, the quaint characters so cleverly drawn by Julie M. Lippmann should thoroughly endear themselves to theater-goers. Included in Miss Robson's company are the following players: Langdon Gillett, Emily Lorraine, Henrietta McDaniel, Edwin Brandt, Coates Gwynne, Jane Heron, Mary Mersch, Roy Ardmore, Elizabeth Warren and others.

"LITTLE NAP" AT THE ORPHEUM

Famous Monkey Will Be Vaudeville Headliner Next Week.

The most recent exponent of the Darwin theory, "Little Nap," the wonder chimpanzee, is to lead the list of entertaining vaudeville features that will be seen on the program at the Orpheum the coming week.

The sponsors of Little Nap claim that he is the most remarkable chimpanzee that has ever been exhibited on the stage; his education and accomplishments reach a higher degree of perfection than any other animal of the species that has heretofore been produced. One thing that Little Nap does that substantiates his claim to greater intelligence is the fact that he does his entire act unassisted by his trainer, the trainer not even appearing on the stage, yet Little Nap goes through his entire act like an old-time performer, with a complete understanding and appreciation that is remarkable. Little Nap is termed "The Napoleon of His Species," as he is a genuine artist among animal actors.

Most vocalists who possess a voice capable of placing them in the grand opera contingent are not only contented, but supremely happy, but Miss Dorothy Toye, who will be one of the delights of the bill, not only has one voice of this sort, but two. She sings with equal ease, range and expression both soprano and tenor. Both voices are well cultivated and either one without the other would place her in the front ranks of stage vocalists of the present day, but the combination of the two voices makes her an unusual vaudeville feature. She possesses an ingratiating personality and a happy faculty of wearing pretty gowns well, which have helped materially in making her one of vaudeville's favorite features.

"The Stick-Up Man" is the title of the exciting comedy dramatic playlet that will be offered by Robert E. O'Connor and company. The act is one of those that rivets the attention of an audience from start to finish, combining dramatic merit and rare comedy in the most delightful manner.

Lew Hawkins, "The Chesterfield of Minstrelsy," promises twenty minutes of pure fun, in his offerings of dialect stories and songs, all original and very amusing. Mr. Hawkins has been identified with every big minstrel show in America, and as a blackface comedian his title of "The Chesterfield of Minstrelsy" is rightfully placed.

As an artistic feature will be Burdella Patterson, the original Fleurette and the original Visions d'Art, who has created and is presenting another series of artistic poses. Miss Patterson is a professional model of reputation and has posed for the leading artists of Europe and America.

Adventures of the unusual kind, and a series of comedy happenings will be shown by the Jaunts and Journeys pictures.

VIOLINIST HOLDS "SPOT" AT GRAND

Russian Singers and Dancers Will Head Next Week's Bill.

On a bill offering novelty and comedy in abundance, Maleta Balconi, the celebrated European violin virtuso, artistically holds the spotlight position. Miss Balconi is rarely gifted as a musical artist. Talented, beautiful and with a magnetic personality, she holds her audiences spellbound with the execution on her chosen instrument. Her repertoire is such that her artistic talent is appreciated by all.

Dawson, Lanigan and Covert contribute some of the best dancing seen this season at the Grand. Original songs and clever patter set off by handsome costumes add to the attractiveness of the act.

"Zeke in Society" is the skit the Three Millards are offering to convulse their audiences with laughter. The comedian of the troupe is very clever and the girls are attractive, with stunning gowns and the ability to wear them well. All are accomplished musicians and their clever skit gives them ample opportunity to display their ability as comedians.

The Four Prevosts offer an eccentric novelty in "Fun in a Turkish Bath." Their comedy is an excuse to put on the best ground tumbling and eccentric acrobatics seen here. More difficult, rapid, snappy tricks would be hard to imagine.

The Hearst-Selig news, as usual, projects interesting views of the world's happenings, chief among which is the opening of the Panama exposition at San Francisco, the Rose festival at Pasadena, Cal., and the saving of the victims of the panic in the recent New York subway disaster.

A two-reel photoplay, "Life's Game," telling a story of love and politicians; one of the Helen Holmes railroad stories, "The Broken Circuit;" a comedy, "Snakeville and the Corset Demonstrator," and a Western play close an excellent bill.

On Monday the bill will change entirely and is headlined by one of the biggest and most spectacular acts on the vaudeville stage, namely, the Great Neffsky Troupe. This organization of Russian dancers, singers and musicians is claimed to be one of the aesthetic and musical sensations of the English stage. Quite apart from the individual efforts of the members, the superb ensemble work from both the point of view of scenery and costume, these ballets set a new mark in artistic choreographic art for vaudeville.

The well-known and as well-beloved Pete Baker of "Chris and Lena" fame also holds a welcome spot on the new bill. He still sings the same lullaby songs with the same sweet voice that delighted his hearers in years gone by.

Jim and Marion Harkens in a comedy singing and talking act offer a refreshing and delightful diversion in their line.

Sensational aerialists are the Savages, with their daring and thrilling feats on the revolving ladder and flying rings.

Among the photoplays will be the two-reel feature, "File 13," one of the Olive stories, "Olive and the Heirloom;" a couple of comedies, and a Western play.

On Tesday and Wednesday the special feature, "Kit the Arkansas Traveler," in three reels, will be added to the above bill.

An acquisition in the staff of Essanay players has been made by the signing of Charles Chaplin, recognized as the greatest comedian known in the moving picture world. Mr. Chaplin will make his debut as an Essanay star to Duluth audiences in a two-reel special, "His New Job," at the Grand next Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This is said to be Mr. Chaplin's masterpiece.

WILSON'S NIECE AT REX.

New "Movie" Star Will Make First Appearance in Duluth.

In addition to the usual one-day Sunday show at the Rex, Miss Gomberg and her orchestra, and Miss Robinson, organist, have arranged an old-favorite program, which will be composed of old ballads and medleys.

Enthusiasm for the picture drama has found its way into the president's family. Margaret Vale, a niece of President Wilson, is included in the cast for a "Gilded Fool," playing at the Rex Monday and Tuesday. This play was a great Nat Goodwin success, and William Farnum is considered the equal of Mr. Goodwin in the title role. The entire story is a compelling combination of love and the life of the "gay white way." The plot deals with young Chauncey Short, a typical "gilded fool," who spends his nights in frivolity. How he meets the "only girl," and through love of her is roused to a realization of his many shortcomings, is a story that strikes home.

Charles Frohman's popular star, Marie Doro, will be the big attraction in the Paramount-Famous Players coming to the Rex Wednesday and Thursday. In this delightful production Marie Doro lifts herself into engaging eminence as one of the greatest actresses of the present day. She is an exquisite creature of tender youth and fragile, sympathetic beauty. The story is a heart-gripping description that will cause laughter and tears in the same breath, but everything ends happily.

Friday and Saturday "Young Romance," featuring the well-known actress, Edith Taliaferro, the Jesse L. Lasky company's leading woman, will appear for the first time in pictures. "Young Romance" is a story of metropolitan life, hanging mainly on the aspirations and day dreams of a shop girl, "Nellie of the Notion Counter." One day, when June madness is in the air, Nellie reads a story in which the American hero is forced to pretend he is a duke to win the love of a princess. This inspires her with an idea, and she determines to be a "real lady" for the one week of her annual vacation.

The Paramount trade mark means the best, the top, the cream of all the picture markets. The only place in the city of Duluth showing Paramount pictures when they are new, fresh and snappy is the Rex Beautiful.

AT THE ZELDA.

I. S. Mistachkin Takes Management of Motion Picture Theater.

W. M. Abrahamson has signed I. S. Mistachkin to take the management of the Zelda theater. Mr. Mistachkin is well known in Duluth's theatrical circles having been in the amusement field here for the past ten years, and in that time has won many, many friends. In the past year he has traveled all through the Eastern and Western states and Canada in order to become acquainted with the outside theatrical world. He has signed up for the World's Feature Film Productions to present at the Zelda theater in this city, the world's greatest stars in their greatest successes such as Wilton Lackaye in "The Pit." This will be presented at the Zelda next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Other stars to appear at the Zelda are: Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," Clara Kimball Young in "The Deep Purple," Beatriz Michelson in "Mignon" and also in her favorite success "Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch." Lew Fields in "Old Dutch" now playing on Broadway, New York, is also signed up. James Kane and an all star cast in their latest success "Money," a new sensation. Robert Warwick and Vivian Martin in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" and Frederick De Bellville, Robert Broderick and Laura Sawyer in "The Daughter of the People" are a few of the productions that will be presented at the Zelda under the new management.

The program after next Tuesday change, will change on Monday, Thursday and Sunday.

The program shown at the present is very pleasing. For Tuesday and Wednesday the new management has made arrangements to present to the Zelda patrons a beautiful five-act drama with Carlyle Blackwell entitled "The Key to Yesterday." It is a story of intrigue and mystery, from the book by Charles Neville Buck.

"LITTLE NAP,"
At the Orpheum Next Week.

EMPRESS TO OPEN FEB. 14.

Manhattan Musical Comedy Company Will Be the Attraction.

The Manhattan Musical Comedy company has been secured for an indefinite engagement at the Empress theater, beginning on Sunday, Feb. 14.

A company of musical comedy favorites will be seen here as well as a good singing and dancing chorus.

The opening performance will be George M. Cohan's musical comedy success, "The Man Who Owns Broadway." While George M. Cohan is by no means the greatest living playwright, still anyone who took it upon himself to name one more widely-known, would have a rather difficult task. There is a tremendous demand for Cohan and it is his many plays that have created that demand. He has always been able to mix up a bundle of laughs and a parcel of tears in just the proper proportion that guarantees an evening of most delightful entertainment for all who go to the theater, where any of his plays are being produced. Of the Cohan successes the play that was the greatest success and won the most lasting popularity was "The Man Who Owns Broadway." It will be shown here on Feb. 14 for the first time at popular prices.

The company coming here numbers among its personnel several well-known musical comedy stars among whom may be mentioned Mabel Day, Clara Thropp, Olivette Rivers, Irene Berry, Eleanor Mascotte, Taylor Williams, Lee Daly, Hudson Freeborn and several others. The chorus is composed of a carefully selected number of girls picked for their dancing ability as well as voices. There will be a different play each week staged under the direction of Lewis J. Morton. Popular prices will prevail and matinees will be given on Sunday, Tuesday and Saturday afternoons of each week. Tickets will be placed on sale next Wednesday morning for those desiring to obtain their reservations in advance, it was announced yesterday by W. M. Abrahamson, proprietor of the Empress.

Included among the plays to be seen here during the early weeks of the engagement of the Manhattan Musical Comedy company will be "Sergeant Kitty," "The Gingerbread Man," "Mlle Modiste," "The Spring Maid," "Mary's Lamb" and several others to be announced later.

The musical stock company is coming here direct from New York state, where it has been playing several months since its arrival from Panama, the British West Indies and Central America, where a tour was taken under the direction of Mr. Morton.

At the Sunbeam.

Paul Gilmore's great success, "Capt. Alvarez," photographed in six parts by the Vitagraph company, will be offered as the Sunday attraction tomorrow at the Sunbeam. The story has to deal with Robert Wainwright, who is sent to the Argentine Republic to attend to his father's business affairs, and upon arriving there finds himself in the midst of a red-hot revolution. He falls in love with Bonita, niece of Don Arana, foreign minister to Rossa, the tyrant. Bonita favors the rebels, and through Wainwright's love for her wins him to their cause. He gets into difficulty, however, when his message to the rebel leader falls into the enemy's hands and he is forced to leave the country. He swims ashore shortly after his steamer leaves port and goes to the home of Don Arana, and then makes known his plan to join the rebels. He disguises himself under the name of Capt. Alvarez, and so distinguishes himself that he becomes the scourge of the rebels. After much difficulty and fighting, Capt. Alvarez succeeds in defeating the Federals and the tyrant is forced to flee from the country.

As a special feature for tonight and tomorrow, in connection with the ski tournament, John Rudd will be seen in pictures performing a complete somersault on skis. Friday and Saturday Francis X. Bushman will be seen in the "Shanty of Trembling Hill."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Panthea" will soon be resuscitated—at least partially. Petrova and six other members of the original cast will be seen in the second act of the play in vaudeville soon. The revival will take place in New York.

* * *

It is reported that theatrical conditions in Brussels are normal, with the theaters and "movie" houses making money.

* * *

"Kismet" has been compressed into denser form by the author, Edward Knoblauch, for use in the London music halls.

* * *

Emma Carus will be starred in a new play by Jack Lait in the near future. Carl Randall, who has been reported as being the new partner of Gaby Deslys, will be her principal support. The name of the play is "Maggie Magee." Randall is responsible for the music and lyrics of the affair.

* * *

Mercedes, the so-called thought reader, who created considerable astonishment by his act at a local vaudeville house last season, when he seemingly caused his partner, Mlle. Stanton, to play any tune called for by any member of the audience, seems to be gifted with the artistic temperament to a remarkable degree. It seems that in a recent performance in the West he and Mlle. Stanton got their cues mixed, whereupon the lady got a beautiful calling down before the audience. The act was canceled by the manager of the theater. Upon arriving at the next town where they were to show, it was discovered that Mlle. Stanton was badly battered and bruised. Another cancellation was the result.

The role created by Elizabeth Murray in "Watch Your Steps" is now being played by Dama Sykes.

* * *

"The Little Cafe" has been laying off for a week for the purpose of effecting a general shake-up in the cast. Alma Francis, who has been playing the leading role, has left the company.

* * *

"A Girl of To-Day" is the title of the play in which Charles Frohman intends starring Ann Murdock. It will receive its premiere at Atlantic City this week.

* * *

"The Memorandum Book," one of the recent popular magazine stories, has been dramatized by Jules E. Goodman, and is intended as a starring vehicle for Edward Abeles. The original story is by Will Payne.

Louis Mann's new play, "The Bubble," seems to have caught on at its initial performance. Mann has the part of the proprietor of a delicatessen establishment. It is intended for Music Hall in Chicago.

* * *

They are talking of taking Dixon's "Sins of the Father" out on the road again.

Andreas Dippel's next musical production will be "The Queen of the Roses." The book is by Harry B. and Robert Smith. L. Wolfe Gilbert and Malvin Franklin will attend to the musical end of the production.

* * *

A condensed form of "The Secrets of Suzanne" will be the vaudeville vehicle of Caroline White, former star of the Chicago Grand Opera company.

Eddie Ross, the vaudeville blackface comedian, will be with the John Cort show, "What's Going On?"

* * *

A crystal runway is one of the contemplated features of the new Winter Garden show, "Made in America." Nora Bayes has taken the place in the cast of Valeska Suratt, who recently quit the company in a huff.

Carter De Haven has gone into the producing end of the vaudeville business, having formed a partnership with Nate Spingold for the purpose of putting on "girl acts."

* * *

"The Vanity of Man" is the name of the sketch which will be utilized by Richard Bennett in his vaudeville venture. His first appearance in the two-a-days will take place in New York Feb. 1.

* * *

According to report, James K. Hackett is planning an elaborate production of "Macbeth."

* * *

The cast for the Shubert revival of the successful melodrama of yore, "The Silver King," will contain Holbrook Blinn, Richard Bennett and James T. Powers. The supporting company will be an English one.

* * *

"Our Children," with Henry Kolker in the lead, seems to be doing good business at the Princess in Chicago.

* * *

"Rolling Stones," Edgar Selwyn's play, which, since its recent closing down, has been entirely rewritten, will resume activities in Chicago today with a cast including Ernest Glendenning, Richard Sterling, Francis Ring, Beatrice Ingham and others.

* * *

A new musical comedy, called "The Lady of the Lake," will be produced by Harry Askin in Chicago this coming spring. The exact date has not been given out. Sir Walter Scott's poetic endeavor is not in any way responsible for the piece.

* * *

George Frothingham, well known to old-timers as one of the leading singers of the Boston Ideal Opera company and as the originator of the role of Friar Tuck in de Koven's "Robin Hood," died recently at Burlington, Vt., at the age of 75. While with the Boston company he was a colleague of such well known stars as Myron Whitney, Tom Karl, Harry Clay Barnabee and Jessie Bartlett Davis.

* * *

The present Winter Garden production "Dancing Around," will close its New York engagement Saturday of this week and will immediately start en tour.

* * *

"Excuse Me," with Sweatnam in his original role, will be done in England.

* * *

"The Lady We Love," is the name of a new Morosco production, which is said to be slated for early appearance in the Windy City. It has been tried out in Los Angeles, and will have a short tour on the Pacific coast before being brought to Chicago.

* * *

Zoe Barnett is to star in "The Red Rose," which was Valeska Suratt's vehicle some seasons since.

* * *

Anthony Hope's "The Adventure of Lady Ursula," which was played both in London and America, in former years, has been chosen by Joseph Brooks for his protege, Phyllis Neilson Terry, as her first effort under his management. In its former American production E. A. Sothern and Virginia Harned played the leading parts.

* * *

"Inside the Lines," by Earl Derr Biggers, which had a premiere a fortnight since at Baltimore, will be produced in New York shortly with the original cast.

VIOLINIST IS AN "OLD-FASHIONED GIRL"

In Wall Street and in a few other lines of effort too it is not unusual that the nobody of today is the somebody of tomorrow. However, this is not true of the theater except on rare occasions. One of these "occasions" is that of Meleta Bonconi, violin virtuoso headliner, now at the New Grand.

She was born in Germany and studied under Prof. Joachin, director of the Royal Academy in Berlin. Miss Bonconi might be called an "old fashioned girl." She is reticent almost to shyness when asked to talk about herself. "I enjoy vaudeville," she said in response to questions, "because I can give to others my art and know that they will appreciate it. I love my violin for she keeps me busy every second. She is talking every minute, to me and to the audience. Fortunately or perhaps unfortunately I have a sense of humor and after a particularly well rendered number it is hard for me to help from applauding with the audience, not for myself understand please, but for my dear violin." Her old instructor when hearing of her wonderful success said about her to a friend. "The pleasant things which have been written and said about Miss Bonconi are all quite deserved. And through it all she has been the same modest quiet girl that she was in her childhood. Praise, deserved, has not changed her. She is absolutely unspoiled. If, in her line of work she has won success it is a success achieved from merit. No one who knows her in her work could be jealous, while all might envy her. Her success has not been born in a spirit of conquest or unfair competition. It has been won by a fearless conscientiousness."

DULUTH COMMERCIAL CLUB GETS PRAISE FROM CLEVELAND

Further recognition of Duluth's Commercial club and its work in developing the agricultural resources of St. Louis county is given in the February issue of "The Public Square," official journal of the Cleveland, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce.

"Duluth, at the head of Lake Superior," says the article, "with apparently only its vast iron ore resources as a 'hinterland,' naturally had to discover its own methods for producing 'one blade of grass where none grew before.'

"The Commercial club of Duluth has not only been instrumental in securing many new settlers for the cut-over timber land that forms so large a portion of Northern Minnesota, but after securing these settlers, is assisting them in every way to make the land productive and then aiding them in marketing their crops. The work done by this club is worthy of mention for it undertook what was to all appearances an almost impossible task.

"A model experimental farm was started on some of the poorest of the cut-over land and experiments were carried on in removing the stumps and brush and in draining the swamps, thus giving the new settlers the most practical aid and assistance. They were shown also how to construct economical buildings and all the operations conducted on the farm were made available for the newcomers.

"Farmers' clubs were organized and the Commercial club co-operated with them not only in Northern Minnesota, but aided them in marketing the crops when they were ready.

"With indomitable courage, for which Duluth is noted, the Commercial club expended $6,000 a year for eight years in this work, and now the direct management of the production and experimental work has been taken over by the state department of agriculture and the whole state recognizes the wisdom of Col. Eva's efforts."

W. S. Lloyd, editor of the publication, is a brother of M. S. Lloyd, 131 West Third street, Duluth, deputy clerk of the municipal court. He spent several months in Duluth during the past summer.

Following the establishment of a committee on agricultural development of the Cleveland chamber, L. B. Dunham, secretary, made official visits to various cities, delving into work done along these lines by other civic organizations. Duluth was one of the first cities to be visited. Methods used in Utica, Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., also were studied.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

C. W. Harris, a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, was the individual star at the midwinter carnival Tuesday night at the campus of the agricultural college. In the races, which formed part of the program of winter sports, Harris won first place in the quarter, half and one mile events, before a crowd of 3,000. In the relay races for fraternities, the Delta Tau Deltas won with a good margin. Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Elpa Epsilon tied for the honors in the inter-fraternity hockey game. In the afternoon, skiing, tobogganing and a snow fight between forces of the cadet corps formed the program. In the evening, Dr. Freeman, Prof. T. W. Mitchell and Prof. E. D. Durand gave exhibitions of figure skating. As a result of the success of the carnival, it has been decided to conduct the affair annually.

Military science will be offered this semester to students taking their third year in military drill, with a full course in tactics, strategy and modern equipment, supplemented by a study of the war in Europe, so far as the absolute neutrality imposed upon Commandant Lentz will allow. The course will begin Monday and three credits will be given those taking it, providing they take a whole third year drill also. Most of the cadet officers have already registered for the course.

Wednesday was legislature day at the university. Shortly after noon, legislative party, made up of the governor, various members of the executive department, and members of the legislature, arrived at the main campus. Here it was received by the university cadet corps and by a salute of seventeen guns, fired in honor of Governor Hammond. No convocation was held, but luncheon was served immediately in the Men's Union building. After this the visitors were organized into three sections under special guidance, visiting the points of interest about the university and inspecting the equipment.

The annual Pan-Hellenic dance in which all the sororities and fraternities participate took place Friday evening in the University armory. About 250 couples enjoyed a program of eighteen dances, which was furnished by the Shibley-Squires orchestra. Prof. and Mrs. Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Vincent acted as chaperones.

The honor system has been tried, and judging from the concensus of opinion about the campus it was successful. Classes ranging from three to 150 were placed entirely on their sense of honor during the past two weeks of final examinations, and the student body as a whole proved itself worthy of the trust given. Professors came into the room, passed the papers and questions and left for their home with no further thought of the class being examined. A few ragged edged were revealed in the system as operated at present, but these merely require little adjustment by the council. As was expected, there were some violations of the rules, ten in all being reported, but these were promptly referred to the student council and are being attended to.

Thursday evening, the Scandinavian society gave a social party in Shevlin hall. This party was for the Scandinavian organization was the big event of the school year. The society is planning a great fete, to be known as Scandinavian day, to be held some time in the spring. A committee, of which Prof. Stomberg was appointed chairman, has been selected to take charge of all arrangements.

The freshman class gave a huge post exam party at Shevlin hall Monday night. It took the form of a progressive dinner dance. An introduction committee of prominent upper classmen was on hand to encourage the bashful. A novel program of toasts and stunts was given. This year, as an unusual feature, every girl whether she came with an escort or not, made out her own dance program. Prof. and Mrs. A. C. Krey and Dean Sweeney acted as chaperones.

Wonderful Invention Gives Americans "A Draught Beer in Bottles"

THE KIESELGUHR SILVER PLATED FILTER
Four Feet in Diameter

Comprising 254 filter tubes of Kieselguhr or diatomacious earth. Each tube 3 inches in diameter and 16 inches long.

Electric Motor Pump

THE KIESELGUHR FILTER MAKES FITGER NATURAL BEER A "DRAUGHT BEER IN BOTTLES"

This wonderful invention completely corrects the evils of pasteurization, in fact it does by filteration what others are doing by pasteurization and the natural results is a natural beer, thus ours is no just-as-good method, but a better one, a perfect one.

This picture of our silver-plated filter, with its cover open, shows the filter tubes in position. You will find a more complete steel engraving in every case.

The Fitger Kieselguhr filter realizes the wish of every judge of beer for a bottle beer that retains the character, taste and aroma of the best beer as drawn from the wood.

By the simple process of filtering the natural beer through diatomes of Kieselguhr, the clear, brilliant liquid of Fitger Natural Beer in bottles is identical in character, taste and aroma with the best beer that is drawn from the wood.

Besides having the wonderful character of draught beer, Fitger Natural Beer in bottles has a purity and brilliancy unequalled by any other beer.

A. Fitger.

FITGER Natural Beer
"A Draught Beer in Bottles"

Besides being the purest and most brilliant beer in America, Fitger Natural Beer is the equal in quality of any beer made in Europe. The truth of this and of our claim that it is is proved in the drinking of it, a pleasure easily within the reach of all.

"The Most Brilliant Beer in America"

CASCARETS FOR BOWELS, STOMACH, HEADACHE, COLDS

Clean Your Liver and Constipated Bowels Tonight and Feel Fine.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

WOULD EDUCATE PUBLIC ON CANCER

Health Official Urges Prevention and Early Treatment.

An educational campaign to acquaint the public with the early signs of preventable and curable cancer is started in the January bulletin of the health department, which will appear early next week.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, assistant health director, writes the following article on "Cancer Prevention," in which he explains the disease and possible measures of prevention to take:

"Every man and woman should be acquainted with the early signs of preventable and curable cancer. This knowledge when fully disseminated will very greatly reduce the number of deaths and the number of advanced cases.

Many Facts Obscure.

"There is much about cancer that is obscure. We do not know why the rebellious tissue cells grow wild and destroy their host. We may never know. Neither do we know the cause of gravitation or chemical affinity. These are ultimate facts about nature that are inaccessible to solution, but this ignorance does not prevent us from making considerable use of gravity and chemistry. What we do know about cancer are the conditions leading up to it, and the proper use of this knowledge is a very small part of the subject, but it is sufficient for the present to accomplish great results.

"The fact of the greatest practical importance in our present knowledge of cancer is that the disease in its early stages is purely local and can be successfully removed from the system by surgical means. In the second place we know that irritation in many different ways plays a most important part in the development of the various forms of cancer. This knowledge gives an important direction to efforts toward prevention and cure. The sources of constant irritation to any part of the body should be removed.

External Cancer.

"In external cancer there is something to be seen or felt, such as a wart, a mole, a lump of scab, or an unhealed wound or sore. Pain is rarely present. Cancer inside the body is often recognized by symptoms before a lump can be seen or felt. Continuing indigestion, with loss of weight and change of color, is especially suspicious. Persistent abnormal discharge should arouse suspicion of cancer, particularly if the discharge is bloody. The early and hopeful stages of cancer are usually painless.

"Knowledge of cancer is truly the power to save life. If all patients would seek examination and competent advice immediately on the appearance of signs suggesting cancer and would submit to the simple and certain operation necessary to remove the disease, the number of cures would be enormously increased. Alert intelligence and courage replacing present ignorance and fear would save the majority of sufferers from this disease."

OFFICERS ELECTED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Washington, Feb. 6.—Election of officers by the new board of directors brought to a close last night the annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States. Sessions of the convention during the last three days had been marked by notable speeches and debates on the country's general business situation, with particular reference to the effect of the European war upon foreign trade.

John H. Fahey of Boston was re-elected president, and other officers were chosen as follows:

Honorary vice presidents, Henry A. Wheeler, Chicago; A. B. Farquhar, York, P.; vice presidents, Robert F. Maddox, Atlanta, Ga., Henry L. Corbett, Portland Or., (both re-elected); treasurer, John Joy Edson, Washington, D. C.; chairman executive committee, R. J. Pettit, Charleston, S. C.

At the final session, E. A. Fline of Boston, vice president of the international congress of chambers of commerce, advocated the establishment of indemnity societies to guarantee the delivery of American goods to foreigners, as represented in selling, and the adoption of a copyrighted stamp by American trade organizations to mark goods sold abroad by their members.

CARRYING A SPEAR WITH THE FESTIVE SPORTING CHORISTERS

Can Miller Defeat the Finn, Ketonen? The Answer Will Await the Big Event of Tuesday Evening; Milburne Sayler May Swap Punches With Pal Brown; Gossip of the World of Sport.

(BY BRUCE.)

LET'S start this story by stating that we think Waino Ketonen is going to prove the master of Walter Miller. This is not precisely a prediction—it is a belief. Proceeding backward from this out in the open belief, let us advance some of the reasons for the conclusion.

In the first place the little Finn beat Chris Jordon. The Greek was and is one of the toughest of the daring brood of middleweights. It required Mike Yokel three lusty hours and some minutes to win back his title from Jordon. In the second place it is the belief of many that Ketonen is the strongest boy in the world—on a mat—at the ringside weight of 158 pounds.

Wrestling strength does not mean ability to throw weights around; it is the ability to move and handle a shifting object, to make that object lie down and roll over and play dead. If Ketonen wrestles on the mat Tuesday evening the sensational way he has been performing in his training quarters all of this week, he will prove a revelation.

As the day of the big contest draws near the more certain is the knowledge that Walter Miller is desperately in earnest. The press dispatches from the Windy City show the thoroughness of the methods of preparation adopted by the little Pole. It is do or die with Miller—he either wins or loses; he will be a hero or a "dead one."

From advance indications it is certain that Duluth will send to this contest one of the most representative audiences that ever attended a big athletic night in this old town.

WAINO KETONEN.

Seat reservations have been secured by leading business and professional men. Doctors, lawyers and merchants will be on hand. The sporting fraternity will be well represented in the gathering. Mike Yokel promises to be on hand. Jack Kearns, the well known San Francisco boxing promoter, who has been sojourning in the Twin Cities, is coming up with Mike Collins, the Hudson promoter, and "Red" Watson, the California lightweight, will be among those gathered at the ringside. Pal Brown promises to be down from the range, and Charley Cutler and Eddie McGoorty may be among those present.

This contest looks like the biggest sporting event pulled at the Head of the Lakes this season. It is a match that was created by natural demand and hence needed little artificial stimulation. For nearly two years the public has been wanting to see Miller clash with this Finn from the Eastern country, who has performed in sensational manner in various sections.

The public is thoroughly aware of the fact that bad blood exists between the two boys. That Miller hates Ketonen is the plain truth. That Ketonen has an old score to settle, is another fact that has long been known.

Charlie Cutler pins his faith on Miller to emerge victorious. Local wrestlers, all of whom have worked with both Miller and Ketonen, are down on Ketonen for a winner. The Finn rules the favorite today. Miller has a following of staunch supporters.

Saylor May Meet Brown.

MILBURN SAYLOR of Indianapolis is one of the prospective opponents of Pal Brown. The sensation of the antipodean trip is anxious to come to the Head of the Lakes and swap punches with the range man. Should any obstacle arise to prevent Joe Mandot keeping the date of Feb. 26, there is the vague possibility that Saylor will be called to arms and thrown into the breach.

Mandot has an after dinner date with Johnny Dundee in New Orleans Feb. 14. After the soiree with the Italian that sails the pugilistic seas under the Scotch name, Mandot is expected to trek up North and prepare for Brown.

Rumors whirling around the Twin Cities Friday evening had it that Mandot was intending to ask for a setback of the date. Should the denizen of the New Orleans French market district show any desire to further complicate matters in this long discussed contest, Milburn Saylor, one of the best of all the lightweights, may get the match.

On Being Well Connected.

JIM RISKIN has left to visit friends and relatives. He expects to go through the state penitentiary."

A Great Year for the Cross.

OVER in Germany Kaiser Bill is giving the iron cross. Over in this country the baseball players are equally busy in dealing out the double cross.

But Why the Disguise?

ONE diligent press agent says Jack Johnson will enter Mexico disguised as a sleeping car porter. Would he need any disguise?

It Is True, However.

THE other afternoon Dr. McNulty was at a funeral. As he was about to step into a hack, one of those in charge asked several persons to step back and let the "pastor in."

P. S.—This is an honest story—no one could imagine such a thing.

One Can Never Tell.

PRESIDENT of the Federal league has stated that he is daily receiving communications from men with money. If we had lost $176,000 in one summer we would not be receiving any communications with men with money.

Thank the Press Agent.

ABE ATTELL tried to pick a fight with Bat Nelson in the lobby of Hammerstein's.

P. S.—Bat Nelson is filling a two weeks' engagement at Hammerstein's.

It Never Rains, Etc.

THIS season the New York Yankees are to train at Savannah, Ga. Last season they had a smallpox scare there.

This Helps Somewhat.

ALL of the Australian tennis players are in the war. Why not play for the Davis cup this coming spring?

America to the Front.

ENGLISH polo players are also at war. This country should regain her position in international athletics.

Making Players Jealous.

THE fact that Directum I sold for $45,000 is said to have made some of the baseball players very jealous.

At this price how long would a horse outlaw league last?

Everything Is Quiet.

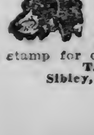

A YOUNG pitcher recently signed a three-year contract with the Cincinnati team. Money is awfully hard to earn these days.

HOUGHTON LOSES TO CALUMET SEVEN

Lazy Game Gives Latter First Victory of the Season.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 6.—Calumet won its first game of the season last night, defeating Portage Lake on Amphidrome ice, by a score of 9 to 2. The ice was slow, preventing sensational work, but Portage Lake appeared to work at a disadvantage all through the game.

Both teams were inclined to loaf. Portage Lake was unable to get its scoring machine into action at critical moments.

BASKET BALL STAR OF THE KELLEY TEAM

FRED MEGSON.

This is "Shorty" Megson. His right name is Fredrick Megson. He weighs only 120 pounds and is one of the fastest basket ball players at the Head of the Lakes. Megson was formerly of Minneapolis and played there in the National Guard league on Company M team. While on that time he played against the crack University of Minnesota team and also the famous Triple B team of Billings, Montana. Megson knows the game, is fast and uses good head work.

BIG TOURNEY FOR DULUTH

Northern Association Bowlers to Gather Here in March.

Preparations are being made for the Northern Bowling tournament that will be held in Duluth from March 12 to 22. Officers of the Major and Grand leagues are of the belief that the tournament this season will be the largest ever held here, surpassing in every detail all former meets.

When the great international bowling tournaments started the financial outlay was no greater than that expended in the Northern tournament; it is the desire of Head of the Lakes bowlers to make the Northern one of the largest tourneys in the Midwest in the course of a few years.

Outside Teams Coming.

It is reported that the largest number of outside bowlers that have ever visited Duluth for tournament play, will be entered. Minneapolis and St. Paul, the range towns and various of the Wisconsin towns are going to send teams down.

The prize list will be the finest ever hung up for a bowling tourney held in this section of the country.

Following are the officers of the association and the membership of the various committees:

Fred Steigler, president; P. J. Schultz, vice president; C. F. Berini, treasurer; Nick Jensen, secretary.

Committees.

Schedule—Nick Jensen, chairman; Sam Olsen, Charles Foster, J. N. Deller.

Prize—J. N. Deller, chairman; G. U. Ferguson, Charles Berg, George Murphy, W. A. Campbell.

Arrangements — Frank Kohnen, chairman; Ray Meisner, John Wold, Norman Lackie, W. C. Currier.

Entertainment—A. J. Otterson, chairman; John Wold, Fred Neuman, P. J. Schultz, O. O. Whitney and Frank Kemp.

PREPARE FOR CRUCIAL GAME

Varsity Quint Puts Great Stress of Contest With Maroons.

Football Dates Approved; All Lines of Sport Show Activity.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The varsity basket ball team is putting in extra hours this week preparing for what it believes will be the most crucial game on the Gopher basket ball schedule. Tonight the team will meet the University of Chicago quint on the local floor.

The Maroons have one of the best records for the season, having defeated Wisconsin on its own floor. The Maroons also easily defeated Northwestern and Purdue and are expected to show great skill against the Gophers. Dr. Cooke, coach, believes that Minnesota will show more speed and more team work Saturday than any Minnesota team has in recent years, and the Gophers appear confident that they will be able to stop the Maroons when they clash. A victory Saturday will mean that Minnesota, Wisconsin and Chicago will be tied in the championship race. Manager Allan McBean announces that he has made preparations for one of the largest crowds basket ball has ever attracted at the armory. The Minnesota five will be strengthened by "Bee" Lawler, who will play his first game of the season.

Gridiron Dates Approved.

Football dates for next fall were approved by the athletic board of control at its meeting Wednesday and contracts signed for the games. Seven games will be played. The official season will open Oct. 2 with the University of North Dakota, and will close with the Wisconsin game at Madison. The much argued Illinois game will be played at Urbana, Oct. 30. The proposal for the spring training trip for the baseball team in Southern territory was voted down almost unanimously by members of the board. The reasons given were that it is too late to properly schedule games enough to pay expenses and that the expense was too great in view of the recent agitation against professional aspect of intercollegiate athletics. The basket ball team trip to Purdue and Chicago was approved as a routine matter. The football schedule as officially adopted, follows:

Oct. 2—North Dakota at Northrop field.
Oct. 9—Ames at Northrop field.
Oct. 16—South Dakota at Northrop field.
Oct. 30—Illinois at Urbana.
Nov. 12—Chicago at Northrop field.
Nov. 20—Wisconsin at Madison.

Another Bierman at "U."

Another Bierman has appeared in Minnesota athletics. Following Al Bierman, the halfback of the 1913 football team, came Bernie Bierman, halfback of the 1914 team and a veteran dash man on the track team. Now George Bierman, a freshman and a brother of the other two, has turned out with the freshman track candidates. He is a broad jumper and is good in the dashes and bids fair to equal the reputation made by his brothers. Bernie Bierman, however, admits that a still younger brother, yet in high school, will be trying out for Minnesota athletic teams.

Track practice will begin in earnest this afternoon. Every eligible candidate has been asked to present himself at the armory in a track suit at 4 o'clock. Despite two setbacks, Minnesota expects to have a team that will be a factor ni the conference race. The first setback came when Wallace Hamilton, crack sprinter and football halfback, announced that he would not enroll in the university for the second semester. He does, however, expect to be back in school next fall, and says that he will be eligible to the football team. Last season he was considered one of the speediest back-field men in the conference. Now it is announced that Ernest Bros, holder of the state interscholastic record in the pole vault, will be ineligible because of his studies. Bros is a former Shattuck athlete. The most dependable point winners for the Gophers will be Watson and Rapacz, distance men. Watson now holds the Western conference record of 9:51 in the two-mile run. John Martin, former Minneapolis East high school athlete, is being trained for the hurdles. McKay is depended on to uphold Minnesota's reputation in the pole vault, having a record of 11 feet. Mohumby, captain of the team, will be relied on for the record distance jumping. He has covered 20 feet 10 inches in practice. No experienced weight men are eligible, but Coach Frank is making an effort to round up every heavy man on the campus. Rosenthal, football captain, is trying out with the hammer and shot. Jack Townley and Turnquist, both members of the football squad, are also trying out with the weights.

First Swimming Team in Meet.

Coach Foster is congratulating himself over the first swimming team which will represent Minnesota in the big nine meet. The squad is working out regularly three times a week and the watch shows that they are making time which will make them contenders in the meet. Washburn, long distance events, McGillvray and Kuhrmeyer, in the dashes, Little in the backstroke, and Ellerby in the breaststroke are the most promising men now trying out.

The wrestling team will meet this afternoon to elect a captain. There is little question that the choice will be Tim Madigan, counted Minnesota's strongest mat man through his performance of winning the national amateur lightweight championship in the competition at Chicago last year.

February and March will be months of great activity on the indoor track in the armory. Four meets have been planned, one each week following the finals. The freshman-sophomore contest will be the first to take place, and in it will be a large number of former high school track stars. This event will undoubtedly attract much interest because of the large number of prospective entries. The all-university track meet will follow the fresh-soph event, and virtually every track man in school will compete for the honors. Professor Zellner of the intra-mural sports committee together with the physical education department will endeavor to arrange the intramural meet to follow the all-university meet, each college having prominent men in track athletics, and the contest for supremacy in track is bound to be just as spirited as intramural football, hockey or baseball. As handicap meet with Shattuck will probably be arranged for the last part of February. Shattuck is known to have a good track team, and the meet with the military academy would make the varsity men extend themselves to overcome the handicap. On March 6, Coach Frank hopes to enter all candidates in the Y. M. C. A. invitation meet at the National Guard armory. The winter's activities in track athletics will culminate in the conference indoor meet at Northwestern on March 20, where Coach Frank's bunch of athletes will attempt to win the championship for Minnesota. After the conference meet, there will be a lull in athletics until after the Easter vacation when the men will train for the great relay carnival April 23 and 24.

Thomas Made Baseball Coach.

Forrest Thomas, known in baseball circles as "Frosty," has been selected by the athletic board of control as the official coach for the baseball team for the 1915 season. The decision of Dr. Cooke, who coached the team last year, not to make application again for the position, left the selection for the other applicants. Thomas was assistant coach to Denny Sullivan when he held the job in 1911. "Frosty" was then in the College of Medicine, leaving at the end of the year. His determination to enroll again in the school to complete the course made him available as coach for next spring. He has been sent a contract for one year at $500. Thomas will commence work in the cage immediately after the close of the basket ball season.

Bowling Notes.

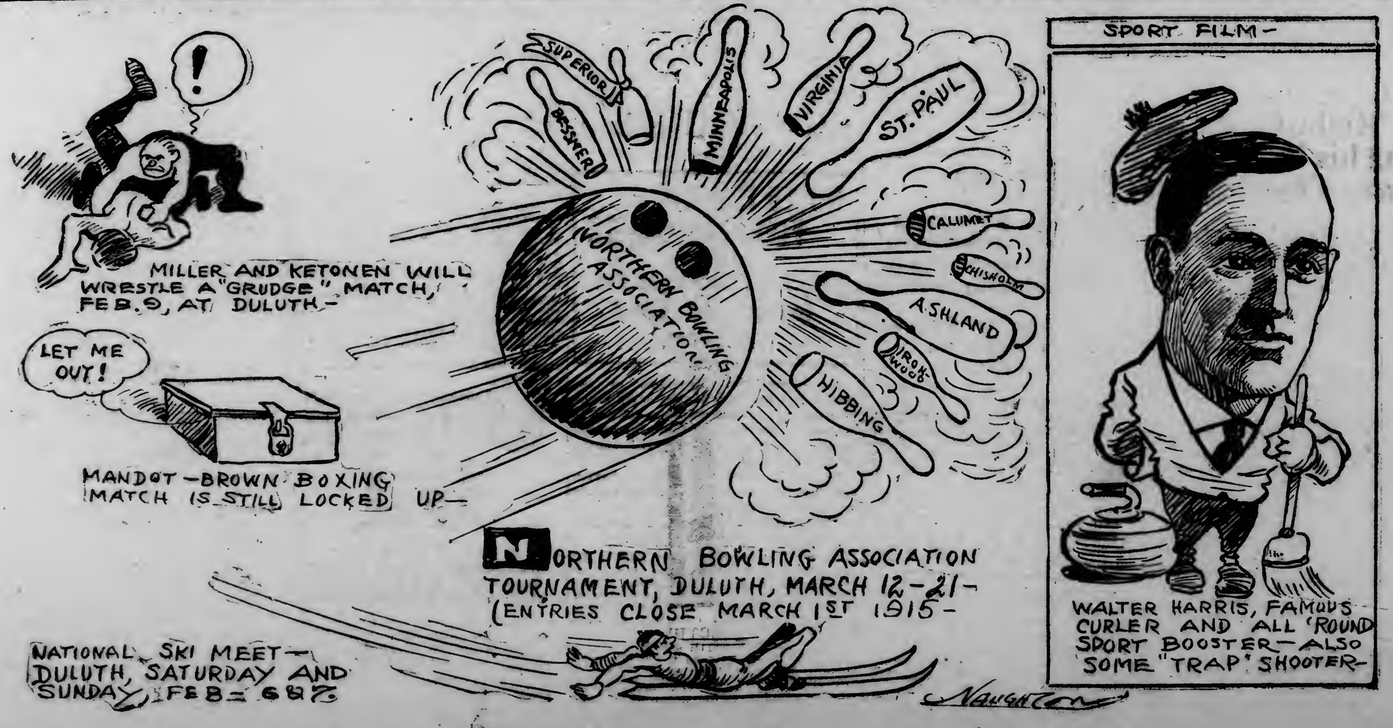

The race between Whitney and Deller for individual honors is getting better every week. Whitney is leading at the present time by one lonely pin. While they are fighting it out they do not want to lose sight of Otterson, because he is coming fast and is right on their heels. His average for the last twelve games is 209. Some bowling.

The Park Hotel team passed the Big Duluths Tuesday evening and is now leading by one game, while the Sharkcrafts are three games from the top.

Stauss was the candy kid Tuesday night. He hung up a 251 score and carried away a box of Elcora cigars, the weekly prize donated by Mulligan & Co. for the best score made in a league game.

McDonald of the Parks bowled 230 in a practice game during the week. Unless some one bowls 300 before Sunday evening he gets a box of Plantista cigars, which is hung up for the highest score for the week.

NORTHLAND SWAMPS CATHEDRAL TEAM

Duluth Basket Ball Team Badly Beaten at Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 6.—Northland college basket ball team swamped Cathedral high of Duluth in a fast game here last night. The final count was 30 to 10 in favor of the collegians. The first half ended 16 to 4 in favor of Northland.

Monahan was the only Catholic player who was able to solve the Northland defense and he, made all the Duluth points.

FARRELL AS COACH.

Former Star Catcher Will Develop Yankee Pitchers.

New York, Feb. 6.—The American league club yesterday signed Charles (Duke) Farrell, former star catcher, as coach for the club, and to develop young pitchers. Farrell held a similar position with the Yankees in 1910 and 1911, and also was employed as coach for the Boston Americans in 1912.

The Brooklyn Federals announced that they have signed Charles Kuhn of Chicago for ground keeper. He has been ground keeper for the Chicago Nationals for the last seventeen years.

U. S. OFFICIALS ARE AFTER LI'L ARTHA.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 6.—Immigration authorities at El Paso and along the border to the east and west of this city have received instructions from Washington to watch for Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, and to apprehend him should he attempt to pass through the United States to Juarez, where he is expected to fight Jess Willard on March 6.

It was learned last night that Johnson was due in Havana, Cuba, Wednesday, but that the ship on which he is sailing is two days overdue.

NATIONAL SKI TOURNAMENT IS LIKELY TO RESULT IN NEW RECORD

World's Ski Mark of 169 Feet Is Expected to Fall.

Amateurs Hold Boards First Day, With Professionals on Sunday.

Most Famous Riders in America Gather in Zenith City.

The first day's events of the two-day eleventh annual ski tournament of the National Ski Association of America, an organization representing thirty-two clubs in various parts of the West, is on this afternoon on the famous old Chester hill slide.

Today is given over to the amateur riders of the tournament. With ideal weather conditions obtaining—with just enough sleet and mist yesterday to give the packing and smoothness to the going—it is expected that the world's standing ski mark of 169 feet, hung up by Ragnar Omtvedt at Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 19, 1913, will be bettered.

Officials of the club are hopeful that some of the amateurs will stamp out the old mark and hang up a new shining shield for the world to gaze admiringly upon, for some of the greatest amateurs in the world are competing in the first day's events of the meet that is expected to prove the greatest ever held in America.

Glenwood Club Is Here.

Last evening the city was moved from its peaceful sleep by the arrival of the Glenwood, Minn., ski riders and the justly famous ski band. There were something like ninety persons in the big party. The band got in line and skid through the streets of the city, pouring forth dulcet strains of harmony.

Members of the aristocratic Nore club of Chicago are due for an early arrival. The Norge club of the same city has a large number of riders entered in the tourney.

Aksel Holter, secretary of the national association, is here assisting in completing all of the arrangements, both for the business meeting of this evening and the multifarious incidents that arise in connection with a national meet.

President Nick Nelson of the national association is also here. He is one of the prominent ski officials of the United States.

Duluth Boy Rated High.

Nels Floan of this city is one of the most highly rated of all the amateurs and his work is being closely watched. Duluth officials are praying that one of the amateurs tops the old record, as such a performance would win instant recognition to the Duluth hill.

Work has been going on from dawn today on the roads leading up to the Chester park grounds. Directors of the club are authority for the statement that automobiles will have little difficulty in making easy progress up the winding drive to the foot of the ski hill.

Big Events Sunday.

The big events of the meet will come tomorrow. Ragnar Omtvedt will then attempt to raise his own mark, and scores of the cracks from every section of the West will endeavor to not only defeat the present champion, but also send the old mark glimmering.

It is said that Omtvedt is riding in grand form this season. If the Chester hill is as fast as the officials confidently believe it to be, some sensational jumping is down on the tapis for the second and closing day of the meet.

Barney Riley of Coleraine is one of the perennial favorites who will be on hand and attempt to take the highest honors among the professionals. Carl Linberg of this city is another of the professional riders who is expected to make a great showing.

David Lind of Eveleth is on hand and the followers of the ski sport from the range region look for this boy to spring a distinct surprise in the events of tomorrow.

Big Sensation Promised.

One of the greatest feats ever performed outside of the blare and glamour of a circus is on the cards for the two days of the meet. Axel Hendrickson, the daring Duluth rider, is going to ride from the towering top of the big hill and turn a sensational somersault from the high takeoff.

Some years ago a rider by the name of Rudd startled the followers of the ski sport by turning a somersault on skis. Rudd went a short distance up the hill and made a short jump. Hendrickson goes clear to the lofty top of the big scaffold and comes down with the speed of the wind. He goes high and far and then brings gasps from the spectators by turning completely over, high in midair. It is a remarkable feat, and one false move might have people saying that Axel was a nice boy and would have done well had he lived.

Every effort has been made this year to outdo all former tournaments. All indications point to a successful completion of these efforts. It looks like the greatest tournament in the history of the national association—and it looks as if the attendance would break all records.

LEAGUE HAS TRIPLE TIE

Northerns, Fenton-Dubys and Kelleys on Even Terms in Basket Ball.

Fenton-Dubys Beat Lakes Badly; Northerns Trounce Big Duluths.

Standing of the Commercial league basket ball teams:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Northerns	2	1	.667
Fenton-Dubys	2	1	.667
Kelleys	2	1	.667
Lakes	2	2	.500
Big Duluths	0	3	.000

Two interesting contests featured the fourth set of games in the Commercial Basket Ball league, played at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. A hard game was expected between the Lakes and the Fenton-Dubys but the latter aggregation experienced little difficulty in disposing of the former top-notchers by a score of 22 to 6. The Northerns kept on coming when they cleaned up the lowly Big Duluths by a 21-to-10 score.

As a result of these games a triple tie now features the standing of the teams for first place. The Kelleys were idle and remained where they were; the Fenton-Dubys crept up to them as did also the Northerns. The Lakes drop from the top down next to the cellar, while the basement championship is at present being entertained by the Big Duluths. The various teams are just about beginning to hit their proper strides and the race will likely be a hummer. There is one more set of games in the first round, to be played on next Tuesday night, and a week from then the second round will begin. The games have been changed from Friday to Tuesday nights.

The first game last evening, although rather one-sided at the conclusion, was interesting throughout. Both teams played on even terms in the first half, each side getting four points. In the final period the Fenton-Duby men gradually drew away from their opponents and established a safe lead, the game ending with them on the long end of a 22-to-6 score. The Lakes experienced considerable "hard luck" in their shots, but never were up to the form of their opponents at any stage of the game. The combination of the winning team was a strong one. Each man played exceptionally well and all aided materially in establishing the final result. Ray Fenton made 10 of his team's points, while Hallenbeck and Olson played well for the losers.

The second game was a little scrappier than the first and the score was a little closer than the other, but the final was rather one-sided. The Northerns were victors over the Big Duluths by the score of 21 to 10. The victors were also leading at the end of the first half, 8 to 4. More scores were made in the second half, but they were made about the same proportion, the Northern getting 13 and the Big Duluths 6, thus giving the former team a 21-to-10 victory. Everyone played exceptionally well on the Northern team. Boerner made 9 points and Nelson 7, while Smith, Grant and Sullivan all performed nicely. Larson and Cole played good games for the losers.

Next Tuesday evening the Kelleys will meet the Big Duluths and the Northerns will clash with the Fenton-Dubys. Considerable interest is attached to the latter contest as it brings together two of the league's best teams. The lineups and summaries of last evening's games follow:

Lakes—		Fenton-Dubys—
Hallenbeck	F.	Fenton
Capen, Karsberg	F.	Duby
Olson	C.	Becker
McLaughlin	G.	Wisted
Zichlsdorff	G.	Burnett

Summary: Field goals—Hallenbeck, 1; McLaughlin, 1; Fenton, 5; Becker, 3; Burnett, 3. Free throws—Olson, 0 out of 1.

Northerns—		Big Duluths—
Boerner	F.	Larson
Smith	F.	Cole
Grant	C.	McGraw
Nelson	G.	Budnick
Sullivan	G.	Kerns, Richardson

Summary: Field goals—Boerner, 4; Smith, 1; Grant, 2; Nelson, 2; Larson, 2; Cole, 2; Budnick, 1. Free throws—Nelson, 3.

LET a tobacco chewer use up half a pouch of "Right-Cut," and he begins telling his friends about the Real Tobacco Chew.

Nearly all seem to like the small chew that satisfies.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

National Commission Meets.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 6.—The annual meeting of the national baseball commission will be held here today but other than deciding about fifteen cases of minor importance, little business will be transacted, according to Chairman August Herrmann. The lifting of the draft from Class AA leagues will be discussed and an election of officers will be held. Both Mr. Herrmann as chairman and John E. Bruce as secretary have no opposition.

PASSING OF VETERAN.

Roscoe Barnes, Old-Time Second Baseman, Dies in Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Roscoe Barnes, major league baseball star of forty years ago, died at his home here yesterday after a brief illness. He was 65 years of age. "Ross" Barnes, as he was known to the baseball world, played with the Boston and Chicago clubs of the National league.

He was with Boston from 1872 until 1875 during which time Boston won four pennants. Barnes played second base. He came to the Chicago team in 1878.

HIBBING IS NEW VICTIM

Range High School Basket Ball Team Routed By Centrals.

Grudge Contest Marked By Hard Luck Plays on Both Sides.

In a rough but fast and exciting game of basket ball at the Central gymnasium last evening, the Central high school quintet defeated the crack Hibbing aggregation by a score of 16 to 7. The first half concluded with the locals on the long end of a 7 to 3 score. In the second half Duluth made 9 points and the visitors 4. The game was a "grudge" contest, Hibbing wishing to revenge their close defeat of last year, and Central determined that they should not. For the the Central team, Capt. Solheim and Karon played especially well while Murphy and Quayle played excellent games for the visitors.

The Hibbing team was especially strong and at times it looked as if they were going to take the measure of the Red and White warriors. It can also be freely admitted that they "had it" on the locals at many stages of the game, carrying the ball from one end of the floor to the other and losing out only by a hard shot. With all respect to the Central men, however, it can be said that they certainly suffered considerable hard luck in their shots. It was plainly evident that Central was "off color" or else the score would have been considerably larger. It was a case of the best team winning.

The game was somewhat rough and several fouls were called on each side, but this is accounted for by the fact that the game was a tight one. The whole Hibbing team was playing in good form and they exhibited some flashy team work at many times. The locals showed better team work than they did in their last big game and a noticeable improvement was evident. The Hibbing boys put up a great scrap and made the game interesting at all times.

A large crowd attended the game, a goodly proportion of them being from Hibbing. Central turned out a fair-sized crowd but not what was expected.

Next Friday night the Superior highs will be over here with the intention of taking the local's scalp. This is the big rivalry game of the season and is always the cause of much enthusiasm. The lineup and summaries of the game last night follow:

Centrals—		—Hibbing.
Scrivens	f.	Murphy
Karon	f.	Kaiser
Moore	c.	Porteus
Taylor	g.	Williams
Solheim	g.	Quayle

Summary: Goals—Scrivens, 2; Karon, 2; Solheim, 3; Murphy, 1; Porteus, 1. Free throws—Moore, 1; Karon, 1; Kaiser.

SUPERIOR BOY SHADED BY VET

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 6.—"Peanuts" Schieberl, Milwaukee, last night won by a shade in the first 10-round bout of a double windup from Maurice Flynn of Chicago, in the opinion of the majority of newspaper critics. The fight was fast and clean, Schieberl showing up to advantage with hard lefts in the open fighting, while Flynn had the advantage at close range with punishment to Schieberl's body.

In the final bout, Johnnie Ertle, St. Paul, won a popular decision over Chick Hayes, Indianapolis, in ten fast, slashing rounds. Ertle carried the fight, Hayes standing back and defending himself from Ertle's straight left drives to the face. In the fourth round Hayes opened up on Ertle with rights to the face and body, this being his only round. Two rounds went even, the rest being Ertle's.

Jack Redmond, Milwaukee, had a shade over Ed Bullings, Superior, in the semi-windup.

WEATHER IS BAD; HOCKEY GAME OFF.

Owing to soft ice and adverse weather conditions, the hockey contest between the Northerns and Central high school teams scheduled for the French rink last evening was called off. Arrangements for the playing of the game will be made today.

Not only was the ice in wretched condition as a result of the thaw, but the drifting snow and heavy wind contributed further to make it bad for all concerned.

DULUTH CURLERS WIN MANLEY-M'LENNAN CUP

Superior Stane Throwers Beaten By Aggregate Score of 52 to 35—Bradley Is Only Duluth Skip to Drop a Game—Playdown to Begin Immediately.

Duluth curlers cinched their claim to the Manley-McLennan trophy last evening on the ice of the Superior Curling club by winning from the village curlers by the aggregate score of 52 to 35, and winning three out of four games.

Joel Gates defeated Ralph Brodley's rink by the score of 10 to 7. This one was one of the best games of the evening. Gates laid a rock in the eleventh head with his last shot and Bradley laid the final score in the final end with his last rock. It was nip and tuck, but the two three heads laid by the Superior curlers told the tale.

Whyte gave Stephenson a beating and Billy Dinham staked A. K. Smith to one fine drubbing. Dinham was in fine form and made some remarkable shots.

Dunlop, taking the place of Ron McLeod, handily took Summerville down the line to a bad beating, winding up a fine young party for Duluth.

As a result of the win of the Duluthians the play-down in the Manley-McLennan event will start at the local club this week. The draw will be made today and play may start Monday or Tuesday.

Following is the result of the play by ends:

Dul., Bradley	0	1	0	1	0	1	0	2	0	1— 7

DULUTH TO MEET FAST ST. PAUL TEAM

Curling Club Septet to Play Apostle Puck Chasers Monday Evening at Hippodrome Rink.

Members of the Duluth Curling club hockey team will leave tomorrow afternoon for St. Paul. On Monday evening at the huge state fair grounds hippodrome the Linderites will stack up against the crack septet of the St. Paul Athletic club.

Were it not for the fact that the game is to be played on one of the largest inclosed rinks in the United States, Duluth fans would feel easy regarding the outcome of the game. St. Paul has a squad of exceptionally fast skaters and in the big rink the Apostles have made some of the visiting teams look rather bad.

It is expected that one of the largest crowds that ever attended a hockey game in the West will be on hand. The fame of Duluth has penetrated to the Twin Cities. Our boys are held in high esteem down in that section of the country, and as Ray Johns has worked up a frenzied following for his aggregation of puck chasers, some party is planned.

BEMIDJI TEAM BEATS OSWEGO

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 6.—The "Big Bemidg" basket ball team defeated the fast Oswego, (N. Y.,) team before a large crowd at the Armory last night in one of the most exciting games played here this season. The score was 19 to 15. Brandon and Bestul starred for Bemidji, and Murnane played the best game for the visitors.

At the end of the first half the score stood 9 to 8 in favor of Oswego. A few minutes later the most brilliant play of the evening was made by Bestul, who made a field basket and changed the score to 11 to 12 in favor of Bemidji.

Grimstad, the fast center for Oswego, did not play until the last ten minutes of the game, when he was put in in an effort to change defeat into victory. He replaced Noll, but the change had no perceptible effect.

COLLEGES CLASH IN INDOOR MEET

Boston, Mass., Feb. 6.—Colleges and athletic club champions will compete tonight in the annual indoor invitation track and field meet of the Boston Athletic association. Nearly all of the 400 entrants are holders of national, intercollegiate, interscholastic or sectional titles.

An indication of the high grade of contestants is contained in the entry list for the 1,000-yard run which, like several other events, is handicapped. The six men placed at scratch in a select field of thirty-five are: C. L. Selden of Cornell, intercollegiate mile champion; Abel R. Kiviat of New York, national mile title holder; Capt. Francis Capper of Harvard, William Bingham of Harvard, W. F. Gordon of Yonkers, N. Y., national junior mile champion, and Joe Higgins of Holy Cross. It is expected that new indoor records will be established in this and some other events.

As in the twenty-five previous annual meetings, there will be many relay races. Harvard and Yale will meet again; another Harvard team will race Cornell; the Boston Athletic association will contest with New York Athletic club, Dartmouth will race Pennsylvania and Brown will meet Williams.

TENNIS TOURNEYS PARCELED OUT

New York, Feb. 6.—The national lawn tennis championship contest for 1915 was awarded to the West Side Tennis club of this city at the meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis association here last night.

G. T. Ade, reporting on the Davis cup, moved that no challenge be issued by America this year, as its adversaries, France, Germany, Australia and England, were eliminated from a tennis standpoint because of the war. It was decided not to issue a challenge.

The date for the championship will be set as the first week in September, and the entry list will be limited by some means to be devised.

In the awards of other national tournaments, the clay court championship went to Pittsburg.

The womens national singles, doubles and mixed doubles were awarded, as heretofore, to the Philadelphia Cricket club. The national indoor championships for men and women went to the Seventh regiment, New York city. There was also added a national indoor junior championship for boys under 18 years of age, to be played at the Seventh regiment.

CONTRACT WAS TOO ONE-SIDED

New York, Feb. 6.—The appellate division yesterday reversed a judgment of the supreme court and ordered a new trial in the case of the Baseball Players' fraternity against the Boston American league club. The fraternity sued on the assigned claim of Pitcher Kurt (Casey) M. Hageman for money due on a contract. The complaint was dismissed by a trial justice upon motion of the defending club's attorney.

Hageman signed a contract on Sept. 18, 1911, with the Boston American league club for the season of 1912 at $400 a month. After having one month with the Red Sox, he was ordered to report to the Jersey City club of the International league. Efforts were made to transfer him to Denver at $250 a month, instead of $400. Hageman signed contracts, it is claimed, that gave the managers the right to shift him around and reduce his salary.

Justice Laughlin, writing the prevailing opinion, held that the contract made by Hageman with the Boston club was one-sided and drawn in the interest of the owners without much regard for the rights of the Baseball Players' fraternity, to which Hageman had assigned his claim, and that the Boston club had no right to transfer him to another club except at the salary named in the contract.

ANTE-SEASON GAMES.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Permission has been granted the Chicago and Philadelphia National league baseball clubs to play a series of ante-season games in Tampa and St. Petersburg, Fla., according to an announcement here by President Thomas of the Cubs. He said that President John Tener of the National league had given his consent after being approached by citizens of Tampa. The Chicago club has its spring training camp in Tampa and the Philadelphia camp is in St. Petersburg.

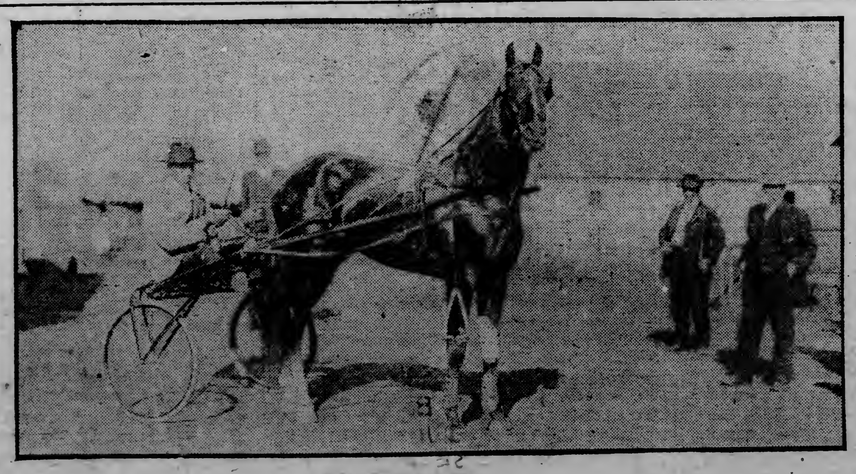

The Chicago National league team has eighteen exhibition games scheduled for Florida—six with the Philadelphia Nationals, six with the Philadelphia Americans and six with the Louisville association team.

Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Chicago Nationals, said yesterday that he has eight trades in mind which he hopes to accomplish at the National league meeting in New York next week.

THE BLOCKADE.

The German warning of a blockade of the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland is easily the most striking feature that has developed in the war for many weeks. The aerial raids that have been made by both sides have been spectacular, but they had been discounted long before and were more or less expected from the first.

But this blockade proposition is something that was entirely unexpected, especially in view of the general supposition that Great Britain's domination of the sea was hardly to be questioned. The very announcement that any such thing is to be attempted is enough to startle the world, and the fact that England appears to take the threat seriously, even though she declares that it can't be done, only adds to the impression made by the Berlin announcement.

Whether, as London seems to believe, the blockade is to be the work of submarines is at least open to question. The Berlin warning to Washington makes no mention of any such feature, and though it is beyond doubt that submarines will be used in the attempt, experience has shown that these craft are too dependent on some supply base to be capable of undertaking a movement of this character. So unless the Germans have overcome this dependence, it seems unlikely that the submarine feature is to be as prominent as London appears to believe.

However, in view of recent exploits of submarines, it is not surprising that the possible use of those vessels should hold a prominent place in the British mind.

The German notice recalls the exploits of John Paul Jones, who with only three ships under his command declared a blockade of the English coast during the Revolution, and made good his declaration. It was so effective, in fact, that underwriters refused to take risks on ships that were to cross the Irish sea. But the British sea power today is a vastly different proposition from what it was in those times, and even with Germany's great superiority to the little power of the American colonies, the mere idea of her blockading the English coast is daring enough to startle the world. Its accomplishment would be a marvel almost beyond belief.

This story that gold has been found in Illinois may have emanated from Springfield about legislative time.

"AND STILL THEY HOWL."

Devils Lake, N. D., Journal: Twenty-five years ago, under a good old Republican-robber-tariff administration, the farmers of Ramsey county were selling their best wheat for 61 cents per bushel. Today, under a Democratic administration, the farmers of Ramsey county are receiving $1.40 per bushel for their best wheat. And still the Republican calamity howlers howl and howl.

Of course they howl and howl. That's their profession. No matter what happens with the Democrats in office, these howlers lift up their voices in clamorous protest and say the Democrats were at fault.

To be sure the present price of wheat has little relation to the tariff rates. With this country almost the only one in shape to export wheat at present, it is natural that its price should go up. It would go up under such circumstances if such a thing as a tariff never had been invented. The tariff never has any effect on the price of wheat.

But you don't hear the Republicans talking about the tariff when they mention the price the farmer is getting for his wheat. Oh no! Then they lay it all to the war, where in fact a part of the responsibility belongs. But just get them to talking about the national revenues, and then they'll drag in the tariff, and wave it around their heads in an effort to convince you that because there aren't enough goods being brought into this country to keep the revenues up to the old standard, the tariff is at fault. They would have you believe that a high tariff that kept foreign goods out when there were plenty of foreign goods, would bring foreign goods in when there were none to be brought in.

Of course it's all absurd and ridiculous. The honest thing to do would be to admit that the war has put this country into a bad fix so far as our foreign trade is concerned, and that the result of this has been a falling off in customs receipts just when the Underwood tariff was making good. But in politics it seems that there's a difference in viewpoint that is more weighty than logic and plain honesty. For the benefit of the howlers it is well that this is so, for otherwise they would be sadly put to it for something to howl about.

The ski tournament is on, and now is the time to go and watch the fun and imagine yourself as one of the jumpers.

STILL ON HISTORIC GROUND.

In the early weeks of the war much was written about the historic character of the regions where the armies were confronting each other. Less has been said on that line since the entry of the Turks into the struggle, and yet the fighting has now extended to the scenes of some of the widest known battles in the history of the race—those in which the Israelites met and conquered their foes in the days of Biblical history.

How it must interest the shades of Moses and Pharaoh—provided there are any such shades—to see the modern battles along the same route that was taken by the fleeing Israelites when they left Egypt. What would the wanderers have given in those days for aeroplanes in which to send out scouts; what would not Pharaoh have given for a fleet of Zeppelins to take his army across the sea? How much would the forty years spent in the desert have been shortened had the Israelites been able to commandeer a squardon of automobiles?

But here today all these modern engines of transportation and still more fearful engines of destruction are being operated over the very sites where hovered the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night, and the waters that separate modern Egypt from the shores of Asia are liable to be stirred at any time by a suddenly rising submarine.

Incongruities are the natural result of such a war as this, but they somehow seem to reach their highest point when we see the latest and most civilized instruments of destruction and desolation being used among the scenes where these battles of Biblical history were fought, and where centuries later the Prince of Peace spent part of the first years of His life among men.

You can almost tell the seasons in Superior by noticing whether "Silver Joe" is being made the subject of a recall petition.

WILL THEY KISS AND MAKE UP?

Those whose memories are not too short may recollect certain incidents of the campaign of 1912 and the developments preceding it, in which one Theodore Roosevelt took violent issue with one Boies Penrose on various and sundry subjects. In fact it was generally understood that whatever Penrose stood for, Roosevelt would denounce, and that there was an inseparable gulf between them and their ways of thinking.

So it is the more interesting to hear Mr. Penrose discourse as follows:

> I have not been able to agree with Col. Roosevelt for several years, although for a long while I was in close and sympathetic touch with his political efforts and policies. I am therefore naturally gratified to know that he has at last found opportunity to study the Mexican situation and has arrived at my way of thinking.

So that is it—Roosevelt has arrived at Penrose's way of thinking after denouncing Penrose and all his antecedents, professional and political. And Penrose thinks the same about the Mexican situation as Roosevelt does—Roosevelt, who wanted the United States government to authorize him to raise a regiment and go into Mexico to fight.

But of course there is a difference between the time when Roosevelt made his bitter denunciations of Penrose and the present—a difference chiefly marked by the facts that in the former time there was a widespread revolt in the country against Penrose and his kind, so that it looked as if Penrose might be beaten in the next election; while today Penrose has been re-elected to the senate, and is in a position to have something to say about who shall be the Republican nominee in 1916.

Still it cannot be denied that these differences MAY be only due to coincidence. It remains yet to be seen whether these newly reunited former political partners are really going to kiss and make up in time for their reconstructed unity of ideas to figure in the political plans two years from now.

Some time there may be a congress that won't try to put across that literacy test stuff.

"ASIA AFTER THE WAR"

Some of the magazine writers who have worn out their theories on the causes and conduct of the war and whose sensitive souls have at last revolted against feeding the public any more of the human interest pessimism that has been the fashion, have turned their attention to the future and are asking what is to happen in Asia after the war.

Whoever sprung that proposition first is entitled to the prize medal of them all. There never was a subject so open to theory, so diverse in its possibilities or so readily prolific of chances for prophecy. Forecasting the developments to follow a congressional election is child's play compared to it.

The possibilities for any given strip of Asiatic territory are limited only by its geographical position, its previous political affiliations, its desirability or apparent desirability or theoretical desirability as a province of any one of the powers that may come out of the struggle with a whole enough skin to contain any desires, and finally by the outcome of the war itself and its influence on the control of European and Asiatic commerce, industry, government and everything else except the weather.

And even the weather can be made to figure in it to a certain extent if we consider the Yangtse's tendency to floods and the Japanese coast's liability to visits from typhoons.

But the biggest puzzle of all is why the United States should worry over the future of Asia after the war. Our policy is and has been to avoid territorial expansion. The only time we ever got far enough away from that policy to be noticeable, we got some tar stuck to our fingers in the shape of the Philippines, and haven't been able yet to get rid of it. And we don't care to repeat the experiment.

But speaking of the Philippines, maybe after all this thing is going to help us out of there. You see we might give the islands a navy and turn them loose, and then let them turn in, when it's all over, and thrash all Asia and Europe, and set themselves up as the head of a new empire.

But barring some such solution of the Philippine problem that it may bring, the future of Asia after the war is one subject about which the United States "should worry."

As a rule, the man who kicks hardest about the weather isn't half so particular about things he has to look after himself.

WHAT IF—

"What if ——"

It's an interesting game, and likewise a more or less instructive one, if carefully played. You used to do it when you were younger—that is, you did if you were like a majority of normal children. You played it something like this:

Three or four of you would romp until you were tired physically, and then hunt out a soft, cool place and loll on the ground, digging into the sod with bare toes or dingy shoe tips and chewing bits of grass or clover or twigs and talking. After awhile there would come a lull, and then a conversation like the following would spring up:

> TOM: What if that hill over there was made of candy.
> DICK: Gee! I bet it wouldn't take me long to get there.
> HARRY: What if it was made of ice cream!
> TOM: Naw, ice cream makes your teeth ache.
> HARRY: So does candy.
> DICK: What if it didn't, and you could have all you wanted, for nothin'!
> TOM and HARRY (together): Gee!
> HARRY: How long do you suppose it would take the three of us to eat that much ice cream?

And from there the educational part of the game begins, for it leads the young imaginers into mathematics and philosophy and human nature and hygiene and medicine and half a dozen other sciences, and stimulates their minds and exercises their brains and imaginations.

It's a great game. If you don't believe it, try it some time. Start with any given proposition and follow it out to one logical conclusion after another. See if it doesn't get you into mental highways and byways that are weed-grown from long disuse, and lead you into unsuspected recesses of your own imagination.

For instance: What if everybody started out some day to say and do everything they could to make life pleasanter for everybody they met—

Just follow that out. What effect would it have on people in general? What effect would it have on the way work was done? What effect would it have on you and your attitude toward those about you? Or wouldn't it make things enough different to be worth while?

Get a little closer with it—. What if you tried the thing out yourself some day, regardless of whether other people did so or not ——.

Well —— what if you did?

The Sayre baby has been presented with a pair of boxing gloves. Now who ever heard of anybody cutting teeth on such things?

BEAUTY AND THE MOUTH.

According to Dr. Douglas H. Stewart, who writes in the Housewives' League magazine, beauty or the lack of it is largely dependent on the mouth. In fact he goes so far as to say that not only beauty, but general appearance is determined by the mouth. As he puts it, in order that a person may be handsome, or even good looking, the mouth must be "perfect in appearance and use."

Dr. Stewart backs up this proposition by comparing the treatment accorded American children with that given to babies in other countries. He scouts the idea that pink cheeks, for example, are due to climate, and reminds us of "the fundamental fact that when an American baby cries it is hushed or given something, candy for example, for peace's sake." On the other hand, he says:

> The foreign baby, if not in pain, is just permitted to cry, gets its chest clear and its heart and arteries to bounding, and good, well-aired blood is carried to the most distant parts of its body; and because the blood is both fertilizer and nutriment, that distant part, and all other parts, are well developed. If the child has pink cheeks it has also pink toes, and everything is as it should be.

Remember the old fairy story about the two girls—sisters, were they not?—who were rewarded according to their deeds or their lives or thoughts, or something? Whenever one of them talked roses fell from her mouth. And whenever the other one opened her mouth to speak, a toad would jump out of it. This talk of the doctor's about the mouth's being "used" right makes us think of that story.

And the application isn't so far different, either. Just think, if you know of any such persons, of some people whose mouths are used to spread useless gossip and scandal and needless criticism and all that goes with those things, and then imagine the same persons using their mouths for other and better purposes. Isn't the second impression you get of these people a more agreeable one than the first? Of course it is.

No matter how beautiful your friend may be otherwise, if her mouth is addicted to cross, sneering, disagreeable words, or to carrying and telling foolish or needless things about other people, her beauty is spoiled for all her acquaintances. You would avoid even the most beautiful building if you knew that every time the door opened an ugly or venomous snake or a life-destroying beast would rush out. No degree of beauty of architecture or material could make up to you for the presence of such creatures.

And no degree of physical beauty can make up for ugly or venomous words or character-destroying gossip, just as no degree of physical ugliness can estrange us from one whose words and thoughts are in themselves beautiful or worth while.

Dr. Stewart is right. Beauty does depend upon the mouth and the use to which it is put.

If Tammany opposes woman suffrage we may at last get an answer to the old problem of "The Lady or the Tiger?"

IT IS YOURS.

Among the very young it is the tendency, if not a custom, to emphasize the excellence of personal possessions. For instance, it isn't uncommon to hear some boasts like these:

"Our house is bigger 'n yourn."

"My big brother can lick your big brother."

"My sled 'll go farther 'n anybody else's."

"I can climb higher 'n you kids can."

"I c'n run faster 'n any of you."

Go on as far as you like. Examples mutliply as you think of your own kid days and the rivalries and ambitions that stirred your interest then. It even went so far as to include things like these:

"My toe hurts worser 'n yourn."

"I was sicker 'n you was."

"My tooth aches more 'n yourn ever did."

Did you ever hear any such assertions when you were a kid? Or did you ever make them yourself? Or (hush now, whisper this!) do you ever hear any like them today from people who look as if they had grown up?

But really, it's a pity that more of that spirit doesn't stick by us when we get older. A boy or girl will spend hours practicing some feat of strength or skill in order to lead his or her companions in its performance. Hard knocks and all the rest are taken without complaint if only the desired superiority can be attained; if only that one thing can be done better than others can do it. Yes, and not only that, but so much better that others much acknowledge inferiority.

Have you any of that spirit left in you? If you haven't, you have lost one of the most valuable assets in human nature. What do you do for a living? You keep books? All right; how many times have you thought that you would keep your books so accurately and neatly and so completely up to date that your work would stand out superior to that of other bookkeepers?

Or if your work is that of teaching, this old, childhood spirit should prompt you to make your teaching better than that of anybody else. Or if you are a mechanic, it should drive you to make your products better than that of the man next to you, or across the shop, or on the next street. And the same with any other work you may be doing, whether with body or brain or both.

Ask the boy who strives to make his top spin longer than any other, why he wants to do so. There can be only one answer—because it is his, and he feels a personal pride in making it go better than the rest.

Ask yourself whether you have less personal pride than this boy; whether you are willing that your work should be known for inferiority rather than for superiority; whether you are willing that that man or woman next to you or across the street or in the next block should become known as more skilled or more able than you are.

This work you are doing—teaching, preaching, keeping books, doing stenography, working with machinery, doing housework, treating diseases, sewing, studying, digging—whatever it is, IT IS YOURS, and upon you and nobody else depends its excellence or its poorness. It is known as yours, and you can never make it appear to be any but your own.

And it is for you to determine whether it shall be something you must be ashamed of or something of which you can be proud; whether, in brief, you can truthfully claim, in the words you used when only a kid, "MINE is the best!"

Somebody has asked Dr. Brady to describe the symptoms of sunstroke. Must be he expects to spend the summer somewhere outside of Duluth.

STATISTICS AND A REMEDY.

——from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death do us part * * * I plight thee my troth.

Of course all the different ceremonies are not exactly in those words, but as Chimmie Fadden says, "dat's w'at dey means." And in view of this it is interesting to note some divorce records.

For each hundred thousand of population in Ireland there is one divorce a year, and the same figures apply to Austria. In England and Wales there are two divorces per hundred thousand of population; in Germany, fifteen; in France, twenty-three; in the United States, seventy-three, and in Japan, two hundred and fifteen. The marked differences in customs and religion in Japan and these other countries makes fair comparison impossible as between them.

The Seattle Post - Intelligencer seeks to excuse the American record on the ground that Americans are "more honest about their domestic difficulties than the people of many countries who do not go to the trouble to obtain divorces, but simply quit living together when family life becomes burdensome."

Whether this explanation is applicable or not, the "P.-I." hits the dead center of the divorce problem when it says:

> The matrimonial journey is a long one and the road is full of obstructions. There would be a greater certitude of successful traveling with a greater exercise of wisdom on the part of many in the selection of companions. There is too much haste in acquiring the marriage bonds, and too much haste in dissolving them.

A man who would take the greatest precautions before forming a long-term business partnership will enter into a life partnership for home-making without half as much thought or care. And a woman who would refuse absolutely to sign an agreement to hold a given business position for five years will throw care to the winds and bind herself for this life-long grind of matrimony without hesitation.

Many legislative and other remedies for the divorce proposition have been suggested, but not one of the rest would be as effective or as easy of enforcement by the parties most interested as this one of simply exercising reasonable care in the formation of a life partnership.

Napoleon III

From the diary of John Hay, edited by W. R. Thayer for Harper's Magazine: Short and stocky, he moves with a queer, sidelong gait, like a gouty crab; a man so wooden looking that you would expect his voice to come rasping out like a watchman's rattle. A complexion like crude tallow—marked for death, whenever death wants him—to be taken some time in half an hour, or left, neglected by the skeleton king, for years, perhaps, if properly coddled. The mustache and imperial which the world knows, but ragged and bristly, concealing the mouth entirely, is moving a little nervously as the lips twitch. Eyes sleepily watchful — furtive, stealthy, rather ignoble, like servants looking out of dirty windows and saying "nobody at home," and lying as they say it. And withal a wonderful phlegm. He stands there as still and impassive as if carved in oak for a ship's figurehead. He looks not unlike one of those rude, inartistic statues. His legs are too short, his body too long. He never looks well but on a throne or on a horse, as kings ought.

The Daily World.

A daily world of old and new,
The country's calm, the city's stew;
The paltry, and the proud and plain—
And then the whole thing o'er again.

Our own distress, another's woe,
A struggling throng where'er you go;
The office and the mill and den—
And then the whole thing o'er again.

A dashing down upon the car,
A little toil, and there you are;
The luncheon hour, the whistle then—
And next the whole thing o'er again.

The crowded trolley home at night,
The hurried supper, quickened flight
To theater or movie den—
And then the whole thing o'er again.

A growing old, a keeping sweet,
A few new neighbors in the street;
A death, a grave in some lone glen—
And then the whole thing o'er again.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A young man down in South Carolina pestered James Byrnes of that state for several weeks to get him a nice little government job. After a time Byrnes wrote him that he was unable to find any roll top desk jobs such as the young man's commanding abilities and sterling character should entitle him to, but that he might be able to get him something in the forest service—a position, as Byrnes explained, that would take him out into God's great outdoors.

The applicant hastened to Washington to qualify and was employed at $5 a day as assistant chain-bearer of a surveying party setting out for the West Virginia hills.

He started on his new job in high spirits, but when it came to riding a horse up into the most forlorn hills he had ever seen he began to lose interest. At first he and his chief engaged in desultory conversation, but after riding along for a few miles our hero said less and less until finally he lapsed into complete silence.

They came to a fork in the road. "Right here is where you are to camp," the chief told him. "I'll show you how to pitch your tent and then meet you here tomorrow."

"Naw, naw, you're mistaken," said the young man. "I'm not a-going to camp here."

"You'll obey orders, won't you?" inquired the chief.

"You don't seem to understand," replied the young man. "I have resigned my job. I may not have said anything about it at the time, but I resigned seven miles down the road."

All manner of persons having persistent notions about one thing and another drift about the capitol of the United States, and many of these drop in frequently at the outer office of the speaker of the house. Wallace Bassford, secretary to Speaker Clark, is a reasonably calm, well-poised young man, but the other day it occurred to him that he suffered more than his share of the association with various types of bores. As he sat reflecting over the number of human nuisances who were regular visitors at his office, he picked up his pencil and began to jot down the names of the most pestiferous.

As he was puttting these names on paper the door opened and there entered a nuisance of the third magnitude whom Bassford had forgot all about and overlooked when making out his roster of bores.

Prior to that time Bassford had always been polite and affable to the visitor, but his mood was such at that moment that the caller was the final straw.

"Say!" began Bassford sternly, "I've just this second finished writing down the names of the ten worst pests that come to this office. I'll be doggoned if I'm going to allow the list to grow to eleven. So get out of here!"

Congressman Sam Winslow of Massachusetts would be taken at first glance for a fat man. He weighs some 310 pounds and even after a thorough size-up one might insist that he is a fat man. Perhaps he is. But Winslow likes to emphasize the point that there are lines of beauty unmistakable, even in a fat man, to him who is enough of a connoisseur to see.

"If a heavy man has the same measurement about the chest as about the waist," declares Winslow, tapping his stomach, impressively, "he is still entitled to every courtesy."

Be that as it may, Winslow was at a meeting one day of the house committee on the District of Columbia. A proposition was up for the government to take over the street railway lines in Washington. Winslow was opposed to government-owned street car lines. Then somebody mentioned that one trouble with the lines at present is that the seats are too narrow.

"If the government would provide wider seats," spoke up Winslow, shifting uncomfortably on the little chair he was using, "I'm not sure but I would be won over."

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him.—I John iv, 16.

By my very sorrows I know that God loves me; I say not whether with approbation, but with an infinite pity. What I need is but to feel it, to pray for that feeling, to meditate upon all that should bring that feeling into my heart; to take refuge amidst my sorrows in the assurance that God loves me; that He does not willingly grieve or afflict me; that He chastens me for my profiting; that He could not show so much love for me by leaving me unchastened, untried, undisciplined. Great is the faith that must save us! It is a faith in the Infinite; a faith in the infinite love of God. Creature of God's love! believe in that love which gave thee being. Believe in that love which every moment redeems thee from death, and offers to redeem thee from the death eternal. Believe in God's love, and be wise, be patient, be comforted, be cheerful and happy—be happy in time; be happy in eternity.—Orville Dewey, D. D.

O thou of dark forebodings drear,
O thou of such a faithless heart,
Hast thou forgotten what thou art,
That thou hast ventured so to fear?

No weed, on ocean's bosom cast,
Borne by its never-resting foam
This way and that without a home,
Till flung on some bleak shore at last.

But thou the lotus, which above,
Swayed here and there by wind and tide,
Yet still below doth fixed abide—
Fast rooted in the Eternal Love.

—R. C. Trench.

As our want and penury returns upon us, O Lord, so frequent is the return of Thy grace. Fill the mouths of Thy children, bless the poor, and continue Thy protecting care over us all, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

Fish Driven from North Sea.

Popular Mechanics Magazine: A curious feature of the European war is the effect that the heavy cannonading by the warships has had on the fish of the North Sea. It is reported that great shoals of fish came up into the rivers and canals of Holland, leaping out of the water as they sometimes do on a summer day, and that there were swarms of fish in places where they had never been found before. It is thought that the cannonading disturbed the fish.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

"Short Horizons."

The horizon is that line where the earth and the sky seem to meet. As one gazes off at the ocean or at a landscape the horizon seems to mark the very edge of the world. We know that all kinds of human activity are going on beyond where the arch of heaven is let down to meet this earthly scene, but we know, too, how useless it is for us to strain our eyes to behold it. We must be content with the scenes immediately before us.

Let us reflect now that the horizon as a fact in nature is matched by a spiritual horizon that is a fact in our lives. Here, too, an opaque curtain is let down just before us and we cannot peer beyond it. Only trouble results from our eager attempts to do so. We try to live the days before they come; we cross bridges before they are even in sight. We add to the worries of the present all the possible worries of the days ahead. We shoulder three kinds of trouble at once; that which has come to us, that which is a present experience, and that which we anticipate for the future.

All this useless anxiety results from attempting to pry up a horizon the God has mercifully set before our human vision. It is an old truth, applied, however, by about one in ten of us mortals, that we live but one moment at a time. Life is dealt out to us in very small sections. Each one of us is shut up to a narrow responsibility in that he has only to do the work, seize the happiness and bear the pain of the present moment. The moments yet to come one has no business with.

The battle line of life is never widely extended. One is called rather to a long series of single engagements. We meet the enemy not massed, but in single detachments. If we can keep continually bringing up our forces to beat him on whatever quarter of the field he appears, ultimate victory is bound to perch on our banners. The life campaign is immensely simplified when we view it in this light.

Masters in the art of living have learned to take short horizons. It is only the next thing to be done that they try to do. Marcus Aurelius was a wise old Roman when he said: "Do not disturb thyself by thinking of the whole of thy life; but on every occasion ask thyself, what is there in this that is intolerable or past bearing? For thou wilt be ashamed to confess. Remember that neither the past nor the future pains thee, but only the present. But this is reduced to very little if only thou circumscribest it, and chidest thy mind if it is unable to hold out against even this." Try it, my anxious brother, and see if that hard situation cannot be borne, provided no pain be imported into it from events past or events to come.

The strongest back would break if we had to live a month or a year at a time. But most of us, if we keep sweet and steady, can negotiate a minute at a time, which is all we are required to do. It is the gospel of the short horizon.

God broke our years to hours and days that Hour by hour
And day by day
Just going on a little way
We might be able all along
To keep quite strong.
Should all the weight of life
Be laid across our shoulders, and the future, rife
With woe and struggle, meet us face to face
At just one place
We could not go;
Our feet would stop, and so
God lays a little on us every day.
And never, I believe, on all the way
Will burdens bear so deep
Or pathways lie so steep
But we can go, if, by God's power
We only bear the burden of the hour.

A STUDY IN HISTORY

By SAVOYARD

Washington, Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a school which teaches that human genius is only a capacity for labor and a passion to do labor. If that is so James R. Mann, Republican leader of the national house of representatives, is a genius; but if Carter Glass of Virginia had his physique and love of work, Mann would be a pigmy to him in debate, and debate is the field of exploit of your parliamentary leader. In my poor opinion Mr. Mann's chief excellence lies in his vigilance and preparedness. There is tradition—doubtless a misapprehension—that the Hon. Mann reads that useless and vapid publication, the Congressional Record, every morning when congress is at labor on Capitol hill. I'll bet Tom Reed never began the day in that fashion, and had he done so Tom Reed would not have been half the leader he was.

Mr. Mann has been moved "to answer" the president's Indianapolis speech. I have not his remarks before me, but if memory is faithful Mr. Mann claimed for the Republican party credit for "the gold standard."

It is manifest that the Hon. Mann gets a lot of his history from the slush of the Congressional Record, or he would never have put forth such an absurd pretension. I shall now try to tell the Hon. Mann something about it and if he pay attention he will learn that Grover Cleveland is the statesman who rescued the public credit from the pit, into which the Republican party had flung it, and established it firmly on a sound basis.

Over the protest of every Democrat in one house, and of all the Democrats but one, possibly two, in the other house of congress, the Republican party created that specimen of purely flat money known as the "greenback." It was provided in that act of bald repudiation and bad faith that the stamp of the government on a worthless piece of paper made that paper "basic money" at its face value and legal tender for debt in esse as well as for debt in posse. That act of repudiation made the cost of our great Civil war of 1861-65 more than double what it would have cost if the plan of Samuel J. Tilden, a Democrat, had been adopted and the war fought on a coin basis, such as England and France employed to fight the Crimean war.

The greenback was the cause of the disastrous panic of 1873 that lasted until 1879, when specie payments were resumed. But so much in love with flat money was the Republican party that when the supreme court declared the act of congress creating the greenback unconstitutional, a Republican congress added two seats to that bench and Gen. Grant, a Republican president, packed the court with two justices, who, on rehearing, reversed the decision and handed down the opinion that it was in the power of congress under the Constitution to create flat money. When that decision was rendered the Republican party was in complete control of all the departments of the government.

About 1877 or later congress passed a bill providing for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The house was Democratic and the senate Republican. John Sherman, then secretary of the treasury, caused R. B. Hayes to veto the bill and it is the one sole and only act favorable to sound money the Republican party can point to during all the years that the currency question was an issue. What followed? The Bland-Allison act providing for limited coinage of silver at 16 to 1 and the dilution of our money at the rate of $2,000,000 a month with basic dollars under par. Hayes approved that measure. Cleveland would have smitten it in an instant.

In 1890 a Republican house of representative, of which Thomas B. Reed was speaker, passed a bill providing for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1. That bill would have passed the Republican senate had the leaders, Sherman, Morrill, Hoar, Aldrich and others, not been afraid to intrust it to Ben Harrison, the Republican president, lest he sign it. He brought in a bill to buy 5,000,000 ounces of silver a month, issue legal tender paper against it at 16 to 1, and the bill thus amended went through both houses and Ben Harrison approved it. Grover Cleveland would have vetoed that, too, and it was knowledge of that fact that enabled Cleveland to beat Harison for president so disastrously two years later.

The day that cowardly makeshift, the Sherman silver law, became the law the business men—not your Morgans and Rockefellers, but the modest folk, bankers, merchants and such—determined to make Grover Cleveland president of the United States. In his own party he was pursued by malice and ignorance, corruption and cowardice; but the party was for him and the country was for him. I do believe the hand of Providence was in it. Had he failed on the first ballot Cleveland would have been defeated for nomination, and he would have failed if John S. Barbour, the political master of Virginia, and Henry W. Gray, the political idol of Georgia, had not died a few months before the assembling of the convention.

As soon as Harrison signed the Sherman law, diluting our basic money with 16 to 1 to the tune of $5,000,000 a month, Europe became alarmed and began to collect her debts over here. Only one concern was on the gold basis and so obstinate was the raid on the gold reserve of the treasury that the Harrison administration prepared to issue bonds. The Republicans sought to lie about that, but were confronted with the tangible evidence of the plates on which the bonds were to be printed and which were ordered by the Republican secretary of the treasury.

But Cleveland was elected and instantly set about the re-establishment of the public credit. Hundreds of millions of our securities held abroad came over to be sold for what they would fetch in gold and the treasury had to supply the gold or go on the silver basis as the rest of the country was. That made the panic in 1893. Though he knew that he sealed his own political doom and that of his party, Grover Cleveland never wavered, but set his face like flint and saved the credit of his country by selling bonds in time of peace for gold.

William McKinley had repeatedly voted for 16 to 1 in congress and the day Mark Hanna nominated him for president he was as firm in that faith as was his Democratic competitor, William J. Bryan. The country voted on the standard—gold or silver—and the verdict was for gold—the verdict was the approval of Grover Cleveland's stand on the money question.

True the Republicans in 1897, or 1898, after sending an absurd commission abroad to plead with Europe to adopt silver, enacted what it called the gold standard. It was an imperfect and cowardly bill, for it retained as basic money $346,000,000 greenbacks and all the 16-to-1 dollars and silver bullion in the treasury, amounting to half a billion more, and it is basic money today!

* * *

When Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, George Washington sent Gen. Ben Lincoln to receive his sword. As well give Lincoln the credit for Yorktown as give McKinley credit for the gold standard. Cleveland had fought the battle with McKinley opposed to him.

As surely as Abraham Lincoln emancipated the slave, just as surely Grover Cleveland established the gold standard.

That is history, Mr. Mann, and you know it.

BELGIUM'S CONSOLATION---BY MARIE CORELLI

Famous Author, in Making An Appeal to Save a Brave Nation From Hunger, Declares Germans Have the Same Heart as the English, and She Doubts Not They Will Guarantee Safety of Gift Food Supplies.

(Copyright by The Commission for Relief in Belgium, 71 Broadway, New York.)

"Six million of people are on the verge of starvation in Belgium!"

Great Goddess of Liberty, think of it! You, America!—you, who represent that goddess, with the light of an ever widening glory on her brow, think of this shame to the very name of freedom!—this blot on civilization—this degrading result, as it were, of our long boasted intellectual supremacy and scientific advancement!

Six million people on the verge of starvation!—through no fault of their own—an industrious, peaceful, marvelously heroic little nation, deprived of its honestly-earned right to live, and dragged from its altars of prayer to weep in the dust of beggary and famine!

You, America!—you, star-crowned states of freedom that have already done so much, and are doing so much for this broken and bleeding victim of bitter circumstances! You cannot stay your hand now!—you cannot—you will not! You will do more!—and still more! You cannot see a brave nation die of sheer hunger!—it is not in your heart to look on at such a frightful thing unmoved; therefore, you will listen to all unprejudiced appeal; even to mine, though I have little claim to your hearing save that of the affection freely given to me by thousands of my readers in your country—an affection gratefully accepted and as warmly reciprocated!

How a Woman Sees the Situation.

I, a woman, have naught to do with the quarrels and murderous onslaughts of men filled with blind fury and lust of world power; all that I can see or hear is the sorrow and suffering befalling those who are innocent of any quarrel; the wives, the mothers, the young girls and boys, the little children, the helpless and bewildered old people. Cruel famine is already torturing these piteous and patiently enduring souls on whom such a black cloud of unmerited disaster has fallen that it seems as if it would never lift.

All who have power to visualize their unparalleled distress must and surely will take every possible means to soften and mitigate the horrors of their situation. Generous America!—you have done and are doing much!—you have worked and are working strenuously to relieve the distress of Belgium's heavy affliction; but work to you is the very pulse of your large life, and bigness of conception in noblo deeds is your breathing power!

Therefore, no hesitation need be felt in asking you to go on working and doing all you can for the tortured, half-dying people of a devastated country; a people whose magnificent heroism has blazoned itself in a chronicle of glory for the wonder of the future years; a nation that has faced her foes unflinchingly in the simple defense of her freedom, and whose noble king, a hero to the manner born, has not uttered one undignified word of complaint against the sudden and harsh calamities meted out to him by the cruel caprice of a cruel destiny.

To America all grand things are possible. America, splendidly aloof from combat, clean in hand and warm in heart, can accomplish what other nations involved in difficulties at this juncture can barely attempt. America can approach Germany with the sovereign ease of one at peace in the midst of strife, and can, with humane forethought and certainty, secure such distribution of food supplies to the Belgian civil population as may save them from the sufferings which now confront them every day. This is what America can do; and with all our hearts and souls we pray that it may be quickly done.

Victims of the Grim Idol of Militarism.

We in Great Britain are never weary of helping, to the best of our ability, those exiles who have lost their homes and means of livelihood; we strive to make their hard lot less bitter, and to one and all we accord a welcome to those of our own blood and kindred. But we are at war, and though our government is using all the means available to prevent the threatening disaster of millions of non-combatants—women, children and the aged being sacrificed to what is called "military necessity," such means are not enough, being perforce obstructed by the difficulties of the situation.

The grim idol of militarism must have its burnt offerings; that pitiless god of battle so aptly and magnificently described in Lord Byron's "Childe Harold."

MARIE CORELLI.

"Lo! where the Giant on the mountain stands,
His blood-red tresses deep'ning in the sun,
With death-shot glowing in his fiery hands,
And eye that scorcheth all it glares upon;
Restless it rolls, now fix'd, and now anon
Flashing afar—and at his iron feet
Destruction cowers, to see what deeds are done;
All join the chase, but few the triumph share,
The Grave shall bear the chiefest prize away,
And Havoc scarce for joy can number their array!"

Time passes. The wolf of famine is at the very doors. Our hearts grow cold with terror and with pity as we see once prosperous and happy Belgium, a land of prosperous and happy people, shadowed by the fearful specters of hunger and disease. And while we do all we can and all we may to keep back these menacing destroyers of the innocent, we clasp hands across the sea with America and look to her frank and peaceable reasonableness, her boundless compassion and benevolence for wider, more continuous help, feeling that she can and will most assuredly move the German administration in Belgium to see to the free distribution of food and to guarantee that such distribution shall be made for the benefit of the Belgian civil population. I believe the Germans would willingly consent to this, if they have not already consented, for it cannot be even to their own advantage that disease should be sown broadcast in Belgium and the entire industrial popnlation decimated by famine.

Germany Has a Heart Somewhere.

Indeed, as a matter of fact, Mr. Whitlock, the American minister at Brussels, has made definite and official statement to the effect that he is satisfied by close investigation on the spot that not an ounce of food sent in by the commission of relief is being appropriated by the Germans. It should, perhaps, be considered that Germany has a heart somewhere. There are natural emotions in the moral composition of a German as well as in a Frenchman or a Briton—differently strung, no doubt, and differently placed—but no man of any nationality whatsoever, is made solely of "blood and iron," according to that hackneyed, catch-penny phrase, which seems to have been conned by some tall-talking journalist.

I am not one of the many who "thrill" over the various sensational reports gotten up by the world's press, whether such reports emanate from Great Britain or the "Wolff bureau." I am as doubtful of statements circulated by British journalism as of those which are unblushingly "made in Germany."

Each newspaper proprietor has his own ax to grind, and not always does honesty or unsullied patriotism have much to do with the grinding. More mischief than can be easily calculated is caused by irresponsible journalists who are allowed to print their wholly useless and unnecessary personal opinions on this great world crisis. Bismarck was wont to say: "The windows which our press breaks we shall have to pay for," and often such windows are broken as can only be mended by bitter national suffering. When Edward the Seventh ascended the British throne he had something to say on one occasion to "the gentlemen of the press,"—and he expressed the hope that they would "do their best to foster amity and good will between the British empire and other nations."

The False Rumors Spread By the Press.

That the "gentlemen" have not so acquitted themselves is a sad and sober fact, and in these very days of the most terrific contest the world has ever seen many of them show an unworthy eagerness to "work up" suspicion and ill-feeling between the combating parties, rather than to hold the balance equably and with dignity. Insult, cheap sneers and vulgar jesting are all out of place in the present tremendous clash of conflicting powers. When the gods grasp their thunderbolts it is time to listen to the chattering of apes.

And when we are told by the irresponsible journalist of more battle horrors and outrages than seem humanly possible of occurrence it does us good to learn, through plain, unvarnished fact conveyed in simply written, straight-forward letters from brave men at the front and in the "firing line," that, left to themselves, the Germans and their allied foes would be glad enough to play football together, if allowed, like healthy school boys, and that even as it is they give each other cigarettes across the trenches—proof positive that when not acting "under orders" they are human, normal and friendly and have no thirst for each other's blood.

I quote the following from a letter of a brave young Englishman serving in the Third battalion of the Rifle brigade:

"On Christmas morning some of us went out in front of the German trenches and shook hands with them, and they gave us cigars, cigarettes and money as souvenirs. We helped them to bury their dead, who had been lying in the fields for two months. It was a strange sight to see English and German soldiers as well as officers shaking hands and chatting together. We asked them to play us at football, but they had no time. I got into conversation with one who worked at Selfridge's in London, and he said he was very sorry to have to fight against us."

Reading this and various other letters of similar tone from men in the very thick of battle, all bearing ample testimony to the same truth, I cannot believe that the foe is so utterly a monster as to wish to see 6,000,000 innocent people slowly starved to death, for such a dire business would serve his purpose little, while strongly intensifying his immediate unpopularity.

Neutrals' Privilege of Softening War Horrors.

War is war, and, if, after all, civilization is so poorly advanced that war must still play its barbarous part in the world's policy, then, of course, there must be exigencies of war which can neither be ameliorated or minimized. But the deliberate starvation of 6,000,000 innocent human beings, more or less useful to their kind, does not and cannot come under the head of "military necessity." Therefore, it should be the proud privilege and duty of "neutrals" to do all that is possible to soften and mitigate the fearful conditions of life as at present lived in unhappy but undaunted Belgium.

The commission for relief, acting in London and comprising representatives of the Spanish, Dutch and Italian embassies as well as the American, has undertaken a task which is almost herculean. Work as they will—and there is no pause and no shirking—it is like coping with the waves of an engulfing sea. The needs of the people become more urgent every day that the fierce tug-of-war grows closer and more insistent. Great Britain has found it imperative to stop the importation of grain into Belgium, and all this is coupled with the fact that under The Hague convention the German army has the right to requisition food supplies and is not bound (save morally) to feed the enemy's population.

Nevertheless common sense and diplomacy, as well as mercy and justice, may here step in and show that starvation and sickness may breed evil among the Germans themselves as well as among the Belgiums by sheer force of contagion—evil of a kind which might just as conveniently be avoided. Any starving nation claims instant help and compassion—the sufferings it is compelled to undergo are too awful to contemplate with any degree of calmness and may make even the sternest "Teuton" shudder.

Therefore, if any of us can or dare call ourselves Christians in the face of this un-Christian warfare, which neither religion, science nor "New Thought," spiritual or intellectual, has been deep or sincere enough to hinder, let us gather up the fragile fragments of our faith and try to piece them together in one heart-whole, soul-strong effort to save from impending misery the brave little nation, rich in historical splendor, of renown, artistic beauty and industrial progress, whose hard-working people have desired nothing but peace and freedom to attend to their own unmolested.

If Christianity Is Worth Anything It Will Feed the Starving.

If Christianity is worth anything in the world e would not let one starving creature go unfed from our doors. Shall we leave 6,000,000 to such an undeserved fate? If we do, then well may the great Powers invisible chastise us to our own doom and vengeful furies whip us to a hell of shame and oblivion. Let us hold out rescue at once with no uncertain hands, and let our practical aid be swift and "of good measure, pressed down and running over."

In all such deeds of love and sympathy and charity Great Britain and America have led the world by their splendid example. There has been no grudging; no paltry personal discussion as to ways and means. For every good and worthy cause gold pours out as from a magical horn of plenty; the more the demand the greater the supply.

And now? Now! when a nation starves. Shall not a veritable argosy of gold make its way across the miles of ocean which divide the fortunate from the unhappy and bridge the gulf of tears and sorrow, striking light from darkness and hope from despair? This can be so if America wills it.

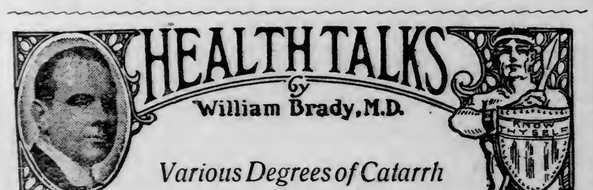

The Radiant Angel of Mercy.

Shall not a radiant angel of consolation appear within the deepest gloom of battle, stretching out hands of blessings and sustenance, lifting the fallen, cheering the desolate, soothing the dying and shedding heavenly sunshine on a sorrow-clouded land? This can be so if America wills it. Shall not the true brotherhood of humanity be re-affirmed and strengthened in the rescue of one nation by another? In the succor of the smaller by the greater? In the full acknowledgment of a brave fight for freedom by a power that is more than free? This can be so if America wills it.

"O, liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" were the last words of Madame Roland, heroic victim of the French revolution; but we would say, "O, liberty, what love is perfected in thy name!" when starving Belgium is fed. Because America wills it.

Hear my appeal, O, star-crowned states of freedom! Hear me! Heal all! Let no pleading voice pass you by unheard. For the brave nation that is dying must live—shall live—if America wills it!

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Various Degrees of Catarrh

CHRONIC nasal inflammation, of which "catarrh" is a sign, is sometimes apparently one-sided. That is, the patient notices a discharge only from one nostril. This may indicate trouble in one of the air spaces or sinuses in the bones of the skull, with which the nasal cavity communicates. Or, in children particularly, it may mean a foreign body lodged in the nasal cavity. But in some cases it may signify unsuspected diphtheritic infection, though the child is hardly ill—a diphtheria carrier. Pus coming from one nostril of a child is extremely suspicious in the eyes of the medical examiner.

Simple chronic nasal catarrh in children and young persons is generally amenable to local applications and general regulations of the health. Early in life there is not the marked tendency to overgrowth or hypertrophy of the turbinate or spongy bodies of the nose which is so marked in cases of longer standing. The sooner one has a chronic catarrhal trouble examined and treated by the doctor, the greater the chance that relief can be had without surgical measures.

In time the continual congestion of catarrh will cause a thickening and overgrowth of the turbinate bones. This places the case beyond medical aid, so far as permanent relief is concerned, and necessitates the surgical removal of part or all of one or more of the thickened bodies. This, of course, is objectionable, for the reason that the turbinate bodies are of considerable functional importance, serving normally to regulate the temperature and moisture of inspired air. However, when greatly hypertrophied or enlarged, and beyond hope of reduction by medicinal applications or general measures, their removal offers so much comfort and relief that the operation, under a local anesthetic, is well worth while.

Questions and Answers.

J. R. writes: For two years I have been troubled with occasional attacks of severe pain in the pit of the stomach. It generally comes on late at night, waking me from sleep, or sometimes in the middle of the afternoon. If I can get a little milk at once the pain is relieved, or a good dose of soda. But I usually feel pretty shaky for a day or two afterward. Between times I seem all right. Is it from dietetic errors, and if so, what sort of food would produce such attacks?

REPLY.

It seems to be a hunger pain. Patients with ulcer in the duodenum have such attacks, with varying intervals of freedom between. However, it is up to your physician to give you a definite answer to your question. It probably is not from dietetic error.

* * *

F. A. writes: Will X-ray examination show gallstones in the liver?

REPLY.

The X-ray photograph will show gallstones in about 60 per cent of the cases. It shows stones which have lime salts in them; other stones would not appear in the picture.

* * *

Student writes: Will you kindly inform me, if possible, how many medical colleges and how many physicians there are at present in the United States?

REPLY.

One hundred and six medical colleges; 142,000 physicians.

* * *

Shoe Clerk writes: Is the Cuban heel better than the French heel for ladies with weak arches?

REPLY.

A moderate French heel is probably better than a Cuban heel, because it really gives better support to the arch. A very narrow heel, however, is always bad for the foot.

* * *

Alexander S. writes: What is the cause of diabetes?

REPLY.

Inheritance, nervous strain or worry, improper diet, and sometimes injury or disease of the pancreas.

Among the Magazines

The World's Work devotes the larger part of its February issue to the subject of our national defense. Frederic Louis Huidekoper writes on "The Lessons of Our Past Wars." "How Big an Army Do We Need?" is the title of an article by George Marvin, who writes of the things that need to be done to make possible the organization of an army in the event of war; the essentials of national defense in fortresses, coast defenses, trained men and organization. There is a short article on "The Army As It Is," which is full of striking facts concerning its size, equipment and organization. Burton J. Hendrick discusses the question, "Do We Need a Strong Navy?" and claims that the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and of the "open door" in China, as well as the defense of the Philippines and Alaska, are possible only by the support of a powerful fleet. Other articles in this issue are: "Scott, U. S. A.," being a character sketch of the present chief of staff of the United States army, by George Marvin; "Diplomacy Our First Line of Defense," by W. Morton Fullerton; "The Australasian Military System," by Arthur Willert; "Under the Fog of War," by Arno Dosch, the World's Work correspondent at the front in the European struggle, and "A Diary From the Front," by Arthur Sweetser. "The March of Events" is a thoughtful editorial interpretation.

The Popular Science Monthly for February, which is the second number of the eighty-sixth volume, opens with an article entitled "The History of Tahiti," by Dr. Alfred Goldsborough Mayer of the Carnegie institution. The author has made extensive scientific explorations of the islands of the Pacific, and this is the first of a series of articles, extensively illustrated, describing the native tribes and their surroundings. Dr. Andrew H. Palmer of the United States weather bureau discusses popular misconceptions concerning the weather. Dr. Fielding H. Garrison of the Army Medical museum explains the part played by the ductless glands and internal secretions in the activities of the body.

* * *

Burt M. McConnell, meteorologist of the Canadian Arctic expedition led by Wilhjalmur Stefansson, tells for the first time, in the February Harper's, of the dramatic rescue of the Karluk's survivors, and speculates upon the possibility of Stefansson's being still alive. William Roscoe Thayer continues his interesting extracts from the diaries of John Hay, a pen-portrait of Napoleon III being declared by Mr. Thayer to be one of the best things Mr. Hay ever wrote. David Jayne Hill, former United States ambassador to Germany, presents some interesting "dialogues" on the problems of our diplomatic service. "Climate and Civilization" is the title of a notable article by Ellsworth Huntington, and Richard Le Gallienne has a seasonable article on "The Treasures of the Snow." "Shipmates of the Coral Sea" is well illustrated by George Harding. The fiction is furnished by Maude Radford Warren, Roy R. Gardner, Alma G. Madden, May Sinclair, Eugene A. Clancy, Arthur Johnson, Marie Scherr and Booth Tarkington.

Theodore Roosevelt had more to do with the Panama canal treaty than any other one individual, and is very much against the proposal to pay Colombia $25,000,000 in addition to what we paid for the canal zone in 1903. "In the Panama Blackmail Treaty" he tells why he considers the payment of any more money to Colombia as nothing more or less than blackmail. "With an English Ambulance Corps in Belgium," by May Sinclair, is a thrilling account of some English girls and doctors who ran an automobile ambulance corps under fire in Belgium. In "A Cure for Militarism," Walter Lippmann suggests some good ways of making use of our standing army. Morris Hillquit tells us how Socialists feel about all kinds of war in his interesting article, "Socialism and War." "The Story of a Pioneer," by Anna Howard Shaw, is continued, as is "Angela's Business," by Henry Sydnor Harrison.

* * *

"Legal Neutrality vs. Moral Neutrality" is the arresting title of the first of the February Atlantic articles on the war and the problems it has thrown in the path of the American people. Paul Fuller, a recognized authority on international law, contends that expressions of opinion are consistent with complete legal neutrality, and calls upon President Wilson to give utterance to the universal American sentiment by protesting against the real violation of neutrality in "the massacre of Belgium." Quite different, but no less brilliant, is "Germany's Answer," by Hans Delbruck Treitschke's successor in the University of Berlin. In "La Grande Nation," J. O. P. Bland tells eloquently of France's complete transformation since August. John Galsworthy contributes a touching "Love Letter to France." Sydney Brooks reveals the methods of "The German Spy System," shows what brilliant things it has done, and lays bare its weak spot. "The Vexed Question of Contraband," which for some weeks has been the object of anxious American attention, is discussed by Arthur Willert, while of equal interest is Secretary Redfield's analysis of "The Present Merchant Marine Problem."

* * *

In the February American Magazine appears a remarkable article by Cleveland Moffett, telling the story of a wonderful young American who persuaded the pope to appear in motion pictures. He spent eighteen months at the job, and displayed uncanny shrewdness, ingenuity and determination. The story of how he overcame the obstacles that appeared before him is not only highly entertaining but genuinely inspiring. In the same number Ida M. Tarbell goes on with her new series of business articles entitled "The Golden Rule in Business." Will Irwin contributes a news article about England. Stewart Edward White, writing under the title, "Four Lions at Once," describes a personal experience he had hunting lions in South Africa that is both thrilling and instructive.

One of the striking contributions to the February Woman's Home Companion is an article by the Rev. Charles Stelzle entitled, "Making the Church Do Real Work," in which he considers the question of the high cost of salvation. He does not, of course, consider that the money cost per convert which a church pays is any evidence as to the efficiency or inefficiency of that church, but he does show wherein some churches are vastly superior to others in the service which they perform in a community. In any event, his article is highly entertaining and thought-provoking and will undoubtedly arouse considerable discussion. In the same issue, Ida M. Tarbell writes on "The Talkative Woman," and Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, writes another talk to "The American Girl."

* * *

As an addition to the February Century, Morgan Shuster and Prof. Roland G. Usher have added a supplement on the subject of the violation of American neutrality. These timely articles were written immediately after the American protest, although the issue had already gone to press. Roland G. Usher, who is the author of "Pan-Germanism," "The Rise of the American People," etc., in an article on "England and Contraband Cargoes" upholds the moral obligation of America to take a firm stand on the international laws that govern neutral commerce on the high seas, while admitting that war with England would be so disastrous that we must not force the issue too far. W. Morgan Shuster in "The Goose Step and the Marine Roll" points out that England's right to rule the seas has been practically granted by every nation except Germany, but that this attitude of the neutral nations can endure only as long as England upholds and does not violate the rights of other nations.

THE HERALD'S PARCEL POST SERVICE

Directions for Ordering and Shipping by Parcel Post:

¶Any article advertised here is mailable to any part of the United States, if not over 20 pounds in weight nor more than 72 inches in length and girth combined. Parcels of 50 pounds can be sent through local, first and second zones (second zone limit 150 miles). If the article you order is very valuable it may be insured or accorded special delivery service on payment of the usual fees.. Such valuable articles will be insured upon request against loss.

¶When ordering shoes, rings, hats, dresses, waists, coat suits or anything that requires a perfect fit, be careful and give your correct size. Duluth firms will be very careful to give you just the size you order.

¶When ordering dress goods, silks, colored goods or any article where a particular color is wanted be certain and specify the exact shade, and merchants will see that you get what you order.

¶By conforming to these simple rules your orders will be sent out the same day received and in many cases will be delivered by the postman direct to your home the following day.

Parcel Post Editor of Duluth Herald, Duluth, Minn.
Dear Sir: I needed a pair of skates so I went to our local stores and they did not have what I wanted. Then I sent to a friend of mine and told him to send me a pair; he sent the skates but they were both the wrong size and wrong make. I was looking over The Herald and saw the Fenton-Duby Co.'s ad. I sent to them and got what I sent for in the quickest time possible and I think I saved about twenty per cent of what I paid by so doing. I have used The Herald ad for other things and always have rec'd the best of results.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

QUARANTINE LAWS FUTILE

Unless Backed Up By Medical Supervision of Schools, Says Bracken.

State Health Official on Failure of Quarantine to Halt Disease.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6.—Quarantine laws without competent medical supervision in the schools are practically worthless and the laws have never done what was expected of them because they did not touch the vital spot of disease spread, according to Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, in a talk to the school physicians of communicable diseases at the Girls' Vocational school.

"As long as we have been quarantining contagious cases we have not stopped the most active carriers," said Dr. Bracken. "We have always quarantined those who spread disease the least.

Four Classes of Carriers.

"We have four general classes of carriers. We have the well persons, who have not the disease themselves and who may not be immune but who, nevertheless, go about carrying the disease from the sick to the well. Then we have the mild cases that are not recognized and the mild cases that are concealed. Lastly we have those who are so sick they can't conceal it.

"We pen up the sick who can not go about and let those who are just as active as carriers, but who are active, go about.

"The medical inspectors in schools will detect the mild and the concealed cases. Then the quarantine laws will do some work. I have found school supervision a great aid."

Arouse Public Interest.

Dr. Bracken told of the necessity of keeping the state board of health out of politics, of sanatorium treatments for the advanced and incipient cases of turberculosis and of the need of a greater public interest in health matters.

"Education is of little value if the person who obtains it is prevented from using it because of poor health," he said. "The school work will be of special value in reducing the mortality from tuberculosis. It has not been reduced in Minnesota in the last twenty years but we are now in a position to make a showing in our fight against it."

FIND STRYCHNINE IN MAN'S STOMACH

Believed James Forget, Living Near Rainy River, Was Poisoned.

Baudette, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Forget, residing four and one-half miles northeast of Rainy River, Ont., who died very suddenly three weeks ago as he got up from the dinner table, came to his death, it is thought, by foul play. The stomach was sent to Toronto to be examined and was returned stating that it contained strychnine. Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Sequin, who kept house for him, were arrested. Mr. Sequin filed on Forget's claim after his sudden death. Mr. Forget was well known on both sides of the river and was well liked. The trial will occur soon.

The young man passed away last week after a short illness of tuberculosis. His mother and four other children of the family have died in the past few years of the same dread disease.

WOMAN BATTLES WITH BIG WOLF

Brute Left in Kitchen, Presumably Dead, Attacks Her.

Barnum, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. J. D. Connor, living near here knows what it is to have a close contact with a big wolf. She had a battle with such a brute in her own kitchen and came out victor, using an ax handle as her weapon. Her sons had trapped a big she-wolf and after knocking the animal in the head presumably killing it, dragged it home. To prevent the carcass freezing before the pelt was removed the wolf was left in the kitchen. While Mrs. Connor was alone the animal, that evidently had only been stunned, revived and attacked her. Mrs. Connor grabbed the ax handle and a terrific battle ensued between the woman and the brute.

The animal tried to bite her but she eluded such attempts and finally laid the brute out with a well-directed blow and when her sons returned they completed the job with an ax. Beyond being nervously overwrought, Mrs. Connor was not injured.

BIG COIN THEFT AT INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

International Falls, Minn., Feb. 6.—Fred Shaw announces the loss of $300 in coins that he valued at $1,000. He alleges they were stolen from his safe in the Duluth Brewing company office by a driver for the concern named McKenzie. The coins were stolen during the absence up lake of Mr. Shaw. The police are trying to capture McKenzie.

HANGS SELF IN BARN.

Ottertail County Farmer's Son Finds Him Suspended in Haymow.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 6.—James Butcher, who purchased a farm in the town of Buse, seven miles south of this city, over a year ago, committed suicide Thursday by hanging himself in the haymow of his barn.

He had a disagreement with the party renting the place, and this seemed to worry him a great deal. He went out to the barn, and ten minutes later his son found him hanging from a beam in the haymow. He cut him down immediately, but life was already extinct. Coroner Vigen made an investigation, but the facts were apparent and no inquest was necessary.

Mr. Butcher was born in England and was 63 years of age. He leaves a wife and family.

DROWNS HIMSELF IN PINE RIVER

Aged Man, Partially Blind, Throws Himself Into Stream.

Pine River, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Almost totally blind and poor in health, George Brundett, aged 65, in a fit of despondency drowned himself this week in Pine river. The body was discovered Wednesday morning and removed to the village hall where the coroner held an inquest, finding death due to drowning while mentally unbalanced. Investigation showed that Mr. Brundett had climbed over the fence opposite the power house and had walked down the fishway to the water. Fresh tracks in the snow indicated these to be his tracks and owing to his physical condition it is the consensus of opinion that the act was deliberate. He has been almost totally blind for some months past and perhaps felt that he was in the way. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his death.

BISMARCK "WIDE OPEN."

Is Charge Made By Prosecutor of Adjoining Morton County.

Mandan, N. D., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charging that it is impossible to enforce the prohibition laws here in Morton county, when they are violated in adjoining counties, State's Attorney William Langor of Morton county has addressed letters to State's Attorney Berndt of Burleigh county, Attorney General H. J. Linde, Speaker A. G. Hanson of the house of representatives, and Lieutenant Governor J. H. Fraine, presiding officer of the senate, stating that blind-pigs and bawdy houses are being operated in Bismarck; also that these places are conducted despite the fact that the city is crowded with members of the state legislature, and is the home of state officers.

Langer asserts that local poolroom and theater owners came to him and objected to the enforcement of the Sunday closing law, stating that the same kind of places were open in Bismarck, and that people left Mandan on Sunday in order to find recreation in Bismarck.

fied man was discharged accidentally when a falling box struck him on the hip.

OFFICER'S WEAPON WOUNDS BRAKEMAN

Pistol Goes Off and Railroad Employe Is Shot in One Eye.

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Thurman, brakeman on the Northwestern road's passenger train between Mercer and Winchester has been taken to Chicago, in an effort to save his eye that was penetrated by a bullet in a strange manner.

Thurman was in the baggage car of the train which was standing at Winchester, and Frank Cole, a deputy sheriff, was sitting in the opening of the side door. Cole slid down out of the car, and as he did so, a revolver which he carried in his hip pocket, caught on the door in such a manner that the weapon was discharged, the bullet first going through a box of meat and then striking Thurman over the left eye.

Thurman was brought to Ironwood on a special train and operated on at the Union hospital, the bullet being removed and on Friday he was taken to Chicago to receive further treatment at a hospital. It is probable that he will lose the sight of his left eye. If the bullet had struck Thurman a fraction of an inch lower it would have penetrated his brain.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS FOUND DEAD IN DITCH.

Larimore, N. D., Feb. 6.—The body of Charles Storm, aged 24, was found Friday in a ditch near Arvilla by telephone linemen. Storm left the home of John Sweeney, who lives near here, Thursday night to go to a neighbor's place to phone for a doctor, but did not reach his destination. The team he was driving has not been found.

The theory of Larimore officials is that Storm met with an accident, as it was not cold enough for him to freeze to death. He knew the country thoroughly, as he had driven through it for several years in the capacity of a liveryman.

His parents reside somewhere in New York.

Bakers Cut Bread Weight.

Winona, Minn., Feb. 6.—Winona bakers have come to an agreement on account of the high price of wheat to lessen the size of their loaves of white bread from sixteen to fourteen ounces in a loaf and darker and heavier breads from eighteen to fifteen ounces. The bakers did not favor raising the retail price of bread, but the wholesale price has been advanced to 4 cents a loaf.

Wadena—If present plans are successful, Charles Houtari, now serving a life sentence at Stillwater for the murder of Jake Pakkonen in 1905 in Wadena county, will be granted an unconditional pardon by the pardon board at its next meeting. Friends of the convicted man will circulate a petition in this section of the county and it is conceded that everybody will sign it.

Crookston—President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota, will be the guest at the banquet given by the Crookston High School Alumni association, who reside in the Minnesota Red River valley, on the evening of Feb. 19, at the Commercial club rooms.

International Falls—There will be a meeting of the workingmen and businessmen at the city hall Sunday night at 8 o'clock. Men prominent in state labor circles will be present, and the program will be made more interesting by slides illustrating the subjects under discussion.

Argyle—Peter Kirsch, well known in Marshall county, having served as county surveyor and been prominent in the councils of the Democratic party of the county for many years, died here at the age of 70 years. Mrs. Karin Hagen, mother of Torger Hagen of Middle River, also died here.

Moorhead—The Moorhead postoffice is now duly installed in its new quarters in the handsome new Federal building. The postoffice has been located in its present quarters for the last eleven years, and the change to the new building is welcomed by the office force and patrons.

MARKET HAS WEAK TONE

Wheat Closes Lower, With Realizing Sales on Part of Traders.

Flaxseed Strong on Crushers' Inquiry After Showing Early Weakness.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 6.—Weakness developed in the wheat market today as a result of easier cables and some disposition on the part of holders to ease up their commitments over the holiday. The market is in a nervous state at its present high price range and speculation on the part of the public is being discouraged by operators. The putting up of heavy margains is being demanded by the wire houses, especially in the Chicago May future, which is regarded as top-heavy in some quarters. On the other hand, a Duluth house specializing in export business was reported to be taking everything offered. It was that buying that led to a firming up at the close yesterday.

While no foreign business was reported locally today, the working of a moderate tonnage was advised at the seaboard. Exceptional strength was furthermore shown at Winnipeg, attributed to liberal export inquiry on that market. It is said that all but a small proportion of the wheat in storage at Port Arthur and Fort William elevators is contract stuff, and that exporters are consequently being forced to do some scrambling to cover their new sales.

May wheat opened locally ½c off at $1.56, and closed with a decline of 1⅛c in the day at $1.55⅝ bid. July opened ⅝c off at $1.52 and closed 1⅜c off at $1.51⅝ bid.

After sympathy was shown in its market to begin with, business in durum became fairly active at a slightly lower range of quotations.

May durum opened 1½c off at $1.59½ and closed 1c off at $1.60 bid. July closed 1c off at $1.57 nominally.

News of today was generally bullish. Clearances were heavy, amounting to 1,770,000 bu of wheat and flour, while primary receipts were comparatively light at 642,000 bu against 679,000 bu last year. Stocks of wheat at Duluth now aggregate 10,036,000 bu, an increase of 371,000 bu in the six days. Stocks of all grain in the elevators here are now 15,116,000 bu, an increase of 877,000 bu in the same period.

Flax Firm at Close.

The market in flaxseed was quiet with a weak tendency throughout the session. Some efforts were shown by holders to unload small lots, while the buying power appeared to be limited. Near the close fair inquiry from crushers appeared and final prices were slightly up.

May flax opened ½c off at $1.89, and closed ⅛c up at $1.90 bid. September opened unchanged at $1.89½ and closed 1c up at $1.90½ nominal.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ⅜c up at $1.69 bid, and July ¼c up at $1.70 bid.

Oats closed ⅝c off at 56⅝c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.28; barley 2c off at from 75c to 84c, and corn 1⅜c off at 71⅞c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¾c up at 68¾c, and July ⅛c up at 69c bid.

There was a good demand for everything offering on the Duluth board of trade today. Cash wheat sold at ½c under to May price; durum at the May price, and flaxseed at ½c under to the May price.

* * *

C. E. Lewis wired from Minneapolis: "Sentiment in the pit is bearish. The crowd feels the edge is off the buying movement for the time being, and they are working for a break. There is no volume of wheat coming in, however. "New York says foreigners have been re-sellers on wheat, corn and oats, but Chicago reports good buying orders by commission houses at $1.62½. We look for scalping markets only for the time being."

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The steadiness in America yesterday was an influence during the early trading, but later the undertone became easier, with more liberal offerings. American winters and Canadian were both unchanged, while Plate sold at 2d decline. Argentine offers are liberal and India selling more freely, with the weather there conducive to good crop results, and therefore a waiting attitude is evidenced. The spot market was quiet and about unchanged, and cargoes with parcels about unchanged. The general undertone is firm but the market dull. Corn was well supported, with advancing spot and fewer Plate offers.

The Spanish import duty has been lowered to 1s per 480 lb.

* * *

Argentine weather is generally fine both for the movement of grain and development of corn. The corn crop is progressing favorably and a large yield of good quality is expected.

* * *

In France the weather is unfavorable for wheat and also for the late harvesting. Native offers are light and country markets strong, but prices in Paris remain unchanged under government regulation and show no changes.

* * *

Minneapolis cash market was firmer, with demand good for top grades and lower grades somewhat slow. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 3½@4 over May, and velvet chaff at May price to 1c under May. There were moderate scattered domestic flour sales with a pretty fair lot sold for export, but the amount was not given. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.51@1.55½, and No. 2 northern at from $1.48½@1.53.

* * *

Michigan crop report for February says: 464 correspondents say no damage was done to wheat during January, and 81 say there was some. A year ago a third reported damage and two-thirds none. Farmers marketed 339,000 bu wheat at $1.59 to mills and elevators against 192,000 bu a year ago.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Heavy Selling Pressure on Wheat Results From Export Uncertainty.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Heavy selling pressure on wheat resulted today from the export uncertainty, English and French demand seeming to have been almost shut off temporarily by the threatened German submarine blockade. Prices here broke as much as 3½c before buying orders had sufficient volume to cause a decided rally. After opening 1⅞ to 2⅛c off prices steadied about 1¾c under last night.

Subsequently increased weakness developed as a result in part of somewhat enlarged country acreage.

Corn gave way under a general rush of selling. Depressing cables and the break in wheat had apparently most to do with the lack of buying. The opening which varied from ¼ to 1¼c lower, was followed by a moderate further setback.

Later the slowness of cash inquiry, both domestic and foreign, brought about an additional decline. The close was weak, 1¼@1⅝c to 1⅜c net lower.

Free unloading by holders formed the rule in oats as in other cereals.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, Feb. 6.—Dun's Weekly Review says:

"The great advance in the price of wheat, due primarily to the urgent world demand, is enriching the agricultural departments and is contributing to increased commercial prosperity in the farming sections. The recent rise in cotton, with expansion of exports, has reduced the sharp depression in the South to a considerable extent. The strength of the financial situation increases every day.

"Bank exchanges for the week were $2,912,449,146, a decrease of 13.5 per cent from last year.

"Wheat exports were 7,226,514 as compared with 2,773,332 last year.

"Failures for the week in the United States were 596 against 370 a year ago, in Canada 57 against the same number last year."

STATEMENT OF NEW YORK BANKS

New York, Feb. 6.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $143,991,680 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $268,350 from last week. The statement follows:

Actual condition: Loans, etc., $2,262,000; increase, $29,439,000. Reserve in own vaults (b), $369,599,000; decrease, $963,000. Reserve in Federal reserve banks, $112,646,000; increase, $4,359,000. Reserve in other depositaries, $32,245,000; increase, $170,000.

ADVANCES WIPED OUT

Stocks Start Higher But Improvement Not Long Maintained.

United States Steel Steady and Bethlehem Makes Gain.

New York, Feb. 6.—Efforts to lift prices above yesterday's closing figures met with indifferent success in the course of today's two-hour session of the stock market. Improvement at the opening was not long maintained, the list falling back on renewed selling of Southern Pacific and other railways. Northwestern lost 3 points, declining to its minimum of 122, and Norfolk & Western fell 2½. In the industrials Baldwin Locomotive, common and preferred suffered losses, likewise American Linseed preferred. There were off-setting features, however, in a further rise in Bethlehem Steel to a new high price, steadiness in United States Steel and recoveries of more than 2 points in Sugar shares. The closing was irregular.

Bonds were irregular.

WOULD KNOW STANDING OF ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS

Genoa, Italy, Feb. 6.—Ricciotti Garibaldi, who has lost two sons on the French side in the present war, passed through here today on his way to Paris and London to consult with the French and British authorities in the matter of the standing of Italian volunteers in the armies of the allies. In Paris, Gen. Garibaldi, who is a son of the Italian liberator, will confer with Minister of War Millerand; while in London he will see War Secretary Kitchener. He is accompanied by his wife.

ACTIVE TRADING IN THE COPPERS

Confidence Felt Through Calumet & Hecla Mines Going on Full Time.

Mining stocks were fairly strong and active today for a Saturday session. Confidence was imparted through the intimation that the Calumet & Hecla mills and smelters, including those of its subsidiary companies will go on full time next week. The parent company has notified all its old employes to report for work. This order affects 10,000 men and means an added output of 20 per cent at the mines. This action on the part of the large producing interests is taken to mean that conditions have greatly improved in the copper metal market.

Alaska Gold closed 25 cents up at $28.38; Butte & Superior, 63 cents off at $46.12; Copper Range, 25 cents up at $32.75; Granby, 50 cents off at $65; Mohawk, 50 cents off at $60; Quincy, 50 cents up at $56, and North Butte, a fraction up at $23.12.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper closed unchanged at $53.25 and Anaconda unchanged at $26.50.

In the Boston curb list, as reported to Paine, Webber & Co., Calumet & Corbin sold off to 14@15 cents; Verde Extension at $2, Stewart at $1.63; Jumbo Extension at 80 cents, Goldfield Merger at 20@22 cents, First National Copper at $1.06@1.12; Calaveras at 98 cents, Atlanta at 30 cents and South Lake at $4.75.

Resumption of operations at the mine and shipments to the smelter are foreshadowed in a circular letter addressed to shareholders of the Alex Scott Copper company over the signature of Thomas Furniss, secretary-treasurer. It says in part:

"The price of copper metal is steadily advancing and it is the desire of your officers to commence work on the property when the metal shows a strong tendency of 14½c per pound. The property is in first-class condition and shipments could be started within a very few days after resuming operations. Financially we are in good condition, having practically $36,000 cash on hand Jan. 1, 1915, with no outstanding accounts.

"Our neighbors, the Anaconda company, have continued sinking their West Colusa shaft, and as usual, have extended to our superintendent every facility for gaining vast information in regard to the dip of the Scott veins, etc. Their good showing respecting our vein system, number of exposures of ore, etc., all prove we have a good tonnage of commercial ore between the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels. Considering the condition of the mine as a whole, we feel we are in a good, strong position to make money again."

Referring to the stock market conditions, Skillings' Mining and Market Letter of today says:

"Conditions marketwise have been good this week, though they have not been reflected fully because of the interruption to the wire service out of Boston. The few quotations received, however, indicate a quite general advance of prices for the metal stocks as compared with a week ago. Advancing prices for spelter, copper and lead and the sound conditions surrounding the upturn of business constitute the underlying strength of the stock market. Steel common has taken a moderate rebound from the minimum of $38 to $40.75, which is another very significant and interesting feature of the stock market. Copper metal is 14.75 to 15.12c and trading is reported at 15c. Spelter is strong at $7.75 to $8. Prospects are for further advances in both copper and spelter. Lead has begun to advance and is quoted at $3.60 to $3.70."

TRIES AGAIN FOR LICENSE

Mitchell Polinsky Makes Third Effort to Keep Skibo Saloon.

Mitchell Polinsky is bent on running a saloon at Skibo. More than that, he insists upon it.

And the mere fact that within the last two months both he and his son have been turned down by the county board when applications were presented for a liquor license will not stand in the way of his ambition to again become engaged in his former business, if he can help it.

Applying the old rule about trying again if success crowns not the first effort, Polinsky put another application before the county commissioners at their February meeting today. The board will act upon it at its afternoon session.

Polinsky conducted a saloon at Skibo until Jan. 9 last, when his license expired and he was obliged to close up shop. At a meeting of the board on Dec. 4, 1914, his application for a license renewal was refused upon the recommendation of the county attorney.

Took New Tack.

Polinsky then took a new tack. At a subsequent meeting of the county board, Dec. 30, 1914, the commissioners were confronted with an application for a new license by Sam Polinsky, Mitchell's son. It was likewise turned down. His license having expired in the meantime, Polinsky, Sr., took a turn today in asking for a new license.

During the last few months Polinsky conducted a saloon at Skibo, the board was flooded with complaints from residents of that community concerning the manner in which the place was being operated. One described the drinking place as "a miserable kech playing upon men from the lumber camps and railroad section crews." Others wrote in stating that the saloon had been kept open at all hours of the day and the night and on Sundays.

Conflicting Reports.

When the application for a renewal of the license first came before the board, action was deferred and the matter referred to the county attorney and the sheriff for investigation. Conflicting reports were returned. Sheriff Meining advised the board that he had thoroughly investigated and had found Polinsky living up to the law. County Attorney Greene recommended that the license be refused. The board turned it down.

In addition to the Polinsky application, the county board will also pass upon the question of granting renewals to Louis Anderson at Pike Lake and Joseph Flower of Stuntz township. So far as is known no opposition has developed in either case, although Anderson is now under indictment by the January grand jury on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday. The case has not been tried as yet.

The board today received a communication from the Jackson Farmers' club, of which O. Larson is president and D. E. Johnson, secretary, informing the commissioners of a resolution which had been passed by the club urging the county board to refuse to grant any liquor licenses during the year 1915.

The board has two "dry" members, Commissioner Walter Swanstrom from the Third district and Commissioner T. H. Little from the Second district. Commissioner Pentilla from the Sixth district, who is serving his first term, has not yet passed upon a proposition of granting a new license and has not officially indicated what his views are in the matter.

SILBERSTEIN IS IN RACE

Will Become Candidate for City Commissioner at Spring Election.

Bernard Silberstein pioneer Duluth merchant, who was a candidate for mayor at the regular election two years ago and who lost out by eight votes, will make the race for commissioner at the spring election.

Yesterday afternoon a number of friends of Mr. Silberstein called at the city hall and obtained blank petitions. These are now being circulated throughout the city in his behalf. Mr. Silberstein said this morning that several committees have already approached him and that owing to pressure that is being brought to bear upon him, he will probably make the race.

"I have not finally decided," said Mr. Silberstein this morning, "but will probably make the race, if I feel that the citizens of Duluth want me in office."

Besides Mr. Silberstein, the candidates already in the race to fill the offices of Commissioners Hicken and Murchison, whose terms expire, include J. A. Farrell and R. E. McFarlane. Although Commissioners Hicken and Murchison have not announced their candidacy to succeed themselves, it is believed that they will both enter the campaign.

City Clerk Palmer announced this morning that registration days for the spring election will be Tuesday, March 9, and the following Saturday, March 13.

Owing to a conflict with the state election laws, he said, it will be necessary to have two ballots at the spring election, a red ballot for the candidates and a lavender ballot for the amendments to be voted on this spring. The charter states that only one ballot is needed, while the statutes provide for two ballots, of different colors. To play safe, City Attorney Clapp said this morning that a double ballot will probably be used.

St. James' Ex-Mayor Dies.

St. James, Minn., Feb. 6.—Dr. W. H. Rowe, Sr., died at the hospital here, of which he was president. He was 56. Heart disease caused his death. He was mayor of St. James many years and served on the staffs of several governors.

DREAMS OF CRIME LEAD TO CELL

Too much enthusiasm over the James boys and Younger brothers is the cause of the undoing of Harry Garrant, aged 20, of Fort Frances, Ont., who has just been deported to Canada by the Duluth immigration officers. Garrant is charged with attempting to force money from Walter Keating at the point of a revolver. When arrested, it is said, he carried two revolvers and brass knuckles.

The alleged holdup is said to have taken place Nov. 27, 1914, in Fort Frances. Keating broke a window and screamed for help. Garrant is said to have crossed the international bridge, beat his way to Cusson, Minn., upon freight trains. Later he was arrested, charged with stealing a mackinaw and sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

STORY OF STRIKE IN THE COLORADO MINE IS UNTRUE

Only Several Pieces of High Grade Ore Picked From Drift.

Mill Being Run to Capacity on Elm Orlu's Zinc Ore.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—They have made another "strike" in the Colorado mine of the Davis-Daly Copper company, but the local management refuses to confirm or deny, admitting only that several pieces of high grade ore have been picked from a drift on the 2,500-foot level of the mine. The Colorado mine has been yielding such pockets of ore for years, but one or two blasts caused them to disappear. However, the Davis-Daly company has a great press agent who has a marked interest in the stock and he can get his boom stuff into a few papers and through them can play the market both ways, up and down. That explains the story of a five-foot strike of glance and bornite which caused the stock to jump up one day last week. The "strike" consisted of several picked samples of ore from the face of a drift on the 2,500-foot level. W. L. Creden, general manager of the Davis-Daly refused to confirm the story. He said he did not wish to give out any statement that might either credit or discredit the possibilities. "If I know what there is there I would be perfectly willing to have it stated authoritatively," he said. "But we merely know what the face shows, and, until further development proves the extent of the ore body, I do not want to make any statement." The samples which were picked from the "strike" assayed 25 and 40 per cent copper. It is possible that the Davis-Daly will find a permanent ore body some time, but after years of searching and assessments it has not yet been found, and the statement published that a strike of five feet of copper glance and bornite had been made was a simple untruth, but it served its purpose.

Elm Orlu.

The Timber Butte Milling company, a Clark corporation which is employing the oil flotation process on the zinc ore of the Elm Orlu mine, is being run to near capacity. About 400 tons of zinc ore per day are being mined and milled. It is stated that from the start of operations in June of last year, the mill record has been entirely satisfactory. Working exclusively on Elm Orlu ore the process employed has recovered approximately 94 per cent of the zinc value. The Elm Orlu mine employs 225 men, and about 500 tons of ore are mined daily, some of the ore running high in copper content and this is sent to the Washoe smelter of the Anaconda company.

Pilot-Butte.

At a meeting of the directors of the Pilot-Butte Mining company, held in Butte, it was decided to take advantage of the present high price of spelter to mine a lot of zinc ore, and to prosecute extensive development work in the Pilot mine. Exhaustive reports on the property were submitted by Walter Harvey Weed, Lewis E. Dunham and Supt. Gow. There are three distinct zinc veins in the Pilot ground, and drifts along these extend 300 feet. The ore is of an exceptionally high grade, running 20 to 30 per cent zinc. At present there are four openings where the ore can be mined without the necessity of any additional development work, but other openings will be made. The new openings will extend from the 900-foot level down to the 2,100. At least fifty tons of zinc ore can be taken out daily, which would net about 400 pounds of zinc to the ton, a daily output of 20,000 pounds. At present spelter prices the Pilot-Butte expects to make good profit. A deal has practically been closed to treat the ore at the mill of the Timber Butte company. In addition to the zinc veins in the Pilot there are four distinct copper veins, and development work on these will be carried on rapidly during the year. It has been decided to sink the shaft from its present depth of 2,450 feet to a depth of 2,850 feet, or 400 feet farther. A crosscut will also be run to the northeast end of the property, a distance of 1,405 feet from the west end. The company is now said to be operating with profit, and with the profits from the contemplated zinc shipments will earn good returns. In January the company shipped thirty cars of first class and twenty-one cars of second class ore. It is expected that in February fully sixty cars of ore will be shipped. Operations on the zinc veins is to be pushed as rapidly as possible. Up to this time nothing had been done to take out the zinc ore, the greatest possibilities being seen in the copper deposits. The falling off in the demand for copper and the sensational demand for spelter changed the possibilities of the mine. The Pilot-Butte is employing only about sixty men at present, but this force will be increased materially. The veins upon which mining is being done, or will be done, do not include the large copper vein over the ownership of which there is a controversy with the Anaconda company.

Anaconda.

The Anaconda company has made a slight increase in its output by working an additional day per week in some of its mines, but it is claimed that the increase is only temporary and for the purpose of bringing up the stock at the Washoe smelter, which had been allowed to run down. The company is prosecuting its diamond drill explorations on the Butte-Duluth ground, three outfits being employed. Holes to the depth of 200 feet are being sunk all over the property and it is believed that a decision on the option will be reached by the middle of February, although the option runs till the first of March. The Butte Duluth is continuing operations and is producing its normal amount of copper. All the enlargements and improvements at the plant have been practically completed.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior is operating mine and mill to the utmost capacity, to take advantage of the demand for spelter. About 1,250 tons of ore per day are being mined and milled and the mining force has been increased to put every man to work for whom a place can be found in the mine. There is some talk among interested stockholders about negotiations to induce the Butte & Superior to exchange its stock for the stock of the Butte-New York Copper company and the North Butte Extension company, in both of which companies the Butte & Superior owns a controlling interest. Both the Butte-New York and North Butte Extension were partly developed by the Butte & Superior in consideration of a controlling stock interest, but since then nothing has been done with the properties. The North Butte Extension property is not regarded very highly, but the Butte-New York is a very valuable property, considerably developed, not far from the main properties of the Butte & Superior. The Butte-New York is a copper property. It was formerly owned by the Butte-Milwaukee Copper company, but the stockholders of the latter company were compelled to exchange their holdings for Butte-New York, which in turn was owned by the Butte & Superior.

LEASE IS NOT TAKEN

Longyears Relinquish Option on Crow Wing County Poor Farm.

Expected That Brainerd-Cuyuna Will Ship This Season.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The E. J. Longyear company has decided not to take a lease of the Crow Wing county poor farm under the terms specified in its option with the county commissioners. The company has completed its contract of drilling nine holes and has made the following report to the county board:

"We have given this matter very careful consideration and have decided that the grade of the ore is too low and the surface too deep to permit paying as high a royalty rate and as heavy minimums as the option provides."

The land is situated in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 23, township 45, range 30. Under the old lease the royalty was to be 30 cents a ton, and the minimum 10,000 tons the first year; 20,000 tons the second year; 30,000 tons the third year and 40,000 tons the fourth and every year thereafter of the 50-year term. The Longyear company has asked to enter into another option contract with a consideration of $25, no required number of holes to be drilled, but if it discontinued drilling it would either have to take out a lease or surrender the option, the lease to provide royalty at 25 cents, a minimum tonnage of 5,000 tons the first year; 10,000 tons the second year; 20,000 tons the third year and annually thereafter of the 50-year term. Enough work had been done to demonstrate the character of the ore. In the ninth hole sunk from 310 to 315 feet there was found 36.48 iron ore, at 320 feet 43.25, at 325 feet 57.21 iron and .774 phos. at 330 feet 53.90 iron and .438 phos, at 335 feet 53.13 iron and .354 phos, at 340 feet 54.41 iron and .620 phos, at 345 feet 56.69 iron and .522 phos, at 350 feet 55.60 iron and .450 phos, at 355 feet 54.79 iron and .936 phos, at 360 feet 53.02 iron and .582 phos. at 365 feet 46.53 iron and .792 phos.

Brainerd-Cuyuna.

The Brainerd-Cuyuna Mining company has made most successful progress with its timber compartment shaft sunk under the direction of D. C. Peacock, in the city limits of Brainerd. The shaft was brought to ledge, cemented in and almost all water has been shut out, the pumps only running at long intervals. From this point the shaft will be sunk 80 feet deeper and drifting of about 100 feet will reach the ore body. It is confidently expected that some ore can be shipped this season.

At Barrows the Brainerd Mining company, the Barrows Mining company and the Barrows-Mississippi Iron company are busily engaged in drilling. The Barrows Mining company is drilling hole No. 10 A. Some ore found runs as high as 60 per cent. A meeting of the board of directors considered plans and purchases of machinery to equip the mine. C. B. Rowley will be superintendent of construction work and shaft sinking and will devote his entire time to the mine commencing March 1. The Barrows-Mississippi Iron company is down 100 feet in hole No. 12. The Brainerd Mining company has a drill in section 15 and one in section 10. Rumors have been circulated to the effect that copper was found on section 15.

Cuyuna-Sultana.

At the Cuyuna-Sultana Iron company, Messrs. Follette and McCullough of the A. Guthrie company, railroad and stripping contractors of St. Paul, visited the Campbell property on Monday and went over the property and available dump grounds, preparatory to making cost estimates, etc. Mr. Oakes, engineer for Winston Bros., went over the property on Tuesday for the same purpose. It is expected that stripping operations will be under way in the very near future. Estimates, it is said, show that 1,000,000 yards of waste will be moved to uncover the initial area of eight acres, the overburden being sixty feet in thickness. By the drag line method, ore can be reached within ninety days after the time of starting.

The Armour No. 1 and the Armour No. 2 mines will be worked this season, thus increasing the range production. The Kennedy mine at Cuyuna is hoisting daily and accumulating considerable of a stockpile. The Adams mine will hoist ore if the market reaches profitable figures. It is in shape to start shipping any time. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and Cuyuna-Duluth mines of the American Manganese Manufacturing company are expected to start work this month. Pumps have worked continuously in the mines, keeping them free from water. The Wilcox mine at Woodrow is drifting in the ore and will ship this year. The Croft mine at Crosby is near ledge and it is expected will be in shape to ship this season. The Iron Mountain mine has received new boilers and is expected to ship this year. The Duluth-Brainerd mine is quiet at present, but may resume soon and start shipping.

The Adams interests have drills in section 14, township 45, range 30 and in section 22, township 45, range 30. The Hale-Bradley Exploration company has two drills in the Rice river country near Aitkin. The Combination Iron company will soon start drilling the Aitkin county poor farm. The Hill Crest pit mine has ordered electric pumps.

Gopher Iron Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Gopher Iron company was held in St. Paul and these directors were elected: L. F. Potter, M. H. Poling, Frank E. Oberg, Kay Todd, A. O. Ouren, Donald Quinlivan, Dr. Nimrod A. Johnson, H. C. Westergaard and W. H. Pingrey. These were elected officers: President, L. F. Potter; vice president, Donald Quinlivan; secretary, Frank E. Oberg; treasurer, Dr. Nimrod A. Johnson. The capital stock is $500,000, all of the stock is issued and the last block of stock was sold at $120 per share, par value being $100.

The Gopher Iron company is now on a dividend paying basis. The company owns eighty acres in section 19, township 46, range 29, which is part of the large ore body developed by the Congdon-Adams interests on which a shaft is now being sunk. This company also owns a part of the fee in the Pennington mine and other properties which are leased and paying royalties, besides owning all or part of forty or fifty other well-located forties on the range.

NORTH BUTTE'S REPORT ISSUED

Shows the Granite Mountain Shaft and Equipment About Finished.

Following is the quarterly report of the North Butte company. An interesting item is the fact that the Granite Mountain shaft and equipment will be ready for operation in the near future. The report follows:

Granite Mountain Shaft—During the quarter the 2,600-foot station was finished, thus completing the work of cutting the stations at this shaft down to and including the 2,800-foot level.

Work was begun on the skip chutes, and the chutes have been completed on the 2,200 and 2,400-foot levels, and partially completed on the 2,600 and 2,800-foot levels.

Practically all of the equipment for the Granite Mountain hoist has been received, the head-frame and idler towers have been completed, and we are now installing the large electric hoist for operations at this shaft. During the coming quarter this plant should be placed in operation.

In the Edith May.

Edith May Vein—Drifting was done in this vein on the 2,200, 2,600 and 2,800-foot levels.

On the 2,200-foot level we have proved the extension of the ore body in the west drift for an additional distance of 43 feet, the ore being 4½ feet wide and assaying 3.25 per cent copper and 2.5 ounces silver per ton.

On the 2,600-foot level the east drift from the Speculator shaft was extended an additional eighty-three feet, showing irregular bunches of ore, as the ore at this point appears to be scattered through a width of thirty feet of vein granite, carrying from 1.5 to 2 per cent copper.

The east drift from the Granite Mountain crosscut on the 2,600-foot level was started in December, and for twenty-five feet has shown three feet of ore assaying 7.5 per cent copper and three ounces silver per ton, with the same width and grade of ore showing in the face of the drift.

On the 2,800-foot level drifting was prosecuted on the Edith May vein from the Granite Mountain crosscut. These drifts have developed to date a total length of 196 feet of ore, 4½ feet wide, assaying 12.25 per cent copper and 3.75 ounces silver per ton, with approximately the same width and grade of ore showing in the faces of both drifts. The ore in these drifts have been both strong and regular, and the vein shows a very satisfactory increase in mineralization as compared with all the levels below the 2,000.

Upraises Are Finished.

Upraises have been completed on this vein on the 2,400 and 2,800-foot levels near the Speculator shaft, and an additional upraise has been started on the 2,800-foot level near Granite Mountain crosscut. These upraises place us in position to take out any of the ore developed on these lower levels whenever it is deemed advisable.

Jessie Vein—Additional drifting on this vein on the 2,600-foot level has failed to disclose ore of stoping grade east of the Speculator shaft.

On the 2,400-foot level the east drift has advanced 150 feet of which sixty feet was in ore four feet wide and assaying 4.5 per cent copper and 7.5 ounces silver per ton.

On the 2,600-foot level the east drift has extended 111 feet, all of which was in ore 2½ feet wide, assaying 4 per cent copper and 4.25 ounces silver per ton. The drift on the 2,600-foot level appears to have reached the ore body which was developed in this vein on the upper levels, and we should have satisfactory developments in this drift from now on.

Development.

During the quarter the following development work was done:

Stations, 15 feet; crosscuts, 335 feet; drifts, 960 feet; raises, 564 feet; making a total of 1,874 feet. Skip chutes, 16,700 cubic feet.

The ore reserves were fully maintained during the quarter, and the discovery of a satisfactory width of high grade ore in the Edith May vein on the 2,800 level is a very encouraging indication of the probability of finding high grade ore bodies in this vein at greater depth.

During the quarter the mine was operated continuously at 50 per cent production, and our cost per pound of copper has been kept at the average cost for the year.

Production.

During the quarter there were mined and shipped 51,950 wet tons of ore, and 11.2 wet tons of precipitates, and there were treated 60,858 dry tons of ore and 6.6 dry tons of precipitates, of which ore, 13,711 dry tons, or 27 per cent were first class, and 37,147 dry tons, or 73 per cent were second class. This produced 3,466,483 pounds of copper, 194,584.70 ounces of silver and 176,229 ounces of gold.

In General.

The total cost to Dec. 31, 1914, for sinking the Granite Mountain shaft to a depth of over 2,100 feet from the surface, cutting out stations, driving cross-cuts to connect up mine workings, etc., has been $222,604.39, all of which has been absorbed in the development account and charged to the cost of copper.

The new machinery for the Granite Mountain shaft, consisting of the largest electrical hoist built in the United States, with subsidiary equipment, shaft house, engine house and necessary structures, has cost to Dec. 31, 1914, $228,239.38, with final payment of $23,800 to be made on this equipment, when it has been thoroughly tested and found equal to the manufacturers' guarantees.

With the completion of the installation of this equipment, the Granite Mountain shaft will afford a permanent outlet to the company's mine, with the very best type of electrical machinery for economical operation that at this day can be installed.

Considering the above heavy expenditures, now nearly completed, at this time the board of directors deem it advisable not to pay a dividend for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1914.

BIG OUTPUT AT BUTTE & SUPERIOR

Nearly 13,000,000 Pounds of Spelter Produced in January.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 6.—The output of the Butte & Superior mine and mill for the month of January broke all previous records for the property for any one month. The entire tonnage from the Black Rock exceeded 37,000 tons, or about 1,200 tons of ore per day. The amount of concentrates realized was 11,700 tons and the recoveries were better than 92 per cent. The exact official figures on the number of pounds of spelter produced have not yet been received, but it is estimated that the total product will be between 12,500,000 and 13,000,000 pounds, with the figure closer to the 13,000,000 point. The largest previous output for any one month in the history of the company was slightly over 12,000,000 pounds.

The payroll ran between $115,000 and $120,000 and was also the largest for any one month.

The tremendous output of the mine for January was especially significant in view of the high price that spelter has reached and the big demand for it. With the price of spelter between 7 and 8 cents, the proceeds from the sale of the January output will also be the largest in the history of the company.

SHOWING IS EXCELLENT

Good Amount of Copper in Third South Lake Lode.

Repairs to Be Resumed at No. 1 Shaft of Isle Royale.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—South Lake has surely an excellent showing of the red metal in the third South Lake lode so far. The crosscut has traversed this lode a distance of considerably over fifty feet and the upper side or hanging wall is not yet in sight. The first eleven feet were very rich and the remainder has been good, there having been occasionally good bunches. The disclosure revealed here is superior to that of any of the five holes in which this lode was passed through except that of No. 7, where the streak carrying rich values is sixteen feet wide. The two lodes, the fourth and third, have not only equaled but have exceeded the expectations of the geologists and mining men who from a careful inspection of the cores, as they were brought into Houghton soon after they were taken from the holes, were confident that at least one lode would be met with that would make a profitable mine. Of course the drifting might prove disappointing, but such a result would hardly seem possible with such remarkable findings in the diamond drill cores and in the crosscut. After the third lode has been completely crossed, there should occur from 150 to 200 feet of that variety of trap called ophite from its resemblance to the skin of a rattlesnake, before the second lode is entered.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale directors have given orders to resume the repairs at No. 1 shaft which had been made just through the eighth level, when the European war began. The shaft is about 1,600 feet or sixteen levels, deep and the work on the remaining eight levels will not be so extensive as above and therefore will not require so much time. This is for the purpose of further developing and mining the Portage lode, which lies approximately 200 feet west of the Isle Royale lode. The latter lode is cut off at the bottom of the shaft by a fault which can be found on the surface to the north and which was first met with on the ninth level some little distance north. The fault preserves with depth and was met at No. 2 at the present bottom of the shaft, sixty-two feet down. Drifts have been driven north and considerable diamond drilling was done, but all in vain, as no trace of the lode has been encountered to the north. On the south side of the fault the Portage lode continues, but not the mineralization. The last named lode was opened by five crosscuts, on the eleventh to the fifteenth levels inclusive, and about two miles of drifts driven thereon. Before the fire in December, 1903, when the timbering of the shaft was wholly consumed, the stoping was about evenly divided between the two lodes, which are markedly similar in characteristics and values. Work will be resumed at the old workings, new drifts will be driven, and the shaft will be sunk to connect with No. 2 shaft, where there is a fine showing on the twenty-ninth level and below as revealed by the diamond drill. The report for 1913 states that the openings at the No. 2 shaft compare favorably with the average of the Isle Royale lode, but it is understood that the ore the past year been doing somewhat better than before. This shaft, when all the necessary development is ended, will be one more unit with a large area towards the largest possible production which is the aim of the management and which will make this mine highly profitable. It will not be long, according to the indications, before the good sized stretch to the south of No. 6 with good depth will be opened up by additional shafts and some cheaper haulage than that of man. The boiler and hoist will be in a few days made ready to continue the repair work at the No. 1 shaft.

Mass.

Mass' assessment, payable in April last, has been all paid in except about $13,000. On account of the stressful times, Treasurer Bancroft made no effort to collect from the delinquents until Jan. 1, and the responses since that date have been numerous. The tonnage is not quite so heavy as for some time, it being somewhat less than 1,000 tons daily, but there is a greater recovery in copper. Some additional improvements will be striven for in this line. A recent estimate of the reserves shows that they are in better condition than was expected. Even with the large quantity of rock that has been taken out since the resumption after the strike, it is found that the reserves have had a slight increase. Mr. Bancroft, who has made a very close study of the mine, is now here making one of his semi-annual trips of inspection.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian is now operating seven drills, day shift only. Of these three are working towards the New Baltic, one being located on each of the 250, 550 and 900-foot levels. That at the last named level has reached a length of about 120 feet, with very good coarse stamp copper all the way except the first twenty feet, which were in the broken zone encountered in all of the levels. Those on the other two levels just mentioned are both in very good ground and with considerable mass and barrel sizes. One drill is located in the southern drift of the 250-foot level, where the rock is mining the same as usual, and another has just been started in the southern drift on the 900-foot level, where after passing through the broken zone, some copper was constantly found and where there were indications, when the drill was stopped, of heavier grades. The two drills at this level that discovered the No. 2 lode fifty feet east of the No. 1, are continuing the crosscut for the lode met with fifty feet further on at the New Baltic to the northeast by the diamond drill, yielding better cores than the No. 1 lode, the new lode on which all these openings are being made with such good results. There will be no assessment until late in the spring and then probably of only 50 cents, as it is the desire of the management to call upon the stockholders as lightly as possible during the period of development, especially under the war conditions now prevailing, and keep up enough opening to make an appreciable showing. The expenses are very light and there is no Eastern office to be maintained. The expenditures for several months have been not over $2,500 a month.

Tamarack.

Tamarack's No. 1 mill is getting ready two stamps to be used in a day or so for a part of the Isle Royale rock, which is all being now treated at the Centennial-Allouez mill. This mill has had to work five days the last week of January to handle this rock with the shipments from the Superior and the railroad finds it very difficult to get the cars back in time to the mine again, so that now enough of the Isle Royale rock will be milled at the Tamarack to allow the whole to be done in a shorter period. The stamps at the Centennial-Allouez are not equipped with roll crushers and cannot handle over 600 tons a day. Owing to the storm and limited capacity of this mill one and sometimes two of the shafts have had to cease shipping rock for a while.

Franklin.

Franklin will begin its mill test in about two months. After that is concluded there will made a test of the rock that has been accumulating for some time at the New Arcadian. The long crosscut at the Franklin from the shaft on the thirty-second level has about 400 more feet to go in order to reach the Calumet conglomerate.

North Kearsarge.

North Kearsarge is now shipping about 600 tons daily from the No. 1 shaft at which after an interval of about two years for the building of a new shafthouse and for shaft repairs, hoisting has resumed when a boiler exploded at No. 3, about three months ago. The production at No. 3 was about 2,000 tons daily and No. 1 at, which work was resumed before all preparations had been made, is gradually increasing its work to that figure. It will be from four to six months before No. 3 will be ready for hoisting as no effort is being made in this very severe weather to hasten the work, as no additional production is desired at the present time.

NEW PLANS FOR THE NORTH BUTTE

Rumored Company Will Construct Concentrator West of Butte.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 6.—Rumors are afloat that the North Butte company has in contemplation the construction of a concentrator about six miles west of Butte near the confluence of Silver Bow and Brown's gulch creeks, these reports probably having their origin in the purchase of the Kreiter ranch by the North Butte company. This ranch, comprising 620 acres, is located near the mouth of Brown's gulch, and with the property go sufficient water rights to insure a flow ample to care for the needs of a moderate sized concentrator. The Kreiter ranch is located north of the holdings of the Butte & Zenith City company, owned by Ballaklava interests.

North Butte officials have nothing to say on the subject, it being impossible even to confirm the company's purchase of the Kreiter ranch. A deed on record with the clerk and recorder of Silver Bow county, however, states that an instrument was filed for record Jan. 12, transferring the Kreiter ranch from H. A. Bowman and wife to the North Butte company, bearing also a description of the property. Another deed, filed Jan. 15, shows a transfer from Thomas F. Cole, president of the North Butte, to the Anaconda Copper Mining company, of the Robert Emmett No. 1 and No. 2 claims, lying in the western part of the Butte district, at one time under option of the Butte Copper company.

North Butte is maintaining a production of about 1,000,000 pounds of copper monthly. It is expected shortly to have the new engine in commission, when all operations will be transferred from the Speculator to the Granite Mountain shaft.

WILL RESUME AT BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA

Expected to Be in Active Operation Within One Week.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 6.—Within a week the management of the Butte-Ballaklava mine expects to put that mine into active operation again. This will put back to work between 50 and 100 men.

Supt. Mainwaring states that the retimbering between the 700-foot level and the 900-foot level is progressing satisfactorily. The shaft from the 800 to the 900 level is completed and the men who are at work on the retimbering are pushing the repair work between the 700-foot and 800-foot levels.

At the time that the mine closed down, leasers were engaged in taking out ore, and it is probable they will resume as soon as the shaft is in readiness for operation.

"We expect now to start the mine between Feb. 10 and Feb. 15," said Mr. Mainwaring. "It will be in much better shape for operation than before and it is probable that over 100 tons of ore per day will be hoisted when work is resumed.

"We have not planned yet for any further sinking, although as soon as the general mining conditions warrant we will undoubtedly begin sinking below the 1,600, our lowest present level."

"Everychild," a school morality by Constance Nicholas, setting forth quaintly "how Everychild sought for a companion in her quest for goodness and beauty, and having at length chosen received also certain treasures." Full directions are given for the simple stage setting and costumes. Other features of this February number of special interest are articles, fully illustrated, on "How Boys Make Furniture from Boxes" by Louise Brigham, author of "Box Furniture," and "Some New Weather-vanes" by Walter K. Putney; and a very happy study of "Rudyard Kipling, Maker of Magic" by Hildegarde Hawthorne.

The February Scribner is the third annual motor number. The motor in war and peoce is the subject of three articles. Charles Lincoln Freeston writes of "The Motor in Warfare—Power and Speed." Never in the wars of the world have armies moved with the rapidity of those now in conflict; the motor has enabled them to accomplish in a day what used to take weeks to achieve. The motor transports troops, the commissariat, does scout duty, messenger duty, hauls the giant guns of the Austrian and German armies. The article is illustrated with pictures of motors in actual use. "Motoring in the High Sierras" is the topic of an article by Charles J. Belden. It describes a wonderful and beautiful mountain journey that exceeds in altitude the great Stelvio Pass in the Austrian Tyrol. It is beautifully illustrated with mountain scenes. Women are more and more becoming expert motorists. "The Woman at the Wheel," her use of both the gasoline and electric motor, is written about by Herbert Ladd Towle. Joseph Buckin Bishop, for nine years secretary of the isthmian canal commission, writes of the "Personality of Colonel Goethals," an article that will be followed by Col. Goethals' own story of the building of the canal.

The leading editorial article in The New Republic for Jan. 23 is on President Wilson's Mexican policy as outlined in his recent utterances. Another editorial contains a scathing criticism of congress for the tone of its discussion of the suffrage resolution. The debate on the war, between Cecil Chesterton and George Sylvester Viereck, furnishes a text for a consideration of the function of American opinion. Other editorials are on the minimum wage and conservation in water power. H. N. Brailsford writes on "Kultur," distinguishing between its valuable and its dangerous qualities. Robert Lynd describes the political "Tug-of-War in Ireland" as it is at present. Translations from the Provencal verse of Henri Febre, "the poet of the insects," are contributed by Elizabeth Shepley Sergeant.

* * *

The humorous aspects of fascinating adventure are especially emphasized by Capt. W. Robert Foran, F. R. G. S., F. Z. S., F. R. C. I., in "My Adventures Hunting Big Game," which is the feature of the current issue of the American Boy, the boy's favorite magazine. This great hunter and soldier of fortune contributes many a funny story of veldt and jungle and presents an intimate view of animal life in Africa and India. "A Valentine That Wasn't Sent," a different kind of valentine story, by Clarence B. Kelland, leads the short story offerings. "On the Trail of Waseche," by James B. Hendryx, is a fascinating tale of a boy in Alaska's gold fields, and "Eleven E and the Sign" is a clever story of the boy in business by C. H. Claudy.

"Down the Colorado" is an article in Outing of February, describing the lower Colorado with suggestions for the man who wants to combine the lure of the weird and the unknown with comparative ease of access. "Out with the Gloucester Hunt" describes a Virginia fox hunting trip which is full of action and rings with appreciation of the case. "Selections in Dog Breeding" gives the principles that must be followed if the fancier hopes to improve his strain.

The students of China painting, both amateur and advanced, will be pleased with the January number of the Keramic Studio. It contains a large number of studies and treatment of the same: also two colored studies, one of raspberries and the other a vase. Among the studies in black and white are numerous borders for plants, cups and saucers and a pretty design for a honey jar. A very unique and interesting study is a design for a sugar bowl, creamer and teapot. The number contains treatment and color schemes for all black and white studies.

In the January issue of the Engineering magazine, Charles R. King presents a study on the future position of Russia in the coal and iron industries. Accompanied by a series of drawings and photographs of German, French and English aircraft, John H. C. Kerr-Law presents a discussion of the effect the spectacular machines have upon warfare, presenting their several fields of especial value. Horace L. Arnold describes in text and pictures the many novel mechanical aids to labor-cost reduction which help to give the Ford foundries their exceedingly low production costs.

The February issue of the Smart Set is full of unusually amusing matter. The novelette by Marie Louise Van Saanen, entitled "Climbing," presents a certain phase of New York social life in an acute manner. One of the leading articles—and a feature of the issue—bears the piquing title "The Frank Admissions of a Lady-Killer" and is by Paul Hervey Fox. There is also an amusing analysis of the Flapper.

* * *

The Wide World magazine for February contains a number of highly instructive and interesting articles. "The Quest of the Peso-la-ki" is the romantic story of a hidden Indian mine, jealously guarded by its owners, for which daring prospectors have sought vainly for upwards of a century, many of them paying with their lives for their temerity. "Icebergs," by Lacey Amy, is a magnificently illustrated article dealing with the real "terrors" of the ocean.

* * *

One of the most interesting articles in the February Strand is entitled "Culture and German Culture," by Sir Ray Lankester in which he severely argues the kaiser. Other articles of interest are "The Sensations of a Boxer," by Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of the world; "Japanese Juggling Tricks," by M. Gintaro; "The Chessboard of Europe" and an appreciative paper dealing with Hy Mayer, the well-known cartoonist, and his work. The fiction is good and generous in quantity.

* * *

The Writer (Boston), now in its twenty-seventh volume, continues to fulfill its aim to interest and help literary workers. The February number contains practical and helpful articles on "Writing to Sell," and "Writing as a Side Line," besides giving interesting personal gossip about authors and the news of the literary world, and discussing such topics as "Rules for the Girl Who Wants to Write," "The Essential Thing in Writing Serials," "Terms Used in Film Production," "The Effect of Moving Pictures on the Novel," "Editing for Publication," "Dictating a Novel" and "Sincerity in Story Writing."

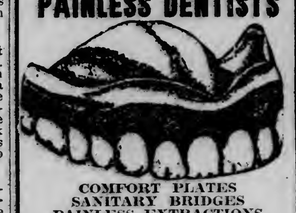

* * *

The February number of Woman's World is so full of good things that it is difficult to select the titbits. In "The Isolated Woman," Bailey Millard tells of the Federal and state movements to improve conditions in the rural districts. The mysteries presented by Robert Carlton Brown in the October and November issues are solved in the third story, "The Hidden Blade," and Sara Lindsay Coleman's serial love story, "The Fairy in the Web," is finished. "Some Adventures in Courtship" are interestingly related by the woman who had them. "His Little Sweetheart," by Dorothy Whitney, makes the fifth in the delightful series of schoolhouse tales.

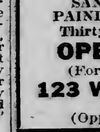

* * *

Strong as imagination is, printed text cannot convey to the average citizen of these peaceful United States any adequate idea of war and the conditions attending and succeeding war as Europe is now experiencing them. Pictures more nearly suffice to tell the story, and so it is on pictures—actual photographs from the war zone—that Popular Mechanics Magazine largely relies in handling the subject. The February Magazine contains sixteen consecutive pages of these views showing something of nearly every phase of the war from scenes of actual fighting in the trenches to methods of fighting off the bitter cold, which has added greatly to the ordinary hardships. Besides these views there are several articles, all well illustrated, pertaining to the war.

SUCCESS

Volumes have been written on this subject but the gist of the whole matter is that the qualities developed in a man by getting money honestly and using it thriftily are at the very foundation of a successful career.

And practically every man who has succeeded has gone on record as to his belief in the virtue of economy and that a regularly maintained savings account is an almost indispensable factor of real success in life.

WAR CREATES AUTO DEMAND

Ford Cars Are Becoming Most Useful for All-Round Purposes.

Record Order Is Received—Tryouts Are Made Daily.

Early in the month of November there were 2,000 Ford cars being used in the European war as Red Cross field ambulances. These cars are all in service now—at least all of them went into service, but a good many have already been destroyed because the work to which they have been put is hazardous to the last degree. An authority has figured out that the average life of a motor truck in this war is three weeks—at the end of that time it has been wrecked by shell fire or by collision or deliberately by its driver, in order to prevent its falling into the enemy's hands. If the mortality amongst trucks is so high, imagine what it must be with the Fords, for while the trucks operate behind the lines and are presumably protected to some extent, the Fords actually work on the battle line and sometimes even in advance of it.

In order to hamper the advances of the Germans in August, the French destroyed the roads they left behind in their retreat and later, when the Germans retreated they, in turn, destroyed more roads to impede the French. Shell fire has done more damage and winter with snow, ice and rain has very nearly completed the destruction. The only cars in Europe today in any appreciable number, which can be driven continuously and satisfactorily over bad roads, are the Fords.

The average European automobile is built for use on perfectly smooth graded macadam, and for that reason is heavy low powered from American standpoint, in proportion to weight, and has very little road clearance—only five or six inches in the case of some well known makes. Now, when the roads have disappeared and constant detouring is necessary, the Ford, designed for just that sort of work, is coming to its own, and the nimbleness it can show in crossing a field or running through a stream is making it a necessary part of field equipment, and the allied armies are fully aware of the fact.

The French are calling for great quantities of Fords and are experimenting continually in adapting them to various uses. One of the most interesting of these is the Ford armored car, which carries a machine gun and operates either in battery formation or alone as a land pirate. This consists of a stripped Ford, which has a steel hood over the engine, and a steel shutter-like arrangement in front of the radiator, which permits air to enter, but will deflect rifle bullets. The gasoline tank is covered by the same weight of armor and that is the only protection furnished by the car—the gun crew depending on the mobility of the car for safety. The gun is mounted on the rear platform and can be fired from there or removed and used in the trenches. As the weight of the armor is only a little more than that of the body and fenders, which have been removed, the car is only a little heavier than the regular touring model. Wire demountable wheels have been substituted for wood ones and two spares are carried. A high tension magneto is used in place of the regular Ford magneto and coils in order to get all the vital parts under the protection of the steel hood.

The Fords are giving most excellent service in carrying most of the mail in the war zone. Some others are equipped with field wireless outfits, and some to lay telephone lines between trenches and headquarters. Fords are used to carry rifle ammunition over difficult country and some are fitted with a complete stock of repair parts for machine guns and of the smaller and more easily broken parts of the mechanism of the field guns.

LATEST TYPE, FRANKLIN SIX-THIRTY

The Above Car Has Just Been Received By the Interstate Auto Company, Agents for the Franklin, and It Is Now Being Shown at the Show Rooms, 8 West First Street.

REBATE TO BUYERS SEEMS CERTAIN

Filiatrault Believes 300,000 Fords Will Be Sold During Season.

E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Auto company received word this week that indications at the Ford factory point to a sure payment of the $60 rebate to all purchasers of Ford cars during this year.

Henry J. Ford, president of the company, set 300,000 cars as the minimum, which, if reached, assures the buyers of the $60 rebate on each car. Up to Jan. 25, the report received here states, 52.81 per cent of the 300,000 cars had been sold, and indications pointed to even larger sales during the next six months.

The Ford touring car for $400 and roadster for $440 are selling rapidly, the report states, and a record is expected by June 1 of this year.

TWO MORE SPEED KINGS MAKE ENTRY

Darius Resta and Louis Coatalen Will Be at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Darius Resta and Louis Coatalen, the former one of Europe's most famous racing drivers, and the latter chief engineer of the Sunbeam factory, have sent in their entries for the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, driving two English Sunbeams of the latest overhead valve type. This raises the total of nominations for the Hoosier event to seven, three of which are foreign. Other European entries expected soon to follow are those of M. Bablot, holder of the continental long-distance road record, who wants to team with Rene Thomas in a second Delage, and Arthur Duray, runner-up in the last Indianapolis race, who is conducting negotiations with the owner again to bring over the Baby Peugeot.

Resta is one of the foremost cracks of the Old World, having finished second in the 1912 Coupe de l'Auto contest, in which the Sunbeams ran 1, 2, 3 and 5 in the last French Grand Prix. That he did not do better on that occasion is attributed to the fact that he had not sufficient time for preparation, the tourist trophy race on the Isle of Man a couple of weeks before having taken much of his attention. Coatalen has done a lot of work at Brooklands, though he has not participated much in road racing. His chief claim to fame is that he designed the famous 12-cylinder Sunbeam, which holds the world's hour record of 107.93 miles.

EXACT WEIGHT OF HUDSON SIX SHOWN.

One of the features of the Chicago automobile show was a Six-forty Hudson touring car on a large scale in the Hudson booth, showing the exact weight of the car to be 2,860 pounds, according to Fred G. Kleyn of the Kleyn Automobile company, who returned yesterday from a visit to Detroit and Chicago.

While in Detroit Mr. Kleyn attended a convention of the Federal truck distributors, held in the Federal factory. It was announced at the meeting, Mr. Kleyn said, that there will be a 1½-ton worm-drive truck on sale this year for $1,800 and a 3½-ton worm drive for $2,800.

Mr. Kleyn announced that the 1915 Hudson and Federal cars have arrived in Duluth and are now in display in the show rooms at 527 East Superior street.

OLDFIELD ELIMINATED.

Stutz Signs Up Howard Wilcox for Coming Racing Season.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 6.—The signing by Harry Stutz of Howard Wilcox to round out his racing team for the coming season seems to imply that Stutz has definitely eliminated Barney Oldfield from his contest program, at least for this year. Oldfield and Stutz first disagreed when the former wanted a bonus to drive the Corona road race. This Stutz refused, in view of the fact that none of his other drivers enjoyed such a proposition. Since then Barney has been driving Maxwells, with every prospect of continuing this program, including the 500-mile race at Indianapolis.

OPPOSES CHANGE IN LAWS.

State Association Will Stand Up for Dunn and Elwell Acts.

Duluth autoists are opposing the repeal of the Elwell and Dunn road laws as proposed by some members of the state legislature.

The Minnesota Automobile association at its meeting in St. Paul this week voted to oppose the repeal or amendment of the Elwell road law, and a committee was appointed to appear before the legislative committee on roads, urging against any change.

Duluth members of the association are receiving requests to join in the campaign.

URGED TO PURCHASE AUTO LICENSES HERE.

Duluthians planning to ship their automobiles to California for the winter can save from $4.50 to $29.50 by buying their auto licenses in Minnesota.

In this state autoists are charged $1.50 for a license for three years, while in California the charge varies from $5 to $30 a year, depending on the horse-power of the car. The good roads movement is the cause for the large charge in the Golden State.

Here is a schedule of the fees in California:

Automobiles of less than 20 h.p.	$ 5
Automobiles 20 to 29 h.p.	10
Automobiles 30 to 39 h.p.	15
Automobiles 40 to 49 h.p.	20
Automobiles 50 to 59 h.p.	25
Automobiles 60 h.p. and above	30

THE CARTERCAR.

Gearless Transmission Has Proven Its Worth in Severe Tests.

The success and popularity of the Cartercar have been due to the simple construction and powerful ability of the gearless transmission under any and all conditions.

It has been shown repeatedly, by unusual tests, that the gearless transmission, although radically different from the old, accepted kind, is nevertheless super-efficient and ever powerful.

Because of the variation from the gear-driven type, every part of the Cartercar, down to even the smallest mechanical detail, has been made correspondingly strong, to do more than could ever be required of it.

The gearless transmission is easily the most conspicuous structural feature of the Cartercar. It consists of a flat copper alloy disc on the rear end of a short steel shaft and is driven or revolved by the powerful four-cylinder motor. On a cross shaft, at right angles with the disc is a fiber-faced wheel. The revolving disc is brought into contact with it by the operator pressing the left pedal. This contact results in what is known as rolling frictional engagement, causing the wheel and disc to roll together. Power is then imparted to the rear axle from the shaft through a silent chain in oil drive.

The different positions of contact make different speed ratios as the disc rotates faster at the outside than near the center. These speeds are regulated by merely pressing a lever forward for the high speeds and backward for low speeds—and still further back for reverse.

There is no limit to the speed variations.

HOW TO CONSTRUCT A GARAGE FLOOR

Garage floors should be graded so as to drain to a central point or points, depending upon their area. Drains of sufficient number and size should be provided to quickly carry off all water. These drains should not extend upward to the floor level, but should terminate in trenches covered with perforated metal covers or iron gratings so that water will not stand on any portion of the floor before passing down and out of the drain pipes. The floor itself should be cement-faced and graded as from three-sixteenths of an inch to one-half inch to the foot, if trucks are to be washed in their positions on the floor.

DOES AUTO SHOW PAY? "YES," SAYS DANIELS

(By H. S. Daniels, Advertising Manager of the Kissel Motor Car Company.)

Does the automobile show pay?

In considering this question we may disregard entirely the actual sales of cars and even the prospective purchasers located for future reference—both very material results, but not necessary to prove the affirmative.

The average visitor to a local salesroom is brought there through the solicitation of the dealer and, no matter how strong the argument may be for that particular car, he is going to look around before he makes a final decision. Then, bewildered by an array of conflicting claims and specifications obtained piecemeal, he postpones his decision—perhaps for another year.

On the other hand he visits the show. He is not invited there by any particular interest, but goes voluntarily and open-minded. The city is alive with people thinking and talking automobiles. Every car of consequence is to be seen, side by side, and under the most agreeable surroundings.

The show is advertising and its results must be weighed and measured like all other advertising—not so much by its immediate and traceable returns as by its cumulative effect.

It pays because it brings together motorists and will-be motorists from all corners of the continent who not only form an indelible impression of current cars from what they see here, but who influence with those impressions the folks back home who failed to make the trip.

Thus public sentiment is born and favorable public sentiment, however created, is the force that crystallizes business success. The cars on exhibit are the same cars that can be seen in showrooms all over the country, but never amid so favorable an environment.

Transcontinental Tour.

Plans for the greatest transcontinental tour in the history of motoring have been mapped out by an Indianapolis motor-car builder.

J. J. Cole, president of the Cole Motor Car company of Indianapolis, is the originator of this transcontinental tour for Cole owners to the Pacific coast. In this work he is receiving the co-operation of the officials of both the San Francisco and San Diego expositions, and also the aid of the various highway and good roads associations throughout the country. Twenty Cole owners already have signified their intention of making the trip.

Looks for Good Year.

The success of the annual show of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce at Chicago, augurs a highly satisfactory year in the trade. The attendance was large and a live interest was displayed in the new cars.

President George A. Kissel of the Kissel Motor Car company voiced the prevailing sentiment among manufacturers when he said: "It looks as though this exhibition will be even more fruitful in its net results than the New York show, which set a precedent."

Eight-Cylinder Cadillac.

That public interest in the eight-cylinder Cadillac is widespread was plentifully evidenced throughout the week of the Chicago Automobile show, just closed. There, as at the earlier New York show, the Cadillac was the center of attraction.

What occurred in and around the Cadillac exhibit at the big Eastern show was duplicated at the Chicago show. Reports from New York were to the effect that all through the week the Cadillac space was crowded with those eager to see the working of the cut-open eight-cylinder chassis and hear the lecture by the demonstrators, and that in numerous instances, visitors were unable to get close enough to see or hear. The same things took place at Chicago. The throng around the exhibit was dense at all times and those who were fortunate enough each day to get close enough to see and hear well remained from the beginning to the end of the demonstrator's talk.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

M. F. Buckley, a plumber of Trenton, Mo., uses a motorcycle to carry supplies to his workmen in various parts of the city.

Though less than two months old, the motorcycle club of St. Paul, Minn., has reached a membership mark of 100. It is the purpose of the club to raise this to 250 by next fall.

* * *

A. Y. Letts of Hoboken, N. J., has made his motorcycle help him earn quite a bit of money this winter. He attached the motor to a skate sharpener, with which he has kept the skates of the community in good condition.

* * *

A retail shoe concern of Chicago has used a motorcycle in working out a novel advertising scheme. Mounted on the two-wheeler is a traveling show case in which the latest models of shoes are displayed. The motorcycle is also used for practical delivery purposes.

The census of 1914 shows 233,381 motorcycles in use in Great Britain. Of these 204,365 were in England, 17,780 in Scotland and 11,236 in Ireland. In the county of London, England, alone there were 33,360 machines registered, showing an increase over 1913 of practically 22 per cent.

Ray Creviston, a noted Hoosier motorcyclist, recently won the hour contest on the Phoenix, Ariz., mile dirt track, covering sixty-eight and one-eighth miles in the hour. At the end of the fifty-fourth minute he was compelled to make a stop to adjust his handlebars, losing a minute and a half. This probably caused him to fall short of the record for an hour event.

While enthusiasm is still at a high pitch over the success of the recent annual endurance run, the Portland, Or., Motorcycle club is making plans to stage another huge event. This is to take the form of a tour to California and return. Definite arrangements have not been completed, but according to preliminary plans, the event will take place late in the spring. It is also proposed to invite motorcyclists of Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane to join the tour.

According to a communication received by Secretary Gibson of the F. A. M. from T. W. Loughborough, secretary of the Federation Internationale Des Clubs Motorcyclists and of the Auto Cycle Union of Great Britain, there is a possibility that America will be chosen as the place for holding the 1916 annual international motorcycle competition and conference. Never before has this international event been held in America, and the staging of it here will mean a great deal to this country, as it attracts riders and enthusiasts of note from all over the world.

The "car-a-minute" production of the Ford factory, the source of much curiosity and general discussion, is not quite an accurate statement. It is a Ford every forty-nine seconds, to be exact. That means that a Ford is assembled—put together completely—every forty-nine seconds. But it takes two months to make the parts that go into every Ford car. The important thing is that every Ford part is designed and made with such absolute accuracy and thoroughness that no "fitting" in the assembling is ever necessary.

Reduction No. 3
On Goodyear Tires

Making Total Reductions 45% in Two Years
To Give Always the Most for the Money

We are glad again—for the third time in two years—to announce a big reduction on Goodyear tires, effective February 1st.

Goodyear policy on price is to give the utmost in a tire at the lowest possible profit. Our reductions are made to that end, without ever reducing the quality.

That always means, with our matchless output, more for the money than any other maker can give.

As rubber came down our prices came down. As our output multiplied, reducing factory cost, our prices came down with it. In two years our reductions—including the present — have totaled 45 per cent.

Last year we increased our output 26.6 per cent. A few days ago the embargo on rubber was modified so that supplies seem assured. The market price for rubber seems for a time established. Fabric costs less than last year. So, under our minimum profit policy, we announce this new reduction.

Only Fair Basis

We consider profit margin on a tire the only fair price basis. We keep that margain just as low as our line allows.

While we do that, Goodyear tires will always undersell any tires that compare with them. That is because we have the largest output. We have a new factory, modernly equipped. And we have world-wide facilities for buying rubber, of our extra grade, at the lowest market price.

For a long, long time most tires have sold much above Goodyear prices. Some have sold one-third higher. A few have sold lower, as some always will, because of less rubber, less quality. But we can and do, under all conditions, give more for the money than any rival tire can offer.

The Best We Know

Goodyear Fortified Tires offer the best we know. They are built to give you the lowest cost per mile. They minimize tire trouble in five costly ways employed by no other maker. And they are always the same, regardless of price reductions.

Most tires will always sell higher, because of smaller output. Some tires will always sell lower because of lower standards. But we promise you that none will ever give better than Goodyear value.

This policy has made Goodyears the largest-selling tires in the world. It will make them more so as more men find them out.

Ask your Goodyear dealer for our new price on the size you buy.

Each month's sales reports show an enormous increase in the use of Ford cars by the large manufacturing and distributing houses of the country. Their utility for "salesman's equipment" is becoming more firmly and generally established as an economic principle. The Ford cost of less than 2 cents per mile is in itself a convincing argument. In the last few months 598 Fords have been sold in Seattle. Of these, 240 Fords, or about 40 per cent of the total number sold, were bought for merely commercial purposes.

An Arkansas resident drove a skittish mule, which became frightened at an automobile, ran off and did damage, for which the mule owner sued the automobile owner. WEALTHY MONTANAN HERE.

G. R. Powers, Heavy Grain Shipper, Guest of William Grettum.

G. R. Powers of Belgrade, Mont., one of the heaviest shippers of grain from that state, and a very wealthy man, is in the city the guest of William Grettum of the board of trade. Mr. Powers is starting out on an 8,000-mile trip, during which he will visit New York, Washington, Miami and other points in Florida, Panama, Hawaii, San Francisco and other Pacific coast points and will return to San Francisco for the fair. He will be absent from his home for about four months.

IDEAL SKIING WEATHER HERE

Weather Forecaster Richardson says that the weather today and tomorrow should be, as he puts it, "absolutely ideal for skiing."

Today he declared that he looks for little or no wind, and with a lower temperature and enough snow, which has been furnished, better conditions could not well be asked for, he declares.

The temperature tonight will be around zero, with slightly lower condition on the ranges, but tomorrow will be warmer. The mercury was 8 deg. above zero at 7 o'clock this morning, as compared with 30 deg. above yesterday morning at the same hour, but the limit of cold for the time will be reached tonight. St. Paul suffered 4 deg. above zero this morning, Winnipeg had it 10 deg. below and Moorhead 2 deg. below.

The temperature is warming up west of Moorhead and tomorrow throughout the Northwest will be more acceptable.

TRAVEL WILL COST MORE

Only Interstate Mileage Books Will Be Sold After March 1.

The passenger rate increase, which will go into effect the first of March, will result in increased expense to local business houses and also to individual business men, who are in the habit of traveling from Duluth to Grand Forks and Winnipeg.

The present rate to Grand Forks is $5.69. Afterthe first of the month it will cost $7.43 to travel from here to Grand Forks. The new rate to East Grand Forks, which is on the Minnesota side of the Red river, will be $7.40. While the passenger rate increases for the most part are interstate business, the rate to East Grand Forks is increased for the purpose of preventing travelers from going across the rived and buying tickets on the Minnesota side.

At the present time the rate to New York is $28.05. The new rate will be $31.10, and after the first of the month all second-class passenger rates will be done away with. This matter will mean a further increase of revenue to the railroads, and is in line with the plan of the interstate commerce commission to afford a greater passenger return to the railroads.

Also the first of the month intrastate mileage books will be done away with in Minnesota. The 2,000 mile books that formerly sold for $40 will call for a dig of $45 under the rate increase of a ½ cent. These books will be good only in intrastate business.

It is verry likely that there will be a heavy sale on mileage books between now and the first of the month, as the railroads will be compelled to honor books sold before the expiration of the old books.

WILL BE A TEST CASE

If the district court decides in favor of the city in the East Fourth street paving case, which is to be taken up shortly, the paving of West Third street and Grand avenue is assured, members of the city commission said this morning.

In the East Fourth street case the city will attempt to show that the Duluth Street Railway company should pay for the extra width of the pavement made necessary by the car tracks. If the courts hold that the city's contention is correct, then efforts will be made to secure the West Third street pavement. Property owners on the latter highway are opposed to the assessments recently levied, but are willing to pay for a pavement the width of an ordinary residence street.

Without Doubt the Most Extraordinary Announcement in the History of the Automobile

CHANDLER SIX

For the New Season

$1295

The Pioneer Light-Weight Six

NOW comes the only high grade six cylinder motor car for less than $1300. The Chandler! This identical car last summer broke sales records at $1595 and set the standards of the light six market. This same car, lacking some of its refinements and with body design not nearly so beautiful, was a sensation two years ago at $1785.

It was the pioneer light six. It opened up the whole light six market. Men experienced in the industry said then, two years ago, that such a car couldn't live at $1785.

And yet here it is today, the class and standard-maker of the market, with the price for this season fixed at $1295.

How can Chandler do it when similar cars still sell from two to five hundred dollars higher?

The Chandler Company has made money from the day that first of the light sixes took the road. The Chandler has pointed the way—every step of the way, And now, with maximum production, with an overhead expense so small that it astounds other manufacturers, with no old loads to carry and no old scores to wipe out, and with our working capital of real money, we have set this record-breaking price.

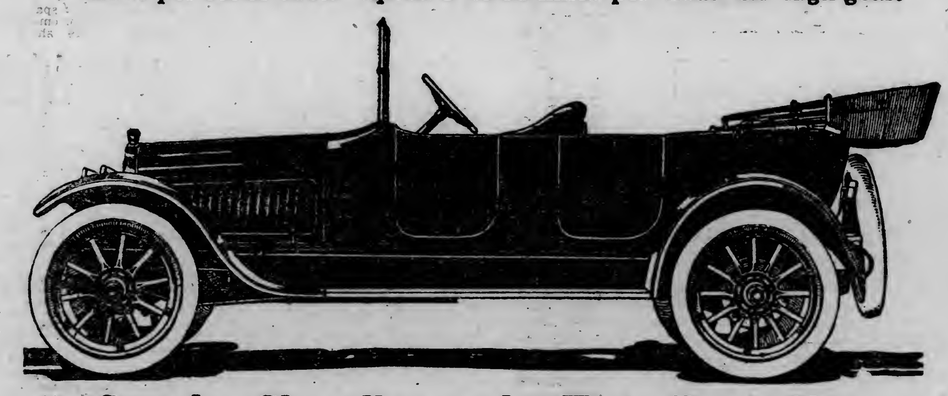

The Chandler for the new season is identically and positively the same model the whole country admired so much at $1595. We will continue it throughout the season at the new price. And there is no other car that, by the utmost stretch of argument, can be considered as competing with it.

At this new price, the pioneer Chandler retains absolutely every feature of construction and quality that has made it the leader of all light sixes. You will find all these features on the Chandler, and not on any other six selling for less than $2,000.

Genuine hand-buffed leather (not machine buffed, split or imitation).
Luxurious streamline body, with clean running boards.
Golde patent one-man top with Jiffy curtains.
Large gasoline tank carried in rear.
Firestone demountable rims.
Motor-driven horn, speedometer and all the usual incidental equipment.

And the Marvelous Chandler Motor Built in Our Own Factory

The Chandler weighs 2985 lbs. completely equipped. Averages 16 miles or more per gallon of gasoline, 700 miles per gallon of oil, 7000 miles per set of tires. Speed 3 to 55 miles per hour on high gear.

See the Chandler at the Twin Ports Show

We anticipate some skepticism, but the Chandler routed skepticism last year and the year before that, and will rout any skepticism there may be this year. We expect every man who thinks of paying more than a thousand dollars for an automobile to look the Chandler over carefully. The car itself will make any argument on our part unnecessary. It won't cost you a cent to convince yourself that not a thing has been cut off the Chandler, not a thing in it cheapened, not a detail of its workmanship slighted.

ON THE IRON RANGES

FARM HOMES FOR WORKERS IN MINES

Manager of Walker Interests Prepares to Clear Land for Farms.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Opsahl of Bemidji has arrived here to take charge of the operations proposed by the Walker interests to remove the pine and spruce logs on some 30,000 acres of land in this vicinity as told in Friday's Herald. The timber, which is in small patches, extending in a radius of about seven miles of Grand Rapids, is to be cut and hauled by local labor —farmers and their teams, if it is possible to get them.

When the logs are taken off these lands, the lands will be placed on the market in various forms. Mr. Opsahl, who has been very successful in colonization work in Beltrami county, will handle the lands for the Walker interests. He plans to divide lands in proximity to the mining towns into tracts of five and ten acres, and leasing them to men who work in the mines. Thus these men could build themselves homes, plant and care for crops in odd times, and work in the mines to provide themselves with ready money.

Where Land Lies.

The lands which will be offered for sale lie some from three to seven miles north of Grand Rapids, some close to Marble, some southwest of Pokegama lake. The character of the land varies, but most of it is very desirable, and will make fine farming land when cleared. Only the logs are taken off the lands, and much valuable hardwood timber is left for the settlers. Only on a few forties on Prairie river, where there is some fine tie timber and pulpwood, will the timber be cleaned off very close, this having been sold to the C. M. Erskine Timber company of this city, which has already started to cut.

On the lands which are close to Grand Rapids, the logs will be landed here.

SURPRISE TO BIWABIK.

Wedding of Miss Riley to Hibbing Man Not Expected.

Biwabik, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The marriage of Miss Margaret Riley of Biwabik at Hibbing Thursday to William Simpson of that village was a surprise to local people, including the bride's relatives.

Miss Riley is the daughter of the late John E. Riley, for many years city clerk and member of the school board.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson will make their home at Hibbing, where Mr. Simpson holds responsible position.

Miss Ruth Watts was a Virginia visitor Tuesday.

J. R. Shea, traveling engineer for the Iron Range road, was in town Thursday on business.

W. H. Crocker, local agent for the Iron Range road, received a valuable cat by express on Thursday. Mr. Crocker is very much pleased with it and has it on exhibition at the depot.

Mrs. William Shank of McKinley was a Biwabik caller on Wednesday.

C. F. Chellew of Aurora called on W. H. Crocker at the Iron Range depot Wednesday.

Julius Abrahamson, who has been working as telegraph operator at Embarrass for some time, spent Sunday here with friends.

Rev. Fritz was in Duluth Monday and Tuesday attending a pastors' business meeting.

J. O. Beatty was a business visitor in Duluth the first of the week.

Charles J. Brickley was in Aurora Wednesday on business.

D. L. Jones of Two Harbors attended to business matters here Wednesday.

DEER RIVER HEALTHY.

Not One Case of Contagious Disease in the Village.

Deer River, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Health Officer Dr. L. I. Craven reports that there is not a case of contagious disease in the village.

Mrs. Alice Senear of Bemidji, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. James Thompson and brother, Lee Cochran, in the Deer Lake settlement, was taken ill with appendicitis and on Wednesday was taken by County Health Officer Dr. McGee and Mr. Cochran to the University hospital at Minneapolis.

Camps are being established by the Northwestern Construction company seven miles north of here and will put in a large crew of men and teams to gravel the state road for a distance of about ten miles. This is known as the Deer River-Northome road.

A. H. Kremer was over from Marble this week visiting P. R. Brooks. Mr. Kremer may become a partner with Mr Brooks in the new grocery house which Mr. Brooks will open up in the spring.

A new candy kitchen is to be installed in the old Electric hall building by a Grand Rapids man. Repairs for the purpose are now being made to the building.

The Modern Woodmen will give their annual masquerade ball on Feb. 22.

Nearly all of the local teachers will attend the convention of the North-Central Educational association at Bemidji at the end of next week.

Today Mrs. Morton Taylor is entertaining her sister, Mrs. A. G. Hachey, Mrs. P. Billideau, Mrs. R. McMahon, Mrs. Carl Eiler and Miss Alvina Newbar of Grand Rapids. They will remain until tomorrow.

The K. P. lodge is arranging to give its annual Easter ball.

Miss Gladys, chief operator at the local telephone station, returned the first of the week from a visit of three weeks with friends in Superior.

Harry Ryan has been in Minneapolis this week attending the automobile show.

Miss Florence Binder went to Duluth Monday to spend the week visiting friends.

A son was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor.

A son was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McConnell in a Duluth hospital.

Supt. G. E. Keenan of the local high school has been in Minneapolis several days and will return with a new teacher to succeed Miss Mary Dwyer, who resigned to accept a position in the St. Paul schools.

The Commercial club held a very successful meeting Tuesday evening and projects for new industries were well advanced.

Mrs. T. M. Klement, who was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dunn, returned Wednesday to her home at Remer.

An agent for the Standard Oil company was here this week and announced that the company will put in a tank here this spring for the distribution of oil at this point.

The girls' basket ball quint of the Deer River high school defeated the high school girls of Cass Lake here last Saturday evening, 8 to 7. The home team served a lunch after the game and a dance was held until train time at 1 o'clock.

MUCH PULPWOOD IS SHIPPED FROM COOK

About 500 Cars Have Left Village for International Falls.

Cook, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pulpwood shipping from this point which has been heavier this winter than ever has temporarily stopped because of orders from International Falls to send no more for a few days. About 500 cars have been shipped from Cook recently.

The dance given for the benefit of Mrs. McCarthy was largely attended.

Mr. Rankin of Duluth was a Cook business visitor the fore part of the week.

The extension to the bridge over the Little Work river here will be completed in the near future.

A dance will be given at the Good Time hall, Saturday, Feb. 13.

Flown Ellsworth has been appointed rural carrier on route No. 1.

Thomas Adams of Ericksburg, who has been working for the past eight months in the heading mill here and Elizabeth McDonald of West Duluth were married in Duluth Wednesday.

Cyril Carpenter has left for Rainier to work for his brother-in-law, C. Kershaw, who is agent at that point.

Mrs. Lillian Christianson has returned from Virginia, where she has been for the past week on business.

Miss Edith Anderson of Chisholm is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Casey.

Supt. Huston and J. R. Cameron, general manager of the D. W. P. Ry., were looking over the line the fore part of the week.

A car left the rails on No. 11 Thursday, just west of Flint Creek, holding up traffic for about three hours. No one was reported hurt.

Mr. Holt of Armour & Co., Duluth, was a Cook business visitor Friday, last week.

O. J. Leding and Joe Rinnart was in Ericksburg the fore part of the week on business.

Charles Durheim has returned from Minneapolis, where he has been for the past two weeks visiting relatives.

NEW COMMERCIAL CLUB ORGANIZED

Organization Perfected at Grand Rapids to Advance Village.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new Commercial club was organized here at a meeting held at the courthouse last evening. Energetic young blood has been enlisted and the new organization promises well. W. R. Webster was elected president; Dr. F. R. Harrison, vice president; E. J. Farrell, secretary, and W. W. Carley, treasurer. A committee consisting of L. A. Whittemore, Frank Sherman and E. J. Farrell was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. The matter of fees was discussed, but no definite conclusion was reached. Further business was deferred until next Monday evening, when the next meeting will be held.

Grand Rapids has had two similar organizations, the old Commercial club and the Town and Country Booster club, neither of which organizations has been dissolved. Neither, however, has been active. The belief has been prevalent, whether it is true or not, that the old Commercial club was maintained for political purposes and the people lost faith in the organization, with the result that it practically died.

The Booster club, during its career, did much for Grand Rapids, but opposition and ridicule and lack of appreciation of what the club did for the public so disgusted the leaders in the movement that the club was allowed to go by the board.

ITASCA COUNTY HAS GOOD POULTRY SHOW.

Deer River, Minn., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The third annual poultry show of the Itasca County Poultry association, held here Wednesday and Thursday, was a great success and developed a great improvement in the quality of chickens in the last two years. Prof. Chapman of the Crookston station was the judge and lecturer.

COLERAINE BRIEFS.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 6.—A daughter was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Durant Barclay.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Endahl entertained a number of friends at a 6 o'clock dinner last Sunday evening, in honor of Mrs. G. Youngberg's birthday. Covers were laid for nine.

A social dance was given at Fraternity hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Coleraine Ladies' club.

The Marble baseball team will give a benefit ball at the Olcott school auditorium on Saturday evening, Feb. 6.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. A. Nelson. The meeting was largely attended.

Rev. Willis O. Garrett's health is none too good, and he is now in a sanatorium at Chicago for treatment.

Arthur Blair, Guy Jodoin, Walter Peterson and Jennings Riley left Thursday morning for Duluth to take part in the ski tournament.

Supt. H. F. Downing has been under the weather several days this week, suffering with an attack of the grip.

Supt. L. R. Salsich returned Tuesday evening from a business trip to the Twin Cities, Chicago and other points.

Mrs. Ike Hillis is reported dangerously ill and friends say that her recovery is doubtful.

Coleraine is to have a fast baseball team the coming season, if present plans mature. The local fans have called a meeting for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the fire hall. The object is to organize and elect officers.

COLD GONE! HEAD CLEAR AND NOSE OPEN--IT'S FINE!

"Pape's Cold Compound" Ends Colds and Grippe in a Few Hours.

Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all grippe misery goes and your cold will be broken. It promptly opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed up! Quit blowing and snuffling. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

EDUCATORS TO BE IN DULUTH

Noted Speakers and Teachers Will Be Here for Convention.

Some of the most noted educational lecturers of the country and a large number of educators of this part of the state will be in Duluth next week when the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association meets at the Central high school next Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the fifteenth annual convention of that organization. Every phase of educational work now in the limelight will be discussed, and the program is one of the best and most comprehensive ever given in this city.

Will Arrive Wednesday.

It is expected that delegates will begin to arrive in this city about Wednesday. The association's headquarters will be at the Spalding hotel. Members of the association may enroll on Thursday at the courthouse in the office of the county superintendent of schools and on Thursday evening and Friday at the Central high school. Admission to all meetings will be by membership card. All persons interested in educational work are invited to become members by paying the annual fee of $1.

An information bureau, rest rooms, reception room and tea service have been arranged by the Duluth Teachers' association. Rest rooms will be at the Y. W. C. A., Central high school and the Washington Junior high school. Tea will be served at the rest room of the Central high school Friday afternoon. On Friday evening there will be an informal reception and dance after the concert at the Central high school.

Numerous Exhibits.

In addition to the excellent program there will be numerous exhibits showing the best and most modern work in different lines of educational work. Among these exhibits will be a display of penmanship showing the Palmer method. The library exhibit will show numbers of books for children and reference books for teaching children.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will occur immediately after the general session Friday morning. Nominations will be made from the floor. Balloting will take place in the afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. The polling station will be in the corridor at the entrance of the assembly room. On Thursday, both forenoon and afternoon, members will visit the Duluth state normal school and the public schools. Lists and directions may be obtained from the president's office and the superintendent's office at the Central high school.

Modern Methods Emphasized.

There will be a great deal of attention devoted to the modern methods and studies. Agriculture, domestic science, manual training, rural school activities, and other subjects of a kindred nature will be featured.

FRANKLIN IS ITS NAME

Franklin is the name proposed for a new village which, in all probability, will be established within St. Louis county within the next month. It will comprise that portion of Missabe Mountain township now occupied by the Franklin mine operated by the Republic Iron & Steel company.

The county board at its February meeting today authorized the holding of a special election in the territory proposed for village incorporation on March 6 and appointed George L. Noyes, J. J. Reuter and G. H. Lohness as judges of election.

The proposed municipality will comprise all of that territory now covered by sections 4, 5, 8 and 9, 58-17 and surrounds the Franklin mine. A special census recently taken disclosed that 908 people reside within the territory proposed for incorporation. A portion was platted in 1893.

The people of the Franklin location lost out while year in their fight to get representation on the town board of Missabe Mountain township, all of the board members being elected from the Gilbert end of the district. The mine is located about nine and one-half miles from the city of Virginia.

If the village of Franklin is established by a popular vote on March 6 next, the twentieth village of the county will come into being. St. Louis county now has five cities, nineteen villages and numerous organized and unorganized townships.

F. J. Webb of this city appeared before the board this morning to urge the favorable action on the petition for authority to hold a special election on the question of incorporation.

CAN'T DELAY MUCH LONGER

Charter Amendments Must Be Considered Immediately.

Unless the charter amendments proposed for the election on April 6 are decided on soon, they may be too late, according to the provisions of the charter.

The charter provides that the amendments proposed for a vote at any regular or special election must first pass the city commission and then be published once a week for a period of thirty days following their passage in the council. As the election is on April 6, the members of the charter commission will have to decide on the amendments before the council meeting of March 1, so that City Clerk Palmer can immediately begin publication for a period of thirty days before the election.

City Attorney Clapp said this morning that he has written T. T. Hudson, chairman of the charter commission, asking him to call the members together and discuss the four proposed amendments to the charter. So far nothing has been done, and city officials are beginning to worry.

The Amendments.

The amendments proposed include the raising of the purchase limit from $100 to $500, the giving of power to the city commission to appraise property for city improvements, the giving of power to the commissioners to levy the assessments for street improvements, now provided for only in an ordinance, and the reducing of the cash assessment levy of $50 on property less than 3,500 yards square to $25. This last amendment was proposed by members of the Woodland Neighborhood club last week.

The members of the charter commission follow: Edward Silberstein, Thomas Olafson, S. A. Foster, T. W. Hugo, John G. Williams, Judge Bert Fesler, T. T. Hudson, City Attorney Clapp, W. E. McEwen, H. H. Phelps, Harry C. Armstrong, C. R. Haines, J. H. Crowley, C. F. Macdonald and M. B. Cullum.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The brightness of the day and the change from dampness to snap in the air proves very acceptable to the majority of people. Even the shocking news that the moon will stay sober this month and not get full during all of February, seems to make no difference to the buoyant feeling that exists. 'Tis said that the mercury is going down and that there is to be real cold weather, but nobody appears to be 'fraid for scare about it.

A year ago today was blustery. The sun rose this morning at 7:27 and will set this evening at 5:18, giving 9 hours and 51 minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Decidedly colder weather prevails in the Western Lake region, Western Ontario, Eastern Manitoba, the Mississippi, Lower Ohio and Lower Missouri valley, the lowest reported temperature being 14 deg. below zero at Winnipeg. Much warmer weather is the rule in North Atlantic states and extreme Eastern Canada. Rain or snow fell during Friday or last night over Atlantic states, Central and Eastern Canada, Lake region, Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys, the Red River and Lower Missouri valleys, Washington and Northern Oregon."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Minnesota—Fair tonight and probably Sunday; warmer in west portion tonight and in east portion Sunday.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight with colder in east and south portions; Sunday fair with warmer in west portion.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; warmer Sunday and in west portion tonight.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and Sunday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Sunday, except probably rain or snow west of the divide Sunday; warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

Lower Michigan—Cloudy with probably snow flurries tonight and Sunday; colder tonight.

Upper Michigan—Cloudy tonight and Sunday, probably with snow flurries; colder tonight.

NEW TEACHER IS EMPLOYED

Jail School Instructor Refused to Recognize Superintendent's Authority.

Another installment of the county jail school contest developed today when the county board dispensed with the services of Mrs. George Ross, teacher in charge, and employed in her stead, Miss Cecilia M. Oppel of Tower. The dismissal of Mrs. Ross takes effect at once.

Since the Siewert-Meining controversy which has been in the limelight since Sheriff Meining ousted Mrs. A. B. Siewert, school superintendent, from the jail last September, the latter has been unable to exercise any authority over the management of the school.

When Judge Cant issued a writ of mandamus directing the sheriff to permit Mrs. Siewert to again resume her duties as superintendent of the prisoners' school, she met a new obstacle, according to a letter from her read to the board this morning.

Mrs. Siewert declared that since the mandamus writ took effect, Mrs. Ross, who had not been barred from the jail by the sheriff, refused to carry out any suggestions offered by her or in other words refused to be superintended. Mrs. Siewert asked the board to dispense with her services.

N. A. Young, county school superintendent, in a letter to the board stated that in his opinion that the jail school superintendent should be given authority over the rest of the teachers. "In case the superintendent is then unable to carry out the work properly," said Mr. Young, "the board should secure a new superintendent."

Miss Cecilia Oppel wrote to the board making application for the position. She received the recommendation of Supt. Young, subject to the approval of Mrs. Siewert, which was obtained. The board ordered the change and directed that Miss Oppel should receive a salary of $25 a month. School will be conducted at least three times a week.

SERVED WITH THE PAPERS

Homer Barton Gets Notice of His Wife's Divorce Action.

Homer Barton, leading man with the Baldwin Players, received word today from the New York supreme court of the divorce suit brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Lola Purman Barton, known to theater-goers as Lola May.

Heartbroken over the affair, Mr. Barton declared to The Herald that he would not fight the case.

"What's the use?" he declared. "If Mrs. Barton wants a divorce there is no use in trying to keep her love. The case could easily be defeated, as I have been legally divorced, but our life would never be a happy one again and I am going to take the blow when it comes."

The first report of the divorce suit was received here Thursday evening, but Mr. Barton, not having any knowledge of it at the time, denied the rumor. Yesterday morning he declared that the entire affair came like a bomb. He insisted throughout the day that a mistake had been made.

LOLA MAY.

Following is a report of the divorce suit as printed in the New York World last Thursday, giving an account of the marriage and an allenation suit brought against Mrs. Barton last fall:

"Mrs. May Purman Barton, known to theater-goers as Lola May, filed a suit in the supreme court yesterday against Homer Barton, an actor, to annul her marriage.

"Last March, while she was playing the leading role in 'The Lure,' Mrs. Barton was sued for $50,000 by Mrs. Derby Crandall, who declared Miss May had allenated the affections of her husband, a banker. Nothing came of the matter.

"About the time that suit was brought, Miss May was married to Barton in Duluth, Minn., thinking him, she says, a single man. She now finds, she declares, a divorce he obtained in Missouri from a former wife is not effective in this state.

"The petition asserts that on March 23, 1910, Barton's first wife, Constance, sued for a separation in this county. In his answer Barton swore he was a citizen of Manhattan. A month later he went to Independence, Mo., where he brought divorce proceedings and swore he was a resident of Jackson county, that state.

"Barton got his divorce in Missouri and his first wife obtained a separation decree with alimony in this state. She was never able to collect the alimony, as Barton has not since been in New York.

"The second Mrs. Barton asks for no alimony."

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

WILL REJECTED; DROWNS HIMSELF

Houston, Tex., Feb. 6.—T. S. Earl, who claimed the estate of the late multi-millionaire, Francis A. Ogden, formerly of Madison, Wis., by virtue of a holographic will, was found drowned early today in a water tank at his home. Earl was a proofreader. About one week ago the probate court had rejected the will he offered, but his counsel was planning an appeal.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

PROSPECTS IN REALTY FIELD GROW BRIGHTER

Easy Financial Conditions Making More Important Sales Probable.

West Duluth and West End Business and Residence Property Attracts.

Events are rounding to nicely in the realty field, according to operators. The promise is said to be steadily growing better, with every likelihood of some important deals that have been under negotiation for some time being closed during the early spring.

Progress is reported in a prospective sale in central Superior street property, and with easy financial conditions continuing, it is hoped to bring the sale of a site intended for the establishing of an important industry up to the final stage within the next few weeks.

An interesting transaction in West Duluth property was put through during the week in the purchase by W. H. Grono, of a business property at 311 and 315 North Central avenue at a consideration said to have been $11,000 The lot at No. 311 is occupied by a brick building leased to Nels Sorenson, and No. 315 is occupied by the Scott Realty company. It is intimated that the purchaser proposes to improve the buildings now upon the property.

Dealers specializing in West Duluth and West end properties express gratification over the investment interest now being shown both by outsiders and Duluth people. It is expected that some important sales in business frontages will be closed up within the next couple of months, and with the industrial outlook brightening up as it is, an extended campaign in residence lots is hoped for.

Important Exchange Move.

Members of the Duluth Real Estate exchange are sanguine of success in the application about to be made to the Interstate commerce commission seeking to have the valuation of railroad properties and terminals made by real estate operators at the various points affected.

It is contended that the valuation committee of the local real estate exchange at any point is the best qualified to make a fair and accurate appraisal of railroad properties.

A fine home is to be built by Charles M. Magnuson in the spring on 100 feet frontage on Fifth street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth avenues east, purchased by him yesterday through the A. A. Fider company.

House No. 1023 East Tenth street has been bought by Louis S. Slovutsky at a consideration of $1,900. The transaction was also put through by the A. A. Fider company.

* * *

Substantial inquiry for both city properties and acreages was reported by W. C. Sargent. Two building lots were sold, one on Eighth avenue east, between Ninth and Tenth streets, at $800 and the other on Seventeenth avenue east, between Fourth and Fifth streets at $1,500. A. H. Kreager represented the buyer in the latter transaction.

* * *

Earnest money was also taken on the sale of a lot in Congdon park and two twenty-acre tracts in Carlton county were also disposed of.

* * *

The sale of a lot in the Park Drive division was advised by the Hoopes-Kohagen company. An extended building campaign is expected up there in the spring.

* * *

"We are getting inquiries every day for Gary lots, and it looks now as if some good business will be rounded up within the next few weeks," said A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company. The company now has two salesmen out on the road following up "prospects" that have come to hand through the folders mailed out a few weeks ago.

* * *

The Western Realty company reported the sale of two West end properties, one being a six-room house at 2029 Piedmont avenue west, sold to Gust Almquist for $2,400. The other sale was that of a new six-room house at 2113 West Seventh street to Claus W. Lindstrom for $2,750.

* * *

The Benjamin F. Schweiger company reported the sale of a six-room house and lot at 721 Tenth avenue east, from Julius F. Marlow to Earl A. Morrison, at a consideration of $2,650.

That office also sold a six-room house and lot at 1018 East Seventh street, from Alfred B. Ringgred to Edward C. Smith, at a consideration of $2,400.

SEASON'S BUILDING WORK IS DEVELOPING NICELY

George H. Lounsberry Is Lowest Bidder on New Armory Building.

Erection of Large $90,000 High School Is Proposed at Proctor.

Opening of bids for the proposed new Armory at Thirteenth avenue east and London road was the feature in building trade circles during the present week.

George H. Lounsberry was the lowest bidder at $107,440 with Fawcett & Bergstrom close behind him at $107,995. There was a wide variation between lowest and highest bids upon the job, as shown in the following figures:

George H. Lounsberry	$107,440
Fawcett & Bergstrom	107,995
Jacobson Brothers	108,000
McLeod & Smith	114,070
Bowe-Burke	119,319
Zenith Construction Co.	119,450
D. H. Clough & Co.	128,856
I. F. Schleunes	141,000

Mr. Lounsberry will begin work upon the structure as soon as the bids have been passed upon and the contract finally awarded him by the board of armory supervisors at St. Paul. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by next fall.

High School for Proctor.

Proctor is to have a handsome modern high school. While no details regarding the type of building have as yet been given out, its cost is understood to be estimated at $90,000. Vernon J. Price & Co. have been commissioned to prepare plans for the building, and it is expected they will be ready to go out for figures in time to admit of the contract being let in the spring.

* * *

Kelly & Williams, architects, are preparing plans for a two-story brick school to be built at Bruno, Minn., to cost approximately $16,000. The job will go out for figures in between two or three weeks.

* * *

Dissolution of partnership between W. T. Bray and C. E. Nystrom, architects, is announced. Mr. Bray will retain the offices of the old firm in the Fidelity building, and Mr. Nystrom will open offices at No. 502 Palladio building. During their several years in business, Bray & Nystrom carried through many important architectural commissions in public and private buildings in Duluth and through the district towns.

* * *

It was intimated by the Whitney Wall company yesterday that arrangements are being completed for the building of seven moderate-priced homes on Ninth street near Fourteenth avenue east. Contracts for their sale are in each case being entered into with purchasers.

* * *

A. Hanford, architect, is preparing plans for two homes to be built at once in the East side.

Appleby Bros. have been awarded the contract for the interior finish at the new W. H. Patterson home in the East end.

* * *

Jacobson Bros., general contractors for the new Harriet Beecher Stowe school at New Duluth, are rapidly bringing the job to completion, and it is expected it will be ready to turn over to the school authorities in about six weeks. It will entail an expenditure of $75,000. Kelly & Williams were the architects.

* * *

Good progress is being made upon the new M. L. Fay home in the East end. It is thought by Frederick W. Perkins, architect, that it will be brought to completion in the spring.

* * *

Berquist Bros., contractors for the Dickerman building on First avenue west, have started work in clearing the ground. Construction is to be pushed through without delay.

* * *

The erection of a block at 1917-19 Superior street west is being arranged by P. George Hanson & Son, acting for an Eastern investor. It will have a frontage of 50 feet running back the full depth of the lot, 140 feet, and will entail an estimated investment of $35,000. It is to have a full basement, arranged for commercial purposes. The two one-story frame buildings now on the lot are to be razed.

* * *

Permits issued at the building inspectors' office during the week made a good showing for theseason, numbering 13 with the cost of improvements involved placed at $32,260. Outside of the $12,000 permit taken out for the Dickerman Investment company's building, the largest one in the list was issued to Nels Almquist to cover three frame dwellings being built on Sixty-first avenue west, between Bristol and Greene streets, to cost $7,500. A permit was issued to John Carson for a frame home on the east side of Princeton avenue, Kenilworth Park to cost $5,000.

The following permits were issued during the week at the office of the building inspector:

To the Dickerman Investment company, improvements in building on the north side of Michigan street between Fifth and Sixth avenues west	$ 500

Eloping Parent Fined.

Alma, Wis., Feb. 6.—Judge M. L. Fugina fined Albert Rockwell $500 here, after Rockwell had pleaded guilty a statutory charge, involving his elopement a year ago with the wife and child of his son, Albert Rockwell, Jr., while the latter was preparing to move from Gilmanton, Wis., to a Minnesota town.

FINED FOR HAVING VENISON IN POSSESSION

Hurley, Wis., Feb. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Boratta of Mercer paid a fine of $25 and costs of $5.80 in municipal court the first of the week, on the charge of having venison in his possession during the closed season. He was arrested by Game Wardens Long and Russell and pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned in court.

Will Sell Sawmill.

L'Anse, Mich., Feb. 6.—The plant of the Marshall-Butters Lumber company, one of the most modern sawmills on Lake Superior, on Feb. 15 will be sold to satisfy the claims of creditors. It is rumored that capital has been raised and that the plant, including all holdings of timber lands, will be purchased and again placed in operation.

TALKS ON REAL ESTATE

BY MEMBERS OF DULUTH REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

Real Estate Agents—and Home Owning.

Real estate agents, individuals may sometimes think, are a trifle persistent in their efforts to induce one to make a purchase.

In reality, however, this is where they do the greatest good, not only for the city in which they live, but for the man to whom they sell property, and this is especially true in the case of a home.

The great majority of people are too slow to realize the importance of becoming home owners, and the efforts of the real estate dealers have induced thousands to purchase who otherwise would have let splendid opportunities pass.

It is especially important that all young people become home owners at the earliest time possible, because in the strength of their youth they will have no trouble meeting the payments on a home, and in a few years they will have it paid for. On the other hand if they fail to buy, the years will pass and find them living up all they make.

Because of taxes, insurance and depreciation, many people figure that it is cheaper to rent than to own a home, but since the man owning the property is willing to make that kind of investment it is pretty evident that in the long run it pays the owner.

But even if the difference is not great, the man who buys a home has an incentive to save. He has payments that must be met, and he will form the habit of frugality in his effort to pay out the property. He may then be ambitious to own something else, and he will have learned how it is to be accomplished.

Your house is not an investment—at least not an investment in cold dollars and cents. You probably will never get out of it what you have put into it—and you must reconcile yourself to that idea. Part of its carrying charges you must put down to your comfort in living the life that is given you on this green earth—it is part of the price that you pay for release from landlords and gaudy apartment house entrances flanked by shabby hall boys. You are justified in spending more money on creating comforts round your house than you can ever get for them out of the most liberal of purchasers if those comforts have been worth their while to you and yours. You pay dues—and good stiff dues—to gain the comforts of a smart club. Why should you not charge off some dues for the comfort of your own home? That house is going to be a lot more to you than any club could ever be.

SALARY INCREASE CAUSES WARM TILT

West Duluth Club Members Discuss Pay of Commissioners.

A discussion of the proposed salary increase for county commissioners, a bill for which has recently been introduced in the state legislature, caused a lively tilt at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last night. No action was taken on the question by the club, but the subject is to be taken up for general discussion at the meeting of the club next Friday evening.

The subject was brought up by David Sang, who commented on the introduction of the bill and the fact that it has the support of Senator Charles E. Adams, attorney for the county commissioners. This remark brought forth a statement from Assistant County Attorney Mason M. Forbes that the fact that Mr. Adams was attorney for the board had no bearing on his support of the bill, and that the club had no business criticizing his action.

"Is it not a fact that Mr. Adams is drawing his pay as attorney for the county board, while at the same time he is also drawing his per diem from the state as senator?" asked Mr. Sang. Mr. Forbes acknowledged that this was so, and then Mr. Sang said that as a servant of the public of St. Louis county, any taxpayer had the privilege to criticize his work if he thought he was not looking out for the interests of the taxpayers. Fearing that the matter might become personal, the subject was deferred until the next meeting.

Many of the members present were of the opinion that the commissioners should be given an increase in salary, but that the bill provided for too large an amount. A 50 per cent increase was sufficient, according to some of them.

WEST DULUTH'S LONE JAIL BREAKER ARRESTED AGAIN.

Mike Crowley was a visitor at the West Duluth police station last night. Not that the visit was a social one, but one of compulsion. One of the local "cops" found him under the influence of liquor. Ordinarily a man in such a condition is not much mentioned, but Mike happened to be a character of especial note.

About three years ago Mike was arrested on a similar charge. Then he gained notoriety of having done something that no other prisoner had done in West Duluth before—or for that matter—since. He was then placed in the women's section of the jail. While confined there he broke out, and it was only after a chase of several blocks that he was recaptured.

Judge Lanners was lenient with Mike, who, since his previous escapade has been leading a model life. He was given a suspended sentence.

Stole the Sandwiches.

"Who stole the sandwiches?"

The question was of paramount importance last night with a crowd of young people of the Irving Junior high school when it came to starting on a sleighride last night at 8 o'clock.

Girls of the class had prepared sandwiches of various kinds. Just as the crowd was getting ready to get into the rig some one asked who had put the sandwiches in the rig. No one had, but some one said they had been left in the hallway.

Three girls immediately started to get them only to find that they had disappeared. Some boys had been about the building a short time before leaving and these are suspected of having taken the "feed."

The party was compelled to have its ride without the lunch.

With the Curlers.

A game between curlers from the Morgan Park club and members of the Western Curling rink will be one of the features of activities at the club this evening. It is expected that enough visitors to make up two rinks will come from the suburb.

The Morgan Park club was organized about a month ago and has a membership of eighteen. Since then the members have been playing on one sheet of ice on the river near the park.

J. W. Hall Dies.

John W. Hall, former resident of West Duluth, who has for some time been living at Iron River, Wis., died at Waukesha, Wis., yesterday. Mr. Hall was a member of West Duluth lodge, No. 168, I. O. O. F. The funeral will be held tomorrow and the body will be brought here and placed in the vault at the Oneota cemetery. His brother, Charles Hall, was at the bedside at the time of death.

Foresters Will Entertain.

West Duluth Court No. 787, I. O. F., will entertain for its members and their families at the West Duluth Commercial clubrooms Monday evening. The affair is the first of a series of entertainments planned by the lodge. These socials will be held on the second Monday of each month.

West Duluth Briefs.

Edda lodge, No. 15, Daughters of Norway, will entertain Wednesday evening at a mask party for its members and friends at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The committee in charge are Miss Mabel Holtrud, Miss Astrid Rude, Mrs. Berg Anderson, Mrs. Inga Olson, Mrs. Ragna Paul, Mrs. Peter Lund and Mrs. Anna Larson.

Fred Robinson, formerly of 626 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, and Mrs. Robinson, his bride, returned from Chicago this morning. Mrs. Robinson was formerly Miss Hildur Wallis. The wedding took place at Chicago on Jan. 19. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will make their home in this end of the city. Mr. Robinson is in the employ of the Universal Portland Cement company.

Watch repairing, Hurst, West Duluth.

West Duluth and Pocahontas lodges, Royal league, will hold another of their social affairs for members only at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms Tuesday evening. The committee in charge of the entertainment consists of Mrs. Elliott J. Aman, Mrs. Frank M. Ashley and Mrs. E. George Kreidler.

C. P. Johnson, wood dealer in West Duluth, has formed a partnership with Carl Larson in the coal business. When you want service call us. Cole 483-A, Cole 239, Calumet 275.

A class of fifteen new members will be initiated at the meeting of Non-excelled homestead, B. A. Y., Wednesday evening at Gilley's hall. A social session has been planned following the work.

R. Granquist, electrician, 304 Central.

Fremad lodge, I. O. G. T., will celebrate Lincoln's birthday with a special program at the I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening. The affair will be open to the public.

UNABLE TO BUY GOODS

Plumber Says Wholesalers Refused to Sell Him for Cash.

Alleging that he is unable to make a $50 purchase of plumbing supplies, even though he pays cash, Hector McBride, 21 Palmetto street, Duluth Heights, will make a complaint to the city commissioners of the methods and rules of wholesale houses supplying the Duluth plumbing trade. He made his complaint to The Herald yesterday, and said he intended to take it to the commission.

McBride says that after paying $25 for a city plumber's license and putting up a bond of $2,000, he has been prevented from doing business because he cannot get supplies from any one of the three wholesale plumbing supply houses unless he makes a purchase of $500, or has a stock worth at least $500, on hand.

He states that he is a property owner, has lived in Duluth for years, and has been employed as a plumber for eleven years. With $50 in cash, he says, he canvassed the wholesale houses, but could not secure supplies to place himself in a position to accept business he had been offered. He has established a small plumbing shop in a woodshed on Duluth Heights.

"I don't know anything about this case," said Melville A. Dunning, department manager for the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, this morning, "but we are constantly refusing to sell goods on this basis, when the prospective purchaser has not a stock worth at least $500.

"It is a rule we have had to establish to protect the regular plumbers. We are wholesale dealers, not retailers, and unless a man has at least a $500 stock, he is not regarded as a customer."

Action on McBride's complaint will be watched with interest by smaller operators, who, it is alleged, have been restrained from doing any plumbing work because of this rule.

Admiral Uriu Coming.

Tokio, Feb. 6.—Admiral Sotokichi Uriu, vice president of the Japanese commission to the Panama-Pacific exposition, accompanied by his wife, left Yokohama today for the United States on board the steamer Tenyo Maru. A large gathering of Japanese and Americans bade farewell to the commissioner.

LAST DAY OF BIGGEST SHOW

Doors Will Close on Duluth Poultry Exhibit at 10 p. m.

Minneapolis Claim for More State Recognition Is Ridiculed.

After a week marked by record attendances and close competition among the largest number of entries to be listed at a Minnesota poultry show during the year, the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association will close tonight at 10 o'clock.

"This has been by far the most successful and largest show we ever have had," said E. H. Conkey, secretary of the association, today. "The association is very well pleased with the interest shown by the general public, as well as by the support given by poultry fanciers throughout the Northwest.

"Because of this excellent record, we already have arranged for the Armory for our 1916 exhibition, and expect again to set a new mark."

Duluth fanciers, through their representatives in the state legislature, will oppose the request made by Minneapolis men that the Mill City show hereafter be recognized as the annual state show.

The legislature each year makes an appropriation for the various poultry shows throughout the state, in order to advance their work, and Minneapolis fanciers want their share of the sum increased, at the expense of other smaller shows, on the ground that their exhibition is much larger and therefore doing much more good.

Claim Is Ridiculous.

This claim was branded as ridiculous by local poultry men, who stated that this show has surpassed the show put on at Minneapolis, and therefore that they are entitled to more consideration than the Mill City men.

Cash prizes and other special awards were granted late yesterday, following the awards of the various cups. Duluth entries also won a lion's share in this list, although birds owned by F. D. W. Thias of Two Harbors, Minn., were given several prizes.

The list of final awards, as completed last night, includes:

Best general display, $10 cash, F. D. W. Thias, Two Harbors; second best, $5, Theodore Hollister, Duluth; third best, Mrs. F. C. Mitchell, Crookston, $2.50. Mrs. Mitchell also won the prize for best display in Class 3.

Special Prizes.

Mackinaw jacket, donated by the Oak Hall Clothing company, Buhl Poultry farms, Buhl, Minn, second pen Leghorns.

Mackinaw jacket, donated by Columbia Clothing company, Boeck's poultry yards, Aitkin, Minn, second Rhode Island Reds.

Sweater, donated by the Kenney-Anker company, Clarissa E. Mace, Duluth, second pen Barred Plymouth Rocks.

Sweater, donated by Nelson Bros. knitting mills, Dr. E. Langevin, Crookston, Minn., second pen Buff Plymouth Rocks.

Gordon hat, donated by the Big Duluth Clothing company, F. D. W. Thias, Two Harbors, second pen Blue Andalusians.

Pair skates, donated by R. C. Kruschke, Duluth, M. M. McCabe, second pen Buff Orpingtons.

Feeder, donated by Simplex Manufacturing company, Chicago, T. H. Cornell, Duluth, second pen S. C. Rhode Island Reds.

Egg Displays.

Best general display of eggs, $5 prize won by F. D. W. Thias, Two Harbors; second prize, $2.50, won by Theodore Hollister, Duluth.

Best dozen white eggs (weight two pounds), Theodore Hollister, Duluth; best dozen brown eggs, F. D. W. Thias, Two Harbors.

TECHNICALITY CAUSES DELAY

Attorney's Opinion Holds Up Sale of Park Bonds.

Unless the Eastern investors, who were interested in the purchase of the $50,000 park bond issue recently authorized by the city commission, are willing to place the case in the hands of new attorneys, the commissioners will cancel the sale of the bonds to the Minnesota Loan & Trust company of Minneapolis and make a new award to N. J. Upham of the city, who will then assign the bonds to the former corporation.

In advertising for bids on the park bonds, the advertisement read that unconditional bids were wanted, but the Minnesota Loan & Trust company, in its offer, announced that its attorneys, Storey, Thorndyke, Palmer & Dodge of Boston, must first pass on the legality of the bond issue and the entire proceeding. And now, after the sale is completed and all that remains is the actual collection of the $50,000, together with a $240 premium, the bond attorneys declare the sale was illegal because of the conditional bid entered by the successful bidders.

Commissioner Voss said this morning that the purchasers of the bonds will be asked to appoint other bond attorneys and secure a new decision on the matter. He is of the opinion that the city will be upheld, as the objection is of so little consequence.

However, if the buyers refuse to change or to have the decision of the Boston lawyers reversed, the N. J. Upham company will be awarded the bond issue, as its bid did not contain any conditions whatever. Mr. Upham will then be asked to assign the sale to the Minnesota Loan & Trust company, thus bringing the bonds back to the original purchasers.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS.

FLORIDA LANDS FOR SALE.

Wouldn't you like to look ahead to having a home in one of the most delightful spots in America, where the climate is an ideal summer's day practically all the year around, and where ten acres will produce more income than a half section in Minnesota? Wouldn't you welcome the opportunity, at this time, to acquire such a property upon making a small payment down, paying the balance in monthly installments so small that you could easily meet them from your present income without missing the amount? Ten acres of this land solves the problem of living in comfort and provides sufficient income to support most any family in luxury. Ninety Minneapolis families have already bought tracts ranging from ten to forty acres each. Over 500 acres have already been planted to grapefruit and oranges. Everyone who sees the land, or investigates it, buys. This land is located in the big bend of Crooked Lake, Polk county, Fla., up on the hills 300 feet above sea level and 165 feet above the lake level. The lake and the hills combined furnish absolute protection against frost. It is one of the most delightful places in the world, to live. There are five beautiful, spring-fed lakes, clear as crystal and full of fish, within sight of this land. Crooked lake, the largest, being nine miles long, 100 feet deep, and as beautiful as any lake in Minnesota which is saying a good deal. The oldest grapefruit groves in Florida, are here. The finest citrus fruit grown in the world is grown on the hills of Polk county. The country being high and rolling, the summers are delightfully cool and the winters are perfect. In short, we have a location that provides as nearly ideal conditions as can be found anywhere in America. The price of our land is from $150 per acre up, and it is the cheapest land in Florida, all things considered. If interested, write for further particulars. Address—

HERALD WANT ADS

BOTH PHONES 324

ONE CENT A WORD

WANT AD RATES—Classified advertisements under regular headings, "Wanted—Male Help," "For Rent—Rooms," "For Sale—Miscellaneous," "Lost," "Found," etc., 1 cent per word per insertion, cash in advance. No advertisement, however, taken for less than 15 cents. Spaced advertisements or with machine border under any classification, 72 cents a measured inch—12 lines to the inch.

Standing classified advertisements, $1.00 per line per month, minimum space two lines.

Set in paragraphs or charged on the books, 6 cents per line. However, not less than two lines twice, or three lines once, accepted. All one-line "ads" charged as two lines.

CLOSING HOURS: Want Ads, to be classified properly in The Herald, should be in The Herald office before 12 o'clock, noon, (Saturdays 11:30 a. m.); when received at a later hour they are likely to be inserted under heading, "Too Late to Classify."

Count the words of your ad, including two words for the indexing of your ad and three words for a Herald address when such address is to be used; count each "initial" letter and each number or combination of figures as one word.

TELEPHONE YOUR WANT ADS to The Herald whenever it is more convenient to do so, if you are a telephone subscriber, and a bill will be mailed to you or a collector will call at your home or at your office the following day. This is an accommodation service rendered Herald Want Ad patrons and payment should always be promptly made on receipt of bill. Always ask that your telephone ad be repeated back to you by the telephone ad taker, to make sure that it has been taken correctly. The Herald cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

OUT-OF-TOWN ADVERTISEMENTS must be accompanied with cash in full payment for the same. Note the foregoing instructions about counting the words and the rate per word.

The Herald will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Persons advertising in The Herald Want columns and having the answers addressed in care of The Herald will please ask for check to enable them to get their letters, as none will be delivered except on presentation of checks.

All answers to advertisements should be enclosed in envelopes and care should be taken to see that they are properly addressed.

No mis-classification permitted under any circumstances.

Death, Funeral, Card of Thanks, Lodge or Society notices, not exceeding ten lines, $1.00 per insertion. Additional space at commercial rates.

In answering advertisements addressed to numbers in care of The Herald, do not inclose stamps.

Only advertisements set in 1 inch or more space will be run E. O. D. We accept advertisements on T. F. orders only when they are to appear without changes for a month or more.

All verbal orders to discontinue advertisements running more than one time must be confirmed in writing.

REAL ESTATE IS "MOVING" THESE DAYS

BEFORE YOU BUY A HOME

or lot, or building of any kind in Duluth, take your time and look the field over well; as very often by a little investigation you can save money, and at the same time get a better offering than if you buy in a hurry.

How will you investigate?

It's a simple matter. Practically every Real Estate offering of any kind is published once or twice in the "For Sale Real Estate", columns of the want ads in this paper—and that is absolutely the only place in Duluth that you can find a complete published list of real estate for sale in Greater Duluth.

That's the reason it will benefit you to watch the ads in The Herald before you buy, as it's the only place where you can thoroughly post yourself.
